The popular western image of a dragon as winged, four-legged, and capable of breathing fire is an invention of the High Middle Ages, based on a conflation of earlier dragons from different traditions. In western cultures, dragons are portrayed as monsters to be tamed or overcome, usually by saints or culture heroes, as in the popular legend of Saint George and the Dragon. They are often said to have ravenous appetites and to live in caves, where they hoard treasure. These dragons appear frequently in western fantasy literature, including The Hobbit by J. R. R. Tolkien, the Harry Potter series by J. K. Rowling, and A Song of Ice and Fire by George R. R. Martin.

The word "dragon" has also come to be applied to the Chinese lung (traditional 龍, simplified 龙, Pinyin long), which are associated with good fortune and are thought to have power over rain. Dragons and their associations with rain are the source of the Chinese customs of dragon dancing and dragon boat racing. Many East Asian deities and demigods have dragons as their personal mounts or companions. Dragons were also identified with the Emperor of China, who, during later Chinese imperial history, was the only one permitted to have dragons on his house, clothing, or personal articles.

Commonalities between dragons traits are often a hybridization of avian-, feline-, and reptilian-features, and may include: snake-like features, reptilian-like scaly skin, four legs with three or four toes on each, spinal nodes running down the back, a tail, and a serrated jaw with rows of teeth. Several modern scholars believe huge extinct or migrating crocodiles bear the closest resemblance, especially when encountered in forested or swampy areas, and are most likely the template of modern dragon imagery. This also fits with the ancient words 'Draco' and 'Drakon', meaning 'large serpent' or 'sea serpent.'

Etymology

The word dragon entered the English language in the early 13th century from Old French dragon, which in turn comes from Latin: draconem (nominative draco) meaning "huge serpent, dragon", from Ancient Greek δράκων, drákōn (genitive δράκοντος, drákontos) "serpent, giant seafish". The Greek and Latin term referred to any great serpent, not necessarily mythological. The Greek word δράκων is most likely derived from the Greek verb δέρκομαι (dérkomai) meaning "I see", the aorist form of which is ἐδρακόμην (edrakómēn).

Several bones purported to belong to the Wawel Dragon hang outside of Wawel Cathedral, but actually belong to a Pleistocene mammal.

Dragon-like creatures appear in virtually all cultures around the globe. Nonetheless, scholars dispute where the idea of a dragon originates from and a wide variety of theories have been proposed. In his book An Instinct for Dragons (2000), anthropologist David E. Jones suggests a hypothesis that humans, just like monkeys, have inherited instinctive reactions to snakes, large cats, and birds of prey. He cites a study which found that approximately 39 people in a hundred are afraid of snakes and notes that fear of snakes is especially prominent in children, even in areas where snakes are rare. The earliest attested dragons all resemble snakes or bear snakelike attributes. Jones therefore concludes that the reason why dragons appear in nearly all cultures is because of humans' innate fear of snakes and other animals that were major predators of humans' primate ancestors. Dragons are usually said to reside in "dank caves, deep pools, wild mountain reaches, sea bottoms, haunted forests", all places which would have been fraught with danger for early human ancestors.

In her book The First Fossil Hunters: Dinosaurs, Mammoths, and Myth in Greek and Roman Times (2000), Adrienne Mayor argues that some stories of dragons may have been inspired by ancient discoveries of fossils belonging to dinosaurs and other prehistoric animals. She argues that the dragon lore of northern India may have been inspired by "observations of oversized, extraordinary bones in the fossilbeds of the Siwalik Hills below the Himalayas" and that ancient Greek artistic depictions of the Monster of Troy may have been influenced by fossils of Samotherium, an extinct species of giraffe whose fossils are common in the Mediterranean region. In China, a region where fossils of large prehistoric animals are common, these remains are frequently identified as "dragon bones" and are commonly used in Chinese traditional medicine. Mayor, however, is careful to point out that not all stories of dragons and giants are inspired by fossils and notes that Scandinavia has many stories of dragons and sea monsters, but has long "been considered barren of large fossils." In one of her later books, she states that "Many dragon images around the world were based on folk knowledge or exaggerations of living reptiles, such as Komodo dragons, Gila monsters, iguanas, alligators, or, in California, alligator lizards."

Egypt

In Egyptian mythology, Apep is a giant serpent who resides in the Duat, the Egyptian Underworld. The Bremner-Rhind papyrus, written in around 310 BC, preserves an account of a much older Egyptian tradition that the setting of the sun is caused by Ra descending to the Duat to battle Apep. In some accounts, Apep is as long as the height of eight men with a head made of flint. Thunderstorms and earthquakes were thought to be caused by Apep's roar and solar eclipses were thought to be the result of Apep attacking Ra during the daytime. In some myths, Apep is slain by the god Set. Nehebkau is another giant serpent who guards the Duat and aided Ra in his battle against Apep. Nehebkau was so massive in some stories that the entire earth was believed to rest atop his coils. Denwen is a giant serpent mentioned in the Pyramid Texts whose body was made of fire and who ignited a conflagration that nearly destroyed all the gods of the Egyptian pantheon. He was ultimately defeated by the Pharaoh, victory which affirmed the Pharaoh's divine right to rule.

The ouroboros was a well-known Egyptian symbol of a serpent swallowing its own tail. The precursor to the ouroboros was the "Many-Faced", a serpent with five heads, who, according to the Amduat, the oldest surviving Book of the Afterlife, was said to coil around the corpse of the sun god Ra protectively. The earliest surviving depiction of a "true" ouroboros comes from the gilded shrines in the tomb of Tutankhamun. In the early centuries AD, the ouroboros was adopted as a symbol by Gnostic Christians and chapter 136 of the Pistis Sophia, an early Gnostic text, describes "a great dragon whose tail is in its mouth". In medieval alchemy, the ouroboros became a typical western dragon with wings, legs, and a tail. A famous image of the dragon gnawing on its tail from the eleventh-century Codex Marcianus was copied in numerous works on alchemy.

South Asia

In the Rigveda, the oldest of the four Vedas, Indra, the Vedic god of storms, battles Vṛtra, a giant serpent who represents drought. Indra kills Vṛtra using his vajra (thunderbolt) and clears the path for rain, which is described in the form of cattle: "You won the cows, hero, you won the Soma,/You freed the seven streams to flow" (Rigveda 1.32.12). In another Rigvedic legend, the three-headed serpent Viśvarūpa, the son of Tvaṣṭṛ, guards a wealth of cows and horses. Indra delivers Viśvarūpa to a god named Trita Āptya, who fights and kills him and sets his cattle free. Indra cuts off Viśvarūpa's heads and drives the cattle home for Trita. This same story is alluded to in the Younger Avesta, in which the hero Thraētaona, the son of Āthbya, slays the three-headed dragon Aži Dahāka and takes his two beautiful wives as spoils. Thraētaona's name (meaning "third grandson of the waters") indicates that Aži Dahāka, like Vṛtra, was seen as a blocker of waters and cause of drought.

The Druk (Dzongkha: འབྲུག་), also known as 'Thunder Dragon', is one of the National symbols of Bhutan. In the Dzongkha language, Bhutan is known as Druk Yul "Land of Druk", and Bhutanese leaders are called Druk Gyalpo, "Thunder Dragon Kings". The druk was adopted as an emblem by the Drukpa Lineage, which originated in Tibet and later spread to Bhutan.

Chinese dragon

The Chinese dragon (simplified Chinese: 龙; traditional Chinese: 龍; pinyin: lóng) is the highest-ranking animal in the Chinese animal hierarchy. Its origins are vague, but its "ancestors can be found on Neolithic pottery as well as Bronze Age ritual vessels." A number of popular stories deal with the rearing of dragons. The Zuo zhuan, which was probably written during the Warring States period, describes a man named Dongfu, a descendant of Yangshu'an, who loved dragons and, because he could understand a dragon's will, he was able to tame them and raise them well. He served Emperor Shun, who gave him the family name Huanlong, meaning "Dragon-Raiser". In another story, Kongjia, the fourteenth emperor of the Xia dynasty, was given a male and a female dragon as a reward for his obedience to the god of heaven, but could not train them, so he hired a dragon-trainer named Liulei, who had learned how to train dragons from Huanlong. One day, the female dragon died unexpectedly, so Liulei secretly chopped her up, cooked her meat, and served it to the king, who loved it so much that he demanded Liulei to serve him the same meal again. Since Liulei had no means of procuring more dragon meat, he fled the palace.

One of the most famous dragon stories is about the Lord Ye Gao, who loved dragons obsessively, even though he had never seen one. He decorated his whole house with dragon motifs and, seeing this display of admiration, a real dragon came and visited Ye Gao, but the lord was so terrified at the sight of the creature that he ran away. In Chinese legend, the culture hero Fu Hsi is said to have been crossing the Lo River, when he saw the lung ma, a Chinese horse-dragon with seven dots on its face, six on its back, eight on its left flank, and nine on its right flank. He was so moved by this apparition that, when he arrived home, he drew a picture of it, including the dots. He later used these dots as letters and invented Chinese writing, which he used to write his book I Ching. In another Chinese legend, the physician Ma Shih Huang is said to have healed a sick dragon. Another legend reports that a man once came to the healer Lo Chên-jen, telling him that he was a dragon and that he needed to be healed. After Lo Chên-jen healed the man, a dragon appeared to him and carried him to heaven.

In the Shanhaijing, a classic mythography probably compiled mostly during the Han dynasty, various deities and demigods are associated with dragons. One of the most famous Chinese dragons is Ying Long ("Responding Dragon"), who helped the Huangdi, the Yellow Emperor, defeat the tyrant Chiyou. The dragon Zhulong ("Torch Dragon") is a god "who composed the universe with his body." In the Shanhaijing, many mythic heroes are said to have been conceived after their mothers copulated with divine dragons, including Huangdi, Shennong, Emperor Yao, and Emperor Shun. The god Zhurong and the emperor Qi are both described as being carried by two dragons, as are Huangdi, Zhuanxu, Yuqiang, and Roshou in various other texts. According to the Huainanzi, an evil black dragon once caused a destructive deluge, which was ended by the mother goddess Nüwa by slaying the dragon.

A large number of ethnic myths about dragons are told throughout China. The Houhanshu, compiled in the fifth century BC by Fan Ye, reports a story belonging to the Ailaoyi people, which holds that a woman named Shayi who lived in the region around Mount Lao became pregnant with ten sons after being touched by a tree trunk floating in the water while fishing. She gave birth to the sons and the tree trunk turned into a dragon, who asked to see his sons. The woman showed them to him, but all of them ran away except for the youngest, who the dragon licked on the back and named Jiu Long, meaning "Sitting Back". The sons later elected him king and the descendants of the ten sons became the Ailaoyi people, who tattooed dragons on their backs in honor of their ancestor. The Miao people of southwest China have a story that a divine dragon created the first humans by breathing on monkeys that came to play in his cave. The Han people have many stories about Short-Tailed Old Li, a black dragon who was born to a poor family in Shandong. When his mother saw him for the first time, she fainted and, when his father came home from the field and saw him, he hit him with a spade and cut off part of his tail. Li burst through the ceiling and flew away to the Black Dragon River in northeast China, where he became the god of that river. On the anniversary of his mother's death on the Chinese lunar calendar, Old Li returns home, causing it to rain. He is still worshipped as a rain god.

In China, dragons are closely associated with rain and drought is thought to be caused by a dragon's laziness. Prayers invoking dragons to bring rain are common in Chinese texts. The Luxuriant Dew of the Spring and Autumn Annals, attributed to the Han dynasty scholar Dong Zhongshu, proscribes making clay figurines of dragons during a time of drought and having young men and boys pace and dance among the figurines in order to encourage the dragons to bring rain. Texts from the Qing dynasty advise hurling the bone of a tiger or dirty objects into the pool where the dragon lives; since dragons cannot stand tigers or dirt, the dragon of the pool will cause heavy rain to drive the object out. Rainmaking rituals invoking dragons are still very common in many Chinese villages, where each village has its own god said to bring rain and many of these gods are dragons. Although stories of the Dragon Kings are among the most popular dragon stories in China today, these stories did not begin to emerge until the Eastern Han, when Buddhist stories of the serpent rain-god Nāga became popular. Taoists began to invent their own dragon kings and eventually such stories developed in every major Chinese religion. According to these stories, every body of water is ruled by dragon king, each with a different power, rank, and ability, so people began establishing temples across the countryside dedicated to these figures.

Many traditional Chinese customs revolve around dragons. During various holidays, including the Spring Festival and Lantern Festival, villagers will construct an approximately sixteen-foot-long dragon from grass, cloth, bamboo strips, and paper, which they will parade through the city as part of a dragon dance. The original purpose of this ritual was to bring good weather and a strong harvest, but now it is done mostly only for entertainment. During the Duanwu festival, several villages, or even a whole province, will hold a dragon boat race, in which people race across a body of water in boats carved to look like dragons, while a large audience watches on the banks. The custom is traditionally said to have originated after the poet Qu Yuan committed suicide by drowning himself in the Miluo River and people raced out in boats hoping to save him, but most historians agree that the custom actually originated much earlier as a ritual to avert ill fortune. Starting during the Han dynasty and continuing until the Qing dynasty, the Chinese emperor gradually became closely identified with dragons, and emperors themselves claimed to be the incarnation of a divine dragon. Eventually, dragons were only allowed to appear on clothing, houses, and articles of everyday use belonging to the emperor and any commoner who possessed everyday items bearing the image of the dragon were ordered to be executed. After the last Chinese emperor was overthrown in 1911, this situation changed and now many ordinary Chinese people identify themselves as descendants of dragons.

Korean dragon

The Korean dragon is in many ways similar in appearance to other East Asian dragons such as the Chinese and Japanese dragons. It differs from the Chinese dragon in that it developed a longer beard. Very occasionally a dragon may be depicted as carrying an orb known as the Yeouiju (여의주), the Korean name for the mythical Cintamani, in its claws or its mouth. It was said that whoever could wield the Yeouiju was blessed with the abilities of omnipotence and creation at will, and that only four-toed dragons (who had thumbs with which to hold the orbs) were both wise and powerful enough to wield these orbs, as opposed to the lesser, three-toed dragons. As with China, the number nine is significant and auspicious in Korea, and dragons were said to have 81 (9×9) scales on their backs, representing yang essence. Dragons in Korean mythology are primarily benevolent beings related to water and agriculture, often considered bringers of rain and clouds. Hence, many Korean dragons are said to have resided in rivers, lakes, oceans, or even deep mountain ponds. And human journeys to undersea realms, and especially the undersea palace of the Dragon King (용왕), are common in Korean folklore.

In Korean myths, some kings who founded kingdoms were described as descendants of dragons because dragon was a symbol of the monarch. Lady Aryeong, who first queen of Silla said to have been born from a cockatrice, while the grandmother of Taejo of Goryeo, founder of Goryeo, was reportedly the daughter of the dragon king of the West Sea. And King Munmu of Silla, who on his deathbed wished to become a dragon of the East Sea in order to protect the kingdom. Dragon patterns were used exclusively by the royal family. The royal robe was also called the dragon robe (용포). In Joseon Dynasty, the royal insignia, featuring embroidered dragons, were attached to the robe's shoulders, the chest, and back. The King wore five-taloned dragon insignia while the Crown Prince wore four-taloned dragon insignia.

Korean folk mythology states that most dragons were originally Imugis (이무기), or lesser dragons, which were said to resemble gigantic serpents. There are a few different versions of Korean folklore that describe both what imugis are and how they aspire to become full-fledged dragons. Koreans thought that an Imugi could become a true dragon, or yong or mireu, if it caught a Yeouiju which had fallen from heaven. Another explanation states they are hornless creatures resembling dragons who have been cursed and thus were unable to become dragons. By other accounts, an Imugi is a proto-dragon which must survive one thousand years in order to become a fully fledged dragon. In either case they are said to be large, benevolent, python-like creatures that live in water or caves, and their sighting is associated with good luck.

Japanese dragon

Japanese dragon myths amalgamate native legends with imported stories about dragons from China, Korea and India. Like these other Asian dragons, most Japanese ones are water deities associated with rainfall and bodies of water, and are typically depicted as large, wingless, serpentine creatures with clawed feet. Gould writes (1896:248), the Japanese dragon is "invariably figured as possessing three claws". A story about the samurai Minamoto no Mitsunaka tells that, while he was hunting in his own territory of Settsu, he fell asleep under a tree and had a dream in which a beautiful woman appeared to him and begged him to save her land from a giant serpent which was defiling it. Mitsunaka agreed to help and the maiden gave him a magnificent horse. When he woke up, the horse was standing before him. He rode it to the Sumiyoshi temple, where he prayed for eight days. Then he confronted the serpent and slew it with an arrow.

It was believed that dragons could be appeased or exorcised with metal. Nitta Yoshisada is said to have hurled a famous sword into the sea at Sagami to appease the dragon-god of the sea and Ki no Tsurayuki threw a metal mirror into the sea at Sumiyoshi for the same purpose. Japanese Buddhism has also adapted dragons by subjecting them to Buddhist law; the Japanese Buddhist deities Benten and Kwannon are often shown sitting or standing on the back of a dragon. Several Japanese sennin ("immortals") have taken dragons as their mounts. Bômô is said to have hurled his staff into a puddle of water, causing a dragon to come forth and let him ride it to heaven. The rakan Handaka is said to have been able to conjure a dragon out of a bowl, which he is often shown playing with on kagamibuta. The shachihoko is a creature with the head of a dragon, a bushy tail, fish-like scales, and sometimes fire emerging from its armpits. The shifun has the head of a dragon, feathered wings, and the tail and claws of a bird. A white dragon was believed to reside in a pool in Yamashiro Province and, every fifty years, it would turn into a bird called the Ogonchô, which had a call like the "howling of a wild dog". This event was believed to herald terrible famine. In the Japanese village of Okumura, near Edo, during times of drought, the villagers would make a dragon effigy out of straw, magnolia leaves, and bamboo and parade it through the village to attract rainfall.

According to an ancient origin myth, the Vietnamese people are descended from a dragon and a fairy. To Vietnamese people, the dragon brings rain, essential for agriculture. It represents the emperor, the prosperity and power of the nation. Like the Chinese dragon, the Vietnamese dragon is the symbol of yang, representing the universe, life, existence, and growth.

Mesopotamia

The mušḫuššu is a serpentine, dragon-like monster from ancient Mesopotamian mythology with the body and neck of a snake, the forelegs of a lion, and the hind-legs of a bird. Here it is shown as it appears in the Ishtar Gate from the city of Babylon.

Ancient peoples across the Near East believed in creatures similar to what modern people call "dragons". These ancient peoples were unaware of the existence of dinosaurs or similar creatures in the distant past. References to dragons of both benevolent and malevolent characters occur throughout ancient Mesopotamian literature. In Sumerian poetry, great kings are often compared to the ušumgal, a gigantic, serpentine monster. A dragon-like creature with the foreparts of a lion and the hind-legs, tail, and wings of a bird appears in Mesopotamian artwork from the Akkadian Period (c. 2334 - 2154 BC) until the Neo-Babylonian Period (626 BC-539 BC).[58] The dragon is usually shown with its mouth open. It may have been known as the (ūmu) nā'iru, which means "roaring weather beast", and may have been associated with the god Ishkur (Hadad). A slightly different lion-dragon with two horns and the tail of a scorpion appears in art from the Neo-Assyrian Period (911 BC-609 BC). A relief probably commissioned by Sennacherib shows the gods Ashur, Sin, and Adad standing on its back.

Another dragon-like creature with horns, the body and neck of a snake, the forelegs of a lion, and the hind-legs of a bird appears in Mesopotamian art from the Akkadian Period until the Hellenistic Period (323 BC-31 BC). This creature, known in Akkadian as the mušḫuššu, meaning "furious serpent", was used as a symbol for particular deities and also as a general protective emblem. It seems to have originally been the attendant of the Underworld god Ninazu, but later became the attendant to the Hurrian storm-god Tishpak, as well as, later, Ninazu's son Ningishzida, the Babylonian national god Marduk, the scribal god Nabu, and the Assyrian national god Ashur.

Scholars disagree regarding the appearance of Tiamat, the Babylonian goddess personifying primeval chaos slain by Marduk in the Babylonian creation epic Enûma Eliš. She was traditionally regarded by scholars as having had the form of a giant serpent,[60] but several scholars have pointed out that this shape "cannot be imputed to Tiamat with certainty" and she seems to have at least sometimes been regarded as anthropomorphic. Nonetheless, in some texts, she seems to be described with horns, a tail, and a hide that no weapon can penetrate, all features which suggest she was conceived as some form of dragoness.

Levant

In the Ugaritic Baal Cycle, the sea-dragon Lōtanu is described as "the twisting serpent/ the powerful one with seven heads."In KTU 1.5 I 2-3, Lōtanu is slain by the storm-god Baal, but, in KTU 1.3 III 41-42, he is instead slain by the virgin warrior goddess Anat. In the Book of Psalms, Psalm 74, Psalm 74:13-14, the sea-dragon

Leviathan, whose name is a cognate of Lōtanu, is slain by Yahweh, the national god of the kingdoms of Israel and Judah, as part of the creation of the world. In Isaiah 27:1, Yahweh's destruction of Leviathan is foretold as part of Yahweh's impending overhaul of the universal order:

Original Hebrew text (Isaiah 27:1)

א בַּיּוֹם הַהוּא יִפְקֹד יְהוָה בְּחַרְבוֹ הַקָּשָׁה וְהַגְּדוֹלָה וְהַחֲזָקָה, עַל לִוְיָתָן נָחָשׁ

בָּרִחַ, וְעַל לִוְיָתָן, נָחָשׁ עֲקַלָּתוֹן; וְהָרַג אֶת-הַתַּנִּין, אֲשֶׁר בַּיָּם. {ס}

English translation

On that day Yahweh shall punish with his sharp, great, and strong sword,

Leviathan the fleeing serpent, Leviathan the twisting serpent;

He will slay the dragon that is in the sea.

Job 41:1-34 contains a detailed description of the Leviathan, who is described as being so powerful that only Yahweh can overcome it. Job 41:19-21 states that the Leviathan exhales fire and smoke, making its identification as a mythical dragon clearly apparent. In some parts of the Old Testament, the Leviathan is historicized as a symbol for the nations that stand against Yahweh. Rahab, a synonym for "Leviathan", is used in several Biblical passages in reference to Egypt. Isaiah 30:7 declares: "For Egypt's help is worthless and empty, therefore I have called her 'the silenced Rahab'." Similarly, Psalm 87:3 reads: "I reckon Rahab and Babylon as those that know me…" In Ezekiel 29:3-5 and 32:2-8, the pharaoh of Egypt is described as a "dragon" (tannîn). In the story of Bel and the Dragon from the apocryphal additions to Daniel, the prophet Daniel sees a dragon being worshipped by the Babylonians. Daniel makes "cakes of pitch, fat, and hair"; the dragon eats them and bursts open (Daniel 14:23-30).

Post-classical West Asia

In Sufi literature, Rumi writes in his Masnavi (III: 976-1066; IV: 120) that the dragon symbolizes the sensual soul, greed and lust, that need to be mortified in a spiritual battle.

In Ferdowsi's Shahnameh, the Iranian hero Rostam must slay an 80-meter long dragon (which renders itself invisible to human sight) with the aid of his legendary horse, Rakhsh. As Rostam is sleeping, the dragon approaches; Rakhsh attempts to wake Rostam, but fails to alert him to the danger until Rostam sees the dragon. Rakhsh bites the serpent, while Rostam decapitates it. This is the third trial of Rostam's Seven Labors.

Rostam is also credited with the slaughter of other dragons in the Shahnameh and in other Iranian oral traditions, notably in the myth of Babr-e-Bayan. In this tale, Rostam is still an adolescent and kills a dragon in the "Orient" (either India or China depending on the source) by forcing it to swallow either ox hides filled with quicklime and stones or poisoned blades. The dragon swallows these foreign objects and its stomach bursts, after which Rostam flays the dragon and fashions a coat from its hide called the babr-e bayān. In some variants of the story, Rostam then remains unconscious for two days and nights, but is guarded by his steed Rakhsh. On reviving, he washes himself in a spring. In the Mandean tradition of the story, Rostam hides in a box, is swallowed by the dragon and kills it from inside its belly. The king of China then gives Rostam his daughter in marriage as a reward.

Europe

Proto-Indo-European

The story of a hero slaying a giant serpent occurs in nearly every Indo-European mythology. In most stories, the hero is some kind of thunder-god. In nearly every iteration of the story, the serpent is either multi-headed or "multiple" in some other way. Furthermore, in nearly every story, the serpent is always somehow associated with water. Bruce Lincoln has proposed that a Proto-Indo-European dragon-slaying myth can be reconstructed as follows: First, the sky gods give cattle to a man named *Tritos ("the third"), who is so named because he is the third man on earth, but a three-headed serpent named *Ngwhi steals them. *Tritos pursues the serpent and is accompanied by *Hanér, whose name means "man". Together, the two heroes slay the serpent and rescue the cattle.

Ancient Greece and Rome

The ancient Greek word usually translated as "dragon" (δράκων drákōn, genitive δράκοντος drákontos) could also mean "snake", but it usually refers to a kind of giant serpent that either possesses supernatural characteristics or is otherwise controlled by some supernatural power. The first mention of a "dragon" in ancient Greek literature occurs in the Iliad, in which Agamemnon is described as having a blue dragon motif on his sword belt and an emblem of a three-headed dragon on his breast plate. In lines 820-880 of the Theogony, a Greek poem written in the seventh century BC by the Boeotian poet Hesiod, the Greek god Zeus battles the monster Typhon, who has one hundred serpent heads that breathe fire and speak all kinds of frightening animal noises. Zeus scorches all of Typhon's heads with his lightning bolts and then hurls Typhon into Tartarus. In the Homeric Hymn to Apollo, the god Apollo uses his poisoned arrows to slay the serpent Python, who has been causing death and pestilence in the area around Delphi. Apollo then sets up his shrine there.

The Roman poet Virgil in his poem Culex lines 163-201, describing a shepherd having a fight with a big constricting snake, calls it "serpens" and also "draco", showing that in his time the two words were probably interchangeable.

Hesiod also mentions that the hero Heracles slew the Lernaean Hydra, a multiple-headed serpent which dwelt in the swamps of Lerna. The name "Hydra" means "water snake" in Greek. According to the Bibliotheka of Pseudo-Apollodorus, the slaying of the Hydra was the second of the Twelve Labors of Heracles. Accounts disagree on which weapon Heracles used to slay the Hydra, but, by the end of the sixth century BC, it was agreed that the clubbed or severed heads needed to be cauterized to prevent them from growing back. Heracles was aided in this task by his nephew Iolaus. During the battle, a giant crab crawled out of the marsh and pinched Heracles's foot, but he crushed it under his heel. Hera placed the crab in the sky as the constellation Cancer. One of the Hydra's heads was immortal, so Heracles buried it under a heavy rock after cutting it off. For his Eleventh Labor, Heracles must procure a golden apple from the tree in the Garden of the Hesperides, which is guarded by an enormous serpent that never sleeps, which Pseudo-Apollodorus calls "Ladon". In earlier depictions, Ladon is often shown with many heads; the mythographer Pherecydes of Leros describes him as having one hundred heads, a description which is repeated by Pseudo-Apollodorus. In Pseudo-Apollodorus's account, Ladon is immortal, but Sophocles and Euripides both describe Heracles as killing him, although neither of them specifies how. The mythographer Herodorus is the first to state that Heracles slew him using his famous club. Apollonius of Rhodes, in his epic poem the Argonautica, describes Ladon as having been shot full of poisoned arrows dipped in the blood of the Hydra.

In Pindar's Fourth Pythian Ode, Aeëtes of Colchis tells the hero Jason that the Golden Fleece he is seeking is in a copse guarded by a dragon, "which surpassed in breadth and length a fifty-oared ship". Jason slays the dragon and makes off with the Golden Fleece together with his co-conspirator, Aeëtes's daughter, Medea. The earliest artistic representation of this story is an Attic red-figure kylix dated to c. 480-470 BC, showing a bedraggled Jason being disgorged from the dragon's open mouth as the Golden Fleece hangs in a tree behind him and Athena, the goddess of wisdom, stands watch. A fragment from Pherecydes of Leros states that Jason killed the dragon, but fragments from the Naupactica and from Herodorus state that he merely stole the Fleece and escaped. In Euripides's Medea, Medea boasts that she killed the Colchian dragon herself. In the most famous retelling of the story from Apollonius of Rhodes's Argonautica, Medea drugs the dragon to sleep, allowing Jason to steal the Fleece. Greek vase paintings show her feeding the dragon the sleeping drug in a liquid form from a phialē, or shallow cup.

In the founding myth of Thebes, Cadmus, a Phoenician prince, was instructed by Apollo to follow a heifer and found a city wherever it laid down. Cadmus and his men followed the heifer and, when it laid down, Cadmus ordered his men to find a spring so he could sacrifice the heifer to Athena. His men found a spring, but it was guarded by a dragon, which had been placed there by the god Ares, and the dragon killed them. Cadmus killed the dragon in revenge, either by smashing its head with a rock or using his sword. Following the advice of Athena, Cadmus tore out the dragon's teeth and planted them in the earth. An army of giant warriors (known as spartoi, which means "sown men") grew from the teeth like plants. Cadmus hurled stones into their midst, causing them to kill each other until only five were left. To make restitution for having killed Ares's dragon, Cadmus was forced to serve Ares as a slave for eight years. At the end of this period, Cadmus married Harmonia, the daughter of Ares and Aphrodite. Cadmus and Harmonia moved to Illyria, where they ruled as king and queen, before eventually being transformed into dragons themselves.

In the fifth century BC, the Greek historian Herodotus reported in Book IV of his Histories that western Libya was inhabited by monstrous serpents and, in Book III, he states that Arabia was home to many small, winged serpents, which came in a variety of colors and enjoyed the trees that produced frankincense. Herodotus remarks that the serpent's wings were like those of bats and that, unlike vipers, which are found in every land, winged serpents are only found in Arabia. The second-century BC Greek astronomer Hipparchus (c. 190 BC - c. 120 BC) listed the constellation Draco ("the dragon") as one of forty-six constellations. Hipparchus described the constellation as containing fifteen stars, but the later astronomer Ptolemy (c. 100 - c. 170 AD) increased this number to thirty-one in his Almagest.

In the New Testament, Revelation 12:3, written by John of Patmos, describes a vision of a Great Red Dragon with seven heads, ten horns, seven crowns, and a massive tail, an image which is clearly inspired by the vision of the four beasts from the sea in the Book of Daniel and the Leviathan described in various Old Testament passages. The Great Red Dragon knocks "a third of the sun… a third of the moon, and a third of the stars" out the sky and pursues the Woman of the Apocalypse. Revelation 12:7-9 declares: "And war broke out in Heaven. Michael and his angels fought against Dragon. Dragon and his angels fought back, but they were defeated, and there was no longer any place for them in Heaven. Dragon the Great was thrown down, that ancient serpent who is called Devil and Satan, the one deceiving the whole inhabited World - he was thrown down to earth and his angels were thrown down with him."Then a voice booms down from Heaven heralding the defeat of "the Accuser" (ho Kantegor).

In 217 AD, Flavius Philostratus discussed dragons (δράκων, drákōn) in India in The Life of Apollonius of Tyana (II,17 and III,6-8). The Loeb Classical Library translation (by F.C. Conybeare) mentions (III,7) that "In most respects the tusks resemble the largest swine's, but they are slighter in build and twisted, and have a point as unabraded as sharks' teeth." According to a collection of books by Claudius Aelianus called On Animals, Ethiopia was inhabited by a species of dragon that hunted elephants and could grow to a length of 180 feet (55 m) with a lifespan rivaling that of the most enduring of animals.

Post-classical Germanic mythology

In the Old Norse poem Grímnismál in the Poetic Edda, the dragon Níðhöggr is described as gnawing on the roots of Yggdrasil, the world tree. In Norse mythology, Jörmungandr is a giant serpent that encircles the entire realm of Miðgarð in the sea around it. According to the Gylfaginning from the Prose Edda, written by the thirteenth-century Icelandic mythographer Snorri Sturluson, Thor, the Norse god of thunder, once went out on a boat with the giant Hymnir to the outer sea and fished for Jörmungandr using an ox-head as bait. Thor caught the serpent and, after pulling its head out of the water, smashed it with his hammer Mjölnir. Snorri states that the blow was not fatal: "and men say that he struck its head off on the sea bed. But I think the truth to tell you is that the Miðgarð Serpent still lives and lies in the surrounding sea."

Towards the end of the Old English epic poem Beowulf, a slave steals a cup from the hoard of a sleeping dragon, causing the dragon to wake up and go on a rampage of destruction across the countryside. The eponymous hero of the poem insists on confronting the dragon alone, even though he is of advanced age, but Wiglaf, the youngest of the twelve warriors Beowulf has brought with him, insists on accompanying his king into the battle. Beowulf's sword shatters during the fight and he is mortally wounded, but Wiglaf comes to his rescue and helps him slay the dragon. Beowulf dies and tells Wiglaf that the dragon's treasure must be buried rather than shared with the cowardly warriors who did not come to the aid of their king.

In the Old Norse Völsunga saga, the hero Sigurd catches the dragon Fafnir by digging a pit between the cave where he lives and the spring where he drinks his water and kills him by stabbing him in the underside. At the advice of Odin, Sigurd drains Fafnir's blood and drinks it, which gives him the ability to understand the language of the birds, who he hears talking about how his mentor Regin is plotting to betray him so that he can keep all of Fafnir's treasure for himself. The motif of a hero trying to sneak past a sleeping dragon and steal some of its treasure is common throughout many Old Norse sagas. The fourteenth-century Flóres saga konungs ok sona hans describes a hero who is actively concerned not to wake a sleeping dragon while sneaking past it. In the Yngvars saga víðförla, the protagonist attempts to steal treasure from several sleeping dragons, but accidentally wakes them up.

Post-classical Western Europe

The modern, western image of a dragon developed in western Europe during the Middle Ages through the combination of the snakelike dragons of classical Graeco-Roman literature, references to Near Eastern European dragons preserved in the Bible, and western European folk traditions. The period between the eleventh and thirteenth centuries represents the height of European interest in dragons as living creatures. The twelfth-century Welsh monk Geoffrey of Monmouth recounts a famous legend in his Historia Regum Britanniae in which the child prophet Merlin witnesses the Romano-Celtic warlord Vortigern attempt to build a tower on Mount Snowdon to keep safe from the Anglo-Saxons, but the tower keeps being swallowed into the ground. Merlin informs Vortigern that, underneath the foundation he has built, is a pool with two dragons sleeping in it. Vortigern orders for the pool to be drained, exposing a red dragon and a white dragon, who immediately begin fighting. Merlin delivers a prophecy that the white dragon will triumph over the red, symbolizing England's conquest of Wales, but declares that the red dragon will eventually return and defeat the white one. This story remained popular throughout the fifteenth century.

The oldest recognizable image of a fully modern, western dragon appears in a hand-painted illustration from the bestiary MS Harley 3244, which was produced in around 1260 AD. The dragon in the illustration has two sets of wings and its tail is longer than most modern depictions of dragons, but it clearly displays many of the same distinctive features. Dragons are generally depicted as living in rivers or having an underground lair or cave. They are envisioned as greedy and gluttonous, with voracious appetites. They are often identified with Satan, due to the references to Satan as a "dragon" in the Book of Revelation. The thirteenth-century Golden Legend, written in Latin, records the story of Saint Margaret of Antioch, a virgin martyr who, after being tortured for her faith in the Diocletianic Persecution and thrown back into her cell, is said to have been confronted by a monstrous dragon, but she made the sign of the cross and the dragon vanished. In some versions of the story, she is actually swallowed by the dragon alive and, after making the sign of the cross in the dragon's stomach, emerges unharmed.

The legend of Saint George and the Dragon may be referenced as early as the sixth century AD, but the earliest artistic representations of it come from the eleventh century and the first full account of it comes from an eleventh century Georgian text. The most famous version of the story from the Golden Legend holds that a dragon kept pillaging the sheep of the town of Silene in Libya. After it ate a young shepherd, the people were forced to placate it by leaving two sheep as sacrificial offerings every morning beside the lake where the dragon lived. Eventually, the dragon ate all of the sheep and the people were forced to start offering it their own children. One day, the king's own daughter came up in the lottery and, despite the king's pleas for her life, she was dressed as a bride and chained to a rock beside the lake to be eaten. Then, Saint George arrived and saw the princess. When the dragon arrived to eat her, he stabbed it with his lance and subdued it by making the sign of the cross and tying the princess's girdle around its neck. Saint George and the princess led the now-docile dragon into the town and George promised to kill it if the townspeople would convert to Christianity. All the townspeople converted and Saint George killed the dragon with his sword. In some versions, Saint George marries the princess, but, in others, he continues wandering.

Gargoyles are carved stone figures sometimes resembling dragons that originally served as waterspouts on buildings. Precursors to the medieval gargoyle can be found on ancient Greek and Egyptian temples, but, over the course of the Middle Ages, many fantastic stories were invented to explain them. One medieval French legend holds that, in ancient times, a fearsome dragon known as La Gargouille had been causing floods and sinking ships on the river Seine, so the people of the town of Rouen would offer the dragon a human sacrifice once each year to appease its hunger. Then, in around 600 AD, a priest named Romanus promised that, if the people would build a church, he would rid them of the dragon. Romanus slew the dragon and its severed head was mounted on the walls of the city as the first gargoyle.

Dragons are prominent in medieval heraldry. Uther Pendragon was famously said to have had two gold dragons crowned with red standing back-to-back on his royal coat of arms. Originally, heraldic dragons could have any number of legs, but, by the late Middle Ages, due to the widespread proliferation of bestiaries, heraldry began to distinguish between a "dragon" (which could only have exactly four legs) and a "wyvern" (which could only have exactly two). In myths, wyverns are associated with viciousness, envy, and pestilence, but, in heraldry, they are used as symbols for overthrowing the tyranny of Satan and his demonic forces. Late medieval heraldry also distinguished a dragon-like creature known as a "cockatrice". A cockatrice is supposedly born when a serpent hatches an egg that has been laid on a dunghill by a rooster and it is so venomous that its breath and its gaze are both lethal to any living creature, except for a weasel, which is the cockatrice's mortal enemy. A basilisk is a serpent with the head of a dragon at the end of its tail that is born when a toad hatches an egg that has been laid in a midden by a nine-year-old cockatrice. Like the cockatrice, its glare is said to be deadly.

Post-classical Eastern Europe

In Slavic mythology, the words "zmey", "zmiy" or "zmaj" are used to describe dragons. These words are masculine forms of the Slavic word for "snake", which are normally feminine (like Russian zmeya). In Romania, there is a similar figure, derived from the Slavic dragon and named zmeu. Exclusively in Polish and Belarusian folklore, as well as in the other Slavic folklores, a dragon is also called (variously) смок, цмок, or smok. In South Slavic folklores, the same thing is also called lamya (ламя, ламја, lamja). Although quite similar to other European dragons, Slavic dragons have their peculiarities.

In Russian and Ukrainian folklore, Zmey Gorynych is a dragon with three heads, each one bearing twin goat-like horns. He is said to have breathed fire and smelled of sulfur. It was believed that eclipses were caused by Gorynych temporarily swallowing the sun. According to one legend, Gorynych's uncle was the evil sorcerer Nemal Chelovek, who abducted the daughter of the tsar and imprisoned her in his castle in the Ural Mountains. Many knights tried to free her, but all of them were killed by Gorynych's fire. Then a palace guard in Moscow named Ivan Tsarevich overheard two crows talking about the princess. He went to the tsar, who gave him a magic sword, and snuck into the castle. When Chelovek attacked Ivan in the form of a giant, the sword flew from Ivan's hand unbidden and killed him. Then the sword cut off all three of Gorynych's heads at once. Ivan brought the princess back to the tsar, who declared Ivan a nobleman and allowed him to marry the princess.

A popular Polish folk tale is the legend of the Wawel Dragon, which is first recorded in the Chronica Polonorum of Wincenty Kadłubek, written between 1190 and 1208. According to Kadłubek, the dragon appeared during the reign of King Krakus and demanded to be fed a fixed number of cattle every week. If the villagers failed to provide enough cattle, the dragon would eat the same number of villagers as the number of cattle they had failed to provide. Krakus ordered his sons to slay the dragon. Since they could not slay it by hand, they tricked the dragon into eating calfskins filled with burning sulfur. Once the dragon was dead, the younger brother attacked and murdered his older brother and returned home to claim all the glory for himself, telling his father that his brother had died fighting the dragon. The younger brother became king after his father died, but his secret was eventually revealed and he was banished. In the fifteenth century, Jan Długosz rewrote the story so that King Krakus himself was the one who slew the dragon. Another version of the story told by Marcin Bielski instead has the clever shoemaker Skubę come up with the idea for slaying the dragon. Bielski's version is now the most popular.

Modern depictions

Dragons and dragon motifs are featured in many works of modern literature, particularly within the fantasy genre. As early as the eighteenth century, critical thinkers such as Denis Diderot were already asserting that too much literature had been published on dragons: "There are already in books all too many fabulous stories of dragons". In Lewis Carroll's classic children's novel Through the Looking-Glass (1872), one of the inset poems describes the Jabberwock, a kind of dragon. Carroll's illustrator John Tenniel, a famous political cartoonist, humorously showed the Jabberwock with the waistcoat, buck teeth, and myopic eyes of a Victorian university lecturer, such as Carroll himself. In works of comedic children's fantasy, dragons often fulfill the role of a magic fairy tale helper. In such works, rather than being frightening as they are traditionally portrayed, dragons are instead represented as harmless, benevolent, and inferior to humans. They are sometimes shown living in contact with humans, or in isolated communities of only dragons. Though popular in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries, "such comic and idyllic stories" began to grow increasingly rare after the 1960s, due to demand for more serious children's literature.

One of the most iconic modern dragons is Smaug from J. R. R. Tolkien's classic novel The Hobbit. Dragons also appear in the bestselling Harry Potter series of children's novels by J. K. Rowling. Other prominent works depicting dragons include Anne McCaffrey's Dragonriders of Pern, Ursula K. Le Guin's Earthsea Cycle, George R. R. Martin's series A Song of Ice and Fire, and Christopher Paolini's Inheritance Cycle. Sandra Martina Schwab writes, "With a few exceptions, including McCaffrey's Pern novels and the 2002 film Reign of Fire, dragons seem to fit more into the medievalized setting of fantasy literature than into the more technological world of science fiction. Indeed, they have been called the emblem of fantasy. The hero's fight against the dragon emphasizes and celebrates his masculinity, whereas revisionist fantasies of dragons and dragon-slaying often undermine traditional gender roles. In children's literature the friendly dragon becomes a powerful ally in battling the child's fears." The popular role playing game system Dungeons & Dragons (D&D) makes heavy use of dragons.

After recent discoveries in palaeontology, fictional dragons are sometimes represented with no front legs, but (when on the ground) walking on their back feet and the wrists of their wings, like pterosaurs did: for example see (in Game of Thrones) and (Smaug, as in the movie).

Lincoln: Wow! So dragons have been around longer than any other myth.

Qin: Dragons are a very powerful symbol in ancient Chinese lore. They are often times immortal creatures.

Nico: That's right.

Lisa: We have appeared to have arrived at our destination.

Me: On screen.

We saw that we have arrived at the Alternate Earth. But what was saw on the continental landmasses was horrific. They were all black, charred and totally burned. Not one single ounce of plant life or anything anywhere. But the planet was still habitable.

Me: This is terrible. Well lets head down to the surface.

We landed on a barren and burned part of what used to be Madrid, Spain. We summoned our dragons and flew out over the planet. What we saw was absolutely nothing short of horrific. The dragons had turned the whole planet into a Post-Apocalyptic wasteland. The Major Cities all over the world have been reduced to nothing more than rubble, the world was stripped clean of vegetation, there was nothing left of the major cities but burned husks of what they were.

Me: My god. This is a nightmare.

I was riding a Lightning Dragon from Magic The Gathering.

Troy: Orion, is this the kind of destruction that happened on your home planet?

Orion: No. This kind of destruction is much worse.

Lana: This is terrifying.

Lola: (Older Voice) I can't believe these dragons did all this.

Some of us were flying over the air by wings.

Jessica: This is awful. It's just absolutely terrifying that these dragons are that ruthless.

Marianas: These dragons are a disgrace to all dragons everywhere. Humans are our friends and we don't destroy our friends.

Nico: These dragons have failed this world.

Me: They sure have.

Lola: I'll sing for them all.

Lola sang the ending lyrics from Warcraft III Frozen Throne.

Lola: (Singing Divinely)

O' cher tunnal bellinus..

O' ros lavel mu..

Lor'na rasjas Thanu nal..

Seh, thu erne nu..

Ren'no..

Lincoln: Wow.

Me: These dragons will pay for this.

We heard a roar and we turned and over near a castle in England we saw a dragon attacking a garden.

Me: There's a dragon!

Lana: That is not like any dragon I've ever seen.

Laney: It's terrifying.

We were dealing with the dragons from the 2002 movie Reign of Fire.

Past

The Dragons (or possibly their ancestors) first appeared on Earth in prehistoric times in the Mesozoic and lived alongside dinosaurs for a long time, but they eventually killed them all by burning them in an event come to be known as the K-T extinction. Afterwards, the Dragons went into hibernation, waiting for the Earth to replenishes all life that has been destroyed by them. Their deadly capabilities also supposedly caused the Ice Ages in the past as well.

Though being hidden for millennia, modern man encountered the hibernating Dragons around the Viking Age and the Middle Ages as many were slaughtered by Vikings and Knights. These events inspired mankind for myths that involves Dragons and their infamous reputation, unaware that they only knew little of them and the number of slaughtered Dragons were only a tiny fragment of the portion of their overall population on Earth.

Reign of Fire

The male Dragon was uncovered during a dig in London and killed all the humans who had found them. One boy named Quinn survived the Dragon ambush and feared them. Years later, the females woke and managed to kill off humanity and rule Earth, hunting any human survivors.

Now a young man, Quinn grows up leading a community of survivors. Some of Quinn's survivors get rebellious against his rule and they go out illegally at night to pick apples and steal the crop. They are ambushed by a Dragon who eats one of them. Later they meet an American survivor called Zann who claims to be a Dragon killer. There, it turns out that the Dragons have only one male in the colony, as the rest were female. Quinn realizes that the male was the Dragon that kill his mother, and if he can kill the male, the others will be unable to reproduce. Quinn goes to the nesting place of the Dragons alongside Jensen and Zan. He fights the male Dragon and eventually, Quinn throws a bomb down its mouth in retribution for the death of his mother and the downfall of mankind.

The remaining Dragons apparently begin to dwindle afterwards with the Male's death; they are at any rate not seen or heard of. Quinn doubts their another possible resurgence; but remains prepared and says he will fight if they do return, claiming that "They'll burn, we'll build."

Me: Lets get him!

Edzilla: Bad dragons wreck other Earth. NOW ED SMASH BAD DRAGONS!

Me: Fire!

We fired energy blasts and dragon fire blasts at the dragon and killed it.

We landed and we saw a bunch of people running.

Me: Are you all okay?

Man: We are. Thanks to all of you.

Nico: Is that castle your home?

Man 1: It is. Lets get back.

We went back to the castle they came from. I recognized it.

Me: That's Bamburgh Castle in Northumberland. Built in 11th century England.

We went into the castle and we saw a group of survivors. We were introduced to a man named Quinn Abercromby.

Quinn: (British Accent) Thank you for coming.

Me: We are Team Loud Phoenix Storm. We came to help you guys out. I'm J.D. Knudson, the leader.

Quinn: Pleasure to meet you. I'm Quinn Abercromby.

Me: Pleasure to meet you. We got word about what happened here. But we don't know the whole story.

Quinn: Let me show you something.

We went into Quinn's quarters and we saw a bunch of magazines from Time Magazines and a bunch of newspaper articles from over the course of 12 years from 2008 to 2020. The first article dated back to October 9th, 2008.

Me: Wow. Look at all this. This is worse than we thought.

Nico: These are newspapers and magazines from 2008 to 2020. That's less than a year from now.

Vince: So this planet Earth is set in the year 2020.

Lori: No kidding. Paris has been incinerated.

Leni: New York City up in flames.

Luna: London reduced to burning rubble.

Quinn: That's right. I've kept this for years because someday it'll be up to you. I don't want you to be afraid. I want you to understand. Knowledge is the only weapon we've got left. In the beginning it was ignorance that destroyed us. I saw the first. But soon the world saw millions. No one knew how they spawned so fast, they swarmed like Locusts, burning everything in their path, driven by one purpose: To Feed. Even then, we couldn't believe they were real. Ancient man had made them into myths, but nature had made something far more terrible. Too late, our scientists have discovered their true identity, a species which had burned the dinosaurs to dust. Whose ash had brought on ice ages. Who in eons past had scorched the world clean of life, then starved, then slept, waiting for the Earth to replenish itself, waiting to start their cycle anew. Our weapons shot fire back at them. Yet for every one of them killed, a hundred took its place. They seemed invulnerable. We could only look on as our leaders used their greatest arsenal to destroy them. But in the end we only helped them till the world burned. And the few of us that were left fled the cities, found shelter where we could.

We were absolutely horrified.

Me: And dragons are hunting survivors.

Quinn: Yes.

Me: This whole planet went to hell. Not just because of the Dragons, but because of a Nuclear Holocaust to try and kill the dragons.

Quinn: Yes. They're starving now and more dangerous than ever. But we have to go on.

Lori: This is literally terrible.

Jessica: I can't believe all this happened.

Me: Quinn, we can give you guys a home again. We are from a another planet Earth located 72,340 light-years from here. We landed our ship over in Madrid. This whole planet has become a nightmare brought to life. Our planet Earth is from the year 2019 and this version of Earth is from the year 2020. But we can give you all a home again with fresh food, water and plenty of shelter and resources to start anew.

Quinn: You would do that for us?

Me: We sure would. Team Loud Phoenix Storm never abandons anyone in need. You guys will be given a new home on our Earth but with everything that you have lost given back to you.

Quinn for the first time in 12 years has been given a new feeling: Hope.

Quinn hugged me.

Quinn: Thank you so much.

Me: You're welcome Quinn. But first we're gonna kill all the dragons and get you all out of here on our ship.

Quinn: How are you gonna do that?

I showed him my power with an energy ball. We showed our powers.

Me: Our power is strong enough to kill anything in an instant. We also have our own dragons. But these dragons are completely different than the ones you saw. They are our friends.

Quinn: Can you show us?

Me: Sure.

We went and showed them our dragons.

Me: We're gonna fight the dragons with our dragons and our powers. It's gonna be a dangerous and difficult task. But we've faced all kinds of difficult challenges before.

Marianas: That's right. Don't be afraid of us. We're your friends and we're here to help.

Nico: See?

Quinn: Thank you all. Thank you.

Me: Lets go get those dragons.

We got on our dragons and we were off to London. We saw the City up ahead and we saw that it was crawling with dragons.

Me: It's overrun with dragons.

Marianas: Hundreds of them.

Me: We've faced much bigger numbers than this before. Attack!

Another Awesome Fanfiction Complete and a bunch of dragons that want to destroy the planet defeated.

Reign of Fire is one of my favorite movies from the year 2002. The special effects were incredible. Matthew McConaughey, Christian Bale, Bond girl Izabella Scorupco, Gerard Butler and a lot of stars from England did a great job in that movie! It was awesome! NicoChan11 gave me the ideas for this one. Thanks man. Let me know what you all think. Next up we're gonna be facing the Cannibal Hillbillies from Gravity Falls. I hope you guys don't hurl your guts out when we do this one. It's gonna be really gory.

See you all next time.

Attack of the Cannibal Hillbillies

In the living room at the estate, the Dino Thunder Power Rangers were watching the Japanese version of the Dino Thunder Rangers.

Eddy came in.

Eddy: What's that you're watching?

Edd: According to the satellite guide, it's a Japanese TV show about the world famous Dino Thunder Power Rangers!

Wreck Gar: They even dubbed it in English!

Tara: Power Rangers in Japan? I've got to see this!

Eddy (frowns): This is whack.

Ed: How do you know its' whack? You haven't even given it a chance.

Eddy: It wasn't even made here! I mean, what would they know about Power Rangers in Japan?

Luan: Only one way to find out!

Spiderman: I agree. I wanna know what Japan thinks of Power Rangers.

Connor: Trust me, Eddy. I had my doubts at first. But you'll like it.

Eddy: No way!

Eddy: That's it! I mean, they're totally making fun of you guys. I'm outta here!

Kira: Wait! C'mon, Eddy, it's just for fun.

Shockwave: Don't you want to see how it ends?

Eddy: Well, it's not funny anymore, it's stupid. And it ends with me going out that door and going on patrol! (leaves the room)

Luan: It's okay. He'll be back.

Maria: How do you know?

Luan (holds up Eddy's blaster): He forgot his blaster.

Eddy came back into the room.

Eddy (sighs): Is it really that good?

Xion: You'll never know if you don't watch for yourself.

Eddy (blocking the TV): Okay, it's bad enough that they've made Connor's team look like fools, but, to make fun of sports heroes? Where the hell is your pride? I will fucking not sit here and let them get away with this. Fuck no!

Edd: Don't you think you're overreacting just a little?

Ed: Yeah! It's just a TV show.

Eddy: Yeah, but don't you see what this fucking represents? This is what they think of fucking Power Rangers in motherfuckinng Japan!

Tara: How can you say that? This is one episode of one TV show!

Spiderman: And it's not even the whole episode thanks to your big head being in our way!

Luan: Look, Eddy, come sit down and watch the rest. If you still don't like it, you can write the TV station or something. Or the congress. Or the president. I don't really care. Right now, I just want to see the Power Rangers kick monster butt.

Defeated, Eddy stops blocking the TV. He was watching the show. He was amazed. When the episode was finished they cheered.

Eddy: Yes!

William: Excited much?

Eddy (nervously): I mean, uh, it was kinda cool.

Static: See? It's not so different after all, just a slightly different interpretation.

Then the alarm went off.

Me: Uh oh.

We went to the computer and we found out that a number of cannibalistic murders are going on over in Gravity Falls and the whole town is in the grip of fear because of it.

Me: There's trouble brewing in Gravity Falls.

Mabel: What is it?

Me: We have to find out. Lets go!

We were off to Gravity Falls.

GRAVITY FALLS, OREGON

We arrived in the forests of Gravity Falls, Oregon. It was as thick and dense as a big jungle.

Me: Wow. It's a jungle in here.

Dipper: The forests here are like a jungle.

Nico: (Walking) But where are the murders happening?

Nico tripped over something and he saw that it was a bloody and mutilated ripped to shreds body!

Nico: (Screams)

Nico backed away.

Me: Geez!

Lucy Loud: Gasp! This was a fresh kill. It was made a little over an hour ago.

I wiped the blood off of it and it was still coagulating.

Me: Lucy's right. This is a fresh kill.

Nico: But look at those over there.

We saw more cannibalized corpses and they were completely mutilated and dismembered and their organs and blood were splattered all over the place.

Me: But this is disgusting. Whoever did this has an extremely voracious and ravenous appetite for human flesh.

Lucy Loud counted the bodies.

Lucy Loud: There's over 500 kills here. This whole area was turned into a killing ground.

Lori: That is literally disgusting.

Laney: But how will we know who or what did it? This is a big forest and they could be anywhere.

Lana: I think these signs here say who is responsible.

We saw signs on the trees written in blood.

Me: (Reading) "Beware of the Cannibal Hillbillies." "Go Back." Cannibal Hillbillies? This reminds me of the Cannibal Hillbillies from that horror movie Wrong Turn.

Nico: I remember that movie. Those hillbillies were disgusting creatures. They were gross and completely cannibalistic.

I pulled up their information. It was the family of a ravenous hillbilly cannibal called Three Finger.

Three Finger makes his first appearance in the first film, Wrong Turn and also served as the primary antagonist. He also very skillful of creating traps that will instantly kill the victims before he finished his cruel job on them. In addition, he also has the unnatural ability of regenerating his recovery as he was shown of surviving at the end of the film.

He made his first appearance alongside his two deformed brothers, Saw-Tooth and One-Eye as they attack both the medical student, Chris Flynn and the group of friends including Jessie Burlingame, Carly, Scott, Evan, and Francine. When the others went to get help, he murders both Evan and Francine before bringing their bodies back to the isolated cabin with One-Eye and Saw-Tooth. Later, Three Finger and his brothers tracked down the remaining group as they investigate their cabin and manages to kill Scott. However, Chris, Jessie, and Carly manage to escape shortly after.

That night, when Chris, Jessie, and Carly went to the old watchtower in order to call for help, Three Finger, Saw-Tooth, and One-Eye manage to locate them and tried to set the watchtower on fire. However, the group of survivors manage to escape and forced to run across the trees. When this happens, he manages to decapitates Carly in her jaw. However, Chris manages to hit him when he was about to attack Jessie as he falls down fron one of the trees.

The next day, Three Finger and his brothers manage to locate Chris and Jessie as they push Chris down the hill before they captured Jessie. Later, Chris manages to survive his fall as he went to the mutant cannibals' cabin and attack the cannibals. Together, Chris and Jessie fought the mutants and eventually killed Three Finger, Saw-Tooth, and One-Eye before blowing up their cabin before making their escape, killing all the cannibals.

However, in the end of the film, Three Finger manages to survive as he was last seen killing the deputy sheriff as he investigate the destroyed cabin. However, his brothers were presumely dead.

Wrong Turn 2: Dead End

After the events in the first Wrong Turn film, Three Finger returns in the second film, Wrong Turn 2: Dead End and recently serves as the secondary antagonist since the primary antagonist was Pa, a father of the mutant family.

Three Finger was first seen killing Kimberly by cutting her into half with the help of Brother, a member of the cannibalistic family. Then, he and the mutant family begin their brutal assault on the rest of the contestants as he successfully killed Neil, a television crew member and captured Colonel Dale Murphy with the help of Pa. Later, he was seen torturing Dale in his cabin but Dale somehow manages to escape before engaging Three Finger in the knife fight. During the fight, Dale manages to shoot Three Finger on his chest with a shotgun and as the result, Three Finger fell into the lake and was presumably dead.

However, he survived thanks to his regenerative recovery. As the film ends, he was last seen feeding the newborn mutant baby with a human finger and a milk bottle filled with chemical waste before his laughter can be heard.

Wrong Turn 3 : Left For Dead

Three Finger once again returns in the third film Wrong Turn 3: Left For Dead, as he once again serves as the primary antagonist and his mutant boy son, Three-Toe served as the secondary antagonist.

Three Finger attacks the college students; Alex, Trey, Sophie, and Brent and succesfully murdered the three of them. However, Alex somehow manages to escape into the woods.

Later during the rest of the story in the film, Three Finger assaulted the escorting bus driven by the prison guards; Nate and Walter as well as loaded with the prisoners; Willy, Crawford, Floyd, Bradon, and Chavez. Then, he and Three-Toe began to set the traps. However, led by Alex and Nate, the group managed to avoid the traps and they killed Three-Toe by capturing him and beheaded him, using his head as the trophy on the booby trap. However, they soon learned that their actions could only make Three Finger enraged. Soon, Three Finger begins his murderous assault on the group, killing Willy and Crawford in the process. Later, he captured Alex when Chavez used her as the bait and secure her in his cabin before hunting down the rest of the survivors. Later, he once again encountered Chavez and engage him in the battle. However, Three Finger manages to overpowered him and killed him.

Sometime later, he returned to his cabin when he saw Nate setting Alex free and attacked him. Immediately, Alex saves Nate by stabbing Three Finger with a large stake before making their escape. However, Three Finger manages to survive and followed them as he leaps on top of the truck, causing them to crash the truck into the tree. When Bradon was helping both Nate and Alex, Three Finger attacked them once more. During the final battle, Nate manages to stab Three Finger in his head with the meathook. Immediately, Three Finger gave Nate a sickly smile for the last time before he died, thus ending his murderous reign once and for all.

Qin: Whoa! That is sick!

Nico: I remember that. These were toxic chemicals that made them like this.

Dipper: There were rumors of the dumping of hazardous waste in a mine not to far from here.

Me: After we kill these hillbillies we got to find that hazardous waste and report it to the E.P.A.

Juvia Lockser: But if these hillbillies are that dangerous then we need to watch our backs.

Me: We need to set up a trap for them.

Calvin: I have an idea. Levi, remember that trick we used on Wolvermean?

Me: I remember that. That was really clever.

Levi: I think I know what you're about to do Calvin.

Me: Go for it guys.

They set up scarecrow dummies that looked like them.

Levi: And now, we wait.

Juvia: Gray, in case we die, I want to say that I've never stopped loving you!

Gray: Thanks Juvia.

Mabel: I've better things to do tonight then die!

Me: No one is gonna die on our watch.

We were hiding in the trees, completely invisible from view.

After waiting for 30 minutes we saw a hillbilly come out. It was THREE FINGER.

Me: (Whispering) That's Three Finger.

Nico: He is a monster.

Three Finger saw the dummies.

Three Finger: Oooh. Fresh meat.

But then the dummies were revealed to be scarecrows.

Three Finger: It's a trick!

We jumped down and had him cornered.

Me: Three Finger. You are in a lot of trouble! We're now going to kill you.

Nico: Three Finger, you have failed this universe!

Three Finger: Lets see you face the whole family!

Out of the trees and the whole forest came a bunch of hillbillies completely out for blood! There were hundreds of them!

Syd: Whoa!

Me: There's hundreds of them! A bunch of fucked up lunatics out for blood.

Lucy Loud: These guys will become dead soon.

(Kouen {Crimson Flames} Plays)

Me: Lets tear them apart!

Megaforce Rangers: Legendary Ranger Mode: R.P.M.!

The Megaforce Rangers turned into the R.P.M. Power Rangers! Troy Burrows was the red R.P.M. Ranger, Noah Carver was the blue R.P.M. Ranger, Gia Moran was the Yellow R.P.M. Power Ranger, Jake Halling was the Green R.P.M. Ranger, Emma Goodall was the Black R.P.M. Ranger and Orion was both the Gold and Silver R.P.M. Rangers. One half of his suit was gold and the other half was silver.

We went at them and they went at us and a massive explosion of fire exploded out as we slammed into them.

KRABBBBBBBBBBBBBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOO

The fight was extremely savage and gory. I slashed a hillbilly's stomach open and disemboweled him and ripped out his intestines and then I ripped out his beating heart and squished it. Lightning was ripping a bunch of Hillbilly's apart with just his bare hands and great physical strength. Lucy Loud was blasting a bunch of Hillbilly's with black lightning and slashing them all over the place with Nizogamourne. She was slashing and slashing and slashing them all over. Lucy Dark was sucking in their blood through her wings like she was drinking water through a straw and it was making her more powerful than ever. Laney was wrapping a bunch of Hillbilly's in bramble vines and crushing them all to death and splattering their blood and guts all over the place. Lana froze a bunch of them and shattered them into a million frozen bloody pieces. Lola fired massive blasts of fire and burned and incinerated them into nothing. Lisa threw chemical bombs at the Hillbilly's and the chemicals hit them and exploded with massive fiery explosions that blew them to pieces. Lily fired powerful blasts of water at the hillbilly's and blew them apart. All that was left of them were their feet. The Megaforce Rangers were really letting them have it. Troy Burrows slashed a bunch of hillbilly's with his street saber and he was really cutting them into a thousand pieces. Noah Carver was blasting a lot of the hillbilly's with the turbo cannon and reduced them into bloody dust. Gia Moran used her Zip Charger and it hit a bunch of Hillbilly's and made them all explode into massive piles of blood and guys. THE END

---

Another Fanfiction Complete and another horrifying monster destroyed.

The Cannibal Hillbillies from Wrong Turn were disgusting creatures. I had to use the Cannibal Hillbillies from Wrong Turn as they weren't featured in Gravity Falls as I got them mixed up with something else and I'm sorry about that. But I promised a gory fight and you got it. This was the most carnage we've ever let loose since the bloody mermaid fight chapter. NicoChan11 gave me the ideas for this. Thanks man. Let me know what you think and I hope you guys don't hurl your guts out. The next chapter is a flashback chapter for The Loudest Yard. Get ready sports fans, for you are in for a huge surprise when Lincoln enters the world of sports fame.

See you all next time.

The Loudest Yard

Note: The Flashback in this chapter takes place before the events of April Fools Rules.

Over in France, Nino was in a state of depression.

Nino (depressed): Hey, guys.

Adrien: You ok, Nino.

Nino: I'm fine.

Chloe: You don't look fine.

Nino: Ok. I admit. Me and Alya had a falling out. She's still believing Lila's bullshit.

Marinette: What? Nino, you know you and Alya have to talk things out eventually.

Nino: Why the hell would I work things out with Alya now? She doesn't listen that Lila's lying, she and I argue way too much now, and the fact that Lila's using her to hurt you is the last straw! You guys should be more madder then I am.

Adrien: We are. But you still need to work things out with Alya.

Nino: Not right now. Lila made me lose my best friends just by coming to school. Maybe I should just get myself Akumatized again so Team Loud Phoenix Storm can end my life!

Chloe: That's ridiculous. How can we blame you for everything Lila's caused? And that's no reason for you to want to die.

Marinette: Chloe's right. All of us and everyone else have been through too much together to let Lila split us apart. We're always going to be friends no matter what.

Nino: You mean it?

Marinette: Definitely! Now, you want to get some ice cream with us?

Nino: I would love that Marinette.

They went to the ice cream shop.

Back at the estate in Michigan, I was looking over the morphing keys for the Megaforce Rangers.

Me: Hmm. These Ranger Keys are incredible.

Lincoln: Those are the Rangers Keys for the Power Rangers over in Japan aren't they?

Me: They sure are Lincoln. Japan is where the Power Rangers were originally created. The first ever Power Rangers series was made back in 1975.

Everyone: Wow!

Laney: That's amazing! So the show has been on in both our countries for 44 years.

Nico: That is amazing.

William: Now, let's give names to the Japanese Ranger Keys.

Me: Good idea William. The first Power Rangers were the Himitsu Sentai Goranger. That means Secret Squadron Five Rangers.

Lana: That sounds too long.

Me: Agreed. If they were made over here in America, we would call them the Secret 5 Force.

Nick Russells: That is a good name for them.

Laney: What about these keys? (Points to the J.A.K.Q. Keys)

Me: These are the J.A.K.Q. Keys. They are the Power Rangers of Japan from 1977.

Megan: What does J.A.K.Q. mean?

Me: Jack, Ace, King and Queen. Like the suits of playing cards.

Lincoln: That's interesting. Like with Ace Savvy. What should we call that group?

Lola: (Older Voice) How about this? The Royal Flush Squad.

Everyone agreed.

Me: That's a great name Lola.

Leni: What's a Royal Flush? Is there a toilet in the king's throne room.

We facepalm.

Me: Leni, a Royal Flush is the most powerful hand in Poker.

I pulled out a deck of playing cards and showed them with the Spade Royal Flush.

Me: That is a Royal Flush. Now lets focus here. These are the Battle Field J Keys from 1979. Lets call them the Ranger J Platoon.

Nico: Not bad.

Lincoln: Good name.

Lori: That's literally a good name.

Kat (Zeo): (Australian Accent) That is a good name for them.

Me: Thanks Kat. These are the Denshi Sentai Denziman keys from 1980. That means Electronic Squadron Denziman.

Lincoln: Interesting.

Laney: That's an interesting name.

Me: It sure is. Lets call them the Electronic Brigade.

Kimberly Ann Hart: That's a great name.

Me: Thanks Kim. These are the keys for the Taiyo Sentai Sun Vulcan Rangers from 1982. That means Solar Squadron Sun Vulcan.

Nico: That's an interesting one.

Sam S.L.: It sure is.

Me: We'll call that one the Sun Flare Squad.

Everyone agreed with me.

Lucy Loud: That's a great name for them.

Me: Thanks guys. These are the keys from the Goggle V Power Rangers from 1983.

May: Those are an interesting bunch.

Lincoln: They sure are. How about we call those rangers the G.V.S. Rangers?

Me: Goggle V Squad Rangers. Love it Lincoln.

Lincoln: A thank you.

Me: Good. These are the Ranger Keys for the Scientific Squadron Dynaman rangers from 1984.

Lisa: These rangers look very technologically advanced.

Me: They are.

Lisa: How about we call them the Science Platoon Dynaman?

Me: That's a good name Lisa.

Everyone agreed.

Lisa: Indeed.

Me: These are the Ranger Keys for the Electronic Bioman Rangers that aired in 1985.

Maria: That's an interesting group.

Nico: It sure is.

William: How about we call them the Techno Bionic Team?

Me: That's a good idea William.

Everyone agreed.

Maria: Good name William.

William: Thanks babe.

Me: These are the keys for the Blitzkrieg Squadron Changeman from 1986. We used these powers from them before several times in some of our battles.

Nico: I remember that. We also saw them on TV.

Lincoln: They govern the creatures of fantasy.

Me: That's right. Lets call them the Dragon Blitz Force.

Everyone agreed.

Nico: That's a great name.

Me: These are the keys from the Supernova Flashman Rangers from 1987.

Vince: Those look interesting.

Lynn: They sure do.

Luan: They sure can Flash around! (Laughs to Rimshot) Get it?

Most of us laughed while everyone else groaned.

Me: (Laughs) That was a good one Luan!

Eddy: (Laughs) Good one!

Lynn Sr.: (Laughs Offscreen) Good one!

Me: That was funny.

Luan: Lets call these rangers the Nova Flashteam.

Everyone agreed.

Me: That's a great name Luan.

Luan: It was the first name that came to my mind.

Nico: That's all right.

Me: These are the Ranger Keys for the Light Squadron Maskman from 1988.

Luna: Those are rockin' dudes. Lets call them the Lightmask Squad.

Everyone agreed.

Me: That name is rockin' dudette! (Hangs Loose Sign)

Luna: Thanks dude.

Me: These are the Ranger Keys for the Super Beast Squadron Maskman from 1989.

Leni: Lets call them the Super Beast Squadron Maskman.

We looked at Leni like she was talking about who know's what.

Lisa: Leni, that name is already occupied over in Japan.

Me: Hmm. How about the Animal Supersquad?

Everyone agreed with me and that name.

Leni: That works too.

Me: Good. These are the Ranger Keys from Japan's Version of the Turbo Rangers.

Nico: So there are two versions of the Turbo Power Rangers. One in Japan and one here in America.

Me: Exactly. So to avoid confusion lets call Japan's version of the Turbo Rangers the Race Force.

Lori: That literally works.

Me: Thanks. These are the Ranger Keys for the Earth Squadron Fiveman.

Laney: That's an interesting group. How about we call them the Star Earth Five?

Everyone agreed.

Me: That's a great name Laney.

Luna: Radical name Lanes.

Laney: Thanks.

These are the Ranger Keys for the Birdman Squadron Jetman from 1992.

Nico: Those are interesting.

Lori: Those are literally interesting. It would be cool to use their powers.

Me: It sure would.

Lori: How about we call them the Hyperjet Squad.

Everyone agreed with Lori's name for them.

Me: That's a great name for them Lori.

Lori: Thank you.

Me: These Ranger Keys are for the 5-Star Squadron Great Ranger's from 1994.

Vince: Those are interesting.

Me: I remember seeing you guys turn into them on TV.

Noah Carver: We sure did.

Troy Burrows: That was the first Japanese Power Rangers we turned into.

Me: That's right. Lets call them the Starforce Pentasquad.

Everyone agreed with me.

Lana: That's a great name for them J.D.

Gia Moran: I like it.

Me: I'm glad.

Trini Kwan: By the way J.D., we saw in some of your battles that you managed to utilize the Dinozords and the Thunderzords. But they were destroyed by Rita Repulsa and Lord Zedd ages ago.

Me: I remember that. That was awful.

Maria: Zord destructions are always heartbreaking. Fortunately, none of you guys will have to relive those terrible moments again.

Me: That's right Maria. I actually rebuilt and fully repaired the Dinozords and the Thunderzords.

Jason Lee Scott: You rebuilt the zords!?

Tommy Oliver: You rebuilt the Dinozords?

Me: I sure did. And the Thunderzords.

Jason Lee Scott: I don't know what to say except… thank you.

Me: No problem Jason.

Kimberly Ann Hart: How did you do it?

Me: That is a long story.

---

Me: (Narrating) It was 5 years ago. I watched the episode of Mighty Morphin' Power Rangers where Rita Repulsa and Lord Zedd destroyed the Thunder Megazord and the White Tiger Megazord and it dealt the Power Rangers a devastating and crippling blow. When I saw that, I set out to find the wreckage of the destroyed Megazords. I found them in the mountains of California buried under a blanket of moss and grass. I used my powers to bring back the wrecked Zords to my house in Colorado and started working on them. I worked tirelessly around the clock rebuilding them from scratch. It took days to do it. But after 19 days of hard work and sleepless nights I rebuilt the Dinozords and the Thunderzords.

The flashback shows me doing all that.

FLASHBACK ENDS

Nico: Wow! So that's how you brought the Dinozords and Thunderzords back.

Lincoln: That's amazing.

Carter Grayson: That sure is something.

Maria: By the way Lincoln, I noticed something in your side of the trophy case. I saw that you won a trophy for football.

Lincoln: I sure did. Mom signed me up into football without my consent.

Horsea: Lincoln, did Rita really sign you up for football?

Lincoln: She sure did.

Me: I remember that. But that was a good experience for you and me.

---

[Episode begins with Lincoln playing a video game of Muscle Fish escaping a crazy kitchen. Rita comes in to his room.]

Rita: "Lincoln, why don't you go outside? It's not healthy to sit around playing video games all day."

Lincoln: "Actually, Mom, some studies show-"

Rita: "Out."

Lincoln: "Right…"

[Cut to the tree in the backyard; Lincoln is still playing his video game.]

Rita: "That's not what I meant! You need to get some exercise! And I have just the thing."

[The mall. Lynn Sr. and some of the other fathers are power walking inside.]

Lynn Sr.: [panting] "Good workout, eh, son?"

Lincoln: [keeping up at a normal pace] "Feeling the burn, Dad…"

Lynn Sr.: "Last one to the food court buys the soft pretzels!"

[Lincoln comes to a halt and sees the arcade. He goes inside and plays Total Turbo: Super Bikers XXII only to get caught.]

Lynn Sr.: "Ahem?"

Lincoln: "Oh! Hey, Dad." [chuckles nervously] "Guess I'm paying for the pretzels…"

[His dad grabs him. Back at the house, Rita is following along with an aerobics show.]

Rita: [panting] "Phew. See? Exercise can be fun! Whee!"

[It appears Lincoln is following along.]

Lincoln: "I read ya loud and clear, Mom."

[It turns out he's just reading a comic book he taped to his mother's glutes. As he tries to turn the page, the comic tears and falls off, leading Rita to realize.]

Rita: "Lincoln! I see I'm going to have to take other measures."

Lincoln: [uneasy] "What kind of measures?"

[He is now given gear for a certain sport.]

Lincoln: "Football? Come on, Mom. You know sports aren't my thing."

[Cut to a montage of Lincoln participating in sports, but not actually playing them. He's playing catch with Clyde. Clyde tosses him the ball but he's just reading comic books and misses the ball. He's playing Basketball with Liam. Liam passes the ball, but it just passes by Lincoln preoccupied with his comics. He's playing Badminton with Lola. Lola serves the shuttlecock, but he has his racket secured around his sweatband while he's playing video games and the shuttlecock hits him in the head, not even fazing him. Lynn tosses a horseshoe that misses the ringer and hits Lincoln's shin.]

Lincoln: "OW!"

[End montage]

Rita: "Ugh. I know, honey, but you left me no choice. One way or another, you have to get some exercise."

Lincoln: "Mom, wait! Look!" [pretends to do aerobics] "I'm exercising right now!" [pulls a muscle] "Ow, ow! Charley Horse!"

[Rita sighs and walks away.]

Lincoln: [to the viewers] "Clearly, I cannot play football. Fortunately, in a big family, there's always someone who can help you out of a jam."

Lucy: Don't worry, Lincoln. I'll pay my respects at your funeral.

Lincoln gulped in fear.

[He's conversing with Lola about his quandary.]

Lola: "An injury to get out of sports… that can be arranged."

Lincoln: "Just not the face."

Lola: "We'll see…" [She sips her tea.]

[In the backyard. Lola has her kiddie car all warmed up, ready to do something that involves injuring Lincoln.]

Lincoln: "Go easy, okay?" [sticks his leg out]

Lola: [grinning fiercely] "We'll see."

[She puts the pedal to the metal, and at the last second, Lincoln moves his leg out of the way, making Lola crash right into the trash.]

Lola: [enraged] "YOU WANT AN INJURY?! I'LL GIVE YOU ONE!" [charges at Lincoln]

Lincoln: [trying to run away only to pull a muscle again.] "Ow, ow! Charley Horse!"

[Lola pounces on him to pulverize him until me and Varie shows up.]

We grabbed them.

Me: Okay Lola, that's enough!

Varie: What's all this about?

Lola: "Well, he deserves it! I was trying to help him get out of playing Football, and he made me total my car! AND I JUST PUT IN THE CUPCAKE AIR FRESHENER!"

Me: You were trying to get out of playing football Lincoln? Why?

Lincoln: J.D., you've gotta get me outta this!

Me: Come on Lincoln, me and Varie can help you get ready. It's not gonna be easy but you can do it.

Lincoln: You really think so?

Me: Sure. I used to be in the Elementary School and Middle School Football teams.

Lincoln: Cool!

Me: Lets get you started Lincoln.

Lincoln: What if I get myself out of football? I'll go out there and faint. I don't play football anymore and I keep my life. Everyone's happy.

Lynn: Fainting won't work. The other players will know you're faking.

Lincoln: Who says I'll be faking it?!

Me: Lincoln! Focus. Lets get you training.

[I showed Lincoln how to step by running through tires which he trips over and gets rolled off by. I show him how to drink raw eggs for protein. He tries it only to throw up in the toilet. I show him how to pass by tossing a ball through the center of the tire swing. He misses and gets pegged in the back of the head by the ball. I take him for a jog around the neighborhood. But as we trained more and more, Lincoln was making incredibly significant progress. Lincoln was getting better and better and better. Lynn was watching us practice.]

[At Ketcham Park, we were practicing receiving.]

Lynn: "Hike!" [passes the ball to Lincoln]

[Lincoln gets decked in the eye and crashes by the feet of some bulky Football kids who laugh at his pain.]

Hawk: "If you clowns are done, we need the field! We gotta practice for junior football league."

Me: Well if it isn't Hawk and Hank.

Varie: The two biggest Jerks in town.

Lincoln: "You guys are playing junior football, too? What team are you on?"

Hawk: "The Hazeltucky Hockers!"

[They hock loogies]

Hank:"What team are you on?"

Lincoln: "The Royal Woods Roosters!"

Lincoln & Lynn: [waving their hands high up] "Cock-a-doodle-doo!"

Hawk: "Nice cheer. When we play you, you're cock-a-doodle-doomed!"

Hank: "Yeah! I'm gonna pluck me a few feathers!"

Me: Not if I spill your blood all over the place.

[They laugh which irks Lynn.]

Lynn: "You chumps are lucky I'm not playing, 'cuase I'd whoop all your butts!"

Hawk: [ruffles her hair not intimidated one bit.] "Sure you would, ponytail."

[Hawk and Hank walk off laughing some more.]

Me: We'll show them.

We got Lincoln ready for the game. Lincoln was ready. He was learning so much from me and Lynn and he was ready. He played the game and he became a champ!

Lynn Sr.: "Not telling your family…" [in a proud tone] "… you're a big Football star!?" [holds up a newspaper with a front page article about his Football status.] "Crowds Love Loud! Haven't seen that headline since my break dancing days. We're so proud of you, son! We're all gonna be at your game tomorrow!"

Lincoln: [worrisome] "All of you?"

Lynn Sr. "You betcha! And if you need some new moves for your touchdown dance…" [shows off some of his break dancing moves and scats.] "I'm on fire, on fire, on fire!" [dances and scats some more.]

Me: Great job Lincoln. You are on a roll today.

[The big game. It's the Roosters VS the Hockers. Lynn Sr. is dressed in a Rooster costume with his tail feathers blocking Rita's face. Lana has face makeup on and is holding a sign that says "GO!". Lily has one that says "GOO!" with her face as the first "O". Lucy has a sign that says "Embrace the darkness". Leni, Luan, Luna, and Lola are excited for the game, but Lisa is just reading a book on advanced calculus. Lori is using binoculars to search for her star player brother.]

Lori: "I literally don't see Lincoln anywhere." [spots him right in front of her face and drops the binoculars in fright.] "AAAHH!"

Lincoln: [waving] "Hey, guys!"

Rita: "There's my little Football star!"

Lana: "Lincoln! Sign my hat!" [tosses it to him]

Lincoln: [laughs] "Saving it for the game."

Varie: Lincoln, I don't think you have a choice. You have to run away from football tryouts.

Lincoln: If I do that, I won't be able to show myself at school again. I'll be finished as a student.

Announcer: "Number one, Lincoln Loud!"

Announcer: "Ladies and gentlemen, as a special treat, Luna Loud will be performing the National Anthem! Please remove all hats and helmets."

[A rocking version of the Star-Spangled Banner begins to play, with

Lynn in a conundrum.]

Lynn: "Uh… I gotta pee." [runs off]

[Lincoln switches out to join the rest of the anthem as Luna finishes her performance by smashing her axe on stage.]

Luna: "LET'S PLAY BALL, DUDES!"

Hawk: "Hey, aren't you that twerp from the park? We're gonna knock you on your tail feathers."

Lincoln: Bring it you freaks!

[They hock loogies and Lynn growls at them viciously. The game starts with the kickoff and Lynn catches the ball and scores a touchdown.]

Referee: "Touchdown, Roosters!"

[The Louds and some of the show's staff cheer for this, but the rest of the staff is upset by it. Lynn Sr. breaks out some of his dance moves and knocks his drink with his tail feathers, causing it to splash Lincoln below.]

Announcer: "Tackle made by Loud!"

[A hot dog lands on Lynn's head.]

Announcer: "Ball carried by Loud!"

[Some popcorn falls on Lynn.]

Announcer: "Touchdown, Lincoln Loud!"

[This time, Lynn puts on an umbrella hat and saves herself from getting splashed by water.]

Lynn: "Ha!" [gets hit by dropped binoculars.] "Ow!"

[The ref blows his whistle.]

Referee: "Halftime!"

[Later, The score is 28 to 27 with the Roosters leading by one.]

Coach: "We're up by one with a minute to go. Just don't blow it."

Lincoln: [does the cheer] "Cock-a-doodle-doo, coach!" [heads out onto the field to play.] "You can do this. You can do this."

Rita: Do you think that signing Lincoln up for football wasn't a good idea after all?

Me: It's a one time shot Ms. Rita.

Hawk: "Back for more, Loud? Bad choice."

[Hockers hock again]

Lincoln: [intimidated] "You can't do this."

Rooster Player: "Set, hut, hut, hike!" [snaps the ball and passes it to Lincoln.]

Lincoln: "I caught it!"

The Hockers came charging at Lincoln. Lincoln then remembered a scene from the movie Ice Age and he got the courage to charge through them. Lincoln ran in slow motion and he was dodging all the players. He plowed through the Hockers. That made Lynn Jr.'s jaw drop along with everyone else's jaws dropping and he went straight for the goal line and he was really letting them have it as he was charging through. The Hockers were missing him each time. But then he got to the end zone of the field and the timer ran out and Lincoln scored! ROYAL WOODS ROOSTERS WIN, 35 - 27!

Announcer: TOUCHDOWN ROYAL WOODS! THE ROYAL WOODS ROOSTERS WIN!

Rita: HE DID IT!

Me: HE DID IT! WAY TO GO LINCOLN!

Varie: That was just like what happened in the movie Ice Age!

We rushed onto the field and we hoisted Lincoln up for winning the game.

Lori: I'm so proud of you baby bro!

Me: You were awesome Lincoln!

Lynn was in tears of joy.

Lincoln: I DID IT!

Me: You sure did buddy!

Lincoln hugged his family.

Lynn: (Sniffles) I am so proud of you bro.

Lincoln: Thanks Lynn. Thanks J.D. I owe it all to you guys.

Me: No problem buddy.

We later went back to the Loud House and Lincoln and me and Laney were looking at his first ever true trophy.

Lincoln put the trophy in the trophy case.

Me: Congratulations buddy. Your first true trophy.

Lincoln: Thanks J.D. All your training really paid off.

Me: It sure did. I'm proud of you buddy.

We high five.

FLASHBACK ENDS

Me: That was an unforgettable game.

Lincoln: It sure was. After that I retired from Football to help J.D. on all his adventures.

Me: That's right.

Nico: That was awesome Lincoln. You won your first ever football game.

Varie: He sure did.

Lynn: I'm proud of my brother.

Laney: We all are.

Me: Not only that but a lot of people in Hazeltucky bet on Hawk and Hank and they lost big time.

Laney: I heard about that. They bet all their life savings.

Nico: I bet they were pretty steamed about losing it all.

Me: "Steamed" is an understatement Nico. They all lost everything and they now want revenge on Lincoln. But the good news is we beat them up and sent them to prison.

Lori: Good.

We were talking more.

Elsewhere in the middle of town, James M. was having dinner with Seia at Lynn's Table. They were talking about what happened and more about what has been going on around the world. It was a good time for them. They then went to a movie and they saw The King and I from 1956. Lastly they went to the park to look at the stars and they were under the light of the full moon and they kissed for the first time. It was a happy time for them as they were on their first date.

Banned In Bikini Bottom

At a motocross racing track on the outskirts of the city, Me and Nico were trying out a new sport. We were trying out Motocross. We were racing each other on Motorcycles and we were having all kinds of fun and doing all kinds of amazing stunts. I did a 360˚ spin. Nico did a handstand and it was perfect.

Me: Whoo hoo!

Nico: Yeah!

Me: Awesome dude!

Nico: Yeah!

We high five and lightning shot out of our hands.

Maria: You three mind if I join you guys in Motocross racing?

Me: Not at all Maria.

Maria got onto her own Motorcycle and she was having fun.

We did all kinds of stunts and had all kinds of fun.

---

Later we went back to the estate.

Donald Duck: How was motorcross?

Me: We had so much fun.

Nico: We sure did.

Maria: We did all kinds of awesome tricks and stunts.

Nico: We sure did.

Lynn: I do like Motocross. It's a shame I'm only 13 and too young to ride a motorcycle.

Me: That's okay Lynn. You'll do it with us someday.

Maria: Yeah.

Nico: Why do I suddenly regret telling you guys about Ladybug's battles against Hawk Moth?

Sinnertwin: Relax, Nico. We'll keep our cool when we help Ladybug fight him.

Nico: For some reason, I'm doubting those words.

Me: Don't worry Nico. We'll keep our cool when we face Hawk Moth.

Qin: Who is Hawk Moth?

Me: He's world famous French fashion designer and fashion critic Gabriel Agreste. His fashion designs are legendary and he's on every fashion magazine all around the world. Leni idolizes him and she got most of her great designs in clothes from his magazines.

I pulled up his information on the computer.

Qin: He's Hawk Moth? He looks like someone that wouldn't cause any harm.

Me: On the outside yes. But when he becomes Hawk Moth, he looks like this.

I showed her what Hawk Moth looks like and went over his history.

---

Gabriel lived in the Agreste mansion with his wife and son. At some point in his life, he went on a trip with his wife where they found the Butterfly Miraculous, Peacock Miraculous, and the Miraculous spellbook. The book was the last thing Mrs. Agreste gave Gabriel. She went missing within nine months before Adrien was allowed to go to school in Season 1.

In "Ladybug and Cat Noir (Origins - Part 1)", Gabriel listens as his newly acquired Kwami, Nooroo, explains the story of the Miraculouses and how they have granted people superpowers and created superheroes for centuries, stating that the Cat and Ladybug Miraculouses are the most powerful of all and whoever wields both will have absolute power. Gabriel (whose appearance is hidden by the shadows) states that he wants that power and, against Nooroo's wishes, decides to use the Moth Miraculous' power of granting superpowers to people to create supervillains in order to lure out the users of the Ladybug and Cat Miraculouses. Gabriel then forces Nooroo into the Moth Miraculous, transforming him, and takes up the identity of Hawk Moth. At the same time, Master Fu's Kwami, Wayzz, senses Nooroo's negative energy and informs Master Fu about it. Being too old to stop Hawk Moth himself, Fu decides to choose new people to wield the Ladybug and Cat Miraculous and stop Hawk Moth, eventually settling on Marinette Dupain-Cheng and Adrien Agreste.

Meanwhile, Hawk Moth finds the perfect subject to test his new found powers on; Ivan Bruel, a student who gets angry after being mocked by Lê Chiến Kim over not having the courage to tell Mylène Haprèle about how he feels about her. Hawk Moth then sends an Akuma to attach itself to the note Kim gave Ivan, and offers to give him the power to take revenge on the ones who hurt him, which he eagerly accepts, turning himself into Stoneheart; a golem who becomes bigger and more powerful the more he is attacked. After Ivan is defeated and returned to normal by the newly created Ladybug and Cat Noir, Hawk Moth is last seen laughing evilly, as they didn't capture his akuma, causing it to multiply and create multiple dormant Stonehearts throughout Paris that would eventually come to life when Ivan became re-akumatized.

In "Stoneheart (Origins - Part 2)", Hawk Moth attempts to akumatize Ivan again when he is bullied by Chloé Bourgeois (ironically, about his previous akumatization), however, he fails when Marinette comforts him and inspires him to write a song to tell Mylène about how he feels. After his attempt at this fails, Hawk Moth succeeds in giving Ivan his powers back, and, with the army of Stonehearts at his command, Hawk Moth tells Stoneheart to take revenge and to get the Miraculouses of Ladybug and Cat Noir. Later, Hawk Moth pulls Stoneheart's Akuma out of his body, rendering him comatose, and uses it to create a giant hologram of himself over the city, revealing himself as the mastermind behind Stoneheart's rampage. Hawk Moth orders Ladybug and Cat Noir to surrender their Miraculouses to him, stating that they have done enough to damage Paris, only for Ladybug to tell him not to confuse who the villain is in their situation and use her powers to purify the akumas composing the hologram. Enraged at Ladybug, Hawk Moth tells Stoneheart (who is unaware of what Hawk Moth had done to him) to destroy her and Cat Noir. Unfortunately for him, Stoneheart is defeated, and he swears vengeance on the two superheroes, vowing to steal their Miraculouses one day in order to complete his secret goal.

In "The Bubbler", upon learning that Gabriel won't allow Adrien to have a birthday party, Nino decides to try and convince him otherwise. At the Agreste mansion, Nathalie is contacted by Gabriel, who asks why she hasn't gotten Adrien a gift from him. Briefly panicking, Nathalie looks to the unsigned gift Marinette had dropped off previously, and decides to give Adrien it in Gabriel's name. Nino subsequently arrives at the Agreste mansion and attempts to formally ask Gabriel to allow his son to have a birthday party. However, he denies Nino, and declares him as a bad influence for Adrien, banning him from coming to his house again, much to his and Adrien's displeasure. Soon, this, along with seeing a father preventing his son from having fun at the park, makes Nino bitter with all adults, and Gabriel, as Hawk Moth, decides to take advantage of his emotions by sending an akuma after him.

The akuma enters Nino's bubble wand, and Hawk Moth offers to give him the power to get revenge on adults in exchange for Ladybug and Cat Noir's Miraculouses. Nino takes up the offer and becomes the Bubbler; a villain who can create powerful bubbles, who traps all the adults in Paris (excluding Hawk Moth) in bubbles, and floats them away into space. Ladybug and Cat Noir fight with Bubbler, resulting in them being trapped inside a bubble. In a fit of anger, Bubbler kicks the two heroes up into the air, sending them to space, infuriating Hawk Moth, as he didn't take their Miraculouses. Soon, Ladybug and Cat Noir manage to free themselves and defeat Bubbler, and Hawk Moth vows to capture and crush Ladybug. Later on, Adrien walks to school wearing the scarf Marinette had made, believing his father had done so instead. Despite wanting Adrien to appreciate her work, Marinette ultimately decides that it is better that Adrien is happy with his father than with her, allowing Gabriel to take credit for her gift.

In "Simon Says", Hawk Moth appears in his lair and declares that the idea of The Challenge is interesting, as the TV show has the potential to create negative emotions. Soon enough, Gabriel is called up as the opponent of hypnotist Simon Grimault, who is challenged with hypnotizing him. Gabriel, however, refuses to participate, resulting in Simon being disqualified. Simon walks out distressed and upset, and Hawk Moth sends an akuma after him. Hawk Moth offers Simon the chance to become a powerful hypnotist, resulting in him becoming Simon Says; a villain who can control people with his cards. After taking over the TVi studio, Simon Says declares that he is going to go after Gabriel Agreste, something Hawk Moth finds risky, but gets an idea from. Later, Ladybug arrives at the Agreste mansion with Nino and Adrien to warn Gabriel about Simon Says. However, Gabriel refuses to listen, and sends Adrien and Nino to Adrien's room. He then apologizes to Ladybug for Adrien's behavior, stating that he's just like his mother; "way too overly dramatic".

Soon afterwards, Gabriel catches Ladybug admiring a portrait of Adrien, and says that his son is perfect. He then shows a strange interest in Ladybug's earrings, and reaches to get a closer look at them, although Cat Noir calls Ladybug before he can. Cat Noir arrives as Simon Says' minions attack the mansion, and tells Gabriel to activate the mansion's defense systems. After doing so, Gabriel asks how Cat Noir even knew his house had a defense system, and he lies, stating that a house like his is bound to have one. As Simon Says' minions break through the mansion's defenses, Cat Noir tells Gabriel to hide in his atrium where he will be safe, but he boldly refuses, stating that no one gives him orders, not even a superhero. Angry, Cat Noir yells to Gabriel that he is in danger like everyone else and to just do what he tells him, leaving him in shock. Gabriel then remarks to Cat Noir that he reminds him of someone, before looking to his wife's portrait after he leaves. As Simon Says gleefully overlooks the mansion's defenses being overtaken, Hawk Moth reenters the scene and tells his minion that going after Gabriel is not a good idea, and that he shouldn't forget their deal.

After this, several of Simon Says' minions break into the mansion and capture Gabriel. Simon Says then has Gabriel brought back to the TVI studio, and hypnotizes him into thinking he's a butterfly. Ladybug and Cat Noir enter the room to confront Simon Says, who hypnotizes Gabriel again, this time into thinking he's an airplane, and sends him to jump off the studio roof. However, Ladybug and Cat Noir manage to defeat Simon Says, and undo the effects of his actions right before Gabriel can jump. Ladybug and Cat Noir quickly head up to check on him, who shakes hands with Cat Noir and takes note of his ring. Cat Noir and Ladybug subsequently leave, leaving the suspicious Gabriel behind. After getting home, Gabriel enters his son's room and hugs him as he is looking at photos of his mother. Gabriel takes note of Adrien's ring and asks about it, and Adrien ignores the question, retorting if its the only thing he's never noticed about him. Gabriel then turns and leaves, saying he's glad everything worked out for the best.

Season 2

In "The Collector", after learning from Master Fu that whoever previously owned the Miraculous Spellbook also likely owns the Moth and Peacock Miraculouses as well, Marinette, to her immense disappointment, begins to speculate that Adrien might be Hawk Moth. At the same time, Gabriel and Nathalie confront Adrien on him stealing the Miraculous Spellbook in "Volpina". Adrien tries to explain that he took the book so he could learn more about his father, though, after revealing that he lost the book, Gabriel angrily states that the book was his source of inspiration. To punish Adrien for his actions, Gabriel tells him that he won't be returning to school and will be homeschooled by Nathalie again from now on. Meanwhile, Marinette begins to suspect Gabriel is Hawk Moth upon realizing that Adrien had taken the book from him.

A short while later, Gabriel seemingly throws a tantrum and destroys the art in his atrium. Hawk Moth senses Gabriel's frustration because of this and sends out an akuma, which he tells to stay close. Hawk Moth then detransforms, revealing that he is actually Gabriel himself. Nooroo questions why the akuma didn't fly away, and Gabriel explains that he has to become someone else in order to lead Ladybug and Cat Noir away from discovering his identity, temporarily renouncing the Moth Miraculous as well. Gabriel then grabs his sketchbook and allows the akuma to enter it, transforming himself into The Collector; a villain who can trap anyone or anything inside his book. The Collector subsequently goes on a rampage across Paris, trapping dozens of people and historical monuments as sketches inside his book. Later, when Ladybug and Cat Noir go to the Agreste Mansion to confront Gabriel on being Hawk Moth (Cat Noir also realizing that Hawk Moth's signature butterfly logo is also the logo of his father's company), The Collector encounters them and engages them in combat.

During the fight, as Gabriel intended, Ladybug and Cat Noir abandon the idea that he is actually Hawk Moth, due to him being akumatized. Ladybug and Cat Noir soon defeat The Collector by filling all the pages in his book with projectiles and de-akumatize him. Gabriel feigns amnesia and thanks Ladybug and Cat Noir for their help, but as soon as they leave, he smiles maliciously to himself and says that they will be seeing him very soon. Later on, Marinette successfully returns the Miraculous Spellbook to Gabriel in order to get him to unground Adrien, which he does. When asked by Marinette, Gabriel states that he found the book while overseas with his wife, and tells Adrien soon afterwards that the book was the last thing his mother gave to him before she disappeared, which is why he was so protective of it. Afterwards, Gabriel looks over a digital copy of the book with Nathalie. Nathalie questions why he needed to get the book back if he already had a copy, and he states that he did so to protect his secret. Then, using secret buttons on the portrait of his wife, Gabriel re-enters his lair and transforms back into Hawk Moth. Hawk Moth monologes about how he prevented Ladybug and Cat Noir from discovering his identity, remarking that nothing will stop him from getting their Miraculouses now.

In "Robostus", Hawk Moth senses the sadness and disappointment of Max Kanté's robot Markov when he is unjustly locked away in Mr. Damocles' safe for being a "toy", noting that his emotions aren't as artificial as they seem while sending an akuma after him. Once the akuma attaches itself to Markov's circuitry, Hawk Moth, referring to the robot as Robostus, offers to grant him the power to bring technology to life in exchange for Ladybug and Cat Noir's Miraculouses. To his surprise and annoyance, Markov curiously badgers Hawk Moth with questions regarding what Miraculouses are, what they can do, and why Hawk Moth wants them, driving him to reveal that one can grant their wishes by combining the two objects. Markov becomes excited with the idea of granting his wishes, only for Hawk Moth to insist that the Miraculouses are for him to use. Markov finally accepts the deal following this, becoming Robostus.

Later, once Robostus has Ladybug and Cat Noir trapped and prepares to take their Miraculouses, he states that he shall use them to grant his wish to become a human like Max. Hawk Moth reminds Robostus that the Miraculouses are his to use and threatens to remove his powers; however, Robostus betrays Hawk Moth and uses his technological manipulation to turn his lair's defense systems against him. As his defense system begins to attack him, Hawk Moth, revealing his cane as truly being a swordstick, pulls out a blade and fights off the defense system. Once Robostus is defeated and Paris' technology turns back to normal, Hawk Moth, completely exhausted from fighting off his defense system, notes that he made a mistake in akumatizing Markov, yet will not make any more.

At Master Fu's massage shop, upon being asked why Hawk Moth wants the Ladybug and Cat Miraculous, Fu informs Marinette that a person can obtain ultimate power, or simply put, can make a wish come true by wearing the two Miraculouses together and using a special incantation from the Spellbook. Marinette, thrilled with the idea, suggests using the wishes to stop wars, end poverty, and defeat Hawk Moth, but Fu explains that the universe must keep it's balance and that every wish could have consequences, suggesting that if Robostus wished to be human, someone would therefore lose their humanity in return. Now knowing the full scale of things, Marinette vows to not let anyone take her Miraculous, especially not Hawk Moth.

In "Gigantitan", after Marinette's plan to attract Adrien unintentionally frustrates his bodyguard, Hawk Moth senses his employee's distress and sends an akuma after him. The akuma attempts to latch on to Adrien's bodyguard; however, he calms down upon seeing Adrien, making the akuma fly right past him. Seeking out the nearest source of negative emotions, the akuma latches on to the bracelet of an infant boy named August, who was throwing a tantrum over lollipops. Hawk Moth is utterly baffled by this turn of events, yet goes along with them regardless, deeming August's emotions pure enough to work. Hawk Moth enters a confused conversation with the young child, who has a hard time understanding his requests and instead desires to go after the lollipops he had been denied rather than the Miraculouses, but ends up accepting his deal regardless, transforming into the titanic villain Gigantitan.

Once Ladybug and Cat Noir initiate their plan to stop Gigantitan by luring him under the Eiffel Tower, Hawk Moth lashes out at his minion for playing with cars instead of attacking Ladybug and Cat Noir. Despite his yelling, Gigantitan completely ignores Hawk Moth and merely continues playing, leaving Hawk Moth enraged. Eventually, Ladybug ends up destroying August's bracelet, releasing the akuma, and Hawk Moth vows to one day create a villain big enough to flatten her and Cat Noir.

In "The Dark Owl", Hawk Moth senses the sadness and disappointment of Mr. Damocles, who had been humiliated by the media for attempting to become a superhero called "The Owl", and sends an akuma after him. The akuma enters Damocles' computer and Hawk Moth offers him the chance to become a real superhero in exchange for Ladybug and Cat Noir's Miraculouses, which he accepts, transforming into Dark Owl.

Dark Owl soon lures Ladybug and Cat Noir to the Parc des Princes by threatening to drop a bus full of zoo animals onto a helpless kitten (the whole setup ultimately revealed as a holographic simulation) and succeeds in trapping them inside a shipping container which slowly begins filling with melted whipped cream. Dark Owl threatens to drown the two unless they give up their Miraculouses, and, having no other way out, the two heroes detransform and seemingly give up. Dark Owl, upon receiving the Miraculouses, puts them in a drone directed to Hawk Moth's lair and spares Ladybug and Cat Noir, declaring himself as the new superhero of Paris.

As the drone enters his lair, Hawk Moth takes out the Miraculouses and ecstatically prepares to gain ultimate power, only to realize that the Miraculouses are fakes (which Marinette had created earlier in an attempt to make Damocles feel like a real hero) and screams out in rage. Hawk Moth contacts Dark Owl and tells him of the ruse as Ladybug and Cat Noir free themselves. Hawk Moth then gives Dark Owl another chance to get the Miraculouses, although he is ultimately defeated. Following this, Hawk Moth remarks that each new villain he creates gets closer to stealing the Miraculouses, and one day he will succeeded.

In "Sapotis", Hawk Moth senses the sadness of Ella and Etta Césaire after Alya angrily punishes them for causing mischief and refusing to go to bed, stating that children should be able to do what they want wile sending an akuma to them. The akuma enters Ella and Etta's hat as they are fighting over it, and Hawk Moth promises the twins that he will allow them to do whatever they want. Ella and Etta bombard Hawk Moth with childish desires, and, after calming them down, Hawk Moth states that they won't receive punishment for their actions so long as they retrieve Ladybug and Cat Noir's Miraculouses. The two comply and transform into Sapotis; two creatures that can duplicate indefinitely by eating.

Ladybug and Cat Noir are gradually overwhelmed by the Sapoti clones, and with her Lucky Charm, Ladybug gets the idea to seek Master Fu for help, the latter allowing her to take a Miraculous and temporarily grant it to someone she trusts. Ladybug picks the Fox Miraculous and grants it to Alya, who takes up the identity of Rena Rouge and soon helps her defeat a group of Sapoti clones who are attacking Cat Noir. Hawk Moth is shocked by the appearance of a new superhero, realizing that he was right about there being other Miraculouses in Paris, and sends the entire Sapoti army after Ladybug, Cat Noir and Rena Rouge. Soon enough, Ladybug and Cat Noir, with help from Rena Rouge's illusion powers, fool the Sapotis into heading towards a fake amusement park, while Hawk Moth futilely attempts to convince them they're being tricked. Once the real Sapotis' helmets are destroyed and Ella and Etta have been deakumatized, Hawk Moth is not entirely dissatisfied with his loss, thanking Ladybug for showing him that there are other Miraculouses in Paris, and likely a Guardian as well.

In "Gorizilla", Adrien approaches Gabriel as he is working and asks for a moment of his time, to which Gabriel complies, stating that he'll have Nathalie tell him when he's available. Dismayed, Adrien states that it will probably be too late by then, and, after noticing his son fidgeting with his ring, Gabriel sends him off, reminding him to practice his piano. Gabriel then brings up a Ladyblog video of Cat Noir, pausing when his ring is close to the screen, and a picture of Adrien, zooming in on his ring, and reels in shock upon realizing how similar the two are, coming to the conclusion that Adrien might be Cat Noir. Gabriel storms into Adrien's room, only to find that he is gone, having left a recording of the piano playing and the window open. After raging at Nathalie and Adrien's bodyguard for letting him sneak out under their watch, Gabriel orders them to find his son. Later on, Gabriel is accidentally called by Wayhem using Adrien's bodyguard's phone, and orders him to return the phone before he has him arrested.

Following this, Gabriel enters his lair, and Nooroo asks him if he really believes his son could be Cat Noir. Gabriel replies that he isn't sure, but there is one way the both of them can find out, and transforms into Hawk Moth. Hawk Moth calls Adrien's bodyguard on his phone and insults him for being unable to find Adrien as he is being badgered by Roger Raincomprix, making him vulnerable to akumatization. Hawk Moth subsequently akumatizes the bodyguard into Gorizilla; a giant ape-like villain with a superhuman sense of smell. At the same time, Marinette and Adrien are at the movie theater, watching Solitude: a film starring Adrien's mother Emilie, which Adrien wanted to go see but was convinced his father wouldn't let him. However, Gorizilla appears and captures Adrien, and Hawk Moth tells his minion to keep holding on to him until Ladybug and Cat Noir arrive. When only Ladybug arrives, Hawk Moth's suspicions are furthered, and he orders Gorizilla to take Ladybug's Miraculous.

Ladybug manages to free Adrien from Gorizilla's grasp and tells Adrien to jump quickly, but she is caught before she can save him from falling. Hawk Moth begs his son to transform and save himself if he really is Cat Noir, but is ultimately forced to have Gorizilla let Ladybug go to prevent Adrien from hitting the ground. Afterwards, Hawk Moth orders Gorizilla to get both of them back, and later sees Cat Noir defending "Adrien" (really Wayhem wearing a helmet to conceal his identity) from his minion. Dropping all suspicions he had of Adrien being Cat Noir, Hawk Moth commands Gorizilla to take Cat Noir's Miraculous, only for him to be defeated instead. Hawk Moth swears to one day uncover his enemies' secret identities so he can make them suffer eternally. Later, Gabriel meets with Adrien and asks him to sit down, and begins playing Solitude for the both of them to watch. He tells his son that he only needed to ask, and that he mustn't keep secrets from him, so that he doesn't start imagining things about him. As they are watching the film, a secret repository is seen underneath the Agreste mansion.

In "Captain Hardrock", Gabriel and Nathalie watch Adrien playing piano. Adrien ends up faltering during his song and Gabriel tells him to stop, wondering if he has been keeping up with his lessons. Adrien says that he might improve if allowed to play with other people, but Gabriel insists that Agrestes are "soloists" and forces him to stay and play for him again later. Adrien is distressed by this, reminding his father he promised to let him play at the music festival with his friends, though Gabriel disregards his claim, citing that his friends likely corroded his skill anyway.

After Roger Raincomprix gives Mrs. Couffaine many tickets, Hawk Moth sends an akuma after her, turning her into Captain Hardrock. Hawk Moth vows for victory when Ladybug and Cat Noir defeat Captain Hardrock. Later, Adrien is about to play, but requests to play it as a duet with Gabriel. Gabriel reluctantly agrees. After they're done, Adrien smiles at him. Gabriel tells him he can go to his friends' concert. Adrien thanks his father and hugs him.

In "Zombizou", Hawk Moth senses Marinette's feeling of anger and injustice after she believes Miss Bustier is going to punish her for Chloé's actions, and sends an akuma after her. However, when Miss Bustier explains that Marinette isn't being punished and that Chloé just needs a good example in order to become a better person, Marinette's negative emotions weaken and drive the akuma away, although Hawk Moth orders it to get closer. Once she is done explaining why it is important for people like Marinette to help others, Miss Bustier spots the akuma and tries to shoo it away, not realizing that her fear of harm to her students now leaves her vulnerable to akumatization, a fact which delights Hawk Moth. The akuma possesses Miss Bustier's lip balm, and she attempts to fight off Hawk Moth's influence. Despite her efforts, Hawk Moth takes control of Miss Bustier by convincing her that he wants to help spread love in the world, and transforms her into Zombizou; a villain who can spread an infectious mind control by blowing kisses.

Zombizou soon transforms almost everyone in the school into mindless zombies who begin to rampage and infect the rest of Paris. Hawk Moth later resurfaces while she is following Ladybug, Cat Noir and the remaining students to the Eiffel Tower, reminding her not to forget their agreement. When Ladybug and Chloé are cornered at the top of the tower, Hawk Moth ecstatically remarks that "victory has never been so close", but Ladybug ultimately manages to defeat Zombizou and return everything to normal. Upon his defeat, Hawk Moth states that, if what Zombizou had said about love conquering all is correct, then there is no doubt that his most cherished wish will come true.

In "Syren", after Ondine is unknowingly rejected by Lê Chiến Kim, Hawk Moth senses her sadness and sends an akuma after her. The akuma possesses her bracelet, and Hawk Moth offers Ondine the power to turn Paris into an underwater kingdom for her and Kim, provided she takes Ladybug and Cat Noir's Miraculouses. Ondine agrees and turns into the villain Syren, who quickly floods Paris and captures Kim for herself. Ladybug tries to rescue Kim from Syren, and while she is struggling to do so Hawk Moth remarks that every new environment brings a new set of rules, and Ladybug therefore won't be able to beat Syren, since she can't breath underwater. He then asks Syren if she is going to let Ladybug separate her from Kim, resulting in Syren blasting Ladybug away.

In order to combat Syren, Ladybug goes to Master Fu and helps him unlock the recipe to give her underwater abilities, which he provides to her and later Cat Noir. The two heroes confront Syren with their new powers, and Hawk Moth confirms his suspicions of the Miraculouses having hidden powers, subsequently ordering Syren to take the Miraculouses before Ladybug and Cat Noir take Kim from her, although she is defeated. Later that day, Gabriel is confused to see Master Fu, under the name Mr. Chan, who claims to be a substitute for Adrien's Chinese tutor. In his lair, Gabriel furiously demands that Nooroo tell him how to unlock new powers, and Nooroo claims that Kwamis don't know the recipes to do so. Knowing the recipes must be in the Miraculous Spellbook, he asks if Nooroo can read it, although he insists only Guardians can. Gabriel decides that he must find the Guardian to unlock new powers (ironically unaware he is in his own house).

In "Frightningale", Gabriel forces his son to play Cat Noir in Clara Nightingale's new music video, believing that it will help promote his stores in Korea and China and because Clara has been a supporter of his brand for a long time. When Adrien leaves the mask that comes with the Cat Noir costume behind, Gabriel, who is watching over everything through a tablet, asks where the mask is, to which Adrien replies that he couldn't find it. Later on, Chloé auditions for the role of Ladybug and nails it, and Clara asks him what he thinks. Although he believes that Marinette would've been better (as she was offered the part earlier but rejected it), he decides that they have no choice but to use Chloé for the video. However, Chloé soon loses the part when Marinette changes her mind and she has her father cancel Clara's music video, causing the musician to burst into tears. Gabriel goes into his lair, transforms into Hawk Moth, and akumatizes Clara into Frightningale, a villain who can turn people into metallic statues if they don't sing, dance, or rhyme. Hawk Moth tells Frightningale to strike Ladybug and Cat Noir as it'll be easier to get their Miraculouses that way, and although she does, she is eventually defeated.

In "Reverser", Hawk Moth senses a broken friendship between Marc and Nathaniel, and sends an akuma after Marc. The akuma enters a page torn from his book, akumatizing him into Reverser, a villain with the power to reverse certain qualities in people. Hawk Moth then sends him after Ladybug and Cat Noir's Miraculouses. During an ensuing fight with Ladybug, Reverser manages to hit her with his superpowers, making her madly clumsy in the process. Upon seeing this, Hawk Moth praises Reverser and orders him to use Ladybug's newly clumsiness to his advantage to get her Miraculous. Before Reverser can do so, Cat Noir arrives, only to be hit by Reverser's superpowers as well, making him afraid of everything around him in the process. The two heroes ends up failing into the river, so Hawk Moth orders Reverser to find them. But no longer seeing the heroes as threats however, Reverser decides to first go to look for Marinette and Nathaniel for revenge, which Hawk Moth reluctantly allows. However, Reverser is ultimately defeated and Hawk Moth swears that someday he will finally win and when he does, the order of things will reverse.

In "Anansi", Hawk Moth sends an akuma after Nora Césaire when she becomes frustrated with Alya for not taking the possible dangers around her seriously. When the akuma infects her head gear, Hawk Moth offers to help Nora show Alya and her friends how dangerous the world really is in exchange for Ladybug and Cat Noir's Miraculouses and she accepts, transforming into Anansi; a spider-themed villain. Anansi soon succeeds in trapping Alya and Cat Noir in her spiderweb and Hawk Moth orders her to grab Cat Noir's Miraculous. Anansi quickly becomes frustrated at not being able to find Cat Noir's "earrings" until an annoyed Hawk Moth tells her that Cat Noir's Miraculous is his ring while Ladybug's Miraculous are her earrings. As she is trying to get a hold of Cat Noir's ring, Anansi is challenged by Nino, using Cat Noir's staff, to a fight, which she accepts, although Hawk Moth has his patience tested once more at seeing his minion waste her time toying with him.

Anansi, following a brief fight, tosses Nino away and goes back to trying to steal the ring, only for Cat Noir to call upon his Cataclysm. Hawk Moth advises Anansi not to touch the ring while it is charged with destructive energy and to wait until Cat Noir has transformed back instead, much to her frustration. However, her period of resting is interrupted when Ladybug returns with Nino, the latter using the Turtle Miraculous to become the hero Carapace. The two confront her, with Ladybug challenging her to a fight and promising to give up her Miraculous if she loses. Hawk Moth orders Anansi not to listen as Ladybug is clearly planting a trap, but she ignores him, believing that Ladybug doesn't stand a chance against her. Anansi and Ladybug fight, the latter using her agility and taunting to trick Anansi into destroying the archway holding up her web while Carapace protects everyone with his Shellter power, leading to Cat Noir destroying her headgear and Ladybug de-akumatizing her. In response to this, Hawk Moth comments that, while Ladybug may be gaining herself new allies, she may one day find herself outnumbered.

In "Sandboy", Gabriel is seen working in his atrium. After being wished a good night by Nathalie, Nooroo attempts to sneak away from him; however, he is unable to do so and is reminded by Gabriel that he cannot be more than a few feet away from him nor speak to anyone else. Nooroo reminds his master that it's his birthday, but Gabriel doesn't care and declares that, since he can't follow his rules, he's going to have to make them even simpler, removing Nooroo's mouth so that he can't communicate at all. Immediately afterwards, he places Nooroo's mouth back, telling him it was a joke and that he's not that cruel. The Moth Miraculous then begins to glow, alerting Gabriel that someone in Paris has prominent negative emotions.

After transforming into Hawk Moth, he sends an akuma out after a boy who is suffering intense fear from a nightmare, transforming him into Sandboy; a villain who can bring people's nightmares to life. Sandboy wreaks havoc across Paris, but neither Marinette or Adrien are able to transform due to Plagg, Tikki, and the other kwamis trying to communicate with Nooroo from within the Miracle Box. During the chaos, a confused Hawk Moth takes note of the heroes' absence and wonders what is going on, only to be alerted to the kwamis' attempt to contact Nooroo. Realizing what they are trying to do, Hawk Moth proclaims that he is going to find them and make them all his slaves, just like Nooroo. He overpowers their attempt to communicate to track them down; however, the kwamis shut off communication before he can find them.

Now knowing that the kwamis are located somewhere near the right bank of the Seine, Hawk Moth redirects Sandboy and tells him to find and capture them. As Plagg is racing back towards Adrien, Sandboy spots him, and Hawk Moth, recognizing him as Cat Noir's kwami, orders his minion to either capture or follow him to his owner, though Plagg ultimately evades Sandboy. Hawk Moth, knowing that Ladybug and Cat Noir will arrive soon, tells Sandboy to capture their Miraculouses. Ultimately, in spite of having to deal with their worst fears brought to life (Ladybug's being losing her powers and Cat Noir's a nightmarish counterpart of his partner), Ladybug and Cat Noir succeed in defeating Sandboy, causing Hawk Moth to shout out in frustration. Later, in his lair, Gabriel tells Nooroo that he hopes he liked his friends' birthday gift, as he now knows that the kwamis are both close and numerous. He then proclaims that, if he finds them, he'll steal all of their Miraculouses and thus have unlimited powers at his disposal, stating he'll even fight a whole army of superheroes to do it if he has to and that Ladybug and Cat Noir won't ever be able to stop him again.

In "Style Queen (Queens' Fight - Part 1)", Gabriel holds his yearly fashion show, which draws his long term business partner and Chloé Bourgeois's mother, Audrey, back into Paris. On the news, Nadja Chamack asks the question if Audrey's presence will bring Gabriel, who never appears in public, out of hiding, and he, watching the news, turns off his monitor screen. Not long afterwards, Nathalie informs Audrey that her seat has been reserved in the second row instead of the front row, enraging her and prompting her to attempt to call Gabriel about her seating. However, Gabriel ignores her, and turns to his wife Emile, who is seen in a comatose state and kept inside a coffin within the repository underneath the Agreste mansion. He apologizes to her for taking so long, but is now assured that he will be able to take Ladybug and Cat Noir's Miraculouses, stating that Audrey has more spite in her than anyone he's ever akumatized before and that she will be his masterpiece.

Gabriel soon transforms into Hawk Moth and sends an akuma after Audrey, which latches onto the rose on top of her hat. He offers to help her get revenge on those who disrespected her, and transforms her into Style Queen; a villain made of glitter who can turn people into gold statues. Style Queen quickly attacks the fashion show, looking to get back at Gabriel, although, finding that he is not there, she decides to attack Adrien instead, turning him into a statue. Hawk Moth is shocked at this happening, yet reluctantly gets over it, believing there was no other choice, and tells Style Queen to get Ladybug and Cat Noir's Miraculous as soon as possible. Ladybug and Style Queen battle soon afterwards, with Ladybug unable to harm Style Queen due to her glitter composition, though, before the former can be turned into a gold statue, Chloé distracts her mother by offering to show her where Gabriel lives. Style Queen whisks the both of them to the Agreste mansion and fails to find Gabriel, with Hawk Moth claiming that he is hidden somewhere and protected by Ladybug, and that he will show if Ladybug and Cat Noir cannot save his son.

As a result, Style Queen takes both Chloé and Adrien to the Eiffel Tower, where she imprisons Adrien inside a force-field, threatening to slowly dissolve him unless Ladybug and Cat Noir arrive to stop her, also hiding the rose containing her akuma within the force-field as well. Ladybug arrives, only to escape upon realizing that she needs help to defeat Style Queen, which doesn't concern Hawk Moth, as he needs Cat Noir to be with her anyway. Ladybug later returns to the Eiffel Tower with the Bee Miraculous, and Hawk Moth is confused to see her without Cat Noir, yet tells Style Queen to take her Miraculous anyways. Ladybug manages to beat Style Queen with the help of Plagg, however, she loses the Bee Miraculous in the process. In his lair, Hawk Moth remarks that Style Queen was his greatest masterpiece and asks how she could've failed, and, by extension, how he could've failed as well. Disheartened, he asks himself what he is to do now. Back in his atelier, Nathalie tells Gabriel he took a big risk regarding his son, with him lamenting that he wishes he could tell Adrien about why he is going to such lengths, all while looking at a portrait of his wife.

In "Queen Wasp (Queens' Fight - Part 2)", Gabriel is seen in his repository again, regretfully telling his wife that, although he does not want to break the promise he made to her, he cannot keep risking their son and, with Style Queen's defeat, feels like he has done everything he possibly could've and will never be able to acquire Ladybug and Cat Noir's Miraculouses. Saddened, he renounces Nooroo and sulks inside his atelier, where he is comforted by Nathalie. Following this, Gabriel makes a surprise appearance during his fashion show, and hugs his son on the runway. After the show, Gabriel greets Audrey and apologizes for what happened earlier, claiming he fired the one responsible for the seating mix-up, and only the front row is suitable for her. When Audrey brings up the hat Marinette created, Gabriel tells her that she had won a fashion contest with it, and Audrey offers to take Marinette back to New York with her to design for her. Finally pushed over the edge by her mother valuing Marinette over her, Chloé reveals that she had found the Bee Miraculous and transforms into Queen Bee before everyone-much to Gabriel's astonishment-deciding to become Paris' new superhero in order to finally impress her mother. Gabriel immediately decides he and Adrien should head home, and, on the way there, Adrien says that he hopes Chloé won't do anything foolish. Coldly, Gabriel replies that he's sure Ladybug and Cat Noir will deal with her. Once home, Gabriel enters his lair and revokes his renouncement, telling Nooroo he has a unique opportunity to akumatize a Miraculous user, and transforms.

Sure enough, Chloé becomes vulnerable when she is berated by Ladybug, Cat Noir and her mother after creating and failing to stop an out of control subway train, and Hawk Moth sends an akuma which infects her Miraculous. He offers to make her Ladybug and Cat Noir's most powerful enemy, telling her that she will beat them, as she is truly exceptional, transforming her into Queen Wasp; a villain controlling an army of paralytic wasps. When Ladybug and Cat Noir confront her, Hawk Moth compliments his minion, claiming she truly is exceptional. Then, while she is bragging about herself, he reappears and says, to claim total victory, she must steal Ladybug and Cat Noir's Miraculouses. However, Queen Wasp is ultimately defeated, and Ladybug and Cat Noir take back the Bee Miraculous while encouraging Chloé to be better. Gabriel returns to his repository, where he tells his wife that Ladybug and Cat Noir have made a mistake today and that there will be others, and soon they will be together again. He returns to his atelier, where Nathalie questions him on his promise of giving up his Hawk Moth identity. Gabriel tells her that he can't give up, as he misses his wife too much.

In "Catalyst (Heroes' Day - Part 1)", Adrien sees his father looking at a statue of his mother before he leaves for school. Afterwards, Nathalie approaches him, who says that he won't forgive himself if his current plan fails. Nathalie assures him that his plan is perfect, as his current target, Lila Rossi, has been growing her hatred of Ladybug for months and will be angrier than ever to see her everywhere on Heroes' Day. Gabriel asks Nathalie if she really wants to go along with his plan, and she assures him that she'll always be there for him. Later, the two are seen in Hawk Moth's lair, with him remarking that everything is going according to plan. As predicted, Lila becomes angrier and angrier at all the praise

Ladybug is receiving all over Paris, culminating in her seeing an interview featuring Gabriel, who announces that, out of gratitude for Ladybug saving both him and his son on numerous occasions, he has financed a movie about her. He once more praises Ladybug and dismisses fake heroes such as Volpina, driving Lila over the edge.

Gabriel subsequently transforms and sends an akuma after Lila, and offers to give her the power to make her dreams reality, transforming her back into Volpina. Using her illusion powers, Volpina makes everyone think Cat Noir is fighting an akumatized Ladybug atop of the parade balloons, which culminates in Ladybug destroying the former with his own Cataclysm and then stealing his Miraculous. Hawk Moth senses that this action has imbued fear and sadness into all of Paris, and tells Volpina that she has played her role perfectly and that they'll see each other again soon. Following this, he removes Lila's akuma and creates another one, and asks Nathalie if she's ready. Nathalie replies that she is and Hawk Moth allows the akuma to possess her tablet, akumatizing her into Catalyst; a villain capable of increase his own power. Immediately afterwards, Catalyst empowers and transforms him into Scarlet Moth, giving him the ability to create as many akumas as he wants. Hawk Moth thus creates an army of akumas and sends them out to akumatize everyone who was affected by "Ladybug"'s actions.

The akumas begin rampaging across Paris, re-akumatizing almost all of Hawk Moth's previous victims into red versions of themselves. When Gorizilla resurfaces and captures Adrien, Hawk Moth tells him not to let him go, as his son's safety is his main priority, and then orders all of his minions to come to him. At the same time, he tells Vanisher to track Ladybug, as she'll no doubt need to summon more heroes to help her and thus will lead them to the Guardian of the Miraculouses. However, Hawk Moth soon loses contact with Vanisher on account of her being de-akumatized by Ladybug. Even so, he figures that Ladybug won't be able to discover the rest of his plan. Ladybug and Cat Noir summon Rena Rouge, Carapace and Queen Bee to help them, and they all gather together at the same time all the villains have assembled at the Eiffel Tower. Hawk Moth descends onto the tower, appearing in public for the first time, and Catalyst wishes him luck. Prime Queen sends a drone up to Hawk Moth, who broadcasts to all of Paris that, with all the villains he now controls, it is certain he will get Ladybug and Cat Noir's Miraculouses. Seeing this, all of the heroes prepare to fight Hawk Moth and his army.

In "Mayura (Heroes' Day - Part 2)", Prime Queen continues her broadcasting of Hawk Moth and his army, who are all chanting his name. Catalyst tells him that it is time to move forwards, and Hawk Moth, knowing Ladybug and Cat Noir are no doubt nearby, offers them one last chance to surrender their Miraculouses to him if they want to save Paris. However, upon making themselves known, Ladybug, Cat Noir and their allies firmly refuse and prepare to fight. Deciding to satisfy their desire to fight him, Hawk Moth gets Guitar Villain and Frighteningale to play appropriate music and sics his army on the heroes, who begin to strategically fight and de-akumatize them. Despite this, Hawk Moth tells Catalyst that everything is going according to plan, and she remarks that its joyous to let the heroes think victory is achievable when it is impossible. Hawk Moth subsequently orders Dark Cupid to imbue Butler Jean, André and Audrey Bourgeois with hatred. He then infects them all with akumas and, after offering to give them the power to punish Chloé for her disobedience, transforms them back into Despair Bear, Malediktator and Style Queen respectively.

After dealing with the wave of villains Hawk Moth had sent to defeat them, Ladybug uses her Lucky Charm and summons a tennis racket, beginning to formulate a plan on how to defeat all the villains. Unfortunately, Hawk Moth destroys her plan before it is formed by having Dark Cupid yet again use his powers on everyone who had been de-akumatized in order to re-akumatize them. He then unleashes another massive swarm of akumas over the heroes as they are dealing with his minions, which begin to target Rena Rouge after she is struck by one of Dark Cupid's arrows. Queen Bee attempts to defend Rena and Carapace from the other villains while they are fighting each other, claiming she will never be done in by her emotions, only for Hawk Moth to remark she should "never say never" and send in Style Queen and Malediktator to distract her, allowing Rena to overpower Carapace and be akumatized into Rena Rage. Seeing this, Carapace becomes distressed and gets akumatized into Shell Shock, and Queen Bee is akumatized back into Queen Wasp due to Despair Bear and Dark Cupid not long afterwards. Hawk Moth quickly becomes totally assured of his victory, though, before they can be defeated, Ladybug and Cat Noir escape into the sewers via the latter's Cataclysm.

Still confident, Hawk Moth orders Animan to track the heroes down using his sense of smell. At the same time, Ladybug and Cat Noir theorize on how Hawk Moth has increased his powers, and after defeating Syren and Animan using their underwater abilities, decide to destroy his cane as it appears to be the source of his power. While they're still underwater, Hawk Moth has Frozer try to freeze Paris and the Seine in order to trap them, but this fails, angering him. On Hawk Moth's broadcast, Ladybug declares its time to show Paris that the real Ladybug is back before unleashing the purified akumas, restoring hope to the city, and Hawk Moth angrily tells Prime Queen to shut her cameras off. As the villains rampage throughout the city trying to get Ladybug and Cat Noir, the citizens of Paris, lead by Nora Césaire, stand up and help fight against them. Not unnerved by the citizen's involvement, Hawk Moth sends his giants-Horrificator, Stoneheart, Gigantitan and Gorizilla-out into the city to get Ladybug and Cat Noir, though they too are intercepted. While this happens, Hawk Moth makes contact with Catalyst, remarking on how the heroes are proving more resilient than predicted, and decides to move on to the next phase of his plan.

After defeating Gamer and Glaciator, Ladybug and Cat Noir arrive on the Eiffel Tower and confront Hawk Moth, Cat Noir summoning his Cataclysm and Ladybug summoning a Miraculous box using her Lucky Charm. Hawk Moth asks the heroes if they're sure they aren't making a mistake, as his wish could be extremely beneficial to the world, though Ladybug tells him of the consequences of every wish, asking what he wants to wish for in the first place, with him saying that they should hand over their Miraculouses if they want to find out. As this happens, its revealed that "Hawk Moth" is really just an illusion created by Volpina to distract the heroes while Dark Cupid shoots them with his arrows and Hawk Moth akumatizes them, Catalyst ecstatic for their almost certain victory. Holding out the box, Ladybug tells the fake Hawk Moth that he can still do what's right and become a hero, only to spot the real Hawk Moth sneaking up on them thanks to the box's reflective cover, allowing her and Cat Noir to avoid the akumas and easily beat Dark Cupid. Enraged, Hawk Moth begins to fight the two heroes, resulting in Ladybug stealing his cane, allowing Cat Noir to destroy it, thus removing his new powers and de-akumatizing all of his victims at once.

With his grand plan foiled and now with nothing left to lose, Hawk Moth decides to take the opportunity to grab Ladybug and Cat Noir's Miraculouses himself, defeating them both with ease. He taunts them both for their inexperience and inability to hold onto their superhero forms, but before he can get their Miraculouses, he is stopped by Carapace as he and the other heroes arrive. Ladybug immediately nets the tower in her yo-yo string and Queen Bee summons her Venom power to incapacitate Hawk Moth, prepared to defeat him once and for all. However, before he can be paralyzed, Nathalie, having used the Peacock Miraculous in Gabriel's safe to become the supervillain Mayura, sends a feather out to the Eiffel Tower, which infects Hawk Moth's cane. Hawk Moth is horrified upon realizing what Nathalie has done yet reluctantly accepts her help, allowing her to create a giant moth creature out of his despair which blows the heroes and the yo-yo string away before being destroyed. Hawk Moth uses the opportunity to escape as Ladybug and Cat Noir quickly realize that he has an ally in the holder of the Peacock Miraculous. Noticing that he has escaped, the heroes decide to use the remnants of his cane to track him, though find themselves unable to when the injured and exhausted Hawk Moth detransforms, causing the cane to disappear. Back in his mansion, Gabriel confronts the injured Nathalie and reminds her that he told her to never to use the Peacock Miraculous, as it is damaged and far too dangerous to wield. Nathalie assures him that she had to save him and wants to help him until the end, and Gabriel thanks her for everything she's done.

In "Chameleon", Hawk Moth senses Marinette's frustration at Lila's lying and decides to send an akuma after her, only for it to fly away when she calms down. Recognizing that Marinette is no longer upset, Hawk Moth orders his akuma to wait, as her negative emotions will surely reemerge. As Hawk Moth expected, Marinette returns to being distressed once Lila threatens to ruin her life, making her vulnerable to akumatization again. However, with help from Tikki, she succeeds in driving the akuma off. Hawk Moth is shocked by this but quickly feels a new emergence of negative emotions that he can take advantage of. Said emotions happen to belong to Lila, due to her annoyance at Adrien pointing out her lies and seemingly trying to act like a superhero. Upon seeing the akuma in the hallway, Lila grabs onto it, placing it into her earring, and greets Hawk Moth, asking him to give her supervillain powers to defeat Ladybug and Cat Noir, which he obliges to, turning her into Chameleon; a villain who can put people to sleep and steal their appearance by kissing them.

Chameleon proceeds to cause trouble in Paris by taking Adrien's form and later the form of a boy named Quentin, almost managing to steal Ladybug's form and put her to sleep before Cat Noir intervenes, letting his form be taken instead. Ladybug quickly prevents Chameleon from taking Cat Noir's Miraculous and persuades her to follow her to the Eiffel Tower against Hawk Moth's will. Once there, the two engage in a struggle, where Hawk Moth expresses joy in the idea of Chameleon being able to put Ladybug to sleep and subsequently take her Miraculous, only for her to be tricked into taking the form of an oyster and being de-akumatized shortly thereafter. Upon de-akumatizing her, Ladybug seemingly makes peace with Lila and advises her not to lie before leaving, only for it to be shown that the latter hasn't given up her hatred of Ladybug at all. Seeing this, Hawk Moth states that Lila's talents will end up serving his purpose well in the end, before closing up his lair.

In "Animaestro", Gabriel, through his tablet, attends the premier of the Les aventures de Ladybug & Chat Noir film, and is also greeted by Tomoe Tsurugi, who claims that she has brought him the documents he requested, which he thanks her for. After Thomas Austruc, the film's director, begins to feel humiliated and neglected at the premier, Hawk Moth senses his sadness and sends an akuma after him, offering to give him the power to show the world what animation is really capable of in exchange for Ladybug and Cat Noir's Miraculouses, which he accepts, transforming him into Animaestro. Animaestro begins to cause havoc at the premier and in the city using his abilities, and eventually corners Ladybug and Cat Noir in the sewer, where Hawk Moth demands that he seize the opportunity to take their Miraculouses. Animaestro then transforms into a cartoon ninja and blinds them with smoke, only to end up fleeing from the sewer after failing to take the Miraculouses, with Ladybug and Cat Noir deducing that, so long as nobody looks at him, he can't move.

With this in mind, Ladybug hijacks Nadja Chamack's broadcast and demands that everybody stop watching Animaestro, with him proclaiming in response that there will always be at least one viewer, with it being shown that Hawk Moth is watching the battle from his lair via his tablet. Ladybug thus destroys Nadja's camera, causing Hawk Moth to smash his tablet in rage. Exiting his lair, he finds that his monitor upstairs is also not playing the broadcast, forcing him to detransform and rush out to Aniamestro's location. However, Animaestro is defeated before he can arrive, and, while walking away, he muses to himself that, while Ladybug and Cat Noir have one now, like in all tragedies, triumph will come before failure.

In "Backwarder", Gabriel and Adrien are invited to a royal wedding in England along with the Tsurugi family. On the train, Mrs. Tsurugi senses that something is making Gabriel uneasy, and he states that he doesn't like being away from home. In response, she advises him that those with hope give themselves the opportunity to obtain what they desire, but those who fear end up with the very thing they dread the most, which he claims he will remember. Not long afterwards, Marinette (as Ladybug) gives Marianne Lenoir Master Fu's love letter to her, not realizing that she had accidentally given her the letter she wrote for Adrien by mistake, resulting in her misinterpreting it's message and feeling that Fu doesn't love her anymore. Sensing Marianne's sadness, Gabriel storms off to the bathroom and forces the conductor to delay the train's departure, claiming that he isn't feeling well. He then transforms into Hawk Moth and sends an akuma out to Marianne, which infects her brooch. Offering her the power to make up for lost time by stealing it from others, he transforms her into Backwarder; a villain with the ability to reverse time on people and objects.

Upon hearing of a new akumatized villain in Paris, Adrien claims that he is going to check on Gabriel and goes to transform into Cat Noir in one of the bathroom stalls. As Adrien tries to enter the stall he is in, Hawk Moth informs him that it is "occupied", making him change in the next. Later, when Backwarder is confronted by Ladybug and Cat Noir, she proclaims that all she has to do is touch the former and wait for her to transform back, Hawk Moth suggesting that she steal her Miraculous then. Instead, Backwarder states that she is going to use Ladybug to lead her to Master Fu, who has been living in Paris under a false name, surprising Hawk Moth with the knowledge that she knows the Guardian of the Miraculous. Unable to overpower Backwarder, Ladybug and Cat Noir retreat from her as she declares that she will use them to lead her to Fu, delighting Hawk Moth with the idea of stealing not only Ladybug and Cat Noir's Miraculouses but all the Miraculouses on Earth.

Later, as part of Ladybug's plan to deakumatize Backwarder, she lets Cat Noir be affected by the former's powers after performing a series of specific actions, though she refuses to take his Miraculous right away and instead go after Ladybug, much to Hawk Moth's annoyance. Not long afterwards, Backwarder ends up being defeated and deakumatized. However, despite his defeat, Hawk Moth states that Ladybug hasn't won yet, as he now knows more information which will allow him to track down the Guardian of the Miraculouses. Detransforming, Gabriel exits the bathroom stall and runs into Adrien, and the two return to their seats, allowing the train to head off.

In "Oni-Chan", Gabriel, while in his repository looking at his wife, ends up receiving a photo of Lila kissing Adrien in his house and angrily returns upstairs to see Lila, who claims she is his biggest fan and honored to meet him before leaving. Gabriel subsequently scolds Nathalie for letting Lila inside, as he does not like allowing Adrien's friends to come inside his house to influence him, though claims that Lila's photo will help keep her away from Adrien. Sure enough, Kagami became heartbroken upon seeing Lila's photo, allowing Hawk Moth to infect her rose with an akuma, offering her the power to hunt down Lila and keep her from Adrien in exchange for Ladybug and Cat Noir's Mirculouses before transforming her into Oni-Chan; a villain who can track down the people that she infects with her sword.

Oni-Chan goes on to infect Lila (placing a horn on her head that grows every time she lies) and chases her throughout Paris while battling Ladybug and Cat Noir, offering to give up her pursuit if the former gives up Adrien. Ultimately, Lila offers to give up Adrien so long as Oni-Chan gets rid of Ladybug for her, something that surprises Hawk Moth, who is then amazed at Lila's dedication towards destroying their mutual enemy. After Oni-Chan is defeated, instead of mourning his defeat like usual, Hawk Moth decides that he was wrong to push Lila away, as she would make a valuable ally. The next day, Gabriel calls Lila and has her come over to his mansion. Gabriel voices his disappointment in her for intruding on his property and manipulating his son, though seemingly agrees with her claims that Adrien needs to have a friend of his own age that he can trust, remarking that they will see each other soon.

In "Miraculer", Hawk Moth akumatizes someone into the villain Destroyer, forcing Ladybug to summon Rena Rouge and Carapace to battle them. At the same time, he has Mayura wait beside Chloé's house in case Ladybug comes to give her the Bee Miraculous, although Destroyer is defeated before this can happen. Gabriel subsequently exits his lair and tells Nathalie that Chloé must become Queen Bee again, to which she asks him if he's still considering making her an ally as Ladybug has become reluctant in giving her the Bee Miraculous. He then decides to make Chloé force Ladybug into giving her the Bee Miraculous by making her lose all faith in the former, and Nathalie suggests that they use Lila to help them do so. Later, he approaches Lila at the park in his car, where she voices her disapproval in Adrien's friends to him, particularly Chloé, and he responds by telling her about Chloé's longstanding friendship with Adrien, before leaving and promising to see her again. In the car, Gabriel expresses his confidence to Nathalie in Lila using her talents to make Chloé vulnerable.

Surely enough, Hawk Moth senses that his plan is working as Chloé's emotions become negative, and sends Mayura out into Paris to cause trouble by creating a sentimonster from August's frustration. Upon seeing the monster, Chloé tries to summon Ladybug using the special code Lila had told her to use to do so, although this fails and the sentimonster is taken care of without her, angering her and making her lash out on Sabrina. Sensing Chloé's anger, Hawk Moth sends an akuma after her and offers to both give her powers and help her reclaim the Bee Miraculous, only for her to resist and reject his offer outright. Admiring Chloé's resistance, Hawk Moth decides to direct his akuma towards Sabrina instead, offering her the power to steal the abilities of superheroes so that Chloé will play with her again, turning her into Miraculer. After having her powers stolen, Ladybug decides to summon all of her allies to help battle Miraculer, and gives Cat Noir the Bee Miraculous to give to Chloé, although before he can give it to her it is stolen from him by Mayura.

As Ladybug, with her powers accidentally restored by Miraculer, and her allies battle her, Hawk Moth orders Mayura to bring him the Bee Miraculous; however, Cat Noir manages to knock it out of her hands and Ladybug gives it to Chloé, forcing her to escape empty-handed. As she is confronted by Queen Bee, Mayura tries to convince her to ally with Hawk Moth so that she can use the Bee Miraculous whenever she wants, though Queen Bee rejects her offer before she escapes. Miraculer is ultimately defeated by the heroes and restored to normal, and Ladybug begrudgingly admits to Chloé afterwards that she can no longer be Queen Bee because everyone knows her identity, including Hawk Moth. In Hawk Moth's lair, Mayura apologizes for failing him, although he is not displeased, knowing that his plan to make Chloé lose her faith in Ladybug is working and that she will join them eventually.

In "Party Crasher", Nathalie drives Gabriel to the airport for a fashion week in Tokyo, although it is quickly revealed that she is actually driving a hologram of him instead. The real Gabriel then calls her and is informed that things are going as planned and that nobody will suspect that he stayed at home. After getting off the phone, Gabriel enters his repository and speaks to his wife, promising that he will soon obtain the Miraculouses and use them to undo their past mistake. Seeing that the butterflies in the repository are beginning to hatch, Gabriel starts to harvest them so he can turn them into akumas. Meanwhile, Nino, Max, Ivan, Kim and Markov, knowing that Gabriel and Nathalie are away, manage to get into the Agreste mansion and throw a party in Adrien's room, where Markov takes control over the mansion's power. The repository begins to lose power as a result, and, realizing something is wrong, Gabriel attempts to take the elevator back into his mansion to find out what, only to get stuck partway up as all the power is lost, including to Emilie's coffin, much to his dismay.

After fruitlessly trying to escape the elevator by himself, Gabriel transforms into Hawk Moth to break the door down, checking on Emilie before deciding to akumatize someone in order to help restore power to his repository. However, due to the party upstairs, he finds that there are no negative emotions which he can use and that Adrien has also disobeyed his orders not to have anyone inside the mansion, frustrating him further. However, not long afterwards, Wayhem becomes sad upon being unable to enter the mansion and feeling left out of the party, allowing Hawk Moth to infect his Groucho glasses and akumatize him into Party Crasher, with Hawk Moth swearing to those that have invaded his house that they will now have to face the "most powerful supervillain ever created". Party Crasher proceeds to disrupt the party by trapping people inside his disco-ball hands, including Markov, which ends up restoring power to the repository, powering Emilie's coffin again while allowing Hawk Moth to return to his lair.

Afterwards, Party Crasher, using his ability to predict his enemies' movements, manages to capture Ladybug, forcing Master Fu to summon Carapace, Viperon and Pegasus to help Cat Noir. Hawk Moth warns Party Crasher about Viperon's ability to reverse time using his Second Chance power, and with that in mind he captures Carapace before doing the same to Viperon once he reverses time to save the latter. Party Crasher then easily defeats the other heroes and Hawk Moth orders him to deliver the Miraculouses to him, prompting him to convert his disco-balls into a helicopter to transport them. Before this can happen, Kim, haven been given the Monkey Miraculous by Fu to become King Monkey, uses his Uproar power to disrupt Party Crasher's abilities and free everyone whom he had trapped, subsequently following Ladybug's plan to act randomly in order to overcome and deakumatize him. Later, Adrien and his friends clean up their party and leave the mansion, unaware they are being watched by Gabriel. In his repository again, Gabriel once more promises his wife that he will obtain the Miraculouses and defeat Ladybug and Cat Noir.

In "Stormy Weather 2", Gabriel has Nathalie write a letter to Mrs. Tsurugi that states even though things aren't going as planned, change is a good thing and their agreement will be strengthened in the end. When Nathalie begins coughing violently and falls to the floor due to her previous use of the Peacock Miraculous, Gabriel asks her if she's alright, to which Nathalie says that she's fine. Gabriel then senses a strong negative emotion and prepares to enter his lair, only for Adrien to burst in and tell him that he enjoyed his photoshoot. Gabriel tells Adrien that he can tell him all about it later as he is busy at the moment. Adrien asks him if he can hang out with his friends, but Gabriel doesn't allow this and has Nathalie escort him out.

Once he's gone, Gabriel tells Nooroo that the emotion he is sensing is familiar, with the latter suggesting that it is Adrien's and that Gabriel should spend more time with him. Gabriel insists that everything he is doing is to make Adrien happy, although Nooroo claims that he may end up losing him instead if he continues down his dark path. Not wanting to listen to Nooroo's advice, Gabriel takes away his mouth, enters his lair, and transforms in Hawk Moth. He begins to consider that Nooroo may be right, recalling how Adrien almost fell off a building in "Gorizilla" because of his actions, though dismisses this and assures himself that he must succeed in his goals no matter what, sending an akuma after Aurore Beauréal, which infects her parasol inside the TVi studio elevator. Hawk Moth tells her that people never really change, only grow, and offers to turn her into Stormy Weather again with power over all the forces of nature, which she accepts. However, Ladybug and Cat Noir manage to defeat Stormy Weather, and Hawk Moth vows to one day send the duo into oblivion in response.

In "Timetagger", off-screen, Hawk Moth re-akumatizes Mr. Ramier into Mr. Pigeon twenty-four times in a row, much to Ladybug and Cat Noir's annoyance, as they gradually lose interest in easily overcoming him. After his last defeat, Hawk Moth deems Mr. Ramier a lost cause and prepares to detransform, only to sense a powerful negative emotion the likes of which he's never felt before. At that moment, the villain Timetagger arrives and confronts Ladybug and Cat Noir, claiming that he has come from the future to defeat them in the past. Hawk Moth comes to admire Timetagger while watching him battle Ladybug and Cat Noir-seeing him use his time-travelling abilities to transport himself around to spots he has tagged with graffiti to make himself virtually untouchable-and is then surprised as Timetagger contacts him. Timetagger tells Hawk Moth that, in his time, Ladybug and Cat Noir are adults, and that the Hawk Moth of the future had him go back in time to defeat Ladybug and Cat Noir before they reach their full potential. Hawk Moth expresses admiration in his future decision, refusing to wait until Ladybug and Cat Noir have grown up to achieve his goal, and orders Timetagger to defeat them.

Ladybug and Cat Noir manage to escape Timetagger before they detransform by running into the Louvre, where they also come across Alix Kubdel, who's watch gives them a riddle leading them to the Ancient Egypt exhibit, where they discover the trapped Bunnyx-Alix's future counterpart and Rabbit Miraculous user, whom Timetagger had sent back to said period after her Miraculous was damaged. After briefing Ladybug, Cat Noir and her past self on her mission to bring Timetagger back to the future, Bunnyx joins them in heading to defeat Timetagger, finding that he had begun to send various people back in time to alter history and painted over the area in order to warp wherever he wants, before the former engages him using her own time-travel powers. Watching the two battle, Hawk Moth remarks that victory is near, and compliments himself for making such a clever plan in the future. Eventually, Timetagger succeeds in defeating Bunnyx by sending her back in time through various periods to exhaust her, and demands that Ladybug and Cat Noir hand over their Miraculouses lest he send Bunnyx back to the big bang. Ladybug summons a notepad with her Lucky Charm and asks to write an apology to her future self before she gives up her Miraculous, Hawk Moth warning Timetagger that she could be tricking him, though he is confident she won't be able to.

As Ladybug and Cat Noir were prepared to give up their own Miraculouses, Hawk Moth excitedly prepares to get his hands on them, only for Timetagger to say that he won't be getting them. Hawk Moth is baffled by this claim, and Timetagger explains to him that though he had been sent in time by Hawk Moth, he is not the same Hawk Moth as the one in the future, leaving him distressed. However, Ladybug and Cat Noir manage to defeat and de-akumatize Timetagger with help from Bunnyx and their future counterparts, and the former then takes him (who, in reality, was an older Chris Lahiffe) back to his proper time. Meanwhile, Hawk Moth solemnly detransforms and returns to his atelier, where he expresses sorrow to Nathalie that, if he is no longer wielding the Moth Miraculous in the future, that he will inevitably fail; although she assures him that such a thing isn't certain to happen. Later on, Hawk Moth turns Mr. Ramier back into Mr. Pigeon again, and after de-akumatizing him, Ladybug and Cat Noir suggest that he grow fond of a new animal so that he won't be as easily susceptible to akumatization.

In "Startrain", Hawk Moth sends an akuma after Roger Raincomprix when he becomes frustrated by several legal offences while driving Sabrina to her school field trip. When Sabrina prompts her father to calm down, Hawk Moth orders his akuma to keep pursuing him, only to lose contact with it as it accidentally becomes trapped in Sabrina's bag, to his confusion. Later, the akuma ends up being released from Sabrina's bag while on the startrain, latching onto Claudie Kanté's feelings of failure to akumatize her into the titular villain, takes the train into space to live out her dream of becoming an astronaut.

As he is working in his atelier, Nathalie alerts Gabriel to the news about Startrain, making him realize that he lost contact with his akuma because it was too far out of range. Nathalie further informs him that Adrien's class is on the train as well, making Gabriel despair at the thought of his son being trapped in space without him being able to do anything. Regardless, Nathalie assures him that Ladybug and Cat Noir will be able to return everything to normal, and he notes the irony in having to wish for his enemies to succeed. Once Startrain is defeated by Ladybug, Cat Noir and Pegasus, Gabriel presumably sends Nathalie and Adrien's bodyguard to pick him up.

In "Feast", Gabriel watches the unveiling of a statue discovered in Tibet at the Louvre through his tablet, until Nathalie suddenly drops it and becomes ill once the statue is revealed. At the Agreste Mansion, Gabriel tells Adrien that Nathalie occasionally gets dizzy spells and that he doesn't need to be worried about her, distressing him. Once Adrien leaves, Nathalie informs Gabriel that the statue is actually a powerful, dormant sentimonster, which Gabriel suggests she bring back to life. Nathalie replies that, since she didn't create the sentimonster, she won't be able to control it, although Gabriel offers to hep her-stating that the sentimonster came from the same region he found the Butterfly and Peacock Miraculouses in and that it could be useful to him-before ordering her to return to the Louvre after getting some rest first. Meanwhile, Adrien tells Plagg that his mother used to get dizzy spells just like Nathalie, and that his father had also told him they were nothing to worry about as well.

That night, Mayura breaks into the Louvre to revive the sentimonster, and, after preventing it from eating her Miraculous and forcing it to obey her, tells Hawk Moth she has it under control. Hawk Moth thus sends an akuma to the sentimonster and, dubbing the monster "Feast", offers to give it more power in exchange for Ladybug and Cat Noir's Miraculous. the sentimonster refuses the offer, although Hawk Moth tells it that he'll give back the Miraculouses once he's done with them and will even hand over his and Mayura's Miraculous as a bonus to satisfy it's hunger, getting the sentimonster to agree and thus be akumatized into Feast. Feast begins to chase after Master Fu after he steals back Marinette and Adrien's Miraculouses to protect them, with Hawk Moth and Mayura deducing that Fu must be the Guardian of the Miraculous if Feast is after him. Once Fu decides to stop running and decides to face Feast, Hawk Moth is delightfully surprised to learn that the Guardian is a "decrepit old man", and becomes assured that Feast will have no problem taking care of him.

After Ladybug and Cat Noir transform to save Master Fu, Hawk Moth tells Feast to devour them, which Ladybug allows the latter to do upon receiving a metal detector with her Lucky Charm. Delighted, Hawk Moth allows Feast to go after Fu and devour the other Miraculouses; however, before it can succeed, Ladybug and Cat Noir use the metal detector to find Master Fu's old staff among the things Feast has devoured, releasing the amok hidden inside it and thus destroying Feast. Hawk Moth screams in rage upon his defeat, before quickly tending to Nathalie as she collapses from exhaust. The next day, Gabriel and Nathalie watch Nadja Chamack's broadcast on the reappearance of the Guardian's Temple (as a result of Feast's destruction), while Master Fu decides to move as a result of Hawk Moth figuring out his identity. In his repository, Gabriel promises Ladybug and Cat Noir that he will put his knowledge about Master Fu's identity to use and use it to get his revenge on them.

Timetagger/Chris Lahiffe: Able to time travel and send others to the past thanks to his spray can gun.

However, it should be noted that the current-day Hawk Moth was not actually responsible for akumatizing Chris in the future; rather, it was the Hawk Moth of the future, whose identity is currently unknown.

Stormy Weather/Aurore Beauréal: Possesses the same powers from her first akumatization, although they are much stronger, giving her control over all forces of nature.

Ikari Gozen/Tomoe Tsurugi: Is very large with increased strength, speed, and agility, and wields a bokken. Can also imprison people inside her stomach that resembles the interior of a car, where they can be restrained by seatbelts.

Reflekta/Juleka Couffaine: Can turn people into an exact copy of herself.

Desperada/Vivica: Wields instrument-shaped weapons that cause anyone she hits to vanish in a puff of yellow smoke and transform into a sticker on her guitar case.

Startrain/Claudie Kanté: Has complete control over the Startrain, including the temperature of each car and the service drones inside.

It should be noted that Startrain is not actually being commanded by Hawk Moth and acts purely on her own accord, due to the fact that the akuma possesed Claudie when it was too far away for Hawk Moth to have contact with it.

Feast/Dormant Sentimonster: Significantly larger in size, making it become more powerful and able to consume even more. Can eat anything, up to the size of a bus.

It should be noted that the Dormant Sentimonster is the first sentimonster that Hawk Moth has ever akumatized.

Princess Justice/Marinette Dupain-Cheng: Powers unknown due to the akumatization being incomplete.

Verity Queen/Sabine Cheng: Powers unknown due to the akumatization being incomplete.

Kwamibuster/Ms. Mendeleiev: Wields a blaster capable of shooting a beam that can capture kwamis and trap them inside a magical canister on her back which they cannot phase through.

Cat Blanc/Cat Noir (Adrien Agreste): Can use a more powerful version of Cataclysm called "Super Cataclysm", which can be used as many times as he wants without having to transform back, can be used as a ranged attack, and is much more powerful than normal, to the point of being capable of destroying entire galaxies.

Lady Wifi, Princess Fragrance, Reflekta/Alya Césaire, Rose Lavillant, Juleka Couffaine: Same abilities as their previous akumatizations as those villains.

Heart Hunter/André and Audrey Bourgeois: Can fly and devour any source of love by transforming their victims into hearts.

Miracle Queen/Queen Bee (Chloé Bourgeois): Can control people by stinging them with her wasps, as well as teleport herself and others.

Replay/Adam: Can manipulate time around him by shooting energy blasts out of his watch.

Silurus/Fisherman: Can control both water and catfish.

Qin: Wow! There's so many of them!

Me: There sure are. But the reason Gabriel is doing all this is because he wants his wife back.

Qin: What happened to her?

Me: She's in a coma. But she disappeared off the radar and she is presumed dead.

Nico: So it's a Mr. Freeze and Nora Fries type situation.

Me: Exactly. But nobody in a marriage should ever be without their love.

Lincoln: That is sad.

Laney: It sure is.

Me: And he loves his son, Adrien, more than anything.

Nico: So we won't have to kill him. Just throw him in prison.

Me: And I have an idea. We're going to fight fire with fire.

Lana: How are we gonna do that?

Me: We're going to give all the villains he Akumatized all their powers back and have them turn against Hawk Moth. This time without having to use Negative Emotions. It was Negative Emotions that made them Akumatized. But with a little Team Loud Phoenix Storm Power, we're gonna have them help us on the side of good.

Lisa: That is genius.

Lola: (Older Voice) That just might work.

Me: But we'll cross that bridge when we come to it. When Hawk Moth makes his move, we head out for Paris, France and attack.

Qin: Good idea. I hope he's not part of the Legion Of Doom.

Me: Let's hope not.

Vince: Yeah.

Maria: But what really saddens me is that the planet Krypton exploded.

Qin: I saw that in the comic books. Krypton exploded into nothing and killed all of Superman's people.

Me: It sure did. But that was before we met Superman and the whole Justice League.

Qin: How did that happen?

Me: It was after we built the U.S.S. Valor.

I explained what happened during the events of The Great Krypton Rescue.

Qin: Wow! So you brought all of Krypton to Earth!

Me: And they are now part of our planet as friends and as partners.

Qin: But how did Krypton explode?

Me: They were harvesting Krypton's unstable core. It accelerated it's own destruction.

Qin: That's crazy!

Me: It was because of their own ignorance that Krypton exploded.

I revealed the history of Krypton and how it exploded.

---

In its first appearance, Krypton was only depicted at the moment of its destruction, the nature of life on Krypton being unaddressed and frankly irrelevant to Superman's adventures on contemporary Earth; the plain fact of his extraterrestrial origin was considered sufficient enough to explain his superpowered status. Soon, beginning in the Superman comic strip, Krypton was shown to have been an evolved version of Earth, older by eons and possessed of all the beneficial progress that implied (though the downside was the hint that Krypton exploded due mainly to old age). This can be seen in the early descriptions of Superman having come from "a race of super-men" in early comics and serials, and one of the labels associated with him, "The Man of Tomorrow".

Kryptonians, though otherwise completely human, were superior both intellectually and physically to natives of Earth (further, Krypton had much heavier gravity, making them all stronger as well, their muscles evolved/adapted to the greater resistance). They lived under the rulership of a scientific elite, in cities of delicate art-deco towers, and wore costumes in the style of Alex Raymond characters. The trappings of Krypton were all rather reminiscent of the final technological utopia depicted in the H.G. Wells film Things to Come.

The debut of the Superman comic strip in 1939 also delved into further details about Krypton, including introducing the idea that all Kryptonians possessed a minimal level of heightened physical abilities, including super-strength and super-speed. In the early comics' version of Krypton, Superman's parents were named "Jor-L" and "Lora" (changed to the more familiar "Jor-El" and "Lara" by the end of the 1940s).

The Golden Age Krypton would be revised into another form almost as soon as it was defined (see Krypton in Transition below), and very few stories were written about it. However, after the introduction of DC's multiverse in the 1960s, this version of Krypton was declared to be the Krypton of the Earth-Two universe (the native dimension of DC's Golden Age characters) and its Superman. This was especially so in the late-1970s run of All Star Comics, where Power Girl, the Earth-Two version of Supergirl, was introduced.

In the Golden Age, Superman was unaware initially of his true origins; in Superman (volume 1) #61, Superman discovered the existence of Krypton for the first time and learned of his Kryptonian heritage. He later encountered other survivors prior to Kara's arrival in the form of three criminals, U-Ban, Kizo and Mala, who were exiled by his father before Krypton's destruction.

Krypton in transition

Over the course of the 1940s and 1950s, various alterations and additions to the makeup of Krypton were made in the comics. Among them was explaining why the natives of Krypton perished if they had possessed superpowers on their native world (as was the case in the earliest versions of Krypton outlined above, although this only became a problem once Superman-and by extension anyone from Krypton-was portrayed as increasingly powerful and able to withstand nuclear explosions, contrasted with his original power level in which a bursting mortar shell could penetrate his skin). Thus, it was explained by the early 1950s that Kryptonians were powerless on their own planet, and would only gain superpowers within a lower gravity environment. This matched the correct theories being published that when man reaches the moon (a lighter gravity environment) he will be able to lift great weights and leap great distances. In the early 1960s, added to this was the need to be exposed to the rays of a yellow sun (versus Krypton's red sun, which was older and "cooler", or put out less energy) to gain superpowers, with the yellow sun aspect soon gaining the much greater emphasis. Other changes to the concept of Krypton and its culture were introduced, many of which were stylistic.

Silver Age Krypton

By the late 1950s, Krypton played an increasingly larger role in various Superman stories, with greater amounts of details given to Krypton's makeup.

History

In the Silver Age version of Krypton, Kryptonians made use of their advanced science to create a world where scientific inventions and research influenced much of daily life. Robots and computers were used for many tasks on Krypton, even for determining what career paths young boys and girls would take as they grew up. Scientific and technological research was highly valued on Krypton, with the ruling body of Krypton named the "Science Council."

Several stories featured characters traveling back in time to visit Krypton before its destruction; the most well known of these is probably the 1960 story "Superman's Return to Krypton", in which Superman is swept back in time to Krypton some years before its destruction. Powerless, he spends some time on the planet, where he meets his future parents-to-be and falls in love with a Kryptonian actress named Lyla Lerrol. A Superman "imaginary story" entitled "What If Krypton Had Not Exploded?" (reprinted in the trade paperback edition The Greatest Superman Stories Ever Told) gave more insight into Krypton's society.

Superman's Kryptonian heritage was a frequent factor in Silver Age Superman comic storylines, as he was fully aware of his origins from an early age. Superman would use this knowledge for such tasks as constructing robots or observing some of Krypton's traditions.

The terrain of this Krypton was bright and vivid, featuring such landmarks as the Scarlet Jungle, the Gold Volcano, and the Jewel Mountains. The Scarlet Jungle in particular contained many strange beasts and plants, such as a species of giant mole that could eat through metal.

There were two consecutive capital cities on Krypton: Kandor and Kryptonopolis. The city of Kandor was shrunk by the evil android Brainiac and taken away; Kryptonopolis became the new capital of Krypton. In his first encounter with Brainiac, Superman discovered the city of Kandor preserved in a bottle. He rescued it and took it to Earth with him, vowing to someday discover a way to return the city to normal size. In the late 1970s, Kandor was enlarged, and its inhabitants left Earth to settle on a new planet named Rokyn.

Krypton had two moons, but one of them was accidentally destroyed by the Kryptonian scientist Jax-Ur when he was experimenting with space travel. The disaster killed millions of inhabitants of the moon, and because of this, Jax-Ur became the first criminal to be banished to the Phantom Zone, which had been discovered by Jor-El. This disaster also prompted the Science Council of Krypton to ban space flight completely, providing another explanation of why Krypton's civilization perished with the planet.

Destruction

There are several versions of the destruction of Krypton in the Superman mythos.

In one, Krypton exploded due to a build-up of internal pressures in its uranium core. The explosion transformed most of the matter which made up the planet into a radioactive material that became known as Kryptonite, which would have various (generally adverse) effects on the few survivors of Krypton in ensuing years.

Other versions of the Superman origin story (namely Superman: The Movie and Superman Returns) depict Krypton's red giant sun going supernova and subsequently destroying Krypton and any other planets in the Kryptonian system.

Survivors

The Golden Age Superman was not alone in the survival of Krypton's destruction, being joined by his cousin Power Girl and three exiled criminals: U-Ban, Kizo, and Mala. A virtual reality created by Power Girl's father Zor-L also existed within her Symbioship, creating non-living duplicates based on deceased Kryptonians including her parents.

The Silver Age Superman was not alone in the survival of Krypton's destruction, being joined by his cousin Supergirl, the Phantom Zone criminals, Beppo the super-monkey, Krypto the Superdog, a juvenile delinquent named Dev-Em, and the entire population of the city of Kandor. When the planet exploded, one entire city of Krypton, Argo City, survived the cataclysm.

Argo City drifted through space on an asteroid-sized fragment of Krypton, which had been transformed into Kryptonite by the explosion. The super-advanced technology of its Kryptonian inhabitants gave the denizens of Argo City the ability to construct a life-sustaining dome that allowed them to survive for several years, in addition to building a lead shield that protected their city from the Kryptonite radiation of their asteroid. However, the protective shield was destroyed in a meteor storm, exposing the inhabitants to the deadly radiation. One sole survivor of Argo City, Kara Zor-El, was sent to Earth by her scientist father to live with her cousin Kal-El, who had become known as Superman. Kara adjusted to her new life on Earth and became known as Supergirl. It was later discovered that Supergirl's parents had survived in the Survival Zone, a parallel "dimension" similar to the Phantom Zone, from which she released them. When the bottle city of Kandor was finally enlarged on a new planet, Supergirl's parents joined its inhabitants to live there.

In 1979, a miniseries entitled World of Krypton was published, providing a great amount of detail into Krypton's history just before its destruction, along with the life story of Jor-El himself. A three-issue miniseries entitled The Krypton Chronicles, published in 1981, tells of Superman researching his roots when, as Clark Kent, he was assigned to write an article about Superman's family by an assignment editor impressed with the television miniseries Roots. To do so, he and Supergirl travel to Kandor where they learn the history of the El family. In 1985, writer Alan Moore gave a somewhat darker glimpse into the world of Krypton in his story "For the Man Who Has Everything" (in Superman Annual #11), the premise being an elaborate dream of Superman's in which Krypton had not exploded and he'd grown to adulthood there. Background details are culled from other Krypton stories. This same story was retold in Justice League Unlimited animated series in an episode by the same name.

The race of Krypton was believed by some to be linked to the planet Daxam, whose inhabitants also acquired powers and abilities similar to Superman's when they were exposed to the radiation of a yellow sun. However, the Daxamites, as they were known, were highly susceptible to lead poisoning, which affected them in a manner similar to Kryptonite when they came into contact with lead; however, the poisoning was not stopped by taking the lead out of the Daxamite's vicinity. One Daxamite, Mon-El, was poisoned by lead, and preserved in the Phantom Zone until a cure was found by Brainiac 5 in the 30th century, thereafter Mon-El became a member of the Legion of Super-Heroes. In this version, the Daxamites were originally Kryptonians who left their homeworld in order to explore the universe.

The Eradicator, programmed to preserve all Kryptonian culture, altered the birthing matrices (artificial wombs) the explorers took with them so that the newborns would be fatally vulnerable to lead. Thus, if they persisted in their anti-Kryptonian wanderlust, they would all die from it.

Crisis on Infinite Earths

After the 1985 miniseries Crisis on Infinite Earths, this version of Krypton was soon replaced by a newer version. However, the Silver Age Krypton made a rare post-Crisis appearance in The Sandman #48, during a flashback sequence featuring Death and Destruction of The Endless, beings who were evidently unaffected by the reality-altering events of the Crisis. In the relaunch of the Superman franchise, it was declared that the new version would never encounter another surviving Kryptonian.

The Man of Steel

Following Crisis on Infinite Earths, which rebooted the history of the DC Universe and retroactively eliminated the existence of the Golden and Silver Age versions of Krypton, writer/artist John Byrne was given the task of recreating the entire Superman mythos. This rewrite was started in the 1986 Man of Steel miniseries, which addressed Krypton in both its opening and closing chapters.

Krypton itself was the main subject of the late 1980s The World of Krypton miniseries (not to be confused with the 1979 miniseries of the same name). This miniseries was written by Byrne and illustrated by Mike Mignola, and filled in much of Krypton's new history.

History

The new Krypton was approximately the size of Earth and orbited a red sun called Rao 50 light-years from our solar system. Over 100,000 years ago, Krypton had already developed scientific advancements far beyond those of present-day Earth, and by a few millennia past had conquered disease, learned to retard the aging process, and perfected cloning; vast banks of non-sentient clones held multiple copies of each living Kryptonian so that replacement parts were always available in the case of injury. All Kryptonians were effectively immortal and eternally young, and enjoyed an idyllic, sensual existence in an Arcadian paradise.

However, this society was tipping towards decadence and eventually political strife resulted from the debate as to whether clones should have rights (sparked by the presence of an alien missionary known as the Cleric). Eventually this disagreement led to open violent conflict, during which Kryptonian science was turned to warfare and several super-weapons were developed and used. Among them were the devices which became known as the Eradicator and the Destroyer.

Although the Eradicator's effects (altering the DNA of all Kryptonian life-forms so that they would instantly die upon leaving the planet) were felt immediately, the Destroyer's effects were possibly more significant: by the time the Kryptonian government admitted defeat and abolished the clone banks, a terrorist faction known as Black Zero had started the Destroyer, a device intended to trigger a massively explosive chain reaction in Krypton's core.

At the time, it was believed that the device had been stopped before it could achieve this, but eventually it was discovered, centuries later by Jor-El, that the reaction had only been slowed to a nearly imperceptible rate and would eventually destroy the planet as intended.

The Destruction of Krypton

In the meantime, though it had for now survived the war, Krypton was scarred deeply by it. The formerly lush garden world was burned and blasted, left mostly a lifeless desert. In direct contrast to the society that had existed prior to the Clone Wars, a sterile, emotionally dead civilization emerged. The population became isolated from one another, living in widely separated technological citadels and shunning all personal contact. Procreation became a matter of selecting compatible genetic material which would then be placed within an artificial womb called a "birthing matrix." Any attempt to contact other worlds was forbidden, and the planetary government maintained an isolationist stance, forbidding space exploration of any kind.

It was into this world that the young scientist Jor-El was born. By his adult years, the mysterious "Green Plague" was killing Kryptonians by the hundreds, and upon researching the matter, Jor-El discovered that the cause was growing radiation produced by Krypton's increasingly unstable core. Due to this process, the planet itself was going to explode.

Unable to convince his associates to abandon tradition and consider escape, Jor-El took the birthing matrix of his unborn son Kal-El, removed the Eradicator's planetary binding, and attached a prototype interstellar propulsion system to the vessel. Just as the planet began to shake apart, he launched the matrix towards Earth, where it would open and give birth to the infant upon landing (The post-Crisis Superman therefore was technically "born" on Earth).

The Last Son of Krypton

A central theme of this version of the Superman mythos was that the character was to remain the last surviving remnant of Krypton. Thus, Silver Age elements such as Supergirl, Krypto, and Kandor had never existed in this version (though post-Crisis versions of these elements were eventually reintroduced).

The supervillain Doomsday was revealed in the 1990s as a being genetically engineered by Bertron, an alien scientist, on an ancient Krypton; this happened hundreds of thousands of years before the rise of Krypton's civilization (this fact explains how Kryptonians obtained their advanced technology).

In the newer continuity, Superman also only became aware of his alien heritage sometime after his debut as a superhero, when a holographic program encoded into the craft which brought him to Earth uploaded the information into his brain.

Revisiting Krypton

In a late 1980s storyline, Superman traveled to the former site of Krypton to discover that the planet was slowly reforming from the vast sphere of debris remaining. However, it would take millions of years before the planet would be solid again. This sphere of debris had been turned to Kryptonite by the planet's destruction, and the radiation causes Superman to have a hallucination concerning an alternate scenario in which the entire population of Krypton comes to Earth.

In the 1990s comic series Starman, Jack Knight became lost in time and space, landed on Krypton several years before its destruction, and met Jor-El as a young man. The story boldly implies that it was this early meeting with a Terran that led Jor-El to study other worlds, and eventually choose Earth as the target for his son's spacecraft.

In an early 2000s storyline, an artificial version of the pre-Crisis Krypton was created in the Phantom Zone by Brainiac-13, a descendant of the original Brainiac who had traveled back in time to the present. It was stated to have been based on Jor-El's favorite Kryptonian historical period.

Superman: Birthright

In the 2004 miniseries Superman: Birthright, a new retelling of Superman's origin and early years, Mark Waid depicted a Krypton, officially stated as being located in the Andromeda Galaxy 6 million light years away, with elements of various versions of the planet, but closer to the pre-Crisis version. It was later implied that the time-bending adventure in Superman v2, #200 and Infinite Crisis had rewritten history so this was now the "official" version, and later stories have held to Birthright as being the official current version of Superman's origin.

Waid also made use of Superman's "S"-shield in his version of Krypton. While in previous comic versions of the mythos, it was assumed the "S" simply stood for "Superman"; in Birthright, Waid presented the symbol as a Kryptonian symbol of hope (borrowing and modifying a concept from Superman: The Movie). DC's mandate for Superman being Krypton's only survivor changed as well. Birthright heralded the return of Krypto, Kandor, and Kara Zor-El as Supergirl. Superboy's origins were retconned later revealing that he was the cloned son of Superman and Lex Luthor making him half kryptonian.

The series reversed a lot of John Byrne's decisions from The Man of Steel to reflect the more Silver Age-oriented version of Superman, similar to Smallville television series and Superman movies.

Further Post-Birthright Revisions

However, a current storyline co-written by Geoff Johns and Superman director Richard Donner presents yet another version of Krypton which reintroduces the General Zod and the Phantom Zone criminals into mainstream continuity. With art by Adam Kubert, the design of Kryptonian society is distinct yet again from Birthright, incorporating elements of both pre-Crisis on Infinite Earths continuity and Donner's work on the first two Christopher Reeve films, in particular the notion of Krypton's Council threatening Jor-El with harsh punishment were he to make public his predictions of their planet's imminent doom. Whether this further revision of continuity has an in-universe rationale is as yet unknown, but it may stem from continuity changes wrought by the reality-fracturing conclusion of Infinite Crisis.

Qin gasped in horror!

Qin: That's terrible! So Superman was cursed to wander the universe as the last Kryptonian?

Me: He was. But thanks to our rescue of everyone on Krypton, Superman has his people back.

Qin: I'm glad. But they will never harvest the core of Earth right?

Me: No. Thank goodness.

Breakdown: Do you think that Krypton's fate could've been changed?

Me: No. This was all completely unavoidable. Krypton was a completely unstable world.

Fireflight: It's a real shame what happened to Krypton.

Livewire: And to think that we heard Luthor say that Clark was just a no good hero playing God.

Me: That is one fucked up delusion.

Qin: Lex Luthor was a monster.

Me: He was worse than that.

I went over his history.

---

Lex Luthor's history and origin was altered during the New 52. In this continuity, Alexander "Lex" Luthor was born and raised in Smallville with his sickly sister Lena before moving to Metropolis where he got into contact with the extraterrestrial villain Brainiac.

As the pair secretly traded information between one another, Lex was recruited into an alliance with General Samuel Lane and Glen Glenmorgan to bring down Superman. But Luthor instead betrayed them by stealing their Kryptonite and having the plot leaked to Daily Planet reporter Clark Kent.

Eventually, Brainiac found his way to Earth and Lex tried to aid the invader in shrinking Metropolis. However he was caught and accused with endangering the city. During this time, Glenmorgan was also facing criminal charges, and his mind snapped under the pressure.

Meanwhile, Lex was let go due to lack of evidence and decided to fill the power vacuum left by Glen, who was Metropolis' corporate master at the time. Fours years after the foundation of the Justice League, Lex Luthor masterminded an invasion in order to sell superweapons to the army. It was this crime that had him come to blows against Superman for the first time. The ensuing fight between them resulted in Luthor receiving a scar across the left side of his face, his defeat, and his imprisonment for a year.

Superman: The Animated Series

Lex Luthor is the founder and CEO of LexCorp. He grew to resent Superman when he stole his spotlight as Metropolis' savior, and usually invested heavily in some of the Man of Steel's greatest foes, such as Metallo and Livewire. He sought to kill Superman for shutting down his major operations and costing him a lot of money. Although Superman already put away many of Luthor's co-conspirators, he could never convict Luthor himself due to lack of evidence. He was also known for his betrayals on many associates, causing many to leave LexCorp; the only one left was Mercy Graves. Lex also is shown to hate Batman as well, as he is an intellectual rival who teamed up with Superman to fight him when he and Joker teamed up, preventing Superman from being killed by Joker's kryptonite in the process. In Legacy, he was thrilled, the whole world turned against Superman when Darkseid brainwashed him and let him loose to take over and invade Earth. But Superman snapped out of it and earned the world's trust back and dismissed the charges against him.

Justice League

Luthor later fought the Justice League, but was subsequently defeated, exposed as a crook, and sentenced to prison. He also learned that he had a terminal form of radiation poisoning as a result of carrying around a chunk of Kryptonite for years, leaving him with only a few more months to live. He then joined up with Cheetah, Star Sapphire, Shade, Copperhead (who would be in jail and replaced by theJoker), Solomon Grundy and Ultra-Humanite, forming the Injustice Gang, in an attempt take down the Justice League, but failed. Luthor later "redeemed" himself by aiding the Justice League in defeating the Justice Lords and was given a full pardon.

Justice League Unlimited

After being freed from prison and cleared of all charges, Luthor reestablished his company and later entered politics and ran in the U.S. Presidential Elections. However, still bent on destroying Superman, he created Project Cadmus and succeeded in ruining the Justice League's reputation twice: once by causing Superman and Captain Marvel to fight each other, causing great destruction in the city, and again by taking control of the Watchtower's orbital cannon and causing it to fire on a Cadmus-related building in New Mexico.

Luthor's malevolent plans were later exposed by Batman and the Justice League, only for Brainiac to reveal that he had been dormant inside Lex ever since the episode Ghost in the Shell. Luthor later convinced Brainiac to fuse with him because they both could reach their ultimate goals. He then battled the Justice League, proving to be one of the group's most difficult foes. However, the Flash was able to separate the two after tapping into the Speed Force.

Luthor went back to jail with a damaged psyche. After Luthor escaped prison again thanks to The Key, Gorilla Grodd offered him membership in the newly formed Legion of Doom. Joining only to revive and refuse with Brainiac, Luthor eventually overthrew Grodd and took over the Legion (who did not oppose him after they learned Grodd's ultimate plan was to turn humanity into apes). Eventually, Lex's quest to revive Braniac lead the Legion into space, where he found a version of Brainiac that had been destroyed years earlier. However, Tala freed Grodd and he and a faction of the Legion fought Luthor and his supporters (which included the likes of Giganta, Bizarro, Toyman, Sinestro, Cheetah, Star Sapphire, Evil Star, etc.) After killing Grodd and trapping and absorbing Tala's magic to resurrect Brainiac, Lex discovers that he had accidentally resurrected Darkseid instead.

Luthor and the rest of the surviving Legion members barely escaped from Darkseid and made their way to Earth, where Luthor warned the Justice League, and he and his allies reluctantly team-up with them to fight against Darkseid and his army. Before the battle against Darkseid, Luthor points out to the Justice League that he doesn't want to help them save the world, but get revenge on Darkseid for destroying Brainiac and ruining his plans, before he and the Justice League go back in being enemies again as usual. He later left the battle with Metron and discovered the Anti-Life Equation. Returning to Earth with the Equation, he offered to share the knowledge with Darkseid, and they both disappeared in a spark of light. While they are presumed dead by the public, members of the Justice League have theorized they will eventually return yet again. However, both Luthor and Darkseid are now part of the Source Wall, that is the fate that occurs to all creature that solved the Anti-Life Equation, where they will remain likely for all eternity.

Qin: Boy what a monster!

Me: He was a monster. But we killed 2 versions of Lex Luthor. Well we killed just one and threw the other in prison. The Lex Luthor we fought here died on his way to a prison on the very farthest reaches of the universe. But he died a long ways from there.

Qin: What did he die of?

Me: He was diagnosed with a terminal form of blood cancer caused by Severe Kryptonite Poisoning. He had a chunk of Kryptonite with him for a long period of time and he got poisoned by it from its radioactivity. No cure. He deserves to burn in Hell.

Nico: You said it.

Lincoln: I'm glad we killed them.

Me: But the one I killed by blowing his head off, deserves worse.

---

Later the following morning we were having breakfast.

We found a new batch of cereal treasure called Starberries. They were really tasty. We found them at an island called Starfruit Atoll. It was an island with a star shape hole in it.

Me: Mmm. I like these Froot Loops the best.

Nico: They are delicious. And the blue loops look like stars.

Laney: They sure do.

Luan: These new Froot Loops will put a Twinkle in your eye. (Laughs) Get it?

We laughed.

Me: (Laughs) Good one Luan.

Eddy: (Laughs) That was funny!

Me: That was funny. Starfruit is a very popular tropical fruit. And a very tasty one.

Megan: It sure is.

Lily's watch beeped.

Lily: Whoop. It's time for me to go to work.

Me: Okay Lily. Have a good day.

Lily went up to her room and she grabbed her hat and went through the portal to the Krusty Krab.

Lily was working at the grill. She was working hard.

Lily: I know I've said this 90 times already but… I love Krabby Patties I think that they are swell. They are the best, there's no contest, and now I'm going to yell. Whew! I love Krabby Patties! I think they're swell. They're so neat, and quite a treat, and how I love the way they smell… La la la la la la la la la la la la la la la la la la la la la la la.

Karen: Lily is in a really happy mood today.

Mr. Krabs: She sure is Karen.

Lily: La la la la laaaaaaa… la la la la!

A tour bus comes out with Ms. Priss dusting the ground, coming out, and blowing a whistle that signals more ladies that are similar to her. Mr. Krabs is at the door wearing a viking helmet for some reason.

Mr. Krabs: Hello, and welcome one, and all your money to ye olde Krusty Krabbie!

Ms. Priss: Come along, sisters. Pay no mind to this crimson abomination! [Crimson is a shade of red. Priss walks into restaurant with sisters in single file behind her, stopping at the register and Squidward, who is reading a "Gossip" Magazine]

Nico: (Scoffs) (To himself) Rude.

Karen: [Notices Priss]

Ms. Priss: Greetings. Although your establishment seems repugnant and foul in nature, it seems not to offend our sensitivities. It is for that reason, plus the fact that we have been stuck on a tour bus for several days, that my sisters and I would like to eat something here.

Karen: Okay. But first, let me call the mortician and tell him his uniform's been stolen.

SpongeBob: Karen! These lovely ladies are obviously here to eat. So let's serve them some delicious Krabby Patties!

Ms. Priss: Well, Mr… um…

SpongeBob: SpongeBob Squarepants, my lady. [Places them back]

Ms. Priss: Mr. SquarePants, you know the basic rules of behaving like a civilized bottom feeder. Perhaps your restaurant isn't quite the hive of degenerates it appears to be, and we had you figured all wrong.

Sandy: HEY! I resent that!

Lily: [comes with tray of Krabby Patties and sings] Aaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaah… I like Krabby Patties! I think they're swell. I like Krabby Patties, can you not tell? Krabby Patties, Krabby Patties. They're so neat. La la la la la. Sweet to eat. La la la la la. Really neat. Sweet to eat. Treat that's neat. Sweet treat sweet treat. [Utter Gibberish] La la la la la la la la laaaaaaaa!

Ms. Priss: [blows her whistle, causing everyone to flinch and make SpongeBob fall on the floor, Patties and all] Look at this wild hooligan! Running amok, singing, dancing. It's… It's shameless. [Zooms in on Priss's face] Disgusting. Avert your eyes. [grabs onto SpongeBob] Young man, what has caused you to act like this? I must know!

Lily: Actually, ma'am, [holds up a Krabby Patty] it was the absolute fun and deliciousness of a Krabby Patty.

Ms. Priss: Krabby Patty?

SpongeBob: Yeah, that's right.

Ms. Priss: Well, anything this fun and delicious can't be good. Why, what would this world be if everyone cavorted it in such a manner?

Mr. Krabs: [Outraged] Who are you with your tight lips, raised eyebrows, and conservative clothes?

Ms. Priss: I am Ms. Gristlepuss. We are T he U nited O rganization O f F ish A gainst T hings T hat A re F un A nd D elicious. Or, T.U.O.O.F.A.T.T.A.F.A.D. for short. And we are going to ban these so called "Krabby Patties", and close your restaurant forever!

Mr. Krabs: Ok, if you're trying to shut down me restaurant because of my criminal record, I would understand. But you can't shut it down because it's fun!

Lily: That's right! You can't close down the restaurant! That's unlawful!

Ms. Priss: Oh yes we will!

Nico: Like hell you are!

Nico came up to them.

Ms. Gristlepuss: And who are you?

Nico: I'm Nicolas Chan. But everyone calls me Nico. Understand something. If you're posing a threat to the Krusty Krab, me and the Neptune Crusaders will take you down.

Ms. Gristlepuss: If we pose a threat? You have a spaceship with a planet destroying laser pointing down! This is one of the reasons why the Krusty Krab needs to be closed. To stop promoting terrorists like you!

Lana: The only terrorists are you fish for robbing everyone of fun and delicious food!

Lily: That's right! If you want to close down the Krusty Krab, you'll have to go through me and all of the Neptune Crusaders!

All of the Neptune Crusaders stood ready to rip them apart and turn them into chum!

Ms. Gristlepuss: Then our friend will have to kill all of you!

Then in came a huge fish and it was the mercenary DENNIS!

---

Dennis was an assassin who was hired by Sheldon J. Plankton to kill SpongeBob SquarePants and Patrick Star, making his first appearance when Plankton told his computer wife Karen about having someone who would kill the heroes. The reason being that Plankton stole King Neptune's crown sold it to a forbidden land called Shell City and framed Eugene H. Krabs for the crime, so Neptune threatened to execute Mr. Krabs (via burning by fire) unless the crown was to be retrieved within a period of six days; Plankton, obviously, wanted Krabs to die of a painful and wrongful execution, and upon learning SpongeBob's and Patrick's journey to get the crown back, he knew that Neptune would discover that Plankton was the thief, so he sent Dennis after them.

Dennis first appears in the film after SpongeBob and Patrick left on a mission to bring the crown back to King Neptune, he inspects left behind sesame seeds from the Patty Wagon and the two gasoline workers insult his hat. Annoyed by this, he literally pulls their mouths off before resuming his search for SpongeBob and Patrick.

Later in the film, SpongeBob and Patrick encountered Dennis for the first time during the middle of their journey. Dennis removes Spongebob and Patrick's mustaches that were used to become "men" (which are made of sea grass and given by Princess Mindy) from their faces, calling the duo out on their stupidity on the obviously fake mustaches, before advancing on them. When SpongeBob asks why Dennis wants to kill him and Patrick, Dennis explains Plankton hired him to do so, and in his overconfidence, he accidentally reveals to his victims that Plankton was the one who stole the crown and sent it to Shell City. Dennis then lifts up his foot to crush the duo with his "big" spike boot, only to be crushed by the Cyclops' "bigger boot".

After what happened at Shell City, SpongeBob and Patrick escape and ride on the backside of David Hasselhoff, who speedily swims through the ocean in order to send them back to Bikini Bottom. During the middle of the swim, SpongeBob and Patrick see the boot of the Cyclops that he stepped on Dennis with. It stops behind his foot and lifts back to show Dennis, who is squished into a green pulp like Plankton always does when somebody steps on him. Dennis then detaches from the boot and onto Hasselhoff, revealing that he is still alive. He tries to kill SpongeBob and Patrick. Dennis grabs SpongeBob by the throat but the latter blows soap bubbles into the hitman's eyes, making him to toss SpongeBob, but Patrick manages to catch him. The enraged Dennis then corners SpongeBob on Hasselhoff's heel. As Dennis prepares to crush SpongeBob and Patrick with his cleated boot, he suddenly hears the honk of a boat's horn. Dennis turns around to see, to his horror, Hasselhoff swimming straight towards a catamaran. Dennis is struck by the catamaran and falls back into the sea below, never to be seen again, though his fate remains uncertain.

Dennis: Miss me, kid?

SpongeBob: D-D-D-D-D-D-D-D-D-D-DENNIS!?

Lily: I remember this guy! He appeared in my vision I had when I stopped Plankton.

Mr. Krabs: Really?

Lily: Yeah!

Varie: Lets get these clods guys!

Megaforce Rangers: Legendary Ranger Mode: Turbo!

The Megaforce Power Rangers turned into the Turbo Power Rangers! Troy Burrows was the Red Turbo Ranger, Noah Carvers was the Blue Turbo Ranger, Gia Moran was the Yellow Turbo Ranger, Jake Halling was the Green Turbo Ranger, Emma Goodall was the Pink Turbo Ranger and Orion was the Blue Senturion Ranger

Dennis: You think a bunch of race car drivers and a robot are gonna stop me?

Orion: Hey! I resent that!

Varie: Lets rip these clods apart!

They went at them and a vicious fight broke out! Varie punched Dennis in the face with devastating force and knocked out some of his teeth. Lana fired a powerful blast of ice lightning and froze his feet off. Troy Burrows punched Dennis all over his face and knocked out all his teeth. Noah Carver punched him in the stomach and kicked him in the crotch and Jake Halling punched him in the chest and kicked him in the face. Gia Moran and Emma Goodall blasted him with their Turbo Blasters and they hit his legs and burned him. Orion punched him in the face all over. Bai Tza fired a powerful blast of water at Dennis and it slammed into his face and knocked out some more of his teeth. Girl Jordan fired a powerful blast of water that turned into a powerful dragon and it slammed into him and exploded. Irma and Maria fired a powerful blast of water at Dennis and it hit him and exploded. SpongeBob threw a powerful vat of scalding grease at Dennis and it covered his face and Dennis screamed in excruciating pain.

Nico: Dennis, you have failed this ocean!

Varie: Lets knock him down with our teamwork!

Breakdown: You got it bossette.

Varie: Bossette. I like that.

Breakdown: CYBER KEY POWER!

The Earth Cyber Planet Key went into Breakdown's back and it enhanced his concussion rifle 100-fold.

Sinnertwin: Lets get him! CYBER KEY POWER!

The Animatron Cyber Planet Key went into his back and enhanced his flame cannon 100-fold.

Breakdown and Sinnertwin: INFERNO SONIC CONCUSSION BURST!

Breakdown fired a powerful concussion blast and Sinnertwin fired a powerful flame blast and the blasts combined and burned Dennis all over.

Firefight: Lets get him! CYBER KEY POWER!

The Earth Cyber Planet Key went into his back and enhanced his fire fog missiles 100-fold.

Donald Duck: LET ME AT HER! ANIMATRON CYBER KEY POWER!

The Animatron Cyber Planet Key went into his right arm device and it enhanced his heavy object throwing powers 100-fold.

Firefight and Donald Duck: ANVIL MISSILE FIRESTORM!

Donald Duck threw a barrage of anvils and Firefight fired a powerful barrage of fire-fog missiles and they hit Dennis all over and exploded.

KRABBBBBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOO

Dennis was knocked out.

Lana froze him in a block of ice.

Nico: Stick around.

They turned their sights on the T.U.O.O.F.A.T.T.A.F.A.D. fish.

Bai Tza: You are not welcome in our favorite restaurant. What you are doing is very similar to the 18th amendment during the Great Prohibition back in the 1920's.

Lana: You old hags make me sick!

Bai Tza: Do you really think that we're terrorists just because we have a planet destroying laser? We would never use that against Earth!

Ms. Priss: LIAR! You are a menace to our world and you deserve to die!

Bai Tza: Shut up! MAELSTROM SPIN STRIKE!

Bai Tza spun around in a powerful tornado of water and spun them around in a vortex of water.

Maria: You ruined too many restaurants and destroyed the lives of many people! WATER DRAGON BURST RAY!

Maria fired a powerful blast of water and it turned into a dragon and it slammed into the old fish and exploded.

SpongeBob: You are bad fish! KRABBY PATTY BOMB STRIKE!

SpongeBob threw a Krabby Patty bomb and it hit the hags and exploded.

KRABBBBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOO

Mr. Krabs: This is for trying to ban me restaurant! KRABBY PATTY SUPER BOMB!

Mr. Krabs threw a Krabby Patty and it hit the old fish and exploded big.

KRABBBBBBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOO

Lily: You all are looking at spending the rest of your miserable lives in prison.

Dennis was sentenced to eternity in the Bikini Badlands Supermax Prison. Turns out the Bikini Bottom police have been after him for years for a bunch of numerous crimes and atrocities. He was put into the triple supermax part of the prison. The fish of T.U.O.O.F.A.T.T.A.F.A.D. were sentenced to life in the Ross Ice Shelf Supermax prison without parole and they now live in Plankton's old cell. They were also ordered to unban all of the restaurants that were falsely shut down because of their stupid lack of taste and ordered to pay $900 decillion in damages.

Bai Tza: (To the viewers) Organizations that ban restaurants for no good reason are stupid and a bunch of dumb idiots and if they want to ban restaurants, they will answer to us.

Varie: You said it Bai Tza.

Later they had SpongeBob annoy the hell out of Squidward in the Insane Asylum all day and he was driven further over the edge of insanity even more. They put an end to an evil organization of old hags that hate all things that are fun and delicious. Stupid hags.

THE END

---

Another Fanfiction Complete and another SpongeBob Episode done.

Banned In Bikini Bottom was a silly and funny episode that aired in Season 5 on November 23rd, 2007. But those old hags were stupid for banning the Krusty Krab and their food! STUPID FISH! Alec Baldwin voiced Dennis in the SpongeBob SquarePants Movie and he did a great job. NicoChan11 gave me the ideas for this. Thanks man. Let me know what you all think. Next up after our break tomorrow is the first chapter for Regular Show. We're gonna face The Hammer.

See you all on Monday

Revenge of The Hammer

In Paris, world famous fashion designer Gabriel Agreste was going home after a long day of villainy and fashion ratings.

Gabriel: What a day. Between making fashion designs and creating minions to fight Ladybug, I could use some sleep.

Gabriel then found Nico in his living room.

Gabriel: Nicolas Chan?!

Nico: That's my name. Don't wear it out. Pretty nice place you got here. You really have it good.

Gabriel: What are you doing in my house?

Nico: I'm gonna get right to the point. I know you're trying to get the Miraculous to help your wife. So, I'm gonna give you this one chance. Quit the villain business while you can. Before my friends lose their patience and end your crimes in less civil ways.

Gabriel: You think I'm just going to stop trying to help Emile?! I will do anything I can to bring my family back together! Just like you would do anything to protect yours.

Nico: Well, I tried. But don't worry. When we face you in the future, we'll have you locked up in a Paris jail. But you'll never see us coming or when we'll show up in Paris.

Gabriel: If you tell Adrien about what I've been doing-

Nico: You can't seriously think you can keep your Hawk Moth identity a secret from Adrien and everyone else, can you? People who aren't gullible are bound to find out sooner or later. It's only a matter of time.

With that, Nico teleported out, leaving Gabriel a lot to think about.

---

Back at the estate in Gotham Royal York, I was reading some newspaper articles over in France on the computer about the awesome achievements Marinette and her friends go through on a daily basis.

Me: Wow. Marinette goes through the same things we do. But she doesn't have the same special privileges that we do.

Qin: I know. It's just hard to imagine. But one of these days the truth will surface.

Me: It sure will. Everyone has a right to know. And I just found out from our spy bugs in Paris that Gabriel and Lila with her powers as Volpina are planning to overthrow Grodd and rule over them after they get the Miraculous.

Lori: What!? That's crazy!

Me: Grodd is not to be taken lightly.

Lincoln: Should we warn the Legion and tell them?

Me: No. Grodd already knows and he has enough on his plate already with dealing with us and them.

Nico then came in.

Me: Hey Nico.

Nico: Hey guys.

Me: Did he get the message?

Nico: He sure did.

Skydive: That was pretty risky going into Gabriel's house like that.

Nico: But now, he's going to be a lot nervous about us coming to Paris.

Me: I'm sure he won't take our threats very seriously. Knowing how we fought all kinds of evil enemies in the past, we have to be ready for anything he throws at us.

Laney: That's right.

Mike (Samurai): I think there's a small chance that Hawk Moth might get defeated before we meet Ladybug and Cat Noir.

Bai Tza: Don't be too sure. Not every villain gets defeated quickly like most of the Nighlok you guys faced.

Me: That's right.

Laney: But who was the most despicable villain that Hawk Moth made?

Me: That's an easy one. It's a girl named Lila Rossi A.K.A. Volpina.

I pulled up her information.

---

Lila Ross is an Italian student in Miss Bustier's class at Collège Françoise Dupont and the tertiary antagonist of Miraculous: Tales of Ladybug & Cat Noir. Her lying behavior tends to cause great trouble for Ladybug and Cat Noir.

In "Volpina", after Ladybug humiliates her in front of Adrien Agreste by exposing her lies about the both of them being close friends and her owning the Fox Miraculous, she is akumatized by Hawk Moth into Volpina, a fox-themed supervillain who is a master of illusions.

In "Heroes' Day", after Gabriel Agreste calls Volpina a false hero in comparison to Ladybug on TV, she is once again akumatized as Volpina. Afterwards she takes part in Hawk Moth's plan to acquire the Ladybug and Cat Miraculouses.

Later in "Chameleon", in order to get revenge on Ladybug again, she willingly becomes akumatized into Chameleon, a shape-shifting supervillain.

---

Qin: That girl is a monster!

Me: She is. But since she's only 15 she'll go to juvie.

May: Why does she hate Marinette so much?

Me: She wants revenge on her for humiliating her. Her parents created a monster from Hell. If Juvie doesn't help her out, then we'll kill her. Wait a second! Azula, Lila Rossi might be going through exactly like what you went through.

Azula: How do you figure that?

Me: Well you went through many schizophrenic episodes before and during the arrival of Sozin's Comet right?

Azula: Yes. I remember all that.

Eion: What does this have to do with Aunt Azula?

Me: Well I have a very strong feeling that Lila is turning into a Homicidal Psychopath like Azula was.

Nico: You might very well be right.

Me: Let me see here.

I looked up Lila Rossi's brain scan through the satellites and what I saw was absolutely shocking. She does indeed have the worst kind of Schizophrenia. Lila has what's called Homicidal Schizophrenia and she is a danger both to herself and to everyone around her! Because of Marinette humiliating her and defeating her, her brain is slowly dying.

Nico: Whoa! She's a lunatic!

Me: No kidding! She is a monster! If we don't stop her soon, she could kill someone. Her parents made a really fucked up monster.

Lincoln: No kidding.

Mizore: So we'll have no choice but to send her to the Saturn Insane

Asylum.

Me: That is the only option.

Nico: Yep.

Me: But we'll worry about that later. You guys want to go to the park for some fun?

Everyone: Yeah!

Me: Okay. Lets go. I know a good park on the eastern side of town.

Lincoln: I know that park. That's the park we saw on Regular Show.

Me: That show was awesome! And everyone got back from a 3 year mission in space. This was before we formed Team Loud Phoenix Storm.

Laney: That was so cool!

Lana: It sure was. But Mordecai and Rigby's boss, Benson was a total jerk.

Lola: (Older Voice) He may be a jerk with a nasty temper, but he does try to help get his workers to do a good job.

Lisa: That is correct.

Nico: Lets go then.

We were off to the park.

We were walking through the city to the park.

---

At the park, Mordecai - an Anthropomorphic Blue Jay Bird and Rigby - an Anthropomorphic Raccoon were telling Benson - An Anthropomorphic Gumball Machine about us coming to the park.

Benson: Oh, man. This is so bad!

Muscle Man: What's the big deal, bro? Team Loud Phoenix Storm aren't that bad, are they?

Benson: You know what they do to strict people like me! When they get here, I'm a dead man! (gets an idea) Muscle Man, I need you to beat me up as hard as you can!

Muscle Man (shrugs): Alright. (punches Benson in the stomach)

BOOF!

Benson (grunts in pain): Is that all you got? You hit like a girl!

Muscle Man (gets mad): I'll show you who hits like a girl! (punches Benson several times)

POW! BIFF! CRACK! SMASH! BAM! ZONK! CRASH! SMASH! BLAM! BANG!

We arrived.

Me: Here we are guys.

Laney: Wow. It's such a beautiful park.

Lynn: I wouldn't mind coming here for a quick sports practice session.

Lightning: Me neither.

We saw Benson and the guys.

Mordecai: Hey guys!

Me: Hey Mordecai. It's a pleasure to meet you.

Rigby: You guys are awesome!

Benson (covered in bruises and with a black eye): Hey, guys.

Maria: Benson, what in God's name happened to you?!

Benson: (smiles weakly) Well, I had Muscle Man beat me up. So now, you don't have to kill me for being too strict with Mordecai and Rigby.

Dead End: What makes you think we were going to kill you?

Benson: Well, I saw what you did with people like Truffles.

Me: Well she was insane.

William: We need to have a serious discussion in your house. And we'll need to heal your bruises!

We went into the house.

Me: You guys have a nice pad Mordecai.

Mordecai: Thanks man.

Rigby: You guys up for video games?

Lily: You know I am.

Nicole: Me too.

Rigby: I can't wait to challenge the mighty Goddess of Video Games and her student.

Mordecai: Aw Yeahyah!

Me: Have fun guys.

They were playing Kirby Super Star Allies on Switch.

We were healing Benson.

Agony: Benson, what the hell were you and Muscle Man thinking?

Benson: I was thinking that I didn't want to die. I mean, I know I can be harsh to Mordecai and Rigby at times. But I'm just doing my job. I'm not a bad guy.

Muscle Man: And Benson told me to beat him up!

Optimus Prime: We know you aren't, Benson. All we were going to do is put a shock garter around your leg to control your anger. And we still are, actually.

Benson: So, I got beat up for nothing?

Nico: Pretty much. Next time, don't jump to conclusions so quickly.

Me: Yeah you may be a jerk, but you're just doing your job and making sure everything doesn't fall apart.

Pops came in.

Pops: That's right, but that's what I keep telling him.

Lana: You're a good guy Pops.

Lola: I agree with Pops. I learned this from Aylene. If you always treat someone with only anger, that's all that they will know. Rage is a very dangerous and deadly emotion and it can result in serious consequences both mentally and physically.

Benson: I guess I never really thought about that. I really do have some problems with my temper.

Skips, the anthropomorphic immortal Yeti was with us.

Skips: I agree with Lola on this one Benson. What she said was really wise and very philosophical.

Benson: I understand that clearly. But maybe I can put my anger to good use. I can work with you guys and use it to destroy bad guys like you guys can.

Me: That's a good idea. In your show in the episode Think Positive you were awesome Benson.

Benson: That was a good episode. But I can't believe I was holding in my anger like that.

Me: If a normal person did that, they would explode from extremely high blood pressure. Or have a heart attack.

Skips: That's right Benson. Rage is a very dangerous and unpredictable emotion.

Bleez: That's right. I'm a Red Lantern and we govern the emotion of Rage and it can be really dangerous if someones rage gets out of control.

Nicole: Aw yeah!

Nicole just won.

Rigby: That was awesome!

Mordecai: I bow before you great goddess of Video Games.

Lily: She's my mentor in video games. Nicole has been teaching me all about how to play video games.

Mordecai: That is awesome!

Rigby: That is cool!

Mordecai: Maybe you can show us how to defeat the Hammer.

Nico: I remember that one. You guys had to throw stuff at it to defeat it.

Rigby: Yep.

Qin: Who is the Hammer?

Me: He was one of the first villains on Regular Show.

I went over the history of the Hammer.

---

The Hammer is the final boss of a nameless video game about a Karate Duo going through levels while having to defeat enemies, such as the Triple Thugs and the Big Pink Monster, who can only be defeated by "kicking them in the junk", which means to literally kick them in the pile of garbage they're carrying. The Hammer is the final boss in the game. He is invulnerable to regular attacks and takes away a whole life with a single attack. He can only be damaged when he's hit with furniture. While starting to play the game on a mysterious foreign television, A blackout occurred, the TV, game system, controllers, and plugs came to life and formed a blue holographic body around it, creating a physical form in the real world for the Hammer, who quickly proceeded to beat up Mordecai, Rigby, Pops, Skips, Muscle Man, and Hi Five Ghost. Even as far as killing Jimmy. Mordecai eventually remembered that furniture was the only way to beat him, so everyone grabbed anything they could find and started to hit the Hammer with it. Just as the Hammer was about to come down on Skips, Mordecai threw a chair to Skips, and the Hammer hit his crotch on the back of the chair. Mordecai and Rigby then killed him once and for all by pinning him down, grabbing the control pads in his hands, and defeating him in the game. And the city's power came back on.

In "Exit 9B", he is revived by Garrett Bobby Ferguson Jr. He is seen fighting the God of Basketball during the episode. However, he was sent back into the portal to the afterlife after Thomas signed the document that made the park a historical landmark.

In "Expert or Liar", he appears in a video game obstacle course testing Rigby's knowledge of video games. Rigby correctly answers that his weakness is furniture and moves on.

---

Qin: Whoa! He must be really tough!

Nico: He was.

Lily: You want to play with us Benson?

Benson: So, you want me to play this video game that the Hammer came from?

Hay Lin: Yep! It'll teach you to relax and have some fun once in a while.

Shockwave: I'll play as well. I could use some practice for when I fight the Akumatized villain, Gamer.

Me: That's right. Gamer is a tough one and Nicole could easily beat him.

Nicole: I could. But I would rather save the battles with the Akuma for the entirety of the Redemption Squad.

Nico: Very sporting.

Me: Go for it guys. Wait, I just remembered.

I pulled out the list of Akuma that I printed and I saw that Marinette's best friend Alya is also a villain named Lady Wi-Fi.

Me: Marinette's best friend Alya was turned into Lady Wi-Fi because of Hawk Moth.

Livewire: I remember seeing that. That's gonna be a challenge.

Me: If lightning overloads the Internet it will destroy it.

Anakin: How did Alya turn into Lady Wi-Fi?

Me: That is a very dark story Master Anakin. Because of Chloe's lies, Alya planned to expose her. Hawk Moth got word of this and turned Alya into Lady Wi-Fi.

Anakin: That is very similar to what happened to me when Palpatine turned me to the Dark Side of The Force.

Me: That is almost fully identical. But you were turned to the Dark Side of the Force on your own free will because of his lies. Alya was turned into Lady Wi-Fi against her will because of Hawk Moth detecting her Negative Energy.

Anakin: That is very similar.

Me: When we face Hawk Moth coming up, it's gonna be one helluva war. But we can't kill any of them because they were all made villains against their will.

Nico: I know.

They were playing the video game and then the TV started sparking and it turned into the Video Game villain: THE HAMMER!

Me: The Hammer!

Nico: The Hammer!

Me: Lets power up and get him! But not in here. Lets take the fight outside.

We went outside and powered up and transformed.

Megaforce Rangers: Legendary Ranger Mode: Alien!

Troy Burrows became the Red Aquitar Ranger, Noah Carver became the blue Aquitar Ranger, Gia Moran turned into the Yellow Aquitar Ranger, Emma Goodall turned into the White Aquitar Ranger, Jake Halling turned into the Black Aquitar Ranger and Orion turned into Ninjor.

Delphine: (Alien Voice) The Megaforce Rangers look good as us in our ranger forms.

Maria: They sure do Delphine.

Me: Lets get him!

We all went at the Hammer and I punched him in the face and knocked him down.

He got up and Jake Halling went at him.

Jake Halling (jumps onto the Hammer's back) C'mon, asshole! (stabs Aquitar Saber onto the Hammer's back)

The Hammer just pulled him off and threw Jake at Skips, knocking them both down.

Skips: Ow. He's still as big a danger as he was before.

Me: I remember you have to throw stuff at him.

I formed a boulder at the Hammer and it slammed into him with incredible force.

CRASH!

Nico: The Hammer, you have failed the world of Video Games!

Nico fired a powerful blast of water and it shorted him out.

Maria: Water works on him because he's made of electricity!

Lily: Lets get him!

Lily and Maria fired a massive blast of water and drenched him. He was shorting all over the place.

Bai Tza fired a powerful blast of water and drenched him and he was shorting all over. Troy Burrows slashed the Hammer with his Aquitar sword, Noah Carver fired energy beams from his saber, Gia Moran and Emma Goodall fired lasers from their sabers and punched him all over and Jake Halling punched and kicked him all over the place and Orion punched and kicked him all over.

Me: Lets take him down with some teamwork!

Dead End: Right boss! CYBER KEY POWER!

The Earth Cyber Planet Key went into his back and it enhanced his Compressor-Air Gun 100-fold

Bai Tza: No mercy! ANIMATRON CYBER KEY POWER!

The Animatron Cyber Planet Key went into Bai Tza's right arm device and it enhanced her water powers 100-fold.

Dead End and Bai Tza: HORRIBLE HURRICANE MAELSTROM!

Dead End fired a massive blast of air and Bai Tza fired a powerful blast of water and the blasts combined and turned into a deadly water tornado. It slammed into the Hammer and spun him around and he was getting shorted out.

Skydive: Lets get him! CYBER KEY POWER!

The Earth Cyber Planet Key went into his back and it enhanced his Nega-Gun 100-fold.

Agony: We are ready for anything! GIGANTION CYBER KEY POWER!

The Gigantion Cyber Planet Key went into Agony's arm device and enhanced her strength and powers 100-fold.

Skydive and Agony: NEGATIVE SYMBIOTE BREAKER!

Skydive fired a powerful Nega-Gun blast and Agony fired powerful laser blasts from her tentacles and the blasts combined and hit the Hammer and exploded.

KRABBBBBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOO

Me: Time to finish this freak off for good!

Nicole: You got it dad! He is a disgrace to all video games! STAR DRAGON FIRESTORM!

Nicole fired a powerful barrage of Star Dragons and they all hit the Hammer and exploded with incredible power.

KRABBBBBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOO

Lily: Nice! This is for making all video games look bad. CELTIC AQUA TREEDISK!

Lily formed a circle with the Celtic Tree of Life made of pure glowing water and she threw it at the Hammer and it hit him and exploded.

KRABBBBBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOMMM!

Rigby: This is gonna be awesome! Let me see here. RACCOON DARKBURST BOMB!

Rigby fired a powerful ball of dark energy at the Hammer and it hit him and exploded into a powerful black hole that sucked in objects and they slammed into him with incredible force.

Me: Wow! That was awesome!

Mordecai: That was awesome Rigby!

Samus: That's exactly like what happened when I got the Dark Beam on Planet Aether.

Janeen: I remember that mom. That was so cool!

Nico: That was amazing!

Troy Burrows: Lets get him guys!

Megaforce Rangers: AQUITAR RANGER BLAST!

The Megaforce Rangers fired a powerful blast of energy from their sabers and it hit the Hammer and exploded.

KRABBBBBBBBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOO

Mordecai: That was cool! Let me see here. SUNBURST LIGHT BOMB!

Mordecai fired a powerful blast of rainbow light and it slammed into the Hammer and exploded into a massive blast of white light and completely obliterated him into nothing.

Me: Whoa! That was awesome!

Benson: That was really well done guys.

Mordecai: Thanks Benson.

But then the Hammer appeared as a spirit!

Mordecai: Are you kidding me? The Hammer's a spirit now!

Skips: Keep him busy! I'll get Death to take care of him!

Laney: I got this!

Laney tied up the Hammer in bramble vines. Then a portal opened up and out of it riding on a motorcycle was Death.

Death: Hey guys.

Lucy Loud: Hey Death. It's great to see you again.

Death: You too Lucy. Looks like the Hammer escaped from Hell. I got this.

Death sent the Hammer back to Hell where he belongs.

Death: That's that.

Skips: Thanks again Death.

Death: Any time Skips. And Lucy, your great grandmother Harriet says hello.

Lucy Loud: Tell her we all said hi too.

Death: Will do.

Death went back to the Underworld.

Me: That was so cool!

Lori: That literally the coolest thing ever.

Mordecai: Aww yeahah! (To the viewers) These guys are just that good! It's gonna be so cool working for them and the park.

Me: It sure is. You did a great job Mordecai. You too Rigby.

Rigby: Thanks J.D.

---

Later we went back to the estate after having fun at the park and relaxing.

Lily: Hey guys. I have a song I would like to perform for you all.

Me: What is it Lily?

Lily: I'm going to be singing Heroes by The Wallflowers.

Nico: That's a great song. David Bowie originally sang that song.

Lana: That's one of my favorites.

Me: Go for it Lily.

Lily: Okay. Luna can I borrow your axe?

Luna: You got it sis.

Luna let her use her axe.

Lily started playing and the room changed to a beautiful solar eclipse.

Lily: (Singing Divinely)

I, I wish you could swim

Like the dolphins

Like dolphins can swim

Though nothing

Will keep us together

We can beat them

For ever and ever

Oh, we can be heroes

Just for one day

I, I will be king

And you, you will be queen

Though nothing

Will drive them away

We can be heroes

Just for one day

We can be us

Just for one day

I, I can remember

Standing by the wall

And the guns shot above our heads

And we kissed as though nothing could fall

And the shame

Was on the other side

Oh, we can beat them

For ever and ever

Then we can be heroes

Just for one day

We can be heroes

We can be heroes

We can be heroes

Just for one day

We saw scenes from my favorite awesome TV series Heroes play in the background and we saw awesome scenes of action and awesome acts of heroism done by man people with awesome abilities they were given and it was awesome! We saw a lot of action and a lot of powers. We saw one kid with the power to control time, one girl was invincible, and many others. We were just in awe! But then we saw a massive explosion detonating in the middle of New York City and it carried the explosive power of a 35 gigaton nuclear explosion. It was powerful! We saw a man fly up and detonate the explosion safely in space and saving numerous lives from death. When the song was over we cheered wildly.

Me: That was awesome!

Lori: That was literally the most amazing song ever Lily!

Lily: Thanks guys.

Me: You sang that song really well Lily. All those scenes we saw were from my favorite show Heroes. I haven't watched that show in years.

Nico: That was so cool! That eclipse was beautiful but it was amazing.

Lori: That show Heroes was literally one of my favorites too.

Me: Looks like you and me and Heroes lovers Lori.

Lily: I love that show as well. It was so cool.

Me: It sure was.

Lincoln: When did that show air?

Me: Lets see.

I looked up the info.

Me: It aired from September 25th, 2006 to February 8th, 2010.

Lori: So it was only on for 4 seasons.

Me: Exactly. But the special effects in that show were incredible. My favorite character was Hiro. He had the power to control time.

Lola: I liked Claire. She was awesome and how she came out of any bad situation unharmed.

Me: I know. She had powerful regenerative abilities. I have a strong feeling that we're gonna meet the characters of Heroes in the future.

Lori: Then a Solar Eclipse will bring them here.

Me: The next Total Solar Eclipse that will appear over Michigan is not until 2024.

Nico: That's 5 years from now.

Me: We've got plenty of time till then. The heroes in the show were hunted down like wild animals so that they can be used by the government as powerful weapons. That is completely barbaric!

Nico: If they do come here, we'll place them under our protection.

Me: Right Nico.

---

Later at the Antarctica Prison, Qin, Megan, Cornelia, Lois Lane and Nico were there to talk to John Corben, formerly Metallo.

Qin: So you faced this Metallo before Nico?

Nico: I sure did and he was one of Superman's most dangerous adversaries.

Lois Lane: His real name was John Corben. He used to work for Lex Luthor.

Megan: I remember this guy.

Nico went over John Corben's history.

---

John Corben was originally a top-tier mercenary. At one time, he led a team of mercenaries to steal the Lexo-Skel Suit 5000 from LexCorp, a theft staged by Lex Luthor for the benefit of the Regent of Kaznia. When Lois Lane tracked the thieves to their ship in Metropolis Harbor, Corben caught her and prepared to kill her, but Superman intervened. To give himself a fighting chance, Corben mounted the Lexo-Skel himself and engaged Superman in a fight that raged across Metropolis, ending when Superman tore the suit apart. Although Luthor represented to the Regent's lawyer that he had fulfilled his part of the bargain by letting "the Regent's men" take possession of the suit, Luthor subsequently acted as though Corben had been working for him.

Corben was sent to Stryker's Island Prison, where he refused to give details on his employers. For this reason, his cell featured ample creature comforts and gourmet meals, supplied by an apparently-grateful Luthor. A few months after his imprisonment, he was shocked to be told that he was suffering from a rare and terminal viral disease called Orozco's Retrovirus found only in a small island in the South Seas off the coast of South America. While looking at his prison record, Clark Kent was perplexed at how John Corben could have contracted this disease, not being native to the tiny island where the only cases are known. Lois Lane chalked it up to the fact that Corben was an international mercenary with outstanding warrants in several nations, thus it made better sense that with such globe-trotting Corben would be more at risk for exposure to rare diseases.

Luthor helped Corben escape, and in exchange for his discretion, offered him a way to avoid death: LexCorp scientists would transfer his mind into an indestructible android body made of metallo, possessing strength equal to Superman's and powered by a Kryptonite heart. Feeling he had nothing to lose, Corben agreed. Upon the completion, Corben's android body was covered with a layer of artificial skin, which, aside from a rectangular seam which could expose his Kryptonite heart, allowed him to pass himself off as his original body. At first, Corben was thrilled with his new abilities, which allowed him to fight Superman nearly to the death. However, when he realized that he could no longer smell, eat or feel, he became disenchanted and abandoned the fight. Corben sought out LexCorp scientists, demanding that they make the "adjustments" they talked about when he awoke in his new body. However, the scientists confessed that they really meant Corben himself had to adjust to his transformation, which was irreversible. Upon hearing this news, Corben went insane, ripping away part of his artificial skin and officially adopting the identity "Metallo". Metallo angrily confronted Luthor on his yacht, who tried to reassure him that his condition could be fixed, given time. He went on saying that even if Metallo kills him, it would not satisfy him given his "practically immortal" nature, making him reconsider killing Luthor. Luthor then drives his yacht to a lab to repair Metallo's skin. On the way, Luthor tells him that while he'll repair Metallo's skin, he still needs to kill Superman to which the cyborg advises his boss to be patient as they both need to be given time. Just then, Superman arrived and revealed that Luthor had deliberately arranged for Corben to be infected with the disease, just so Luthor could use him as a guinea pig for the Metallo experiment. Metallo turned on Luthor, but Superman intervened. Luthor's yacht was destroyed in the battle, leaving Metallo stranded beneath the sea, but still alive.

Metallo resurfaced from the ocean on a volcanic island, having suffered amnesia after the explosion. His clothes and artificial skin had been completely disintegrated following the last battle, leaving him as nothing but a skeletal featureless android. He was found by two children, Sarita and Bobby Felix, who decided he was a "hero" because of his resemblance to their action figures. This idea of him as a hero was reinforced when Metallo did indeed perform a heroic act by shielding the two children from dangerous pyroclastics when the volcano unexpectedly burst. However, everything came back to him eventually, faster after Bobby shared his Superman toy with him. When Superman appeared on the island, helping with the evacuation from a volcanic eruption, Metallo attacked and nearly killed him. When the kids protested the action of their hero, however, Metallo was distracted enough to allow Superman to throw his Kryptonite heart into the flowing lava. Metallo desperately went after it, but wound up encased in the cooled lava unable to move or even see. Instead, he focused his mind on his identity, determined not to lose it again.

Metallo was eventually extricated by Intergang, who repaired and even improved his android body, in exchange for which he assisted in a series of bank robberies. When Superman tried to stop him, he severely weakened the Man of Steel with Kryptonite lasers. John Henry Irons, a former employee of LexCorp, donned a suit of armor and helped Superman defeat Metallo. This was the beginning of Irons' own superhero career as Steel.

Metallo later enlisted Tina, an intern at The Daily Planet, to kidnap Lois Lane in order to help him lure Superman into a trap. Fortunately, Jimmy Olsen learned of this and went to the Metropolis Junkyard to rescue him. Metallo and Superman battled again in a demolition machine, resulting in Metallo apparently being crushed by falling debris.

Justice League

Metallo survived once again, however, and returned to Metropolis to join a group of disgruntled villains who had all been previously defeated by Superman including Livewire, Toyman, Kalibak and Weather Wizard. In their fight with the Justice League, Metallo was beaten by J'onn J'onzz, though Toyman seemingly succeeded in killing Superman. Fortunately, this later turned out not to be the case.

When Grodd founded his expanded Secret Society (which was heavily based on the Legion of Doom), Metallo joined its ranks. One of his missions was to accompany Silver Banshee to the underground world of Skartaris and assist the dictator Deimos in exchange for a large chunk of Kryptonite. However, a League team composed of Green Lantern, STRIPE, Stargirl, and Supergirl, intervened on behalf of Travis Morgan's resistance. He surprised Stargirl and beat her senseless after she defeated Deimos. Then in battle with Supergirl, Metallo lost an arm when Supergirl stabbed his shoulder with Stargirl's staff. He continued battling Supergirl, who eventually grabbed a knife and removed Metallo's Kryptonite heart, leaving the mercenary paralyzed. Metallo was taken to a cave where he was briefly interrogated by Green Lantern. At first he refused to talk, but Lantern pointed out that without his Kryponite heart, his body would shut down within the next few minutes, even seconds. Metallo was about to talk, but his mind was mysteriously shut down by an unknown source (It was actually Gorilla Grodd, who would shut down the minds of anyone who betrayed him). His motionless body was later taken to the Watchtower, to see if J'onn could probe what was left of his mind for information. Metallo's ultimate fate is unknown.

Qin: Whoa! So he was dying and Lex Luthor made him into Metallo?

Nico: Yep. He put up one helluva fight. It took everything I had to beat him. But it was because of Lex Luthor that he was robbed of his humanity. But thanks to J.D. he got his humanity back.

Megan: He sure did.

The arrived at John Corben's cell. John saw them.

Nico: Hello John.

John Corben: Nico, it's good to see you again my friend. I see you got lovely ladies and Ms. Lois Lane with you.

Nico: Yep. We came here to talk to you.

Cornelia: We just want to say that we're sorry for what Luthor did to you.

John Corben: You do know about my other crimes, right?

Qin: They probably wouldn't have happened if Luthor didn't give you that virus in the first place.

Megan: To make up for that, we're going to put some monitors in your cell so you can view our Icky Vicky rants.

John Corben: I've heard about those rants that you all do up in the Jupiter Prison and they are quite enjoyable from what I've heard.

Nico: They are. But Lex Luthor was a monster that ruined the lives of many people. I'm sorry that he did this to you. Lex Luthor may have been a charismatic individual, but he was a devil.

John Corben: I agree with you on that Nico.

They set up the monitors in his cell. Not he has another fun source of entertainment in his cell.

THE END

A City for Animals By Animals

At the estate, Maria was in the bathroom with Carol as Carol was hurling her guts out. Carol caught a bad stomach bug. Carol was vomiting her guts out into the toilet.

Maria: Geez Carol, I don't know what you ate last night, but this is the worst case of food poisoning ever.

Carol: (Vomits)

Maria: Just let it all out.

Maria pat Carols back to help her.

Lisa came in.

Lisa: I believe I know what Carol consumed last night. Carol ate a bad piece of leftover cake that Lincoln brought home while helping Luan. It was tainted.

Maria: Lincoln didn't eat it did he?

Lisa: Negative.

Maria: That's a relief.

Maria took Carol to bed.

Maria: Lets get you to bed Carol.

Carol: (Weakly) Thank you Maria.

Maria put Carol into bed and put a bucket by her.

Maria: Sorry you got sick Carol. If you want me to look after you while you're sick, I can.

Carol (smiles weakly): No Maria, go have fun with the others. Vince and my kids will watch over me.

Maria: Are you sure Carol?

Carol: I'm positive. You have fun.

Maria: Okay.

Maria left.

In the middle of town, Mordecai, Rigby, Skips, Benson and Muscle Man invited us to their favorite restaurant that makes awesome chicken wings: Wing Kingdom. They had really good chicken wings and the food was delicious.

Superman: This place has the best wings in the city!

Muscle Man (smirks): You know who else has the best wings in the city? My mom!

We laughed.

Nico: Boy these are really good Chicken Wings!

Lincoln: Mmm. (With his mouth full) Delicious.

Laney: These are delicious wings.

Me: And they're really saucy and delicious.

I had wing sauce all over my face.

High Five Ghost came.

High Five Ghost: Hey fellas.

Muscle Man: Hey High Five Ghost.

Riku: Nice to meet you, High Five Ghost.

High Five Ghost: You too Riku. Mordecai and Rigby told me so much about you all and what you do.

Suddenly there was a massive flash of light and over on Lake Huron 6 miles away we saw an unbelievable sight! We saw an awesome megacity on the lake.

Me: Whoa look at that!

Laney: Where did that city come from!?

Nico: I know that city. That's Zootopia!

Me: From the awesome 2016 movie Zootopia? Wow!

Lola: I love that movie. That was awesome!

Lana: That is a city for animals by animals.

Me: This we got to see.

We finished our lunch and went to see the city. We went into Zootopia and it was by far the most amazing city we've ever seen!

Zootopia is described as a "modern, civilized world that is entirely animal", meaning it is a world where humans are nonexistent, and anthropomorphic animals thrive in their place. Originally a mammal watering hole thousands of years prior, Zootopia grew into a city built by animals, for animals. Unfortunately, Zootopia is, similar to the human world, plagued with prejudice. Small and weak animals, especially prey animals like rabbits and sheep are often underestimated by large herbivores and predators, such as elephants and tigers. The prey animals, especially the small ones, are often seen as weak and find themselves being underestimated and underappreciated. Predators are often viewed as loud, arrogant and violent by the prey, who make up 90% of the population. In spite of this, the city holds the mantra of "In Zootopia, anyone can be anything", coined by the city's noble head, Mayor Lionheart, who has worked on a project known as the Mammal Inclusion Initiative that, in theory, provides all species of mammals high-ranking opportunities in every part of Zootopian society.

To accommodate the residents of each district's environmental requirements, Zootopia's districts feature artificial climate zones. For districts with opposing climate zones, there are massive walls separating them designed to ventilate the air temperatures between the two environments, similar to air conditioners. Zootopia also features an extensive transit system for all sizes of mammal, including a smaller section for rodents to board safely from larger animals.

Development

During story development, there were other districts in the city of Zootopia that were developed but not used in the film. These include Outback Island, the Meadowlands, the Nocturnal District, the Burrows, the Canals and Happytown. The Burrows may have been a precursor of Bunnyburrow, and Happytown (actually a slummy district) seems particularly geared toward the darker, more dystopian versions of the story that were later abandoned.

Some existing cities in the diverse world of Zootopia had to get cut out of the film, although some remain on the map, as seen in the film. Those include the Meadowlands, which is all sheep; an Australian district named Outback Island; and the Nocturnal District, a city of caves. There were cities for reptiles and birds-classes of animals also not present in the film-as opposed to Zootopia's all-mammal population.

Districts

Zootopia is divided into several districts. Their names are as follows:

Sahara Square

Canyonlands

Tundratown

Polar Strait

Little Rodentia

Rainforest District

Downtown

Savanna Central

Meadowlands

Canal District

Marshlands

Nocturnal District

Outback Island

These districts were shown, alluded to, or confirmed in supplementary materials but were never mentioned or explored in the film.

---

We saw that Zootopia was an incredibly massive city that was just as big as Gotham Royal York and it was over twice the size of New York City. We found out that the whole city had a population that is entirely of Anthropomorphic animals. Animals from all over the world, big and small live here and it was by far the most amazing city we've ever encountered.

Me: Wow! This is amazing!

Lana: It's just like what we saw in the movie!

Nico: It sure is.

Syd: I'm in heaven now! I love learning about animals and this is all blowing my mind!

Troy Burrows: I've never seen a city like this for animals.

Gia Moran: Me too.

Me: This is an amazing city. Sora, have you, Donald and Goofy ever been here during your travels?

Sora: No we haven't. This is one of the worlds we haven't covered.

Me: Looks like we'll all get the chance to see this place.

We walked around and explored the city. The whole city was incredible and it was like everything we saw in the whole movie.

---

Zootopia is a gleaming metropolis populated by anthropomorphic mammals, divided into several districts including Sahara Square, Tundratown, Little Rodentia, and Rainforest District.

This film begins with a jungle which fades into a children's play about the history of Zootopia. One day, Judy Hopps, a bunny rabbit from rural Bunnyburrow, fulfills her dream of joining the Zootopia Police Department as the first rabbit officer, however, she is regularly assigned parking duty by Chief Bogo. During one of her shifts, she is manipulated by Nick Wilde, a con artist fox. Judy unlawfully arrests Duke Weaselton at Little Rodentia and is reprimanded by Bogo until Mrs. Otterton, an otter, arrives pleading help on locating her missing husband, one of the many recently missing predators. To Bogo's dismay, Judy volunteers and agrees to resign if she cannot solve the case within 48 hours. With Nick as a key witness of Mr. Otterton's disappearance, Judy locates the fox and coerces him to assist her with the investigation lest he be charged with tax evasion, which he openly admitted and Judy recorded with her carrot pen, saying "It's called a hustle, sweetheart".

After acquiring Mr. Otterton's license plate number from Mystic Springs Oasis, Judy and Nick track the vehicle from the Department of Mammal Vehicles to Mr. Big, an arctic shrew crime boss in Tundratown. Mr. Big spares their lives after learning that Judy had rescued his daughter earlier, and informs the pair that Mr. Otterton is his florist and had been picked up by his chauffeur Manchas, a black jaguar, to bring him to Mr. Big to talk about something important. However, en-route, Otterton suddenly "went savage" - reverted to a feral state - and attacked Manchas before running off. Judy and Nick locate Manchas at his home in the Rainforest District for questioning. Manchas describes the attack on him and mentions that Otterton had been yelling about "night howlers". However, before he can reveal anything else, Manchas suddenly turns savage himself and chases the pair, but they manage to escape. Judy calls the ZPD for help, but when Bogo and his reinforcements arrive, Manchas is nowhere to be found. Bogo demands Judy's resignation, but Nick takes a stand, insisting they have 10 more hours to solve the case. As the pair leave the Rainforest District, Nick opens up to Judy, revealing that he was bullied by prey animals as a cub for being a fox and subsequently became a con artist, resolving to live out the "sly fox" stereotype, as no one saw a fox as anything else.

Nick realizes that the city's traffic camera system may have captured how Manchas disappeared, and the pair consults Assistant Mayor Bellwether. They then discover that Manchas was captured by wolves, which Judy assumes is what Otterton had meant by "night howlers". Judy and Nick locate Cliffside Asylum, where the wolves have detained the missing predators (including Mr. Otterton), all of which have gone savage, and eavesdrop on Mayor Lionheart consulting with a doctor about their condition, revealing that he is keeping the savage predators hidden from both the public and the ZPD, and that the cause their strange behavior is unknown. The pair escape, inform Bogo and the police swarm the area, arresting Lionheart and those involved. Bellwether subsequently becomes the new mayor.

Having developed a friendship with Nick throughout the case, Judy requests that he joins the ZPD and become her partner, which Nick happily considers. However, during a press conference, a pressured Judy describes the savaged predators' condition as them reverting to their natural instincts. This seemingly confirms Judy's bigotry against foxes to Nick, who angrily walks out on her offer. When fear and discrimination against predators spreads across Zootopia, a guilt-ridden Judy resigns. During this time, Gazelle holds a peaceful protest and publicly asks for the harmonious Zootopia she loves to be restored.

Two to three months later, Judy has returned to Bunnyburrow and rejoined the family business as a carrot farmer. However, she later learns from her parents and reformed childhood bully, fox Gideon Grey, that "night howlers" are toxic flowers that have severe psychotropic effects on mammals. Realizing that the flowers are what Otterton was referring to and that they must be the cause of the outbreaks, Judy returns to Zootopia, where she reconciles with Nick. They then locate Weaselton, who explains that he has been collecting night howlers for a ram named Doug Ramses, who owns a lab hidden in the subway tunnels. The pair finds the lab and discovers Doug creating a night howler serum which he has been exposing to predators via paintball-like pellets fired by an air-powered sniper gun. Judy and Nick hijack the lab (which is on a still functional train) and race to the ZPD with the evidence but are pursued by Doug's henchrams, whom they barely manage to defeat. The train is destroyed in the process, but Nick manages to save a case containing Doug's sniper gun and the serum pellet.

Just short of the ZPD, the pair encounters Bellwether who insists she takes the evidence. Realizing she is the mastermind of the conspiracy, Judy and Nick try to flee but are knocked into a pit by her henchrams. Bellwether shoots a serum pellet from the evidence case at Nick and frames a call for help to the ZPD. Nick seemingly becomes savage and corners Judy, but it turns out the pair was acting in order to trick Bellwether into openly admitting her prey-supremacist scheme to take over Zootopia and rid it of all predators, and that they replaced the dart gun ammo with blueberries from the Hopps' farm. With Bellwether's monologue recorded on Judy's carrot pen just as Bellwether made her short-lived threat to frame them like she did with Lionheart, Chief Bogo and the ZPD arrive and arrest her and her henchrams upon hearing everything. Upon being informed and interviewed on the matter, Lionheart denies any knowledge of Bellwether's plot, but admits to have illegally imprisoned the savage predators, claiming it to have been done for the "right reasons".

Later, Judy is reinstated into the ZPD. An antidote is discovered for the effects of the night howlers and all the infected predators, including Mr. Otterton and Mr. Manchas, are cured. Months later (about a year after Judy started her job at the ZPD), Nick joins the ZPD as the first fox officer and Judy's partner. The final scene has almost all of Zootopia attending Gazelle's concert while Bellwether angrily views it on a television in prison.

The whole city was breathtaking.

Nico: This whole city is amazing.

Laney: It sure is.

Lucy Loud: I like the Nocturnal District.

Me: All the districts are amazing.

?: Stop you thief!

Me: I know that voice. That's Judy Hopps.

We saw Judy Hopps, an anthropomorphic grey rabbit chasing a black anthropomorphic squirrel thief.

Me: Not so fast!

I tripped the squirrel thief and Lola tied him up!

Judy: Thank you for catching him.

Me: Anytime Judy.

Judy: Wow! You're all Team Loud Phoenix Storm!

Me: That's right. It's an honor to meet you Judy.

Judy: It's an honor to meet you as well.

I saw a case the squirrel had.

Me: What's this?

I looked inside the case and it was a dart gun.

Me: It's a dart gun.

Judy: Something is seriously going on here in the city.

Me: Let me guess. The predator animals are about to be divided.

Judy: How did you know?

Me: You would be amazed at what humans know. By the way, are we the first ever humans to set foot here in Zootopia?

Judy: As a matter of fact you are.

Me: That's amazing. We'd better ask where this squirrel got this from.

I grabbed him and braced him to the wall.

Me: Where did you get this dart gun from?

Squirrel: I'll never talk!

Me: Talk or else!

I had my knife held to his throat!

Squirrel: OKAY OKAY! I found that dart gun over at a predator's house.

Me: What did he look like?

Squirrel: He was a wolf of some kind. He's working with someone very big to divide the city with racist views over prey and predators.

Me: That is sick! But I have a strong feeling I know who it is. Where does this wolf live?

Squirrel: He lives in an abandoned apartment complex that is scheduled for demolition in the middle of town.

Judy: That's the old Wolfbane apartment complex.

Me: Thank you.

I put him down and I pulled out my Neurolizer and put on my sunglasses and in a blinding flash of light the Squirrel was a better person, completely crime free.

Nico: Was that necessary to Neurolize him?

Me: Eh, Force of Habit. I only use it on Minor Criminals.

Nico: Ah.

Judy: We got to get to the apartment.

Sinestro: Let me come with you guys.

Judy: You helping us out with this? Not a chance.

Blades: Judy, we're about to head into the home of a dangerous predator in order to ask him questions.

William: Blades is right. Sinestro's force field could come in handy if things get ugly.

Judy thinks about this.

Sinestro: I'm not asking permission.

Judy: Fine. But you will follow my lead.

Sinestro: Look, Judy. Whatever you have against me, just know that I'm a changed man.

Judy: I looked up your history. You tried to kill the Green Lantern Corps.

Sinestro: That was my dark side in control in the past.

Judy: Still, don't expect any warm fuzzies from me. (walks ahead)

Blast Off (to Sinestro): Don't worry, dude. She'll come around.

We followed Judy and we arrived at the apartment complex. With us was her partner Nick Wilde, an anthropomorphic red fox.

Nick Wilde: You guys are so awesome at how you deal with criminals.

Me: Only the most dangerous ones go to prison or they die.

Nick Wilde: That's good. Those are the kinds of criminals that make me sick.

Me: You got that right.

We arrived at the apartment.

Me: Here it is.

We heard the TV on.

Me: Ready?

3… 2… 1

We busted in.

Judy: Z.P.D.! On the ground now!

Me: Team Loud Phoenix Storm too!

We found the wolf.

I grabbed him.

Me: We found this dart gun from your little friend. Where did you get it?

Wolf: It was because of Bellwether.

Judy: Assistant Mayor Dawn Bellwether? What does she have to do with all this?

The wolf sang like a bird. He told us that Assistant Mayor Bellwether is behind a nefarious plot to tear the city apart with the use of a powerful poison from a flower called the Night Howler and the flower has a poison that has a psychotropic effect that brings out the savagery of predatory mammals and it was the cause of the outbreak that has been causing a lot of problems in the city.

Me: That's awful!

Laney: That is sick!

Lori: I will literally turn that ridiculous sheep into a human pretzel for this!

Me: Thank you for telling us this. Now we know who we're up against and what is going on here. Lisa, can you synthesize an antidote for the poison?

Lisa: Already done.

Lisa showed us a vial of the antidote she made.

Me: We got to find Mayor Bellwether. Lets go!

We went to the city hall building.

---

We arrived at the city hall building and we were looking for Dawn Bellwether.

Me: She's in here somewhere.

Nico: Where is she?

Lana: She's close. I smell her.

Lola: I feel it.

?: I'm right here.

We saw a figure come out and it was DAWN BELLWETHER!

---

Bellwether is first seen during Judy's induction into the Zootopia Police Department, where she stands alongside Lionheart, and is tasked with badging Hopps. Bellwether shows great pride in Zootopia's first rabbit officer, proclaiming that it is a momentous day for "little guys", referring to prey. Before her words can run further, Lionheart rather rudely removes Bellwether from Judy, and subsequently blocks her from the flashing cameras of the press.

Following Judy's first day as an officer, Emmitt Otterton goes missing, forcing his distraught wife to seek help. Bellwether is present when Judy volunteers to find Emmitt against Chief Bogo's orders. Just before Chief Bogo could fire Judy for her insubordination, Bellwether sends Lionheart a knowing text to congratulate him on the growing success of the Mammal Inclusion Initiative, referring to Judy's newfound role as a detective to a major case. Realizing that he would be in big trouble if Lionheart learns about Judy being taken off the case, Bogo reluctantly allows Judy 48 hours to solve the case, on the condition that she will resign if she fails. Bellwether then speaks to Judy, telling her that she always has an ally at City Hall, should she need any important favors.

Later on, Bellwether returns to City Hall, where she is seen struggling for Lionheart's attention, needing him to discuss various matters regarding the city. Lionheart, seeming more aggressive than usual, coldly orders Bellwether to take care of the matters herself, and to cancel his afternoon, as he needs to run out for confidential matters. Feeling defeated and exhausted, Bellwether sadly gathers the paperwork to begin her assignments, before receiving a surprise visit from Judy and her accomplice, Nick Wilde. Judy explains that she needs access to the city's traffic cameras, which Bellwether obliges to in her "office", which is really the boiler room. While doing so, Bellwether laments to Judy and Nick, expressing her excitement in doing something of importance, to which Judy replies with confusion, as she believes the title of "Assistant Mayor" to be rather major. Bellwether merely sees it as being a "glorified secretary", and voices her suspicion that Lionheart may have selected her simply for the sake of winning the sheep vote. Just then, Lionheart pages Bellwether, scolding her for failing to cancel his afternoon. Bellwether hurriedly rushes to finish this assignment, leaving Judy and Nick with her computer.

Using the traffic cameras, Judy and Nick are able to find an asylum where 15 predator mammals (including Emmitt himself) have been illegally imprisoned by wolf mercenaries and have mysteriously gone savage. The imprisonment was at the hands of Mayor Lionheart and the asylum's staff, who are desperately trying to determine the cause behind the mysterious outbreak and find a cure for it to no avail, keeping the entire situation confidential to prevent city-wide panic, and by extension, the loss of Lionheart's position. With this evidence recorded through her phone, Judy alerts Chief Bogo, and Lionheart and the staff are arrested for their not-so-legal activities. With Lionheart finally removed from office, Bellwether becomes the new Mayor of Zootopia (much to her delight), but the savage predators remain detained, as no one has figured out the cause behind their strange behavior.

Judy, meanwhile, is hailed a hero, and a press conference on the savage predators is held at the ZPD. Bellwether is present in the conference, and to her advantage, Judy accidentally calls out predators as naturally savage, with potential to revert to their original, bloodthirsty natures; disturbing the press and causing a citywide panic. This event also causes a disgusted Nick (being a predator himself) to leave Judy, declining to join the ZPD as her partner. Following these events, Bellwether summons Judy to her office and, alongside Chief Bogo, offers her to be the public face of the Zootopia Police Department, as prey mammals look to her as a hero for uncovering the "truth" about predators. However, Judy denies, feeling she's failed the city by tearing it apart instead of making it a better place, and officially resigns from the ZPD.

2 months later, however, Judy discovers that unique flowers known as "Night howlers" are the cause of the predators' strange behavior-not natural instinct-and rushes back to the city to reveal the truth. After reconciling with Nick, Judy (with the help from Mr. Big) interrogates Duke Weaselton, who admits that he stole a bunch of night howlers to sell to a ram named Doug, who is using the flowers to produce a highly-potent serum which he has been exposing to predators via paintball-like pellets fired by an air-powered sniper gun. With this information, Judy and Nick steal Doug's lab-converted subway car and race to the ZPD with the evidence. Two of Doug's assistants (Woolter and Jesse) pursue the two, and though they are defeated, the train is derailed and destroyed. However, Nick successfully retrieves a case containing Doug's dart gun and the serum pellets. As Nick and Judy cut through the Zootopia Natural History Museum to get to the ZPD, Bellwether suddenly arrives on the scene (after being warned by Doug, Woolter & Jesse about what happened).

She politely asks for the gun case, presenting herself as being proud of Judy's success, but when Judy questions how Bellwether knew of their whereabouts, the ploy is broken, and Bellwether reveals her true colors by sending a trio of tough rams to capture the pair. Judy gets injured while trying to escape, and she and Nick are eventually knocked into a pit-like exhibit by one of the rams. Though Bellwether made an attempt to have Judy join her side, she instead shoots Nick with the serum gun to turn him savage so that he would kill Judy, and calls the ZPD over to the scene to make it look like another savage outbreak demonizing predators so that the entire prey population will take control of Zootopia, and Bellwether herself will remain in power.

However, the entire "savage fox" act turns out to be a ruse planned by both Judy and Nick, who reveal that they replaced the serum pellets in Bellwether's gun with blueberries in order to trick Bellwether into revealing her plan. Despite being dumbfounded by this turn of events, Bellwether angrily threatens to set both Nick and Judy up for her crimes just like she did to Lionheart, claiming that it is "her word against theirs". However, Judy reveals that she used her voice recorder to record Bellwether's confession, and plays the tape just as Chief Bogo and several other ZPD officers arrive, much to Bellwether and her accomplices' shock.

With her plot now exposed, Bellwether and her henchmen are arrested and sent to prison for their crimes. An antidote is then made to nullify the effects of Doug's drug to turn the savage predators back to their normal states. During the credits, Bellwether is last seen angrily watching a live stream of Gazelle's concert performance while her inmates actually enjoy the performance, much to her annoyance.

Dawn Bellwether was an anthropomorphic sheep.

Me: Dawn Bellwether, I presume?

Bellwether: That's right. You are the famous Team Loud Phoenix Storm. Your reputation precedes you.

Me: Save the pleasantries Bellwether. You're under arrest for crimes against Zootopia.

Bellwether: Then come and get me.

She fired a poisonous dart and it hit me in the arm. I just got hit by the poison.

Bellwether: Time to see what this stuff does to humans.

Maria: C'mon, J.D.! Fight it!

I fell on my knees, gritting my teeth.

Bellwether: C'mon! Give in to the change! It's the only way you'll ever have a chance against me!

Me: Nice try Bellwether.

Bellwether: WHAT!?

I got up and pulled the dart out and I was completely unaffected by the poison.

Me: I'm immune to all forms of poison. Your little poison has no effect on all of us.

Nico: That must be the traits of Orochimaru when you killed him. He was immune to all poisons.

Me: Yep. But he wasn't immune to Laney's Strychnine Ω poison.

Nico: That's true. (To Bellwether) Dawn Bellwether, you have failed this city!

Bellwether: I didn't want to have to do this. But you've given me no choice!

Bellwether shoots herself with a special dart and falls to the ground.

Nick Wilde: Guys, is it just me or is Bellwether getting muscular?

We saw her turn into a huge monstrosity! She was a massive super sheep! She had huge muscles, bloodthirsty red eyes and was now 10 feet tall!

Me: That poison made her into a Super Sheep!

Nico: She's a monster!

Me: But we've faced big monsters like this before! Power Up!

We powered up and transformed!

Megaforce Rangers: Legendary Ranger Mode: Operation Overdrive!

The Megaforce Rangers turned into the Operation Overdrive Power Rangers. Troy Burrows was the red Operation Overdrive Ranger, Noah Carver was the Blue Operation Overdrive Ranger, Gia Moran was the Yellow Operation Overdrive Ranger, Jake Halling was the Black Operation Overdrive Ranger, Emma Goodall was the Pink Operation Overdrive Ranger and Orion was the Mercury Operation Overdrive Ranger.

Me: Lets get her!

We went at the giant Bellwether and I punched her in the face and knocked out some of her teeth and Lana kicked her in the face. Syd punched her in the stomach and slashed her with a sulfuric acid sword and it burned her bad. Lana fired powerful blasts of ice lightning and froze her feet in place. Judy punched and kicked Bellwether in the face all over with incredible speed and power and she was really fast for a rabbit. Luna fired a powerful blast of water and drenched Bellwether all over.

Lola: How do you like your lamb chops? Burnt to a crisp or medium rare?

Lola fired a powerful blast of fire at Bellwether and burned her all over.

Lincoln: Chew on this!

Lincoln fired a massive blast of lightning and electrocuted Bellwether. Her wool was standing straight up and arching with lightning.

Luan: That is one way to Shock the Wool. (Laughs) Get it?

Me: (Laughs) That was a good one Luan!

Eddy: (Laughs) That was a good one!

Troy Burrows: That was funny. Lets get her!

Troy Burrows punched Bellwether in the face and knocked out a tooth and he slashed some of Bellwether's fur off with his Drive Lance. Noah Carver fired a powerful blast of wind from his Drive Vortex and spun her around in a powerful tornado, Jake Halling smashed her all over with his Drive Slammer and boy did it hurt. Gia Moran slashed Bellwether all over with her Drive Claws and they were painful. Emma Goodall fired multiple ice blasts from her Drive Geyser and they hit Bellwether and they hurt bad. Orion smashed Bellwether all over the place with his Monster Detector.

Troy Burrows: Lets show her some new powers.

Megaforce Rangers: Legendary Ranger Mode: DRAGON BLITZ!

The Megaforce Rangers turned into the Japanese Power Rangers called the Dragon Blitz. Troy Burrows was the Red Dragon Ranger, Noah Carver was the Blue Pegasus Ranger, Gia Moran was the White Mermaid Ranger, Emma Goodall was the Pink Phoenix Ranger and Jake Halling was the Black Gryphon Ranger.

Me: Wow! You guys look awesome as the Dragon Blitz Rangers.

Orion: Since there's no sixth ranger for the Dragon Blitz team, I'll become Ninjor.

Orion turned into Ninjor.

Me: Lets see what they can do. Shall we do some teamwork?

Troy Burrows: Lets do it!

We went at the Super Bellwether.

Me: Lets do it Troy!

Troy Burrows: You got it!

I flared up the power of the Manticore from Arabic Myth and Troy Burrows flared up the power of the Red Dragon.

Me and Troy Burrows: MANTICORE-DRAGON STAR FIRESTORM!

I fired a powerful blast of stars and Troy Burrows fired a massive blast of dragon fire and the blasts combined and they hit Bellwether and exploded.

KRABBBBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOMMMMMM!

Me: Wow! That was powerful!

Troy Burrows: It sure was. You sure have gotten the hang of the Dragon Blitz Powers.

Me: We watched all of you guys on TV for a long period of time. Lets see what else there is. Lets get her Noah.

Noah Carver: Lets.

I flared up the power of the Manticore and Noah Carver flared up the power of the Blue Pegasus from Greek Myth.

Me and Noah Carver: MANTICORE-PEGASUS STARWIND SLASH!

I fired a powerful star blast and Noah Carver fired blades of wind and the blasts merged and they cut Bellwether and exploded.

KRABBBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOMMMM!

Me and Gia Moran: MANTICORE-MERMAID STAR TSUNAMI SMASH!

I fired a massive blast of stars and Gia Moran fired a powerful blast of water and the blasts combined and turned into a deadly tsunami of stars and it slammed into Bellwether with devastating force and knocked her down.

Me: Whoa! That was awesome!

Gia Moran: That sure was awesome! I never knew there was awesome powers like this.

Me: Me neither. Lets do it Emma.

Emma Goodall: Lets do it J.D.

I flared up the power of the Manticore and Emma Goodall flared up the power of the Pink Phoenix.

Me and Emma Goodall: MANTICORE-PHOENIX STAR FLAME FEATHER SHOWER!

I fired a powerful blast of stars and Emma fired a powerful barrage of feathers made of pure fire and the blasts combined and turned into a deadly barrage of star feathers and they hit Bellwether and exploded.

KRABBBBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOO

Me: Whoa! That was intense!

Emma Goodall: It sure was J.D. You sure have learned fast from all our shows.

Me: I watched them all over in Japan and over here in America. So I have 44+ Years of knowledge from both countries.

Emma Goodall: That's amazing!

Me: It sure is.

Jake Halling: Lets do it J.D.

Me: With pleasure Jake.

I flared up the power of the Manticore and Jake Halling flared up the power of the Black Gryphon.

Me and Jake Halling: MANTICORE-GRYPHON STAR SCREAM SONIC METEOR!

I fired a powerful blast of Stars and Jake Halling fired a powerful sonic scream and the blasts combined and turned into a powerful meteor and it collided with Bellwether and exploded.

KRABBBBBBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOO

Me: Wow! That was powerful!

Jake Halling: That was awesome!

Nico: Wow! You guys, that was incredible!

Me: It sure was Nico.

Laney: That was amazing. But we still have to take down Super Bellwether.

We saw that Super Bellwether was really tough.

Me: She's really tough! Lets show her what true teamwork can do.

Syd: You got it J.D. Blades, lets show her some teamwork!

Blades (Skylanders): (British Accent) With Pleasure Syd!

Blades fired a powerful tornado of knife blades and Syd fired a powerful tornado of razor leaves. The tornadoes merged and they slashed Bellwether all over. She lost a lot of her wool.

Me: That's what I call a Wooly Loss. (Rimshot)

Luan: (Laughs) Good one J.D.

Eddy: (Laughs) That was a good one!

Me: Thanks guys.

Me: Orion, lets use a combo on her.

Orion: You got it J.D.!

But then Orion was enveloped in a powerful flash of light and when the light faded we saw that Orion had unlocked a new transformation. It was his own Dragon Blitz Ranger form. It was a Green Dragon Blitz Ranger form.

Me: Whoa! Orion you have your own Dragon Blitz Ranger power!

Orion: I sure do.

Me: I sense that it's the power of the Elf. A very awesome creature from German Folklore.

Orion: Wow! This is cool!

Me: And I sense that it uses the power of leaves. Lets see what it can do.

Orion: You got it J.D.

I flared up the power of the Manticore and Orion flared up the power of the Green Elf.

Me and Orion: MANTICORE-ELF STAR LEAF STELLAR FOREST STRIKE!

I fired a powerful blast of stars and Orion fired a powerful tornado of leaves and the blasts combined and turned into a powerful barrage of arrows made of stars and they hit Bellwether and exploded.

KRABBBBBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOO

Me: Whoa! That was so cool!

Orion: It sure was J.D. That was awesome!

Me: Yeah!

We high five.

Nico: That was so cool! We never saw that on TV.

Me: No we sure haven't. But first times for everything. Lets use our Cyber Key Combos guys!

Blast Off: Roger that boss! CYBER KEY POWER!

The Earth Cyber Planet Key went into Blast Off's back and it enhanced his Ionic Blaster 100-fold.

Riku: Lets get her! GIGANTION CYBER KEY POWER!

The Gigantion Cyber Planet Key went into Riku's Right arm device and it enhanced his Keyblade powers 100-fold.

Blast Off and Riku: IONIC DARKFIRE DRAGON STORM!

Blast Off fired a powerful blast of ion energy from his blaster and Riku fired a powerful blast of dark fire and the blasts combined and turned into a powerful dragon of pure black fire and it slammed into Bellwether and it exploded.

KRABBBBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOMMM!

Blades (G1): Time for some awesome power! CYBER KEY POWER!

The Earth Cyber Planet Key went into Blades's back and it enhanced his Photon Pistol 100-fold.

Superman: Lets get her! KRYPTON CYBER KEY POWER!

The Krypton Cyber Planet Key went into Superman's Right Arm device and it enhanced his powers 100-fold.

Blades and Superman: PHOTON EYEBEAM BURST!

G1 Blades fired his photon pistol and Superman fired a powerful laser vision blast and the blasts combined and they hit Bellwether and exploded.

KRABBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOO

Me: Lets sheer this sheep for good! She and her Xenophobic ways will never be welcome here in Zootopia!

Nick Wilde: You got that right! FOX POPSICLE BRAINFREEZE!

Nick Wilde threw a huge popsicle and it slammed into Bellwether and froze her.

Me: What flavor popsicle was that Nick?

Nick Wilde: Strawberry. Always has been my favorite flavor.

Me: Mine too Nick. We both have something in common.

Judy Hopps: This monster is under arrest! CARROT TORPEDO FIRESTORM!

Judy fired a powerful barrage of carrots and they hit Bellwether and exploded.

KRABBBBBBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOMMM!

Sinestro: And now for the grand finale: PARALLAX FEARBEAM SURPRISE!

Sinestro fired a powerful beam of yellow energy from his Ring and it turned into what Bellwether feared more than anything: A vicious pack of ravenous wolves and they mauled her.

Bellwether was knocked down. She was beaten and defeated. We won.

Me: That's it for her. This traitor is gonna have a lot to think about when she's behind bars for the rest of her sheep years.

Judy Hopps: You got that right J.D.

Sinestro: Now, do you trust me?

Judy: Yes, I do.

Optimus Prime: Bellweather should be back to normal in half an hour. Though, she'll be in a lot of pain reverting back.

Me: That's good. But she'll have all the time in the world behind bars.

Judy Hopps: (To the viewers) These guys are incredible! We couldn't have done all this without their help.

Me: We are just that talented Judy.

When Bellwether reverted back, she was defeated, disgraced, and delivered to the cops. We delivered the Night Howler Antidote to everyone that Bellwether poisoned and they were cured. Nick Wilde was instated as an official cop for the Zootopia Police Department. Bellwether was sentenced to spend the rest of her miserable life behind bars in the Antarctica Prison without the possibility of parole. Also with Dawn Bellwether now in prison, we exonerated Mayor Lionheart. He was just doing what he thought was right for the whole city. We were given official badges from the ZPD and we were gonna be called to help Zootopia whenever needed.

We went back to the estate and we found Carol eating some soup.

Me: How are you feeling Carol?

Carol: Getting better. Ratchet, Vince and my kids are great caretakers.

Me: I'm sorry you got sick Carol.

Carol: It's all right. Luan didn't know the cake was tainted.

Me: No one knew.

Evelyn: I know mom will get better.

Evelyn brought Carol some water.

Carol: Thanks Evelyn.

Evelyn: Anytime mom.

Me: You got to drink a lot of water to flush out the bad stuff.

Carol: That's true.

Me: You'll be better by tomorrow. Ratchet is one of the best doctors for the Autobots and in Cybertron.

Ratchet: Thanks for the compliment J.D.

Me: Anytime Ratchet.

Carol: I also heard that we have Zootopia here now.

Me: We sure do Carol. That movie was so awesome.

We told Carol all about it.

In the Antarctica Prison, Dawn Bellwether was going through a very excruciating rehab program watching cute cartoons about things that are happy.

Bellwether: Curse that Team Loud Phoenix Storm.

Another Fanfiction Complete and another awesome Disney Movie complete

2016's Zootopia was a great movie! I love how they all live in an amazing city for animals! NicoChan11 gave me the ideas for this one and I made up the idea for Orion turning into the Green Dragon Blitz Ranger. Thanks man. Let me know what you all think. Plug your noses and prepare to laugh your heads off because next up we're going to face one of Grossology's villains. We're going to face the master of farts: Fartor. We're going to burn him to death with fire from his own farts.

See you all next time.

The Flatulence of Fartor

In the Jupiter Prison, we were gathered for another ran session with the most hated babysitter in the history of humanity: Icky Vicky.

Muscle Man: I heard a lot about Icky Vicky. She was the worst babysitter ever.

Mordecai: She gives all babysitters everywhere a really bad name.

Nico: You have no idea guys. Vicky is pure evil. She hates all kids everywhere and wants nothing more than to see the whole world burn.

Qin: Yeah. She's a monster.

Lola was there and she had the Mega Babies in her arms.

Lola: (Older voice) I would never want her as my babysitter. One time guys, before I got my powers, I got a psychopath as a babysitter that was wanted for busting out of prison.

Me: I remember that.

---

Me: (Narrating) It was before the pageant where she and Lana got their powers. Mr. Lynn and Ms. Rita hired a babysitter for Lola. But what they didn't know is that he was a psychopathic criminal that busted out of prison recently. When I saw a bruise on Lola because of him, I made the scene.

Me: HEY! HANDS OFF HER! (grabs psychopath and punches him in the stomach and ties him up and gags him) Lola, it's okay. I'm here.

Lola: (hugs me as she cries) J.D.! Thank you!

Me: (hugs back) It's okay. Everything is going to be alright.

Lola: We should call the cops on him.

Me: They're already on their way here. I came prepared and I got him abusing you on tape.

Lola: You did?

Me: I sure did. After last night, when I saw you with bruises on your face, I knew something was wrong. So, with the help of Varie, the other sisters and Lincoln, we set up video cameras to catch him in the act. I'll be showing those tapes to the judge and the cops tomorrow.

Lola: (smiles) Thank you, J.D.

Me: (wipes her tears) Don't mention it. Come on, let's fix up that bruise.

Lola: Okay.

We went to the sofa in the living room and Varie was healing Lola.

Varie: Hold still, Lola. This'll sting a bit.

Lola: (flinches from the pain) Ah!

Varie: Told ya.

Me: It's gonna be all right Lola.

The rest of the family then walks into the house.

Rita: We're hom-. (sees Lola's bruise) Oh my God, Lola!

Siblings: (shocked) LOLA!

Lynn Sr.: (shocked) OH MY GOSH!

The family surrounds Lola with worried expressions of concern.

Rita: Oh, sweetheart! What happened to you?!

Me: I'll show you the tapes. Also, don't go upstairs.

Lynn Sr.: Why?

Me: (whispers into his ear)

Lynn Sr.: [goes pale] You caught him!?

Me: I sure did. He is a monster.

I showed them the tapes. What they saw was awful! They saw horrifying acts of abuse caused by the psychopath.

Lori: O-M-G! That is literally too much!

Leni: I can't believe we left Lola with someone like that!

Luna: That was a HUGE mistake!

Luan: Make that a MASSIVE mistake!

Lynn: Where is he?! I'm gonna beat him up with my baseball bat!

Me: He's already tied up Lynn and the cops are almost here.

Varie: Yep.

Lynn: Oh. Okay.

Lucy: How could let this happen?!

Lisa: Only simpletons would let it happen! [realizes, then feels uneasy] Which might've been us…

Me: It's not your fault guys. You didn't know that this would happen.

Lana: (hugs Lola) Why did I let this happen to my twin?!

Lily: (hugs Lola) Sorry Lola.

Lincoln: I still can't believe we almost lost a family member!

Rita: Oh, my poor baby! Lola, we're so sorry for not listening to you about that monster!

Lola: It's fine, Mom. Really…

Lynn Sr.: No, it's not! We never should have hired that monster!

Lana hugs her twin tighter and starts crying.

Lola: (returns the hug) It's okay, Lana. Other than this bruise, I'm fine.

Lana: (crying) But I almost lost my twin sister! Life wouldn't ever be the same without you! (cries harder)

Lola: It's okay, Lana. Thanks to J.D., it's gonna be okay.

Leni: What did he even do to him?

Me: I beat him up and tied him up.

Sirens were heard and the police arrived.

They came in.

Officer: Where is he!?

Me: Right here officers.

I went upstairs and brought the psychopath down and put him on the floor. I took his mask off.

Officer: Well I'll be. It's our old friend Kenneth Baxter, also known as the Masked Babysitter Killer. He's a psychopathic pedophile murderer that was wanted in 4 states. But he busted out of prison last month.

Me: I remember this guy. I busted him before over a year ago before I moved here to Michigan. His crimes were nothing short of ultimate evil. He killed 6 people.

Everyone gasped.

Laney: So we had an escaped serial killer babysitting Lola!?

Lola: Whoa!

Varie: I heard about this guy.

Me: Yeah. I busted him in Colorado before I moved here. His case was so high profile that they couldn't let him stay in a Colorado prison. So they decided to move him out of state to a more powerful Maximum Security Prison. And I'm not surprised that they moved him here. Here officer. (Hands him the tapes) These tapes show the abuse he inflicted on Lola.

Kenneth: And I would've gotten away with it if it weren't for your meddling J.D.! You will pay for this!

Me: Next time it will be death.

Officer: You deserve a big thanks J.D.

Me: You're welcome Officer.

Me: (Narrating) After they took him away, they moved him to an even higher security prison facility where he was placed into Solitary Confinement. They gave him 5 more life sentences on top of the 6 life sentences plus 7,212 years he was already serving.

FLASHBACK ENDS

Lola: It was good that J.D. arrived.

Derek: Thank goodness you're all right Lola.

Buck: Yeah.

Meg (Mega Babies): But thank goodness we never have to see that monster again.

Nico: That freak has failed this universe.

Me: He sure has.

Elec Man was serving hot dogs, pizza, snacks and more to the prisoners.

Elec Man: Get you snacks here!

Me: Lets start the rant.

Nico: Lets get ready to (Fire Hair Flares Up) (Echoing) RUMBLE!

Muscle Man: Let me at her!

Icky Vicky: Muscle Man!? I heard a lot about you! Your mom is a dumb whore!

Muscle Man: Are you making fun of my mom?! You're making fun of my mom! No one makes fun of my mom!

Man Boy: Did she just make fun of your mom?

Muscle Man: Yeah, she did, bro!

Me: Oh she did not just go there!

William: Oh no, bro!

Muscle Man: I know, bro!

Snake Man: (to Icky Vicky) You're about to wish you were never born!

Me: If there's one thing that Muscle Man never likes above all others, it's someone insulting his mother.

Muscle Man: You hurt my mom's feelings! (lifts up picture) Pay her a compliment, tell her she's beautiful! TELL HER!

Icky Vicky: Uh, you're beautiful, Muscle Man's mom.

Muscle Man: Fire up the grill, Lea.

Lea: Got it memorized, Muscle Man. (Lea puts a grill on the ground, lights it ablaze with his Keyblade, and Muscle Man comes up to put the photo on the grill. Lea flips it, and then hands it to Muscle Man)

Hoot Loop: Eat this picture of Muscle Man's mom, or you'll be sorry!

Icky Vicky: Please, don't make me eat the picture!

Muscle Man: EAT IT!

Icky Vicky ate it and it was disgusting.

Me: Yuck! That would taste like puke.

We laughed.

Benson: I think I want to get a shot in.

Me: Benson are you sure?

Hound: Won't your anger destroy everything around you?

Benson: It would if I repress it for several hours. It'll be like how Elec Man did it.

Elec Man: Okay.

Manboy: This is gonna be good.

Benson walked up to Icky Vicky and he was red with anger. He fired a powerful beam of energy from his mouth and it hit Icky Vicky. It's power was massive!

BENSON: AAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAA YOU'RE A LAZY FUCKED UP MOTHERFUCKING NO-GOOD FUCKING BABYSITTER AND YOU FUCKING DRIVE ME FUCKING NUTS YOU MOTHERFUCKING SON OF A FUCKING BITCH! CAN'T YOU JUST LISTEN TO KIDS EVEN ONCE IN YOUR FUCKING WORTHLESS MISERABLE FUCKING LIFE?! 'CAUSE IF YOU DID, YOU'D FUCKING RATHER WANT TO KILL KIDS WHENEVER YOU GET THE FUCKING CHANCE! (Voice breaks a little) BUT YOU WOULDN'T KNOW HOW TO FUCKING

LOVE SOMEONE IF YOU GOT PAID ALL THE FUCKING MONEY IN THE FUCKING WORLD, (Tears of water and blood are STREAMING and steam is blowing off his face) AND EVEN THEN YOU'D SCREW IT ALL FUCKING UP ON THE ACCOUNT THAT YOU CAN'T EVEN FOLLOW THE SIMPLEST OF INSTRUCTIONS, HURTING INNOCENT PEOPLE THAN DOING YOUR MOTHERFUCKING JOB!

We felt that powerful yell and everyone on Earth back at the estate heard it.

Varie: Whoa! That was loud!

Aylene C.: Benson has a nasty temper and a powerful yell.

Brawl: That's actually more colorful then how Elec Man did it.

Lana: No kidding.

Back at the prison everyone was cheering for Benson.

Me: Way to go Benson.

Manboy: That was a good show Benson.

Benson: Aw thanks guys.

Elec Man: That was a much better rant than the one I did here.

Benson: That's true.

---

At the Antarctica Prison, Maria and Nico were visiting John Corben, formerly Metallo in his prison cell. He actually got a good laugh out of the rants.

Maria: What'd you think, John?

John Corben: (laughing) I liked it! Never stop doing these rants!

Nico: Oh, we won't!

Back at the estate we were showing Qin our special museum of all of Mystery Inc's achievements.

Qin: Wow! So this is the museum of Mystery Inc?

Me: Yep. We built it to commemorate all the achievements of Mystery Inc.

Syd: This is so cool! I heard you all went into that awesome video game they have and saved them.

Me: We sure did Syd. That was one of our most amazing adventures.

Laney: When we got word about our friends on Mystery Inc getting zapped into Eric's game, we hooked it up to the training simulator and went into the game to help free them.

Syd: That is so cool!

Me: Yep.

We showed Syd and Qin all the monsters and villains that Mystery Inc faced on a daily basis.

Syd: Wow! There's so many monsters they faced!

Qin: We saw some of them with Scooby Doo and the gang and they were awesome!

Me: And take a look at this.

I showed them a bunch of mugshots of all the criminals that were behind the mask of all the monsters we faced. Below them was the information of their crimes and the sentences they got.

Syd: Wow! Look at all the bad guys they busted.

Me: Yep. And they all nearly killed my friends in order to get revenge. Me and Lori found out that there was a massive plot for all the villains to get revenge on all of Mystery Inc. I reported the Scooby Doo Revenge Social Network to the FBI and the United States Department of Defense and the Federal Communications Commission. I told them about it and they seized the website. But in doing so, the United States Attorney General extended all the prison sentences of all the villains that were busted to Life Without Parole.

Syd: Wow! They deserve it. That's attempted murder.

Qin: Just what I was thinking.

Me: Yep. They deserve to spend the rest of their worthless lives behind bars.

Then the alarm sounded.

Me: Uh oh.

We went to the computer in the living room. We looked up what was going on and we saw that the evil gross toilet humor fart villain Fartor was out to cause problems! He was an ugly guy.

Me: Fartor? I never heard of this guy.

Lincoln: What does it say about him?

Me: Lets see.

I pulled up his information and what it showed me was awful.

Fartor (voiced by Sean Cullen) - Fifteen years ago, he was just an ordinary kid named Larry. That was until his older brother Gary tortured him by stuffing his brother under the bedsheets and farting in there. During those fifteen years, he became adapted to breathing the gases in farts. Like a fish is out of the water, clean air is toxic for him, so he breathes toxic gases in a dome that he wears on his body. Fartor wants revenge on his older brother Gary. He was last seen stranded on the moon in the episode 'The Fart Side Of The Moon' where he had tried so hard to ensure that his meteor would hit earth ensuring that the Earth's air would be full of methane gas (CH4) and other substances in which it is habitable for him. Like any other villain, his plan had failed as the stowaway director had eaten too many beans and released his nuclear gas, Therefore, redirecting the meteor to hit the moon. Fartor is seen to be happy in the moon, though being alone.

Me: This is sick! Because of his brother he needs to live on farts in order to survive.

Teresa: Why don't we introduce Fartor to Lori and Lynn's farts?

Lori: I do not fart! It's my shoe!

Me: Lori, now is not the time for your bouts of denial. Your farts to him would be too poisonous for him and Lynn's Dutch Ovens are terrible.

Lincoln: But why would his brother do that to him?

Me: He was a total jerk.

Nico: That really makes me mad! I'm an older brother myself, but even I would never be that cruel to my siblings.

Me: Me neither. My sister is not like that.

Laney: Thank goodness. We should give this guy a mercy killing. Wait a second. I remember this guy. He's one of the enemies of a major ultra secret organization called Grossology.

Me: I've heard about them. They are called the Bureau of Grossology. They are a secret government organization that uses cutting edge technology and prevents gross crimes and disgusting things from happening.

Laney: That's right. And I have 2 friends that work for them. Their names are Ty and Abby Archer. They're brother and sister and they do amazing things. We can help them beat Fartor.

Me: Good idea. Lets get him!

We were off to the city.

GOTHAM ROYAL YORK CITY BUSINESS DISTRICT

In the middle of the Gotham Royal York City Business District, the entire area was completely covered in a thick blanket of fart gas and boy did it smell horrible! Fartor was using a deadly condiment called Flatchup, a ketchup made of all kinds of fiber loaded vegetables and meats that will make anyone fart for weeks without stopping.

Ty and Abby were facing Fartor.

Ty: Fartor, listen to us! We're sorry about what happened to you. But that's no reason to give up on yourself!

Fartor: (bitterly) The world's changed, Ty. You guys apparently changed with it. So why get upset about someone like me, huh?

But then a massive explosion of fire appeared in the sky and a phoenix cry was heard and the fart gas ignited and exploded into a huge wall of fire!

KRABBBBOOOOOOMM! KRABOOOM! KRABBOOOOOM! KRABBOOOOOOM! KRABOOOOOOOM! KRABOOOOOOMM!

We landed by them.

Me: Sorry to drop in like this.

Abby: Boy are we glad to see you guys.

Laney: Same to you Abby and you too Ty.

Fartor: So the mighty Team Loud Phoenix Storm has arrived.

Me: To put you out of your fucking misery Larry. But first.

I reached into my pocket and pulled out some nose plugs and gave them to everyone.

We put them on.

Me: (Nasally) Lets burn his stench!

Megaforce Rangers: Legendary Ranger Mode: S.P.D.!

The Megaforce Power Rangers turned into the S.P.D. Power Rangers. Troy Burrows was the Red S.P.D. Ranger, Noah Carver was the Blue S.P.D. Ranger, Jake Halling was the Green S.P.D. Ranger, Gia Moran was the Yellow S.P.D. Ranger, Emma Goodall was the Pink S.P.D. Ranger and Orion was the Omega S.P.D. Ranger.

We went at him and I punched Fartor in the face and cracked his dome. Nico kicked his pod and sent him flying into the air and Laney sent vines and tied up Fartor.

Maria: (Nasally) Lets see if water will get you clean!

Maria fired a powerful blast of water and drenched Fartor.

Lori: (Nasally) Lets see you handle my farts from my shoes!

Lori farted in his face and her farts smelled so horrible that they were too much for Fartor to handle and he was coughing and gagging. Troy Burrows punched Fartor in the face and fired red energy blasts from his S.P.D. blaster. The blasts hit Fartor and exploded all over. Noah Carver fired blue blasts from his Delta Blaster, Gia Moran kicked Fartor in his face and fired energy lasers, Jake Halling fired green energy lasers and Emma Goodall fired powerful pink lasers. Both blasts hit him and exploded. Orion as the Omega Ranger fired a powerful blast of lightning and electrocuted Fartor.

Me: I will say this though Fartor, when your brother made you like this, he turned you into a fucked up fart gas breathing freak.

Fartor: Fuck you! You freak!

Me: Do you kiss your fucking mother with that mouth? Lets show him some teamwork.

Brawl: You got it boss! Good think us robots can't smell things. We don't breathe anyway. CYBER KEY POWER!

The Earth Cyber Planet Key went into his back and enhanced his Megavolt Gun 100-fold.

Snake Man: Time for the venom of the Sssnake to poissson you. EARTH CYBER KEY POWER!

The Earth Cyber Planet Key went into Snake Man's right arm and it enhanced his Search Snake 100-fold.

Brawl and Snake Man: LIGHTNING HOMING SNAKE BOMB!

Brawl fired a powerful blast of lightning and Snake Man fired a powerful snake and the lightning merged with it and turned it into a snake of pure lightning. It hit Fartor and electrocuted him.

Hound: Time for some serious firepower! CYBER KEY POWER!

The Earth Cyber Planet Key went into his back and enhanced his turret gun firepower 100-fold.

Hoot Loop: Lets Ruffle Some Feathers! ANIMATRON CYBER KEY POWER!

The Animatron Cyber Planet Key went into Hoot Loop's right arm device and it enhanced his powers 100-fold.

Hound and Hoot Loop: MAGIC RING TELEPORT FIRESTORM!

Hoot Loop had his ring form over in the opposite direction and Hound fired bullets through it. The ring sent the bullets through it and it hit Fartor in the back.

Me: Lets give this fuckpot the ultimate Dutch Oven!

Lynn: Now you're speaking my language J.D.

Lynn went up to Fartor and jumped onto him.

Lynn: SUPER DUTCH OVEN FART STORM!

Lynn farted right in Fartor's face and it was a nasty one that smelled so bad and so terrible that it made Fartor gagged.

FAAAAAAAAAAAAAAARRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRTTTTTTTTTTTTTTTTTT!

Lori: Lets see how he likes the smell of my shoes! MEGAFART STENCH STORM!

Lori farted so bad and made a stench so terrible that it went into Fartor's face and he coughed and gagged.

Me: Lets see how he likes the stench of Dino Gas!

Tyler Navarro: This is gonna be a stinky one!

Tyler Navarro activated the Oviraptor Dino Gas charge and fired a powerful blast of Fart Gas.

FFFFFFFAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAARRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRTTTTTTT!

It smelled so horrible that it made Fartor gag and puke.

Derek: Lets get this freak!

Buck: With you all the way.

Meg (Mega Babies): Lets give it a terrible smell!

Mega Babies: SUPERFART FARTWIND HURRICANE!

FAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAARRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRR

The Mega Babies fired a powerful blast of fart gas at Fartor and he was really coughing and gagging.

Abby: Time for you to see how dangerous farts can be! FART STENCH BOMB!

Abby farted a ball of fart gas and it hit Fartor and exploded.

KRAAAFFFFFFFAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAARRRRRRRRRRRTTTT

Fartor was down and still in his pod.

Abby: Alright, Fartor. Time to take you to jail.

Fartor: Don't give me that bullshit, Abby. We know that I won't survive in any prison. There's only one way to deal with me.

Nico: I know. But we don't like it.

Fartor: It's ok. I had a good run. But promise me you'll make sure my brother pays for this.

Heatblast: (solemnly) We will. (launches fireball)

Me: No Heatblast. I got this.

I walked up to him.

Me: Gary will pay for this Fartor. We're going to make him pay by throwing him in prison.

Lola was absorbing all the fire around her.

I pulled out a match.

Me: We'll grant you a swift death Larry. You didn't deserve this.

Fartor: I understand.

I used my thumb to strike the match and light it.

Me: Give my regards to the devil.

I threw the match into his pod and left and then Fartor's gas ignited and he exploded into a massive fireball with the power of 8,000 tons of nitroglycerin!

KRABBBBBBBBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOO

The explosion was so powerful that it hurled me into the air and sent me flying and I crashed into a fruit cart.

SPLAT!

Me: Wow! That was powerful!

Nico: Are you all right J.D.?

Me: Yeah. Thanks man.

Udonna: We've done it once again, everyone. This day is ours!

Lynn (sadly): Yeah? So how come we feel so bad about it?

Me: Well it's a mercy killing. We had to put him out of his misery because of all his pain that he had to go through.

Lynn: That's true. (To the viewers) Farts are a natural part of life. Natures whoopee cushion. We fart 50 times a day. Let the gas out.

Me: You said it Lynn.

We found Gary and told him what happened to Larry. We had him arrested for assault and battery and turning his brother Larry into a freak. But he never intended for that to happy. It was all because of brotherly love taken too far. He was sentenced to 35 years in prison.

THE END

Wrath of The Lich King

We all were with the Megaforce Power Rangers in Harwood County, Florida.

Maria: Here we are in Harwood County.

Troy Burrows: Home sweet home.

Me: I remember this city all too well. This was where you guys had all your adventures against the Armada and the Warstar.

Gia Moran: That's right.

Qin: I remember that. What the Warstar and Armada were doing was completely unforgivable.

Me: You got that right Qin. But it was so cool that the Megaforce Power Rangers teamed up with all of the Power Rangers from over the course of 20 years here in America.

Nico: That was awesome! I'll never forget that.

Vince: Me neither.

Troy Burrow: It was an awesome fight. But we brought you guys here to show you all something.

We went to the special command center that the Megaforce Rangers found and to our surprise we saw Gosei. He was a mask face on the wall.

Me: Whoa! It's Gosei.

Clawful: Are you Gosei?

Gosei: That's right. It's an honor and great pleasure to meet you all Team Loud Phoenix Storm.

Me: It's a pleasure to meet you as well Gosei. Troy and the Megaforce Rangers told us a lot about you and how you helped them against the Warstar and the Armada.

Gosei: I'm glad they did. Tommy Oliver and rangers of the past, it's a great pleasure to meet you.

Tommy Oliver: Same to you Gosei.

Kimberly Ann Hart: Are you related to Zordon?

Me: Actually Kim, from what I remember, Gosei was under the tutelage of Zordon. Zordon was his mentor.

Gosei: That is correct J.D.

Carter Grayson: That is amazing.

Andros: Gosei, I just want to say that I'm sorry for killing Zordon. But I had no other choice. He asked me to do it. I understand if you hate me for what I did.

Vortex: C'mon, Andros. Sometimes, we have to make the hardest of choices to save the world. I mean, just a few days ago, we had to kill Fartor.

Me: That's right. And there was no other choice. There was no other choice.

Gosei: That's right. Andros, I hold no grudge against you for doing what was right. You did it to save us all and for that I am grateful.

Andros: Thank you Gosei.

Me: We watched 44+ Years of Power Rangers, all from Japan and here in America and we are learning fast from all of their moves and abilities.

Gosei: I see. You have come far in your journey J.D. and you all have come a long way in your quest to defeat all evil.

Me: It's not gonna be that easy Gosei. But together, we can overcome any obstacle.

Laney: That's right.

Lana: Wow guys. Look at this.

Johnny Test: Man, look at all these Ranger Keys.

Me: It's 44+ Years of Power Ranger Powers.

Streetwise: Is that the Ranger Key for the Green Dragon Blitz Ranger?

Me: It sure is. From what I remember, the Green Dragon Blitz Ranger was not introduced into that group.

Gosei: That's right. That ranger power came from another universe where it existed.

Me: That's incredible!

Orion: So that's how I was able to get the Green Dragon Blitz Ranger power.

Gosei: That is correct.

Me: That's interesting.

Later we went to Ernie's Brainfreeze, a very popular juice bar that the Megaforce Power Rangers called their hangout spot.

Me: So this is Ernie's Brainfreeze.

Lana: I remember this place. The juice and smoothies looked really good.

Nico: They sure do.

Troy Burrows: It's where we all like to hang out from time to time.

Me: I remember that. Jayden, from what I remember you went here before as well.

Jayden Shiba: That's right. The juice and smoothies are tasty.

Lincoln: Lets try some.

We ordered a lot of smoothies and juice and they were delicious. I got a blue raspberry smoothie.

Me: (Slurps) Ahh. Really refreshing.

Lincoln had an orange creamsicle milkshake.

Lincoln: They are delicious.

Me: Yeah. James, how was your date with Seia?

James M.: We had a great time. Thank you for asking.

Me: No problem.

James M.: We watched the movie The King And I from the 1950's.

Me: That was a great movie back in 1956. One of my dads favorite shows from his past.

Laney: Mine too. It's a breathtaking broadway play.

James M.: Seia and I are now official.

Me: I'm happy for you guys.

James M.: Thanks man.

Me: No problem.

* * *

Back at the estate we were watching Lola play World of Warcraft: Wrath of The Lich King. She was facing the ruthless Lich King, Arthas Menethil. He was a terrifyingly dangerous and deadly foe.

As Lola played, Mizore Shirayuki and Qin looked up the history of Arthas Menethil and The Lich King.

* * *

Prince Arthas Menethil was born four years before the outbreak of the First War. King Terenas II and Queen Lianne were overjoyed and all of Lordaeron celebrated Arthas' birth.

At the tender age of nineteen, Arthas fulfilled his father's hopes by being inducted into the Knights of the Silver Hand; after which the paladin (and longtime friend) Uther the Lightbringer became Arthas' mentor.

Five years later, Arthas and sorceress Jaina Proudmoore (who Arthas has pined for since childhood) began investigating a deadly plague that was distributed as grain to the surrounding cities and towns. This grain would then be used to make bread. After consuming the plagued bread, the individual would eventually fall seriously ill and die. After death, they would be resurrected as minions of the undead Scourge.

Arthas and Jaina tracked and dispatched Kel'Thuzad, the necromancer who was orchestrating the plagued grain, in the Alliance city of Andorhal. Shortly after, the two learned that the city of Stratholme had already become infected. Arthas felt that the only way to ensure his people's safety was to execute all men, women, and children that resided in Stratholme, cutting off any chance for the undead to spread. After hearing of Arthas' impulsive plan, Uther voiced his feelings regarding the prince's plan, asking if Arthas had lost his mind. Arthas, blinded by pride, considered Uther's opposition an act of treason, and, by his rite of succession and the sovereignty of his crown, stripped Uther of all authority and suspended the paladins of the Order of the Silver Hand from service indefinitely. Uther warned Arthas that he was crossing a terrible threshold by putting this genocide into action. Arthas then turned to Jaina, who he was surprised to see walking with Uther, and asked her to partake. Filled with sadness, Jaina told Arthas that she couldn't watch him murder innocent people. After feeling as though two of his closest friends had abandoned him, Arthas lead a regiment of soldiers and mages into Strathholme to begin the slaughter. This event would come to be known as "The Culling of Stratholme".

Eventually Arthas came upon the dreadlord Mal'Ganis within Stratholme, who claimed ultimate responsibility for the plague. Eluding capture, Mal'Ganis challenged the prince to a final confrontation on the continent of Northrend, where he would meet his destiny. Arthas, burning with thoughts of revenge, vowed to end the dreadlord no matter where he may be. The prince set off for the arctic shores of Northrend.

After landing on Northrend's icy shores, Arthas encountered dwarves under attack by the Scourge. The dwarves' leader, Muradin Bronzebread, had been searching for the fabled runeblade known as Frostmourne. Muradin had known Arthas as a child, and watched him grow.

Meanwhile in Lordaeron, at Uther's urging, King Terenas sent word to Northrend for Arthas and the rest of his fleet to return to Lordaeron immediately. Arthas' soldiers gladly prepared to obey. Not to be undermined by Uther, Arthas refused to abandon the hunt for Mal'Ganis when his fleet has been recalled by the Emissary. Instead, the prince secretly hired mercenaries to sink his own ships. As the ships burned, Arthas publicly blamed the mercenaries for the fleet's destruction. Enraged, Arthas' soldiers killed the mercenaries, who ruined their chance of going home.

Now trapped in Northerend, Arthas and Muradin's forces struggled to hold off the Scourge onslaught. In the meantime, the pair tracked down Frostmourne, which was in a large cavern, encased in ice, and hovering over a pedestal. Muradin noticed an inscription on the pedestal, which warned that whoever wields Frostmourne will not only have unlimited power, but will also curse the wielder's soul. Muradin immediately disregarded any thoughts of using the runeblade as it was cursed, and advised Arthas that the two of them should just leave. Despite Muradin's warning, Arthas swore he would pay any cost for victory, and shattered the ice to free Frostmourne. One of the ice shards flew out and killed Muradin in the process. It would be revealed later that Muradin had, in fact, NOT been slain, but instead knocked unconscious for a while, as he aids in the charge on Icecrown Citadel years later.

With the power of Frostmourne, Arthas led his troops to victory against the Scourge. With victory in sight, Mal'Ganis appeared again to the prince. The dreadlord hadn't known that Arthas would know about Frostmourne, and by the time the realization of his master's betrayal set in, Frostmourne had already descended and ended his life. With total victory achieved, Arthas would then wander Northrend - becoming insane as the power of the cursed blade spoke to him within his mind.

Despite his actions, Arthas returned to Lordaeron a hero, and was welcomed home by his father in loving faith. Upon entering the throne room, he knelt before his father with the most vile intention in mind. After rising to his feet, he removed his hood and revealed his pale face and pure white hair to his shocked father. Within the blink of an eye, Arthas darted forward and forced his father to his knees, all the while his former captains (now Death Knights of Arthas'), Falric and Marwyn, killed the guards within the throne room. Confused and betrayed, King Terenas asked his son what this was all about. With a heartless and cold tone, Arthas whispered to a heartbroken Terenas: "… succeeding you… father.". Before Terenas could process his son's words, Arthas plunged Frostmourne into his father's chest, and claiming the king's soul. This marked the first soul ever to be taken by the sword. After murdering his father, Arthas and his Scourge minions ravaged Lordaeron and killed any living person in sight. After the destruction of his kingdom, he was then instructed to retrieve Kel'Thuzad's remains. After locating the remains, the former necromancer also communicated with Arthas telepathically. Acting as a sort of advisor, Kel'Thuzad instructed Arthas to locate a vessel in which they can put the remains so they are safe for transporting. With this, Arthas tracked down an urn suitable enough for the remains, only to discover that it was being used already. Uther was transporting the urn to be buried as it contained the ashes of King Terenas. Uther and Arthas exchanged heated words and, after tempers flared, exchanged blows. Arthas would eventually kill Uther, dump out the ashes of his father, and place Kel'Thuzad's remains into the phylactery. Knowing the remains wouldn't stay in tact much longer, Kel'Thuzad implored Arthas to prepare an invasion force and march on the only place the necromancer could be resurrected: the fabled Sunwell within Quel'Thalas - kingdom of the high elves.

The elves fought bravely against Arthas but were defeated - Arthas would kill and resurrect Ranger-General Sylvanas Windrunner into a banshee servant for her defiance.

With the help of his new servant Arthas captured the Sunwell and through its magic resurrected Kel'Thuzad as an undead lich - the demon lord Archimonde ordered Arthas to retrieve the spell book: the Book of Medivh.

Arthas invaded the city-state of Dalaran and retrieved the book, using it to summon Archimonde into the world of Azeroth.

However Arthas proved disloyal to Archimonde and helped seal his fate by having the demon-hunter Illidan Stormrage steal the Skull of Gul'dan, without this powerful artifact Archimonde was defeated.

However his victory was shortlived as the call of the Lich King soon saw Arthas return to Northrend - upon arriving he was attacked by elf survivors of the Scourge attack upon Quel'Thalas, now allied with Illidan Stormrage and seeking to destroy the Lich King.

With help from the evil Nerubian race, Arthas defeated the elves, but with Illidan's army already heading for the Icecrown Citadel, Arthas began to fear he would not reach the Lich King in time so opted for taking a shortcut through the ancient underground city of Azol-Nerub. The shortcut paid off and Arthas intercepted Illidan, defeating him in single combat and banishing him from Northrend - he then entered Icecrown Citadel and merged with the Lich King and take his place upon the Frozen Throne as the new king of all undead.

Plans

As the new Lich King, Arthas seeks to destroy all life on Azeroth and rule over a world of undead bound to his will (although a part of Arthas remains good and keeps that from happening), everything else is secondary to him though due to the grand-scale of his plan many smaller-scale plots and schemes are formed along the way - all of which ultimately link back to his main objective: ending life and enslaving the undead.

It must also be noted that Arthas now defeated Ner'zhul and what's left of his humanity on a dream like state when he was inactive… Making him the dominant spirit and having control of the new powerful entity… Therefore he is not a host of Ner'zhul anymore because he is the Lich king it self.

Awakening

The Lich King awoke and started to make his plans come true in person. He soon removed his heart, as he believed anything making him mortal made him weak. Then he went Sindragosa's Fall, and he thrust Frostmourne through the ice. It blew all the snow of the area, and from the ice emerged Sindragosa as the Queen of the Frost Wyrms. He then began his major attack on Azeroth by sending plagued grain to all of the capital cities of the main races of Azeroth. Those who ate it either became ghouls, zombie-like servants of the Lich King, or were cured before that happened. He then sent many of his Scourge minions into the cities of The Horde and The Alliance, which by then the leaders became enraged and sent heroes to Northrend.

The Scarlet Enclave and The Battle for Light's Hope

Soon the Lich King decided to send his new order of Death Knights against the Scarlet Enclave, the remaining forces of the Scarlet Crusade, which were a group of crazed paladins and priests who saw anyone who wasn't part of them to be evil and should be killed. Soon his new death knights had killed many of them and drove the remainder of them off. Those who survived went to Northrend to form the Scarlet Onslaught.

The Lich King soon turned his attention to the Argent Dawn, who resided in Light's Hope Church nearby. He sent his order of death knights to destroy them, led by the son of the Ashbringer Darion Mograine. The Ashbringer was a paladin by the name of Alexandros Mograine whom crafted a blade which could destroy unholy beings in the flash of an eye, which was also called The Ashbringer. His son Darion now wielded the blade in a corrupted state. When the death knights were sent to end the Argent Dawn, the death knights failed and were defeated by the Argent Dawn. There, a vision came of Darion and his dead father talking, as Darion watches. Soon the Lich King comes and shows all the death knights he used them to bring Tirion Fordring out of hiding, a great paladin. Darion comes to realise everything, who attacks the Lich King and obviously the Lich King easily swats him away. Darion throws the Ashbringer to Tirion, which is purified. Tirion attacks Arthas, whom retreats. The death knights there form the Knights of the Ebon Blade, and Tirion brings the Argent Dawn and the Knights of the Silver Hand to create the Argent Crusade. They both serve the purpose to kill the Lich King.

Angrathar the Wrathgate

The Alliance, led by Bolvar Fordragon, and the Horde, led by Saurfang the Younger, make a massive attack together on Angrathar the Wrathgate, a gate leading to the inside of Icecrown Citadel. The Alliance is the first to attack, and the Lich King sends out a number of undead to fight them. Then the Horde comes along and helps clear out the undead. After that Bolvar shouts, calling Arthas a traitor and ordering him to come out and fight them face to face. In reply, Arthas comes out, and summons a small number of undead while making a speech to the attackers. Saurfang then runs to attack the Lich King, but is easily slain. The Lich King then uses Frostmourne to consume Saurfang's soul. After, a loud boom is heard, and Grand Apothecary Putress and his undead are seen on a ledge above. He shouts, "Death to the Scourge, and death to the living!" as he unleashes the New Plague, which he created, upon the Scourge and Alliance and Horde alike. The undead walk away, as The Lich King walks back into Icecrown Citadel. Soon after the Red Dragonflight comes and bring down the flames of life. Bolvar is brought back to life, and is brought back into Icecrown Citadel along with Saurfang's body.

Small hint of humanity left

In the Halls of Reflection, Either Jaina or Sylvanas will attempt to communicate with the spirits in Frostmourne and the spirit of Uther comes out. He explains that the small piece of Arthas is all that keeps the Lich King from having the Scourge wipe out Azeroth and the only way to kill the Lich King is to fight him at the Frozen Throne. The Lich King arrives and sends Uther back into Frostmourne and some of his Scourge minions try and kill the party but his minions fall and he tries to kill them only for them to escape.

Siege on Icecrown Citadel

After Crusaders' Coliseum, the Knights of the Ebon Blade and the Argent Crusade came together to form the Ashen Verdict. They then began their Siege on Icecrown Ciadel. It was there, that the Lich

King turned Saurfang into a death knight and was attempting to turn Bolvar. Finally, after the players faced the horrors of the Spire, the monstrousities of the Plagueworks, the Blood Princes and Queen of the Crimson Halls, and the dragons of the Frostwing Halls, the players faced Arthas Menethil, now the Lich King, himself. He freezes Tirion in a block of ice as he fights the champions.

After a long fight, the Lich King becomes fed up and kills all the players. He then reveals that the entire campaign in Northrend and the siege of icecrown citadel was all a trap. Arthas's real goal is to gain control of the Alliance and Hord's champions, and turn them into powerful undead champions who would then proceed to annihilate all life in Azeroth. All of his servants that the players destroyed were all tests to prove that they were indeed the greatest champions. The Lich King then raises Frostmourne and begins to turn them into Scourge.

But before he can finish, Tirion uses the power of the light to break free from the ice and jumps up and shatters Frostmourne with the Ashbringer. The spirits of Frostmourne are unleashed and swirl around him. His father, Terenas Menethil ll, resurrect the players to end it once and for all. The players finally defeat Arthas. He falls the Helm of Domination falls off of him head, and he reaches for it but falls.

Death of the Prince of Lordaeron

Arthas lays, Frostmourne shattered at his side. His father sits next to him, as Arthass' eyes turn to sea green from glowing blue, hinting he was finally free of the Lich King's influence. He asks if its over, almost glad to be free of the Lich King, and his father replies saying that no king rules forever. The prince proclaims that he sees only darkness before him, as his eyes roll backward, and dies in his fathers arms able to rest in peace. Terenas tells Tirion there must be a Lich King, and Tirion takes up the helm ready to become the Lich King. However, Bolvar is chained up on the Frozen Throne, burnt and somewhat undead. He asks Tirion to make him the Lich King, and Tirion finally agrees. Bolvar tells him to never let anyone know what happened there, only that the Lich King is dead and that he died with him. Tirion puts the Helm of Domination on Bolvar's head, as he becomes the new Lich King.

Lich King

The Lich King's only physical forms are a cursed suit of armor and a sword called Frostmourne, both of which are enchanted with the element of ice, and requires a mortal host to do its bidding, who becomes the Lich King when they put on the Helm of Domination. The Lich King is completely immortal and eternal, and when one host is killed a new one has to take their place, or else the Scourge will run completely rampant without a master and destroy all life on Azeroth. The Lich King rules from the "Frozen Throne" atop the Scourge's fortress of Icecrown Citadel in the frozen continent of Northrend, where he spends most of the time hibernating/doing nothing.

The original host used to create the Lich King was an Orc Shaman named Ner'zhul, but the individual best known for filling the role was Arthas, who became corrupted by the Scourge and coerced by the Lich King's spirit to come to the Frozen Throne and put on the Helm of Domination, turning him into the new Lich King. The form and personality of Arthas would become dominant over that of Ner'zhul.

After that, the Lich King went into hibernation atop his throne again for several years, before finally returning to wreak havoc on Azeroth with a newly revitalized Scourge army in Wrath of the Lich King. At the start of the expansion, the Lich King is at the necropolis of Archerus: The Ebon Hold in the Eastern Plaguelands, training a group of death knights who eventually break away from the Scourge and join the side of good, being the Death Knights controlled by player characters. During the campaign against the Scourge in Northrend, the Alliance and Horde simultaneously launch a massive attack on the Wrathgate in Dragonblight leading into Icecrown in an attempt to assault the citadel, where after defeating all the monsters outside the Alliance general Bolvar Fordragon called out for Arthas to show himself and answer for his crimes, which he did, but the confrontation was interrupted and turned to disaster when a group of rogue Forsaken led by Grand Apothecary Putress arrived and launched barrels of poison gas on everyone, killing all the Alliance and Horde soldiers (including Bolvar and the Horde hero Dranosh Saurfang) and forcing the Lich King to retreat further into Icecrown.

Eventually, the heroes finally secured a position to launch a final attack on the Lich King in Icecrown Citadel. The first battle took place in the Halls of Reflection, where Frostmourne is kept, in which the Lich King appeared and tried to stop them from escaping by summoning groups of Scourge and ice walls, but the adventurers survived the encounter with the help of Sylvanas Windrunner/Jaina Proudmoore (depending on the player's faction of choice) and the convenient arrival of an airship to save them. A much larger and stronger group of heroes later fought the Lich King for the final time on his Frozen Throne on top of the Citadel, where they were aided by Highlord Tirion Fordring of the Argent Crusade.

After a considerable period of fighting, the Lich King finally unleashed the full power of Frostmourne, killing everyone. Luckily, Tirion Fordring jumps in at the last minute and saves the day by breaking Frostmourne with his holy sword of the Ashbringer. This frees all the souls of the Lich King's victims that were trapped inside, including Arthas' father Terenas Menethil, who used the power of their spirits to revive the group and overwhelm the Lich King, allowing them to finish him off. The Helm of Domination fell from Arthas' head, allowing him to finally die. However, there was now the matter of finding a new host to sate the spirit of the Lich King and prevent the Scourge from destroying the world; this burden was taken up by Bolvar Fordragon, now an undead being who had been imprisoned by the Lich King, who donned the helmet and encased himself in ice upon the Frozen Throne, pacifying the Scourge.

Qin gasped in horror.

Mizore: I know. I can't believe that Arthas is that evil. He did all kinds of terrible things to the entirety of Azeroth.

Qin: And he killed his own father in cold blood.

Nico: Arthas is the worst monster in the history of the universe.

Mizore: That sword Frostmourne is a dangerous sword.

Nico: It is. It's a cursed sword that turns anyone evil.

Mizore looked up the history of Frostmourne.

Origin

When Ner'zhul was transformed into the Lich King by Kil'jaeden, his disembodied spirit was shackled to a magical suit of armor as well as the runeblade, Frostmourne. Trapped within an icy tomb called the Frozen Throne, both the armor and the blade were crafted by the Nathrezim for the purpose of containing and controlling the Lich King.

Ner'zhul's Plan to Escape

Ner'zhul was not content with being a pawn for the Burning Legion, and began working on a plan for escape. The first stage of his plan was set in motion when he used his powers to push Frostmourne through the ice and out of the Frozen Throne, plunging it into the snows of Northrend to await one who would claim it and become the Lich King's agent. Ner'zhul found his agent in Arthas Menethil, the young prince of Lordaeron who had come to Northrend in a quest to end the plague.

Muradin Bronzebeard, a dwarven explorer based at the time in Northrend, was searching for the weapon after hearing of Frostmourne's power when Arthas and his men arrived. When the forces of the dreadlord Mal'Ganis began to close in around them, Arthas and Muradin set out to claim it.

Deep within a hidden cave, Frostmourne was protected by The Guardian and several revenants who tried to forewarn Arthas of the danger, but he ignored the warning and destroyed them. When they found the sword, Muradin read the inscription on the dais:

"Whomsoever takes up this blade shall wield power eternal. Just as the blade rends flesh, so must power scar the spirit."

Muradin realized then that the blade was cursed, but Arthas said he would gladly bear any curse to save his homeland. Upon speaking those words, the ice encasing the sword shattered and exploded outward. A jagged shard struck Muradin, seemingly striking him dead. Arthas gazed upon Muradin's "corpse", discarded his hammer, [Light's Vengeance]

In the Hands of Arthas

With the sword in hand, Arthas returned to his base and staged a counterattack against Mal'Ganis, quickly destroying the dreadlord's base. Mal'Ganis confronted Arthas, telling him that Ner'zhul had known he would take the cursed sword, and that it had now stolen Arthas's soul. He spoke as if he believed Arthas was now on his side, but to his surprise Arthas used the runeblade to slay the dreadlord on the Lich King's command. With his soul forfeited to the Lich King, Arthas ran off into the frozen wastes of Northrend.

Now a death knight of the Scourge, Arthas killed and converted his former army before returning to Lordaeron, where he was hailed with a royal welcome. Arthas proceeded directly to the throne room, where he killed his father, King Terenas, and set the Scourge loose throughout the city.

Some time after the Burning Legion's defeat at Mount Hyjal, the demon hunter Illidan Stormrage used a powerful spell to attack the Frozen Throne, where the Lich King was imprisoned. Though the spell was unsuccessful, it widened the crack through which Frostmourne had been thrust, and the Lich King's power began to wane, so he recalled Arthas to Northrend to aid him. Arthas defeated Illidan and ascended the spire of the Frozen Throne, then plunged Frostmourne back into the ice and donned the helmet sealed within, becoming the new Lich King.

World of Warcraft: Wrath of the Lich King

The Frozen Halls

Just after he is defeated in the Pit of Saron, the leper gnome Krick lets it slip that Arthas leaves Frostmourne unattended in the Halls of Reflection, his private sanctum in the Frozen Halls of Icecrown Citadel.

After surviving the Pit of Saron, the guides for the adventurers braving the Halls (Jaina Proudmoore for the Alliance or Sylvanas Windrunner for the Horde) lead the way into the Halls of Reflection. As Krick promised, Frostmourne stands alone, floating serenely above an altar in the center of the entry chamber. Jaina or Sylvanas attempt to commune with the souls trapped within the blade to find the key to the Lich King's weakness. They are contacted by the spirit of Uther the Lightbringer, who warns them that another must take the Lich King's place in order to keep the Scourge under control.

Fall of the Lich King

During the final battle against the Lich King at the Frozen Throne, Frostmourne was shattered by Ashbringer, wielded by Tirion Fordring. The thousands of souls trapped within the blade swarmed the Lich King, suspending him in the air, where he was finished off by the champions assembled to defeat him. The trapped souls then remained in Icecrown Citadel, locked in eternal torment, unable to escape.

On the Dedication of Honor monument at the center of Runeweaver Square in Dalaran, a bust of the shattered hilt of Frostmourne is shown at the feet of the statue of Tirion Fordring. The current location of Frostmourne's remains are resting at the base of the Frozen Throne within Icecrown Citadel.

Curse

Frostmourne has the ability to drain life from its victims - and to drain the soul of anyone whom it connects to. The Lich King is capable of seeing through the eyes and hearing through the ears of anyone who wields Frostmourne; this ability cannot be stopped by any mortal means. The Lich King can communicate with the wielder at will telepathically, on any plane and at any distance. The Lich King uses this ability to try and corrupt the wielder over time. This has several effects. An individual who wields Frostmourne will not part with it willingly. Over time the person will go from good to neutral and finally to evil. A non-undead evil wielder will then become undead. Finally the sword is able to suck the being's soul into the sword. Frostmourne then retains the memories and skills of its victim. In fact, as long as the wielder's original body remains within one mile of Frostmourne, the sword maintains control of the body, and he may not be completely aware that his consciousness has shifted to the weapon. Beyond one mile, the sword cannot control the wielder's body, and the wielder of course finally becomes quite aware of his current state (if he is not already).

The Lich King can take possession of a soulless body that comes in contact with him and Frostmourne at the same time. The soul within Frostmourne is destroyed unless it willingly merges with the Lich King, becoming lost as a separate entity for all eternity. If a soul merges with the Lich King, he gains all the skills and memories of the victim. He has only done this one time, with Prince Arthas Menethil.

Powers

In Warcraft III

In Warcraft III: Reign of Chaos, Frostmourne increased Arthas' base damage by 22 points and allowed him to deal chaos damage, which was fully effective against all types of armor (including that of buildings and divine beings). For balance reasons, this effect was only applied during the Frostmourne mission and not during the Path of the Damned or Legacy of the Damned campaigns.

In Warcraft RPG

In Manual of Monsters, Frostmourne is an artifact-level bastard sword with the following abilities: an increased chance to hit, increased damage, an increased chance of scoring a critical hit, an increased attack speed, the ability to strike incorporeal creatures as though they were fully corporeal, the ability to cause bleeding wounds and reduce the victim's stamina, bonus damage against good-aligned beings, bonus damage against living beings, and a life-draining effect that heals its wielder when he deals damage.

In Arthas: Rise of the Lich King

In Arthas: Rise of the Lich King, Arthas is able to wield the runeblade almost effortlessly, despite its size and weight. It slices through most opponents with minimal resistance, and shatters most weapons it comes in contact with, including the elven runeblade Felo'melorn. Those slain by Frostmourne have their souls drawn into the weapon.

---

Mizore: Wow. That sword is dangerous. But I can use Snow Woman magic to destroy its evil curse and free the souls it has imprisoned and use it for capturing evil souls.

Nicole: That's a great idea Mizore. That sword is like the Book of Vile Darkness in Sword Form.

Mizore: Exactly.

We saw Lola destroy the Lich King and she beat him. We cheered for her!

Me: Way to go Lola!

Kayla: She did a great job.

Me: She sure did. But that is horrible what Arthas was doing. Wouldn't it be awesome if we could go to Azaroth for real and destroy the Lich King forever?

Nico: That would be an awesome adventure.

Me: Lets do it! Lisa, deploy the U.S.S. Valorous Phoenix.

Lisa: Affirmative.

We boarded the ship and we were off to the planet Azeroth.

---

In the Icecrown Citadel in the frozen wasteland of Northrend on the planet Azeroth, Arthas the Lich King was heading to the room where the sword Frostmourne was on a pedestal. He walked up to the sword and it was glowing a malevolent aqua blue. Inside the sword were the souls of thousands of slain people.

The soul of Arthas's father King Terenas spoke to him.

Terenas: Can you feel it my son? Closing in all around you. The light's justice has been awakened. The sins of the past have finally caught up to you. You will be called to account for all the atrocities you've committed, the unspeakable horrors you've let loose upon this world, and the dark ancient powers you've enslaved. Though my soul was one of the first to be devoured by your evil, there are thousands more bound within this blade and they cry out for release. Look now to your defenses my son, for the champions of justice gather at your gates and a much more powerful force is now on its way here even as we speak!

Arthas picked up the sword and the souls vanished and he was ready to fight!

Arthas: Let them come. Frostmourne hungers.

The Lich King was ready for a fight.

---

Out in space, the U.S.S. Valorous Phoenix was flying to Azeroth.

Me: Captain's Log, Stardate 2765.2: The U.S.S. Valorous Phoenix is en route to the planet Azeroth, a wartorn planet where all kinds of awesome creatures from legend and folklore battle for peace and protection. Our mission is to hunt down the ruthless Lich King, Arthas Menethil and destroy his evil reign of terror before he destroys everything in Azeroth.

William: I can't believe we're visiting the World of Warcraft.

Nico: The Lich King is not gonna be easy guys. He easily overwhelmed the Champions of The Light without so much as breaking a sweat.

Me: I remember that. But he also has a massive army of minions at his command. They are called the Scourge.

Vince: The forces of the undead.

Gia Moran: This is gonna be rough.

Troy: Let's use our Basic Megaforce powers to take out the minions.

Robo Knight: Let me help out with that.

Me: Good idea guys.

Lily: This is gonna be one dangerous fight.

Nico: It sure is.

Lisa: We have arrived at our destination.

Me: On screen.

We have arrived at the planet Azeroth. It was an amazing planet.

Me: Wow!

Laney: There it is. Azeroth. It's beautiful.

Me: Lets land.

We landed the ship on the forests of the continent of Northrend. It was a strange place.

Me: Here we are guys. The continent of Northrend.

Lola: Wow! It's breathtaking.

Nico: It sure is.

?: You are the famous Team Loud Phoenix Storm.

We turned and we saw a beautiful woman with beautiful blonde hair and she had blue eyes and beautiful clothes and an awesome mage staff.

Lola: Wow! You're Jaina Proudmoore.

Jaina: That's right. It's a pleasure to meet you all. We heard so much about you.

Me: It's mutual. We came here to kill Arthas, the Lich King.

Jaina: I had a feeling you came here for that. The man that I once called my love is gone for good. The man that is now in his place is a monster that must be destroyed.

Me: We all will destroy him.

Lola: I remember where Icecrown Citadel is located.

Me: We'll follow you Lola since you know this world.

Lola: Okay. Follow me!

We followed Lola and we were off to the Icecrown Citadel. We saw the entire land completely decimated by the forces of the Lich King and thousands of dead bodies littered the ground.

Me: This is terrible.

Lucy Loud: Arthas has turned into a Genocidal Monster bent on destroying all of Azeroth.

Lynn: When we find him, he will pay the ultimate price.

Me: He sure will. What Arthas did to this whole planet is completely unforgivable.

Lori: He will literally pay for his crimes in blood.

Nico: No lie Lori.

Lola: There! Up ahead is Icecrown Citadel.

Me: That's it all right. Lets power up!

We transformed and powered up.

Troy: Let's use our Basic Megaforce powers to take out the minions.

Robo Knight: Let me help out with that!

Megaforce Rangers: GO GO MEGAFORCE!

The Megaforce Power Rangers transformed. Troy Burrows was in his Basic Megaforce Red Ranger form, Noah Carver was in is Basic Megaforce Blue Ranger form, Jake Halling was in his Basic Megaforce Black Ranger Form, Gia Moran was in her Basic Megaforce Yellow Ranger form, and Emma Goodall was in her basic Megaforce Pink Ranger form. Orion stayed in his Super Megaforce Silver Ranger Form.

We landed at Icecrown Citadel and we saw Tirian Fordring and the Champions of the Light. They were trying to bust down the gates.

Me: Let us help you!

I fired a powerful energy blast and blew the doors down.

Fordring: Thank you. Team Loud Phoenix Storm. It's an honor to meet you all.

Me: Same to you Tirian. Lets work together to take down the Lich King. Arthas will pay for his crimes.

Fordring: Lets do it.

We shook hands and we charged into the castle. We were fighting the Scourge and they were powerful. But we slashed and killed them all. Mizore fired powerful shards of ice at them and killed them and Lucy Loud slashed them with Nizogamourne and damned them with black fire. Troy Burrows slashed a bunch of Scourge with his Dragon Sword, Emma Goodall blasted a bunch of them with her Phoenix Shot, Jake Halling chopped a bunch of Scourge with his Snake Axe, Gia Moran slashed a bunch of Scourge with her Tiger Claw, Noah Carver blasted a bunch of Scourge with his Shark Bow, Robo Knight fired his Vulcan Cannon and blasted a bunch of Scourge apart and Orion slashed and stabbed a bunch of Scourge with his Super Silver Spear. We blasted them all with fire and elemental energy blasts and more and we were killing them all one by one and destroyed them all. Now we have the Lich King left to face.

Me: Now we have Arthas to face and he will pay.

We climbed up to the top of the Frozen Throne.

Fordring: The Lich King must answer for what he has done and must not be allowed to cause further destruction in our world.

Me: We'll all make him pay for his crimes. So many have suffered because of him. In my opinion Hell is too good for him.

Nicole: The Book of Vile Darkness is also too merciful for him.

Me: The River of Fire is more appropriate.

We got to the top and we saw Arthas the Lich King in person.

Me: Arthas the Lich King!

Lich King: So the mighty Team Loud Phoenix Storm has come.

Nico: You will pay for your crimes Arthas!

Me: Words cannot even begin to describe the savage onslaught of pain, death and destruction you and your minions have caused!

Fordring: That's right! I swore that I would see you dead and the Scourge dismantled! I'm going to finish what I started at Light's Hope!

Lich King: So the Lights Vaulted Justice has finally arrived. And Team Loud Phoenix Storm is with you. Shall I lay down Frostmourne and throw myself at your mercy?

Me: We don't show mercy to monsters like you Arthas.

Fordring: We'll grant you a swift death Arthas. More than can be said for the thousands you've tortured and slain.

Nico: We won't show any mercy on you Arthas. We're gonna make sure that your death is slow and excruciatingly painful when we kill you.

Lich King: You will learn of that firsthand. When my work is complete, you will beg for mercy and I will deny. Your anguished cries will be testament to my unbridled power.

Me: We'll see about that you cold-hearted fuckhead!

Fordring: So be it. Champions…

Me: And Team Loud Phoenix Storm…

Me and Fordring: ATTACK!

(Requiem for A Dream plays)

Megaforce Rangers: Legendary Ranger Mode: Nova Flashteam!

The Megaforce Rangers turned into the Japanese Rangers, the Supernova Flashmen. Troy Burrows was the Red Nova Ranger, Noah Carver was the Blue Nova Ranger, Jake Halling was the Green Nova Ranger, Gia Moran was the Yellow Nova Ranger, Emma Goodall was the Pink Nova Ranger and Orion was the newest sixth ranger of the Nova Flashmen: The Gold Nova Star Ranger. He was armed with Gold Prism Power that can fire powerful rainbow lasers that can cause an incredible amount of damage.

We went at the Lich King and I punched him in the face and kicked him in the stomach. Lola fired a powerful blast of fire and burned him and she thawed out some of his ice. Laney formed powerful mace clubs of bramble vines and smashed them onto Arthas. Nico fired powerful energy blasts and they all hit Arthas and exploded with incredible power. Lincoln fired powerful blasts of lightning and electrocuted him all over. Linka fired a powerful blast of lightning as well and it electrocuted him. Yuko Tani fired a powerful blast of fire and burned him, Aylene C. fired a massive blast of fire and burned him, Luan fired a massive blast of light and Luna and Lori fired powerful blasts of wind and water and they slammed into Arthas with devastating force and sent him crashing into the wall of ice. I fired a powerful blast of fire and energy and it hit Arthas and exploded. The Champions of the Light fired a massive and savage onslaught of powerful elemental attacks and magic and it was a powerful and relentless onslaught. Lisa fired powerful laser blasts at Arthas and Lincoln and I fired powerful blasts of Force Lightning and we electrocuted him. Troy Burrows hit Arthas with his Red Prism Sword and slashed him all over, Jake Halling punched Arthas all over with his Prism Fists and they slammed into him with devastating force, Noah Carver slammed into Arthas with his prism ball by bouncing on him with incredible force, Gia Moran used her Prism Batons and smashed them into him, Emma Goodall threw powerful Prism Hearts and they hit Arthas and exploded all over him, Orion used his new Prism Wrist Blasters and fired powerful rainbow laser blasts at Arthas and they hit him and exploded. Jaina fired a powerful blast of magic energy from her staff and the blasts hit Arthas and burned him all over. Lucy then unsheathed Nizogamourne and she clashed violently with Arthas. It was a powerful clash and the force of their swords was so strong and so powerful that it shook all of Azeroth all over. Massive explosions of ice and black fire were going all over the place.

Lucy Loud: You're through hurting people!

Lucy kicked him in the face and sent him into the wall. Unknown to Arthas, Mizore used a powerful magic spell on Frostmourne and it made an exact copy of the sword but without the evil influencing and corrupting powers and it retained all of its powers. We stopped.

Arthas was standing ready.

Me: It's over Arthas.

Lich King: No questions remain unanswered. No doubts linger. You ARE the entire universes greatest champions. You all have overcame every challenge I laid before you. My mightiest servants have fallen before your relentless onslaught… your unbridled fury. Is it truly righteousness that drives you? I wonder. You trained them well Fordring and you too J.D. Knudson. You delivered the greatest fighting force this universe has ever known… right into my hands! Exactly as I intended! You both shall be rewarded for your unwitting sacrifice. You will watch as I raise all of your friends and teammates from the dead to become masters of the Scourge. They will soon shroud this world in chaos and destruction, Azeroth's fall will come at their hands. And you all will be the first to die. (Laughs evilly) I delight in the irony.

Me: No fucking way in Hell will we allow that to happen!

Fordring: Light, grant me one final blessing. Give me the strength to end this monster.

Just as Arthas was about to lift up Frostmourne to do what he was going to do, Fordring jumped and shattered his Frostmourne with his sword, the Ashbringer and Frostmourne was shattered into a thousand pieces and the curse that bound all the souls inside it was broken!

Lich King: Impossible !

Fordring: No more Arthas! No more lives will be consumed by your hatred!

King Terenas was freed.

Terenas: Free! At last. It is over my son. This is the moment of reckoning.

Me: Lets hit this fuckpot with everything we got!

Nico: Right! Arthas the Lich King you have failed this Universe!

Fordring: THE LICH KING…

Me: MUST…

Me and Fordring: FALL!

We then started hitting the Arthas with everything we got and went into combos.

Nico: Troy, lets use our combos with your Nova Flash powers.

Nicole: That's right. Enjoy the River Of Fire!

Nicole sent Arthas's evil spirit into the River of Fire.

Jaina: Goodbye forever my love.

Me: The terror of the Lich King has now been silenced forever.

Nico: You got that right.

We later went back home to Earth and we celebrated our victory.

Lucy Loud: (To the viewers) Mess with the powers of the dead and you will face us and me.

Me: You said it Lucy.

Jaina Proudmoore went with us back to Earth and she was gonna be welcome at our home. The Scourge were destroyed as well. Azeroth was saved.

Another Fanfiction Complete and a powerful foe beaten.

World of Warcraft: Wrath of The Lich King was a very interesting expansion of the World of Warcraft computer games. I never played World of Warcraft. It was too darn complicated for me. But what Arthas did was completely unforgivable. NicoChan11 gave me the ideas for this. Thanks man. Let me know what you all think. Next up is the Loud House Episode Recipe For Disaster. I'm gonna work on that one after I get back from hanging out with my friends tomorrow afternoon.

See you all next time.

Recipe For Disaster

At the estate, Lincoln is on the couch in the living room with Charles, eating blueberries. Homer Simpson is sitting on the sofa with him. He tosses one up and catches it in his mouth.

Homer: (Laughs) That's a good trick Lincoln.

Lincoln: Thanks Homer.

I came in and I had a platter full of delicious rib sandwiches.

Me: Hey guys. Try my Rib-Wiches. I made them from the recipes of Krusty Burger.

Lincoln: Those look delicious.

Me: Thanks Lincoln. Before we blew up Springfield, I swiped the recipes of how they make all their burgers, sandwiches and food and modified them so that they don't use bad chemicals and only use natural ingredients.

Lincoln: That's clever.

Homer: It's good to have this again. But I thought it was lost forever.

Me: Yes, it was made from a type of cow that was now extinct. But I modified it to be made with real 100% sirloin beef and my own herbs and spices.

Lincoln: Ooh.

They tried them and Homer was in heaven! Same with Lincoln. When the platter was cleaned up they were drooling uncontrollably and jittering.

Me: Boy you guys loved them.

Homer: They are just like the ones that were served at Krusty Burger!

Lincoln: I have eaten the ribs of God!

Homer: (Laughs) That's exactly what I said when I tried them Lincoln.

Me: (Laughs) You guys were sure hungry. I'm going to make these a permanent addition to Mr. Lynn's restaurant. McDonalds doesn't get the McRib sandwich in very often, so I'm going to add these to the menu as a permanent item.

Lincoln: That's cool J.D.!

Then someone knocks on the door, making him fall behind the couch.

Leni: [Upstairs] "Can someone get that?"

Lisa: [Also upstairs] "Who's at the door?"

Lola: [Also upstairs] (Older Voice) "Ugh! Lincoln!"

Lincoln: [Gets up] "Okay, okay, alright." [His sisters upstairs keep nagging at him to get the door.] "I'm going!"

Me: We'll get that girls!

[He opens the door, and sees a frantic Clyde.]

Clyde: "Lincoln!"

Me: Hey Clyde.

Lincoln: "Hey Clyde, what's-"

Clyde: [Briskly walks in] "No time for small talk, Lincoln."

Laney: What's wrong Clyde?

Me: Yeah what's going on?

[Lincoln follows Clyde to the kitchen, where he dumps three boxes from his bag onto the counter.]

Lincoln: [As Clyde opens the boxes.] "Clyde, what's going on?" [Looks at the empty boxes, as Clyde takes the contents.] "'Frosty Farm's Frozen Feasts'?"

Me: I've heard about these. They are tasty.

Clyde: [Preparing the microwavable meals.] "We have a big problem."

Lincoln: "I'll say, your dads bought frozen dinners? Is everything okay at home?"

Clyde: [With the meals] "Oh, yeah, we're just eating these until their vintage stove arrives from Italy. But that's besides the point!"

Lincoln: "So, what is the-" [Clyde shoves hot mac 'n' cheese bites in Lincoln's mouth, Lincoln fans it off.] "Okay, that was hot and-" [Then Clyde shoves hot lasagna into Lincoln's mouth.] "Ah, really Clyde, why are you-" [Then hot Salisbury steak, Lincoln fans his mouth and finally swallows.]

Clyde: "Well? Well? Taste anything familiar?"

Lincoln: "Hmm, this lasagna kind of tastes like my dad's, and so do the mac 'n' cheese bites, and the Salisbury steak; how is that possible? Wait, [gasps] did someone steal my dad's recipes?"

Clyde: "What other explanation could there be? When I tasted these, I flipped out!"

Me: Let me see here.

I tasted them and notice the same tastes.

Me: Yeah. These definitely taste a lot like Mr. Lynn's cooking.

Laney tasted them.

Laney: You're right J.D.

Lincoln: [Goes to the fridge] "Okay, before I flip out too, let's be a hundred percent sure." [Opens the fridge door and grabs his leftovers from the fridge.] "Grab those frozen dinners and follow me!"

Me: Lets go see.

[In Lisa's room, she calibrates a device, which opens a panel, and slowly ejects a tray.]

Lisa: "Place your samples here, gentlemen."

[The boys nervously do so.]

Me: This is a very spiffy device Lisa.

Lisa: Thank you.

Lincoln: "Should we be wearing goggles too?"

Lisa: "Uh, no, these are just for dramatic effect. I built this chemical analyzer with grant money from the Norwegian government, it'll break down the ingredients in both Dad's leftovers, and the frozen meals in question." [The machine prints a sheet of paper.] "Hmm, fascinating, a one-hundred percent match, right down to Father's secret ingredient in the mac 'n' cheese bites."

Lincoln: "A dash of caramel?"

Lisa: "Affirmative, it's a rather clever bit of food science, the sweet brings out the salty." [Smacks her lips]

Me: That is a clever method. But how is that possible? Mr. Lynn keeps all his recipes secret. (Gasp) You don't think that Ophelia Shroud finally stole his recipes!?

Clyde: That could be possible.

Lincoln: "So someone really did steal my dad's recipes. But I don't think it was Ophelia Shroud. But we'll ask her anyway. Looks like this is a case for…"

[The boys change their regular clothes into their Ace Savvy and One-Eyed Jack cosplays. With a yellow background having the One-Eyed Jack and Ace Savvy logos.]

Lincoln and Clyde: "One-Eyed Jack and Ace Savvy!"

Me: And lets help out too. Looks like we got a real mystery on our hands.

Laney: Ooh! I love mysteries! It's like with John Ruby!

Laney went back to her room and came back dressed in Sherlock Holmes clothes.

Laney: Time for some sleuthing.

[Cuts back to Lisa's room.]

Lisa: "Do you wear those under your clothes everyday just waiting for an opportunity such as this?"

Clyde: [Pulling on his eyepatch] "You bet your Norwegian grant money we do!"

[His eyepatch snaps back and he falls to the ground.]

Me: Careful Clyde. But first Laney you'll need this.

I spun my Magisword bracelet and pulled out a Magisword.

Announcer: MAGNIFYING GLASS MAGISWORD!

I hand it to her.

Laney: Thanks J.D.

Me: No problem. First lets go talk to Mr. Lynn and find out what happened.

Maria: We'll come with you guys.

Me: Okay Maria.

[At Lynn's table, he's prepping some meatballs.]

Lynn Sr.: [Singing to himself] " Hey, workin' in the kitchen, singin' this ditty, mixin' up meatballs, for my… spaghetti " [Thinks if that was any good.] "Eh, that works." [Just then, Ace and Jack enter.] "Ace Savvy and One-Eyed Jack! Grab a seat, at Lynn's Table, crimefighters eat free."

Lincoln: "Thanks Dad, but right now, the only appetite we have, is for justice!"

[The boys do some fighting moves.]

Lynn Sr.: "Ooh, on the job, eh, huh? Who are you solving a case for today?"

Lincoln: "Umm, you."

Lynn Sr.: [Confused] "I'm sorry, what's that?"

Me: It's a strange story Mr. Lynn.

Clyde: [Holding a frozen dinner box.] "We think someone stole your recipes, and sold them to Frosty Farm's Frozen Feasts."

Lincoln: [Takes out the lab report.] "We've got the chemical analysis to prove it."

Lynn Sr.: [Looks at the analysis] "Woah, woah, woah, how could that be?" [Goes over to the shelves.] "My recipe book is right here on the shelf, next to all the jars I need Lynn Jr. to open for me." [Realizes that the book isn't there.] "Wait a minute, where? Where is it?" [Throws things off the shelves, muttering to himself.] "It's gone," [Breaks down] "My book! My precious book is gone!"

Clyde: [With a notepad.] "Can you describe it for us?"

Lynn Sr.: [Gasps] "It contains all the recipes I've ever learned! Starting with, my first, home-ed class, in mi- in mi- in mi- in middle school." [Presses his face to the floor.]

Me: It's all right Mr. Lynn. Can you give us a description of the book?

Lincoln: "Yeah Dad, just tell us what it looks like."

Lynn Sr.: "Oh, right, uh, well it's a- it's a black book, with food stains on the cover, and property of Lynn Loud written inside." [Looks at his back pocket.] "Ooh, ooh, hang on, hang on," [takes something out.] "this is us, last Thanksgiving." [Gives Lincoln the photo.] "I miss her so much!

I write down the description on a notepad.

Lincoln: "Don't worry Dad, we're on the case." [Runs off] "We won't fold 'til we find the thief."

Clyde: "And then we'll be cashing in on that free meal, save me some of that spagh-itti."

[Clyde follows Lincoln, while Lynn Sr. cries on the floor. The boys pace around in front of the restaurant.]

Maria: Who do you think might've taken Mr. Lynn's book?

William: It couldn't have been any of the Legion of Doom. None of them can cook great. No offense Claire.

Volcana: None taken William. But yeah, I am a terrible cook. I always burn everything.

William: So it must be someone in Gotham Royal York.

Me: That's a good assumption.

Lincoln: "Okay guys, we know the book was kept in the restaurant kitchen; who had access?"

Me: Besides Mr. Lynn, it must be the employees.

Clyde: [Draws some cards] "Just the employees;" [his hand has three playing cards with drawings of the restaurant's three employees taped to the front.] "Grant, Kotaro, and your dad, and we know it's not your dad." [Removes that card]

Me: No it's his book that we're looking for. William, you head back to the estate and get the entire Redemption Squad to help out.

William: Yes sir.

William and Maria went back to the estate.

Lincoln: [Takes the remaining two cards.] "Than we have our suspects, looks like it's time to serve up some justice."

Clyde: "Ooh, [Gives two thumbs-ups] nice restaurant themed pun."

[The boys head off, and the card with Kotaro spins onto the screen.]

[Kotaro is at an ATM machine, when Ace and Jack startle him.]

Lincoln: "Hello, Kotaro."

Kotaro: [Sighs] "Hi boys, what are you doing here?"

Me: Hey Kotaro.

Clyde: "We'll ask the questions if you don't mind," [Regarding the ATM screen.] "you sure have a lot of money in your account, care to explain how you acquired it." [Makes a face]

Kotaro: "Not really."

Lincoln: "We can do this the easy way or the hard way."

Clyde: "Psst, Lincoln, I only know the easy way."

Kotaro: [Sighs] "Fine, my great aunt passed away, and left me the money."

Me: Oh no. I'm so sorry Kotaro.

Laney: We're sorry about your aunt Kotaro.

[Kotaro was gonna cry when Lucy pops up and scares all of them, making Lincoln jump into Clyde's arms.]

Lucy: "Hi Kotaro, I hope you were happy with the memorial service."

Kotaro: [Makes his withdraw] "I was, thank you Lucy." [Gives Lucy the money.] "Your eulogy really captured her inner beauty."

[Lucy escorts him away, and Ace and Jack look on with remorse.]

Lincoln: "Uh, we're sorry for your loss!"

Clyde: "We should really send flowers."

Laney: Good idea Clyde.

Me: But you have our sympathies!

[The card with Grant spins onto the screen.]

[Grant is bicycling along, when Ace and Jack catch up with him on the tandem bike, I was riding my Rapidash and Laney was flying.]

Lincoln: "Hey Grant, is that a new bike? Sure looks expensive."

Grant: "Oh yeah, it was a-"

Clyde: "Yeah, and those sneakers; are they new too?"

Grant: "Yeah."

Me: Those are nice.

[Lincoln and Clyde begin to grow suspicious.]

Clyde: "Must've cost a pretty penny."

Lincoln: "Where'd you get the money to pay for them?" [Angry] "By selling my dad's recipe book to Frosty Farms Frozen Feast!?"

Grant: "These were gifts from my parents, my birthday was on Saturday."

Me: Oh wow. Happy late birthday.

Grant: Thank you J.D. You guys were at the restaurant when Mr. Loud brought out a cake and everyone sang to me.

Me: I wasn't there. Sorry. I was out helping people down from a burning building.

Laney: I was there. Good food.

Clyde: [Remembering] "Oh, right! It has his famous cream cheese frosting, and a dash of caramel sauce! You know, I'm sensing a theme there. Sorry, Grant."

Grant: "It's okay." [Notices something up ahead.] "Car."

Lincoln "What?"

[Lincoln and Clyde hit the parked car as they fly off the bicycle. Me and Laney grabbed them.]

Me: You two okay?

Lincoln: Yeah thanks.

Back at the estate, William and Maria gathered everyone on the Redemption Squad together.

William and Maria were in front of Livewire, Bai Tza, Shego, Amorpho, Breach, Poison Ivy, Leanbow, Venom, Teresa, Shockwave, Silver Banshee, and Stone Man.

Maria: Listen up. Mr. Lynn's book of recipes has been stolen.

Amorpho: Who would do such a thing?

Silver Banshee: (Scottish Accent) It couldn't have been Grodd or any of my former teammates lads. They aren't interested in cooking.

William: Me and Maria were just thinking that. Anyway, we need you guys to go out into the city and see if you can find it.

Lilo: Finder, do you think you can find Mr. Lynn's recipe book?

Finder squeaked.

Jack Spicer then came in.

Jack Spicer: Hey guys.

Miranda: Hey Jack. Have you seen Mr. Lynn's book?

Jack Spicer: Sorry, guys. I haven't seen Lynn Sr's book. But I can help out on my end.

William: Okay. Lets go find his book.

Later, we are now sitting in front of the restaurant.

Lincoln: [As he takes a banana peel off his shoulder and tosses it away.] "Well Jack, it looks like our investigation has run dry. I don't know who else could've stole my dad's recipe book to Frosty Farms' Frozen Feast."

Me: Ophelia Shroud is clean. We asked her and she didn't take it.

Clyde: "Maybe no one sold it to them. Maybe they just stole it. [Takes one of the dinner boxes out of his backpack.] I mean, if the company's right here in Gotham Royal York."

Lincoln: [Gets up] "You're right! Maybe someone who works there ate dinner here and liked the food so much, he stole the recipe book for his company."

Me: That's just what I was thinking!

Clyde: [Also gets up] "Exactly! To Frosty Farm's Frozen Feast headquarters! Time to cook this thief's goose.

Me: Lets get him!

Lincoln: "Ooh, [gives a thumbs-up] nice restaurant themed pun."

Laney: That was really clever.

[They dash off. Later, they arrive at the Frosty Farms headquarters via tandem bike. The boys flip inside and at the receptionist desk.]

Clyde: "Greetings citizen, my partner and I are conducting an investigation into frozen food fraud."

Lincoln: "We're going to need a conference room to interrogate all your employees, and a bright light to shine in their faces."

[The two get thrown out and they hit the flagpole, sliding down.]

Me: Let me handle this.

We walked into the building.

Receptionist: J.D. Knudson of Team Loud Phoenix Storm!

Me: Good afternoon sir. We're investigating suspicions of food fraud. Team Loud Phoenix Storm business. These three are with me.

The receptionist saw Lincoln, Laney and Clyde.

Receptionist: Oh gosh! I'm so sorry, I didn't know. Go on into the kitchen.

Me: It's all right. But thank you.

We went into the building.

Me: We're in.

We smelled something good in the air.

Clyde: [Sniffs] "Smell that Ace?"

Lincoln: [Sniffs] "Sautéd onion? Breadcrumbs? A touch of sage? My dad's meatloaf!"

Laney: That is dad's meatloaf.

Clyde: "Follow that warm and comforting scent!"

[We follow the scent and find that it's coming from a room at the end of the hall. We peek through one of the windows and find an elderly woman mixing in a bowl, and the recipe book is right there.]

Lincoln: "My dad's recipe book. [To Clyde] I think we found our thief."

Me: Bingo.

Clyde: "Time to turn up the heat in this kitchen."

Lincoln: [Kicks the doors open and he and Clyde enter.] "Freeze, recipe thief!"

Me: Hold it right there!

Mildred: [Startled] "Heavens to baked Alaska, you boys gave me quite the start."

Me: Team Loud Phoenix Storm, reach for the sky lady.

Clyde: "Drop the spatula, lady, [She drops the spatula] you're busted!"

Lincoln: "We know you stole that recipe book!"

Mildred: [Looks at the book] "What? [Now stern] That's just crazy as two boys wearing pajamas in the middle of the day. [Grabs the book] I've had this cookbook for decades."

Lincoln: [Doubting] "Oh, really? [Takes the cookbook out of her hand.] Then how come the name on the inside cover says, "Mildred Scalise". [Realizes] "Wait, who's that?"

Me: So you are Mildred Scalise.

Mildred: "That's me, I told you that recipe book is mine. [Points over to a framed photo of a young Mildred with her recipe book outside Frosty Farms.] I used it to create this company."

Me: Wow.

Laney: That's amazing.

Lincoln: [He and Clyde flip through the pages.] "But these recipes are the same as my dad's. [Turns to Mildred] He used them to create his restaurant."

Mildred: "Well, it sounds like your dad stole the recipes from me. You better take me to meet him."

[We gulp nervously.]

Me: This is not gonna end well.

[Back at Lynn's Table, Lynn Sr. is sitting near a potato sack, still sad, peeling the skin off one of the potatoes.]

What a baby.

Lynn Sr.: [Singing to himself] " In the kitchen, with so much to cook, but I feel lost, without my book. "

Lincoln: [As he and Clyde run in.] "Dad!"

Me: Mr. Lynn!

Lynn Sr.: "Oh, Ace, Jack," [An angry Mildred steps in the door, Lynn Sr. gets serious.] "Is this the thief who stole my recipe book?"

Mildred: "Who are you callin' thief? Thief!"

[The boys get scared.]

Me: Uh oh.

Lynn Sr.: "I should call the FBI!"

Mildred: "Go ahead, you're the one who's going to the clink!" [Suddenly they recognize each other.] "Wait, is that you Lynn Loud?"

Lynn Sr.: [Gasps] "Ms. Scalise?"

Lincoln: "Wait, you two know each other?"

Lynn Sr.: [Rather excited] "Yes! Ms. Scalise is my old middle school home-ed teacher, she, she taught me everything I know about cooking."

Mildred: "Oh, now Lynn, There's a lot we learned from each other."

[Flashback to middle school, when they were younger.]

Lynn Sr.: "We would experiment on recipes, creating new twist on all sorts of old favorites."

[A dash of caramel accidentally falls into the pot.]

Young Lynn Sr.: "Oh no! I knocked caramel sauce into the mac 'n' cheese, it's ruined!"

Young Mildred: "Now, wait a second Lynn." [Tastes] "Hmm, oh, it's delicious, the sweet brings out the salty."

[Lynn's pupils turn to stars, when the principal comes on the PA.]

Principal: "Will Flip please report to the principal's office? Again."

Young Flip: [Runs into the room] "Mind if I lay low here a while?"

Teacher: "Get back here Flip!"

[Flip ducks under the sink, while some teachers run past the room.]

Young Flip: [Sigh of relief] "Thanks Ms. S."

[He closes the cabinet. At the end of the day, Mildred is writing in a black book.]

Mildred: "After every new dish we created, I would write the recipe down in a black notebook, so I wouldn't forget it."

[Young Lynn is then shown in his room doing the same thing.]

Lynn Sr.: [Gasps] "I did the same thing."

[End of flashback]

Me: Wow! Ms. Scalise, I didn't know you were Mr. Lynn's Home-Ed teacher.

Mildred: "Yep. We did great things together. So there was no recipe theft after all."

Lynn Sr.: "We created them together, and I say we continue to share them; well I think Lynn's Table and Frosty Farm's Frozen Feasts can co-exist."

Mildred: "Oh, I'd like that too, in fact, since you lost your book, you're welcome to borrow mine anytime."

Lynn Sr.: [Touched] "Awe, thanks Ms. S." [Grabs some chef hats.] "Now what do you say we celebrate by creating something new together."

Mildred: "Oh, just point me to the caramel sauce."

[The two go.]

Clyde: "Well Ace, looks like we solved another tricky case."

[The boys high five.]

Me: Yeah we sure did.

Laney: Who would've thought that dads Home-Ed teacher would work with the same recipes dad uses?

Lincoln: "Yeah, but there's still one mystery; what happened to my dad's recipe book?"

[Meanwhile, at the Royal Woods Library, Leni tosses three books onto the counter.]

Leni: "I'd like to return these please."

Lola: [Flies up to Leni] "Leni! Stop! Those aren't library books! There's Dad's cookbook, Lucy's poetry book," [aggrivated] "and my diary! Didn't you see the glitter trail?"

[Lola points to said glitter trail.]

Leni: "Oh, whoops, I was just trying to be helpful."

Lola: "Grab the books and lets fly."

A Portal from Breach appeared.

Lola: Hey Breach.

Breach: Hey Lola. Leni, that's Mr. Lynn's cookbook.

Lola: We know. She was gonna turn them in at the library.

Breach: Really?

WHOOPS!

In another part of the town, everyone else was searching.

William: Anyone have any luck?

Maria: Not yet.

Breach: (On the radio) Breach calling William. Do you copy?

William: William Dunbar here. Go ahead Hailey.

Breach: Guys, I found the book. But you won't believe who has it.

William: Who has it?

Breach: It's Leni. She was going to turn it in at the Library along with Lucy's Poetry Book and Lola's diary because she thought they were overdue Library Books.

William: Leni? Oh boy. We're on our way.

They got over to the library.

Livewire: We had to see it to believe it.

Leni: Sorry, guys. I thought it was an overdue book so I was going to turn it in at the library.

Bai Tza: It's ok, Leni. You didn't know. But we better get the boss on the horn.

William: Right Bai Tza. William to J.D. William to J.D.

Me: (On the radio) J.D. here William.

William: We found the book. Leni had it and she thought it was an overdue Library book.

Me: Leni had it? Oh Leni. We're on our way William.

We went to the Library. We arrived and we saw Leni with the book.

Me: Hey guys. Good work. Leni, this was a misunderstanding. You didn't know that this book was your dads.

Leni: I know. I'm sorry.

Me: It's not your fault Leni.

We went back to Lynn's Table and told Lynn Sr. what happened.

Lynn Sr.: So Leni had my cookbook?

Me: Yeah. She thought it was an overdue Library book and she was gonna turn it in at the library. She didn't know it was your book.

Leni: Yeah. I'm sorry dad. I had no idea.

Lynn Sr.: Aw sweetie, you were just doing what you thought was right. I'm proud of you. But you're grounded for 2 days.

Leni: I understand.

Lynn Sr.: Good. Thank you all for helping me out.

Me: Anytime Mr. Lynn.

Shego: Thanks for the help, Jack. Now, you should get out of here before Raimundo, Kimiko, Clay, and Omi get here.

Jack Spicer: Gotcha! I'll be there next time you need me. (leaves)

Amorpho: (sees Spicer leave) Poor kid.

Lynn Sr.: But J.D. your Rib-wiches are a perfect idea for my restaurant.

Me: Thanks Mr. Lynn. Before we blew up Springfield, I took all of the recipes from the Krusty Burger and modified them. Instead of using harsh chemicals and a lot of additives, we're gonna use them with all natural ingredients.

Lynn Sr.: Well that's a good idea! Thank you J.D.

Me: No problem.

We went back to the estate and everything was good.

Raimundo: Glad to see that Mr. Lynn's recipe book is safe.

Kimiko: Did anything else happen?

Maria: (remembers to keep Spicer's involvement a secret) Not much.

THE END

Another Fanfiction complete and another mystery solved.

Recipe For Disaster aired earlier this year and it was a really good episode. But Leni is a funny girl. She may be ditzy and have a brain the size of a walnut, but she has a heart of gold. But what really surprised me is that Mr. Lynn's Home-Ed teacher has another book like his and they are now partners. I got the idea for making ribwiches for everyone from The Simpsons episode of Season 14 from 2003 "I'm Spelling As Fast As I Can". That was really funny. NicoChan11 gave me the ideas for this one. Thanks man. Let me Know what you all think. Next up is the 2nd Are You Afraid Of The Dark? Chapter and we're gonna face the Fire Ghost! Get ready for an adventure that burns!

See you all next time.

Inferno of The Fire Ghost

In the void of space, the U.S.S. Valorous Phoenix was flying through the endless reaches of space.

Me: Captain's Log, Stardate 2767.3: The U.S.S. Valorous Phoenix is en route to the destroyed remains of the Planet Krypton. Planet Krypton exploded because of its unstable planetary core. We rescued all of its citizens and brought them to Earth before Krypton exploded. Our mission is to salvage anything we can find from the rubble that was once the planet Krypton.

Luan and Eddy were having a puppet show with Eddo and Mr. Coconuts.

Luan: (As Mr. Coconuts) Hey Eddo, Which Dessert is perfect for eating in bed?

Eddy: (As Eddo) I don't know Mr. Coconuts. Which Dessert is perfect for eating in bed?

Luan: (As Mr. Coconuts) A Sheet Cake! (Rimshot)

We laughed at that.

Me: (Laughs) That was a good one you guys!

Eddy: (Laughs) That was a funny one.

Nico: (Laughs) Sheet cake. I just got it!

Raven: (Laughs) Sheet cake. That's a good one.

Blackfire: Hey, Mr. Coconuts. Do you still have a crush on Ms. Appleblossom?

Luan: (As Mr. Coconuts) (Sighs) I still do have a crush on her even though Luan and Benny broke up.

Nico: What Benny did was terrible. But I think that Luan should give him another chance and be friends.

Luan: Ah you're right Nico.

Me: I will support you when we get back.

Funny Bone: Mr. Coconuts, you having a crush on Ms. Appleblossom might be a problem considering that she belongs to Benny the Heartbreaker.

Me: (Laughs) Benny the Heartbreaker. That is a good one Funny Bone. But that is true.

Spyro: Funny Bone is a comedian in Skylands, J.D. He may be a funny guy, but he is a comedian.

Me: I know Spyro. He's funny.

Jor-El: J.D. we still can't thank you all enough for saving us from total destruction.

Me: It was no problem Jor-El. I'm glad too. Krypton has a chance to restart with friends on Earth. Same with the planet Apokalyps.

Qin: Apokalyps? The home of the ruthless Darkseid?

Me: That's him. I killed Darkseid.

The entire Justice League gasped.

Volcana: You killed Darkseid, J.D.?

Me: I sure did. It was 6 years ago.

---

Me: (Narrating) While me and Sinestro were out touring the galaxy after I saved his life, we went to the deadly planet called Apokolips, the home of the ruthless warlord Darkseid.

---

Darkseid seeks to bring the entire universe under his control. To achieve this end, he seeks the cosmic power of the Anti-Life Equation, which theoretically will enable him to control any and all existing life in the universe. Darkseid's perpetual rival is Highfather, the leader of New Genesis - Apokolips's sister planet. For thousands of years, Apokolips and New Genesis waged war, claiming millions of lives until an truce was finally agreed upon. To seal their bond, Highfather and Darkseid exchanged their infant children: Highfather would look after Darkseid's son Orion and Darkseid would raise Highfather's son Scott Free. Scott, despite the influence of Darkseid and Granny Goodness, grew up to become a freedom fighter in opposition to his adopted father.

Orion took to the lessons of New Genesis and became an enemy to Darkseid as well. Though maintaining an uneasy peace, Darkseid still looked to acquire power without Highfather's interference. He soon took notice of the planet Earth, not only for its vast natural resources and vulnerable population, but also because a potential rival had appeared amongst the otherwise "unworthy" masses: Superman. In an effort to gauge Superman's power (as well as prepare Earth for his coming) Darkseid aided Intergang by supplying powerful weapons of his world to the greedy human criminals. Darkseid ordered his servant Desaad to destroy Superman, but his device failed. After his son Kalibak disobeyed orders by battling Superman, Darkseid made his presence known to the Man of Steel, injuring Superman with his Omega Beams before disappearing into a boom tube. Darkseid would later launch a full attack on Earth, beginning with the massive destruction of a nuclear facility in an effort to recreate the fire pits of Apokolips. Superman was again effortlessly defeated in personal combat and bound to the head of Darkseid's war machine.

The invasion would have succeeded if not for the timely intervention of Orion and the armies of New Genesis.

Orion declared that Earth was off-limits on decree of Highfather, and Darkseid grudgingly retreated (claiming he did not wish to spoil his reunion with Orion (his son) via bloodshed), but not before murdering Dan Turpin in front of all of Metropolis, then escaping through a boom tube before Superman could get to him. Darkseid would orchestrate several attacks against Superman, though keeping his word by avoiding a direct invasion of Earth. He dispatched Granny Goodness to build a device that would pull a comet to Earth, but was thwarted by Supergirl. His most crushing blow to Superman finally came when he brainwashed the hero into believing Darkseid had adopted him. He sent Superman to lead an invasion of Earth. Though Superman fought against the conditioning and eventually managed to break free of it, Darkseid had at least partially achieved a victory by shattering the public trust of Superman. Unfortunately for Darkseid, he had finally pushed Superman too far.

The Man of Steel invaded Apokolips, swatting aside the forces between him and Darkseid's palace, finally clashing directly with the Dread Lord of Apokolips. Darkseid gained the upper hand, telling Superman he would kill more humans, and was about to finish Superman with his Omega Beams when Superman clamped his hands over the overlord's eyes. The backlash of energy exploded against Darkseid's skull, wounding him grievously and knocking him unconscious. Superman threw Darkseid's prone form at the feet of his subjects and declared them free. However, the Lowlies respectfully carried their lord from the battlefield before an astonished Superman, with Darkseid reminding the hero, "I am many things, Kal-El… but here, I am God".

Justice League and Justice League Unlimited

In the quest for the Anti-Life Equation, Darkseid invaded a sector protected by New Genesis, thus violating the rivaling planets' ancient peace treaty. Orion's fleet was waiting for Apokolips's invasion force and shattered Darkseid's armada. Upon this, Highfather gave Darkseid an ultimatum assuring that the next breach of their treaty would result in his annihilation. While Apokolips was rebuilding its military forces, the villainous Kryptonian supercomputer Brainiac arrived with the intent of assimilating the planet.

Darkseid secretly approached Brainiac and offered him to hand over Superman and in return, Brainiac would spare Apokolips. So, Darkseid went to the Justice League and asked for their help to battle Brainiac, which Superman reluctantly conceded. In Apokolips, Darkseid and Superman fought together until Brainiac's forces retreated. Darkseid told the League to follow and finish him off, which they did. Afterwards, Darkseid boom tubed inside Brainiac's headquarters just in time to vanquish the League, thus delivering his end of the bargain: Superman. When Brainiac started extracting living DNA from Superman, Darkseid implanted a device that overrode Brainiac's control circuits, turning him into his puppet. Darkseid intended to use Brainiac's program to collect the Anti-Life Equation and reorder the universe at his will. At that point, Orion, Batman, and Wonder Woman showed up to thwart him.

Orion and Darkseid exchanged punches, but Darkseid was victorious over his son. Darkseid attempted to leave the asteroid, however, he was intercepted by Superman, who was determined to hold him inside until its destruction. Darkseid fought with everything he had, but was overpowered by the Man of the Steel finally. Superman tried to finish him off but Batman intervened though Superman was intent on finishing the long awaited fight. Not wanting him to become his enemy, Batman opened a Boom Tube, that sent him, Superman, and the unconscious Orion to safety while Darkseid was left stranded within the exploding headquarters. Despite his circumstances, Darkseid rejoiced and scorned Superman as a "loser" with his last breath before being destroyed with the asteroid.

Resurrection

Darkseid returned thanks to Lex Luthor, who had been trying to resurrect Brainiac instead. Darkseid, now enhanced by Brainiac's power as well, showed his gratitude to Luthor by unleashing the Omega Beams upon Luthor's spacecraft, destroying it. He then returned to Apokolips, halting a power struggle between Granny Goodness and Virman Vundabar in his absence. His return shocked his followers who immediately accepted him as their leader once more. Seething with hatred and vengeance for Superman, Darkseid declared war on Earth, implying that his treaty with Highfather would no longer apply as he was heading there afterwards.

He launched simultaneous attacks across the globe and set up magma-tappers to ignite Earth's core and generate fire pits, thus creating Apokolips on Earth. Darkseid found himself opposed not only by Earth's military and the Justice League, but by the surviving members of Luthor's Legion of Doom who had escaped death at Darkseid's hands only days earlier. With his flagship hovering above the Daily Planet, Darkseid was assaulted the unlikely trio of Superman, Batman, as well as Lex Luthor. Upon this, the Lord of Apokolips vowed to kill the Man of Steel, but not before making him and everyone he loved suffer dearly.

The two engaged in battle, demolishing the Daily Planet along the way. Darkseid was repeatedly hindered by Batman, who was then targeted by his Omega Beam but evaded it after having one of Darkseid's pawns take the blast. Darkseid was impressed to see how Batman adroitly dodged it, remarking on him being the first person to do so. He turned to Luthor to see if he would be as lucky, but Luthor promptly fled, an act Darkseid remarked as wise strategy. Then, Superman thrashed Darkseid across the city with his full might, but the tyrant managed to gain the upper hand by using a hidden pain amplification weapon - the Agony Matrix. Darkseid gloated upon Superman's pain, but was impressed by his endurance and proclaimed how he was going to carve out his heart with a Kryptonite blade as a token of mercy. Darkseid would have succeeded, if not for Lex Luthor stepping in on time to bestow Darkseid with his greatest desire - the Anti-Life Equation. Superman was forgotten, as Darkseid was mesmerized and overwhelmed by the Equation's dazzling beauty. He took it on and complimented its beauty, something Luthor agreed with before they vanished into thin air. The Justice League suspects that both of them survived and will be back in the future. However, both Darkseid and Luthor were absorbed into the Source Wall, as such is the fate of those who gain the Anti-Life Equation, where they will remain likely for all eternity.

Powers and Abilities

New God Physiology: As a New God who is worshiped by the New Gods of Apokolips, Darkseid is phenomenally powerful being with tremendous physical might. These attributes were further enhanced by him being resurrected with Brainiac's cybernetics fused into his own physiology.

Semi-Immortality: As a New God, Darkseid is immune to aging and illnesses. It has been stated that he is extremely ancient, much like Highfather of New Genesis.

Superhuman Strength: Darkseid's natural strength outshines the likes of Superman, SHAZAM, Martian Manhunter, Orion, Lobo, Bizarro or Mongul as well as most solar-powered Kryptonians and New Gods. He could easily beat down his own son as well as engage and overpower Superman himself, despite the former's tremendous physical might.

Superhuman Stamina: As a New God, Darkseid can go and operate at maximum efficiency for an extremely long amount of time without every tiring or needing sustenance.

Superhuman Intelligence: As a New God, Darkseid possesses intellectual capacities which are beyond the likes of modern geniuses of Earth. He has detailed knowledge of his obsession (The Anti-Life Equation), is extremely manipulative and has detailed scientific, religious and arcane knowledge possessed by the New Gods.

Near-Invulnerability: Darkseid's durability borders of invulnerability. He cannot be damaged by most extreme means, although direct and focused blows form the likes of Superman or Orion have proven effective. Orion as able to overpower Darkseid and even make his nose bleed and Superman was able to release the full might of his strength on Darkseid, which Darkseid barely survived. Despite his extreme durability, Darkseid can be killed by explosions powerful enough to obliterate a planet.

Regenerative Healing: As a New God, his metabolism had an advanced healing factor. He was abel to recover from damages down to him by Superman and Orion quickly while still in battle. When Sueprman overloaded Darkseid's Omega Beams against his skull, his eyes exploded and his skull was severely damaged, but he managed to regenerate form such damage overtime.

Omega Beams: Darkseid's most renown ability is his power to fire extremely concentrated beams of energy from his eyes, much like Superman's heat vision, although he can manually control his Omega Beam's course. His Omega Beams have various effects, as it is mostly used to kill beings and even New Gods. Although it can also be used to translocate people to Apokolips' pits to be punished. After being resurrected with Brainiac's cybernetics being incorporate into his own biology, the power of his Omega Beams had increased.

Motherbox: Darkseid has his very own Motherbox, a semi-sentient supercomputer with near-arcane abilities that he can use to open up Boom Tubes to locations of his desire as well as communicate with the Source (a supposed omnipotent being who exists beyond the Multiverse and is worshiped by the New Gods of New Genesis as a Supreme Being).

Leadership Skills: Darkseid can inspire undying loyalty throughout the residents of Apokolips through intimidation, as they all fear being in the receiving end of his wrath. Upon his return to Apokolips after his resurrection, the residents who were at Civil War immediately stopped what they were doing and instantly bowed down to him. He can even successfully lead military invasions of other planets.

Me: Darkseid was a ruthless powerhungry warlord completely hellbent on ruling the universe with an iron fist. He would stop at nothing to get what he wanted. But we arrived on his home world Apokolips and I slashed him in half with an energy blade and killed him instantly. I sent his soul straight into the River of Fire for all eternity and saved the entire universe from his evil. Darkseid, the ultimate enemy of the Justice League, was silenced forever.

FLASHBACK ENDS.

Lincoln: Wow! J.D. that is so cool!

Me: Thanks Lincoln.

Green Lantern: It's good that you killed Darkseid. We've already got Thanos to deal with in the future. One intergalactic mass murdering tyrant is enough.

Flash: Y'know, we could still fight Darkseid using the simulator.

Other Justice League Members: NO!

Flash: (pouts) Aww!

Me: No, Barry makes a good point guys. We can use the training simulator to have everyone get some shots in on Darkseid.

Nico: That's right.

The entire Justice League agreed.

Motormaster: Did you make sure to take care of Kalibak, Desaad, Steppenwolf, and Granny Goodness as well?

Me: Yep. They are all dead.

Qin: Who are Kalibak, Desaad, Steppenwolf and Granny Goodness?

Me: Darkseid's most loyal followers.

I went over their history.

---

Kalibak

Kalibak is the son of Darkseid, the ruler of the planet Apokolips, and the sorceress Suli, whom Darkseid secretly married against the wishes of his mother, Queen Heggra.

After the birth of Kalibak, Heggra had the torturer Desaad poison Suli, and forced Darkseid to marry Tigra, who bore him a son, Orion. Kalibak was trained in Apokolip's special powers force, while Orion was raised on the peaceful world of New Genesis. Orion and Kalibak fought each other since childhood, under circumstances yet to be revealed.

Kalibak has always resented Orion feeling his half-brother was always the favoured son. As an adult, Kalibak became known as "Kalibak the Cruel" and the "Scourge of Apokolips" for his savagery in battle and the horrors of his "Torment Chambers".

In Death of the New Gods, Kalibak is killed, but briefly comes back as a human in Final Crisis. His soul is later transferred into the body of a half-human half-tiger creature. He engages Captain Marvel's butler Tawny in battle and is mortally wounded.

Injustice 2

In the Injustice universe, Kalibak was killed by Superman which made Darkseid arrive on Earth.

Desaad

Desaad was once an innocent New God from New Genesis until he was corrupted by Darkseid. Darkseid lied to Desaad that the boy's bird was killed by his cat. Angered, Desaad was tricked into killing the cat to avenge his pet bird. After avenging his bird, Desaad went to Apokolips to become Darkseid's sadistic torturer & majordomo. He helped Darkseid kill Drax and take control of Apokolips. Later, Desaad worked with Bruno Mannheim and the Intergang to meet Darkseid's crimes on Earth

Kalibak preoffered to kill Superman himself but Darkseid refused. Seeing this, Desaad manipulated Kalibak into going to Earth to kill Superman, claiming if he succeeded, Darkseid would accept Kalibak as his son. Kalibak agreed and went to Earth to fight the Man of Steel. Darkseid later learned that Kalibak left for Earth and punished him for his failure.

Steppenwolf

Steppenwolf is one of the earliest survivors of Doomsday, the monster who once killed Superman. 245,000 years ago, Steppenwolf takes an Apokolips shuttle with Darkseid, Master Mayhem and a small crew to the planet of Bylan 5. The planet holds delicate natural materials Apokolips needs for weaponry, material which would be destroyed in the event of an invasion. The forcible marriage of Darkseid to the planet's princess comes to an end when Doomsday attacks. Master Mayhem is swiftly torn apart. Darkseid ignores Steppenwolf's orders to use Omega Beams and engages the creature in hand-to-hand combat. Steppenwolf sees the destruction wrought has doomed the planet and all who live on it. He teleports Darkseid out of harm's way, agreeing with Darkseid not to mention this to anyone. Doomsday escapes by stowing away on the Apokolips shuttle.

The New 52

In the continuity of Earth-2 following Flashpoint, Steppenwolf leads a massive invasion of the planet by Darkseid's Parademons. Ultimately, Earth's heroes manage to successfully repel the invaders, but the Superman, Batman and Wonder Woman of that world are all killed in battle. Five years later Steppenwolf is apparently hiding on Earth-2, and there is a $300 million reward for him. He is eventually killed by that world's version of Bizarro, whom Steppenwolf had employed as a soldier and indoctrinated into fighting for Apokolips.

Granny Goodness

Granny Goodness did not begin as one of the higher-level residents of Apokolips, but was instead one of the "Lowlies"-the brutally oppressed peasant class. She was removed from her parents and trained to be one of Darkseid's "Hounds" (his elite soldiers). One part of their training was to train their dog; Goodness named hers Mercy. Through combat and training, the two bonded. As the final step of her initiation into life as a Hound, she was told to kill her beloved pet. Instead, she killed her trainer for issuing this order. When Darkseid asked why, she answered that "to have done otherwise would have robbed my lord of a most valuable asset", telling him that Mercy would obey her first, but him foremost. Testing this, Darkseid ordered Mercy to kill Goodness. Mercy attacked Goodness, forcing Goodness to kill her pet. Darkseid was impressed, telling Goodness that she had graduated with honors. "You have trained Mercy so well in my name that perhaps you'll do as well training others whose blind obedience I will one day require".

Darkseid had Goodness run the training facility for his elite soldiers, where she used brainwashing and torture, in a brutal parody of child care, to turn the innocent into fanatical warriors willing to kill or die for Darkseid's glory. Since the war between Apokolips and New Genesis first moved to Earth, Granny Goodness has often run Earthly orphanages, looking for potential warriors for Darkseid.

Granny runs the "orphanage" on Apokolips and is the chief of the Female Furies. She also raised Scott Free, the son of Highfather of New Genesis who had been traded for Darkseid's son as part of a peace treaty. Scott Free (AKA Mister Miracle) became the first child to successfully escape one of her Orphanages.

Qin gasped in horror.

Qin: That's awful! I can't believe that Darkseid was that ruthless and he had so many people following.

Me: I know. But now we never have to see their ugly faces again.

Nico: That's good. You saved the whole universe from them.

Me: Yep. Also Darkseid had a hand in the development of Project Cadmus.

Superman: Yes I remember that. The whole purpose of Project Cadmus, headed by Amanda Waller was to grant Lex Luthor superpowers and turn him into an immortal god.

Me: That's awful. But thank goodness we stopped that before it happened.

Nico: Yep.

Ironhide: You sure there's anything of Krypton left to salvage?

Me: We'll find out when we get there.

With us was Superman's close friend from High School, Lana Lang.

Lana L.: So you guys are heading to Clark's planet?

Me: Yep. Kal, comes from the planet Krypton. It exploded and destroyed everything.

Lana L.: Wow. I'm so sorry Clark.

Me: Kal-El is his real name, but he goes either by Clark or Kal.

Lana L.: Oh. That's understandable. To tell you all the truth, I never liked Lex Luthor.

Me: I don't think anyone liked him. The Justice League mostly hated him. They wanted to make sure he was put away for life.

Qin: Wow. But I heard that you guys went to another dimension where the Justice League was called the Justice Lords.

Me: That's right. They were another version of the Justice League. But they became like that when their Flash died.

Qin: How did that happen?

Me: Lex Luthor became the President of The United States and murdered Barry in cold blood in front of everyone.

Qin gasped in horror and looked at Flash.

Flash: I know. I was shocked myself when I found out about that.

Me: We all were. Here's what went down.

I revealed what happened with what went down during the events of Not A Better World and the History of the Justice Lords.

---

Like their counterparts, the Justice Lords was formed by seven superheroes. They fought evil and villainous teams. Their dimensions diverged when Lex Luthor became president and killed Flash. Superman along with Wonder Woman and Batman went to the White house and fought Luthor's guards. Superman killed Lex Luthor and they took over the White House and their world, They inforced martial law over the entire world in order to keep the world in line, even small crimes like littering and disturbing behavior leads to immediate arrest. They also took away the people's freedom and choices, as they see that is what leads to uprising. They faced demonstrations from people and lobotmized criminals.

Years after establishing control over the world, they encounter their Justice League counterparts from Batman. The Justice Lords lured their counterparts into a trap and arrived in their universe to establish the same control in their universe.

* * *

Qin gasped in horror.

Me: We were horrified at what the Justice League turned into when we faced them. They took away the world's free will and enforced Martial Law. But in the end, we took down the Justice Lords and sent them to prison.

I went over the fates of the Justice Lords.

* * *

The Justice Lords had been defeated and they were arrested and stripped of their powers. Lord Wonder Woman was tried for her crimes on Themyscira and she was petrified for all eternity. Lord Hawkgirl was taken back to Thanagar and placed in a prison forever. Lord Green Lantern was tried by the Guardians of The Universe and was found guilty of his crimes. He was banished to another part of the universe forever. Lord Martian Manhunter was banished to the Phantom Zone - an alternate dimension where the worst villains are exiled. Lord Batman was sentenced to life in the Antarctica prison in our dimension. Finally Lord Superman was sentenced to a special cell in the Moon where the Sun's light turned it into a strange red energy that nullified his powers.

* * *

Qin: Wow! That's amazing. I'm glad the Justice Lords got what was coming to them forever. No offense Shayera.

Hawkgirl: None taken Qin. But thank goodness that J.D. saved us from turning into them.

Me: I'm glad we did. The reason the Justice Lords became the way they did was because of Lex Luthor. He was the catalyst that turned the Justice League into the Justice Lords.

Lisa: We appear to have arrived at our destination.

Me: On screen.

The screen turned on and below the ship was a bunch of rocks and asteroids. Some of the rocks were glowing green chunks of Krypton's unstable radioactive core. All that was left of Krypton was nothing but asteroids, rocks and debris.

Me: Here we are guys. This is all that's left of Krypton.

Nico: Wow.

Lincoln: I can't believe that all this is all that's left of it.

Laney: It's totally destroyed. It's all gone.

Varie: But there might be some parts of the cities that are still salvageable.

Me: Lets search.

We got to searching. We were looking for anything that might be worthy of salvaging. We found numerous remnants of the cities of Krypton on the asteroids and rubble and we beamed it all aboard. We were putting some of the cities back together on the ship. It was good that we were able to recover some of their highly advanced technology that was thousands of years more advanced than ours. Our scientists and engineers were rebuilding everything. After we salvaged some of their cities and technology, we went back home to Earth.

Back on Earth we were watching TV and reading books and we were eating snacks. But then a special report came on.

News Announcer: We Interrupt our regularly scheduled program to bring you this special report.

Me: Uh oh.

News Reporter: A massive spree of destruction is destroying much of the city of Gotham Royal York with a major firebug on the loose.

Me: There's an arsonist on the loose!

News Reporter: Wait, I'm receiving word that we're getting an image of the arsonist.

The video showed us an image of the monster responsible for setting a series of fires that is destroying a part of the town. It was a terrifying ghost that looked like a man. But it was actually a skeleton made entirely of pure fire! It was a FIRE GHOST!

A fire is like a wild animal. The fire lives, it dies, and it thinks. Because fire will do anything to survive and grow. It's the firefighter's job to stop it, but that doesn't necessarily mean it is dead. The spirit of the fire remains. The Fire Ghost follows the firefighters back to the station looking for revenge. It is possible, that in its own mind, they believe they are doing nothing wrong. Instead they may think they are only letting nature take its course.

A fire ghost, is an extremely dangerous ghost. It manipulates fire and lures people to stare right into the flame. Then before you know it, it is too late, and it is already summoned into the real world. There it can reak havoc and take its revenge. Firefighters face off against flames everyday, and they usually know better then to stare at the flame for too long.

In 1990, firefighters Dan Preston, and Jake Griffin were working hard to put out a fire. The fire was at an old woman's house. They rescued the old woman, then Jake went into to check for more people. Then it caused the roof to collapse taking Jake's life with him. Then Dan put out the fire, it quietly follow him back to the fire station. Then four the next four years, it caused the fire station a lot of misery. It caused power surges, windows to break by themselves and power failures.

Then in 1994, Dan Preston's children Jimmy and Roxy didn't believe the story about it at first. Then after Dan and the company had to go out to fire fight, his kids were left alone at the station. The Ghost of Jake Griffin appeared to protect the kids and he tried to warn them about it. However, a little later on Jimmy mistakenly stared into a flame which summoned it.

Then it started making a blazing inferno inside an equipment room closet. Then it shut out all of the power. Then it made a fire hose, wrap around Jimmy's legs and try to pull him right into the burning closet. But Jake Griffin chopped the house and freed him in time. Then it gave them a terrifying phone call. It told them that they were the sons of a murder and soon their time would be coming.

Then they escaped through a broke window, and bumped into a Police Officer. The Police Officer, did not believe their story and wanted to take a look around the fire station for himsellf. Then he insisted they waited inside the equipment closet so they wouldn't get lost as he continues to look around. When both children refused profusely to go inside, it turned into its real self threatening then.

Then they ran off scared screaming for help. Jake told them since they are the ones who summoned it, then they need to destroy it. So Jimmy taunted it to come out from the burning closet to come and get him. Then Roxy sneaked up from behind and sprayed it with a fire extinguisher. This seemed to work at first, but then it quickly came back. Then Jimmy noticed the sprinklers on the ceiling. Then as it closed in on him, he pretended to beg him not to turn into fire, claiming it was just too scary. It took Jimmy up on his taunt, then used its full power engulfing itself in blazing and scorching flames. The flames were so high, that it set off the emergency sprinklers. Then instantly it got doused and drenched, Then it vaporized into a pile of ash.

Me: Holy shit! That's a Fire Ghost!

Lincoln: What is a Fire Ghost?

Me: It's an extremely dangerous creature. They are creatures that destroy anything on contact.

Brittney: That's right. They are creatures made entirely of pure fire. They are extreme dangerous creatures and they will burn everything in their path until there is nothing left.

Nico: That's awful!

Lola: (Older voice) We have to stop this monster! I may use fire, but even I know how to use my powers responsibly.

Lana: That's good.

Me: We got to stop this freak! Lets go guys!

Bulk: Let us come with you guys as well.

Maria: You sure? This is gonna be dangerous.

Skull: We're positive!

Spike: Yeah! You guys helped us. Now it's time for us to return the favor!

Me: Okay. It's time to extinguish this freak of fire!

Megaforce Rangers: Super Mega Mode!

The Megaforce Power Rangers turned into their Super Megaforce Ranger Forms. Troy Burrows turned into his Red Super Megaforce Ranger form, Noah Carver turned into his Blue Super Megaforce Ranger Form, Jake Halling turned into his Green Super Megaforce Ranger form, Gia Moran turned into her Yellow Super Megaforce Ranger Form, Emma Goodall turned into her Pink Super Megaforce Ranger Form and Orion turned into his Silver Super Megaforce Ranger form.

Me: Nice! Lets fly!

We were off to face the Fire Ghost.

* * *

In a housing district in the city, the Fire Ghost was running amuck. It was laughing like a homicidally crazed monster and it was throwing massive balls of fire at houses and blowing everything up and engulfing all of the houses in massive pillars of intense fire.

Fire Ghost: (LAUGHING INSANELY) BURN! BURN! BURN! BURN YOU FUCKMOUTHS! BURN! (LAUGHING INSANELY)

Everything was exploding into massive fireballs and it was intense.

A massive blast of water hit the fire ghost and he screamed in pain. We landed and we were transformed and our auras were flared up. With us was Jimmy Preston and his older sister Roxy.

Me: You will not burn anything anymore you flaming bag of napalm!

Fire Ghost: You will burn with me you motherfucker!

Nico: You are a freak of nature you fire freak!

Me: And a monster to all forms of life! Lets extinguish this monster for good!

Horsea: Can I help too?

Jimmy Preston: Sure, Horsea.

Me: Lets do it!

We went at the Fire Ghost and using the power of Nuova Shenron's heat armor I punched him in the face. But to my shock, my punch went right through him and didn't even scratch him!

Me: What the!? Physical attacks are completely useless!

Lola: Let me face him first!

Me: Go get him Lola!

Lola went up to the Fire Ghost. It was the battle with Father all over again.

This was gonna be a battle that will decide the fate of the entire human race.

(Zero Two theme of Super Smash Bros. Brawl Plays)

Lola and the Fire Ghost went at each other and they collided in a massive explosion of fire that carried the power of 700,000 tons of napalm!

KRABBBBBBBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOO

The Battle that will decide the fate of the Human Race had begun and the fight was so extremely ferocious that it was unbelievable. Lola punched the fire ghost in the face and her attacks worked. She kicked him in the stomach and fired a massive blast of fire at him and it hit him and exploded with incredible power. They really went at each other and they were ferociously pulverizing each other with incredible ferocity at an indiscriminate level. Massive Fiery Explosions and thunderous shockwaves from their punches and energy blasts and fire blasts destroyed much of the landscape and engulfed it in a massive raging inferno. Luckily the whole city was enclosed in a powerful force field. Storm clouds formed above the battle and Lightning intensified in the skies above to an extremely ferocious level and the fires of Hell raged on the planet at an extremely vicious level at an amazing degree. The fight was so vicious, ferocious, brutal and savage that it was shaking the entire Universe to an incredible level at an intense level. Lola gonna make sure that the fire ghost suffers for a billion lifetimes for his crimes. Fiery embers and fire bombs rained down onto the battle and exploded with incredible power. Lola then punched the fire ghost in the face and sent him crashing into the ground and he got up and then they charged toward each other and Lola punched him in the stomach and they clasped hands. Their fiery auras flared up to such an extreme intensity and their power was so strong and powerful that it was making the entire planet shake extremely violently. Pebbles, rocks and boulders lifted off the ground and the lightning intensified even more as it flashed in the sky at an extremely violent level. The power of fire was so incredibly powerful that it was threatening to tear the entire planet apart. Lola punched the fire ghost in the face again and fired a blast of fire and burned a chunk of his face off. It screamed in pain as it was hurt. They went back to fighting and it was a powerful fight. We felt the massive fight that was going on and it was rattling the very fabric of space to the core. It was so savage and ferocious that it made my fight with Trakeena look like a joke.

Nico: Whoa! Look at them go!

Me: I know! This is incredible!

Lola fired a massive blast of fire at the Fire Ghost and the Fire Ghost did the same and the powerful blasts of fire collided and exploded with incredible power.

Vince: Unbelievable! I've never seen Lola fight so hard against a creature like this!

Aylene C.: This is incredible!

Laney: Wow!

Lola: You will pay for killing thousands of innocent people!

The Fire Ghost was completely out of his mind with so much burning rage and hatred that it was unbelievable! He screamed in so much burning relentless fury that it defied all forms of human comprehension! The Fire Ghost then fired a massive blast of fire from his mouth and it was like a massive supercharged flamethrower and it burned everything around. Lola fired a powerful barrage of massive fire blasts and they all hit the fire ghost and exploded.

KRABBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOOMMMMMMM! KRABBBOOOOOOOOMM! BOOOM! BOOOOM! BOOOMM! BOOOOMM! BOOOOOMMM!

Nico: Whoa! Lola is really destroying him!

Laney: Her power is incredible!

Lana: My twin sister is a powerful force to be reckoned with now.

Lisa: Indeed she is.

The Fire Ghost was incredibly weakened to an incredible degree. Lola then absorbed all the fire around and it made her more powerful than ever before.

Lola: It's over you burning bag of bones. Your arson spree is over.

The Fire Ghost then screamed in a massive explosion of rage and fury! His rage was so powerful that it shook the very foundation of the entire planet to the brink. (Broly 2018's Screaming)

Me: Wow! Lets take him down guys!

We went at the Fire Ghost and We had powerful elemental auras flared up to an incredible level! I punched the Fire Ghost in the face and our physical attacks were working this time. I punched him in the stomach and kicked him in the face and fired a powerful blast of fire energy at him and it exploded with incredible power when it hit him.

Noah Carver slashed the Fire Ghost with his Super Mega Saber all over, Jake Halling fired powerful Green Energy Bullets and the blasts hit the Fire Ghost and exploded. Gia Moran and Emma Goodall fired powerful Yellow and Pink Energy Bullets from their Super Mega Blasters and they hit the Fire Ghost and exploded. Orion slashed the Fire Ghost with his Super Silver Spear.

Troy Burrows: Lets show this freak who he's messing with.

Noah Carver: Ready!

Megaforce Rangers: Legendary Ranger Mode: Electronic Brigade!

The Megaforce Rangers turned into the Electronic Brigade from 1979. Troy Burrows was the Red Electronic Ranger, Noah Carver was the Blue Ranger, Jake Halling was the Green Ranger, Gia Moran was the Yellow Ranger and Emma Goodall was the White-Pink Ranger. Orion became a new ranger for the Electronic Brigade called the Gold Fuse Ranger. NicoChan11 gave me the ideas for this one. Thanks man. The Next Are You Afraid of The Dark? Villain we're gonna face is the ruthless Jake The Snake and that guy was horrifying. Let me know what you all think. Next up is a land version of the SpongeBob episode The Lost Mattress. So get ready to see Lincoln in a lot of back pain because of his rotten mattress.

See you all next time.

The Lost Mattress

It was morning in the Team Loud Phoenix Storm Estate, Maria, Nico and May were the first to get up. Leni and Lynn got up next. Leni was currently wondering what to spend her money on.

Leni: Jeez with all that money I've saved up from working at Reininger's, I don't know what to buy.

Lynn: We get it Leni, you have a job, I'm still shocked that you were able to get a job, especially when your not the sharpest tool in the shed.

Leni: I may be dumb, but I know how to cook, plus it also helps when one of your sisters is working there."

Leni then got out her money and flipped it.

Leni: Oh how that makes me happy.

Maria: Morning guys.

Leni: Like, morning Maria.

Maria: That's weird. Lincoln's usually the first one down for breakfast.

Nico: You think one of us should check on him?

May: Here he comes.

Just then Lincoln came by wearing his day-to-day clothes, looking like he had been beaten up, and went into the bathroom. When he got there he started to brush his teeth.

Leni: Linky, boy am I glad to see you, how about you and I go to the mall and maybe I can buy you something, like a video game, a new comic, or other things you like?

Lincoln then finished brushing his teeth.

Lincoln: Not in the mood Leni, I'm in a lot of pain right now.

Nico: Are you okay Lincoln?

Lincoln: Do I look like I'm okay?

Leni: What's wrong Linky?

Leni then tapped Lincoln's back making him drop his toothbrush.

Lincoln: Oh you made me drop my toothbrush. (Crabby Snap) Move aside will you, can't a guy get a little space now?!

Leni: (Tears form) "I'm sorry Linky."

Lynn: Harsh.

Lincoln then went to grab his toothbrush when he felt his back snap.

Lincoln: "(In pain) "OW! my back!"

Nico: (Cringes) OOOH! Geez that must've hurt!

Leni: Are you hurt Linky?

Lincoln: No! I'm just double over in pain, fighting back tears in my eyes because of a new dance craze!

Lily: (To herself) Where have I seen this before?

Leni: Oh good because for a second I thought you were hurt."

Lincoln: (Snaps) I am hurt you idiot!"

He then sees tears forming in her eyes.

Lincoln: I'm sorry I snapped at you, Leni. It's just that my back is killing me. It's my old, lumpy mattress. It's like I'm sleeping on a bunch of rocks."

Me: Yikes! Maybe you need a new mattress Lincoln.

Lincoln then sighed and left down stairs.

Leni: Poor Linky.

Nico: Poor Lincoln. What are we going to do, Maria?

Maria: Maybe we can massage Lincoln's back. It'll be an effective solution.

Me: That's a great idea.

Leni: We should get Linky a new mattress and surprise him with it as a gift. Then he won't act like Lori anymore!"

Lori: (Offscreen) I HEARD THAT!"

Me: That's a great idea. It'll be a perfect gift for him. You girls can go to the mattress store across the way to get one.

Later Nico, Laney, Maria, May, Leni, Lori, Lana, Luna, and Luan were in Vanzilla.

They got out at the Mattress store.

Lori: Alright we're here.

Luan: Yeah just make sure we don't 'sleep' on the job. (Laughs) Waite, make sure we take 'mattress' into your own hands. (Laughs)

Nico: (Laughs) That was a good one Luan!

Luan: Wait, I got like seven more.

Maria: Lets worry about the jokes for later Luan.

They all then walked to the mattress store.

Nico: Thanks for coming with us, May.

May: No problem, sweetie. I always wanted to go to a mattress store.

Lana: Me too.

Maria: We should probably do something about Lincoln's old mattress after this.

Luna: Great idea Maria.

When they went inside they were amazed by how big it looked on the inside.

Nico: Whoa!

Maria: Look at all the mattresses!

Leni: I've never seen so many mattresses before."

Luan: I'll say.

Leni: How many do you think there are?

Lana then looked around.

Lana: 40.

The manager came.

Manager: There's plenty more than that. Come try them out. Find one you like.

Nico: Okay.

Luna jumps on a mattress, but Leni shakes her head. (Too Jumpy) Leni lays down on a mattress, but sinks into it as Luna shakes her head. (Too soft) Luna falls on her back on a rock-hard mattress. They cringe from that. (Hard as a rock) Luan sits in a racecar bed and Leni gives the thumbs up and then a crashing sound is heard. Luan sits on a bed with a bunch of needles and the employee holds up a first-aid kit. (Ouch) Finally, Lynn sits on a mattress that rotates in rolling from side to side. After thirty minutes of looking for a perfect mattress, Lana found the perfect one. It was incredibly soft and it almost made her go to sleep. They had found Lincoln's new mattress.

After signing some forms and paying for the mattress, Nico and Maria took the mattress back to the house by flying. Who needs a car when you can fly and have powerful strength.

Back at the house, they were getting the mattress ready.

Luna: Alright dudes, Lincoln is at Clydes for the rest of the day, so that means we have enough time to take Lincoln's new mattress to his room, go dump his old one at the dump and surprise him.

Nico: Good idea Luna.

Lori then looked over at Nico and May.

Lori: Why don't you guys go and make Lincoln's card? We already signed it, you two just go and put the finishing touches.

May: Okay Lori.

Lana: Okay Lori.

Luan: Just don't try and 'mattress' it up. Hahaha.

Nico: (Laughs) That was funny.

Luna: That wasn't even a good one Luan. Now come on, let's go get this mattress over to Lincoln's room.

Lori, Luna, and Luan then lifted the mattress and went inside the house.

20 minutes later

Lynn had just got back from practice and was ready to watch some t.v. when she saw Lincoln's old mattress outside the house. When she got inside, she saw Nico, May, Leni and Lana giggling and drawing on a piece of paper. Just then she saw Lori, Luna, and Luan come down the stairs with triumphant smiles.

Maria: What are you two doing?

Nico: Making a card for Lincoln. To go with his new mattress. You wanna sign it?

Maria: Sure. [signs card] Just need to put the finishing touches.

[licks envelope] There, I signed it for all of us.

May: You think he'll like it?

Nico: Well, as long as Lincoln is happy with his new mattress.

Later at night

Lincoln groans as he gets to bed

Lincoln: Another night on my old lumpy mattress.

Lincoln then lays down only to realize how comfortable it is.

Lincoln: That's odd, my mattress feels comfortable and cozy.

Lincoln then fell asleep.

Nico, Maria, May, Leni, Lana, and Lynn then barged into Lincoln's room.

Nico, Maria, and May: Surprise!

Lincoln: Guys? What are you doing in my bedroom?

Nico: Well, we noticed how miserable you were on your lumpy, old mattress.

Maria: So we decided to get you a new one.

May: We hope you like it!

Lynn: I thought it was my idea.

Lincoln: [through gritted teeth] So, where's my old mattress then? [fury goes up]

Maria: Don't worry, Lincoln, I took care of that personally. I had it hauled away to the dump.

Lincoln: [jumps on Maria] All of my comic books were in that mattress!

Maria: What?! Haven't you ever heard of a book shelf?!

Lincoln: No!

May: Well, he probably doesn't have a book shelf in his room yet.

Nico: We haven't thought about that!

Lincoln: NO!

Lincoln then passed out.

Lana: And we got you this card. (Held up the card.)

Lincoln: Are there any comics in it?

Me: I made one in it and made this one for you.

I held up my comic.

Lincoln: Ace Savvy and the Full House Gang in The Ruthless Savagery of The Royal Flush Vikings. Thanks J.D.!

I handed him the new comic I made.

Lincoln: Thanks for getting me a new mattress guys. To tell you the truth I needed one. My back was really starting to hurt. That mattress was really hard on my back. But what am I gonna do? All those comics are still in my old one.

Nico: Don't worry Lincoln. Me, Maria and May will get your comics back.

May: Lets head to the Dump! And Lynn and Lana will go with us.

Lynn: (Sighs) Okay.

Lana: Whoo-hoo! I love the dump.

Me: (Chuckles) Lana.

They were off to the dump.

Later at the Dump.

Lynn, Lana, Nico, Maria, and May were walking to the dump. Maria was carrying Horsea, May, was carrying Manaphy, Poromon was flying by me, and Poliwag walking by my side.

Nico: I think this is a nice bonding experience for all three of us.

Maria: You said it!

May: I agree! (notices my concerned look) Is something wrong, Nico?

Nico: Well, I'm worried about what might happen with J.D. when we fight Hawk Moth. There's a good chance I might have to end up fighting my own best friend.

Maria: C'mon, Nico. You know that J.D. can't be Akumatized by Hawk Moth.

Nico: (sighs) I'm not talking about him being Akumatized. I'm worried that he might try and kill Hawk Moth if he gets provoked enough. And I don't want that to happen. We're trying to reunite Adrien's family, not break it apart any further.

May: C'mon, Nico. J.D. said that he and the rest of the Loud Kids will keep their cool when we fight Hawk Moth and his minions.

Nico: He also said we were going to throw Jude Heartfilia in prison. But we ended up killing him becuase he killed Arixam the first time. Not that I'm complaining, of course. I still want J.D. to participate in fighting Hawk Moth. But I fear that the resulting battle is going to drive him to become just like Superman's Justice Lord counterpart.

Maria: (puts comforting hand on my shoulder) C'mon, Nico. You know JD. It'll take more then Hawk Moth to push him into becoming corrupt.

May: Maria's right. Sure, J.D. might get angry about Hawk Moth. But he won't break. He'll still be the hero that we've always seen be.

Nico: (smiles) Thanks, girls. I needed that.

They arrived at the dump.

Lana: What a dump!

Nico: It's closed for the night. The gates are locked.

Maria: We got to get in there guys. Lincoln loves those comics.

Lana: I know.

Lana then noticed something familiar over the fence.

Lana: Hey guys, isn't that the mattress over there?"

Leni then took a good look at it.

Leni: Terrific, Lana, you found it!

Nico: Good work Lana.

Lynn: What? Where? Lemme see. Where?"

Lana: There it is Lynn, underneath that really big guard dog.

Lynn then looked at the guard dog sleeping on Lincoln's mattress and he looked like a Rottweiler, mixed with a German Shepherd, mixed with a Cane Corso, mixed with an American Pit Bull Terrier, 4 of the most dangerous dog breeds mixed in one.

Lynn: Oh, that figures.

Nico: Oh boy. That dog looks like a mean one.

Lana: He sure does.

Lynn: Hey Leni, take a closer look to see if that's the real deal.

Leni: Okay.

Leni then took a closer look at the mattress.

Leni: Well, that's Linky's old mattress, alright. Let's go get it.

Lynn: Okay, here's the plan: Leni, Lynn, you two quietly go in there, remove the mattress out from the guard dog without… waking… the dog.

Lana: Why not? I wanna pet it.

Leni: Because that would be rude, Lana.

Nico: That dog looks like it was trained to kill guys.

Lynn: Yeah, and nothing's meaner than a junkyard guard dog. He'll eat you alive!

Lana: Hey wait a minute, what are you gonna do?

Lynn: Oh, I've got the most important job: I'm going to keep watch to make sure it's safe.

Maria: Good idea. But if your plan doesn't work, we'll do my plans.

Lynn then giggled a little bit once Leni and Lana started climbing the fence.

Lana then made it to the top of the fence only to see Leni sitting there.

Leni: Ah, isn't it beautiful, Lana? You can see everything from up here.

Lana: WOW!

Leni: Hey, Lana, I think I can see our huge house from here.

Lana: Where? I can't see it.

All that ruckus then caused the fence to flip around to where Lynn was is inside and Leni & Lana are out side.

Nico: Whoa!

Leni & Lana: WOW!

The two of them then laughed.

Lana: Let's do it again.

May: Okay now that was funny.

Nico: It sure was.

Lynn: What did you blockheads do?

Lana: Lynn, what are you doing there? You were suppose to keep watch"

Leni: Yeah, and you woke up the guard dog too.

Nico: Uh oh.

Lynn: I didn't do it. You two blockheads woke… [Lynn then heard growling behind her]… the… dog."

Lynn then screamed as the dog attacked her.

IT WAS TEARING HER APART!

Lynn Sr.: They should've been back by now.

Me: Don't worry Mr. Lynn. They'll be okay.

Rita: Maybe they hit traffic on their way to the Dump?

Fu: No, they walked and flew the whole way.

Lucy Loud: Or they got eaten up by the guard dog, Hunter.

Lynn Sr. and Rita: "WHAT!"

Hunter: (German Accent) Are you talking about me Lucy?

Lucy: No this is a guard dog named Hunter.

Lucy then turned off the light, got out her flashlight and then told us about Hunter the guard dog.

Lucy Loud: Legend says that Hunter wasn't born naturally through love like all dogs, but was bred by the owner of the junkyard, Tom… um I forgot his last name. Anyways Tom the owner bred Hunter from the most aggressive dog breeds out there to make the most dangerous and loyal guard dog. He spends his nights, watching over the junkyard and eating any of it's trespassers. Nico, May, Maria, Leni, Lana, and Lynn are goners by now."

Lucy then turned the lights back on.

We gasped in horror!

Me: That dog is a HELLHOUND!

Rita was horrified!

Rita: I sent my babies to their death! (Breaks down Crying)

Me: Don't worry Ms. Rita. We'll bring them back!

Lincoln: Be careful guys. I'd help you all, but my back still hurts.

Me: We'll bring your comics back too buddy. Along with a brand new bookshelf for you. Lets roll!

We were off to the Dump.

Back at the Dump

Lynn was badly hurt and she was mangled up really bad. She had cuts, bruises, bite marks, Black eye, bleeding cuts and scrapes and her clothes were ripped to shreds.

Nico: That dog really did a number on you Lynn.

Lynn: Yeah it sure did.

Maria: How are we going to lure that doo away?

Poliwag: Leave it to me, Poromon, Manaphy, and Horsea.

May: Go get him.

Maria: I can fly over and get the mattress while he's distracted.

Nico: Good idea.

They hopped over the fence.

Poromon: Hey, dumb dog!

The dog turned and saw Poromon, Poliwag, Manaphy, and Horsea blow raspberries at him.

It barked ferociously.

Maria flew over the fence and grabbed the mattress and flew back.

Maria: Success!

Nico: Way to go Maria!

May: Nice job!

Horsea: HELP!

Maria: Horsea!

She went back to get her!

The dog was about to lunge at Horsea, but Maria knocked it to the ground with a blast of water.

Maria: (pissed off) YOU STAY AWAY FROM HORSEA!

She flew off with Manaphy, Poromon, Horsea and Poliwag in her hands.

Maria: There we go.

Manaphy: That was close.

Horsea: Thanks Maria.

Maria: Anytime.

Nico: Now it's time to scare this dog.

May: How are we gonna do that?

Nico whistled.

Nico: Here Cujo! Here boy!

Then a green little puppy with a spike collar and red eyes appeared.

Nico: Who's a good boy?

Lana: Whoa! A ghost puppy!

Leni: Oh he's so cute!

Nico: But watch what he can do. See that big dog over there boy?

Cujo barked happily.

Nico: Sic em, Cujo!

Cujo then walked up to Hunter the Guard Dog and phased through the fence. Hunter growled. Then Cujo turned into a huge monster guard dog and roared and barked ferociously at Hunter while drooling spit. Hunter then ran away whimpering in fear.

Cujo then returned to them and he went back to puppy size.

Lana: Good boy Cujo! Good boy!

Lynn: Wow. That is a really awesome dog.

Lana: Cujo is so cool!

Me: Guys!

We landed.

Me: Are you all okay?

Nico: We're okay. But Lynn isn't.

Fu: Holy Shit! Lynn you look like you went through a meat grinder.

Lynn: I know. I was mauled by that dog.

Me: I know.

Sora: Leave this to me.

Sora used his potion on Lynn and healed her.

Lynn: Thanks Sora.

Sora: No problem.

Me: But you guys got the mattress.

Maria: We sure did.

Laney: Lets get Lincoln's comics and head back.

Me: Okay.

I pulled out a plastic organizing container and we took all of the comics out of the mattress and put them in the container.

Lily: Now I remember where I saw this. Mr. SquarePants, me, Squidward and Patrick went to the Mattress Store to get Mr. Krabs a brand new mattress for his aching back. But we found out that Mr. Krabs kept all of his money in his mattress. He went into a cash coma and only the return of his money would bring him back. The Police threatened to take Stupid Squidward to jail for murder if he doesn't pull through. We brought the mattress back in the end and we put all of Mr. Krabs money into a bank account in the end.

Me: Boy talk about Deja Vu.

Nico: No kidding. And this was before you sent Squidward back to the Nuthouse and Mr. Krabs to Federal Prison?

Lily: It sure was Nico.

Maria: Wow.

We put the mattress back into the dump and we brought Lincoln's comics back to him. We bought Lincoln a brand new bookshelf for him in the morning. Lincoln was happy with his new mattress and he learned the hard way that he should never put his comics or anything in his mattress.

Lily went to work and told Mr. SquarePants and Mr. Krabs about what happened to Lincoln.

Mr. Krabs: Boy. Talk about a sense of deja vu Lass.

Lily: It sure was Mr. Krabs. But it was good that they were trying to get Lincoln a new mattress.

SpongeBob: (Laughs) It sure was. But at least he didn't go into a Cash Coma like Mr. Krabs did.

Lily: That's true Mr. SquarePants. But Lincoln didn't have all his money in his mattress. He had all his comic books in his mattress. No offense Mr. Krabs.

Mr. Krabs: None taken lass.

Lily: Lincoln would've gone into a Comic Coma had J.D. not step in.

They laughed.

At the estate of Team Loud Phoenix Storm, there was a major love triangle going on with Timmy Turner, Tootie and Trixie. Timmy was having a hard time deciding who should be his girlfriend. Tootie has had a mad crush on him for a long time and Timmy has had a crush on Trixie for a while and he got his first kiss from her.

Spring Man: Something wrong, Timmy?

Timmy: (sighs) I just have some love trouble right now.

Spring Man: Can't decide between Trixie and Tootie?

Timmy: Yeah.

Spring Man: J.D. can probably help. He's no matchmaker but he can probably help.

Timmy: Okay.

Yoshi: Trixie, you need to see this. Bring Tootie with you.

Trixie: Okay.

Armada Cyclonus: Man, talk about Cupid's Arrow having a defective effect!

Me: You got that right Cyclonus. I've seen a lot of Love Triangles end tragically in Crime Documentaries and a lot of them are not good.

G1 Mirage: You two need to decide which one of you wants to be Timmy's girlfriend.

Nico: This is gonna be a big toss up Mirage. But it doesn't work just instantly. These things take time.

Me: They sure do. Tootie, if I may point something out. You have had a crush on Timmy for a long time right?

Tootie: I sure have J.D.

Me: Well do you show feelings of true love for him? Any at all?

Tootie: Hmm. Let me see here.

Tootie started thinking about her love of Timmy over the course of all his adventures and all of the times he had with his friends and Cosmo & Wanda and Poof. So far all the feelings of love have not been legit.

Tootie: I guess my feelings of love were not true.

Me: Okay now we're getting somewhere. Trixie, do you have any of those feelings for Timmy?

Trixie: Let me see here.

Trixie thought about it and she saw that her feelings over the course of Timmy's adventures were legit. She saw that Timmy has done so much for Trixie and he was incredibly nice her despite her mean mom telling her to do other things she despises.

Trixie: I do. I love Timmy. He has been really nice to me ever since despite me being forced into popularity and being rich. I love you Timothy Turner!

She hugged him and picked him up and they kissed and it was an adorable sight.

We cheered for them.

Me: Way to go Timmy!

Wanda: Oh I'm so happy for him!

Poof: Me too mom.

Cosmo: I blame love.

I bashed Cosmo in the head.

Chloe Carmichael: I'm so happy for Timmy.

Me: Me too Chloe.

Tootie: I understand that Timmy loves Trixie. But we can still be friends.

Me: Yes you can Tootie. Besides, magic may not interfere with true love, but you can still always help Timmy on his adventures.

Tootie: Thanks J.D.

Me: No problem.

Qin: I'm happy for Timmy and Trixie.

Me: And don't worry, if anyone comes between them, they'll have to go through us.

Nico: Yep.

Me: Hey! I just realized something. Today marks 2 and a half years since we helped the Skylanders and defeated Kaos.

Lincoln: I remember that!

Nico: That was a cool one. I wasn't there for it but I heard about it.

Qin: Who is Kaos?

Me: Kaos was a monster and the main mastermind behind all the calamities that have taken place over in Skylands.

Spyro: You would hate this guy Qin. He is a really menacing jerk.

Me: Let me show you his history.

I went over the history of Kaos.

---

Before becoming the archenemy of the Skylanders, Kaos always demonstrated an insatiable hunger for absolute power. Even as an infant, Kaos seized control of his nursery with his "evil baby army of evil drool" which threatened to crawl across the face of all Skylands.

Fortunately, this uprising was crushed at naptime. Kaos was then sent to the finest evil school of magical villainy, as were many in his long and twisted family history. It was here that Kaos met Glumshanks, who was persuaded by Kaos to become his evil servant with the promise of career growth. But soon after, they were expelled when Kaos appeared as a giant floating head at a school assembly and ate the gymnasium. With the long suffering and still unpromoted Glumshanks at his side, Kaos continues to come up with plan after plan to take over Skylands; some say to fulfill his ambition to become Skylands' "ultimate evil overlord," though others think that he's still trying to impress his immensely powerful and overbearing mother - herself a Dark Portal Master. All agree, however, that Kaos should never be underestimated.

The Machine of Doom

Kaos sought after an item called the Chattering Key, which was used to unlock an ancient Arkeyan artifact capable of destroying the Core of Light that not even the Skylanders nor Eon could stop it. The tyrant sent his Troll minions and a Spell Punk to test out their invisibility spell that is needed to sneak past the guard protecting the Key. Unfortunately, the Trolls caused mischief in the Mabu Market using their invisibility powers, drawing attention to the Skylanders, Spyro, Eruptor, and Gill Grunt. The Spell Punk accidentally uttered that they were looking for the Chattering Key, and he and the trolls were summoned back to Kaos' lair when the projection of Kaos' face appeared, aiming to punish the Spell Punk for revealing too much information.

While Spyro, Eruptor, Boomer, and Gill Grunt retrieved the Chattering Key from the Forest of Fear, Kaos had captured Flynn and used him to force the Skylanders to hand over the key to the evil Portal Master. Kaos and Glumshanks then summon a tomb leading to the Pyramid of Just Rewards that contained the Arkeyan artifact he was seeking: the Machine of Doom. Inside, Kaos once again tries to use Flynn as stalemate when the Skylanders had entered the tomb as well to stop Kaos, but Boomer disrupts him when the troll attempted control the Machine of Doom. However, the machine went out of control, breaking apart, and the pyramid itself started to crumble. Kaos laughed maniacally at the Skylanders, revealing that the Machine of Doom was really a trap designed by the Arkeyans to capture anyone who may be tempted to steal the weapon capable of destroying the Core of Light, and that Kaos planned on using the trap to bury the Skylanders alive.

Revealing his transport portal, Kaos attempted to make a hasty retreat from the crumbling pyramid, but was stopped by Boomer, who managed to control the Machine of Doom and destroy the portal. Spyro, despite wanting to leave Kaos in the very trap he tried to spring but knew what Eon would do, saved the evil tyrant from the tumbling ruins as Boomer used the Machine of Doom to escape. Kaos, however, made his escape afterwards using a fragment of his transport portal and teleported home to his lair.

Back in his lair, Kaos began to look through a book entitled, '101 Ways to Become Lord of Skylands', smiling evilly after writing out the words 'Plan One: The Machine of Doom' on the first page.

Spyro versus the Mega Monsters

Kaos appeared in the Stinky Swamp saving Spyro, Stealth Elf, and Snuckles from an unusually large titchy toad with the use of a magic staff. He then announced that he would be turning over a new leaf by fighting evil-doers, leaving Spyro and Stealth Elf in complete disbelief. Soon, the news of Kaos's heroic exploits were spread throughout the Skylands, with him defeating mega-sized animals and saving the inhabitants before the Skylanders could have the chance, irritating the heroes.

Kaos soon reappeared at the Eternal Archives, suspending a group of mega-sized Chompies to stop them from devouring the Skylanders. The evil Portal Master revealed that as a child he wanted to borrow a book called World Domination for Beginners and other related books from the Eternal Archive, but was told by the Chief Curator, Wiggleworth that they weren't available for loan (in order to keep the books from falling into the wrong hands). Kaos threatened to release the giant Chompies upon the heroes if Wiggleworth didn't hand over a forbidden book to him. When Wiggleworth refused, the evil Portal Master released the Chompies to devour the group. Stealth Elf stole the magic staff from Kaos, and used its power to enlarge Spyro two times the size of the giant Chompies, allowing the dragon to battle the giant enemies at a draw.

Kaos managed to steal back his staff and used it to shrink Stealth Elf down to the size of an ant. As revenge, the tiny elf stabbed one of her daggers into Kaos's ankle like a splinter, causing the Portal Master to drop his staff in pain and allowing Drill Sergeant the chance to destroy it, returning Spyro and Stealth Elf back to normal size. Cornering Kaos, Spyro realized that Kaos's true plan was to test his staff on a few creatures (growing them into a giant size), trick people into thinking he was saving them just so he could attack the Archive and blackmail its curator, who Kaos thought would be blinded by hero worship like others have.

Knowing that he was defeated, Kaos disappeared, vowing that his failed plan was only the beginning.

Gill Grunt and the Curse of the Fish Master

After the events of Spyro versus The Mega Monsters, it was revealed that Kaos was seeking the fragments of the Mask of Power, an evil artifact that he planned to use to destroy the Core of Light. After failing to steal the Book of Power in order to locate the rest of the fragments, he managed to obtain the Tech fragment, and was searching for the Water Fragment that the Skylanders were also looking for.

After the Skylanders defeated Captain Grimslobber, Kaos was able to retrieve the broken pieces of the Fish Master's Crown that supposedly containted the Water Fragment he was after. The evil Portal Master taunted the Skylanders by dumping gallons of fish on them before firing a bolt of magic on the ship of the Fearsome Fang to sink the heroes before making his leave. Although Kaos seemed to have taken the Water Fragment, he was unaware that the real Fragment was in the hands of the Skylanders while all he got was a broken crown. The evil Portal Master was currently looking for the rest of the Fragments, with the Skylanders getting ready for him.

Skylanders: Lightning Rod Faces the Cyclops Queen

Kaos captured Cali after hearing that she knew the way to Tempest

Towers that held the Air fragment to the Mask of Power: the Land Whale. With the help of his Drow army, the evil Portal Master navigated through the Sea of Storms with the Skylanders in hot pursuit. The heroes fortunately managed to fly past Kaos and his minions and beat him to Tempest Towers. Once at Tempest Towers, Kaos immediately announced his arrival. After meeting the Cyclops Queen, she saw Kaos as a unique specimen to her animal collection and ordered for his capture.

Soon, Kaos's Drow army fought against the Cyclopses and won the fight. Kaos attempted to force the Cyclops Queen to tell him the password to the door leading to where the Land Whale was being held, but her husband, Pipsqueak, told him the password out of fear for his life after being turned into a pot of petunias. The Skylander, Lightning Rod, quickly hurled the Land Whale out of Tempest Towers and into the unknown, and Kaos and his Drow army quickly gave chase. It was soon revealed that the Air fragment wasn't the Land Whale, but the Cyclops Queen's tower that held her animal collection.

Having lost half of his Drow army to the Land Whale as a result, Kaos contacted a spy within the vault of the Eternal Vault named Squirmgrub, a traitorous Warrior Librarian who had been telling the evil Portal Master the locations to the fragments to the Mask of Power.

Terrafin Battles the Boom Brothers

In the Fantastic Fairy Fair, Kaos posed as a fortune teller and managed to cause trouble for Gurglefin with one of his fortunes. The evil Portal Master soon revealed himself when his troll army and Floss-O-Tron managed to capture Rocky, a Stone Golem who was believed to be the Earth segment to the Mask of Power. Kaos was able to escape with Rocky to the Explosive Emporium, but the Skylanders, Terrafin, Sonic Boom, Hot Dog and Sprocket were able to track him down. However they fell into a trap made by Kaos and the Boom Brothers, who were working with the evil Portal Master.

However the Skylanders were able to free themselves from the musical trap and drove Kaos and his troll army out of the chamber they were in. After the destruction of the Boom Brothers, Kaos threatened to blow the Skylanders sky-high should they refuse to let him and his troll army back inside the room, which turned out to be a large rocket. Sprocket unintentionally launched the rocket, sending the Skylanders away from Junk Mountain and leaving Kaos and his troll army under what was left of the Explosive Emporium.

Cynder Confronts the Weather Wizard

Kaos forced a weather wizard named Hurrikazam into following his orders, threatening to cut the wizard's precious Amazing, Fantastic, Incredible, Suprising, Unfathomable, All-Coloured Rose if he didn't do what the evil Portal Master commanded. He used Hurrikazam to kidnap the undead inhabitants of the Isle of the Dead in order to drain them of their undeadliness and store it up in a tank of Undead energy to shower every island of Skylands with undead rain showers to turn the living into undead as well as to destroy the other elements. Without Hurrikazam's notice, Kaos operated the wizard's weather machine to cause unnatural harmful weather conditions throughout Skylands.

Kaos Squirmgrub

However the Skylanders, Cynder, Zook and Hex were able to uncover his devious plan, but became captured by Hurrikazam. Kaos ordered the wizard to drain the Skylanders of their element, but Hurrikazam refused despite losing his colorful rose. The evil Portal Master tried to proceed with the draining process, but accidentally released the Skylanders. Just as the Skylanders had Kaos cornered, Hex suddenly trapped Cynder and Zook in her bone fortresses, revealing that she had switched sides, now serving Kaos. Hex allowed herself to provide Kaos with her powerful Undead energy, claiming that she was tired of being feared and longed to be normal again. Kaos eagerly began the procedure, however the machine was overloading with Hex's power, which the elf sorceress planned all along and never actually defected to Kaos.

Seeing his plan failing, Kaos tried to find the Undead segment to the Mask of Power in Hurrikazam's botanical gardens, but was stopped by Cynder and the Stump Demon, Dogwood. Kaos swore revenge, but was reprimanded by Cynder instead as he escaped back to his lair. Unfortunately, his plans weren't in vain, as Squirmgrub had taken five pieces to the Mask of Power from the Eternal Archives for Kaos and also kidnapped Master Eon while the Skylanders were away on their mission.

Stump Smash Crosses the Bone Dragon

Kaos and his legion of Trolls carried the immobolized Eon to the Giggling Forest where the evil Portal Master ordered General Disaster to unearth a Bone Dragon. However the Dragon became enraged upon being awakened from his slumber and proceeded to turn Kaos and all surrounding individuals to stone. While the Skylanders dealt with the Bone Dragon, they convinced him to return all he petrified to normal. Once freed, Kaos revealed that he had planned this from the start just to capture the Life segment to the Mask of Power, which was believed to be the Bone Dragon.

The evil Portal Master had the Skylanders pinned as he fired his dark magic upon them, but was subdued by Master Eon's spells. Master Eon then revealed that the Life segment wasn't the Bone Dragon, but a stone heart he was given to him by a wizard years ago. Defeated, Kaos and his forces retreated, leaving behind Squirmgrub.

Eruptor Meets the Nightmare King

With the help of his minion, Bloodshot, Kaos and Glumshanks went back thousands of years into the past to overthrow the original owner of the Mask of Power, King Nefarion. This will allow Kaos to rule over the past timeline, affecting the present. His actions didn't come unnoticed by the Skylanders, who with the help of Master Eon, went back in time as well to stop Kaos. However Kaos knew the Skylanders would follow him, and he tricked one of the last remaining Portal Masters, Wizbit, into thinking the Skylanders didn't come to help him stop King Nefarion.

While in the past timeline, Kaos was able to ally himself with King Nefarion and betrayed Wizbit when the Mabu Portal Master revealed to the Nightmare King the Big Bad Ice Bomb, a device intended to freeze King Nefarion and end his evil reign. With the Skylanders still detained, Kaos triggered a cave-in to trap the heroes and left them to their fate. In Nefarion's castle, Kaos revealed to Glumshanks that he intended to use the Big Bad Ice Bomb to freeze King Nefarion and steal the Mask of Power from him. Wen Kaos presented with the Big Bad Ice Bomb to King Nefarion, the tyrant caught on to what Kaos was going to do and attacked the evil Portal Master.

Kaos cleverly used a spell to summon a multitude of clones to confuse the Nightmare King, allowing him to take the Mask of Power of Nefarion's face, turning back to his original form. Before Kaos can put on the mask, he was stopped by the Skylanders. During the struggle between the Skyanders, Nefarion and himself, Kaos could only watch as the Mask of Power was shattered into eight pieces and scattered across Skylands by Wizbit. As the castle began to freeze up by the effects of the Big Bad Ice Bomb, Kaos and Glumshanks retreated back to the present. The Book of Power soon revealed that Kaos will succeed in wearing the Mask of Power.

Trigger Happy Targets the Evil Kaos

Despite losing the Magic segment to the Mask of Power to the Skylanders at Wool Mountain, Kaos's minions were able to steal all of the segments of the Mask of Power from Eon's Citadel. The Skylanders who took part in the search for the Mask segments were summoned to launch an attack at Kaos's Kastle to stop him from putting on the Mask. However they were too late as Kaos put on the Mask of Power and utilized its powers to steal all of the Skylanders' abilities, rendering them helpless. Before Kaos could finish off his enemies, Eon teleported his Skylanders safely back to the Citadel.

With the Mask of Power, Kaos wrecked havoc throughout the Skylands before making his way to the Core of Light to destroy it. The Skylanders attempted to protect the Core with a makeshift barrier, but Kaos once again overwhelmed them and subdued Master Eon. With his enemies at his mercy, Kaos prepared to destroy the Core of Light, but was stopped by Trigger Happy and the Skylanders, who coaxed the evil Portal Master into wielding all of their powers at once. Wanting to prove himself, Kaos attempted to use all of their powers at the same time, but wound up losing control of his powers and allowing Trigger Happy to yank the Mask of Power off Kaos's face. With the Mask of Power disabled, the Skylanders were given back their powers and they used them to fully destroy the Mask of Power.

As punishment for the trouble he caused, and for turning Hugo into a sheep earlier in the story, Master Eon temporarily turned both Kaos and Glumshanks into sheep and Trigger Happy quickly blasted them off with an explosive pot of gold. Upon arrival at his Kastle, Kaos came upon a package containing the book of Horrendous Horrors of Hideous Horribleness he had ordered. Confident of his latest plan, Kaos gloated that the Skylanders may enjoy their victory for now, but something wicked is coming their way and they all will be 'doomed'.

Skylanders: Spyro's Adventure

In the story events of Spyro's Adventure, Kaos returned to Skylands after his exile to exact his revenge. He succeeded in destroying the Core of Light using a large fearsome creature called the Hydra, an act which banished the Skylanders to Earth. With Skylands' greatest protectors gone, Kaos proceeded to shroud the world under his rule using The Darkness. He soon became aware of the new Portal Master, who arrived to save Skylands and brought back the Skylanders, and Kaos' attempts to stop them from restoring the Core of Light failed. After the Core of Light was restored, Kaos, blinded by the bright light of the newly restored world, fled back to the Outlands, but not before vowing that he wasn't beaten yet.

The new Portal Master and the Skylanders soon confronted Kaos in his lair to deal with the evil Portal Master once and for all, battling against him, his Minions, and his Hydra. After a long battle, they successfully defeated them. As Kaos gloated that he would destroy the new Portal Master and Skylanders to oblivion another day, the hover throne he was sitting on exploded due to the damage it sustained in battle, sending Kaos flying and landing back on the ground, knocking him out shortly afterwards. Kaos was then imprisoned temporarily at the Ruins, where he soon vowed that he would keep returning until Skylands was his if he was going to be banished to the Outlands once more. However to his surprise, Kaos was banished to Earth instead where he was turned into a toy and is soon tormented by a dog.

Skylanders: Giants

Kaos Toy Store

After being banished to Earth, Kaos's toy form was recovered and placed inside a toy store called Super Toy Planet. He was soon released from his frozen state because of his status as a Portal Master, and initially plotted to destroy Earth once he has taken over Skylands. He saw the frozen Skylanders in toy form nearby inside a toy display and took the chance to taunt them before being contacted via television screen by Glumshanks, who had been looking everywhere for Kaos since his exile. Kaos then painfully used a nearby Portal of Power to return to Skylands, despite Glumshanks's warnings that Portal Masters don't use portals on themselves.

Upon his arrival, Kaos landed in a very ancient part of Skylands and inadvertantly reactivated the Arkeyan Conquertron, quickly learning that if he could acquire something known as the Iron Fist of Arkus, he could not only reactivate the entire army of Arkeyan robots, but also command them. With that kind of power, Kaos would be unstoppable. Despite the Skylanders' and the Giants' efforts to stop Kaos, the evil Portal Master was able to reach the Lost City of Arkus and gain hold of the Iron Fist of Arkus, transforming himself into a large Arkeyan robot before using the Iron Fist's power to resurrect the Arkeyan army.

Robo Kaos Skylander

Before he could begin his world conquest with his Arkeyan army, the Skylander confronted Kaos to stop his evil plan, only to discover that the now Arkeyan Portal Master was impossible to stop unless the Iron Fist of Arkus was removed from his grasp. With the help of Ermit and Machine Ghost, the Skylander was able to remove the Fist of Arkus from Kaos' grip, returning the evil Portal Master to his normal form. After losing the Iron Fist, and soon afterwards the Arkeyan Conquertron, Kaos returned to his castle where he revealed to Glumshanks that he had at least 37 more plans to take over Skylands. The evil Portal Master laughed evilly, only to be confronted by his mother moments later.

Skylanders: Swap Force

Kaos' latest scheme involved trying to use Cloudbreak Islands' volcano to spread Darkness throughout Skylands. His plot consisted of evilizing one of the Ancient Elementals. If he was to succeed, during the next eruption of the volcano, the corrupt Elemental would cause the entire volcano to fill up with Darkness, and then erupt to spread it throughout Skylands. To help with this plot, he summoned Greebles to help carry out his invasion and began evilizing various creatures to enhance his army.

After an Evilized Glumshanks was defeated by the Skylanders, Kaos was contacted by a hooded figure on a magic mirror he used to watch over his plots. The hooded figure was revealed to be Kaos' Mom, who told him how her original plan was both a success (banished the SWAP Force Skylanders to Earth), and a failure. She proceeded to scold Kaos that his invasion had called so much attention that the Skylanders returned. Kaos claimed that he would succeed by doing it his own way, rudely cutting his mother off before continuing his plan further.

Kaos troll

After the Skylanders saved the Ancient Terrasquid, Kaos discovered that his mother had appeared in his castle in person to help him out by bringing a band of minions of her own. When most of Kaos' Mom's minions were defeated by the Skylanders, Kaos left his castle to go after the Ancient Tree Spirit, bringing a legion of trolls that have been equipped with evilized fire that would be used to burn down Fantasm Forest, the home of the Spirit. He personally oversaw the plot in a glider mechanism, but his troll army and the evilized fire was contained by the Skylanders, who soon defeated Kaos in his battle ship.

Kaos was captured and held captive by the Skylanders once all four Elementals were joined together. But before they could perform the ceremony, Kaos' Mom appeared and teleported both Tessa and Kaos to his Fortress. To save Tessa, the Skylanders set off to Kaos' Fortress in Flynn's newly improved Dread-Yacht, made it pass the defenses, and defeated Kaos' Mom. After Kaos' Mom was imprisoned in Kaos' mirror, Kaos appeared in his Portal, revealing that he had filled the volcano with Petrified Darkness and showed no intentions of coming to his mother's aid. Flynn, Tessa, Sharpfin, and the Skylanders all set off to the Cloudbreak Core to stop Kaos.

After piling a huge amount of crystallized Petrified Darkness near the heart of the volcano, the crystal pile collapsed on top of Kaos, evilizing him into Super Evil Kaos. The Skylanders confronted the newly evilized Portal Master, and after a grueling battle, they managed to defeat Kaos, reverting him back to his normal state. Afterwards, Kaos and Glumshanks met up again as the Cloudbreak Volcano was ready to erupt, only to find that their legs and lower torsos have been switched. Kaos marveled at how he was finally tall, but they were caught in the eruption of the volcano, blasting them to somewhere unknown.

The Kaos Trap

Kaos had heard about the new Skylanders Academy and plotted to ruin it by destroying the Skylanders from inside the school. He overpowered and impersonated the real Weeruptor while he and the other Minis were being transported to the Academy by Flynn. Kaos marooned Weeruptor on a life raft before starting the spell process of impersonating the Fire Mini in order to get to the Academy unnoticed. The evil Portal Master was discovered by Flynn in the Dread-Yacht's galley when the Mabu came upon him while his transformaton spell was still underway. To silence Flynn, Kaos shot an amnesia spell at him, making him forget that he ever saw Kaos, but left him in a dazed hypnotized state. Flynn then walked off the Dread-Yacht with Chopper in pursuit, leaving the Minis to frantically try to control the ship.

When Tessa successfully lands the Dread-Yacht, Kaos is seen disembarking the vessel along with the other Minis, bearing an evil grin that went unnoticed by the present characters.

Still under his Weeruptor disguise, Kaos accompanied the other Minis through the tour of the Academy, nearly giving himself away by boasting about himself. He then tricked Hugo into taking him, Food Fight and the Minis to the Heroic Challenge Arena where he sprung a trap upon them with his Trolls who were disguised as the training dummies. Kaos took off his disguise and joined in on the attack, but was repelled by Food Fight and his tomatoes. He retreated by piloting an Arkeyan Copter that was parked outside of the Academy by Flynn and the others, vowing revenge, but was cut off by another one of Food Fight's tomatoes.

While researching the coordinates of Cloudcracker Prison, Kaos uncovered a way to destroy the Traptanium stronghold in order to free the villains locked there in the hopes of them helping him rule Skylands. He sent an army of Trolls to the Radiant Isles to go after the Radiance Crystals and attack the Mabu mining expedition. However the Skylanders happened to be on their way there and quickly dispatched the trolls, and their newly gained ally, Wolfgang. Although his troll army lost the battle, it was all a diversion planned by Kaos so that the trolls could steal the Fork of Infinite Resonance, a device that can shatter material with its own resonance frequency. Knowing that only Traptanium can't be destroyed by other known materials, he planned on using the Fork of Infinite Resonance to make the Traptanium shatter itself apart. With his primary goal achieved, Kaos and his minions prepared their trip to Cloudcracker Prison to free the villains.

Skylanders: Trap Team

Using his newly constructed Frequency Madulator, Kaos freed the villains, mainly the Doom Raiders, from Cloudcracker Prison at the hopes of them helping the evil Portal Master fulfill his latest plan in ruling Skylands. However the strong elite of villains had other motives and cast aside Kaos in favor of following their leader, the Golden Queen. The Golden Queen allowed Kaos and Glumshanks to stay, only to come up with a plan of her own, stating its "solid gold". As dissent grows in the ranks, Kaos, sought to take back control, commences "Operation Sabotage". He intervened at Phoenix Psanctuary to sabotage Chef Pepper Jack's plan on stealing the Phoenix Chicken, but backfired, his smoke rocket allowing Chef Pepper Jack to get away with an egg from the Phoenix Chicken.

Kaos DoomRaiders

When attempts of winning over the Doom Raiders failed, Kaos lashed at the Golden Queen for her ultimate goal of having all of the gold in Skylands over being its ruler. The evil Portal Master foolishly challenged the Queen to an "Evil-off" with the winner taking all and the control of the Doom Raiders and Skylands. Unfortunately it ended rather quickly and poorly for Kaos as the Golden Queen simply turned him to a gold statue.

Having lost Glumshanks and his hideout to the Doom Raiders, Kaos was forced to turn to the Skylanders for help in defeating the strong villains who betrayed him. After acquiring an Information Squid from Mags' home village in Rainfish Riviera, the heroes wanted to know why the Doom Raiders were obtaining Traptanium. Eventually, the Information Squid turned out to be Kaos who soon turned into an unlikely alliance with the heroes. With Kaos being the only lead to where the Doom Raiders were, he lent his assistance by telling the heroes the whereabouts of the Dreamcatcher and later accompanied the Skylanders to the Wilikin Workshop where he created the Wilikin.

Much to his shock, Kaos found his workshop under the control of Dr. Krankcase and helped the Skylanders infilitrate the factory. He became captured by the mad doctor, who was ordered by the Golden Queen to retrieve Kaos in order to travel through time for their plans. During the Skylanders' battle with Dr. Krankcase, Kaos was taken away by Wolfgang to Time Town, where the werewolf began using Kaos's power to mess with time. The Skylanders managed to rescue Kaos, but Wolfgang escaped into the future.

After the Skylanders defeated the Golden Queen, Kaos and Glumshanks took control of The Ultimate Weapon. Glumshanks warned him that too much stinkocity was very dangerous, to which the dark Portal Master dismissed, saying that Traptanium is the "ultimate power source", but has a much different effect on a Dark Portal Master.

Kaos powered himself with the combined Stinkocity and Traptanium, turning into Ultra Traptanium-powered Kaos. With this power, he was able to see the new Portal Master through the fourth-wall and planned to not only conquer Skylands, but to also pull the new Portal Master from their world and trap them in Traptanium. The Skylanders infiltrated the Ultimate Weapon to face Kaos, who underwent a fearsome transformation to battle the heroes. After a long battle, it ended in Kaos's defeat and capture. During the credits, Kaos complained about how the player had an entire army (the developers) helping them when all he had was Glumshanks.

After he was captured, the Skylanders took him to back to the Academy for his Villain Quest with a familiar face, Blobbers, who had arrived at the school after the heroes had successfully captured Wolfgang. His Villain Quest was entitled "Who Wants Kaos Kake?", and Blobbers explains to the Skylanders that he was entering a baking competition, and needed the help of the "most evil being in Skylands" (not "BEAN"). Then, Kaos suddenly made a monstrous cake with one eyeball and mouth appear, and the Portal Master was awarded with Blobbers' thanks and a new outfit.

Rift into Overdrive

During his time as a rehabilitated villain, Kaos was giving out cotton candy to the partygoers at the Skylanders Academy. last day of school celebration. When the party was over, Glumshanks came to free Kaos with a Magic Skull trap, but Kaos surprised his troll minion by revealing that he was pretending to be good while formulating a new evil plan. The evil Portal Master explained to Glumshanks that the last bit of The Darkness collected and sealed within the Academy had been giving him strength, making Kaos strong enough to fully escape his Traptanium prison. With his nap time charm the Skylanders had eaten with the cotton candy taking effect, Kaos was able to steal the vial containing The Darkness and escape the Academy.

Kaos The Darkness

After Kaos' escape, the Skylanders had been searching for him for three months. Kaos's plan would soon be unveiled when strange rifts began opening up around Skylands, consuming everything in their path including the sky itself. These rifts not only threaten the lives of the Skyland inhabitants, but it disables connection between the Portals, stranding many Skylanders and breaking the connection between worlds. The Lord of the Undead, Count Moneybone, has even joined Kaos in his latest plan, flanked by a massive air armada.

While the Skylanders, Stealth Elf, Gill Grunt, Terrafin and Jet-Vac were investigating Know-It-All Island for clues on the Rift Engines, Kaos' disembodied voice revealed the creation of his Doomstation of Ultimate Doomstruction and opened up another rift that threatened to consume them all. They were saved by the SuperChargers, Spitfire and Stormblade, but Kaos began launching an attack on the Skylander Academy with an armada at his disposal. With most of the Skylanders scattered around Skylands unaware of the Academy being under attack, Kaos demanded the residents of the school to surrender, only to receive resistance from Master Eon and the Skylanders. The evil Portal Master captured Eon's spirit form during the confrontation, but didn't count on Mags sending a distress call for all Skylanders across Skylands (and worlds beyond) using Magus' Omni-Disruptor. Outnumbered by the returning Skylanders, and with his army retreating, Kaos swore that the battle wasn't over and that the Core of Light wouldn't save them from the threat he had in store.

Skylanders: SuperChargers

With Skylands under his rule, Kaos gloated about his victory to the new Portal Master and proceeded to disconnect the portal connection between Earth to Skylands to stop them from interferring with his plan. His Sky Eater, powered by The Darkness, wrecked havoc across Skylands, consuming everything in its path including the sky itself. When The Darkness gained sentinence, Kaos eagerly cooperated with it in his plan to take over not only Skylands but the entire universe. The evil Portal Master was eventually persuaded by The Darkness to fire Glumshanks when it claimed that the troll was getting in Kaos' way, despite reasoning that if The Darkness devoured all of the sky, Skylands would be destroyed.

Kaos eventually recalled Glumshanks' words when the troll appeared in the form of his former master's conscience. This caused Kaos to hesitate in initiating the button needed to start the destruction of Skylands with his Sky Eater, only for The Darkness to force Kaos to proceed with the plan by removing his powers it had given him. During the battle against the Skylanders, The Darkness gave dark abilities to Kaos during the fight but they managed to defeat him. The Darkness subdued the opposing party itself, then commanded Kaos to destroy the Dark Rift Engine that was the only artifact capable of banishing The Darkness from Skylands. Kaos instead activated the Rift Engine, proudly declaring that no one tells him what to do, except him, allowing The Darkness to be pulled helplessly towards a rift. As they escaped from the Sky Eater, Kaos rehired Glumshanks, who at the time was helping the Skylanders since he was fired.

With The Darkness gone, Kaos' dark Portal Master abilities went with it, leaving him powerless. He then announced to the Skylanders that other evildoers would come to conquer Skylands, something he doesn't want to happen. Until he can find another way to regain his powers, he appointed himself the Skylander Academy's Ultimate Evil Consultant of Ultimate Evil to help the Skylanders. While Cali wondered if it was a good idea to allow Kaos to stay at the Academy, Buzz believed that it is a way to keep an eye on the evil Portal Master.

Before Master Eon can congratulate the player, Kaos stepped in and thanked them instead for ridding Skylands of The Darkness once and for all, with him helping the Skylanders out in the end.

Secret Agents Secrets

Spyro KaosAfter the events of SuperChargers, Kaos attempted to assume leadership over Skylander Academy after appointing himself as the school's Evil Consultant of Ultimate Evil. He was met with opposition in the form of Spyro, who accused Kaos of being to no good as always. Eventually both Kaos and Spyro were forced to cooperate and worked out a plan after Buzz pointed out that his elite team of Skylanders, Boomer, Ghost Roaster and Voodood, had disappeared while on a convert mission and hadn't reported in for months. Spyro and Kaos appointed SuperChargers, Spitfire, Stormblade and Nightfall, their first mission to find the lost Skylanders at what was left of Motleyville.

While waiting for Spitfire, Stormblade and Nightfall to report back, Kaos and Spyro once again got into a heated argument. Before things could escalate into violence, Mags was forced to step in and place Spyro and Kaos in timeout. Knowing that the Skylanders Academy was depending on their leadership, Spyro offered to treat Kaos the respect an ally deserves as they are now on the same side. Now on better terms, both Spyro and Kaos pinpointed the location where the missing Skylanders had disappeared. Kaos and Buzz were left in charge of the Academy while Spyro left to search for their comrades.

Skylanders: Ring of Heroes

After the events of the comic, Kaos started to gather troops and Traptanium at the hidden Hall of Chaos, rediscovering some of his old abilities and starting to experiment with Mind Magic.

While looking for new sources of power in secret, Kaos found the Book of Dark Magic, but accidentally unleashed its power and and once again tore Rifts into the Portal network. Pretending it to be an intended attack, he ambushed a group of Awakened Skylanders while they had a sparring match, but just at that moment, the Earth Portal Master fell from one his rifts and was helped by the other heroes, quickly joining in to drive the Dark Portal Master away. In his escape, he accidentally dropped the book and made a deal with the Doom Raiders to get it back, in exchange for controlling the Shattered Islands that he accidentally created - however, they had other plans, pretending to be passing the book around for precaution while trying to use it behind his back.

While waiting for them, he tried to recruit Pain-Yatta into the team, pretending to be speaking on their behalf so he would intercept the Skylanders. Though his new minion defected after being defeated, at the Shrine of Light, Kaos finally discovered Luminous and the villains' plans and took his book, immediately trying to use it on the heroes. The Earth Portal Master was quick to stand in his way, making his dark counterpart mock the feeble attempt to protect Cali, Hugo and Flynn, but the player character took the opportunity to summon Spyro, Barbella and Stealth Elf at point blank, who attacked him quickly and threw him off the island. Though the book was taken from him, the Earth Portal Master kept returning to Skylands after the Rifts were closed, knowing the villain was still at large and with newfound powers.

Skylanders: Imaginators

Before the events of the game, when Kaos discovered Mind Magic, the first thing he created was an exact replica of himself, thinking that not even The Skylanders could stand up to two of him, but, to his surprise, the Kaos clone wanted victory for himself and, as such, joined The Skylanders.

In this game, Kaos has an evil army of Imaginators known as Doomlanders, of which he creates one and sends it to the Skylanders Academy's library. That Doomlander escapes with the Ancients' book about Mind Magic and gives it to Kaos, who uses the Mind Magic to make his Doomlander stronger. His Doomlander is then defeated, but Kaos escapes with the book.

Curious about his Doomlander's defeats, Kaos acquires the Helm of Ultimate Wisdom to learn about the Ancient's secrets of creation. Once he tries it on, he meets the last of the Ancients, the most smartest and powerful brain in the universe. He helps Kaos create the ultimate Doomlander, which is a giant guacamole monster, but it was then defeated by the Skylanders. When Kaos discovered his monster's defeat, Brain contacts Kaos through his bird's body and tells him that he is trapped in a jar at the Golden Arcade.

After the Skylander unintentionally frees Brain, he goes to Kaos' lair. As Kaos frees him, he brainwashes the Mabu into serving Kaos as their ruler. The Skylanders, who are immune to mind magic, fools Kaos into believing that they are surrendering to him by giving him a giant cake. Brain tries to convince Kaos that it is a trick, but Kaos ignores him.

Once Kaos observes the cake, the Skylanders appear from it. However, Kaos reveals to them a clone army of himself, which he unleashes upon the Skylanders. Later on, the Skylanders confront Kaos in his lair, where he has Brain to turn him into Super Kaos. However, during the fight, Brain was more impressed with the Portal Master's imagination, which prompted Brain to turn on Kaos and switch to their side. After the battle, Kaos gets shrunken down by Brain and imprisoned in a glass jar along with Glumshanks.

Qin gasped in sheer horror!

Qin: I can't believe he's that dangerous and ruthless!

Me: I know. And he also likes to talk his head off to the point where he doesn't shut up.

Lori: He literally disgusts me.

Me: But in the end, we defeated his evil forces and I trapped him in his own Traptanium Trap. Let me show you.

I went to the vault and got a box containing all of the trapped villains of Skylands that we defeated.

I came back.

Me: These are Traptanium Traps that we used to trap the villains of Skylands.

Nico: Those are cool.

Lincoln: They sure are.

Qin: There's traps of each of the 10 elements?

Me: Yep. We caught a lot of them.

I pulled out a black trap that looked like Kaos's head.

Me: This little black trap is the trap of Kaos.

I pulled up the computer and pulled out a special Traptanium Key around my neck.

Me: This is a special communication device I made that will allow us to talk to the villains of Skylands that are trapped in the Traptanium.

Nico: That's really cool!

I put the key in the lock and out came a Traptanium Holographic Communication hub.

Me: Check this out.

I put the Kaos Trap into the hub and on a cone screen was Kaos himself.

Kaos: Well if it isn't the famous loser poser master J.D. Knudson and those stupid Skylosers!

Me: Even after 2 and a half years you still haven't changed at all.

Stealth Elf: He never learns from his defeats.

Me: Usually all evil never does.

Kaos: Come to check on me like I'm your pet?! Why don't you just kill me, huh?! Get it over with!

Me: No we're not going to kill you. You may have been a menace to all of Skylands and to the Skylanders. But they didn't kill you. Besides, we never got to thank you after all this time.

Kaos: Eh? Thank me? For what?

Me: For bringing the Skylanders to Earth. Because of you banishing the Skylanders to Earth, you helped us become awesome friends and teammates with the Skylanders. They are the most awesome team we have ever known. And we formed a new powerful alliance with all of Skylands and we also formed a brand new branch team for Team Loud Phoenix Storm for the Skylanders. We call it the Earth-Skylands Federation.

Lincoln: That's right Kaos. It was because of your own selfishness and powerlust that lead you to being trapped in there in the first place.

Nico: And for trying to take over Skylands countless times.

Kaos: Who are you?

Nico: Nicolas Chan. But everyone calls me Nico.

Me: Our forces have grown over the course of 2 and a half years. We are now the most powerful force in the entire universe called Team Loud Phoenix Storm. We weren't called that when we defeated you.

Kaos: I guess things really have changed. But who cares!? I will get out of here and I will destroy you all! For I, Kaos, will get my revenge on you all! HAHAHAHAHA!

Me: Oh I don't think so.

I snapped my fingers and Kaos was enveloped in a powerful white light and 20 beams of energy that were imbued with the powers of the 10 elements of the Skylanders went into Nico and Qin.

Nico: Whoa!

Qin: Wow! That is powerful! I feel stronger and more powerful than ever!

Me: That's because I stripped Kaos of his powers and made them yours and Nico's. I gave you 2 the power to use the 10 elemental forces of the Skylanders: Undead, Life, Air, Fire, Water, Magic, Tech, Earth, Light and Dark, and the 10 weapons of the Imaginators: Sorcerer, Quickshot, Ninja, Knight, Bazooka, Smasher, Sentinal, Brawler, Swashbuckler and Bowslinger.

Qin: Wow! That is so cool!

Nico: It sure is. So Kaos's powers are now ours.

Me: Yep.

Kaos: You fools! I will make you pay for this!

I cut him off.

Me: Shut up Kaos.

Camo: (Spanish Accent) Looks like we've now seen the last of Kaos.

Laney: We sure have Camo.

Qin: I can't wait to see what we can do with these powers.

Then the alarm went off.

Me: Uh oh. Looks like you're about to get your chance Qin.

We went to the computer and we saw that the Mystery Inc. gang was in trouble over in Japan. They were being terrorized by the evil BLACK SAMURAI!

The Black Samurai was a dreaded samurai warlord intent on ruling the world who was resurrected and unleashed a dreadful curse. Initially, the Black Samurai was an honorable and trustworthy warrior, who longed to become a great warrior, as such he tried to get a sword from Japan's greatest swordsmith, Masamune, but he was impatient at the time it would take to forge (1 year), he secretly accepted another deal from Muramasa (Masamune's apprentice) for a sword that was supposed to be of the same quality, but in half the time. Unfortunately, this sword was infused with dark magic, which had been used to speed up the forging, and corrupted him, turning him into a ruthless, dangerous, and destructive monster. The Black Samurai was eventually imprisoned by the Sword of Fate (wielded by the Green Dragon), trapping him in his own cursed sword, which became known as the the Sword of Doom. Over 500 years later, in the modern day the evil martial arts school owner Miss Mirimoto tried to use him in her plan to conquer and destroy the modern world. She released him by tricking the gang into finding The Sword of Doom. Then initiating the ritual to break the spell and free the dark being. She then tried to order him, demanding that he offer his service to her, however, the Black Samurai telekinetically hoisted her into the air and mocked her for even assuming she could control the true lord of evil. He then casually tossed her into the stone steps, sending her into unconsciousness. Then, using his dark powers he forced everyone else to bow before for him. So he revealed his plan to use his sword to make all the citizens of Japan bow before him for eternity. Luckily, Shaggy and Scooby-Doo had rediscovered the Sword of Fate and arrived to confront him. Together they both wielded the sword and fought the Samurai. They managed to defeat him by breaking his own cursed sword with the Sword of Fate. Because of that, his soul was cleansed of the dark magic and set free, becoming an old man he thanked the two of them for freeing him from his accursed blade. Before dying and vanishing into thin air.

Me: Whoa! The honor of the Samurai is in danger! The Black Samurai has returned to obtain the Sword of Doom!

Vince: Whoa! I heard about the Black Samurai!

Carol: He sounds really dangerous!

Me: No kidding. But Mystery Inc is now in Japan to meet Daphne's penpal Miyumi. Her teacher Miss Mirimoto is behind this! She wants to have the Black Samurai serve her to unite the worlds of the Samurai and Technology.

Nico: That's insane!

Lana: It sure is!

Vince: No kidding! There's no honor in that!

Me: No there isn't.

---

Miss Mirimoto is a powerful sensei who runs a karate academy with an iron fist.

When Scooby-Doo, Shaggy, and company take Daphne and their new friend Miyumi to a martial arts tournament, Daphne takes down Miss Mirimoto's sturdy bodyguard, Sojo, and is congratulated by the sensei herself. Miss Mirimoto tells Daphne she shows promise as a courageous warrior. Mr. Takagawa, a museum curator, explains to her that the dreaded Black Samurai is after the Destiny Scroll, which is at the academy.

That night, the Black Samurai and an army of ninja warriors break into the school and steal the scroll. Miss Mirimoto explains that it's just a copy and shows Scooby-Doo and his friends the real one.

Later, Miss Mirimoto instructs the gang to find the Sword of Doom before the Black Samurai does. After finding the sword, they discover that the Black Samurai is Sojo in disguise and when they bring him back, Miss Mirimoto, aided by Miyumi (who turns out to be one of her students) takes them hostage. She tells them of her wicked plan, which is to bring the Black Samurai back to life so she can use him to bring Japan back to the way it was in ancient times and destroy the modern world. The ninjas are revealed to be robots in which she channeled her students' fighting techniques (including Daphne's). Miss Mirimoto holds Daphne, Fred, Velma, and Mr. Takagawa prisoner, locking them in the museum, but not before Daphne throws the sword to Shaggy and Scooby-Doo, who escape and, aided by a green dragon, charge to the rescue.

The friends are rescued by Kenji, the janitor. In the final battle, Miyumi takes the Sword of Fate, turns against Miss Mirimoto, and fights her before the evil woman succeeds in taking the sword back. However, Miss Mirimoto tries to make the Black Samurai her servant, but the true lord of evil mocks her for even thinking she could control him and tosses her against some stone steps. After Scooby and Shaggy defeated the Black Samurai, she and Sojo didn't appear in the end, it is unknown if they are presumed deceased or that they were revived and got sent to prison.

Lola: What that woman is doing is reprehensible!

Me: It sure is. Lets get over there! Team Loud Phoenix Storm…

Jaime: And Team Loud Fairywind…

Me and Jaime: LETS FLY!

We were off to Tokyo, Japan.

---

TOKYO, JAPAN

---

We arrived in Tokyo and we saw the Mystery Inc. gang and Miyumi being thrashed by the Black Samurai and Miss Mirimoto. We swooped in and kicked them in their faces and sent them crashing into the walls.

Me: Sorry to drop in like this.

Freddie: You arrived just in time J.D.

Miss Mirimoto got up.

Miss Mirimoto: The famous Team Loud Phoenix Storm. How nice of you to show up so that we can rule the world.

Me: No way in hell will I let that happen you traitorous bitch!

Miss Mirimoto: How dare you!? I'm a girl of Honor!

Me: You don't know the meaning of the word Honor! How can you use your own students like this, Mirimoto?

Miss Mirimoto: It's nothing personal, really. But it's all part of my plan to resurrect the Black Samurai so he can return Japan to how it was in the good old days. In addition, the Black Samurai will prove to be humanity's last hope against your kind.

Me: What are you talking about? Humanity doesn't need protection from us.

Miss Mirimoto: I used to believe that. I thought you were a guardian angel, come to answer our prayers… But Lucifer was an angel too, wasn't he?

Me: What are you getting at?

Miss Mirimoto: You forget, I was present with the rest of the world when we all watched you destroy the planet Yokus. I know what you're capable of!

Me: That's what this is about? One act to protect the adults of Retroville from the Yokians and you turn to a life of crime? You copied the fighting techniques of your students and implanted them into your robots! And you violated Mystery Inc's trust! My trust!

Miss Mirimoto (smirks): The chicken, or the egg, Knudson?

Me: (In my head) So that's it. All the villains are now trying to make us feel worse. They're trying to stoop low into making us feel like we're monsters. They're trying to make some people see that we're like the Justice Lords. But that's not gonna happen as long as there is good in the world. But two can play at that. (Out loud) Nice try Mirimoto. I know what you are going to do and it's not going to work. You are not going to compare us to the Justice Lords. The Justice Lords imposed a world without free will, where we are trying to protect people from people like you.

My Dark Orb detector went off.

Me: There's a dark orb here.

Miss Mirimoto: You mean this?

She revealed a Dark Orb imbedded in her chest.

Me: You have a dark orb in your chest. You need to get rid of that thing. It's dangerous for the world and the entire universe.

Miss Mirimoto: Oh I will use it and have my new friend take care of you.

Nico: What new friend?

We heard armor clanking and out came a clone of the Akumatized Villain DARKBLADE!

Darkblade wears a full suit of dark gray armor, some parts of it having lighter gray with dark gray stripes. The visor on his helmet has four red leaf-shaped marks, and the helmet's comb is large and red, its shape a bit zigzagged. The besagues have red curled outlined designs on them, and on the center of the breastplate, there is a red family crest design with a black outline and a black phoenix-like creature inside. His couter and poleyns and pointed, and the end of the sabatons are pointed. His sword is large, with a silver and dark gray striped hilt and a dark gray blade with red lines making a design on each side. At the middle of the cross-guard, there is the same family crest symbol as the breastplate, except it inverts colors and glows when it is shooting energy.

Me: That's Armand D'Argencourt A.K.A. Darkblade!

Darkblade: (British Accent) Yes it is I, Darkblade.

Nico: Since you're a clone of the Akumatized Villain, I won't hold back.

Me: You guys take on Miss Mirimoto and Darkblade. I'll face the Black Samurai.

Nico: Okay. Qin, you help face Mirimoto.

Qin: With pleasure.

Luan: (Laughs) Good one Nico.

Nico: Thanks Luan.

Mirimoto: It's only a matter of time before he does. And when that day comes, you'll be sorry you ever turned against me!

Nico: Don't count on it you psycho bitch!

Bumble Blast: Time for you to be stung! I hope you aren't allergic to bees, because these bees pack a wallop! THE PERFECT SWARM! SWARM OF THE STING!

Bumble Blast fired a massive swarm of bees and they stung Mirimoto all over with a lot of fury. OUCH!

Tuff Luck: (Irish Accent) This is not gonna be your lucky day. DEAL WITH IT! FOUR-LEAF CLOVER SHURIKEN STORM!

Tuff Luck fired a massive barrage of four-leaf clovers and they hit

Mirimoto and cut her.

Bushwhack: Time for Life to chop evil! AXE TO THE MAX! THORN AXE LASHSTORM!

Bushwhack swung his axe and a massive lash of thorns cut Mirimoto all over.

High Five: Time for some awesome buzz! BUZZ OFF! DRAGONFLY SPEED SLASH!

High Five went at Mirimoto with incredible speed and rammed her all over.

Food Fight: Hope you're hungry! EAT THIS! TOMATO BAZOOKA BOMBSPLAT!

Food Fight fired numerous giant tomatoes from his bazooka and they splattered all over Mirimoto with the power of 100 sticks of dynamite.

Donkey Kong: Here comes Donkey Kong! (TRADEMARK HOWL) JUNGLE BARREL CANNONBALL!

Donkey Kong fired out of a barrel and he slammed into Mirimoto with the force of a powerful cannonball and he sent her crashing through a bunch of trees.

Thrillipede: Time for this pilot to fly! ALL HANDS ON DECK! BUTTERFLY FLYING DUSTSTORM!

Thrillipede fired a kaleidoscope of butterflies and they surrounded Mirimoto and covered her in dust that made her sneeze and burn her eyes.

Ambush: Hope you aren't allergic to weeds. WEED 'EM AND REAP! SWORD OF WEEDS SNEEZE ATTACK!

Ambush slammed his sword into the ground and a massive number of dandelions popped up and they made Mirimoto sneeze uncontrollably.

Boom Bloom: Lets see you itch with this! ROOTING OUT EVIL! POISON IVY WHIPLASH!

Boom Bloom lashed Mirimoto with her whip and gave her poison ivy cuts and they itched like crazy.

Crash Bandicoot: Time for some serious Pepper Power! (TRADEMARK HOWL) ROCKET PEPPER BAZOOKA SPICE!

Crash Bandicoot fired powerful nuclear hot spicy peppers from his bazooka and the peppers went into Mirimoto's mouth and burned her with nuclear hot spice.

Chompy Mage: Lets give this Chompy Hater a chomp she'll never forget! (As Chompy Puppet) YEAH! (Normal Voice) THE CHAMP OF CHOMP! CHOMPY BAZOOKA CHOMP!

Chompy Mage fired his Chompy Bazooka and it fired Chompy's that bit Mirimoto all over and she screamed in excruciating pain.

Laney: Time for the power of Life to disgrace this disgraceful Samurai!

Laney and the Life Skylanders: POWER OF PLANTS AND LIFE!

Laney and the Life Skylanders fired a powerful barrage of plants and thorns, fruits, vegetables, leaves and more at Mirimoto and they hit her all over and pulverized her all over. Mirimoto was defeated.

Nico: Miss Mirimoto, you have failed this country and as a samurai.

Vince: You have disgraced the honor of all Samurai and the ways of my ancestors.

Me: Seppuku is too good for you.

Laney: What's Seppuku?

Me: It's an ancient Japanese way of suicide. Whenever a Samurai is disgraced, they regain their honor by killing themselves by stabbing themselves with a dagger right through their hearts. It's been that way for centuries.

Qin: That's right.

Me: The Brave 12 defeated 3 powerful foes.

Bumble Blast: You know what would've made this even more awesome? If Samurai Jack helped out in the battle.

Me: That would've been cool. But Samurai Jack is back home in his time where he belongs.

Bumble Blast: That's true

Me: But you all did a great job.

Nico: Thanks J.D. It was so cool beating the Black Samurai and restoring the honor of the Samurai. Again.

Me: It sure was.

Miyumi: Indeed. Thank you all so much for helping us and my friends.

Me: (Kung fu bow) It was a great honor Miyumi.

Miyumi: (To the Viewers) Daphne is right about J.D. and his friends. They are good people and no one will ever tell them otherwise.

Me: You said it Miyumi.

Mirimoto was sentenced to spend the rest of her miserable life in Asia's toughest prison: The Bang Kwang Maximum Security Prison in Thailand, Asia's most ruthless maximum security prison. She was now the cellmate of an evil Sasuke we put in there years ago.

Evil Sasuke: So… what are you in for?

Mirimoto: Betrayed a trust so sacred that it took those Power Rangers from past and present to defeat me? What are you in for?

Evil Sasuke: I threatened to turn the world of ninjas into a wasteland… among other things.

(she backs away a bit)

Mirimoto: Get me OUTTA HERE

We also had an awesome statue of me, Varie, Vince, Lincoln, Lola, Lisa, Lily, Fu, Naruto, Sakura, Jessie and Jack as the Brave 12 erected in the middle of Tokyo for our awesome deeds of Destroying Aku and liberating the world of his evil and Scooby also had a statue of him erected in honor of helping to defeat the Black Samurai. It was so cool for him and us. We got photos of us and the statues. Miyumi became part of Mystery Inc.

Another Fanfiction Complete and another awesome Scooby Doo Movie complete.

Scooby Doo and the Samurai Sword was the coolest movie I've seen out of all of the Scooby Doo movies. It was awesome! NicoChan11 And GennaiArakida-XIV gave me the ideas. Thanks guys. Let me know what you all think. Next up is an awesome race around the planet Mars. Get ready to burn rubber through the red dust of the 4th Planet!

See you all next time.

Race Around Mars

At the Team Loud Phoenix Storm estate we were watching TV and reading books. We were watching Nature Documentaries.

Me: It's so cool that Gorillas can do all sorts of interesting things.

Lana: Boy you said it J.D.

The doorbell rang.

Me: I'll get that.

I went to the door and answered it and it was Bobbie Fletcher.

Bobbie Fletcher: Hey there J.D.

Me: Hey Bobbie.

Bobbie Fletcher: I have news. There's another race going on and you're going to love where it's at.

Me: Where is it at Bobbie?

Bobbie Fletcher: It's on the planet Mars.

Me: The planet Mars? Awesome! A race through the Martian Landscape will be an awesome and educational experience.

Bobbie Fletcher: Yep. It's a race around the planet like with Venus. And there's a special surprise for the race winner.

Me: Oh you know we'll be there Bobbie.

Bobbie Fletcher: Looking forward to it. See you all on Mars.

Me: Will do.

I went to tell everyone.

Lana: So the next race is on Mars!? Awesome!

Lisa: The planet Mars is an interesting and very exhilarating place of interest in all fields of science.

Me: I know. They say that it used to be much like Earth when the Solar System was still forming.

Bai Tza: I remember that we had to transfer Eustace to the Mars prison after the Queen of the Black Puddle got him out of his first prison.

Lana: I remember that. Eustace is a nasty bitter old crow.

Francesca: Grandpa Eustace may be nasty and bitter, but he's still family.

Courage: Mm-hmm. I agree with you Francesca.

Me: I remember that. But this is gonna be interesting. Mars used to be in every way like Earth millions of years ago and now we have a chance to see the whole planet when we race around the planet.

Muscle Man: You know who else likes to participate in races? My mom!

We laughed.

Me: Muscle Man, you always crack us up. But this is gonna be interesting for us.

Qin: Can I participate in the race too?

Me: Sure Qin. Anyone can join. We won all kinds of awesome races that took place all over the solar system. The first one we did was called the Gotham Royal York 500.

Qin: I saw that one on TV. That was so cool!

Nico: I'll never forget that one. That was an awesome race!

Me: It sure was. Next we raced around Grimsvotn Volcano in Iceland. Lori won that one.

Lori: I sure did. It was the first ever race I literally won.

Laney: Yep it sure was.

Lola: Next was the Offroad Mud Race around the city. I didn't participate in that one.

Laney: I remember that one. Next we had a huge race around the entire Solar System.

Qin: Wow! I remember that one! That was so cool how you guys raced around the planets like that.

Me: Yep we had to slingshot around the sun and go by each of the planets.

Qin: Wow! I saw the race in a cave in Asia and in London.

Me: I'll never forget those races. Next was a race through the Mariana Trench.

Qin: Wow! That is a deep place.

Me: 36,201 feet deep and with pitch black darkness and 16,000 pounds of water pressure at every corner we had to watch ourselves.

Lana: But it sure was an awesome race!

Me: It sure was. Next we raced on the planet Venus and that one was a dangerous one. We had to race through a completely inhospitable world. 900˚ Fahrenheit temperatures, scorching hot landscapes, sulfuric acid rain, dangerous conditions.

Qin: Wow! That is so cool!

Me: It was. Next was a race around Italy.

Nico: I remember that one. That was a dangerous one.

Me: It was. Then our most recent race that we were in was the Global Superrace.

Qin: I remember that one! That was so cool how you raced around the world!

Me: It was a 40,000 mile long race over an 8 hour period.

Nico: But in each race we always beat Dick Dastardly.

Me: We sure do.

Wes: Why haven't you thrown Dastardly in jail again?

Maria: Because he's good comedy relief.

Me: Yep. So what do you think Qin, you want to race?

Qin: Do I ever!? I will gladly join!

Me: Awesome! Carter, do any of you or the Red Power Rangers want to join us?

Carter Grayson: I'll join.

Wes Collins: Same here.

Andros: Count me in.

Aurico: (Alien Voice) I'll join as well.

Conner McKnight: I'll join too.

Leo Corbett: Same here.

Cole Evans: I'll join too.

Me: Awesome! It's race time guys!

We cheered wildly!

Me: Lets head to the garage and get to the racers!

We did so.

Horsea: Maria, can I ride with you in your race car?

Maria: Sure Horsea.

In the garage, Stacy Bolton was working on her car. She was covered in transmission fluid and filth.

Stacy: Whew! (Sees us) Oh hey guys.

Me: It's race time Stacy. We're going to the planet Mars for the next race.

Stacy: Mars!? That's gonna be so cool!

Nico: It sure is.

Maria: Stacy, when you were stuck as Shredgirl, did you drive any vehicles?

Stacy: I sure did. I drove a motorcycle and a monster truck.

Me: Cool! That's cool!

Lana: It sure is.

We got to work on our new racers.

Qin had an awesome new racer and her car looked like a Dodge Viper that was olive green and it had the scales of a Komodo Dragon on it and the headlights were the eyes of a Komodo Dragon. It was equipped with all kinds of weapons and features that would make all evil racers cringe in fear. It had the number 812 on the side and it said Qin's Komodo Dragon Venomcruiser.

Stacy's car was a pink Ferrari California car with a shark tail on the back, a shark fin on the top, shark teeth in the front on the grill, and it had an awesome super long chainsaw blade that pops out of the front and it's equipped with all kinds of weapons. It had the number 273 on the side and Stacy Bolton's Sawshark Shredder.

Leo Corbett's car was a red fire car that looked like an Aston Martin Vantage and it had fire colors and the red Galactabeast on the side.

It had the number 918 on the side and Leo Corbett's Fiery Galactic Lion Roadburner.

Cole Evans car looked like a Toyota Camry and it was red and it had a lion on it. The number 761 was on the side and it had the name Cole Evans Blazing Lion Wildcar.

Aurico's roadster looked like a submarine and it was filled with water so he could race in a water environment. It had the number 555 on it and it said Aurico's Aquitar Tsunami Surfer.

Andros's car looked like a miniature version of the Red Omega Zord and it had the number 288 on it and it said Andros's Stellar Rocket Speeder.

Carter Grayson had an exact duplicate of his Red Pyro Rescue Zord as his racer. It had the number 1 on it and it said Carter Grayson's Fiery Rescue Racer.

Connor McKnight's racer was a Monster Truck with a Tyrannosaurus Head, tail and claws on it and it was red and it had all kinds of awesome weapons. It had the number 734 on it and it said Connor McKnight's Tyranno Gravedigger.

Wes Collins's racer looked like a bullet car. (Superman's Bulleteers Car.) It was red and it had the number 3,000 on it and it said Wes Collins Bullet Through Time.

Muscle Man had his own racer. It was his trailer that he turned into an awesome monster truck.

With that we were ready for another awesome race. Our new transport for racing was now the Lightspeed Rescue Supertrain and it was in a new supercarrier form. It had cars two and three on the sides and number 1 was on the front and cars 6, 7 and 8 were used as wings for flight in space and Max Solarzord was on top.

Carter Grayson: Wow! J.D. you sure know how to build awesome zords.

Me: We watched you guys on TV for years and you tend to learn new things TV doesn't show.

Wes Collins: That is awesome!

Kelsey Winslow: It sure is.

Nico: Mars here we come.

Me: Setting course for Mars.

We were off to the planet Mars.

We were flying in space and it was so cool using the Lightspeed Rescue Zords for space travel.

Laney: Wow! Look at all the stars. There's so many of them.

Me: There's over 100 billion stars in our galaxy Laney. They float up there like diamonds in the sky.

Lola: Wow! It's so awesome!

Lisa: Indeed it is.

Me: Here we are guys. We have arrived.

We arrived at the planet Mars. The 4th Planet from the sun and sitting in our Solar System like an old rusty nail. Covered with red dust full of iron and a major scientific enigma. We landed in Chasma Boreale and it was at the edge of the North Pole of Mars. We unloaded our racers and we got ready for the most amazing race in the Solar System.

Me: This is gonna be so awesome!

Nico: It sure is J.D. I'm just as excited as everyone else.

In Paris, France back on Earth, Marinette, Alya, Alix, Nathanial, Juleka, Chloe, Sabrina, Adrien, Kim, Nino, Mylene, Rose, and Ivan were all in Marinette's place watching the race. Marinette smiled, knowing that for once, Lila wasn't there to manipulate her friends and ruin everything.

Marinette: So, who do you think's going to win the race?

Alya: My money is on J.D. How about we bet to see who wins?

Adrien: I'll bet on J.D. He's gonna help me and my family get back together.

Chloe: Same here.

Juleka: My money is on J.D.

Rose: The Red Power Rangers.

Nino: I'll bet on J.D.

Sabrina: This is gonna be so cool! But my money is on J.D.

Ivan: Same for J.D.

Kim: J.D. is gonna win. I am sure of it.

Mylene: Me too.

Alex: I am rooting for him.

Marinette: Adrien, are you upset that your father is Hawk Moth?

Adrien: I was at first. But I now realize that he's just trying to bring mom back. But I know that J.D. can help me and my family.

Alya: But you know that your dad is gonna have to go to jail after J.D. defeats him right?

Adrien: I know. But I love my dad.

Marinette: I'm gonna call J.D. real quick.

Back on Mars I was getting ready when my phone rang.

Bai Tza saw it and she got it.

Bai Tza: Hey boss, you have a phone call. It's from Paris.

Me: Wonder who's calling from there.

I answered.

Me: Bonjour?

Marinette: Hey J.D. it's Marinette and it's an honor to talk to you.

Me: Hello Marinette. It's a pleasure to talk to you too. Nico told me so much about you.

Marinette: I know. He tells me so much about you every day about you and all your adventures.

Me: I know. He told me so much about you and how you stop Hawk Moth and his Akumatized villains. I know you're thinking that I am going to kill Hawk Moth. But Nico assured me that I would never do that after what we found out about him. I know Hawk Moth is trying to bring back Adrien's family and I think it's good that he's trying to do that because no family should ever be without a mom.

Marinette: I agree with you J.D. Thank you. Adrien will be so happy that he'll have his mom back.

Me: I will be too. And he also cares about Adrien deeply as a loving father. But Marinette you have to be careful around Lila. She has the same insanity that Azula had before Lily and me cured her.

Marienette: I will be careful. Nico gave us a powerful force field generator that prevents Lila from finding us and see what we do.

Me: Good thinking for him. I'm glad he's looking out for you all.

Marinette: I know. But good luck in the race on Mars today. We're all rooting for you all.

Me: Thanks Marinette. Don't let Lila know that we're on to her. We're gonna put her in the Saturn Insane Asylum when we help you out.

Marinette: Okay. Thank you J.D. Have fun in the race.

Me: Will do. Thank you. Bye.

We hung up.

We were ready.

Dick Dastardly appeared and he was ready.

Wildrider: Long time no see, Dastardly!

Dick Dastardly: Wildrider. You are gonna eat my dust.

Me: Like in the other 726 races you failed. Cheaters never prosper.

Dick Dastardly: We'll see about that.

Billy Natson then appeared.

Billy Natson: And welcome to another awesome race and another awesome day for us. Hello I'm Billy Natson and we have an awesome treat for you all today. We are going to be racing around the entirety of the planet Mars and with us we have the world famous Team Loud Phoenix Storm and their awesome racers. Wow! You ready to race J.D.?

Me: You know I am Billy! Lets Burn Rubber Baby!

Horsea (looks at the cameras): Hi, everybody!

Billy Natson: You're all ready to race. Love that racing spirit guys. During the race there's a special contest. We have a briefcase hidden out there in the Martian landscape somewhere and it is full of $10 Novemdecillion in a huge check and if you find it in any part of the race route, it's gonna be yours.

Me: Wow! That's a lot of money!

Nico: Whoa!

A Novemdecillion is 10^60. That's 1 with 60 zeroes.

Lori: That is literally a lot of money!

Lana: No kidding!

Billy Natson: It sure is a lot. And you can give it to anyone or keep it.

Me: Nice!

Billy Natson: Are you all ready?

We cheered.

Krista came out with the green flag ready.

Me: Here we go.

Krista: Racers on your marks!

We were ready.

Krista: Get set…

We were revving our cars up.

Krista: Rev up and GOOOOOO!

We gunned it and we were off!

Billy Natson: AND THEY'RE OFF!

We were racing through Vastitas Borealis and it was a flat landscape.

Laney: Wow! It's so dry and deserted here.

Me: Mars is an endless desert. Its been like this for billions of years.

We passed by Milankovič Crater.

Milankovič is a crater in the Diacria quadrangle of Mars, having a diameter of 118.4 km. It is located at 54.7° north latitude and 146.7° west longitude. The crater is easy to see on Mars photographs because it lies north of Olympus Mons and sits by itself in the flat plain of Vastitas Borealis. It is named after Milutin Milanković (1879-1958), a Serbian geophysicist and astrophysicist.

Next we drove into Utopia Planitia and we saw the sight where the Viking Spacecrafts landed back in the 1970's.

Me: This is the very sight where the Viking Spacecrafts landed back in the 1970's.

Nico: I remember reading about that in history class. That was so cool.

Lana: That is really cool!

Lola: Viking is one of my favorite Space Missions.

Lisa: Indeed it is Lola. The Viking Satellites landed on Mars back on July 20th, 1976 and it took photographs of the surface of Mars.

Me: That's right.

Viking 1 was the first of two spacecraft (along with Viking 2) sent to Mars as part of NASA's Viking program.[2] On July 20, 1976, it became the second spacecraft to soft-land on Mars, and the first to successfully perform its mission. (The first spacecraft to soft-land on Mars was the Soviet Union's Mars 3 on December 2, 1971, which stopped transmitting after 14.5 seconds.) Viking 1 held the record for the longest Mars surface mission of 2307 days (over 6 1⁄4 years) or 2245 Martian solar days, until that record was broken by Opportunity on May 19, 2010.

We saw the Viking Lander still here on Mars.

Me: And there it is 43 years later.

Nico: That's the Viking Lander all right. I can't believe that it's still here even after 43 Earth years have passed.

Lori: I know. How long is the orbit of Mars?

Me: 687 Earth Days or 1.88 years.

Lily: So just short of two years.

Lisa: That is exactly right.

We were then driving through Arabia Terra and it was a vast cratered terrain area on Mars. We drove on and we came across the largest volcano on Mars and the tallest mountain in the whole Solar System. It was OLYMPUS MONS!

Olympus Mons ( /əˌlɪmpəs ˈmɒnz, oʊ-, -ˈmɒns/; Latin for Mount Olympus) is a very large shield volcano on the planet Mars. The volcano has a height of nearly 22 km (13.6 mi or 72,000 ft) as measured by the Mars Orbiter Laser Altimeter (MOLA). Olympus Mons is about two and a half times Mount Everest's height above sea level. It is the largest volcano, the tallest planetary mountain, and the second tallest mountain currently discovered in the Solar System, comparable to Rheasilvia on Vesta. In terms of surface area, Olympus Mons is the second-largest volcano in the solar system, second only to Earth's Tamu Massif. Olympus Mons is the youngest of the large volcanoes on Mars, having formed during Mars's Hesperian Period. It had been known to astronomers since the late 19th century as the albedo feature Nix Olympica (Latin for "Olympic Snow"). Its mountainous nature was suspected well before space probes confirmed its identity as a mountain.

The volcano is located in Mars's western hemisphere at approximately 18.65°N 226.2°E, just off the northwestern edge of the Tharsis bulge. The western portion of the volcano lies in the Amazonis quadrangle (MC-8) and the central and eastern portions in the adjoining Tharsis quadrangle (MC-9).

Two impact craters on Olympus Mons have been assigned provisional names by the International Astronomical Union. They are the 15.6 km (9.7 mi)-diameter Karzok crater (18°25′N 131°55′W) and the 10.4 km (6.5 mi)-diameter Pangboche crater (17°10′N 133°35′W). The craters are notable for being two of several suspected source areas for shergottites, the most abundant class of Martian meteorites.

Me: Wow! There it is guys! Olympus Mons.

Nico: Unbelievable! So that's Olympus Mons.

Lori: Look how huge it is!

Nicole: Olympus Mons is over 72,000 feet high and it has a base as big as the whole country of France.

Lisa: Olympus Mons covers an area of 120,000 square miles and its area at the base would cover most of France.

Marinette and her friends were watching us slingshot around Olympus Mons at blazing speed.

Marinette: Wow! Olympus Mons is huge!

Adrien: I never knew it was that big.

Alya: Amazing!

Juleka: This is the coolest part of the planet Mars that we've ever seen.

Alya: They're about to head into that canyon.

We weren't heading into any old canyon. We were heading into the longest and deepest canyon in the whole Solar System: The Valles Marineris

Valles Marineris (Latin for Mariner Valleys, named after the Mariner 9 Mars orbiter of 1971-72 which discovered it) is a system of canyons that runs along the Martian surface east of the Tharsis region. At more than 4,000 km (2,500 mi) long, 200 km (120 mi) wide and up to 7 km (23,000 ft) deep, Valles Marineris is one of the largest canyons of the Solar System, surpassed in length only by the rift valleys of Earth.

Valles Marineris is located along the equator of Mars, on the east side of the Tharsis Bulge, and stretches for nearly a quarter of the planet's circumference. The canyon system starts in the west with Noctis Labyrinthus; proceeding to the east are Tithonium and Ius chasmata, then Melas, Candor and Ophir chasmata, then Coprates Chasma, then Ganges, Capri and Eos chasmata; finally it empties into an outflow channel region containing chaotic terrain that ends in the basin of Chryse Planitia.

It has been recently suggested that Valles Marineris is a large tectonic "crack" in the Martian crust. Most researchers agree that this formed as the crust thickened in the Tharsis region to the west, and was subsequently widened by erosion.[citation needed] Near the eastern flanks of the rift, there appear to be channels that may have been formed by water or carbon dioxide. It has also been proposed that Valles Marineris is a large channel formed by the erosion of lava flowing from the flank of Pavonis Mons.

Nico: Wow! This canyon is huge!

Me: This is the Valles Marineris canyon. It's the longest and deepest canyon in the Solar System. It's 2,500 miles long and 23,000 feet deep and it would cover an area of 2 thirds of the continental United States.

Everyone: WOW!

Luna: Dude, that is so amazing!

Luan: It sure is Gorge-ous! (Laughs to Rimshot) Get it?

Me: (Laughs) That was a good one Luan!

Nico: That was funny.

Lana: This canyon is so cool!

Lola: If Mars was like Earth, would this whole place be filled with water?

Me: It would Lola. This whole place was filled with water millions of years ago.

Lily: Wow.

Then I saw something shining up ahead buried in the red dust. It was the briefcase containing the money!

Me: It's the Briefcase with the money inside!

Dick Dastardly: That money is mine!

Me: I don't think so Dastardly!

I accelerated.

Muscle Man: You know who else likes ramming cheaters off of race tracks? My… Mom! (rams Dastardly's car)

Dick Dastardly crashed into the canyon wall.

CRASH!

Dick Dastardly: DRAT! DRAT! DRAT AND TRIPLE DRAT!

Nico: Dick Dastardly you have failed this race!

I pressed a button and out came a robot grabber. I grabbed the briefcase with it and it pulled it in. Out of a compartment was the Briefcase and it was covered in Red Dust.

Me: I'll have to wash that off when we get back.

We were driving on and we were driving through Hellas Planitia and we saw huge Dust Devils.

Lori: Wow! Those dust devils are literally huge!

Me: Mars has the biggest dust devils in the whole Solar System. They can grow up to 5 miles tall.

Lori: Wow! That is huge!

Me: They are much bigger than the tornadoes on Earth and they are just as powerful as a Category 1 hurricane.

Lily: That's incredible!

Nico: It sure is.

Me: And also Mars has the most violent dust storms of any planet in the Solar System. Look.

Up ahead we saw a massive swirling dust storm and it was powerful. It looked like a powerful wall of red dust blowing at incredible speed.

Nico: Wow! That is a powerful dust storm.

Lori: It sure looks powerful!

Me: It is. One time here back in 2018 there was a massive global dust storm that covered one fourth of the whole planet and it brought our exploration of the planet to a halt.

Lincoln: I remember reading about that!

Lucy Loud: That was terrifying. But I can never understand that stuff.

We saw up ahead and we were looking at the Mars South Pole and in front of it was the Finish Line.

Nico: There's the finish line!

Me: Lets go!

We put the pedal to the metal and gunned for it!

We were really racing hard and we were really going for it. It was going to be a deadly fight!

Billy Natson: And here comes the first racer to cross the finish line! It's J.D. KNUDSON!

Everyone on Earth and everyone watching the race cheered wildly!

Lincoln and Nico came in 2nd and Lori and Carter Grayson came in 3rd.

We went to the winners circle and I was given an awesome red Swarovski Crystal Trophy in the shape of the planet Mars with a car racing around it and it was a beautiful trophy.

Lincoln: Way to go J.D.!

Me: Thanks buddy. This was so awesome racing around Mars.

Nico: It sure was! Way to go on winning the Mars Race.

Me: Thanks man. I can't wait to see where the next race will be.

We went back to Earth and we celebrated by going to Wing

Kingdom. It was great race and an awesome fun time.

Mordecai: Congratulations on winning that race J.D.

Me: Thanks Mordecai. It was so awesome seeing all of the planet Mars and learning about what was there.

Rigby: I can tell. But congratulations dude.

Mordecai: How did it feel being in an awesome race like that Muscle Man?

Muscle Man: It was really cool! I loved every second of it!

Nico: We all did.

Me: Yep. And we're not in it for the fame and fortune. We're in it for the fun.

Lana: Yep. It's awesome.

Me: And besides, it was so cool taking our cars inside the Lightspeed Rescue Supertrain Megazord modified by us.

Nico: It sure was.

Carter Grayson: But it was so awesome racing in our first race.

Me: First times for everything Carter. (To the viewers) And remember folks, if you love watching racing on TV, be sure to watch for your favorite race car driver to win. It's not about winning, it's about fun.

Laney: You said it J.D.

Me: Yep.

Qin: It was so awesome being in my first race. I can't wait to see what the next race will hold.

Me: It's gonna be fun wherever it will be.

We had a great dinner. I decided to give the money I got during the race to Marinette and her friends to have them move to America after we defeat Hawk Moth.

THE END

Another Fanfiction Complete and another Awesome Race in the books.

A Race Around the planet Mars appeared out of the blue for me and I thought it would be so cool to go around the planet Mars. For decades we've explored around Mars with satellites and unmanned ships. It's so cool at what we saw there. NicoChan11 gave me the ideas for this one. Thanks man. And nbwatts, this story is for you dude. Let me know what you all think. Next up is a chapter for the Goosebumps book Revenge of The Lawn Gnomes and we're going to smash some lawn gnomes that give all gnomes everywhere a really bad name!

See you all next time.

Revenge of The Lawn Gnomes

At the estate we were watching TV and reading books.

Qin: J.D. it was so cool racing with you guys on Mars.

Me: Glad you had fun Qin. You did really good for your first race.

Qin: I sure did.

Lincoln: It was so cool learning and seeing all of Mars. I never even knew that Olympus Mons was so big.

Laney: I read about it in books and pictures. But never in person or up close.

Nico: That was really cool seeing the biggest mountain in the Solar System. 72,000 feet high. Wow.

May: That was really something.

G1 Prowl: It sure was. I never ever knew that Mars had all that on there.

Me: Mars is an amazing planet. It's been an amazing scientific enigma for decades.

Lana: I know.

Then the phone rang.

G1 Prowl: I'll get that.

He got the phone and answered it.

G1 Prowl: Hello, Team Loud Phoenix Storm estate. (Garble) Nico, it's for you. (Hands him the phone)

Nico: (takes the phone) Hello?

Waller: Hello, Mr. Chan. I hope I didn't catch you at a bad time.

Nico: Waller?

Waller: Meet me at my place for lunch. We need to have a talk.

Nico: Can I bring some of the others with me?

Waller: If you want.

Nico: Okay. (Hangs up)

Me: Who is that Nico?

Nico: That's Amanda Waller.

Me: Ms. Waller? What does she want?

Nico: She wants to meet me for lunch.

Me: Okay. It must be important. Onua, Maria, May, Lana, Laney, you better go with him just in case.

Laney: Okay.

Onua: Okay.

They went to the house of Amanda Waller.

Qin: Who is Amanda Waller?

Me: She used to be one of the enemies of the Justice League. She was the creator of the Suicide Squad.

I went over her history.

---

Amanda Waller was the campaign manager for Lex Luthor during his bid to become President of the Untied States. Luthor often gave Waller the task of covering up his many crimes as a private citizen. Luthor won his campaign for President in no small part thanks to Waller and rewarded her with much power and influence in the government. Though Luthor's true colors would eventually be exposed by the Justice League of America and he would lose his station as President, Waller herself remained a public official somewhat loyal to Luthor and was never explicitly indicated in his schemes.

Over the course of the comics Waller would remain a reliable contact for Lex Luthor, although one not slavishly subservient, as she cared more about keeping the clout she had rather than her history with Lex Luthor. Waller continued to be a thorn in the side of heroes like Batman, the Question, Green Arrow and Superman, covering-up or orchestrating various federal initiatives that involved exploiting meta-humans. This included her organization of the Suicide Squad. Waller's Suicide Squad initiative took professional villains looking at death sentences and gave them a chance to work off their sentence for the government as a special black opts unit. This placed several high threat villains like the Clock King, Deadshot and Plastique squarely into Waller's hands once arrested. As the name implies the Suicide Squad's lives were forfeit if they failed their mission or attempted to welsh on their agreed upon service.

When DC later rebooted their series into the New 52, Waller was given a much younger and slimmer appearance. In this continuity, other than the Suicide Squad, she is also involved with Team 7 and is one of the founders of the Justice League of America to undermine the main Justice League team (in this continuity the JLA is a separate group from the JL). Following the release of the DC Rebirth event, Waller was returned to her more classic appearance.

Television History

Amanda Waller was one of the stand-out antagonists of the Justice League Unlimited cartoon series. In the show, Waller's history is reworked as an already influential government official and the puppeteer of a shadow government of Cadmus. In the show, Waller helped establish Cadmus after Superman's assault on Earth while controlled by Darkseid. Though Superman would be freed from Darkseid's control and set out to make amends, many officials began to consider back-up plans to protect the US and world in general if one of their superheroes ever went rogue again. When Earth was invaded by the Justice Lords, versions of the Justice

League from an alternate reality, officials previously only spooked began to put together an initiative called Cadmus and Amanda Waller was it's founding member. Waller devoted herself to preparing for the next time the Justice League decided to turn on humanity by doing things like growing her own bio engineered super-heroes, programmed to be loyal to her, collecting DNA from Supergirl to make a clone loyal to Cadmus, spying on the members of the Justice League, kidnapping and attempting to brainwash mutants from around the country as an elite anti-superhero crew, freeing Lex Luthor from jail and indeed sponsoring his bid for President of the United States. Lex Luthor gave Cadmus a one of a kind prototype gun created to permanently rob a meta-human's super powers used once to de-power the Justice Lords, in exchange for the gun and his financial backing of Cadmus to get it off the ground Amanda Waller was Luthor's friend in high-places, although she never fully trusted him.

Luthor turned on Waller and Cadmus by hijacking the Watch Tower's energy gun and attempting to destroy Cadmus' base of operations, fortunately Waller had the foresight to move the base before-hand fearing implication if the Justice League raided the base. Waller followed up on a lead from Batman about the attack being controlled remotely from an outside source and quickly found the signal linking back to Luthor. Luthor had set off the attack to implicate the Justice League, get rid of his debts to Cadmus and destroy any obstacles that could shut down his grand scheme to up-load his brain into an advanced android based on the Amazo android, granting him what her saw as god-hood. Waller, arrived just in time to destroy the android Lex was planning on using as a new body. As the Justice League arrived, Amanda shot Luthor point blank range with an energy rifle as thanks for his treachery, however his body regenerates revealing Lex Luthor was an avatar for Brainiac, unbeknownst to Luthor, and his decisions up until that point had been subconsciously influenced by a piece of the evil AI implanted as genetic code in Luthor long ago. Waller still had a back up-plan though and siced the Justice League on Brainiac/Luthor when he proved more than she was prepared for. After the experience and a public scandal revealing the influences of Cadmus in Luthor's political campaign Cadmus is shut down by the government, though Amanda and other heads of Cadmus are spared arrest much of their previous official powers were destroyed, reducing most of them to normal bureaucrats.

Amanda still had the right clout to make things happen behind the scenes though, just not in any official capacity anymore and knew enough to pretend she had been robbed of all her influence like the other members of Cadmus. 65 years after the events of Justice League Unlimited's era, Amanda Waller is still alive and kicking as a retired but still powerful woman feared in underworld circles. In her old age Waller admits that at a certain point she began to fear less of what would happen if the super-heroes of the world went rogue and more of what the world would do without them, this mentality would push her to clone Bruce Wayne and set up psychological conditions to turn the young boy into the next Batman. The assassin she sent to kill the boy's apparent parents had a history with Batman and refused to pull the trigger, however the boy's father would be killed anyway thanks to Mr. Fixx and Derek Powers, triggering events as Waller had foreseen even without becoming an orphan like the original Batman.

Qin: Whoa! She must be really clever.

Me: She is. She was the head of a top secret project called Cadmus. It was designed to help destroy the Justice League. But what it really was for was to give Lex Luthor superpowers. In the end, Lex Luthor double-crossed her and we sent Lex Luthor to prison where he ultimately died a horrible and agonizing death from Severe Kryptonite Poisoning.

Qin: Wow!

Lola: (Older Voice) I remember that.

Kira Ford: Lex Luthor was a monster. He got what he deserved.

Me: Yeah. And she was trying to help Lex Luthor become President. But luckily that didn't happen thanks to us and the Justice League for exposing all of the crimes of Lex Luthor.

Qin: Thank goodness.

Jessica Namiko: He got what was coming to him.

Me: Yep. And not only that, but she was also the head of another project: Project Batman Beyond. It was supposed to begin 3 years from now.

I went over how it went out and Qin was shocked.

Qin: Whoa! So Terry McGinnis A.K.A. Batman 2039 is really the son of Bruce Wayne?

Me: Yep. It was quite a shock for him. The reason this project was conducted in the first place was because the world always needs a Batman. Just like the world needs Team Loud Phoenix Storm, the Justice League, The Avengers and many more heroes.

Qin: I can understand that. Bruce Wayne is an amazing man and an awesome detective and hero.

Lisa: Indeed he is.

---

Nico and some of the others were at Waller's home. Onua was currently eating steak.

Onua: This steak is so good!

Waller: Glad you think so.

Nico: Is there any reason why you called me here, Waller?

Waller: Well, Superman told me that there's been tension between you and J.D. over Hawk Moth's fate.

Nico: I wouldn't call it tension. More like me being worried that J.D. might kill Hawk Moth and end up like Superman's Justice Lord counterpart.

Waller: There was a time when I thought Superman was going down that same path as well. That's the reason why me and several others created Project Cadmus. Of course, we were being used by Lex Luthor at the time. But then, I saw Superman and the Justice League prove their good intentions when they, unlike their Justice Lord selves, chose not to kill Luthor. Not to mention that they were able to save Flash from the Speed Force, proving that like all of us, they're human. From that day forward, I knew Superman was incorruptible. Just like J.D. is incorruptible as well. Sure, he might be a bit brutal against villains. But he's just doing his job of protecting the universe from evil.

Nico: So you're basically okay with the fact that he and the others killed the Suicide Squad.

Waller: To be fair, I declared Task Force X a failed project when Lawton's group sided with the Joker on an unauthorized rampage in Gotham City. It's a good thing that Harley Quinn, Captain Boomerang, and El Diablo were the only members to survive the battle.

Lana: I remember that.

Laney: It's good that we killed the Joker and ended him for good.

Onua: I heard about that. It's good that he's dead. But there will always be villains out here that pose a problem.

Nico: Thanks for your time, Waller. (smiles) You're actually not so bad after all.

Waller: Well, you have every right to be a little defensive around me.

Nico: I know.

They went back to the estate.

---

Back at the estate, Nico came back.

Onslaught: How was it?

Nico: Pretty good. I actually have faith that Hawk Moth will be going to jail and that J.D. won't end up becoming a corrupt hero.

Nico told us what Waller wanted.

Me: I'm glad Waller helped you out and assured that I would never hurt people like that. Hawk Moth will go to jail for his crimes. I told Marinette that I would not kill Hawk Moth and that I would send him to prison. There is a very big difference between us and the Justice Lords. The Justice Lords took everyones free will and enforced global Martial Law and it was bad. They abused their power and took control of the whole planet after overthrowing the government and assassinating the president, Lex Luthor. We are completely different. We are not like the Justice Lords. They abused their power. Where we will not.

Lana: That's right.

Fire: (Spanish Accent) That's for sure. No one likes the Justice Lords.

Ice: (Norwegian Accent) I agree with that. What the Justice Lords did was awful.

Me: You got that right Tora.

Nico: At least I know that Hawk Moth will be brought to justice.

William: To think that Gristlepuss was the one who popped that idea in your head in the first place.

Maria: Me and the others should have just knocked her out the minute she walked into the Krusty Krab.

Varie: I agree with you both on that.

Me: Me too. But I'm glad that Waller was able to help you out man.

Nico: Thanks dude.

Me: Later today I'll take you to see one of the Justice Lords.

Nico: Okay. Who is it?

Me: Justice Lord Superman.

Nico: Are you sure?

Me: I'm positive. Just to clarify things with us and the comparison between us.

Nico: That makes sense. Okay then.

Later we went to have lunch.

---

Later we were looking through Nico's Goosebumps Books.

Me: Lets see here. How about this one? Beware, the Snowman?

Nico: No. Lets save that one for next month.

Me: Okay. Hmm. How about Ghost Camp?

Nico: Good choice. But we'll do that one later.

Me: Okay.

Nico: Here's our target. Revenge of The Lawn Gnomes.

Me: That one is an interesting one. And that one I can sympathize with.

Carly Beth Caldwell: How so J.D.?

Me: Those Lawn Gnomes were mischief makers and that it was in their nature. For centuries in the worlds of folklore and Alchemy, Gnomes have caused a lot of mischief and they like to do all kinds of crazy things.

Nico: That's right.

Dexter: I too have had problems with gnomes.

Me: How so Dexter?

Dexter: During an experiment I destroyed my boots and Dee Dee gave me the idea to summon Shoe Gnomes. They fixed my boots, but they turned my whole lab into a shoe factory. We learned that to get rid of them we have to kick them in the rear to make them disappear.

Me: Wow. That's amazing Dexter.

Nico: I didn't know that there were different kinds of gnomes.

Lisa: I am inclined to agree.

Harry Potter: (British Accent) I faced gnomes all the time when I went to Hogwarts and they were a major nuissance.

Me: But these gnomes in this story were not villains. They just wanted to rescue their friends.

Nico: I know. But there might be some rogue gnomes out there that are causing trouble.

Lincoln: Without a doubt and we have to be ready for them.

Me: But how do we kill a gnome? They are said to be immortal creatures.

Laney: Let me see here. I remember that the best way is to blast them with a Bazooka, Throw them into a Volcano and those are the only methods I know.

Me: There are no volcanoes around here. So Bazookas we'll have to go with.

Then the alarm went off.

Me: Uh oh.

We went to the computer and we saw numerous gnomes attacking the small town of Dawson, Minnesota. Located near the border between South Dakota and Minnesota and it is known as the lawn gnome capital of the world. We saw the town completely under siege by rampaging gnomes and they were destroying everything!

Me: Dawson, Minnesota!?

Nico: That place is under heavy attack!

Natilee: We got to get over there!

Me: Arm yourselves with bazookas everyone!

We got a lot of bazookas and ammo and we were off to Dawson, Minnesota.

DAWSON, MINNESOTA

(Battle Los Angeles Deployment Theme plays)

We arrived at Dawson, Minnesota and we arrived at an incredibly shocking sight. We saw the whole town completely engulfed in flames. Massive fiery explosions were blowing the buildings apart and igniting everything into a raging inferno. The whole town was totally under siege as gunfire, missiles, tanks, and bazooka fire was blowing apart everything.

Me: Holy shit!

Nico: My god! This whole town is totally under fire!

Lori: There must be thousands of them.

Lincoln: This is horrible!

Me: But we have to be ready for anything. We're facing creatures that are only 3 feet tall and we're going to be in for one helluva battle. This could be one of the most difficult battles we've ever faced.

Nico: No kidding. The damage done by the gnomes was not as bad as this was.

Lana: These gnomes make all the gnomes everywhere look bad.

With us were Joe and Mindy Burton and two gnomes named Hap and Chip.

Hap: (Irish Accent) Thank you for helping us J.D. You are everything we heard about lad.

Me: You're welcome Hap.

Nico: (to Hap and Chip) It's good to know that you two aren't bad. But you still have to apologize to Joe's family and friends for the trouble you caused after we deal with your rogue members. But not Mr. Mccal. You don't have to apologize to him.

Chip: (Irish Accent) I know.

Me: We'll worry about that later. But right now we have a battle to fight.

Joe Burton: We have to stop these gnomes!

Me: We will Joe. Team Loud Phoenix Storm will make them all pay. These gnomes picked the wrong people to mess with.

We flew in and landed and we saw the gnomes and they were armed with knives and more.

Me: Attack!

We fired everything from energy blasts, to bazooka blasts. We were really letting the gnomes having it. Massive fiery explosions were blowing them apart and splattering their blood and guts all over the place as they were dying.

Troy, Gia, and Noah: Legendary Ranger Mode: Sun Flare Squad!

They turned into the Sun Vulcan Rangers from 1982. Troy Burrows turned into the Red Sun Flare Ranger, Noah Carver turned into the Blue Sun Flare Ranger and Gia Moran turned into the Yellow Sun

Flare Ranger.

Rogue Gnome: Only three Rangers from this group? This'll be easy!

Me: Don't count on it you pipsqueak!

Emma Goodall turned into a Pink Sun Flare Ranger, Jake Halling turned into the Green Sun Flare Ranger and Orion turned into the Silver Sun Flare Ranger.

Emma Goodall: We have new forms as well!

Jake Goodall: That's right!

Orion: Your crimes will never be forgiven!

We went at the gnomes and it was a bloody and ferocious battle! I slashed a gnome and fired my bazooka and it sent him into the air where it exploded and blew him apart into blood and flaming guts. Varie got a bunch of gnomes wet with her water powers and they turned into mud. Because gnomes represent Earth on the Alchemical Elements, they turned into mud. Lincoln fired powerful blasts of lightning and electrocuted the gnomes all over. Troy Burrows fired powerful blasts of fire with his VulEagle and incinerated some of the gnomes and reduced them to ash. Noah Carver fired a powerful blast of water and foam from his VulShark and melted a bunch of gnomes. Gia Moran used her VulPanther and opened a crack in the Earth and the Gnomes fell into a deep crack that lead into the Earth's Mantle where they were incinerated in an instant. Jake Halling used his VulCondor and fired powerful blasts of wind that blew the gnomes away. It was awesome! Emma Goodall used her VulBull and fired powerful blasts of lightning that electrocuted a lot of gnomes on contact and they were reduced to ash. Orion used his Silver VulBear and he opened portals that lead into the sun and some of the gnomes were sucked into it and vaporized in the fire of the Sun.

Nico: That was awesome!

Emma Goodall: It sure was.

Me: Yeah!

Troy Burrows: Time for some power of blue!

Megaforce Rangers: Legendary Blue Ranger Mode!

The Megaforce Rangers turned into some of the Blue Rangers. Troy Burrows turned into the Navy Blue Ninja Storm Ranger, Noah Carver turned into the Blue Dino Thunder Ranger, Jake Halling turned into the R.P.M. Blue Ranger, Gia Moran turned into the Mystic Force Blue Ranger, Emma Goodall turned into the Dino Charge Blue Ranger and Orion turned into the Blue Samurai Ranger.

Rogue Gnome (laughs): What's the matter, Rangers? Feeling Blue?

Me: Shut the fuck up you freak!

My Dark Orb detector went off and it showed that the Rogue Gnome has a Dark Orb on him that is allowing him to multiply.

Me: He has a Dark Orb on him!

Nico: That freakish gnome has failed this universe!

Me: And he will die like the rest of them!

We went at the rogue gnomes again and we were really letting them have it.

Bat Spin: (Transylvanian Accent) You morons give Gnomes a bad name!

Me: They sure do!

I punched the Rogue Gnomes in the face and slash them with my sword and fired energy blasts at them and blew them up. Nico fired blasts of fire energy and burned them into nothing. Vince fired powerful lava blasts and melted them, Carol fired powerful blasts of atomic energy and obliterated them into nothing. Girl Jordan fired powerful blasts of water and they melted most of the gnomes. Troy Burrows fired a powerful blast of blue lightning from his Stag Breaker and it electrocuted some of the gnomes. Noah Carver fired powerful blasts of energy from his Tricera Shield and it hit the gnomes and rammed them down. Jake Halling fired powerful energy blasts from his Turbo Cannon and blew the gnomes apart. Gia Moran fired powerful blasts of water from her Magi Staff and drenched them all over. Turning them into mud. Emma Goodall fired power blasts of energy from the Stego Shield and a Spirit Stegosaurus slammed into the gnomes and knocked them down, Orion was firing blue energy blasts from his Hydro Bow and blowing the gnomes apart. We were tearing them apart.

Me: Time for some teamwork against these pipsqueaks!

William: Right sir! GIGANTION CYBER KEY POWER!

The Gigantion Cyber Planet Key went into his blaster and it enhanced his blasters firepower 100-fold.

Onslaught: Lets get them! CYBER KEY POWER!

The Gigantion Cyber Planet Key went into his back and it enhanced his Photon Missiles 100-fold.

William and Onslaught: LIGHTNING PHOTON SUPERBOMB BARRAGE!

William fired powerful blasts of lightning and Onslaught fired powerful Photon Missiles and they hit the gnomes and exploded with the power of 7500 tons of TNT.

KRABBBBBBBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOO

The explosion obliterated a bunch of gnomes in a massive fiery explosion.

Onua: Time for some pain from the earth! MATA NUI CYBER KEY POWER!

The Mata Nui Cyber Planet Key went into Onua's arm device and it enhanced his Earth powers 100-fold.

Prowl: Time for these gnomes to suffer. CYBER KEY POWER!

The Earth Cyber Planet Key went into his back and enhanced his missiles 100-fold.

Onua and Prowl: VOLCANIC MISSILE ROCKSTORM!

Onua fired powerful red hot rocks and Prowl fired powerful wire-guided missiles and they hit the gnomes and incinerated them in a powerful explosion.

KRABBBBBBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOO

We destroyed all the gnomes and all that was left was the lead rogue gnome.

Me: You are all that's left. Lets show this fucked up parasite what happens when you mess with our home.

Hap: Aye! Lets do it! Ready Chip?

Chip: Aye! Ready brother!

Hap & Chip: SHAMROCK LEAFSTORM BLIZZARD!

Hap & Chip fired a powerful blizzard of leaves and shamrocks and they hit the lead rogue gnome and cut him up all over.

Joe Burton: Lets get him sis!

Mindy Burton: With pleasure bro!

Joe & Mindy Burton: FIRE & ICE NITROGEN FIRESTORM!

Joe & Mindy Burton fired a massive blast of liquid nitrogen and it froze the lead Rogue Gnome in place.

Lucy Loud: It's time for this monster to face the darkness of the undead.

Hex: I'm going to give this monster a taste of the dark. FEAR THE DARK! DARKSKULL CRANIUM CRACKER!

Hex had fired a powerful shower of ghost skulls and they hit the Rogue Gnome and smashed his head in.

Cynder: Lets see how he gets a shock out of this. VOLTS AND LIGHTNING! UNDEAD LIGHTNING ELECTROCUTION!

Cynder fired a powerful blast of black lightning and it hit the Rogue Gnome and electrocuted him all over.

Chop Chop: Time to show no mercy. SLICE AND DICE! VAMPIRE SWORD SLASHSTORM!

Chop Chop slashed the Rogue Gnome all over and cut him up real good. He made him weaker than ever.

Ghost Roaster: Time for this guy to fear the chef! NO CHAIN, NO GAIN! GHOST HEAD INSANITY STRIKE!

Ghost Roaster turned into a giant ghost head and laughed crazily and he slammed into the Rogue Gnome and knocked him down!

Eye Brawl: (Transylvanian Accent) Lets see this guy get a taste of my eye. I'VE GOT MY EYE ON YOU! EYE BOMB LASER SHOWER!

Eye Brawl called up a bunch of little eyeballs and they fired a massive barrage of lasers at the rogue gnome and blasted him all over.

Fright Rider: Time for this ostrich to strike! FEAR THE SPEAR! UNDEAD OSTRICH STAB PECK!

Fright Rider had his ostrich peck the rogue gnome and it stabbed him with incredible force.

Night Shift: Time for these punches to fly! ROLL WITH THE PUNCHES! VAMPIRE FISTICUFFS SUPERPUNCH!

Night Shift punched the Rogue Gnome all over the place and man oh man did it hurt.

Rattle Shake: Lets see him taste this ssssnakes venom. GO AHEAD, SSSSNAKE MY DAY! UNDEAD SSSSNAKE BONE BITESTORM!

Rattle Shake summoned a bunch of living snake skeletons and they chomped on the Rogue Gnome and he was screaming in pain.

Roller Brawl: Lets jam with this bad boy! LETS ROLL! SKATING FIRESTORM SLASH!

Roller Brawl roller-skated and let loose her skate saws and they cut the Rogue Gnome all over.

Grim Creeper: Time for you to meet your date with death. YOUR TIME IS UP! DEATH SCYTHE SOULREAP!

Grim Creeper slashed the Rogue Gnome with his scythe and cut him real good.

Krypt King: Time for you to see your grave! I'VE GOT THE EDGE! PHARAOH SWORD SLASH!

Krypt King's sword glowed black and he slashed the Rogue Gnome all over the place.

Short Cut: Someone is in need of a haircut! CUT TO THE CHASE! GHOST SNIP GHOSTSTORM!

Short Cut snipped the air and out came a massive barrage of ghosts and they flew at the rogue gnome and exploded all over.

Funny Bone: I will tickle this freaks Funny Bone! (Laughs) I HAVE A BONE TO PICK! BONESAW SLICE AND DICE!

Funny Bone turned into a deadly bone saw and he slashed the Rogue Gnome all over.

Bat Spin: Time to drive this monster Batty! NO REST FOR THE WICKED! BATSTORM DEATH BALL!

Bat Spin fired a powerful ball of energy made of bats and it slammed into the rogue Gnome and exploded.

Fiesta: (Spanish Accent) Time for this ghoul to bring a deadly party! ARRIBA! IT'S PARTY TIME! FIESTA DEADSONG TUNE!

Fiesta fired a powerful music blast from his gun and it hurt the Rogue Gnome's ears.

Chopscotch: Time for you to get chopped! CHOP TIL YOU DROP! UNDEAD AXE SMASH!

KRABBBBBBBBBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOO

The Rogue Gnomes were all destroyed.

Me: That's that.

The townsfolk came and they cheered wildly for us.

Me: You're welcome folks!

Joe Burton: (To the viewers) These guys are just that good! No one is a match for Team Loud Phoenix Storm.

Me: Thanks Joe. You and Mindy did a great job.

Joe Burton: Thanks. It was so cool helping you all.

Hap: Same here lad.

Me: I'm glad.

Joe Burton: (to Hap and Chip) You know what? You two should show Mr. McCal the hard way that you two are alive.

Hap: Good idea.

We got the town cleaned up and went to Mr. McCal and showed him in person. Now he believed it. He was scared out of his mind!

---

Later we were over at the Moon Prison and we were there to visit Justice Lord Superman.

Qin: So why are we over at the Moon Prison?

Me: We're here to visit Justice Lord Superman. He is the leader of the Justice Lords.

We saw a red light coming from a big door.

Me: This is Justice Lord Superman's cell.

We opened the door.

Qin: What's this red light?

Me: It's a strange red light energy from the sun that nullifies the powers of Kryptonians. I don't know how that is possible.

We saw in his cell, Justice Lord Superman.

Justice Lord Superman: J.D. Knudson.

Me: Justice Lord Superman. Looks like you're doing well after all this time.

Nico: So you are Justice Lord Superman.

Justice Lord Superman: That's right. I don't think we've met.

Nico: I'm a Saiyan. I'm Nicolas Chan. But everyone calls me Nico. But we didn't come here for pleasantries. We came here to correct something you said to J.D. during their battle with you.

Justice Lord Superman: You all locked me up because of what me and my teammates did to keep people safe. And yet, you seem to be doing the same thing. Kind of hypocritical, don't you think? It's a shame I'll still be locked up here when you all become the rulers of Earth.

Me: Your intentions were good Superman. But what you were doing to the entire planet was wrong. You took away everyone's free will and that is considered the ultimate fate worse than death. A world without free will is one that's headed to destruction. And for the record, you have no right to rule over the planet like you're gods. You may have gotten great power Superman. But with great power comes great responsibility. We use our powers to protect those in need and we don't put people in prison for the minor offenses like littering or Jaywalking and all that. There's no honor in that. You ruled over the planet with fear. That shows that you are no better than all the villains that we killed and destroyed.

Justice Lord Superman: We were what our planet needed and you all took us away from it!

Me: Blame your version of Lex Luthor for that. It was because of him that you all ruined the planet. You claimed that you were making the world a better place. But what you were doing was only making it worse. For everyone.

Nico: That's right. You have no right to decide who lives and who dies.

Me: That's right. The people of Krypton would be disgusted with you.

And we are too.

We left.

Qin: Boy how delusional is that guy.

Me: Don't ask Qin. But he got justice handed to him for his crimes.

Nico: Yep. We are not like the Justice Lords. They paid for their crimes.

Me: They sure did.

We went back home to Earth. Joe and Mindy Burton were inducted into the Goosebumps Monster Busters and so were Hap and Chip.

THE END

---

Another Fanfiction Complete and another Goosebumps monster destroyed.

Revenge of The Lawn Gnomes is the one story of Goosebumps that I can sympathize with. NicoChan11 gave me the ideas for this. Thanks man. Let me know what you all think. Next up is the resurrection of Ken Ichijouji and we're going to save him from himself.

See you all then.

Fixing Nico's Broken Soul

In the middle of the city of Gotham Royal York, we were at Yolei's convenience store. After Yolei and the others were beamed here, Yolei asked her family to move to America and they accepted.

Slash Man: So this is your convenience store, Yolei?

Yolei: It sure is. We have all kinds of awesome food here.

Me: It sure is an amazing store. There's all kinds of good food here.

Laney: It sure is a great store.

We saw all kinds of good food normally served and bought over in Japan. There was also food from different parts of the world.

Me: All kinds of good food.

Nico was thinking about something. He was thinking about what would've happened if Ken was still alive. Nico then knew what he had to do. He was gonna go back to the Digital World through the Simulator and rescue Ken from himself and destroy the monster he became.

Nico: Guys, I know what I have to do.

Me: What is it Nico?

Nico: I'm gonna go back to the Digital World and bring Ken back.

We gasped in shock at what Nico was gonna do.

Me: Nico are you sure you want to do that?

Lincoln: Yeah, the Digital World caused you nothing but grief!

Nico: I know guys. But I want to correct what I've done and I want to save Ken from the tyrannical monster he turned into when he became the Digimon Emperor.

Me: If this is what you want to do Nico then we'll help you out.

Molly Molloy: You sure you want to go through with this again, Nico? We know how traumatizing the whole Digimon Emperor thing was for you.

Nico: I'm positive. But just to make sure, me, Maria, May, and some of the others are going to say my goodbyes to a few people not in this room.

Me: What do you mean Nico?

Nico: This may be my last journey.

Me: No Nico. You won't die. I promise you.

Nico: I know that. But this is just to be on the safe side.

Me: Okay. Do what you got to do. May, Sunstreaker, you better go tell Marinette and her friends and Maria you better go tell the prisoners of the Jupiter Prison and Nico, you better go find Jack Spicer.

Nico: Right.

May: We're on it.

They were off.

In Paris, May and Sunstreaker were telling Marinette and her friends about Nico.

Marinette: May? Sunstreaker? Is something wrong?

May: Well, Nico's about to use our simulator to face the Digimon Emperor again. But this time, he's going to try and get Ken out of there.

Adrien: Ok. But why did he send you two to tell us this?

Sunstreaker: Because there's a small chance he won't make it out alive. If that's the case, he told us to to tell you guys to keep fighting against Hawk Moth. And not to let him win.

Marinette: Okay. Thank you guys.

May: We will help you guys when the time comes. We won't let Hawk Moth get away with all this.

Marinette: I know. Thank you May.

In the Jupiter Prison, Maria and Thundercracker were talking to the prisoners.

Man Boy: Is it ranting time again?

Maria: No. The three of us came to tell you guys that Nico's about to use our simulator to face Ken the Digimon Emperor to try and save him. But he thinks there's a small chance he won't make it out alive.

Icky Vicky: Good! I hope he burns in Hell!

Maria: Shut your fucking trap PRICKY VICKY!

The prisoners laughed at Maria's remark.

Horsea: (angrily) No one asked you, Icky Vicky!

Thundercracker: Look, aside from Icky Vicky, Nico wanted us to tell you guys to keep behaving yourselves during your remaining time here.

Manboy: Thanks Thundercracker.

Maria: He has problems with his past that he needs to fix. So he can fix his broken soul.

Manboy: I see.

Prisoner 1: I hope he gets it done.

Maria: I know.

In Jack Spicer's base in the mountains of the Rockies, Nico was talking to Jack Spicer.

Nico: Jack Spicer.

Jack Spicer: Ok. So this is the part where you attempt to get me to join your team.

Nico: Take care of yourself, Jack.

Spicer: Say what now?

Nico: I'm gonna use our simulator to get Ken Ichijouji out of being the Digimon Emperor and save him from himself. But in case I don't survive, this might be the last time we meet.

Spicer: Don't talk like that. All right, this won't stop you. Nothing stops you.

Nico: Just in case, promise me that eventually, you'll make things right with the Xiaolin Warriors.

Spicer (sighs and smiles): Ok. I promise.

Nico: Good.

Later, Nico went to the Digital World and in the ruins of Ken's base he was looking at what was left of it.

Nico was walking through the hallway of Ken's base when he stopped.

Nico: (smiles) You know, it's hard to surprise me when I have Justice Lord Superman's super hearing.

Nico turn around and see that Alix Kubdel's future self, Bunnyx, was with Professor Paradox.

Nico: Professor Paradox and Bunnyx? You're here too?

Bunnyx: Of course. Paradox thought it would be nice for us to talk to you before your big battle with Ken.

Paradox: Nicolas, I know for a fact that you'll be able to save young Ichijouji from his own darkness.

Nico: Thanks, Professor. (sighs) I have a feeling that in about a week or two, me and the others will finally fight Hawk Moth. But thanks to some reassurance, I know that J.D. will spare Gabriel and won't end up being corrupt.

Paradox: Of course he won't. His future self is proof of that.

Bunnyx: J.D. will still be the hero that all of us know him as. Because when you guys face Hawk Moth, you'll be there to keep him on the right path.

Nico: Thanks guys.

Nico then flared up his Super Saiyan Aura and his eyes turned teal green and he had Lightning flickering around him.

Nico: Hold on Ken. I'm going to set things right and save you!

Nico went back to the real world.

We got ready for one of the biggest fights in the Digital World.

Me: Nico, there's a strong possibility that we may have to fight Kimeramon. But he's nothing compared to the power of MaloMyotismon. You beat a Super Ultimate Digimon and Kimeramon was an Ultimate Level Digimon.

Nico: Yes. I know. But I want to set things right.

Lana: We'll all help you out.

Laney: We sure will. We'll all help you fix and mend your soul back together.

Me: We sure will. Lets do it! Hold on Ken! We're coming to save you!

The Simulator activated and it took us to the Digital World at the time when Ken was beginning his rampage on the Digital World as the meanest tyrant to ever terrorize the Digital World: The Digimon Emperor.

---

When Ken was a young boy, he always felt overshadowed by his older brother, Sam because he was considered to be a kid genius, which made Ken jealous. One day, a Digivice came out of Sam's computer, (as MaloMyotismon (Myotismon's reincarnation) would be introduced later on) and he thought it belonged to Sam. When Sam told him not to touch it, Ken disobeys his brother and touches the Digivice anyway, sending Ken to the Digital World. He was a DigiDestined, and was partnered with Wormmon. After he and Wormmon defeated a Digimon, a dark spore flew into his neck. When Ken returned from the Digital World, Sam scolded him for touching the Digivice and breaking his trust, then dismisses him from his room, stating that he would never trust him again. Feeling betrayed and fumed by those words, Ken wishes that Sam would just disappear. But unfortunately, Ken's wish eventually came true when Sam was tragically killed in a car accident. After Sam's death, Ken felt grief-stricken for the loss of his brother, so he decided that he had to be just like his older brother to help his parents cope with the pain.

One day when he was playing with Sam's computer, a mysterious voice on an E-mail came and told him to go to the Digital World (while Yukio Oikawa would be introduced later on). He did, but instead of entering the Digital World, Ken entered the Dark Ocean. He put the Digivice in the water and it morphed into a Dark D3. When that happened, Ken became corrupted by the Dark Spore, thinking that the Digital World was a game for him to rule and the Digimon were nothing but programs and should be enslaved, and the Digimon Emperor was born.

As the Digimon Emperor

When he became the Digimon Emperor, Ken became an oppressive tyrant towards the Digimon. He also created devices, called Dark Rings, to control the Digimon. They are similar to Devimon's Black Gears in function and method of control. He later upgraded them into Dark Spirals when the DigiDestined were able to break the original model. To control the Dark Rings and Dark Spirals, he created the Control Spires. The Control Spires activate the Dark Rings and prevent others from Digivolving. The Emperor eventually created a Digimon monster called Kimeramon, created using other Digimon. When he finally realized that what he was doing was wrong he tried to change his ways and decided eventually to join the other DigiDestined.

---

We were flying towards the base of the Digimon Emperor.

Me: Target sighted.

Zhuqiaomon, Lillymon, Kazemon and a whole bunch of Digimon we're with us. The DigiDestined and their Digimon we're in their Ultimate and Mega Level Forms.

Me: So that's the Digimon Emperor's base in flight. It looks like a big giant flying slug.

Davis: That's exactly what I said when we saw it.

Yolei: We're going to save Ken and destroy his dark self.

Me: Leave that to me. Nico will face his dark self.

Nico: Wait. Look in front of Ken's base.

We saw an ugly monstrosity. It was KIMERAMON!

Me: Whoa! So that's Kimeramon!

Nico: That's him.

Lincoln: He's hideous and even more ugly than what you told us Nico!

Nico: Yeah. He's a fusion of a bunch of Digimon all together.

We saw that he had Kabuterimon's head, the wings of Angemon and Airdramon, Monochromon's Tail, Garurumon's Legs, Greymon's body and MetalGreymon's Hair and the arms of Kuwagamon, SkullGreymon and Devimon.

---

The Digimon Emperor (aka Ken), angered that the Digidestined keeps foiling his plans several times, decides to stop the Digidestined for good by creating the ultimate and powerful Digimon. He took several Digimon parts on his monitor, creating a powerful creature with the parts, calling it Kimeramon. After his creation is complete, Kimeramon was born, and Ken sent his powerful creation to attack the Digidestined. Kari, Yolei, Nefertimon, and Halsemon were the first to encounter Kimeramon. Nefertimon and Halsemon's attacks were no match for Kimeramon. It seemed that Kimeramon was an unstoppable monster, so the Digidestined and their Digimon partner had to retreat for now.

While the Digidestined thought of the plan to defeat Kimeramon and stop Ken, Ken sent Kimeramon on a rampage, destroying a nearby village. After the Digidestined and their Digimon partners defeated several Bakemon, Kimeramon stopped the Digidestined in their tracks. After Kimeramon killed several Bakemon, the 5 Armor Level Digimon tried to fight Kimeramon but no avail, and Kimeramon easily defeated all of them. Then all of a sudden, Ken commanded Kimeramon to stop, and stopped moving and stood still like a statue, allowing Davis and DemiVeemon to escape and enter a secret engine room as the other Digidestined escaped too.

Davis and Veemon discover a powerful Golden Armor thanks to Wormmon, and Veemon Golden-Armor Digivolved to Magnamon. Even with the power of the Golden Digi-egg, Magnamon was able to do some damage to Kimeramon. Kimeramon then betrays Ken, turning against his own master and attacks him. After Ken's floating ship goes down, Kimeramon captures Magnamon in an attempt to crush him, Wormmon rescues Magnamon, freeing him from the wicked beast's grasp. Kimeramon then smacks Wormmon away, and Wormmon nobly uses his remaining energy to Magnamon, sacrificing himself. Magnamon manages to finally defeat Kimeramon, obliterating the creature with his Magna Explosion attack.

Profile

A Synthetic type Digimon that is a composition of various Digimon; each part of his considerable being, such as his hands, feet, body and tail, are made up of the corresponding Digimon's parts. It's a mystery as to why such a composition was made. Some say that, as Machinedramon is composed of various metallic Digimon and that Kimeramon is composed of various flesh-and-blood Digimon, he was made as either a prototype of Machinedramon or as an anti-Machinedramon warrior, but the truth is not yet elucidated. Despite all of this, though, he bears a dreadful and combative instinct; Kimeramon's powerful destructive powers have not been matched as of yet. His special attack is "Heat Viper", a heat ray of death spewed from his mouth. This terrible attack, once the heat ray has hit a victim, it is powerful enough for the enemy to be deleted, and many have dubbed this attack "Kimeramon's Spell".

Lola: (Older Voice) That is what I would call a disgusting fusion.

Zhuqiaomon: I agree with you Lola. A Digimon like that is never welcome here in the Digital World.

Me: But his power is not that strong. He's only an Ultimate Level Digimon. We'll worry about him later. Lets go get Ken.

Zhuqiaomon: I'll provide a distraction for you guys to slip through.

Me: Thanks Zhuqiaomon. We'll assist you later.

We flew into the base and we saw that it was lit up and it was quiet. Zhuqiaomon went at Kimeramon.

Zhuqiaomon: (Echoing) PHOENIX FIRE!

He fired a powerful blast of fire from his mouth and it hit Kimeramon and exploded.

KRABBBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOMMMM!

Kimeramon was burned. He roared ferociously and went at Zhuqiaomon.

Kimeramon: (Echoing) HEAT VIPER!

He fired a powerful heat ray from his mouth and it hit Zhuqiaomon.

But Zhuqiaomon's Red Aura was like a barrier and it rendered the attack completely ineffective.

In the base we were running through the halls and we felt the massive power of the battle.

Me: Wow! What power!

T.K.: Zhuqiaomon has incredible power! Will he be all right?

Me: He's one of the Sovereign Digimon. Zhuqiaomon is one of the most powerful Digimon ever. Not even 10,000 Ultimate Digimon can take him down.

Nico: That's right T.K.

In his monitor room, Ken the Digimon Emperor was watching the battle with Kimeramon and Zhuqiaomon.

Digimon Emperor: (Chuckles Malevolently) Kimeramon is going to win! I don't care if that is one of the Sovereign Digimon, he'll fall and I'll reign supreme!

Then a fiery explosion blasted a hole into his room and a phoenix cry was heard. Ken saw us coming out of the explosion.

Nico: Hello Ken. How nice to see you again.

Digimon Emperor: Well if it isn't Nico and the DigiDestined. I see that you've finally come to your senses and are ready to surrender to me and Kimeramon.

Me: Not gonna happen you brainwashed fuck!

Davis: I think some of your hairspray must've leaked into your brain again!

Yolei: And another thing, who said it was okay for you to go out and create a Digimon anyway!?

Cody H.: Yeah! Do you think you're Dr. Frankenstein or something, creating creatures just for your own cruel pleasure? Kimeramon is not the monster Ken! You Are!

Me: That's right you fucked up tyrant!

Lori: You literally disgust me!

Leni: You are a freak!

Luna: Way evil dude!

T.K.: That's right! Look at them, they're not your toys for some kind of sick game, they're alive!

Nico: That's right Ken! All Digimon no matter how good or evil are living creatures like us!

Kari: That's right Ken! You're DigiDestined too!

Nico: And we must pull you back into the light!

Nico fired a powerful blast of rainbow light and it hit Ken and he screamed in excruciating pain. His Digimon Emperor clothes ripped from him in a powerful aura of black energy and Ken turned back into his light self and his clothes he had on that he would usually wear at home were back to normal! But he fell down in exhaustion. The Black Mass turned into ANOTHER KEN! It was his Digimon Emperor Persona in physical form!

Me: So this is the embodiment of the Digimon Emperor.

Nico: The evil inside his heart because of Owikawa.

Digimon Emperor: So you all have released me from my bonds.

Me: And now we're going to destroy you and fix Nico's wounded soul.

Digimon Emperor: What do you mean by that?

Nico: Let me tell you what went down. I fought you right here in your base. I snapped because of your tyrannical oppression and I wanted to make you pay for your crimes. I tried to get you to stop, but you wouldn't listen to reason. I killed you by accident right here in this very base and that's when I discovered my powers. It completely devastated me and it gave me PTSD as a result. But now I have a chance to save your Light Half and fix what scarred my life forever.

Me: By killing you Digimon Emperor! You're gonna pay for all your crimes.

Lincoln: That's right!

Laney: Your reign of terror is over!

Me: Bro, you hold on to Ken. This fight is gonna get really ugly.

Naruto: Roger that bro. Show no mercy.

Me: With pleasure.

Naruto picked up Ken and carried him. We went outside and we were ready to fight.

Me: You guys handle Kimeramon. Me and Nico will face the Digimon Emperor.

I powered up to Super Angel 30,000 Phoenix Firestorm.

Nico powered up to Super Saiyan 4.

Tai: Lets show no mercy on this ugly monstrosity!

Me: They were from a place called none of your fucking business!

We went at the Digimon Emperor as well!

I punched him in the face and Nico kicked him in the face! Nico kicked him in the back and sent him rolling in the sand. The Digimon Emperor sent him whip at him and he was going to lash Nico. Nico grabbed the whip.

Digimon Emperor: HEY!

Nico: Uh uh uh. Can't use the same move on me twice.

Nico punched him in the face and kicked him in the stomach. I punched him in the face and knocked out some of his teeth. Nico leg swept him and kicked him in the back and pile-drove him in the stomach, I kicked him in the face and kicked him in the stomach.

Me: That's for all the pain and suffering you've caused to both humans and Digimon alike!

The Digimon Emperor was in shock. He couldn't believe that he was defeated.

Digimon Emperor: I can't believe you all defeated me. How could this happen?

Me: Because you only care about no one but yourself.

Nico then landed by me.

Me: You did it man!

Zhuqiaomon: I knew you could do it, Nico!

Nico: Thanks guys!

Me: See man there was no need for goodbyes. You did great!

Nico: Thanks guys. But we have one loose end to tie up.

We walked up to the Digimon Emperor.

Nico: This is for me.

Me: You destroyed my friends mind.

Me and Nico had energy blasts ready to fire.

Nico: Ken Ichijouji the Digimon Emperor, you have failed this world.

Me: Go to Hell and stay there you fucking son of a bitch!

We fired energy blasts at him and completely obliterated the Digimon Emperor in an instant.

Me: It's over guys. We won!

Ken woke up.

Ken: What happened?

Nico: Ken are you all right?

Ken: I think so. But man my head hurts. What happened?

Nico: Well it's a very ugly story.

Nico revealed everything that happened and Ken was horrified.

Ken: I can't believe I did all that! WHAT HAVE I DONE!?

He broke down crying hard. He was in so much shock that it was unbelievable. He was crying his eyes out.

We later took Ken back home to Japan and we arrived back in Ken's room that was left untouched since he was killed.

Nico: I'm sorry Ken. I'm so sorry.

Ken's parents came in and they saw Ken, alive and back!

Mr. Ichijouji: KEN!

Mrs. Ichijouji: KEN!

They hugged him and cried in joy. Later we were having dinner.

Kari Kamiya: (to Mr. and Mrs. Ichijouji) You should know that despite you two blaming Nico for Ken's death, he still managed to get him back. That proves how selfless Nico is.

Mrs. Ichijouji: I know Kari. Nico, we were so wrong about you. You are a selfless and caring guy. You brought our son back. You are a good person.

Nico: Thank you guys.

Nico's mind was fully fixed and his Post Traumatic Stress Disorder was now fully cured.

Later we went back to the estate and Nico was telling Jack Spicer everything.

Jack Spicer: And you said you weren't going to make it! You got me worried over nothing.

Nico: It was close, though. Tell me, Spicer, did you think I had it in me? To possibly kill Ken again?

Spicer: I wasn't sure. Always known you and your friends had the potential to be as ruthless as they come. Your histories made sure of that, same as mine. Who knows, maybe that's why me and you guys get along. You guys see the good in me. I see the bad in all of you.

Nico: I guess you could say that.

Spicer: Piece of advice: don't try to beat Hawk Moth with pain and force. Your goodness is your strength. (smiles) And call me sentimental, but I think you and the rest of Team Loud Phoenix Storm should remain heroes.

Nico: I'll keep that in mind. Take care of yourself, Jack. And I mean it in a good way this time.

Spicer: Thanks man.

Nico went back to the estate.

Back at the estate we were watching TV.

Kari Kamiya: (To the viewers) Digimon and Humans are more powerful when they work together and they are strongest with the power of teamwork.

Me: That's right Kari.

This was another awesome and explosive adventure.

Making a Mess in Inkopolis

In the city of London in England on Privet Drive, we were there to visit the Dursley's, Vernon, Petunia and Dudley Dursley.

---

Vernon Dursley was an English Muggle, husband of Petunia Evans, father of Dudley and uncle of Harry Potter by marriage. He used to live at 4 Privet Drive along with his wife and son for nearly twenty years until they were forced into hiding during the escalation of the Second Wizarding War. After Petunia's sister Lily and brother-in-law, James Potter, were killed by Voldemort in their own home, Petunia remained the sole surviving blood relative of Harry's. Both Wizard and Muggle law demanded that Petunia and Vernon be the new legal guardians of Harry Potter, which they accepted (albeit reluctantly). However, they disliked Harry and treated him badly, while spoiling and fattening Dudley.

When Harry was sent a letter from Hogwarts School of Witchcraft and Wizardry, Vernon got very angry, as he detested anything to do with magic. He was a former student of Smeltings Academy and a director of the Grunnings drill manufacturing company. In 1997, Vernon, Petunia and Dudley left their house in order to be hidden from Lord Voldemort and his Death Eaters (by the Order of the Phoenix.)

After the Second Wizarding War, Vernon had at least two grandchildren through Dudley and his wife. It is possible that he had a better relationship with Harry and that they remained in contact. Through the union of Harry Potter and Ginevra Weasley, Vernon had two great-nephews, James Potter II and Albus Potter, as well as a great-niece, Lily Potter.

Early life

Little is known about Vernon's childhood life. He was born into the Muggle Dursley family and attended Smeltings Academy as a secondary school. Vernon had an older sister named Marjorie (Marge to family members and friends) who made a living breeding bulldogs.

Vernon started working for Grunnings in 1968 or earlier.

Vernon met Petunia Evans at an office job in London where he was a junior executive. He later married Petunia and settled with her at 4 Privet Drive in Little Whinging, Surrey in 1977. Before their wedding, Vernon had taken Petunia on a series of dull dates during which he talked mainly about himself and his predictable ideas on the world. After some time Vernon proposed marriage to Petunia, very correctly on one knee in his mother's sitting room. His fiancée accepted at once. He wasn't aware of the fact that Petunia's sister Lily was a witch, who was then attending her seventh year at Hogwarts School of Witchcraft and Wizardry. Petunia eventually revealed to him that her sister was a witch after they stopped for a snack of battered sausage at a chip shop.

Marriage and family life

Vernon, along with his wife, always liked to be normal and never tolerated anything that they considered out of the ordinary. He knew that Petunia's sister was a witch, but kept it quiet. They had a baby boy on 23 June, 1980. This boy, Dudley Dursley, was highly spoiled by his parents.

Giving a home to Harry Potter

It was after Voldemort's first downfall and the Potters' murder that Vernon first saw signs of wizards. Albus Dumbledore brought Vernon's nephew Harry to Little Whinging. Although reluctantly, Vernon and Petunia allowed him into their home.

During Harry's early life, Vernon treated him with indifference and cruelty. He forced Harry to live in the Cupboard Under the Stairs and generally mistreated and neglected him while spoiling his own son Dudley. Vernon tried his hardest to stop Harry knowing about the wizarding world and his true magical heritage and also ignorantly believing along with his wife that their harsh mistreatment of him would prevent his magic from surfacing. Before 1991, Vernon told Harry his parents died in a car crash. On Dudley's birthday that year, Vernon drove the family to the local zoo for the day, ranting as usual about the various and innumerable things that annoyed him, motorbikes being the chosen topic. When Harry remarked that he'd had a dream about a flying motorbike, Vernon nearly crashed into the car in front of them before bellowing at his nephew for saying such a ridiculous thing. He yelled at him some more and told him there was no such thing as magic, after Harry unknowingly used underage magic in the Zoo's reptile house.

Harry's letter from Hogwarts

When Harry got his first letter from Hogwarts School of Witchcraft and Wizardry, Vernon tried everything to stop him getting it as more and more letters arrived via Owl post, resorting to increasingly desperate measures as the letters entered the house in variously creative ways and becoming more and more unstable. He finally cracked one Sunday when a veritable flood of letters came pouring down the chimney, and had the entire family leave the house to try and prevent contact from Hogwarts. However, his erratic attempts failed after driving the family several miles away from home, and upon staying in a gloomy Hotel, he was shocked to see letters turn up there even. Eventually, he took his whole family to a Hut on a small rock on the sea, in a final drastic attempt to prevent contact and even bought what was most likely an illegal firearm as a final defense. But even this did not work, because it was found by Rubeus Hagrid, who personally gave Harry the letter, despite Vernon's stubborn protests and threatening him with the gun, which Hagrid contemptuously bent into a knot.

When Hagrid told Harry about how his parents really died, Vernon cynically responded by telling Harry that whatever happened to Harry's mother and father they probably deserved it, as well as that they were (in Vernon's opinion) freaks anyway and that the world was better off without them (also in Vernon's opinion). Hagrid threatened Vernon with his umbrella in response. The exchanges became more and more heated until Vernon angrily insulted Albus Dumbledore by calling him a "crackpot old fool". This would be a great mistake to Vernon: a livid Hagrid responded to Vernon's outburst by giving a pig tail to Vernon's son, much to the Dursley's horror.

After this incident, Vernon avoided Harry even more so than usual. Vernon reluctantly agreed to take Harry to King's Cross Station to board the Hogwarts Express, but only because it was on the way to the private hospital in London to remove Dudley's tail before he started attending Smeltings.

From then on Vernon only saw Harry in the summer holidays and even then treated him badly, although he reluctantly gave Harry Dudley's spare room.

Almost everything seemed to go wrong every time Vernon had guests over when Harry was present. In 1992, he invited Mr and Mrs Mason over for dinner to try and secure a deal with Mr Mason about a stock of drills. He also forced Harry to stay in his room and pretend he did not exist. Harry was willing to comply with this, arguably because he did not want to create unneeded problems for his uncle (and get himself in further dislike). Due to the appearance of Dobby, the deal was utterly ruined when Dobby destroyed Petunia's prized pudding and the frightening away of Mrs Mason by a Ministry of Magic Owl, due to her ornithophobia. The Ministry of Magic accused Harry of doing Dobby's levitation of the pudding, and threatened expulsion from Hogwarts for violation of the Underage Magic Act, but elected to let Harry off with a warning. Furious for his business deal failing and learning that Harry was forbidden to use magic outside of Hogwarts, Vernon had Harry locked in his room and even had bars fitted on his window to punish him, believing that Harry would be unable to escape without using magic. However, Harry was rescued by Fred, George and Ron Weasley using their father's Flying Ford Anglia, and when Vernon, Petunia and Dudley tried to stop Harry escaping by pulling him back into his room, they were all left dangling out of his window when the Weasleys drove off with Harry. Then, in 1993, Vernon's equally mean-spirited sister Marge visited, much to Harry's discomfort. When Marge insulted Harry's parents, Harry used magic to blow her up like a balloon. Vernon insisted Harry return her to how she was, but was refused. The Accidental Magic Reversal Squad later fixed her and modified her memory of having witnessed magic. Harry afterwards left Privet Drive, and as a result he did not sign Harry's Hogsmeade permission form, which he had beforehand actually agreed to sign, should Harry behave during Marge's visit.

In 1994, Vernon, along with Petunia, decided to put Dudley on a diet, following his dismal report from Smeltings and upon learning that his son was too overweight to fit into the school's uniform. When it was not going so well, he threatened Dudley that he would cut his pocket money if he did not stop sneaking in sweets, which made Dudley furious and caused him to throw his PlayStation out of a window. When Molly Weasley sent an invitation to the family inviting Harry to attend the 1994 Quidditch World Cup with them, Vernon angrily asked his nephew about the letter, as the Molly's letter was covered in stamps which the postman found amusing. After Harry explained, he yelled at him initially but eventually decided that his nephew could go. He and Petunia were very displeased and discomforted with the idea that wizards would soon be visiting their home. When the Weasleys came to pick up Harry by the Floo Network and accidentally destroyed their living room due to them trying to travel into their electric fireplace, Vernon became very intimidated in the presence of actual wizards, including when Arthur Weasley mentioned that he liked to collect batteries. When the Weasleys were leaving, Dudley ate a Ton-Tongue Toffee deliberately left by Fred and George Weasley, causing his tongue to swell. This sent Vernon into a rage which had him throw several china ornaments at Mr Weasley, all the time bellowing like an injured hippopotamus while Arthur was trying to fix Dudley's swollen tongue; it ended up being four feet long before Vernon and Petunia let Arthur shrink it.

Dudley's Dementor attack

In 1995, Vernon, Petunia and Dudley had learned that Lord Voldemort and his Death Eaters had returned to terrorise the both Wizarding and Muggle communities again. During the summer, Vernon and Petunia were concerned regarding Harry's overly attentive nature regarding his listening to the Muggle news, believing he was up to no good. Ironically, he and his wife were ignorantly unaware that Dudley was in fact terrorising the neighbourhood with his gang, engaging in anti-social behaviour and bullying younger children, instead believing that Dudley was simply going round his friends' houses for tea. Furthermore, Dudley was attacked by Dementors and Harry had to rescue him via Patronus Charm. Upon coming across his demented son, Vernon erroneously believed that

Harry had in fact attacked Dudley himself. He became extremely furious with his nephew, believing that he had caused permanent brain damage to his son, and even expressed the view that Harry should face capital punishment. However, even when Harry explained to him that he had in fact saved Dudley from the Dementors and they were likely sent by the recently resurrected Voldemort, Vernon decided to throw Harry out of the house, declaring him a threat towards his family. However, he was reluctantly forced by Petunia to allow him to stay, on the grounds the neighbours would notice, when in reality she had just received an angry Howler from Albus Dumbledore, telling her to keep their promise of protecting Harry. When he heard that Harry was in trouble with the Ministry of Magic because of the letter from Mafalda Hopkirk, Vernon was delighted at the concept of Harry being punished by the Ministry. He locked Harry into his room for several days until leaving with his wife and son, to accept an award for the best kept lawn in England. In fact, it was a trick of Nymphadora Tonks, who had sent the Dursleys an invitation to a fake awards ceremony to get them temporarily out of their house. Tonks then escorted Harry to 12 Grimmauld Place, along with a group of other wizards. It was highly likely that Vernon was indignant at being fooled the very cunning ploy.

Hiding from Death Eaters

In the summer of 1997, Petunia, Dudley, and Vernon were placed under the protection of Dedalus Diggle and Hestia Jones, both members of the Order of the Phoenix, as it was believed that once Harry Potter turned seventeen, Voldemort would track down all members of his family and torture information out of them. Vernon, his wife and his son all left together: he did not care what would happen to Harry and it was Dudley, who had grown to respect Harry for saving his soul, who brought up the issue, though Vernon said little to Harry.

After their goodbyes, the Dursleys were driven off into the distance, leaving Harry alone on his quest. Petunia and Dudley actually felt a certain amount of fondness towards Harry as they parted in 1997. Vernon was about to shake Harry's hand good-bye. However, because of his dislike of both Harry and magic overall, refrained from doing so at the last second. He left as quickly as possible, hoping to save himself from what he only knew as a very bad and powerful wizard, Lord Voldemort.

Later life

After the war, Vernon had some grandchildren by Dudley. It is unknown if he remained in contact with his nephew, if even only on Christmas-card terms, like Dudley did: nevertheless, he had two great-nephews and a great-niece by Harry. It is also unknown whether Vernon returned to his home at 4 Privet Drive, or if he stayed where he'd been hiding throughout the Second Wizarding War.

In 2015, Vernon signed an online petition to reinstate Jeremy Clarkson as host of the television program Top Gear, claiming it was the only reason he paid for a television licence.

At some point before 2020, Vernon's wife Petunia died. It's unknown if Vernon was still alive by this point.

Petunia Evans.

Petunia Dursley (née Evans) (c. 1960 - c. 2020) was an English Muggle woman, the elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs Evans and the sister of the Muggle-born witch Lily Potter. During her childhood, she broke off contact with her sister and refused to have any contact with the wizarding world.

She married a Muggle, Vernon Dursley and they had a son, Dudley. However, when Lily was murdered by Voldemort, Petunia became guardian of her nephew, Harry Potter, who was only an infant then. She neglected and treated him cruelly for the most part, and confined him to sleep in the cupboard under the stairs (although she allowed him a room of his own after receiving his acceptance letters to Hogwarts in order to attempt to trick Hogwarts into not sending letters). In 1991, when Rubeus Hagrid came and said that Harry would go to Hogwarts School of Witchcraft and Wizardry, she became very angry at the fact her nephew had discovered his true magical heritage. She and her family left their home in 1997 in order to be protected from Lord Voldemort and his Death Eaters.

After the Second Wizarding War her son married and she had two grandchildren. She died sometime before 2020.

Early life

Petunia was the eldest child of Muggles Mr and Mrs Evans and had a sister, Lily. However, Lily had many unusual abilities, such as making a flower's petals move without touching them, which her sister viewed with a mixture of envy and disapproval. One reason could have been because of the fact her parents praised Lily for her magical abilities and Petunia might have been jealous.

Severus Snape was a boy who also lived in the town of Cokeworth who possessed similar abilities and the two (Petunia and Snape) treated each other disdainfully. Snape, later on, also had a crush on Lily. Lily, however, was intrigued by Snape and soon became good friends with him. When she received a letter from Hogwarts confirming that she was a witch, Petunia wrote to Albus Dumbledore asking if she could also study there too. Dumbledore responded saying that Petunia may not study at Hogwarts, and even though he responded kindly, Petunia felt hurt and left out, which also in part could have been because her parents were so proud of Lily's talents. From that point on, Petunia wanted nothing to do with magic or the wizarding world and frequently called Lily a "freak".

At some point in the 1970s, Petunia left her home in Cokeworth to pursue a typing course in London. This led to her getting a clerical job, where she met Vernon Dursley, a junior executive whose complete ordinariness she found appealing. Vernon also took a fancy to Petunia and the two went on a number of dates, which mainly involved Vernon discussing himself and his narrow views of the world.

Vernon proposed to Petunia in his mother's sitting room in late 1977. Petunia gladly accepted, but secretly worried what Vernon would think when he met Lily, who was then in her seventh year at Hogwarts. She eventually told Vernon about Lily being a witch on a date in his car that was parked overlooking a chip shop from which they had purchased battered sausage, and while he was shocked, he assured her he would not hold it against her.

The couple's first meeting with Lily and her boyfriend, James Potter, went poorly. Vernon tried to impress James with the car he drove and when James responded by describing his racing broom, Vernon assumed he must be living on unemployment benefits. James told Vernon about his parents' fortune in Galleons, but since Vernon could not tell whether he was being had on or not, he became angry. The evening ended with Vernon and Petunia storming out of the restaurant and Lily bursting into tears.

Petunia and Vernon were married and settled at 4 Privet Drive in Little Whinging, Surrey by the end of 1977. Fearing that she would be overshadowed, Petunia refused to have Lily as a bridesmaid, which upset Lily. At the reception, Vernon would not talk to James, but insultingly described him as "some magician" within his earshot.

Petunia had little contact with her sister thereafter. She and Vernon chose not to attend James and Lily's wedding and the last piece of mail Lily sent her was an announcement of her son Harry's birth on 31 July, 1980, which she took one look at and promptly threw away. However, Lily mentioned having been sent a vase for Christmas by Petunia in a letter to Sirius Black dated around 31 July, 1981.

Giving a home to her nephew

Everything changed on the morning of 2 November, 1981, when Petunia opened her door to find a baby abandoned on her doorstep. The child turned out to be her sister's son, Harry Potter. A letter had been left by Albus Dumbledore, explaining the circumstances of Harry's arrival, including the death of both her sister, Lily and her brother-in-law, James. As she was the only member of the family that had her sister's blood running through her, this ensured the protection of Harry and his family from Lord Voldemort and his Death Eaters. She reluctantly agreed to take her orphaned nephew into her home and family, taking the responsibility to not tell Harry or anyone else about the fact that Harry was a wizard.

Petunia, however, did not treat Harry as a welcome addition to her family. The boy's mere existence gave Petunia a constant reminder of her sister and the world she herself had been excluded from. She treated Harry like poorly, even keeping him in the Cupboard Under the Stairs as a bedroom for much of his childhood. She made a point of showering Dudley with gifts while completely ignoring Harry, although they were both around the same age. She forced him to do all of the chores around the house, while Dudley was free to do anything he pleased. Petunia also told Harry that his parents had died in a car crash and that the scar on his forehead came from that same accident. She did not let Harry ask any questions about his family, nor generally any questions at all for that matter.

Contact with the Wizarding world

When Harry's Hogwarts letter arrived in 1991, she supported her husband's decision to keep the truth from Harry. They constantly tried to burn or rip up the letters, but they found that nothing was helping to stop the letters coming to Harry, so Petunia and the rest of the family moved to different places in an effort to outrun this wizarding post, until finally they were tracked down by Rubeus Hagrid. When Hagrid forced the issue of Harry's origin, Petunia lost control and let loose all of the resentment she had held in about Lily's life. She also became horrified when Hagrid gave Dudley a pig's tail after Vernon insulted Albus Dumbledore. Harry decided to enroll in Hogwarts to leave his miserable life and the Dursley's abuse, and left with him to visit Diagon Alley. Just before Harry was to leave Privet Drive to the Hogwarts Express, she and Vernon had Dudley taken to a private hospital in London to have Dudley's transfigured tail removed, and agreed to take Harry to King's Cross Station simply because it was already part of their journey. When they believed Harry would be unable to travel due to Platform Nine and Three-Quarters not logically existing, they left Harry at the station spitefully laughing among themselves, believing he would be left stranded. However, Harry managed to successfully find the platform by conveniently meeting the Weasleys, a wizarding family who showed him to reach the concealed platform, allowing him to go to Hogwarts.

Over the next several years, Petunia still grudgingly permitted Harry to remain in her home over the summers, recharging the blood protections that kept him and her family safe from Voldemort throughout the rest of the year. However, almost everything seemed to go wrong every time she and her husband had guests over when Harry was present. In 1992, Vernon invited Mr and Mrs Mason over for dinner to try and secure a highly lucrative deal with Mr Mason about a stock of drills, which would hopefully massively boost the family's wealth and allow them to purchase a holiday home abroad. She and Vernon completely forgot it also happened to be Harry's Birthday that day. During the day, she prepared a pudding for the Masons and spent most of the day cleaning the house. When Dudley claimed Harry tried to cast a spell on him that day, she punished Harry by giving him more housework. She and Vernon forced Harry to stay in his room and pretended he did not exist. Due to the unexpected appearance of Dobby, the deal was completely ruined following Dobby's destruction of her prized pudding and the arrival of a Ministry Owl terrifying the ornithophobic Mrs Mason, causing the couple to leave their house in horror and disgust.

The British Ministry of Magic threatened to expel Harry, thinking he had done the magic himself. The Dursleys were also informed that Harry was forbidden to use magic outside of Hogwarts. Vernon then decided to have Harry locked in his bedroom, and she gave Harry cans of cold soup to eat through a cat flap in his bedroom door. Upon Harry's rescue from Privet Drive from Fred, George and Ron Weasley using their father's Flying Ford Anglia, she, Vernon and Dudley tried to physically pull Harry back into his room from his window to stop him, but they all were left dangling out of the window when the Weasley's drove off and took Harry with them. Then in 1993, her sister-in-law Marge visited. When Marge cruelly insulted Harry's parents, Harry accidentally lost control of his magic, which caused him to blow her up like a balloon. Vernon insisted Harry return her to how she was, but was refused when Harry informed him that she deserved what she got for her nastiness. The Accidental Magic Reversal Squad later fixed her and modified her memory, ensuring that she remembered nothing of her negative experience with magic.

In 1994, Petunia, along with her husband, decided to put Dudley on diet, following his dismal school report from Smeltings, which specifically stated he was too overweight to fit into their uniform. She and Vernon were also shocked with Dudley's very poor academic performance, along with complaints of bullying other students. When it was not going so well, she was forced to cut his food down to less than half of what he would usually eat. In order to boost Dudley's self-esteem, she also heavily restricted the diets of the whole household to strictly healthy meals and banned all unhealthy foods; she was also unaware that Harry was secretly eating wizarding sweets in his bedroom gifted to him by his friends. When Molly Weasley sent an invitation to the family inviting Harry to attend the Quidditch World Cup, Vernon angrily asked his nephew about the very strange letter. After Harry explained, he yelled at him, but eventually said that his nephew could go. Petunia and Vernon were both very displeased with the fact that wizards would be soon visiting their home, and claimed she would show them no hospitality when they should arrive. When the Weasleys came to pick up Harry by the Floo Network, she became frightened and did not know how to react when in the presence of wizards, especially after when they accidentally destroyed her living room by blowing up their electric fireplace when attempting to travel with floo powder. When the Weasleys were leaving, her son ate a Ton-Tongue Toffee deliberately left on the floor by Fred and George Weasley, causing his tongue to swell wildly; Petunia became hysterical at the sight of her son in such pain, resulting in Arthur Weasley fixing Dudley's tongue and repairing their living room.

Dudley's Dementor attack

In the summer before Harry's fifth year, Dudley and Harry were attacked by Dementors and were only saved by Harry performing underage magic. She unintentionally revealed some knowledge of the wizarding world by telling Vernon what Dementors were. When asked how she knew, she said that she heard "that awful boy" and Lily talking about them (although Harry assumed at the time that she was referring to his father, due to his ignorance of Snape's childhood friendship with his mother). When Vernon ordered Harry out of the house, she reluctantly stepped in after a howler (later revealed to have been from Dumbledore) arrived telling Petunia to "remember my last." Petunia cloaked her decision to allow Harry to stay in characteristic motives - that she knew it would appear strange to the neighbours if Harry suddenly vanished. Whether this was the true reason for allowing her nephew to remain there or perhaps a glimmer of family loyalty was left unsaid.

Hiding from Death Eaters

In the summer of 1997, the blood protections were due to expire. Petunia, Dudley, and Vernon were placed under the protection of Dedalus Diggle and Hestia Jones, both members of the Order of the Phoenix.

Just before the group left Privet Drive, Petunia watched her son offer the first words of acceptance Harry had ever heard from a Dursley and she burst into tears on Dudley. Petunia walked towards the door to leave, looked back at Harry and opened her mouth to speak, but shortly after she pursed them back up and walked out. Petunia had wanted to wish Harry luck with his quest, but suppressed it and left Privet Drive with her family. They went into hiding from Death Eaters and Lord Voldemort, who probably would have tried to torture them into giving away Harry's whereabouts, and would have most likely killed them regardless.

Later life

In later life, her only son Dudley married and had at least two children, making her a grandmother and mother-in-law to Dudley's wife. Harry has said to have been on "Christmas card" terms with Dudley and his family and went to visit them occasionally, which his children hated.

At some point before 2020, Petunia passed away for unknown reasons. It was revealed that she kept the blanket that Harry was brought to her in when he was a baby, which was given back to him after her death.

Me, Nico and Varie were making sure that the Dursley's never touch Harry Potter ever again.

I grabbed Vernon Dursley and braced him against the wall!

Me: You make me sick Vernon! You tormented and abused Harry Potter all because he was a wizard! Who the hell do you think you are!?

Vernon Dursley: (British Accent) I HATE WIZARDS! They are nothing but trouble!

Me: You're are nothing but a bigot! You make me sick just looking at you Dursley! If you were nicer to Harry, I would've let you off with a warning! But you don't care about him! You and Petunia even have the gall to insult his own mother! She was Petunia's sister!

Petunia Dursley: (British Accent) My sister was a freak!

Varie grabbed Petunia and braced her up to the wall!

Varie: You don't ever talk about your sister like that! She was your sister! She died protecting Harry from Voldemort and this is how you thank her!?

Petunia Dursley: I hate my sister! She deserved to die because she was nothing but a freak! A FUCKED UP FREAK THAT DESERVES TO GO TO HELL!

POW!

Varie punched Petunia in the stomach with devastating force!

Varie: What a loser! You have no right to call yourself a parent or a sister. Lilly Potter would be disgusted with you.

Nico: You two have failed this world and this city.

Me: As of right now, Harry Potter is placed under our protection. If you want to get to him, you'll have to go through us. And going through us is like having to face the wrath of God. So don't push us, or you are dead.

I let go of Vernon and we left. We went back to America.

* * *

Back at Team Loud Phoenix Storm estate in Gotham Royal York, Michigan we were sitting down in our greenhouse and drinking tea.

Harry Potter: (British Accent) Thank you for pounding my aunt and uncle J.D.

Me: No problem Harry. Anything to teach those old fucked up buzzards a lesson.

Laney: Yeah I hate the Dursleys. They are nothing but trouble in the world of wizards and muggles.

Lola: I hate them too. They are rotten to the core.

Lucy Loud: It's just absolutely disgusting that they would treat Harry Potter the way they do.

Me: I agree with all of you guys.

Muscle Man: You know who else is gonna be sorry if they hurt Harry again? My mom!

We laughed at Muscle Man's joke.

Me: You always crack us up Muscle Man.

Lily: He sure does. But didn't we also resurrect Lilly and James Potter as well?

Me: Yes he does. We used the Cosmic Cube to Resurrect everyone that was killed by Voldemort before and after the war. It was a rough battle that claimed the lives of many wizards and killed a lot of people.

Qin: That is awful that happened.

Me: I know.

Qin: But who is Lord Voldemort? I don't know.

Me: He was the worst ever wizard of all time.

I revealed the full extent of Voldemort's history.

---

Tom Marvolo Riddle (31 December 1926 - 2 May 1998), later known as Lord Voldemort or alternatively as You-Know-Who, He-Who-Must-Not-Be-Named, or the Dark Lord, was an English half-blood wizard considered to have been the most powerful and dangerous Dark Wizard of all time. He was amongst the greatest wizards to have ever lived, often considered to be the second most powerful wizard in history, his only superior being Albus Dumbledore. The only child and son of Tom and Merope Riddle (née Gaunt) via the coercive use of a love potion, Riddle was raised in the Muggle-run Wool's Orphanage after his father abandoned his new family on the streets of London when the potion's influence was lifted, and his mother died moments after giving birth to and naming him after his father and maternal grandfather, Marvolo Gaunt.

Riddle began attending Hogwarts School of Witchcraft and Wizardry in 1938 and was sorted into Slytherin house. Some of his early activities included the opening of Salazar Slytherin's Chamber of Secrets and the use of its monster to attack Muggle-born students; several months' service as a purchasing agent for the Dark artefacts shop Borgin and Burkes; the ability to speak Parseltongue; and the attainment of immortality between the years of 1943 and 1998, a process begun upon the creation of his first Horcrux at the age of sixteen.

Splitting his own spirit into a total of eight fragments, Riddle created seven Horcruxes; one unintentionally and without his knowledge - Harry Potter. Abandoning his 'Muggle' name, he became the self-proclaimed Lord Voldemort, which was an anagram of his birth name. He commanded a veritable army of wizards and Dark creatures, committed numerous murders personally and through his followers, and on one occasion nearly succeeded and on a later occasion did succeed in taking over the Ministry of Magic, installing a puppet Minister, Pius Thicknesse, who was controlled with the Imperius Curse.

Voldemort was ripped from his body in 1981 after attempting to kill Harry and, though unable to die, was not able to regain a permanent and physical body until 1995, thus spending the intervening fourteen years "a shell, less than the meanest ghost", but alive. He was finally killed by his own backfiring curse after Albus Dumbledore and Harry Potter, following Dumbledore's death, succeeded in destroying all of his Horcruxes.

Unknown to most, however, Voldemort's legacy and bloodline would live on through his daughter Delphini, whom he conceived with his loyal follower Bellatrix Lestrange; sometime after the Battle of the Department of Mysteries in 1996 and before Voldemort's death at the hands of Harry in 1998.

Riddle's broken and mutilated soul was then trapped in Limbo for eternity, unable to move on to the afterlife or even return as a disembodied spirit.

By Harry Potter's time, Tom's family on his mother Merope's side were the last known members of the House of Gaunt. The Gaunts were an ancient, and formerly wealthy, wizarding family, noted for producing individuals with violent and unstable personalities due to generations of inbreeding.

Previous, named members of the Gaunt family - Tom's distant relatives - included Corvinus Gaunt, Tom's maternal ancestor, and a Parselmouth who hid the Chamber of Secrets entrance in a girls' restroom at Hogwarts School of Witchcraft and Wizardry; Rionach Gaunt, the mother of Ilvermorny founder Isolt Sayre; and Gormlaith Gaunt, the sister of Rionach; maternal aunt of Sayre; maternal great-aunt of Rionach Steward and Martha Steward; and, it is believed, the "last of the Irish branch of the Gaunt family".

Because of the Gaunt family's liking for grandeur, along with little sensibility at their indulgences, the family gold was gambled away and gone long before the last known heirs of the lineage were born. Likewise, a tendency to "marry their own cousins" to "keep their bloodline pure", following the beliefs of their ancestor Salazar Slytherin, caused the heirs to the Gaunt name to suffer the ill-effects of generations of inbreeding and incest.

In North America, in what would later become the state of Massachusetts in the United States, the descendants of the Irish branch of the Gaunt family, through the Sayre's line, was thought to have died out sometime in the 17th or 18th century. Rionach Steward, Sayre's Half-blood daughter and the Defence Against the Dark Arts teacher at Ilvermony, was also rumoured to have inherited the ability to speak Parseltongue from her mother. Unwilling to further Slytherin's bloodline, since she viewed him as a Dark wizard, Rionach never married or had children, and she later died without heirs.

However, Rionach was unaware that another branch of the Gaunt family was still present, alive and well, across the ocean in England. It was from this line of Gaunts from which, centuries later, another Half-blood descendant, Tom Marvolo Riddle, would be born.

Rionach's sister Martha, unlike her sibling, married a No-maj (Muggle) friend of the nearby Pocumtuc Native American tribe. Born a Squib, without any magical powers, Martha felt ostracised within the growing American wizarding community, despite being the child of an important family. In the end, due to the emotional pain caused by being unable to perform magic, and the stigma of being the the only Squib to grow up at Ilvermorny, Martha decided to live her life henceforth as a Muggle.

Tom's maternal grandfather, Marvolo Gaunt, and his maternal uncle, Morfin Gaunt, claimed to be the last known male, Pure-blood descendants of Slytherin by the early 20th century. As such, they regarded themselves as "royalty" for their ancestry, despite their poverty; squalor; lack of education; and mental and physical disorders from centuries of familial inbreeding.

Tom's father, Tom Riddle Snr., was a wealthy Muggle living in the village of Little Hangleton, near the Gaunt shack, who was forced into a relationship with Merope Gaunt through probable use of either the Imperius Curse or a Love Potion. After some time, it is speculated by Albus Dumbledore that Merope discontinued her use of either the curse or love potions on Tom, in the hopes that he had really fallen in love with her, or would at least stay for their child's sake. To Merope's great sorrow, Tom Snr fled from her after he came to his senses and regained his free will and never wanted to see her again.

Early life (1926-1938)

Tom Marvolo Riddle was born on 31 December, 1926 at Wool's Orphanage in London. His mother Merope staggered to the door of the orphanage, had Tom born there, and died shortly after his birth. Riddle grew up in the dingy orphanage, completely unaware of his wizarding heritage. Since the Muggle orphanage staff did not know anything about his mother, they did not know about his magical background. Instead, they believed that Merope was a circus worker, as Mrs Cole told Dumbledore shortly before his first meeting with Riddle. It is unknown whether or not the staff relayed this to Riddle before his first encounter with Dumbledore.

Despite his ignorance of his mother's true background, Riddle did have some grasp on his abilities beyond that of normal magical children of his same age, and an unusually high degree of control over them. He could move objects with his mind and cause them to float wherever he wished, manipulate animals and creatures as he wished, speak Parseltongue, and use his power to inflict harm on other orphans. After getting into a fight with fellow orphan Billy Stubbs, he used his powers to hang the boy's rabbit from the rafters. On one occasion, he took two other orphans, Dennis Bishop and Amy Benson, into a cave, where he performed an act so horrifying that the two orphans were traumatised into silence. Riddle also stole from other orphans and hid their things in his cupboard like trophies.

Discovery of being a wizard

When Riddle was eleven, Dumbledore, who at the time was the Transfiguration teacher at Hogwarts, talked to Mrs Cole, who informed him of how unusual the boy was, sharing tales of his extraordinary influence over the other children. When Dumbledore was at last introduced to the boy, Riddle at first believed him to be a doctor or psychiatrist of some sort, come to take him to an asylum because of what the staff had seen. He was convinced after Dumbledore demonstrated his power by using a Flame-Freezing Charm on Riddle's cupboard and revealed that Hogwarts was a school for people with magic, whereupon Riddle realised his abilities were. Tom also mentioned his proficiency for Parseltongue in this same meeting, asking if it was a common gift amongst wizards, to which Dumbledore gave no reply. Dumbledore also admonished Riddle for stealing from others and made him return the items with his apologies. He also warned Riddle to stop his misbehaviour, as Hogwarts had an honour code whereupon lying, cheating and stealing were not tolerated.

At a very early age, it was clear that Riddle displayed a desire to be different and set apart from others (as it was hinted when he mentioned his dislike of his own name, because it was such a common name).

Riddle was not surprised upon being informed by Dumbledore that he was a wizard - he was, in fact, eager to believe that he had special gifts that no one else had. Riddle also showed an eminent fear of death, considering it a human weakness. He claimed that his mother could not have been a witch, because if she was magical, then she would have been able to avoid dying, and thought his father was a wizard. He asked if his father was an alumnus of Hogwarts, to which Dumbledore said he did not know offhand.

Riddle's abuse of his wizarding powers alarmed Albus. He resolved to keep a close eye on him, something he should have done in any case, seeing as he was "alone and friendless". Dumbledore also warned Riddle that at Hogwarts he would be introduced to the laws that controlled the usage of magic in the wizarding world, and that law-breakers were punished with severity not by Hogwarts but the Ministry of Magic. Riddle's demeanour changed after Dumbledore reprimanded him; he became more guarded and shielded his reactions. Dumbledore provided Riddle with enough information to find Diagon Alley and Platform Nine and Three-Quarters. He also provided Riddle with a stipend from school funds so that he could purchase his books and equipment. Travelling on his own to Diagon Alley, Riddle bought some second-hand robes and spell books for himself, along with his wand - thirteen-and-a-half inches, yew, phoenix feather core - at Ollivander's. Garrick Ollivander later said that the wand was very powerful; Voldemort was very pleased with it until the wand failed him during his confrontation with Harry Potter in the Little Hangleton graveyard.

Hogwarts years (1938-1945)

Riddle was educated at Hogwarts from 1938 to 1945, and was sorted into Slytherin House, a nod to his ancestor Salazar Slytherin. During summer breaks, he was forced to return to the Muggle orphanage, which he despised and dreaded more than any other place on earth.

Riddle described the way he was seen as "poor, but brilliant, parent-less, but so brave, a school prefect, a model student."[7] Due to his exceptional acting abilities, he was able to convince virtually all of the Hogwarts staff and instructors that this facade was his true personality. The sole exception to this was Dumbledore, who, though not necessarily suspicious of Riddle, never forgot about his misdeeds at the orphanage, nor his unsettling behaviour during their first meeting. In turn, Riddle realised that he had been careless in showing Dumbledore his true character upon their first meeting, and never attempted to win him over as he had with his other instructors. In time, he came to fear and despise Dumbledore.

Over time, Riddle gathered to himself a gang of Slytherin thugs, a motley composition of "the weak seeking protection, the ambitious seeking some shared glory, and the thuggish gravitating toward a leader who could show them more refined forms of cruelty," most of which would become the first Death Eaters. Riddle claimed they were his friends, and made it appear so in public, but in truth, they amounted to little more than servants, and he cared almost nothing for them. He often manipulated them into committing petty crimes and other misdeeds, but none of these incidents were reliably traced back to the group.

Opening the Chamber of Secrets

Upon arriving at Hogwarts, Riddle became obsessed with his heritage and began researching it with an insatiable hunger. He focused solely on the identity of his father, thinking him to be the magical parent, as he felt his mother could not have been a witch if she had died. He searched for his father's name in the school trophy room, in the records of Hogwarts prefects and in records of wizarding history, but found nothing to suggest his father had even attended Hogwarts. He was eventually forced to accept that his father was the Muggle parent, and that his mother was the magical one. It was around this time that Riddle gave himself the alias "Lord Voldemort", to spare himself of the reminder of his "filthy Muggle father."

Using his middle name, Marvolo, which was taken from his maternal grandfather, Riddle discovered his mother's heritage and the Gaunts' bloodline connection with Salazar Slytherin. Once Riddle learned of his ancestry, it was not long before he discovered the existence of the Chamber of Secrets under Hogwarts, during his fifth year, and tamed the Basilisk which dwelt within. As the Heir of Slytherin through his mother's family, Tom was able to open the Chamber Slytherin had left behind in order to "purge the school of all those who [were] unworthy to study magic" - in Riddle's and Slytherin's eyes, Muggle-borns.

Around 13 June, 1943, the Basilisk injured many at Hogwarts, with its last victim being a student named Myrtle Warren, who was killed in the girls' bathroom when she saw the Basilisk's yellow eyes. In light of this incident, the Hogwarts Board of Governors decided that Hogwarts was to be closed. During that year, Riddle made a special request that Headmaster Armando Dippet would allow him to stay at school over the summer break. However, Dippet informed him of the governors' decision, and denied his request. Realising that the Chamber would need to be closed and the culprit caught in order to keep the school open (and not have to return permanently to the orphanage), Riddle framed fellow student Rubeus Hagrid and his pet Acromantula, Aragog. He convinced Dippet that Aragog was the monster that had terrorised the school. Hagrid was expelled, and Riddle received an engraved trophy for Special Services to the School.

Dumbledore, who did not believe that Hagrid was responsible for the killing, managed to arrange for him to be kept on as Hogwarts's groundskeeper. Distrusting Riddle, Dumbledore kept an "annoyingly close" watch on him after that. Due to this, Riddle realised that he would not be able to risk opening the Chamber while still a student. As such, he preserved a part of his soul within his own school diary, the very first of his seven Horcruxes, hoping it would one day lead someone to finish Salazar Slytherin's "noble work".

Murder of the Riddle family

Around August 1943, Riddle went to Little Hangleton to learn about his mother's family. While at the Gaunt Shack, he met his uncle Morfin Gaunt, with whom he was far from impressed. Morfin mentioned offhandedly at one point during this meeting that he thought that Tom looked "mighty like that Muggle," Merope's husband, Tom Riddle Snr. Riddle immediately demanded the identity of the Muggle in question, and Morfin told Riddle the story of his Muggle father, which infuriated Tom to the point of seeking revenge. Riddle stunned Morfin and took his wand, went over to the Riddle House and, using his uncle's wand, murdered his father, grandfather, and grandmother with the Killing Curse.

Riddle covered up his crimes by altering Morfin's memory, causing him to believe that he was the killer. When the Ministry of Magic investigated the crime, Morfin, who had previously served three years in Azkaban for using magic in front of and against Muggles, freely admitted to the deed and was sentenced to life imprisonment in Azkaban. Tom took the Gaunt family's signet ring from Morfin and later on would preserve another part of his soul within it to make his second Horcrux, wearing it like a trophy at Hogwarts.

Learning about Horcruxes

During his sixth year, Riddle questioned Professor Slughorn, who was taken in by Riddle's charisma, about the possibility of creating more than one Horcrux, something Slughorn felt deeply ashamed of in later years. In his mid-teen years, Riddle already sought to make himself immortal; being unable to find any recorded information on creating multiple Horcruxes. He wanted to split his soul into seven, as this is the most powerful magical number, and asked the experienced and knowledgeable Slughorn for an opinion before attempting this unknown feat. Slughorn answered all of Riddle's questions under the belief it was merely academic curiosity but was deeply horrified at the thought of creating multiple Horcruxes.

Riddle succeeded in doing so at some point during this year, creating his first Horcrux in the form of the aforementioned diary and his second in the form of the inherited ring. During Riddle's seventh year at Hogwarts, he was made Head Boy, earned outstanding marks in every examination he took, and received a Medal for Magical Merit. Riddle was regarded as one of the most brilliant students ever to attend Hogwarts, a fact admitted by Dumbledore himself.

After Hogwarts (1945-1949)

After graduating, Riddle immediately approached Dippet and asked him for a chance to teach Defence Against the Dark Arts, and to remain at Hogwarts, for reasons that he did not confide with the then-headmaster - Hogwarts being his true home at heart, using the influential position as a teacher to recruit students into his future army, and to continue to learn the castle's magical secrets. Dippet rejected this offer, deeming the boy too young, but invited Riddle to reapply in a few years, if he was still interested in the post, something that Dumbledore heavily advised against.

Shortly before leaving Hogwarts, however, Riddle charmed Helena Ravenclaw, the daughter of Rowena Ravenclaw and the ghost of Ravenclaw House, into telling him the location of her mother's diadem, which she revealed as a hollow tree deep within a far-flung forest in Albania. He presumably travelled there at her instruction, murdering an Albanian peasant along the way before retrieving the diadem, which he later preserved a third part of his soul within to make his third Horcrux.

Upon his return to Britain, Riddle was offered several positions in the Ministry of Magic, but ended up working at Borgin and Burkes, to the disappointment and surprise of many. Riddle set to persuading witches and wizards to part with their valuable magical heirlooms - a job at which he was very good.

The rise of the Dark Lord (1950-1970)

Murdering Hepzibah Smith

While working at Borgin and Burkes, Riddle befriended Hepzibah Smith, a wealthy but elderly descendant of Helga Hufflepuff. Between 1955 and 1961, Hepzibah showed Riddle her two most valuable treasures: his ancestor's locket and her ancestor's cup. Tom's eyes flashed red with greed and avarice upon seeing these objects, seeing the locket to be rightfully his as Slytherin's heir and the cup as a reminder of Hogwarts, as well as a priceless artefact.

Riddle murdered Hepzibah, by using a "Little known poison", to steal these coveted objects and vanished without a trace. He again covered his tracks well by implanting another false memory into an innocent bystander - Hokey, Hepzibah's house-elf. Hokey admitted to accidentally putting poison into Hepzibah's cocoa, which was believed, as Hokey was elderly herself. Meanwhile, Riddle immediately resigned his post at Borgin and Burkes and fled with the cup and locket, subsequently turning them into two more Horcruxes using the murders of Hepzibah and an unidentified Muggle tramp.

Lord Voldemort's request

Riddle disappeared for ten long years. He slipped deeper into the Dark Arts, travelled extensively, consorted with disreputable people, began to become distorted in appearance and lose his handsomeness due to splitting his soul so many times, and began to use the alias "Lord Voldemort" openly. He also severed contact with Slughorn, who became upset for not living up to the Potions Master's employment offers.

Ten years after Hepzibah Smith's murder, Riddle appealed once more to the Headmaster of Hogwarts, now Albus Dumbledore, for the position of Professor of Defence Against the Dark Arts. After a short, superficially amiable chat, Dumbledore directly confronted Riddle regarding why he had requested the position, as he knew full well that Riddle had no desire whatsoever to teach. Riddle, unable to make an open request of Dumbledore due to the malicious nature of his true intentions, simply left after a final, gentle rebuke from his former teacher. From that day on, Hogwarts was never able to keep a Defence Against the Dark Arts teacher for more than a year, which was attributed by Dumbledore to a curse by Riddle. The visit to Hogwarts was not fruitless, however, for Riddle used the opportunity to hide the diadem in the Room of Requirement, where he believed it would never be found.

Voldemort, as Riddle was now exclusively called, spent the next few years before the First Wizarding War gathering followers in witches and wizards who called themselves, collectively, Death Eaters. Some were supportive of his cause to dominate Muggles and Muggle-borns; while others were greedy for domination, wealth and fame; and yet others joined the Dark Lord out of fear. Voldemort considered them more like servants than friends or family. According to Sirius Black, Voldemort also used tricks, jinxes, and blackmail to get people to willingly join him.

At some point around this time, Voldemort greatly enhanced his skills in Legilimency, to the point that he quickly earned a reputation as the greatest Legilimens alive. Voldemort could read, control and unhinge the minds of others, and could almost always tell when he was being lied to. According to Severus Snape, Voldemort often enjoyed telepathically invading the minds of others, creating visions designed to torture them into madness. Only after extracting the last exquisite ounce of agony, only when he had them literally begging for death, would he finally kill them.

First Wizarding War (1970-1981)

In 1970, Voldemort started the First Wizarding War by taking advantage of one of the wizarding world's greatest weaknesses: the beings and creatures that they had outcast. The Dark Lord recruited the giants, who had long ago been driven by Wizardkind into the mountains, and werewolves, who were persecuted by most witches and wizards. Many feared the goblins would also join him, as they were restricted from wand use, but it never happened. In fact, Voldemort murdered a family of goblins near Nottingham at some point during the War, for an unknown reason (possibly anger at the neutrality of the goblins, or no reason at all). Voldemort's army caused widespread destruction and mayhem during the war.

Bartemius Crouch Snr, who was the head of the Department of Magical Law Enforcement at the time and was known for his fanatical hatred of the Dark Arts, issued an edict that gave Aurors authorisation to use Unforgivable Curses on Death Eaters without warning, and suspects were sometimes handed over to the Dementors without a Wizengamot trial. Many innocent people were locked away. For many years after, people were even afraid to speak his name, and he was referred to as "You-Know-Who" or "He-Who-Must-Not-Be-Named."

Under the staunch protection of Dumbledore, the only person Voldemort truly feared, Hogwarts remained a safe place of learning throughout the entire war. The Order of the Phoenix was created by Dumbledore at this time to fight against Voldemort. The war itself lasted for eleven long years.

Visiting the Lee family

Eventually, Lord Voldemort visited the home of the father of Barnaby Lee. He told his son he was capable of anything if he could become as strong as the Dark Lord, showing his faith in his master. He later drowned Barnaby's pet Kneazle.

Testing his Horcrux's defences

The Inferi in the crystal cave

Nine years into the war, Voldemort decided to test the defences around his Horcruxes. He placed Slytherin's locket in the crystal cave, and asked Regulus Black, a loyal 18-year-old Death Eater to lend him his house-elf, Kreacher. Voldemort took the elf with him to the cave, forced him to drink the Emerald Potion, and left him to die on the Crystal Cave Island. Kreacher was able to escape using house-elf magic, and told Regulus of what had happened. Over the years, Voldemort created an army of Inferi from the people he had killed to further strengthen his defences. Upon hearing Kreacher's story, Regulus, who had already been somewhat uncomfortable with the reality of being a Death Eater, decided to defect. From clues left behind by Voldemort, he deduced that his master had created a Horcrux in order to become immortal. He took a duplicate locket and placed a note inside for Voldemort to find, then ordered Kreacher to take him to where the real locket was hidden. Kreacher guided Regulus past the cave's defences. At the island, with the basin of potion containing the locket, Regulus ordered Kreacher to take it once the potion was gone and replace it with the fake one, then escape without him and find a way to destroy the Horcrux. Regulus drank the potion himself, and when he tried to get water from the lake to quench his thirst, he was dragged to his death by the Inferi. Kreacher obeyed his master's orders and switched the lockets before escaping. However, despite his best efforts, he was unable to destroy the Horcrux.

During this time, Voldemort gave his old diary to Lucius Malfoy, his loyal Death Eater, and ordered him to hide it. Malfoy kept it safe in his manor, but the Dark Lord never told him that the diary contained a fragment of his soul. Voldemort informed him only that the diary was cleverly charmed and smuggling it into Hogwarts will cause the reopening of the legendary Chamber of Secrets and send the Basilisk living inside the chamber to finish Slytherin's idea of cleansing the school of all Muggle-borns, thus proving that Voldemort was Slytherin's true heir.

Voldemort also left the Hufflepuff's cup in the care of Bellatrix Lestrange, another one of his loyal Death Eaters. Bellatrix, much like her brother-in-law Lucius, was ordered to hide it, so she stored it in her family vault at Gringotts Wizarding Bank, which was considered to be impossible to plunder. She treated the object with extreme priority, although Voldermort hadn't informed her that the cup was a Horcrux. The cup was protected by the bank's extensive security measures, but Lestrange casted some protective curses on it, like a spell which would cause any object to multiply exponentially if touched by anyone other than the vault's owners or to cause the object itself to glow hot as fire and burn the flesh of anyone trying to remove it without authorization.

Probably during this time he returned Gaunt's ring to the Gaunt shack. He placed the ring inside a golden box and hid it beneath the shack's rotting floorboard, setting up many protective enchantments to deter outsiders from entering the shack and finding the ring. He also placed a powerful curse on the ring as well, one that would quickly lead to the death of the ring's wearer if not stemmed.

The Prophecy

"The one with the power to vanquish the Dark Lord approaches… Born to those who have thrice defied him, born as the seventh month dies… And the Dark Lord will mark him as equal, but he will have power the Dark Lord knows not… And either must die at the hand of the other for neither can live while the other survives… The one with the power to vanquish the Dark Lord will be born as the seventh month dies…"

-Sybill Trelawney's first prophecy

Ten years into the war, when Voldemort was at the height of his dominion, a prophecy was given by Sybill Trelawney to Albus Dumbledore which predicted the fall of the Dark Lord. This prophecy was given in the Hog's Head Inn during an interview for the position of Professor of Divination. This prophecy was overheard by Death Eater and informant Severus Snape. According to Dumbledore, Snape only heard half of the prophecy and was then thrown out by the barman, Aberforth Dumbledore, Albus' brother. He relayed to Voldemort what he had heard, not realising that he had missed an important part of the message.

Trelawney's description of the night's events was a bit different however, as she stated that after feeling "ill," Aberforth burst into the room with Snape in tow, whom he had caught eavesdropping at the door. This is in contrast with Dumbledore's description of events. However, this may be due to the fact that Dumbledore had wished to conceal the identity of the spy from Harry, and told him a simplified version of the events. In any case, Voldemort received only the first part of the prophecy. Feeling threatened, he sprang into action to prevent the fulfilment of the prophecy.

There were, at the time, two babies to whom the prophecy could have referred - Harry Potter, the half-blood son of James and Lily Potter; and Neville Longbottom, the pure-blood son of Frank and Alice Longbottom. Both families had sought to thwart Voldemort three times, and both families were members of the Order of the Phoenix. Both children in question were born at the end of the seventh month, July. Voldemort chose to target Harry instead of Neville; Dumbledore suspected this was because Harry shared a similar family heritage with Voldemort, both of them being half-bloods.

First fall from grace

Potter family murder

Some time after Harry's birth, Peter Pettigrew, member of the Order of the Phoenix and the Potter's Secret Keeper began working as a Death Eater for Voldemort. On 31 October 1981 he told Voldemort of their location. The Dark Lord travelled to the Godric's Hollow and with the Potter's Fidelius Charm broken, he simply walked into their home. Once inside he proceeded to murder James and Lily, who did not have their wands. However, when he used the Killing Curse on Harry, it rebounded and seemingly obliterated his body. This happened because Lily lovingly sacrificed her life to protect her son, creating a powerful defence of ancient magic around Harry which protected him for many years. After eleven years of domination and warfare, Voldemort was defeated for the first time.

Harry Voldemort 1981

It was at this point that Voldemort's next Horcrux was unknowingly created. Years of experimentation, murder, and deliberately ripping apart his soul into so many Horcruxes had rendered the remainder of his soul so unstable that, when his body was destroyed, a small shard of his soul broke apart from the rest and latched unto the only other living being in what remained of the room: Harry Potter himself. The soul shard latched unto Harry's own soul, granting him some of the Dark Lord's own powers and providing him with a latent connection to Voldemort's own mind. Ironically, Harry became the Dark Lord's sixth Horcrux, the desired number Voldemort wanted in order to split his soul into seven pieces. What remained of Voldemort's mangled soul swiftly escaped from the ruins of the house that same night.

Missing years (1981-1994)

Death Eaters' trial

After Voldemort's first fall from domination, the Death Eaters dispersed and attempted to return to normal life. Many claimed they had been under the Imperius Curse, while others stayed true to their master and continued his work, most notably the Lestrange family, who were eventually taken into custody, convicted at trial, and imprisoned in Azkaban. Most of them however, managed ultimately to remain free and to re-integrate into society.

Voldemort Spirit

Voldemort lost his physical form and magical powers, but he remained alive in ghostly form. The Horcruxes he had created kept his spirit bound to the physical world. He retreated to the forests of Albania, where he had previously found his fifth Horcrux, and waited for his faithful Death Eaters to find him, but many of them now believed him dead, and those still faithful to him were either dead or in Azkaban. His one remaining power was possession. He gained physical form by inhabiting animals, mainly snakes, though he disliked doing so because the bodies of such animals were ill-equipped to perform magic, and because his possession significantly reduced their lifespans; none of his hosts survived for too long. Additionally, any help that he could have potentially rendered himself required the use of a wand, and animals, obviously, could not be used for this purpose. Voldemort did not dare enter the communities to possess humans, as he knew that Aurors were still abroad, looking for any signs of him.

Search for the Philosopher's Stone

In 1991, Voldemort formed a plan to regain his physical body. Hogwarts Professor Quirinus Quirrell had made a voyage to Albania, where his foolish and gullible mind was vulnerable to Voldemort. He latched onto Quirrell's body and came back to England with him.

Somehow, Voldemort learned of the Philosopher's Stone, and how it could somehow return him to his physical form. He ordered Quirrell to steal the stone from a Vault 713 in Gringotts Wizarding Bank so he could make the Elixir of Life. Voldemort discovered the Stone had been removed earlier that same day, and through Quirrell's connections at Hogwarts, learned it was hidden at the school.

The same year that Voldemort set to the task of stealing the Stone, Harry Potter began his first year at Hogwarts. There were many barriers protecting the Stone. Severus Snape, who had switched sides near the end of the war and become a professor of Potions, was suspicious of Quirrell and hounded him relentlessly. On 31 October, Quirrell released a troll in the Hogwarts dungeons as a distraction and sneaked to the Third Floor Corridor, where the Stone was being hidden. Snape followed him and blocked him off, but he has been bitten on the leg by the three-headed dog Fluffy in the process. Voldemort was not to be stopped.

Later in the year, during a Quidditch match between Gryffindor and Slytherin, Voldemort ordered Quirrell to kill Harry Potter. Quirrell jinxed Harry's broomstick to throw him off, but Snape tried to save Harry with a counter-curse. Hermione Granger, observing the crowd through binoculars to figure out who was jinxing the broom, saw Snape discreetly uttering the counter-curse incantation but erroneously assumed he was performing the actual curse. Running to Snape's stand and setting fire to his robes to distract him and make him stop, she accidentally knocked Quirrell over. This meant that Quirrell broke the necessary eye contact for performing his spell correctly.

Throughout the year, hosting Voldemort's soul drastically weakened Quirrell's body. Voldemort ordered Quirrell to prey on unicorns in the Forbidden Forest and drink their blood so he could gain strength from the unicorn's healing abilities and keep Quirrell alive. Quirrell met Harry, Draco Malfoy, and Fang there, and was about to attack Harry until the centaur Firenze rescued him. About a week before Harry's exams, Harry overheard a conversation between Voldemort and Quirrell, in which the Dark Lord ordered the Defence teacher to try to get the stone again. Potter mistook the conversation for an argument between Snape and Quirrell, because after the match with Slytherin he saw the Potions Master trying to intimidate Quirrell.

Voldemort, perfectly aware of Hagrid's love for magical creatures from their school days and well knowing that Fluffy belonged to the half-giant, forced Quirrell to trick the Hogwarts groundskeeper into telling him how to get past the three-headed dog. One day at the Hog's Head in Hogsmeade, a hooded Quirrell met Hagrid and enticed him into a card game with the wager of a dragon egg. Hagrid assumed that the mysterious man was a dragon dealer and fellow dangerous creature enthusiast. Under the influence of a fair amount of mead, Hagrid divulged Quirrell that playing music for the Fluffy would put him to sleep.

Voldemort and Quirrell

On 4 June 1992, Voldemort ordered Quirrell to send a fake letter to Albus Dumbledore, asking him to go to the Ministry of Magic. Voldemort moved forward with his goal, moving through the security barriers to the Mirror of Erised. Quirrell saw himself presenting the stone to his master, but could not figure out how to get it.

It was only when Harry arrived, believing he was protecting the Stone from Snape, that Voldemort saw a way to get it. Dumbledore would later say, "Only those who wanted to find the stone, but not use it, could get it from the mirror." Voldemort figured this out, and Quirrell attacked Harry. When he touched Harry, however, his hands blistered and burned. Harry placed his hands on Quirrell's face, severely injuring him. However, before Quirrell could harm Harry, Dumbledore appeared, and Voldemort's soul fled, killing Quirrell in the process. Voldemort returned to the Albanian forest, weaker than ever. He had to wait yet again for someone to help him.

Reopening the Chamber of Secrets

When Voldemort, after an unsuccessful attempt to steal the Philosopher's Stone, was still hiding in Albania, Lucius Malfoy was still into possession of his diary. In the summer of 1992, Arthur Weasley began conducting raids on several wizarding households to confiscate Dark or illegally enchanted objects under his recently proposed Muggle Protection Act. Before Malfoy Manor could be raided, Lucius sold several of his more incriminating possessions at Borgin and Burkes and set in motion the old task that Voldemort assigned him which involved reopening the Chamber of Secrets. At Flourish and Blotts Malfoy planted the diary on eleven-year-old Ginny Weasley, who brought it to Hogwarts. By doing this, he hoped to kill two birds with one stone: he would rid himself of any ties connecting to the Dark Arts and he would discredit Arthur Weasley. Ginny began writing in it, and found that a sixteen-year-old Tom Riddle was answering. She found comfort in the diary, confiding it with her worries, not knowing she was being manipulated. Riddle would always have sympathy. The diary slowly drained the life and energy from Ginny, transferring it to itself. Under the diary's control, Ginny re-opened the Chamber of Secrets and released the basilisk, which petrified several students. While possessed, she also killed Hagrid's roosters and wrote threatening messages on the school corridors in rooster blood. Ginny became upset and confused, knowing that the diary was doing something to her, and tried to flush it down the toilet in Moaning Myrtle's bathroom. Harry and Ginny's brother Ron accidentally stumbled upon it, and Harry began communicating with the diary.

When Ginny saw that Harry had the diary, she stole it back for she did not want Harry to find out all the things she had written in the diary, or what she had done while under its influence. When this piece of Voldemort's soul was ready to take his physical form from Ginny's life, the diary lured her into the Chamber while ignoring her pleas and cries for mercy. Harry found Ginny in time and destroyed the basilisk with Godric Gryffindor's Sword. Fawkes also arrived, summoned by Harry's profound devotion and loyalty to Dumbledore.

This encounter and Horcrux is what revealed Voldemort's past as "Tom Marvolo Riddle" to Harry. At first, Harry thought he was an ally, and asked him to help. Then, when revealing his future identity to Harry, Riddle implied that he wanted to kill Harry in revenge for destroying him over even continuing Salazar Slytherin's wish of purging the school of Muggle-borns. Instinctively, Harry used the basilisk's fang to stab the diary, thinking it would destroy its dark power. Not only was the diary destroyed, but Harry also unknowingly destroyed one of Voldemort's Horcruxes. As Dumbledore surmised, the shard of Voldemort's soul that contained his core identity was still in hiding in Albania and remained unaware of these occurances for at least another year and a half.

Return to full strength (1994-1995)

In the summer of 1994, when Voldemort had all but given up hope of obtaining any help from his former servants, Peter Pettigrew, also known as "Wormtail," who had faked his own death years earlier and hid from authorities in his Animagus form of a rat, travelled to Albania. Wormtail, tired of travelling and hungry, decided to eat something in an inn near the forest in which Voldemort was hiding. He was found there by Bertha Jorkins, a Ministry of Magic worker, who was on holidays in Albania. Although she recognised Peter, Pettigrew lured her into Voldemort's forest hideout and overpowered her, before handing her over to the Dark Lord. Upon torturing her, Voldemort was surprised to find that someone had put a powerful Memory Charm on her. After breaking the charm, Voldemort learned from her that this year the Triwizard Tournament would be held at Hogwarts and that Alastor Moody, an ex-Auror, will teach Defence Against the Dark Arts. She also revealed to him that Bartemius Crouch Jr, one of his loyal Death Eaters, who had been imprisoned in Azkaban after his fall and was thought to be dead, is alive. Bartemius Crouch Snr was concealing his son at his home after helping him escape prison. Jorkins had stumbled upon Crouch Jr at his house, and Crouch Snr placed a Memory Charm on her so that she would not report it. Voldemort, unable to possess her body and mind, which were damaged by the spells he cast, murdered her. Voldemort, knowing also that Wormtail had been deemed dead by the wizarding community, and would have attracted too much attention, didn't possess his body as well. Together, they built a rudimentary body that Voldemort used for travel and performing magic. While in this form, Voldemort was forced to drink a Rudimentary body potion made from unicorn blood and venom from Nagini, a snake he befriended, to sustain his life.

Knowing that Dumbledore was sure to have seen to it that the Philosopher's Stone was destroyed, Voldemort knew he would not be able to use the Elixir of Life to create a new body for himself. Voldemort decided to attempt an old piece of ritualistic Dark Magic to create a potion that would restore him to a body. He made plans to travel to England in order to obtain two of the three key ingredients: a bone from his father and the blood of his most hated enemy, Harry Potter. The third ingredient, the flesh of a servant willingly given, he would obtain from Wormtail himself.

Returning to the Riddle House in Little Hangleton, Voldemort set his sights on finally killing Harry Potter. He considered kidnapping Harry during the 422nd Quidditch World Cup, where protection from his relatives and Dumbledore would not be so effective, but he was not strong enough to do it with the whole horde of Ministry employees running about.

Voldemort kills Bryce

As they were discussing their plans, Voldemort and Wormtail were unaware that a Muggle caretaker of the Riddle House, Frank Bryce, who has been suspected by the villagers for the murder of the Riddle family for a half of a century, had been standing behind the door eavesdropping on their plans. When Nagini arrived in the corridor and spotted him, she informed Voldemort in Parseltongue about his presence. Voldemort invited him into the room and after a short conversation he killed him for overhearing their plan.

Eve of war

During the Quidditch World Cup, Barty Crouch Jr escaped from his father's enchantments and cast the Dark Mark, but was quickly recaptured again. Voldemort and Wormtail went to the Crouch estate, where Voldemort placed Crouch Snr under the Imperius Curse and freed Crouch Jr for good. Voldemort ordered Crouch Jr and Pettigrew to capture Moody at his home. When they did it, Crouch placed Moody under Imperius Curse and created Polyjuice Potion which he used to impersonate Moody for the entire school year. He influenced the Tournament for months, ensuring that Harry would be the one to get to the Triwizard Cup first which, unbeknownst to anyone, was a Portkey. Meanwhile Voldemort returned to the Crouch estate with Wormtail, where they ordered Crouch Snr to continue about his business as usual.

When Crouch Snr started to show signs of resisting the Imperius Curse, Voldemort decided it was no longer safe to allow him to leave the house, and instead made him stay home under the presumption of being sick. In late May of 1995 Crouch Snr continued to fight through Voldemort's control and eventually escaped due to Wormtail's negligence.

Voldemort quickly alerted Crouch Jr to stop his father at all cost as he surmised that Crouch was intending to tell Dumbledore all about his past actions and Voldemort's plans. Upon Jr's success, Voldemort spared Pettigrew from being a dinner to Nagini, instead opting to punish him with the Cruciatus Curse. After that Voldemort and Wormtail back to Little Hangleton.

Duel in Little Hangleton

On 24 June 1995, Harry, in the spirit of sportsmanship, requested Cedric Diggory to tie with him for the win. When they both touched the Portkey, they were transported to a Little Hangleton graveyard where Wormtail and Voldemort were waiting. Under Voldemort's orders, Pettigrew murdered Cedric with the Killing Curse and went on to have Harry tightly bound and gagged to the Riddle family tombstone.

Voldemort's rebirth

After Wormtail had placed Voldemort's rudimentary body into a cauldron containing the near finished potion, he added the first two ingredients, one of which was his hand, causing it to turn from a poisonous-looking blue to burning red before he proceeded to obtain Harry's blood and added it to the potion for his master's rebirth.[26] Once the final ingredient was added, the potion turned blinding white, sending out bright sparks as it simmered before dying down and a thick white steamed the ritual now complete, Voldemort regained his physical body and emerged from the cauldron. Calling on Wormtail to robe him, the reborn Dark Lord took some time examining his body and getting reaccustomed to it. Then he called for his servant to show him his arm and used the now activated Dark Mark to summon his Death Eaters.

Those who were perhaps most loyal to him, save for those who willingly went to Azkaban in his name, appeared. Voldemort welcomed them before he scorned them for believing him to be dead and informed them that he would expect better of them now that he had returned. The Dark Lord told the Death Eaters of the events that had led to his first downfall, his years in hiding before he tried to steal the Philosopher's Stone by possessing Quirrell and eventual defeat before finally of how Pettigrew had located him, and they set out to orchestrate his resurrection. He rewarded Wormtail by constructing a silver hand.

Duel graveyard

Voldemort then set his attention on Harry, and began to mock and humiliate the boy before the Death Eaters. He then had Harry untied so he could force the young wizard into a duel where the Dark Lord had a greater advantage over Harry. After inflicting the Cruciatus Curse several times and the Imperius Curse on Harry, Voldemort was ready to end the one sided duel and kill Harry once and for all. Yet as Voldemort cast Avada Kedavra, Harry simultaneously cast Expelliarmus and their twin-core wands became locked in Priori Incantatem.

People who had been killed by Voldemort's wand came out as spectral visions. First Diggory, next Bryce, then Jorkins followed by Lily and James Potters, Harry's parents. They encouraged Harry, while distracting Voldemort. Harry pulled away and had enough time to grab Cedric's body and the Triwizard Cup to return to the Hogwarts grounds infuriating Voldemort who had lost his chance at killing Harry right then and there which resulted in Harry alerting Dumbledore to Voldemort's return which created obvious obstacles in his plans to regain his power over the Wizarding World.

Back at Hogwarts, Crouch Jr. was discovered by Dumbledore and Harry but was subjected to the Dementor's Kiss before he could be tried before the Wizengamot. Thus, the only knowledge of Voldemort's return was Harry's word, which was vigorously disputed by the Ministry of Magic. Voldemort was able to grow in power in secret, concentrating on recruiting many wizards as well as the giants to his side in addition to stealing the full record of the prophecy regarding himself and Harry.

Second Wizarding War (1995-1998)

Bid for the Prophecy

In 1995, Dumbledore reconvened the Order of the Phoenix once more, using Sirius Black's family home at 12 Grimmauld Place as headquarters. Harry, Ron and Hermione Granger set up a similar organisation at Hogwarts called Dumbledore's Army, which was originally created to thwart the Ministry's meddling at the school under Dolores Umbridge.

Thanks to the Ministry's denial of Voldemort's return and the Daily Prophet's smear campaign against Dumbledore and Harry, the general public was left unaware and ignorant of his presence, making it easy for his operations to run smoothly and without interference. Eventually, Voldemort travelled to Azkaban and freed several of his most loyal Death Eaters, such as Bellatrix Lestrange. Voldemort had little trouble with this, as many of the Dementors were happy to obey him. The Dark wizards returned to his side thereafter.

Azkaban escape

Voldemort's first attempt at securing the prophecy was to have Malfoy put Order member Sturgis Podmore under the Imperius Curse and send him to take the prophecy. However, Sturgis was unable to get into the Department of Mysteries. He blamed Augustus Rookwood for the failure, but Rookwood in turn blamed Avery. Voldemort thanked Rookwood and sent him to fetch Avery. He proceeded to question Avery and torture him for his faulty information.

His next attempt was to use the Imperius Curse on an Unspeakable named Broderick Bode. He was ordered to retrieve the prophecy, but was seriously injured in the process and was put into a permanent ward at St Mungo's Hospital for Magical Maladies and Injuries. From this, Voldemort learned that the only people who could retrieve a prophecy are the people who are included in the prophecy. Voldemort could not risk going into the Ministry himself, so he used a telepathic link through Harry's scar to cause him to go there instead.

Battle of the Department of Mysteries

Members of Dumbledore's Army, including Harry, Hermione, Ron, Ginny, Neville, and Luna Lovegood went to the Department of Mysteries seeking to rescue Sirius Black, who they believed to be trapped there. Harry wound up retrieving the prophecy from its shelf. At once, Death Eaters appeared, demanding Harry hand over the prophecy. Dumbledore's Army fought back, and during the battle that ensued, the prophecy was destroyed. Voldemort was forced to come to the Ministry, but upon learning of its destruction he tried to murder Harry.

Voldemort's attempt was foiled by Dumbledore, and a fantastic duel ensued. Despite Voldemort's overwhelming magical abillities, much to his great frustration, Dumbledore managed to hold his own against the Dark Lord, calmly avoiding and deflecting Voldemort's barrage of attacks while also maintaining the offensive. Though he deflected all of Dumbledore attempts to contain him, and even managed to nearly kill his former teacher, Voldemort was eventually trapped in an orb of water that he was forced to disapperate out of.

Voldemort possesses Harry Potter

Voldemort then attempted to possess Harry instead, hoping Dumbledore would kill the boy in an attempt to destroy Voldemort himself, but Harry's heart, full of grief over the loss of his godfather Sirius, was able to force Voldemort out of his mind. With both the loss of the prophecy and his failure to kill Harry and defeat Dumbledore, Voldemort aborted his mission, dragging Bellatrix along as he fled, but not before Minister for Magic Cornelius Fudge and the other Ministry officials arrived, witnessing for themselves that the Dark Lord had, in fact, returned. After a year of operating secretly, Lord Voldemort's cover was now blown and the remaining Death Eaters incapacitated by the Order, including Lucius, were taken into custody and sent to Azkaban.

Sometime following this, Voldemort would secretly engage in a sexual relationship with Bellatrix Lestrange. Out of this union would be born their daughter Delphini, who would be given over to be raised by the Rowle family, a family sworn to Voldemort. At another point, Voldemort discovered that Malfoy had been careless with the diary Horcrux and it had been destroyed, leaving Voldemort highly furious.

The start of open war

With Voldemort no longer needing to keep his actions silent, the Second Wizarding War had begun. The Dementors left Azkaban to side with the Dark Lord, who could offer them more scope for their powers. As a result, there were many attacks by Voldemort's army. Mass Muggle killings were rampant; what was claimed to be a hurricane to the Muggle world was in fact a rampage by the giants, whom Voldemort had drawn into allegiance. Voldemort himself duelled and killed Amelia Bones, the head of the Department of Magical Law Enforcement, who was described as having put up a good fight against him and as one of the greatest witches of the age. Dementor attacks were daily, the effect on the Muggles manifested in severe depression and grim weather. Voldemort attempted to blackmail Cornelius Fudge, and when he stood his ground, the Dark Lord initiated the destruction of the Brockdale Bridge, sending at least twelve cars into the water.

In July of 1996, Voldemort required a spy within Hogwarts and inducted Lucius Malfoy's son Draco as a Death Eater. He ordered Draco to kill Dumbledore, for he wished to punish Lucius for his failings by giving his son a task he could not do. If Draco failed, he would meet terrible consequences. However, Draco was able to sneak a group of Death Eaters into Hogwarts through a pair of Vanishing Cabinets that connected Borgin and Burkes with the Room of Requirement. The Battle of the Astronomy Tower ensued. Voldemort's plans were carried out when Snape used the Killing Curse on Dumbledore. Although the Death Eaters fled Hogwarts, the intrusion of the castle signified that there was no longer a single place safe from the Dark Lord.

Meeting at Malfoy Manor

Voldemort took over Malfoy Manor as his headquarters. During the summer of 1997, he captured the Hogwarts Professor of Muggle Studies, Charity Burbage, and killed her during a meeting with his Death Eaters before feeding her to Nagini. Voldemort also imprisoned and interrogated the kidnapped wandmaker, Garrick Ollivander, about why his wand could not duel against Harry's. Ollivander revealed that their wands shared the same core, and would not work properly against each other. This came as a great relief to Voldemort, who worried that Harry had escaped from him in the graveyard by superior skill. Ollivander told Voldemort that he merely needed another's wand, and so he took Lucius Malfoy's. This served as a way to punish and demean the Malfoy family. At this point, he was nearly ready to conquer the Ministry, insisting that Rufus Scrimgeour must be surrounded entirely before he made his next move.

Battle of the Seven Potters

On 27 July 1997, when Harry left 4 Privet Drive for the final time, Voldemort flew to the scene with his Death Eaters to fight the Order of the Phoenix. In the ensuing battle, Voldemort murdered Alastor Moody. When he attempted to attack Harry, Harry's wand acted of its own accord, releasing golden fire at him and destroying Malfoy's wand. Before Voldemort could react, Harry reached the protection of the home of Ted and Andromeda Tonks, and Voldemort was forced to retreat.

Voldemort torturing Ollivander

Voldemort returned to his headquarters at Malfoy Manor and, accompanied by Peter Pettigrew, accused Ollivander of deliberately misleading him and tortured him with the Cruciatus Curse. Ollivander told him truthfully that never in wandlore has he ever heard of such a thing happening between two wands. Voldemort ordered Ollivander to tell him everything he knew about the legendary wand known as the Elder Wand.

Ministry take-over

Thicknesse regime

Shortly after this, the Ministry of Magic was compromised and fell to the power of Voldemort when Minister Rufus Scrimgeour was tortured for information and murdered, the official version being he retired. News of this came to the Order of the Phoenix during the wedding of Bill Weasley and Fleur Delacour at the Burrow due to Kingsley Shacklebolt's Patronus.

Voldemort established a totalitarian police state, with Pius Thicknesse, under the Imperius Curse, serving as a puppet Minister for Magic and Death Eater Corban Yaxley as the head of the Department of Magical Law Enforcement. The Muggle-Born Registration Commission was created to round up Muggle-borns and imprison them in Azkaban. Harry Potter was declared Undesirable No. 1 with a reward on his head, on the basis he was wanted for questioning over the death of Dumbledore. Seveurs Snape, meanwhile, took over as Headmaster of Hogwarts, while Death Eater siblings Amycus Carrow and Alecto Carrow became teachers.

Voldemort placed a Taboo Curse on his name which enabled his Death Eaters to instantly locate anyone who spoke it out loud in the open. He chose not to publicly declare himself Minister in order to maintain an atmosphere of fear and uncertainty.

The search for the Elder Wand

With his servants taking care of business in Britain, Voldemort travelled to Germany to seek out the acclaimed wandmaker Mykew Gregorovitch and obtain the Elder Wand. Eventually, after murdering several people who got in his way, Voldemort found him, but was informed that the wand had been stolen. Voldemort performed Legilimency on Gregorovitch and saw the memory of a young blond boy who stole the wand. Voldemort demanded to know the identity of the thief, but when Gregorovitch didn't know it, Voldemort killed him.

Voldemort and Grindelwald

On Christmas Eve of 1997, Nagini summoned Voldemort to Godric's

Hollow, where Harry and Hermione Granger were visiting the graves of Harry's parents and investigating the possibility that Bathilda Bagshot might have the Sword of Gryffindor. Harry and Hermione barely managed to escape. However, Voldemort found a picture of the aforementioned blond boy at Bagshot's home; this boy turned out to be none other than Dark wizard Gellert Grindelwald, whom Dumbledore had defeated in 1945.

In March of 1998, Voldemort travelled to Austria and broke into Nurmengard prison, where Grindelwald was being held, and demanded to know the location of the Elder Wand. Grindelwald baffled Voldemort by being completely unafraid of him and saying that he welcomed death. Voldemort then murdered him in a rage without gaining any information.

At that moment, Bellatrix Lestrange summoned him by pressing the Dark Mark. Harry Potter had accidentally broken the Taboo an hour prior, and he and his friends, Ron Weasley and Hermione Granger, were captured by a group of Snatchers led by Fenrir Greyback, and were brought to Malfoy Manor. He departed Germany to end Harry's life, but before he could arrive, they managed to escape with the assistance of house-elf Dobby. The arriving Voldemort caused physical harm for Bellatrix and the Malfoys, and forbade them to leave the manor as punishment.

Shortly after this, Voldemort deduced that Dumbledore, who had defeated Grindelwald, had won the Elder Wand. Voldemort then went to Hogwarts, where he met with Snape and proceeded to break into Dumbledore's tomb and thus stole the Elder Wand.

Learning of the Horcrux Hunt

The Killing Curse

On 1 May 1998, Voldemort was informed by several goblins from Gringotts that Harry Potter and his friends, Ron Weasley and Hermione Granger, had robbed the Lestrange vault. This caused Voldemort to panic, and when he was informed that a small golden cup had been stolen, he flew into a rage. Voldemort massacred all those who told him the news, having realised at that moment that Harry was hunting his Horcruxes. However, he could not figure out how he had discovered his secret when he never told anyone.

In truth, Dumbledore and Harry had worked out, from studying Voldemort's past, that he had created Horcruxes, and also what they were and where they were hidden. Dumbledore first theorised about the Horcruxes and then passed the knowledge onto Harry; from there, Harry was able to complete the hunt. Voldemort listed all the locations of his Horcruxes in his mind, unaware that Harry was connected to his mind at the time. He unwittingly revealed that his last Horcrux was at Hogwarts, just as Harry previously suspected. This caused Harry, Ron, and Hermione to venture to Hogwarts.

Following these revelations, Voldemort went to check out the Gaunt Shack and the Cave, only to discover to his fury that the Horcruxes stored there were missing and thus likely destroyed.

Battle of Hogwarts

Voldemort then returned to Hogwarts, where the residents had already ousted the Death Eaters teaching there and had begun preparing a defence against him. Voldemort rounded up his entire army of Death Eaters, Snatchers, Werewolves, Giants, and Dementors, and commanded his army to fight the Order of the Phoenix members, professors, and students who were in the castle: the Battle of Hogwarts ensued.

Voldemort himself was not present at the opening stage of the battle, as he was staying within the Shrieking Shack, feeling there was no need for him to fight at the time. While in the shack, he investigated why the Elder Wand did not work any differently from his old wand. He came to the conclusion that it needed to accept him as a master and ordered Nagini to kill Snape. He believed this would solve the problem by transferring mastery of the wand to himself, assuming that since Snape killed Dumbledore then he was the current master of the wand.

Voldemort then called a one-hour armistice, requesting Harry in exchange for peace and no further deaths. Unbeknownst to Voldemort, Harry carried within him the seventh Horcrux, the scar on his forehead, which was formed when Voldemort failed to kill him as an infant. When Harry met Voldemort in the Forbidden Forest, Voldemort used the Killing Curse on him almost immediately, but only destroyed the Horcrux, rendering his scar "normal." What was not revealed to Voldemort was that when he used Harry's blood three years prior to gain himself a new body, the blood passed Harry's mother's protection to Voldemort and anchored Harry to the living world through the Dark Lord. Harry was merely knocked to the ground and feigned death. Voldemort, as a result of destroying his soul shard in Harry, was also knocked out.

Final duel and death

Unsure of what had just happened, Voldemort ordered Narcissa Malfoy to check Harry's body. Narcissa did so and pronounced Harry dead, eliciting celebration from the Death Eaters. Voldemort declared that no man could threaten him any more. He degraded Harry's body by performing the Cruciatus Curse, then forced the captured Hagrid to carry it back to Hogwarts for all to see. Voldemort did not realise, however, that Narcissa had lied to him in order to enter the castle to find her son.

As Voldemort and his army marched to Hogwarts, Voldemort claimed Harry had been killed while trying to escape. Neville, instead of surrendering, charged at Voldemort. After Neville refused to join him, Voldemort placed a Full Body-Bind Curse and the Sorting Hat on him and set the hat on fire to make an example of him, claiming that Slytherin would be the only Hogwarts House from then on. But at that moment, reinforcements for the Hogwarts defenders arrived. Neville was able to throw off the curse and pulled Gryffindor's Sword from the Hat, and used it to decapitate Nagini, destroying the last remaining Horcrux. Enraged, Voldemort attempted to kill Neville, but Harry, now beneath his Invisibility cloak, interfered and cast a Shield Charm between them.

During the second round of the Battle of Hogwarts, Voldemort tried to strike down everyone within his reach and his weakened army forced its way into the castle. In the Great Hall, his army was gradually cut down as Voldemort fought Slughorn, Shacklebolt, and Minerva McGonagall all at once and later blasted them away. When Bellatrix Lestrange was killed by Molly Weasley, Voldemort turned his wand on her in rage. At that time, Harry cast a Shield Charm to protect her, and revealed himself to be very much alive. The two wizards then faced each other in the Great Hall.

Here, Harry mentioned that by willingly sacrificing himself to Voldemort, he had protected everyone he cared about in Hogwarts with the same magic his mother created when she died for him. Harry tried to explain to Voldemort that he had magic Voldemort did not have, and a weapon more powerful than his, in addition to warning Voldemort of the fate that lay in store for him if he was unwilling to feel remorse for his actions. Goading him by using his birth name, Harry told him that Snape's loyalty was with Dumbledore all along, that Dumbledore's death was planned, and that Snape had not been the master of the Elder Wand; Draco had been.

Originally shocked, Voldemort remained unworried, because Harry did not have his original wand, and he told Harry he would kill him and then dispose of Draco to gain full mastery of the Elder Wand. But Harry revealed that he had already disarmed Draco, so the Elder Wand was now rightfully his. Refusing to believe this, Voldemort fired a Killing Curse at Harry, while Harry countered with his "trademark" spell of Expelliarmus. The Elder Wand refused to kill its true master, and Voldemort's spell rebounded off Harry's, killing the Dark Lord once and for all.

Post-mortem and legacy

After his death, Voldemort's body was moved to a separate chamber away from the Great Hall. It is unknown what happened to it afterwards, but it can be assumed that his body was disposed of. Meanwhile his mutilated soul was trapped in Limbo for eternity, as the soul is meant to stay whole and intact. Because of the destruction done to his soul, he was unable to move on or return to the land of the living as a ghost. After his confirmed death, the wizarding world at large seemed to be able to speak his name without any more fear. In the end, Lord Voldemort, who was extremely afraid of death, received a fate far worse than that.

More than twenty years following his death, Voldemort's daughter Delphini would attempt to rewrite the timeline in order to bring back her father. Though she would ultimately fail, one of the attempts by Albus Potter and Scorpius Malfoy to change the timeline and save Cedric and prevent his death (unknowingly to them orchestrated by Delphini herself), would result in a temporary timeline where Cedric never died, and where Voldemort succeeded in killing Harry at the Battle of Hogwarts. This alternate timeline where Voldemort both lived and won the Wizarding War would eventually be prevented and changed back into the original timeline through the efforts of Scorpius and the alternate timeline's versions of Snape, Hermione, and Ron.

Following the restoration of the original timeline, Delphini would attempt to go back in time to the night where Voldemort went after the Potters in Godric's Hollow, and prevent him from doing so, hoping to ensure Voldemort was never defeated. Harry, Albus, Draco, Scorpius, Ginny, Ron and Hermione would go back to try to stop her. During this attempt, the group tried to catch her off guard by making Harry disguise himself as Voldemort. While he was eventually discovered, the group was nonetheless able to prevent Delphini's plan from succeeding and captured her. However, before they left back into their own time, both Harry and Delphini were forced to witness Voldemort's attack at Godric's Hollow, resulting in Harry witnessing his parents' deaths, and Delphini seeing her father's first defeat.

During the Calamity which occurred during the 2010s, a Portrait of Riddle became one of many things that became Foundables, magical artefacts which appeared throughout the Wizarding world without explanation. A memory of a young Riddle also manifested in the world as a Foundable.

Me: Because of everything that he did, Lord Voldemort was the most evil wizard that ever lived and he made even the Devil and everyone down in Hell cringe in fear.

Qin gasped in sheer horror.

Qin: I can't believe that he is that evil!

Nico: That is horrible. Voldemort makes all of the villains we killed seem like child's play in terms of evil.

Me: Yes. Voldemort is the ultimate form of evil. But thanks to Rin Nohara, we never have to see his ugly fucked up face ever again.

Lola: I remember that. Voldemort slaughtered so many innocent people.

Lana: He was a devil in the world of Wizardry.

Nico: He sure was.

Me: But if he does come back as a Heartless, or anything else, we will destroy him with everything we got.

Vince: We sure will. I read all of the books of Harry Potter and Voldemort is that evil.

Me: I know partner. My mom read all of Harry Potter as well. So many people all lost their lives both in the books and the movies.

Laney: What a monster.

Lucy Loud: His heart was as black as the Devil's 100-fold.

Me: It sure was.

Qin: Varie can I ask you a question?

Varie: Sure Qin.

Qin: How exactly were the Neptune Crusaders formed?

Soundwave: I was wondering that myself. Me and the rest of the Autobots and Decepticons weren't present during that time. And I was dead for a few months when you guys first met me.

Irma: Well, it all started with a zombie invasion.

Maria: A Krabby Patty Zombie Invasion.

Irma and Lily went over what happened during the events of Krabby Patty Creature Feature.

Qin was shocked.

Qin: Krabby Patty zombies!? How is that possible!?

Me: Sandy invented experimental Krabby Patties and they ended up turning everyone into Krabby Patty Zombies.

Lily: Yeah. It was like a Zombie Apocalypse over in Bikini Bottom. But thanks to everything we learned from Shawn about Zombie Apocalypse Survival, we saved the whole city from total destruction.

Maria: That's right.

Wheeljack: Didn't you guys also take down the Tattletale Srangler as well?

Lana: We sure did.

Skywarp: How'd the Strangler get out of his cell in the Bikini Bottom Prison?

Cleo: One of the zombies must've broken into the prison to try and infect him.

Lily: But the Strangle was too strong for one of the Zombies. We took him down after the invasion.

Varie: Yep. But that's how we all became known as the Neptune Crusaders.

Nico: That was a freaky adventure. But that was so cool!

Horsea: I actually became a member of the Neptune Crusaders myself after we fought the army of the Alternate Krabs.

Maria: That's right.

Lucy Heartfilia: That was an interesting adventure though. All of Fairy Tail was told so much about all your adventures even before you all joined us.

Me: So in a way, we left our mark all over Fiore.

Lucy Heartfilia: You sure did.

Later we were playing Video Games. We were playing Super Smash Brothers Ultimate. I was playing as Inkling and Lincoln was playing as… Well, Lincoln. We were playing in Inkopolis. It was the world where Inkling came from.

Me: I got you now Lincoln!

Lincoln: In your dreams J.D.!

Inkling: Go J.D.!

Earth: Go Linky!

Lincoln won!

Lincoln: Yeah!

Me: Oh man! Wow! Lily and Nicole have been teaching you well.

Nicole: I sure have dad. Lincoln and Lily are now both of my students now.

Me: That is so awesome. But I can't help but wonder what it's like in the world of Splatoon.

Inkling: You guys would love it. It's like the ultimate paintball tournament.

Lynn: Ooh! I love Paintball Blasting Tournaments!

Lana: Me too!

Nico: Paintball Blasting is so cool.

Inkling: It is. But instead of shooting people to get points, we are divided into teams that represent that territory by the color of our ink. I am under the command of Capt. Cuttlefish and our color is Orange. We splatter everything all over with orange ink and the person of the team that makes the biggest mess with that ink color wins.

Me: That is interesting.

Lana: That would be an awesome tournament!

Me: It sure would. But there's a villain that we're gonna have to take down when we get there.

Lola: Who is that?

I went to the computer and pulled up the information of D.J. OCTAVIO!

Me: D.J. Octavio.

Laney: Who is he?

Inkling: He's our archenemy.

Inkling went over his history.

---

DJ Octavio is the main antagonist of the Splatoon videogame series, serving as the main antagonist and final boss of Splatoon and its sequel Splatoon 2. He is the evil leader of the Octarian Army. Although he is the overall Big Bad of the series, Commander Tartar could be seen as the Bigger Bad of the series, being the far more dangerous one compared to Octavio.

Octavio's stage begins with Cap'n Cuttlefish tied up warning the player character (Agent 3) not to come any further. Once the player takes a few steps forward towards the Great Zapfish, Octavio's machine sucks it up and he starts scratching the records on his turntable.

The boss fight against DJ Octavio has five phases. Each phase has Octavio launch the machine's fists at the player, which must be reflected by splatting them in order to knock him back. Once Octavio is knocked back far enough, he will launch a large missile that needs to be splat-reflected three times in order to move on to the next phase. The missile gets faster the more it is reflected. Unlike most other tennis bosses, Octavio will not stop shooting his other weapons while the player is reflecting the missile.

The first phase starts off with Octavio firing Octopods that follow the player, similar to heat-seeking missiles, he will also launch his giant fist-like weapons at the player, which must be launched back at him to make him retreat to another platform, allowing the player to move onto another one as well.

The second phase adds a Killer Wail attack to the mix, which is a one-hit-kill unless you have armor.

The third phase will add small soccer-ball-like projectiles that will spawn lower-ranking Octarian troops if not destroyed.

The fourth and fifth phase does not add any new weapons, but they presumably increase Octavio's rate of fire and change up the patterns.

After hitting Octavio with a missile four times, the music will change to a song sung by the Squid Sisters (the real identity of Agents 1 and 2), prompting Cuttlefish to break out of his bonds. After the fifth hit, Octavio will fly out of his machine, and one shot will send him flying back into it, causing it to self-destruct in a blast of orange ink.

Splatoon 2

DJ Octavio returns as the final boss in the Single-Player campaign of Splatoon 2, but this time, there are two final bosses: DJ Octavio and Callie.

When the level starts, Callie appears to be standing on a stage-like platform, once the player approaches her, she will turn around and will begin to rise into the air, with Octavio coming out of the ground in his Octobot King II. DJ Octavio has three phases instead of five and the phases are similar to the first Splatoon.

The first phase starts with DJ Octavio firing fists while the player tries to launch them back, similar to how he was fought in the first game. Occasionally, his punches will become more difficult to ink and will sometime have to be dodged. After knocking his fists back at him, he will fall out of his the Octobot King II and the player will have the chance to attack him. Once they attack him long enough, he will be launched back into the giant bot.

The second phase will begin with Octavio rapidly firing giant Splat Bombs at the player, similar to how a Bomb Rush special works. He will also fire four 'Calamari Bombs' at the player, which must be destroyed or they will become impervious to attacks, creating giant spirals which can harm the player if they happen to touch them. The second phase is entirely the same as the last one. The player must repeat what they did by knocking Octavio's "fists" back at him, causing him to fall out of his mech and onto the ground.

The third phase begins with Marie flying in, wearing her Squid Sisters attire, holding a replica of the Hero Charger from the first game, preparing to shoot DJ Octavio's hypnoshades off Callie's face, so she could regain awareness. Marie fires the shades off her face and Callie goes into a daze.

Super Smash Bros. Ultimate

DJ Octavio appears as a Primary Neutral Spirit in Super Smash Bros. Ultimate, which can be summoned using cores from Octoling, Octorok, and any Neutral core. He can be enhanced to Octobot King, whose ability can enhance the fighter with metal.

Everyone gasped!

Me: I know. This guy is really bad news.

Lana: Let me guess, we're gonna go after him and kill him.

Me: Bingo. We're going to fight ink with ink.

Nico: I like it.

Lynn: Me too.

Dayna: Count me in.

Vina: (Russian Accent) Me too.

Me: Inkling, can you give us awesome Ink Blasters like yours?

Inkling: You bet I can.

Inkling gave us awesome Ink Blasters and they were the coolest blasters ever. Some of them looked like jetpacks and giant paintbrushes and powerful water guns.

Me: Nice!

Nico: These are cool!

Lana: Awesome!

Luan: These are going to Ink! (Laughs) Get it?

Most of us laughed while everyone else sighed.

Me: (Laughs) That was a good one Luan!

Nico: (Laughs) That was funny!

Eddy: (Laughs) Good one!

Earth: (Laughs) That was a good one!

Lincoln: (Laughs) Good one!

Luan: Thanks guys.

Lori: Okay that one was literally funny.

Laney: It was funny.

Inkling: It sure was. I'll show you guys where the entrance to Inkopolis is.

Me: Okay.

We followed Inkling. She took us to the beach. In a hidden beach cave, in a rock we saw what looked like a lagoon pool in a cave with the light from the sun shining on it.

Inkling: This is the entrance. Follow me.

Inkling dove into the pool and we followed her. We were taken to the world of Inkopolis. We arrived and we saw that it was a beautiful and awesome city!

Me: Whoa! So this is Inkopolis!

Lincoln: It's amazing!

Me: It sure is.

I then noticed that my hair was red and octopus-like!

Me: Whoa! I'm an Inkling!

My teeth were also fanged.

I saw that everyone except for the Skylanders, Transformers, Digimon and Pokemon, were now Inklings! We have octopus-like hair of different colors each and we all had fanged teeth.

Me: Wow! You guys are Inklings too!

Everyone saw their reflections in the windows of a building.

Varie: We sure are! This is so awesome!

Rachel S.D.: This is amazing!

Nico: This is awesome!

Qin: I look awesome!

Dayna: I like being an Inkling better than a gene-slammed octopus.

Vina: Same here.

Inkling: It's what happens whenever humans come here. They turn into Inklings.

Me: So it's only here that they become Inklings and when we go back home we'll go back to normal.

Inkling: That's right.

Me: That's cool!

Lana: I like it.

Lola: Me too.

Deja Vu: We're still the same.

Poromon: Yeah.

Poliwag: Same here.

Manaphy: Yeah.

Skywarp: We're still the same unfortunately.

Optimus Prime: I guess it only works on people that are organic. Where we Transformers are inorganic.

Me: I guess so. The Pokemon, Digimon and the Skylanders must be immune to it some how as well. Lets go find Octavio and put an end to him. But first you should show us around Inkling so that we can get to know the area.

Inkling: Okay.

Inkling showed us around the whole city and she reunited with her friends and she introduced us to her leader Captain Cuttlefish.

Captain Cuttlefish: Agent 3! I'm so glad you're back!

Inkling: Me too Captain. These are my friends.

Me: It's an honor to meet you Captain Cuttlefish. We are Team Loud Phoenix Storm. I'm J.D. Knudson, the Leader.

Captain Cuttlefish: I've heard so much about you all! It's such an honor to have you all here.

Me: Thank you Captain. We came here to take down D.J. Octavio and make him pay for his crimes against all of Inkopolis.

Captain Cuttlefish: We are really grateful that you all came J.D.

Me: He'll be fried calamari by the time we're done with him. No offense.

Captain Cuttlefish: None taken. But thank you all.

Me: You're welcome. I know where he is. Lets go guys!

We went after D.J. Octavio.

---

In D.J. Octavio's hideout he was devising his next plan of attack to take all of Inkopolis.

D.J. Octavio: Soon all of Inkopolis and the Surface World will be mine and we will rule it all.

But then a massive fiery explosion blasted a hole in through the walls and a phoenix cry was heard and we landed in the hideout.

Me: D.J. Octavio, so we meet at last.

D.J. Octavio: J.D. Knudson!? And all of Team Loud Phoenix Storm!? What are you all doing here!?

Me: What else? To destroy you once and for all. And to make sure that you never terrorize our worlds again.

D.J. Octavio: But how did you become Inklings!?

Me: It happens whenever Humans enter this world. It's some kind of magical power that does that. But I think it's cool. But that's besides the point. This is gonna be your final fight.

DJ Octavio: Well, if I'm going down, I might as well go down in style! (takes out jukebox) What music do you want for the battle? Super Villain by Powerman5000? Or Celebrate by Pitbull?

Me: Super Villain by Powerman5000 sounds good.

D.J. Octavio: Okay then.

He put a record on and it played hardcore rock music!

Nico: I love this song!

Me: Good song choice!

Inkling: I didn't actually know Octavio was interested in songs like the one playing in the battle.

Me: Me neither.

Hoot Loop: (to Octavio) (British Accent) You've got a really nice collection of songs. Let us have them and we might consider sparing your life.

Me: On second thought, We will spare your life and throw you in prison. Because you have a good taste in music.

D.J. Octavio: Thank you.

Megaforce Rangers: Legendary Ranger Mode: Techno Bionic Team!

Me: They are friends and awesome partners and teammates. We all work together! Lets take him down!

We went at D.J. Octavio and I punched him in the face and blasted him with Red, Orange and Yellow Ink and drenched him all over. I then fired a powerful blast of fire and burned him. Nico fired blasts of Blue ink and drenched him and then he used Oceanus Shenron's Water Powers and spun him around in a tornado of water.

Nico: Our powers still work even though we've been turned into Inklings.

Me: They sure do. That is so cool!

Lincoln: It sure is.

Lincoln fired a powerful blast of orange ink and drenched him and then he turned into a little squid and dove into the ink and he jumped out and turned back and kicked Octavio and he fired a powerful blast of lightning and electrocuted Octavio.

Lola: Wow! That was a clever sneak attack!

DJ Octavio: (laughs) Yellow? Don't tell me you Rangers are turning into cowards now!

Me: Dude, that wasn't even funny.

Luan: That was not funny at all.

Eddy: Yeah.

Luan fired yellow ink at Octavio and drenched him all over. She then fired El Mongo Stink Bombs and they exploded in his face and released deadly fart gas.

KRAFFFFAAAAARRRRTTT! KRAFFFAAAAARRRTTT! KRAFFFAAAAAARRRRTTTT! KRAAAFFFFFAAAARRRRTTT!

Octavio was coughing, gagging and vomiting all over from the smell of the horrible stench. Troy Burrows fired a powerful blasts of energy from his Star Slinger and they hit Octavio and exploded all over, Noah Carver slashed Octavio all over with his Quasar Saber and powerful blasts of lightning electrocuted him, Jake Halling fired his V-Lancer and Thermo Blaster and the blasts hit Octavio and exploded all over, Gia Moran slashed Octavio with her Chrono Saber and her V-Blaster and they slashed and exploded all over Octavio, Emma Goodall slashed Octavio with her Golden Eagle Sword and fired a powerful blast of yellow energy from her Crystal Saber and they really hurt him and Orion punched the ground and Octavio went flying after his butt was set on fire by a lava geyser. Octavio was brought to our dimension and sentenced to life in the Uranus Prison without parole. Because he's an octopus we put him in a room full of water.

Nico: That was so cool being in Inkling's world.

Me: Inkopolis was so cool! And it was awesome being an Inkling.

Laney: You said it J.D.

2097 in Peril - Ties of Friendship

In the estate, I was in the Simulator doing an exercise where I face Lord Voldemort that was attached to Professor Quirrell.

I was walking down the stairs of the underground chamber of the third floor. I was hiding in the shadows and I watched young Harry Potter see Professor Quirrell in front of the Mirror of Erisad.

Harry Potter: (British Accent) You? No it can't be! Snape. He was.

Quirrell: (British Accent) Yes. He does seem the type doesn't he? Well next to him, who would suspect (Stuttering) P-p-p-poor St-t-t-tuttering Professor Quirrell?

Harry Potter: But that day, during the Quidditch Match, Snape tried to kill me.

Quirrell: Mmm, no dear boy. I tried to kill you! And trust me, if Snape's cloak hadn't caught fire and broken my eye contact, I would have succeeded. Even with Snape muttering his little counter-curse.

Me: (In my head) How fucked up is this guy?

Harry Potter: Snape was trying to save me.

Quirrell: I knew you were a danger to me right from the off. Especially after Halloween.

Harry Potter: Then, then you let the troll in!

Quirrell: Very good Potter, yes. Snape unfortunately wasn't fooled. When everyone else was running about the dungeon he went to the 3rd floor to head me off. He of course, never trusted me again.

I sensed Harry Potter's scar hurting him. Something was going on with him.

Quirrell: He rarely left me alone. But he doesn't understand. I'm never alone. Never. Now, what does this mirror do? I see what I desire. I see myself holding the stone. But how do I get it?

Voice: Use the boy.

Me: (In my head) Who the fuck said that?

Quirrell: Come here Potter! Now!

Harry Potter went to him.

Harry Potter stood before the mirror.

Quirrell: Tell me. What do you see?

Harry Potter saw himself in the mirror and his reflection had something in his pocket. He took it out, showed it to him and put it back in his pocket. It was a strange red rock. In real life, Harry Potter had something in his pocket as well and he knew what it was.

Quirrell: What is it? What do you see?

Harry Potter: Uh, I'm shaking hands with Dumbledore. I've won the House Cup.

Voice: He lies.

Quirrell: Tell the truth! What do you see!?

Voice: Let me speak to him.

Quirrell: Master you're not strong enough.

Voice: I have strength enough for this.

Quirrell took off his turban and what me and Harry Potter saw was nothing short of hideously freaky! We saw that he had another face in the back of his head! It was VOLDEMORT!

Me: (Whispering) What in the fucking hell!?

Voldemort: Harry Potter, we meet again.

Harry Potter: Voldemort.

Voldemort: Yes, you see what I've become. See what I must do to survive. Live off another. A mere parasite. Unicorn blood can sustain me. But it cannot give me a body of my own. But there is something that can, something that conveniently enough lies in your pocket.

Harry Potter ran.

Voldemort: Stop him!

Quirrell snapped his fingers and the whole room was lit on fire! Blocking his escape path!

Voldemort: Don't be a fool. Why suffer a horrific death when you can join me and live.

Harry Potter: NEVER!

Voldemort: (Laughs) Bravery. Your parents had it too. Tell me Harry, would you like to see your mother and father again? All I ask is for something in return.

My voice was heard.

Me: You're not getting anything Voldemort!

I stepped through the fire and emerged from it like the devil in Human form! I absorbed all of the fire.

Voldemort: Who are you?

Me: Your worst nightmare.

Voldemort: So the big hero has come to protect Harry.

Me: I'm more than just a hero. I'm a god. You've killed thousands of innocent people in cold blood and I will never forgive you for all of your crimes.

Voldemort: You think you can kill me?

Me: I don't think, I know. Just remember this you Shitsucker, you fuck with me and we'll see who shits on the sidewalk.

I fired a powerful energy blast at Voldemort and Quirrell and destroyed them both in an instant.

Me: Go back to Hell.

Harry Potter: Thank you for saving me. Who are you?

Me: I'm J.D. Knudson. It's a pleasure to meet you Harry.

Harry Potter: You too. Thank you for saving me J.D.

Me: No problem. I'm from America. But Voldemort is not finished yet. He will be back and he will come for you. But we can't let that happen. Let me show you.

I showed him the events of what happened in the future. He was shocked about what will take place.

Harry Potter: All that will happen in the future?

Me: Yes. And it's not gonna be pretty. You have to be stronger than ever when you face him. Voldemort is a monster from the fire of Hell. He's the ultimate evil. And he won't stop until he kills every single muggle all over the world and reigns over all wizards in the name of Salazar Slytherin.

Harry Potter: That's madness!

Me: It is. It's total genocide. By killing all of the muggles, he's essentially wiping out most of the entire human race. It's not just murder, it's cold-blooded annihilation.

Harry Potter: That's pure evil.

Me: It is. We have to warn everyone about what happened and get everyone ready for the fight that's going to happen soon.

Harry Potter: Okay.

We went to the assembly hall and I gathered everyone together.

Me: I'm sorry to call you all here so early. But I have really bad news. The situation is now very grim. Lord Voldemort, the ultimate evil wizard has come back!

Everyone gasped in shock.

Ron Weasley: (British Accent) How is that possible?

Hermione Granger: (British Accent) But he's dead isn't he?

Me: Yes he is dead. But his evil spirit still lives on and it is still out there causing trouble even as we speak. He is trying to come back so that he can finish what Salazar Slytherin was going to do. His "Noble Work" was to kill all of the muggles all over the world and in the Wizardry world all together. That is nothing but cold-blooded Genocide. Voldemort is trying to complete that work and have wizards rule over the world in the name of evil. That is not making the world a better place for wizards. That is a world without free will.

Luna Lovegood: (British Accent) I agree with you J.D.!

Neville Longbottom: (British Accent) What Voldemort is going to do is beyond pure evil!

Me: That's right! Voldemort is ultimate evil incarnate. He makes even the Devil himself as well as all of the Demons in Hell look like a joke.

Harry Potter: That's right. He killed my parents when I was a baby. I lived because of him. But he gave me this scar as a result.

Me: If Voldemort comes back then the whole world will be in terrible danger. Not just muggles, but all wizards as well. We won't let him come back and do whatever he wants. Are you all with me to put an end to his spree of evil!?

Everyone: YEAH!

Draco Malfoy: (British Accent) I'm not. I support the idea of a world without muggle scum!

Me: Need I remind you Draco Malfoy that you are the one that got Gryffindor in trouble and got them detention in the first place? It was because of you that they went into the Dark Forest with Hagrid which is strictly forbidden to everyone.

Everyone gasped.

Draco Malfoy: How did you know that?

Me: You would be amazed at what you know over in America.

I snapped my fingers and turned him into a frog.

Me: Try breaking that transformation. But we can't let the differences of each of the houses of Hogwarts affect us ever again. We have to work together to take down Voldemort once and for all.

We formed a new team of Team Loud Phoenix Storm called the Hogwarts Alliance. It's mission: Destroy Voldemort and his followers and make sure that they never terrorize our worlds again.

I merged everyone with their counterparts and we moved Hogwarts Castle to the estate and we decided to train everyone for that mission.

---

Later after the Simulator was done, we went to the living room and we were watching TV, playing Video Games, playing card games and board games and reading books.

Me: Hey Spyro, I have a question for you.

Spyro: What's up J.D.?

Me: We saw all your awesome abilities in our adventures. But we don't know how each Skylander started out. Every Skylander has to start out somewhere.

Spyro: That's true. I will tell you this. I am the first ever Skylander.

Spyro went over his history.

---

Spyro hails from a rare line of magical purple dragons that come from a faraway land few have ever traveled. It's been said that the Scrolls of the Ancients mention Spyro prominently-the old Portal Masters having chronicled his many exciting adventures and heroic deeds. Finally, it was Master Eon himself who reached out and invited him to join the Skylanders. Now calling Skylands his home, Spyro remains one of its most valued protectors, with evil facing a new enemy-and the Skylanders gaining a valued ally.

History

Spyro is the great, stout-hearted hero of legend, not to mention the number one defender of Skylands. Hailing from a rare race of magic purple dragons, Spyro was born in a land far away from Skylands' furthest frontiers. From a young age, Spyro became a battler for good; a warrior against evil and protector of the peace. His fearless exploits and heroic adventures were even recorded in the Scrolls of the Ancients (and those Ancients didn't keep a record of just any old thing). One of the many Portal Masters who watched Spyro's success with acclaim and applause was the bearded legend himself, Master Eon. It was Eon who transported Spyro through the Portal of Power to his citadel at the Core of Light. Here, Spyro met the Skylanders squad and swiftly agreed to join them in battling all things nasty.[8]

During his time as one of the Skylanders, Spyro defeated the evil dragon Cynder when she was spreading fear throughout Skylands for many years, freeing her from the sinister thrall of the Undead Dragon King, Malefor. After Cynder vowed to fight for good, she and Spyro went on a dangerous quest in which the Undead dragoness came out smiling. Afterwards, Spyro convinced Master Eon to sign Cynder up as one of the Skylanders.[9] Spyro was also the one who inspired Lightning Rod to become a Skylander after telling the storm giant his stories of faraway places and dangerous adventures.

There was an incident with Spyro when The Darkness attempted to corrupt the Core of Light. Spyro nearly suffered a terrible fate when he was almost consumed by the dark magic, but he was saved by Master Eon. Under the old Portal Master's teachings, Spyro learned how to fully harness this dark power, becoming his sinister alter-ego: Dark Spyro. Combined with his brave heart and careful control, Spyro was able to use this dark power to fight the forces of evil without losing himself to the darkness.

When a group of Skylanders absorbed Petrified Darkness and became darker versions of themselves after a battle against Kaos, it was Spyro who helped them tame that darkness to use it against evil, as he had learned to control that evil power long ago.

Skylanders: The Machine of Doom

Spyro, Gill Grunt, Eruptor and Boomer were on Eon's Island with the other Skylanders listening to Gill Grunt's special concert, much to their discomfort. Shortly afterwards, Flynn and Hugo crash-landed in their hot air balloon nearby, with Spyro having to save Boomer from where the balloon was going to crash due to the troll having put dynamite in his ears to mute out Gill Grunt's singing. Hugo informed the Skylanders and Master Eon urgent news of flying sheep attacking the Mabu Market, though the Skylanders didn't believe it at first until they saw an image from Eon's portal of the market being attacked. Master Eon tasked Spyro, Gill Grunt, and Eruptor to go to the Mabu Market to find out what was going on.

After reaching the Market, Spyro, Gill Grunt, and Eruptor found out that the sheep weren't really flying, but were being carried by invisible trolls who were led by a Spell Punk. While the other Skylanders fought the trolls, Spyro went after the Spell Punk nearby and pinned him down, forcing the wizard to reveal that he and the trolls were testing out an invisibility spell, but the trolls wanted to cause mayhem, therefore drawing attention to themselves. The Spell Punk then accidentally blurted out they were looking for an item called the Chattering Key for Kaos. Appearing as a frightening projection of his head, Kaos scolded the Spell Punk, and transported the wizard and the remaining trolls back to his lair. Spyro confronted the floating head of Kaos and demanded to know why he was after the Chattering Key, but the evil Portal Master refused to answer the young dragon before disappearing.

Back on Eon's Island, Spyro learned from Hugo that the Arkeyans created the Chattering Key as an artifact used to opening a tomb that contained an ancient Arkeyan weapon. Knowing that Kaos would go after such a weapon that is capable of destroying the Core of Light, Spyro, Gill Grunt, Boomer, and Eruptor decided to get the Key before Kaos would get the chance. Using Flynn to transport them to their next destination, the four Skylanders embarked on a journey to the Forest of Fear where the Key was held. They soon came in contact with the Fungus Rings of Despair that laid within the forest, trapping them in hallucinations of their worst fears. Spyro's irrational fear came to life as he saw Master Eon in chains and being tortured by Kaos, who was absolute ruler of Skylands and the entire universe in Spyro's hallucination. The young dragon broke free of his fear by blasting fire at the Kaos hallucination, and freed the other Skylanders from the grip of the Fungus Rings of Despair.

The Skylanders soon found the Chattering Key, which was being guarded by the statue of a stone wyvern called Fido. Spyro devised a plan, and Gill Grunt, Boomer, and Eruptor confused the stone wyvern enough for the young dragon to snag the Key, and the Skylanders made a quick getaway with Fido in hot pursuit. Before they could leave with the key, Kaos appeared with a group of trolls, having captured Flynn. The evil tyrant revealed that he had used the Skylanders to brave the terrors of the Forest of Fear so that he was able to steal the key from them, and was willing to release Flynn in exchange for it.

Not wanting to endanger Flynn's life for the sake of their mission, Spyro allowed Kaos to take the Chattering Key, and the tyrant summoned a tomb of the Pyramid of Just Rewards that contained the Arkeyan weapon, The Machine of Doom. Kaos opened the tomb, activating one of its pillars that destroyed the advancing Fido with a beam of light. The evil Portal Master then used Flynn as a hostage to keep the Skylanders from following him. With the help from the Chattering Key, Spyro and the Skylanders ventured inside the pyramid through the other side where they came across the Machine of Doom itself. As Kaos reached the Machine, Boomer eagerly tried to control the evil contraption to use it against Kaos, but instead the weapon itself began to break apart and pyramid started to crumble around them. As Kaos laughed maniacally at Boomer trying to control The Machine of Doom, Spyro was the only one who figured out Kaos's real scheme.

The machine was really a trap designed by the Arkeyans to capture anyone who might be tempted to steal a weapon capable of destroying the Core of Light, knowing that anyone who braved their worst nightmares in the Forest of Fear, got the Chattering Key from Fido, and crazy enough to climb into an all-powerful super weapon was too dangerous to walk free. Kaos tricked the Skylanders into seizing The Machine of Doom therefore springing the trap, intending to bury the heroes alive. As Kaos and his minions were making their escape as the pyramid crumbled around them, Flynn was rescued during the chaos. Spyro attempted to stop Kaos from escaping in his transport portal, but failed when the tyrant fired a magic lightning bolt at the young dragon.

Boomer, having gained full control over The Machine of Doom, used the mechanical titan to destroy the portal that Kaos was about escape in, and soon used the machine as a way to get out of the crumbling pyramid. Despite knowing that Kaos deserved to be left inside the pyramid in the very trap he tried to spring on the heroes, Spyro recalled Master Eon's ways on what the old Portal Master would do in a situation similar to the one that they were in. Making his decision, the young dragon saved Kaos from being buried alive, and the Skylanders narrowly made their escape just as the pyramid crumbled down into a pit.

The Machine of Doom broke apart as a result of their escape, and the Skylanders landed outside of what was left of the pyramid while Kaos made his exit with their notice. Spyro, Gill Grunt, Eruptor, and Boomer were then greeted by Master Eon, who Spyro informed that he and the other Skylanders had underestimated Kaos, but the young dragon declared that it wouldn't happen again. Although Kaos had been stopped, Spyro was certain that this was only the beginning since the evil Portal Master would strike again, but also knew that next time, he and the Skylanders would be ready. The young dragon then celebrated their victory as Gill Grunt began to sing a song again.

Skylanders: Spyro versus The Mega Monsters

Spyro was training with Drill Sergeant, Jet-Vac, and Trigger Happy in mastering his Daybringer Flame attack, but ended up failing the training session when his attempt missed a Goliath Drow illusion and singed only Drill Sergeant and Trigger Happy. Disheartened at the fact that he failed his training again, Spyro was soon tasked by Master Eon to go with Stealth Elf to Stinky Swamp to find a terrible monster the elf had encountered. After saving a Mabu named Snuckles from a couple of Chompies, Spyro and Stealth Elf were attacked by an unusually, giant titchy toad. The toad's toxic saliva caused Spyro and Stealth Elf to fall asleep during the struggle, unable to save Snuckles from the giant titchy toad that was about to devour him and the vampire vines that threatened to pull the Mabu apart. The Mabu was then saved by the arrival of Kaos, who used a magic staff to defeat the toad. The evil Portal Master claimed that he was turning over a new leaf by taking down evil doers, much to Spyro and Stealth Elf's complete disbelief.

When the residents of Skylands started praising Kaos for saving them from various mega-sized creatures, Spyro suspected that Kaos was up to something, refusing to believe that the 'evil' Portal Master would suddenly turn over a new leaf out of the blue. He, Jet-Vac, and Drill Sergeant were soon sent to The Desert of Columns to help the Molekin, Diggs, escape from a strangely familiar troll monster, but Kaos saved the day once again, greatly irritating Spyro. Back at Eon's Citadel, the Skylanders, Master Eon, and Hugo were confronted by the Warrior Librarians of the Eternal Archives lead by Chief Curator Wiggleworth, who had learned of Spyro's legendary and heroic exploits from the books of the Ancients. The Warrior Librarians had come to warn Master Eon that their Eternal Archive, a library that holds not only the dangerous books ever written, was in terrible danger.

Upon arriving at the Archive, the Skylanders confronted a mega-sized Chompy Pod that was impervious to all of their attacks due to its current size. The plant soon spored five giant Chompies and massive fight ensured. During the battle, Spyro ultimately mastered his Daybringer Flame attack in taking down one of the large Chompies. As the Skylanders were outmatched by the remaining giants, Kaos appeared, saving the Skylanders from the giant enemies by suspending the Chompies in midair using his magic staff.

Kaos then revealed that as a child he wanted to borrow a book called World Domination for Beginners and other related books from the Eternal Archive, but was told by Wiggleworth that they weren't available for loan (in order to keep the books from falling into the wrong hands). The evil Portal Master threatened to release the giant Chompies upon the heroes if Wiggleworth didn't hand over a forbidden book to him. When Wiggleworth refused, Kaos released the Chompies to devour the group. Stealth Elf stole the magic staff from Kaos, and used its power to enlarge Spyro two times the size of the giant Chompies, allowing the dragon to defeat the giant enemies while his fellow Skylanders dealt with Kaos and destroyed his magic staff. After the battle, Spyro realized that Kaos's true plan was to test his staff on a few creatures (growing them into a giant size), trick the people of Skylands into thinking he was saving them from the mega-sized animals just so he could attack the Archive and blackmail its curator, who Kaos thought would be blinded by hero worship like others have.

Realizing he was defeated, Kaos fled the scene, but not before revealing that his plan was only the beginning. Afterwards, some of the other Skylanders were brought to the Eternal Archive to help the Warrior Librarions repair the damage done. Master Eon congratulated Spyro on his victory in stopping Kaos, and was more surprised that the purple dragon shared the glory with his fellow Skylanders who assisted him. Spyro then accompied Master Eon after hearing that Wiggleworth wanted to show the young dragon something within the Archive's vault. The Portal Master showed Spyro the book Kaos was after, the legendary Book of Power, a book of prophecy that shows the most dreadful predictions, such as the fall of the Skylanders, and Spyro himself…

Skylanders: Gill Grunt and the Curse of the Fish Master

After the other Skylanders repaired the walls of the Eternal Archives, Spyro called Gill Grunt over to the halls of the Archives so that he and the Gillmen could look into the Book of Power with Master Eon, Hugo, and Wiggleworth. The two Skylanders were horrified to see a vision in the book showing the Core of Light destroyed and darkness swarming the skies, before seeing a glimpse of the Mask of Power, an evil artifact created by a group of Spell Punks that was scattered across Skylands by the old Portal Masters long ago into eight pieces hidden in objects that were completely opposite to the fragments.

Realizing that Kaos had already found the Tech fragment of the Mask, and wanted to reassemble it to use the Mask to destroy the Core of Light, Spyro and Gill Grunt became determined to find the rest before the evil Portal Master does. Master Eon was able to find the location of the Water Fragment from the Book of Power and sent Gill Grunt to Deep Water Wasteland to locate it, while Spyro stayed behind with the old Portal Master.

Spyro soon came to Deep Water Wasteland after hearing from Master Eon that the Gill Grunt was having trouble with pirates lead by Captain Grimslobber, but was relieved that Gill Grunt managed to escape with the help of Zap and Wham-Shell. The young dragon then revealed that Kaos was looking for the Water Fragment as well, and the trio of Water Skylanders quickly continued on with their mission, leaving Spyro to worry about Zap's well-being before he returned to Master Eon via portal.

Spyro later assisted Gill Grunt, Wham-Shell, and Zap in their battle against Captain Grimslobber and his band of pirates aboard the Fearsome Fang, successfully winning the struggle with the help of the merfolk. When Grimslobber fell overboard and was eaten alive by a Cloud Kraken, Kaos appeared and revealed that he had beaten the Skylanders to the Fish Master's Crown that supposedly contained the Water Fragment to the Mask of Power. As the evil Portal Master made his leave, Spyro, Gill Grunt, Zap, and Wham-Shell quickly made their escape off of Grimslobber's sinking ship and back in the vault of the Eternal Archives.

It had seemed the Skylanders had failed their mission, but Gill Grunt checked Grimslobber's satchel he brought back with him and held a dirty rag the captain had used to wrap the Fish Master's Crown. The rag soon revealed itself to be the Water Fragment, making the Skylanders realize that Kaos had stolen nothing more than a worthless broken crown. Knowing that Kaos would be after the next fragment to the Mask of Power, Spyro and Gill Grunt both knew that the Skylanders would be ready for him.

Skylanders: Cynder Confronts the Weather Wizard

Spyro's only appearance was when Cynder, Hex, and Zook returned to the Eternal Archives after retrieving the Undead segment to the Mask of Power. The purple dragon proceeded to inform his allies that Master Eon was kidnapped and the culprit was Squirmgrub, a Warrior Librarian traitor who was working for Kaos all this time.

Skylanders: Stump Smash Crosses the Bone Dragon

With Master Eon kidnapped, Spyro became temporary leader of the Skylanders in his place. Without a Portal Master, it was difficult for the Skylanders to search about Skylands for Eon and Kaos without the use of a Portal. Spyro furiously lashed out at Chief Curator Wiggleworth for trusting Squirmgrub, who was a traitor, and blamed him for Master Eon's capture. Stump Smash managed to calm Spyro down, but the young dragon still blamed himself for what happened to Master Eon. Hugo soon revealed that the Giggling Forest has stopped laughing for some reason, and Spyro assigned Stump Smash, Wrecking Ball and Flameslinger to find out what was going on.

After the group's close encounter with the Bone Dragon, Spyro attempted to negotiate with Glumshanks into telling the Skylanders where Kaos was. The purple dragon was able to trick the troll butler into blurting out Kaos's exact location by pretending to be unimpressed with the evil Portal Master, and Glumshanks became defensive of his master. Upon learning where Kaos was, Spyro went with Flameslinger and the other Skylanders to the Giggling Forest to find the Bone Dragon, only to overwhelmed. Spyro, along with other Skylanders, were turned into a statue by the rampaging Bone Dragon's petrifying breath despite their best efforts.

Fortunately, Stump Smash was able to bring down and convince the Bone Dragon to un-petrify everyone, including Spyro, returning them to normal. Kaos however also recovered and began firing dark magic at the Skylanders as he attempted to capture the Bone Dragon who was believed to the Life Segment to the Mask of Power. Master Eon quickly casted a few quick spells to subdue Kaos and his minions, and revealed that the Life Segment wasn't the Bone Dragon, but a stone heart that was given to the creature years prior. Defeated, Kaos retreats, but not before vowing revenge. Spyro quickly detained Squirmgrub, whose armor was shattered by Master Eon and was intentionally left behind by Kaos. With the evil Portal Master gone, and the Bone Dragon returning to his eternal rest, Spyro and the Skylanders celebrated their victory, but it was far from over.

Skylanders: Trigger Happy Targets the Evil Kaos

Spyro was sent to bring Trigger Happy, Smolderdash and Food Fight back to Eon's Citadel after their battle with the Water Viper. He soon accompanied the three Skylanders to Wool Mountain to find the Magic segment to the Mask of Power that was revealed to have taken on the form of a sheep. During the search, Kaos arrived with six troll fighter planes and began attacking all of the sheep. With the help of Trigger Happy, Spyro was able to destroy the planes in time for the other Skylanders to find the Magic segment to the Mask of Power.

However soon after retrieving the segment, all of the Mask of Power segments were stolen by a Goliath Drow who was serving Kaos. Spyro, along with the other Skylanders who previously took part in the search of the parts of the Mask of Power, were teleported to Kaos' Kastle to stop Kaos from using the Mask of Power. Despite getting through the castle's defenses, the Skylanders were unable to stop Kaos from putting on the Mask of Power. With it, Kaos was able to steal the Skylanders' powers, including Spyro's, leaving them defenseless. Before the evil Portal Master could finish the Skylanders off, they were safely teleported back to Eon's Citadel.

As Kaos began to spread havoc across Skylands, Spyro was the one who lifted the Skylanders' spirits when they began to lose hope. With his guidance, the Skylanders were able to build a makeshift tower around the Core of Light in an attempt to protect it. When Kaos came to the island, the Skylanders were once again outmatched by the Mask of Power's abilities and Master Eon was also subdued by Kaos. Before Kaos could unleash his attack on the Core of Light, Trigger Happy, joined by the other Skylanders, coaxed Kaos into using all of their abilities at the same time, causing the evil Portal Master to spiral out of control. The Mask of Power was then yanked off Kaos's face, restoring all of the Skylanders back their powers and allowing them to fully destroy the Mask of Power.

With Kaos defeated once again, Spyro knew that the evil Portal

Master would return, but is certain that he and the Skylanders will be ready for him.

Skylanders: Spyro's Adventure

Spyro and Trigger Happy were present with Master Eon, when Kaos and The Darkness approached the Citadel one day. As Kaos summoned his minions to destroy the Core of Light, Spyro was the first to charge into battle before the other present Skylanders, taking out several red Cyclops Choppers and Trolls with his horns before taking airborne to fight the enemies from the air. He was briefly seen during the fight flying about while being pursued by a Cyclops Mammoth. Despite their best efforts however, Kaos destroyed the Core of Light using his Hydra. Spyro, along with the other Skylanders, were banished from Skylands to Earth, where they were turned into toys as a result of that world having no magic.

While being frozen, Spyro spent much of his time planning on how to lead his Skylanders home, also crossing the mind of breathing fire at Kaos in retaliation for banishing him and the Skylanders to Earth. Soon, a new Portal Master was assigned by Master Eon to lead Spyro and the Skylanders back to Skylands to stop Kaos's tyranny.

After Kaos was defeated, Spyro, Gill Grunt, and Trigger Happy were the only Skylanders present at the Ruins with Flynn, Cali, Hugo, and Master Eon, listening to Kaos making idle threats in his temporary prison. The three Skylanders all shared a knowing glance to one another, as Kaos rambled on promising to return until Skylands was his if he was to be banished to the Outlands again. Instead, Kaos was sent to Earth where he was turned into a toy, and shortly after his departure, Spyro, Gill Grunt, and Trigger Happy celebrated their victory together.

Skylanders: The Kaos Trap

When Hugo called upon the other Skylander teams to assist Stealth Elf, Pop Fizz and Wash Buckler against an army of trolls at the Radiant Isles, Spyro's team of Skylanders was unable to go and help out as they were busy battling a Drow Raiding Squad. The purple dragon then suggested Hugo to contact Gill Grunt's team of Skylanders to see if they were available.

Skylanders: Champions

Spyro is the Skylander who helps crown the winner of the Legendary Tournament and is notably one of the past crowned champions of the arena. According to Déjà Vu, he is the most legendary of all Skylanders. When Déjà Vu felt discouraged by Fist Bump, Trail Blazer, and Fling Kong before the Finals, Spyro approached the girl and lifted her spirits by telling her about how he became a Skylander, his adventures in Skylands, and how raw power alone doesn't make Skylanders powerful. He encouraged Déjà Vu to believe in herself just before the finals began. Déjà Vu would later win the tournament thanks to Spyro's support. With his fire breath, the purple dragon then sculpted a block of metal into a statue of Déjà Vu that now stands alongside other statues of previous champions of the tournament.

Sometime after the tournament, Spyro rescued a sprite named Calliope from a sea creature in the mini-story, Sprite Fight. Unknown to Spyro, Calliope stole his powers from him while she was thanking the young dragon.

Skylanders: Return of the Dragon King

Spyro, Spy Rise, Weeruptor, Jet-Vac and Wallop were hidden onboard Gurglefin's ship while it was enroute to the Wilikin Village. When the ship became ambushed by Captain Frightbeard and his group of Cyclops pirates, the Skylanders leapt out from the ship's trap door to battle their enemies. While taking on Captain Frightbeard, Spyro's fire breath was ineffective against the large seadog, confusing the young dragon. He was quickly pulled back by Spy Rise in time to avoid Frightbeard's swinging blade and Wallop took the chance to knock the pirate unconscious. Afterwards, everyone on the ship wondered what was going on with Spyro's fire breath, and they concluded that they may find answers back at the Skylanders Academy.

Spyro Frightbeard

Once there, Spyro was placed inside one of Mags' inventions to detect anything wrong with him. However after the scan, the readings revealed that Spyro was healthy despite him losing his abilities. Hex soon arrived after a Drow ambush and revealed that her powers were affected as well. After talking with Persephone, the Fairy Queen revealed that all but Spyro and Hex's most simplest of powers were stolen. Spyro and Hex both remembered their encounter with Calliope, discovering that she was the same fairy who used her magic to steal their powers. With the help of Mags' wrench to detect Calliope's magical signature, Spyro and Hex travelled to the Cadaverous Crypts with Mags, Flynn and Wallop to track down Calliope.

Along the way, they came upon Cynder being cornered by Rotting Robbies and Bone Chompies. Wallop, Hex and Spyro saved the dragoness, who revealed that her powers were also stolen by Calliope. The four Skylanders followed Mags' direction to where Calliope went and they pursued the fairy through the caves. Before the Skylanders could stop Calliope from breaking her crystal that held their powers, she shattered the gem under orders of a dark shadow, who absorbed the powers of Spyro, Hex and Cynder to revive himself. As the Skylanders looked upon their enemy, recognizing him, they were struck down and knocked unconscious by a massive fire breath released by none other than the Undead Dragon King Malefor.

When coming back to their senses, Spyro and the other Skylanders found themselves imprisoned. Calliope, who was tending to them, explained that because of their actions against his plans, Malefor had decided to take revenge by destroying what they had worked hard for - the Skylanders Academy. Unable to escape on their own, Cynder took out her frustration on the fairy, but Spyro intervened by pointing out that Cynder - who he forgave despite her dark past - should know better than to blame Calliope for everything. Cynder apologized and tried to convince the fairy to help them with Hex by sharing their experiences with Malefor and their sacrifices, but Calliope was ashamed and ran away. Fortunately, Flynn and Mags soon arrived to free them, and they set off to stop Malefor before he destroyed the school. Once at the Academy, Spyro boldly challenged Malefor to a fight he'll never forget with Hex, Cynder and Wallop by his side.

Malefor Skylanders

Despite Malefor's boasting, Spyro, Cynder, Hex and Wallop stood their ground, willing to fight Malefor for the fate of Skylands. By distracting him, the Skylanders had Mags trap Malefor with chewing gum and the Dread-Yacht was redirected towards Malefor by Hex's magic, crashing the vessel into him, but it only slightly damaged his armor. The evil dragon once again attacked, directing his fury towards Spyro, who Malefor claimed to have fought before time and time again. This confused the group as Hex was the one who defeated him before. Unable to do any further damage, they were starting to lose the battle again until Calliope and Persephone intervened, and directed Spyro to attack Malefor's chestplate to reveal the crystal he used to drain the Skylanders' powers.

To destroy the chestplate, Hex used a spell on Spyro that would redirect his speed into a stronger impact with an orb. Once it was out of the way, Spyro destroyed the crystal inside and released the powers of all defeated Skylanders, restoring their strength. Malefor attempted to keep attacking despite this setback, but at full power, the Skylanders managed to quickly tie his tail to the Dread-Yacht's anchor. With Wallop throwing the ship over the island, Malefor was dragged along. Despite his pleas of help to Calliope, she and the others only watched as Malefor plummeted to the lower parts of Skylands. Spyro afterwards wondered why Malefor believed they both fought before, only for Master Eon to point out that despite the young dragon's memories being fragmented, the present is what matters. Calliope regretted having starting the trouble of Malefor to begin with, but Master Eon assured that the Skylanders Academy would be rebuilt and the Skylanders and their allies would help her find her family regardless.

Skylanders: Rift into Overdrive

During the last day of school at the Skylander Academy, Spyro engaged Stealth Elf in a friendly pie-eating contest, but lost. Three months later after Kaos' escape from the Villain Vault, the purple dragon quickly came to Master Eon when Skylands was being threatened by strange rifts that consume everything in their path and disrupt the connection between the Portals, turning them off completely. As the nearby Skylanders gathered at the Academy's courtyard, Spyro calmed their concerns and explained to them about a great threat Kaos was using to cut off the connections between Portals. While Spyro remained at the Skylander Academy, he enlisted Stealth Elf, Jet-Vac, Terrafin and Gill Grunt to go to Know-It-All Island and see if the Stone Heads know something about the Rift Engines.

Spyro overlooked the defenses around Skylander Academy in preparation for any Kaos attack could pull. The defenses were then put to the test when Kaos launched an assault on the school with an airship armada.

Thanks to the Omni-Disruptor that was retrieved from Magus' castle (Issue #5), Mags was able to call in Skylander reinforcements through a broadcast across all of Skylands. Hordes of Skylanders soon arrived to aid in the defense of the Skylanders Academy, partially scaring away Kaos' attack force and earning the heroes their victory. However Spyro is certain that the war was far from over, knowing that all hope lies on the Rift Engines that Jet-Vac, Stealth Elf, Terrafin and Gill Grunt were sent to find.

Skylanders: Secret Agent Secrets

After the events of Skylanders: SuperChargers, Spyro is first seen arguing with Kaos, who had appointed himself as the Skylander Academy's Evil Consultant of Ultimate Evil. The purple dragon expressed his distrust of the dark Portal Master, assuming Kaos was up to no good as always. Eventually both Spyro and Kaos were forced to cooperate and work out a plan when Buzz pointed out that his elite team of Skylanders, Boomer, Ghost Roaster and Voodood, had disappeared while on a convert mission and hadn't reported in for months. Spyro and Kaos appointed SuperChargers, Spitfire, Stormblade and Nightfall, their first mission to find the lost Skylanders at what was left of Motleyville.

While waiting for Spitfire, Stormblade and Nightfall to report back on their mission, Spyro and Kaos once again got into an heated argument. Before things could escalate into violence, Mags was forced to step in and place Spyro and Kaos in timeout. Knowing that the Skylanders Academy was depending on their leadership, Spyro offered to treat Kaos the respect an ally deserves as they are now on the same side. Now on better terms, both Spyro and Kaos pinpointed the location where the missing Skylanders have disappeared. Spyro then left the Academy under Buzz and Kaos's care as he sent himself to search for their comrades. It is presumed that he found the missing Skylanders off-screen after they defeated the evil Spell Punk Spellslamzer.

Skylanders: Imaginators

Spyro is one of the fan-favorite Skylanders who played an active role of guiding the player and their Skylanders through certain levels.

In the introduction, Spyro engaged Stealth Elf in a friendly race around Skylander Academy, ending with Stealth Elf being the victor. Suddenly, a streak of magic shot into the academy library and a Doomlander emerged, stealing a book about Imaginite. While Spyro and Stealth Elf attempted to engage the creature, it proved to be too strong for them. It was fortunately driven away by the arrival of the Senseis. Spyro later tracked down the Doomlander to the Cradle of Creation where Master Eon instructed the young dragon to meet up with the new Portal Master and their Imaginator. As Spyro expected, the evil mastermind and the creator of the Doomlander was Kaos.

Spyro Imaginators

When the Skylander defeated Kaos's Doomlander, Spyro congratulated their efforts and returned to M.A.P. with them to meet up with Stealth Elf. Afterwards, the dragon Skylander lent his assistance to his fellow teammates through the story until Kaos and Brain used Mind Magic to brainwash all of Skylands, including the other Skylanders. Because he was a dragon, Spyro was immune to the mind control spell and journeyed to the Dragon Temple with the Skylander to find out a way to reverse the spell that had also occured thousands of years ago. After finding the other Dragons, they and Spyro used their dragon magic to undo the brainwashing spell across most of Skylands, freeing the other Skylanders.

Spyro then helped the other Skylanders bake a giant cake that they would use to infiltrate Kaos's new inpenetrable fortress. Once inside, the Skylanders took their battle to Kaos and Brain with the help of the new Portal Master and their Imaginators. Spyro and the other Skylanders quickly captured Brain after he switched sides and assisted the heroes against Kaos, threatening the Ancient because of his previous loyalty to Kaos. The dragon was skeptical that Brain was trustworthy after his claims of turning over a new leaf, but seemingly gained his trust when Brain shrunk Kaos and Glumshanks and trapped them inside a jar. As part of a deal he made with the Skylanders, Brain was appointed the new professor of Skylanders Academy and began telling the Skylanders a story offscreen.

In the Thumpin' Wumpa Islands, Spyro accompanied Mags to the Wumpa Islands but discovered that Dr. Neo Cortex's latest invention had inadvertantly caused the islands' musical vibes to go off-beat. While investigating the island's disturbance, Spyro caught sight of Fake Crash wearing a robot suit that was causing the bad vibes and guided the Skylander around the island with Mags.

---

Me: Wow! That is so cool!

Spyro: Thank you J.D.

Me: Lets go over each Skylander's history. We'll start with the Magic Skylanders first.

Double Trouble: Okay. Here's mine.

Double Trouble went over his history.

---

Double Trouble was an adept spellcaster. On an expedition to find exotic ingredients for his potions, he traveled in search of a rare lily that was said to multiply the power of any spell. So thrilled was he when he found it, Double Trouble instantly ate the plant and performed a spell. Suddenly, there was a loud pop… then another… and another - until Double Trouble was surrounded by exact copies of himself. As it turned out, he had misunderstood the details about exactly what would multiply. But it didn't matter, for he quickly realized the clones were delightful companions… never mind that they were only half his size and would explode on contact.

Story

Double Trouble once lived all on his lonesome in a tropical Skylands rainforest. Here, he foraged for rare roots and exotic plants for his potions. During one such forage, the solitary sorcerer discovered the Whispering Water Lily, a wondrous plant said to multiply the strength of any spell. Straight away, he tried it out. He greedily gobbled the lily down, and then… Belch! Gurgle! Pop! Three tiny copies of himself appeared from nowhere. It seemed that he had slightly misunderstood the lily's powers. Luckily, his clones were charming, clever and cute - and he could certainly do with companionship. There was just one drawback: the clones had an annoying tendency to explode on contact. Still, they turned out to be exactly what Master Eon was looking for, so the hallowed one wasted no time in making Double Trouble a Skylander.

Double Trouble was the one who discovered Zoo Lou and saw his potential after the furry shaman drove off the trolls that had invaded his homeland.

Laney: That is so cool!

Nico: It sure is.

Voodood: I have an interesting history.

Me: Lets have the Magic Skylanders tell us just for today and we'll have each element tell us.

Voodood: That works.

Voodood went over his history.

---

Voodood was a brave warrior among his people. During his rite of passage as a young orc, he entered the Cave of Trials to prove his worth. It was there he found much more than expected. Lured by a brilliant light, Voodood discovered the skeleton of an enormous dragon with an ornate axe buried where the heart would have been. The village was astonished when he exited the cave holding the legendary Axe Reaver and wearing the dragon skull on his head. Voodood quickly became warrior leader and defended his homeland from many beasts and invaders… until he was the last of his tribe. Soon after, he joined the Skylanders.

Story

The Ooga Warriors were one of the most revered tribes in all of Skylands, yet something haunted them - every night, wild dragons would circle their houses and any warrior not taking shelter would end up missing, presumably eaten. However, the only weapon that could destroy these dragons was the legendary Axe Reaver, long lost for centuries and said to increase in power if its wielder had true inner magic.

The Ooga Orcs once had a reputation for being the fiercest fighting force around. Any Orcs who fancied signing up had first to retrive a pebble from deep within the trouser-wettingly terrifying Cave of Trials. One such wannabe was Voodood. Down he went, into the dark dirty depths. Suddenly, a beam of light appeared ahead, Voodood stumbled forward into a chamber containing the skeleton of a dragon. In place of the dragon's heart lay a gleaming gem with an axe sticking out.

Voodood stepped from the cave with something far better than a pebble; he had the magical Axe Reaver, along with the skull of the slain dragon (which he would later adapt into an outlandish hat). The Ooga folk made Voodood their leader at once, and he became a great Orc hero. But even the Ooga could not defeat the dreadful Darkness. The whole tribe marched to meet this new threat, but only Voodood returned alive. So, as you might have guessed, he joined the Skylanders.

Lucy Loud: Wow. That is amazing.

Brittney: It sure is.

Wrecking Ball: Here's my history.

Wrecking Ball went over his history.

---

Wrecking Ball was once a tiny grub worm about to become the main ingredient in an old wizard's cauldron of magic stew. But when he was dropped in, the wizard was shocked to see the little grub devour all of the soup and emerge from the cauldron 20 times larger and with a long, sticky tongue. The poor old wizard was even more surprised seconds later, when Wrecking Ball proceeded to swallow him whole. Eventually he ran, quite literally, into the powerful Portal Master Eon, who was intrigued by how he came to be and impressed with his unique abilities.

Story

Once upon a time, Wrecking Ball was nothing more than a common or garden grub. His adventure began when he became a speciality ingredient in a wizard's magical stew. After being chucked into the cooking concoction, a curious occurence took place. The hungry little grub worm took a sip, and then a gulp, and ended up devouring the whole lot. When the wizard came in to check on his cauldron, instead of his tasty stew he found one enormous grub who had grown to over twenty times his original size. And as Wrecking Ball was still a little peckish, he popped the wizard in his mouth too - only to spit him straight back out again (even a grub's standard's, the wizard tasted like a warthog!). The story soon spread, raising smiles across the Skylands world. Soon the plucky grub bounced into Master Eon, who evidently felt that the Skylanders could do with a serious stomach among their ranks.

---

Lana: Wow! You have an awesome appetite Wrecking Ball.

Wrecking Ball: Thanks Lana.

Ninjini: My story is an interesting one.

Me: Lets hear it Ninjini.

Ninjini went over her story.

---

Ninjini was the most renowned magical ninja from ancient times, long before the Arkeyans rose to power. But a dark sorceress, who was jealous of Ninjini's skill as a warrior, trapped her within an enchanted bottle to be imprisoned for all of eternity. Time stretched on, yet Ninjini remained steadfast and determined to escape - even mastering the dual sword technique within the solitude of her bottle. Over the years, her strength continued to grow until alas, through sheer force of will, she broke free! From that moment on, Ninjini made it her mission to help those in need as one of the first Skylanders, always carrying that enchanted bottle as a reminder of her own resilience.

Story

As a ninja with command over the Magic Element, Ninjini was a real force to be reckoned with back before the Arkeyans came along. Her skills, power and snazzy hairstyle drove an evil sorceress mad with jealousy, and using dark magic the sorceress trapped Ninjini inside an enchanted bottle. There she remained for years and years, but she didn't waste a single moment. Instead, she spent her time getting more awesome by the day, developing her Magic abilities and learning how to skillfully wield double swords. Eventually she became too powerful to contain, and managed to squeeze her way free of her enchanted prison. She swore then to use her Magic, ninja skill and massive size to protect Skylands from those would do it harm.

---

Lola: Wow! That is so cool!

Ninjini: Thanks Lola.

Pop Fizz: Here's my story. I think you will love it.

Pop Fizz went over his history.

---

Nobody is quite sure who Pop Fizz was before he became an alchemist, least of all Pop Fizz himself. After many years of experimenting with magical potions, his appearance has changed quite significantly. In fact, no one even knows his original color. But it's widely known that he is a little crazy, his experiments are reckless, and the accidents they cause are too numerous to measure. Understandably, he has had a difficult time finding lab partners, or anyone that even wants to be near him. In hopes of making himself more appealing to others, he attempted to create the most effective charm potion ever - but that just turned him into a big, wild, berserker. Or maybe that's just how he saw the potion working in the first place…

Story

Pop Fizz is a short and stubby, blue gremlin. At least, he's blue right now, but that could change at any moment. As an alchemist, Pop Fizz spends much of his time making potions, and the rest of his time drinking them. Everyone who has ever met him agrees that Pop Fizz is a little crazy. Actually he's a lot crazy, and the potions he brews up usually have some pretty wild effects. He once created a potion to make himself more charming and appealing to others. Unfortunately, when he drank it, he became a huge angry rage monster. Since then, his potions caused him to change colour, lose his memory and, on more than one occasion, violently explode. Despite this, he always keeps some potion close to hand, not just for the special abilities it gives him, but because it always tastes "soda-licious".

---

Nico: Wow!

Lincoln: That is so cool!

Hoot Loop: It sure is. Here's my story.

---

Hoot Loop was raised by a guild of magicians in Skylands' most famous traveling circus. At a young age, he perfected illusions and spells that only the very best of their guild could perform, and even mastered the art of teleportation! Soon enough, he became the star of the show, known far and wide as the Amazing Hoot Loop. However, one day an army of Greebles disguised as clowns invaded, determined to destroy the popular circus. It was then that Hoot Loop gave a performance that few would ever forget. Using his incredible powers, he fought off the invaders and saved the circus - to the raucous applause of the many spectators - including Master Eon, who presented Hoot Loop with an opportunity to learn some real magic as a member of the Skylanders.

---

Lily: That is so cool!

Luna: You said it dude!

Trap Shadow: Here's my story.

---

Once part of an elite tribe of hunters in a remote area of Skylands, Trap Shadow used his cat-like cunning, ingenious traps and mystical stealth abilities to catch nearly everything that could be caught. As a result, his fame around Skylands grew so much that it attracted the attention of an evil cadre of wizards. They plotted to capture Trap Shadow and use his abilities to ensnare the most uncatchable thing of all - Master Eon himself. But Trap Shadow could sense them coming from miles away. Outsmarted and outmaneuvered, each of the wizards was easily captured by Trap Shadow's bewildering array of traps and snares until they were all locked away for good. Having saved Master Eon, he quickly made Trap Shadow a Skylander.

---

Cody: Wow! That is so cool!

Vince: It sure is.

Star Strike: My story is a stellar one.

---

Looking for a way to magically banish the Skylanders, Kaos poured through every dusty scroll and ancient tome he could find. Upon stumbling across a rare and extremely powerful spell, he began to recite its words. However, he sneezed midway through the incantation. As a result, instead of sending the Skylanders far away, Star Strike was plucked from her home in the distant cosmos and brought into Skylands. Surprised, Kaos thought he'd won a powerful new ally in the mysterious and reserved Star Strike. But she knew evil when she saw it and promptly unleashed her fierce magical powers on him. Word of her victory over Kaos spread quickly and she was soon asked by Master Eon to join the Skylanders.

Story

The Kaos Trap

Star Strike was the first to answer Hugo's call to help the Skylanders at the Radiant Isles against an army of Trolls. Unfortunately, she, Tree Rex and Gill Grunt were busy evacuating the inhabitants of Stonetown from a crumbling dam before it gave out, and were unable to go and help Stealth Elf, Pop Fizz, and Wash Buckler.

Return of the Dragon King

When Malefor defeated most of the Skylanders that were summoned to protect the Skylanders Academy, Star Strike was one of the remaining heroes that served as the school's last line of defense. Despite assisting her fellow Skylanders in forming a barrier that held back Malefor's massive firebreath, they were ultimately defeated when the evil dragon delivered a devastating tail strike that broke through the Academy walls.

---

Qin: Wow! So that's another deed that Kaos did. He had you recruited by Master Eon by accident.

Star Strike: (Laughs) He sure did.

Me: That's funny. But interesting.

Dune Bug: (British Accent) Here's my story.

Hailing from a race of beetles changed by the powerful secrets hidden in a buried Arkeyan city, Dune Bug was next in line to become the defender of those secrets. As a small pupa, Dune Bug and his father would travel to the ruins where he learned to read the ancient writings using his father's magic staff. On the day Dune Bug was to be given his own magic staff, the city fell under attack by the evil Sand Mages of Doom, who were after the secret Arkeyan tomes. Knowing what he had to do, Dune Bug used his magic to defeat the Mages and bury the city deeper into the ground until it was forever out of their reach. Dune Bug earned his magic staff that day - and a place alongside the Skylanders.

Story

Using magic to mutate beetles sounds like a recipe for disaster, but when ancient Arkeyan secrets did just that, things somehow worked out for the best and a noble bug race was born. One young beetle, by the name of Dune Bug, dedicated himself to guarding those Arkeyan secrets from the forces of darkness. When evil came calling, Dune Bug sent it packing, and drove his city deeper underground where it remains safely out of harm's way.

---

Me: Wow! That is so cool!

Dune Bug: Indeed.

Blastermind: Here's my interesting story.

---

Blastermind was once the "hide and sheep" champion of the Sardonic Mountains, where he and his friends played regularly. But when he was about to set a new Skylands record, the ground collapsed and Blastermind fell into a deep, mysterious cavern filled with shimmering crystals. As his friends circled the hole up top, they suddenly found themselves face to face with a dangerous Ham Dragon, who had felt the rumble of the collapse. Down below, Blastermind felt helpless. But fortunately, the cavern was filled with Psionic Power Crystals once used by the Ancients to amplify their thoughts. When the crystals "heard" Blastermind's worried thoughts about saving his friends, they found him worthy - and bestowed upon him awesome psionic powers, which he used to get out of the hole and mentally blast the circling Ham Dragon. Soon after, Blastermind joined the Skylanders as part of the Trap Team, using his new Traptanium Psionic Helmet to fight evil everywhere!

---

Linka: Wow! That is so cool!

Laney: It sure is.

Blastermind: You have to keep a really sharp mind at all times.

Me: That is too true.

Enigma: Here's my mysterious story.

---

Summoned by a Mabu Mystic, Enigma comes from a nameless place "between the worlds." Though the Mystic was really just looking for someone to play Skystones, he was quickly enraptured by Enigma's stories about his mysterious homeland. Unfortunately, the Darkness got wind of these stories, and seeking another realm to conquer, sent minions to lay siege on the gateway that remained open. Making matters worse, the Mabu had no idea how to close it. So, with a legion of minions fast approaching, Enigma chose to use his Sigil of Mystery to seal the doorway - cutting him off from his home forever. This large sacrifice caught the attention of the Trap Team, who welcomed Enigma and gave him a new home as a protector of Skylands. He now uses his Traptanium Sigil to put a world of hurt on evil everywhere!

Story

Light in the Dark

Enigma took part in the fight against Pain-Yatta's army of candy warriors. Lead by Gearshift, he and several other Skylanders fought a group of candy soldiers to save three Mabu before retreating into an old castle fortress to hold out when the army began to grow in numbers. As they were cornered by the candy army within the fortress, Enigma and the other Skylanders served as Skylands' last line of defense, battling Pain-Yatta's army with all of their might. The candy army soon fell to pieces just as the Skylanders were becoming overwhelmed (thanks to the actions of the Light and Dark Skylanders in their fight against Pain-Yatta), earning the heroes their victory.

Skylanders: Ring of Heroes

After the Earth Portal Master, Cali, Flynn, Hugo and the Skylanders reached the end of Rainbow Valley, Enigma approached the Portal Master, with intent to test their worth. For most of the Part 2 Quests, Enigma gives out advice and directions for them to take, interested in villain movements around the islands.

---

Me: Oooh! Mysterious but awesome!

Nico: It sure is.

Lucy Loud: I find that to be very interesting.

Deja Vu: Here's a story that repeats history.

---

On a remote island in Skylands, Déjà Vu tirelessly worked on a machine that would make the perfect three-minute egg in half the time. After pouring over countless magic tomes, and even consulting the lost plans used to create the legendary Tower of Time, she finally completed construction of the huge machine. Unfortunately, a gang of evil giant sea slugs, searching for a way to acquire super speed, learned of her machine and set about to take it at all costs. Slow, but well armed, the massive slugs bore down on the island. But rather than allow her work be used for evil, Déjà Vu quickly jumped into action and set the clock's hands to thirteen - causing a time overload. Caught up in the blast, she was given an amazing power over time, which she then used to stop the evil slugs in their tracks and spin them home. Now as a Skylander, Déjà Vu uses her incredible powers to turn back the clock on evil!

Story

Déjà Vu is the main protagonist of the comic issue. She battled her way to the finals of the Legendary Tournament, in which the champion is honored with a statue of themselves on permanent display. In the semi-finals, Déjà Vu's latest opponent was Torch. She won the round, but discovered that Trail Blazer, Fist Bump and Fling Kong were to be her next opponents after a short intermission. The male Skylanders taunted Déjà Vu by boasting that only one of them would become the champion, and it wasn't going to be her. Discouraged, Déjà Vu left the arena to have some time alone.

She began doubting herself as being the most powerful Skylander until Spyro, the one who helps crown the champion of the Legendary Tournament, overheard Déjà Vu's words and encouraged her to believe in herself. The girl was reassured by Spyro's words, and when the Skylanders were called for the final round, Déjà Vu stepped back into the arena, confident and prepared for the challenge. During the finals, Fist Bump, Trail Blazer and Fling Kong ganged up on Déjà Vu, something she had guessed.

Despite being outnumbered, she was able to defeat all three male Skylanders by leaving exploding duplicates of herself around them. Déjà Vu was then crowned the new Legendary Champion, with Fist Bump, Fling Kong and Trail Blazer seeing the error of their ways and congratulating her. Spyro created a statue of Déjà Vu in her honor, which now stands along with the statues of other past champions.

---

Nico: Whoa!

Lynn: That is so cool!

Kira Ford: It sure is.

Cobra Cadabra: Here's my charming story.

---

Though Cobra Cadabra was an assistant to The Great Mabuni, a traveling magician that performed all over Skylands, he wanted more than anything to become a magician himself. Unfortunately, the guild of Mysteriously Mad Magic Masters of Mystery, who for centuries taught all of the greatest magicians, would not permit it. And so Mabuni decided to teach the cobra himself, even through it was forbidden. They studied everything together, from vanishing acts to snake charming. But when the guild discovered this, they sent a team of magic rabbit enforcers to punish them both. Although the beastly hares were the most powerful of their kind in Skylands, Cobra Cadabra remained brave. Playing an enchanted tune on his flute, he used what he had learned to cast a spell over the rabbits and lead them away. Upon hearing this, this guild was impressed by such a display of skill, and accepted the snake charmer as a member. Soon after, Cobra Cadabra was made a member of another group - the Skylanders!

---

Luan: Wow! You got Charmed on that one. (Laughs) Get it?

We laughed!

Eddy: (Laughs) Good one Luan!

Me: (Laughs) That was a good one!

Cobra Cadabra: (Laughs) That was a good one.

Splat: Here's my story of art and mess.

---

Splat grew up in a typical faun village, which was perfectly manicured and orderly. Every day in school, she and her classmates would recite the same poems, play the same music, and paint the same picture - which was always a portrait of their great ancestor, Fluty Hoofdancer. But this didn't suit Splat. The only art she wanted to learn was the art of war! After school, she would sneak off to the river and practice her own free form fighting technique against Chompies and other creatures that were causing trouble. When the elder fauns learned of this, were outraged. But soon thereafter, a band of Drow attacked the village to steal their valuable art, and while the other fauns cowered in fear, Splat stood her ground. Unleashing her self-taught fighting style, she defended her village and sent the Drow running. Now as a member of the Skylanders, Splat makes quite the impression wherever she goes!

Laney: Wow! That is so cool!

Lily: I like art and photography. But that is awesome.

Nico: It sure is.

Buckshot: I have quite a tale for you all.

When Buckshot was young, he and his siblings were banished to the Magic Realm of Mysterious Mazes by an evil Spell Punk that wanted to rid Skylands of all Sky-Fauns. Buckshot spent years looking for a way out, but found no way to escape the enchanted labyrinth. Over time, however, the magic of the realm began to grow within him, strengthening his already formidable powers. While his siblings had lost all hope of freedom, Buckshot continued to test the boundaries of the maze, using his mystical bow and arrows to try to penetrate the walls around him. Eventually, Buckshot's powers became so potent that he even learned how to teleport. With this new ability, he was finally able to open a portal back into Skylands and free his siblings. Now as a Sensei of the Bowslinger class, Buckshot always keeps one eye on the target - and the other on the lookout for the Spell Punk that had banished him!

Me: Whoa! But if we find that Spell Punk, we will make him pay.

Buckshot: Thank you J.D.

Me: Anytime.

Mysticat: Here's how I became the Master of Mystery.

---

For centuries, Mysticat and the great Sphinxes guarded the entrance to the Enchanted Desert with their famous riddles, which few could solve. Mysticat was a curious creature, and had his own question that even he could not answer. He was puzzled as to why others wanted to enter the Enchanted Desert so badly. So he decided to venture himself to find the answer. But instead of finding answers, he was attacked by wandering gypsies and evil sand raiders that scoured the desert for lost treasure. After fighting them off with his impressive sorcery skills, he returned to the elders and explained what happened. It was then that they revealed the true nature of the desert to him. They told him that what he saw was a vision of his own destiny - and that he was meant to protect all of Skylands, not just the Enchanted Desert. Master Eon was then invited to enter the desert to meet Mysticat to see if their two destinies were intertwined. When Eon emerged the next day, it was clear to him that Mysticat was meant to be one of his best Senseis… and that he would one day shave his beard. But he kept that part to himself.

---

Me: Whoa! That is so cool!

Lucy Loud: It sure is.

Lori: That is literally impressive.

Pain-Yatta: I have a tale of candy and smashing. I was once a villain.

---

Pain-Yatta encountered the Skylanders at Telescope Towers, where he got into a brawl with them. In the end, he was beaten and trapped.

After his capture, the Skylanders took him and Chomp Chest to the Secret Sewers of Supreme Stink for their Villain Quests, along with fighting some of the local mutants and Goo Chompies along the way. His Villain Quest was with one of the Skaletones, Bag O' Bones, called "I'm With The Band". He then explained to the heroes that he was the manager of the Gecko Chorus along with a few other bands, and that the geckos had just finished their latest single that they wish to deliver to the Capybara King, but they had to cross enemy lines and trusted only Pain-Yatta as an escort. After successfully delivering the gramophone to him, he was awarded with Bag O' Bones' gratitude, the Rubber Glove Hat, and a new outfit.

Light in the Dark

Pain-Yatta captured and witnessed Spotlight and Blackout breaking out of his massive pinata using the elements of Light and Dark. As the two Skylanders flew off to report to Master Eon, Pain-Yatta announced his plans of a "candy catastrophe" that the Skylanders wouldn't be able to stop it in time.

Pain-Yatta Comic

Rejected by the Doom Raiders, Pain-Yatta formed his own plan to rule Skylands. He used the elements of Light and Dark siphoned from Spotlight and Blackout to construct and power an army of candy warriors, which emerged from various pinatas around Skylands and began terrorizing the inhabitants. When the Light and Dark Skylanders, Spotlight, Blackout, Knight Light and Knight Mare came to the Arkeyan ruins to investigate, Pain-Yatta confronted the heroes and overwhelmed them by unleashing a wave of candy.

Pain-Yatta imprisoned Spotlight, Blackout, Knight Light and Knight Mare inside a massive pinata version of himself as he prepared to lead his candy army in their victory over ruling Skylands. Knowing that he had used the energies of Light and Dark to power himself and his candy army, the villain was confident that the four Skylanders wouldn't dare to try and escape using their powers otherwise they would make Pain-Yatta stronger. However they overloaded the giant pinata with their Light and Dark abilities, causing it to explode and allowing the four Skylanders to escape. As he absorbed the Light and Dark energies released from the blast, Pain-Yatta gloated that the Skylanders only made him and his army more powerful than ever. Suddenly the villain became sick from absorbing too much energy, and his candy army all across Skylands crumbled to pieces as a result. In an attempt to drown the Light and Dark Skylanders in candy, Pain-Yatta could only muster the energy to cough up a single piece of candy, allowing the Skylanders to easily apprehend the weakened villain.

Skylanders: SuperChargers and Skylanders: SuperChargers Racing

Pain-Yatta makes an appearance in both the SuperVillain Cup of Skylanders: SuperChargers and the Wicked Tour of Skylanders: SuperChargers Racing, where he drives two near-identical piñata-based vehicles with a hippopotamus-like design. He uses a Land vehicle in the SuperVillain Cup, and a Sky vehicle in the Wicked Tour, where he replaces Lord Stratosfear as a playable Villain. Unlike his Land vehicle, his Sky vehicle is comically small, and has additional pig-like piñata rockets attached to its sides in order to achieve flight.

Skylanders: Ring of Heroes

Escaping prison through unknown means, Pain-Yatta fled to Rainbow Valley, and was discovered by Kaos. After his rifts created the Shattered Islands and he lost the Book of Dark Magic, the Dark Portal Master tried to hire Pain-Yatta as a Doom Raider on their behalf - not knowing that he was used to further their plans - and promised candy and a high ranking if the piñata found the book and dispatched any Skylanders that he came across. However, after fighting them recklessly and being defeated, Pain-Yatta realized that he was fooled by the villain, and decided to stay on the side of the heroes.

Skylanders: Imaginators

Growing up, Pain-Yatta's best friend was the legendary Unocorn, a unicorn with a churro-horn that sprinkles magical cinnamon from time to time. While the cinnamon donuts for breakfast were incredible, being so sweet and delicious made them both easy targets for those looking for yummy treats. But Pain-Yatta had no problem protecting the both of them with his giant sucker! One day, however, the Unocorn went missing, and Pain-Yatta was beside himself. He tried desperately to find his buddy, but to no avail. That's when the Doom Raiders tricked him into thinking that the Skylanders were behind it all, and Pain-Yatta fell for it hook, line and sinker. He joined up with the band of villains and ventured out to get revenge on the Skylanders, but was eventually captured by the Trap Masters. Master Eon explained that the Skylanders had nothing to do with the Unocorn's disappearance and said he would help Pain-Yatta find his friend, if he became a Skylander Sensei and trained new Imaginators in the ways of smashing! Pain-Yatta agreed and the search for the missing Unocorn continues.

---

Me: Whoa! And I bet some of the villains we know from Skylands redeemed themselves.

Pain-Yatta: We sure have.

Me: That's good.

Nico: I just hope that Hawk Moth can be redeemed.

---

Over in Paris, Hawk Moth was still processing everything that Nico told him.

Hawk Moth: (cries in frustration) Why can't anyone understand?! I am doing all of these crimes for Emile! But of course, Team Loud Phoenix Storm would never understand my pain. Their loved ones are fully healthy! I don't know what Grodd was thinking not taking care of those heroes when he had a chance! (calms down) That being said, the Legion of Doom deserves a better leader, not an incompetent one. And I will be that leader, with a plan that is extremely brilliant-

?: Not even the late Lex Luthor would've thought of it?

Hawk Moth turned around to see Lila Rossi leaning on the wall, a smirk on her face.

Hawk Moth: (chuckles nervously) That's the idea, Lila. (sighs) How long have you been standing there?

Lila: (pulls away from the wall) Long enough. And it's Commander Volpina now. (bows) Once and future Lord Hawk Moth.

Back at the estate, Nico just remembered something.

Nico: J.D., me and Maria have to do something. We're gonna go to the Legion Of Doom headquarters and warn them about what is gonna happen.

Me: Okay. Be careful guys.

Maria: Will do.

Nico and Maria went to the Legion Of Doom Headquarters.

SLAUGHTER SWAMP, NEW JERSEY

In the Legion Of Doom Headquarters in Slaughter Swamp, New Jersey, Nico and Maria arrived.

Heat Wave: If it isn't Nicolas Chan and one of the traitors.

Maria: Relax. We're not here to fight.

Trickster: And we're supposed to believe that?

Nico: Look, despite everything that's happened between our groups, I have nothing but respect for the 6 of you because of your code of honor. And that's why we need you to not send any backup for Hawk Moth when me and the others fight him.

Mirror Master: Why not? Any backup for our members is bad news for you heroes.

Maria: Because Hawk Moth and Lila Rossi are planning to overthrow Grodd and take command of the Legion of Doom.

Top: SAY WHAT?!

Nico: Our spy bugs in Paris, France confirmed it. So, can you please tell Grodd to leave Hawk Moth to us?

Captain Cold: We will. Thanks for telling us this. (Nico nodded and he and Maria are about to leave the base) Look, can you tell Leni Loud that I'm sorry that she got skunked? When I set that skunk free, I didn't have a specific target in mind for it. I honestly didn't expect her to get hit by the skunk.

Nico: I will. Thank you, Snart. (Nico and Maria leave)

* * *

Nico and Maria came back.

Me: How did it go guys?

Nico: The message was sent. And Captain Cold apologizes for Skunking Leni.

Me: I'm glad he did. Looks like our ceasefire is a go, until Hawk Moth and Lila are in jail.

Nico: Yep. Captain Cold has honor.

Leanbow: Just like me.

Qin: Speaking of villains that are honorable, you haven't told me about Ra's Al Ghul yet.

Manaphy: Well, the first thing you should know is that he's Talia's father.

Talia: (Arabic Accent) That's right.

Me: Ra's Al Ghul is a very formidable foe. But he loves planet Earth. He walked this world for 600 years. Truly a magnificent man.

I went over Ra's Al Ghul's history.

---

At some point in his life, this man discovered the Lazarus Pits, which he used to prolong his life over and over again.

Now known as "Ra's al Ghul", he work towards his goal of reversing all of the damage that modern human progress had done to the earth and restoring it to a pure world free of technology. He also fathered at least two children: Arkady Duvall and Talia.

Decades later, Ra's al Ghul's presence was first made known to Batman. Later, Ra's met Batman right in the Batcave, requested his help in tracking down his daughter and Dick Grayson as they had both been kidnapped on the same night.

Superman: The Animated Series

Ra's continued to come into conflict with Batman, even attempting to prolong his own life by stealing Superman's powers. At the end of this ordeal, he and Talia were caught in a collapsing cavern. In the aftermath, neither one could be found, dead or alive.

Batman Beyond

Ra's al Ghul escaped death again but Ra's was left at the brink of death and the Lazarus Pits unable to repair the damage of his body. He asked her to sacrifice herself and she gave her permission, ceasing to exist. In his new body, Ra's took over Talia's legal identity and was able to keep himself alive through the years with the Lazarus Pits, as well as "improve" his image with charities.

Since after Bruce Wayne retired by the 2040s, Ra's al Ghul correctly guessed that the new Batman was the assistant Terry McGinnis.

---

Me: I fought him over in Niger and he is a very skilled fighter. With 600 years worth of knowledge and skill from over the course of history he was a formidable force.

Hound: It's good to know that Ra's immediately saw the error of his ways the minute you threw him in the Moon Prison.

Me: Yep. And he has a magnificent view of Earth from the Moon.

Qin: And I heard that he almost got himself killed by a girl named Gisele Razor.

Me: Oh yeah. Gisele Razor was known as the Terror of Michigan.

I went over Gisele Razor's history. It was awful.

Qin gasped in sheer horror.

Qin: That girl was a monster!

Hook: So, Giesle Razor get herself killed for starting a prison riot all because she beat Ra's up for the last tater tot?!

Me: Yep. Lori ended up killing her with her powers of fire as Lori Volcana.

Volcana: That girl deserved it nonetheless.

Talia: My father is a good soul. He was just trying to help the planet.

Me: I know beloved. Ra's is a good man. Even though he was fighting for a bad cause, he is still an honorable man.

Talia: Yeah.

Then there was an explosion.

Nico: What was that?

Me: Oh that's your sister. She's over in the training yards sparing with Chun Li.

Lincoln: Chun Li from Street Fighter!? Awesome!

Me: Oh yeah! She is a deadly fighter. And Mindy is the one that killed M. Bison.

Nico: Oh yeah. He got what was coming to him.

Mindy Chan was training really hard. She was mastering so many moves from Chun Li that it defied description.

Mindy Chan: KIKOKEN!

She fired a powerful energy blast from her hands. Chun Li dodged it.

Mindy Chan: Lightning Kick!

Chun Li got hit hard.

She was knocked down.

Chun Li: Wow! You are a good student.

Mindy Chan: (Panting) Thank you Chun Li.

I then saw that James Maxfield was in deep thought.

Me: Are you okay James?

James M.: Yeah. I have something to tell you.

Me: What is it.

James Maxfield then told me that he Lori, Raye Hino (Sailor Mars) and Shadow went to the Feudal world long ago and he learned a powerful Shinigami move that he'll show us later and we saw a fortune teller and she told them about a new threat coming. He told us about what was coming.

Me: That's awful! Thank you for telling us this James. We can help you avenge your parents and take down Major Kreissack.

James M.: You would do that for me?

Me: Sure. You are just as big a family member to Team Loud Phoenix Storm as we are to you.

James M.: Thank you guys. Thank you.

We then were packing to go to Aloha Beach in Florida. We then met Sonic's closest friends Blaze the Cat and Silver the Hedgehog!

Sonic: Blaze, Silver! It's great to see you all again!

Silver: Same to you Sonic!

Blaze: We missed you dude.

Me: Silver and Blaze. It's an honor to meet you.

Blaze: Same to you J.D. We heard that you all killed Dr. Robuttnik.

Silver: We're so glad that he's gone.

Me: That was an awesome adventure.

We were then off to Aloha Beach. Lisa then built her time machine to take us into the future to the year 2097. Our mission was to kill Major Kreissack and avenge James Maxfield's parents. We were then off into the future in the 2097.

---

2097 - JUPITER'S MOON, GANYMEDE.

---

We arrived at 78 years into the future and we were on a colony on Jupiter's Moon, Ganymede. It was the largest of all the moons in the Solar System.

Me: Whoa! So this is the Ganymede colony.

James Maxfield: Yep. It was my home until Kreissack turned it into hell.

Me: It's amazing.

Lincoln: Look over there.

We looked out a window and we saw that we were in orbit around Jupiter!

Me: Whoa! What an awesome sight! The Colony is in orbit around Jupiter on the largest moon in the Solar System: Ganymede.

Lisa: This is an incredible and magnificent feat of engineering we built in the future near the end of the 21st Century.

With us were the famous crew of the TV show Heroes. Turns out they came to us last night and they all have famous powers that made them unique.

Hiro: (Japanese Accent) It's going to be awesome fighting with you guys.

Me: It sure is Hiro. We saw all of you guys on TV and you guys were incredible saving the world from all kinds of things.

Claire: It's gonna be so cool working for you J.D.

Me: We're glad to have you all with us Claire. But were you all really scared when you all discovered you all had powers?

Claire Bennet: We were.

Christopher Eccleston: We were J.D. But we saw all of your adventures and learned from you on TV. With Great Power Comes Great Responsibility.

Me: That's right. You all have the power to do incredible things. Just do what you believe is right by following what your heart tells you all is right.

Claire Bennet: That's right.

Me: Lets get started.

We set out to find Kreissack. Along the way we resurrected Shadow the Hedgehog and Sonic was so thrilled to have his friend back.

But then we saw soldiers firing at us. We blasted them all and killed all of them.

Lisa: It was very unwise for Kreissack to not listen to the ceasefire.

Me: Very unwise.

Kreissack was sitting in his office as he saw all his troops fall before us.

Kreissack: So Team Loud Phoenix Storm is here.

Then a massive fiery explosion blasted a hole through his office door and a phoenix cry was heard. Out of the explosion was us.

We saw MAJOR KREISSACK!

---

Major Hans Kreissack is the final boss from One Must Fall: 2097. He is responsible for the success of WAR. It is rumored that there is much more to the new colony in Ganymede than is known by the general public. Many say that he is preparing to declare himself a new Emperor of the solar system. This threat is weighed heavily by his known armada of HARs and the mysterious Nova Project he's spent the last two years on.

If the player reaches the final stage on the Punching Bag or Rookie difficulty, Kreissack will say "I am not impressed with your pathetic fighting skills. Come back when you've learned to fight." and the game will end. To face him and see the ending, the difficulty must be set on Veteran or higher. He controls Nova, one of the most recent and powerful HARs created by WAR.

---

We saw that he was a really old man!

Me: What the!? You got to be fucking kidding! This old man is Major Kreissack!?

Nico: I remember this guy. He's 103 years old.

Me: Wow!

Lori: That is literally impressive!

Hiro: It sure is.

Kreissack: So the mighty Team Loud Phoenix Storm has come.

Me: That's right. We've come to kill you.

William: Kreissack, maybe you didn't hear the news. There's been a temporary ceasefire between us and the Legion until Hawk Moth's defeated!

Kreissack: You make it sound like I'm even part of the Legion of Doom at all.

Me: You are not part of the Legion. We've actually come here to end your life for killing our friend's parents!

James Maxfield: That's right. Remember me Kreissack?

Kreissack: And who are you child?

James Maxfield: My name is James Maxfield. You killed my family. Prepare to die!

Kreissack: What!? You're the son of that fucking fool!

Me: Shut your fucking trap you shitsucker! Lets get this fucker guys!

Another Fanfiction Complete and an awesome adventure in time done.

Darkhai requested that I do a special chapter where we go into the world of the 1994 PC Game One Must Fall 2097. I never played that game myself, but it looked awesome from what I read. This was an interesting chapter for us! NicoChan and Darkhai gave me the ideas for this one. Thanks guys. Credit goes to Darkhai for the chapter ideas. Let me know what you all think. Next up is the ultimate fight with the evil Hawk Moth from Miraculous Ladybug! We're not going to kill him. We're going to throw him in jail after we cure his wife and help him get back together with her.

See you all next time.

Operation: Miraculous Reunification

At the estate at the crack of dawn, Nico had us standing in attention like we were in the army. He was dressed up like General Patton.

Nico: Alright listen up everyone! Chloé Bourgeois sent us an email giving us the green light to go ahead and help Ladybug and company take Hawk Moth down. But she and Cat Noir are dealing with a new Akumatized villain named Silencer. So we have to help purify that villain first. We leave in an hour. Remember: out there, there's no Legion of Doom. Not right now. So, unless we're going to end up fighting Heartless, clones, or Power Ranger villains, we do! Not! Kill! Understand and do you get me!?

Me and everyone: WE GET YOU SIR!

Nico: Welcome to the Roughnecks.

Me: Nico's Roughnecks!

We do a Spartan Grunt.

Nico: We leave in one hour. DISMISSED!

We got ready.

Me: Nice Starship Troopers line buddy. I know it's all true but I made a wise choice when I made you one of my 2nd in command.

Nico: Thanks J.D.

Me: You're in charge of this mission, so I'll appoint you as commander for this mission.

Nico: Thanks man. You go print out some proof of Lila's lies so we can expose her.

Me: Yes sir.

Nico: I could get used to this.

I salute and I went to gather the evidence of Lila's lies and fraud. What I found out about her was horrifying. She not only has homicidal schizophrenia, but she also has Anti-social Personality Disorder. A terrible double-whammy. But I uncovered her lies as well.

She knows Prince Ali and flew with him in his private jet. (Absolute Bullshit)

Jagged Stone wrote a song about Lila. (Lie)

Lila knows all of the Hollywood directors. She promised she'd introduce Nino to Steven Besielberg. (Baloney)

Ladybug saved Lila's life, and the two of them are best friends. (Crap)

Lila loves superheroes. (When Pigs Fly)

Lila claims to be a descendant of a Fox Miraculous holder seen in the Miraculous spellbook, calling her Volpina. According to Lila, Volpina is "one of the most important superheroes, more powerful and celebrated than Ladybug." Lila also claimed her grandmother gave her the Fox Miraculous, showing a simular looking trinket she bought in a giftshop after seeing the miraculous in the Grimoire. (Crock of shit)

In the French dubbed version, she tells Alya that her parents are diplomats and that she has traveled a lot. (Absolute Shit)

As Volpina, most of the things she says are lies. For example, she tells Adrien and all of Paris that she is a true superhero. (Shitsville)

She has a close relationship with prince Ali. (Absolute Bullshit)

She saved Jagged Stone's kitten. (More Absolute Bullshit)

Me: Oh wait till everyone in Marinette's school hears about that.

I printed the evidence and told Prince Ali of Arabia about this on a video call. He was shocked. I then called Jagged Stone and told him about her lies and he was shocked.

Me: Sir! I found all of her lies and told Prince Ali of Arabia and Jagged Stone about her lies.

Nico: Great job. Good work soldier. Go get ready for a big fight.

Me: Yes sir General Nico.

Nico: General Nico. I like the sound of that.

Me: Nora, we're gonna need you to come with us as well so that we can show him with proof that you were cured by Lily. Lily cured you. So there's no doubt in my mind that she can cure Emile.

Nora Fries: Okay.

Jack Spicer: (to the Xiaolin Warriors) Look, I know we have our differences right now. But we need to put our egos aside to defeat Hawk Moth. After that, you guys can go back to hating me and vice versa.

Omi: We would not have it any other way.

A fiery explosion went off in the background.

KRABBBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOO

Nico: YEAH! Awesome!

Me: Thanks man. We're all set.

Nico: Great. Here we go guys! We're coming for you Hawk Moth!

Nico opened the door and we were off to Paris, France! There's no turning back now!

PARIS, FRANCE!

In the streets of Paris, Marinette and Cat Noir were fighting their friend turned Akuma, Luka Couffaine A.K.A. Silencer and in his Miraculous form he is known as Viperia.

Marinette: Luka, think about what you're doing! Revenge against Bob Roth won't solve anything. And when Team Loud Phoenix Storm get here, they might kill you! Do you want that?

Silencer (using XY's voice): I don't care. As long as Bob Roth gets what he deserves, my life is a small price to pay!

Marinette: No Luka!

Then a massive fiery explosion exploded in the sky and a phoenix cry was heard!

Nico: Sorry we're late Ladybug!

We arrived at the fight!

Ladybug: Wow! J.D. Knudson and all of Team Loud Phoenix Storm!

Me: It's a pleasure to meet you Ladybug. We can talk after we help you out here.

Rumble: Cat Noir? That is you, right? Not a clone of you?

Cat Noir: Of course it's me. Who else would be handsome in a black cat suit.

Frenzy: Oh yeah. It's definitely him.

Silencer (Using XY's Voice): So the mighty Team Loud Phoenix Storm is here.

Me: Luka Couffaine, A.K.A. Silencer.

Silencer just stole Lincoln's voice.

Silencer (using Lincoln's voice): What are you waiting for? I'm standing right here, waiting for you to kill me!

Lucy Loud: Nice try. But we know you're being manipulated. So we're not killing you.

Silencer (using Lincoln's voice): Figures you wouldn't take an opprtunity to do what needs to be done. Especially with those ugly fire and wind girls with you.

Hawk Moth: Perfect! They'll get so angry that they'll kill you in their rage!

Nico: I remember how you went down Silencer.

Nico teleported and kicked his helmet off and out of it came a pitch black butterfly.

Ladybug: Time to show you guys how to defeat an Akumatized villain. LUCKY CHARM! TIME TO DE-EVILIZE!

She used her lucky charm and it caught the dark butterfly and returned it to normal.

Ladybug: Fly away little butterfly.

Lila was watching our fight from the shadows.

Lila: (attempting to call Hawk Moth) Hawk Moth, this is Lila. do you read me? Come in, Hawk Moth! (gets no answer) If Team Loud Phoenix Storm contact the faculty of Françoise Dupont High School, my cover could be blown at any minute now. If you're getting this message, then know that I'm taking matters into my own hands. Lila out. (hangs up, puts gun in pocket, and leaves for school)

Lincoln's voice returned to him.

Lincoln: Thanks Nico.

Nico: Anytime buddy.

Luka then became normal again.

Ladybug and Count Noir (fist bump each other): Pound it!

Lori: Um… hello? Hawk Moth is literally still out there. Does this really count as a vicotry to you two?

Cat Noir: Well, someone got off on the wrong side of the bed this morning.

Me: Guys. This is just what Hawk Moth wants. He wants us to show negative emotions so that he'll akumatize us. Just keep cool.

Ladybug: Are you all right Luka?

Luka: Yeah. I'm okay.

Spiderman then went after Luka's manager.

Spiderman: (grabs Bob Roth by the arm) Alright, Jameson ripoff. How about letting everyone know that you stole the ideas of Marinette's band? Before we decide to have some fun with you?

Bob Roth: You can't just defeat an Akumatized villain one minute and then threaten me the next!

Spiderman: What do you know? We just did! We're planning to take down all the villains of Paris today. And that includes you!

Bob Roth: The rumors were true. You and those other heroes have changed, Spider-Man! (smirks) And you know what? I like it!

Me: Stop Spiderman. We'll worry about exposing his plagiaristic ways later.

Ladybug: Right.

We then went to Marinette's school.

Marinette: It's such an honor to meet you J.D. Nico told us so much about you all.

Me: I know. He told us so much about you all too.

Nico: I sure did.

Adrien: Congratulations on winning that race on Mars, J.D.

Me: Thanks Adrien. That was one of the coolest races we've ever done.

We went into their classroom.

Me: Adrien, do you know that your father is Hawk Moth?

Adrien: Yes, I do. I saw him transform into Hawk Moth.

Nico: Did you expose him?

Adrien: No. But I plan to after we defeat him.

Me: We all will.

Lola: Why can't we just go to Hawk Moth's front door right now and take him out?

Maria: If you didn't know the answer, you wouldn't have bothered to ask.

Lori: Don't handle us, Maria. We're being serious.

Maria: Look, we don't have any hard evidence that Gabriel Agreste is Hawk Moth.

Lola: Oh, come on! We all know that Adrien's Dad is Hawk Moth!

Jack Spicer: Then maybe we should put more energy into proving it and less into acting like a bunch of hyperthyroid storm troopers.

Lori: (glares at Spicer) We literally don't remember asking you for your opinion.

Spicer: No? How about when Eddy went to my hideout and asked me to be part of the group that takes the fight to Hawk Moth? And in case you guys have forgotten, Nico's in charge of this mission.

Lola: Well, this might be the first time we've ever questioned Nico's decisions. (to Nico) No offense, Nico.

Nico: None taken. Besides, I know you guys are just saying this because you're stressed out over Hawk Moth.

Lori: Well, we literally can't let Hawk Moth get away with his crimes!

Nico: Did I say we should? But we have to be smart about how we handle it.

Lynn: Have you forgotten about what he's done so far?

Spicer: Look, guys. Hawk Moth's a villain with good intentions. Lila's worse than him. But this isn't the way to stop them.

Spicer was lucky that Lila didn't enter the classroom yet.

Maria: We should also consider that if we attack Hawk Moth recklessly, the public will end up being afraid of us. And that will end up proving villains like Mirimoto and Gristlepuss right.

Lynn: What!?

Maria: Not to mention that Gabriel's a highly respected autority figure.

Lola: Well, I'm sure the authorities will understand if we take down him down just like we do with every bad guy out there.

Spicer: Hey. I don't fight alongside you guys 24/7. I'm also one of the guys in the room without any special powers or abilities. And let me tell you, you guys do scare me. What if you do decide to go marching down there, taking care of Hawk Moth and anyone else you think is guilty. Who could stop you? Me?"

Lynn: So you want Hawk Moth to continue doing what he wants?!

Spicer: Might as well if you guys are gonna act like this! (some of us look hurt at the last sentence) Look, if we go after Hawk Moth recklessly, the people will consider it assault. And if we try to explain things to them, it'll be Gabriel's word against ours. You guys and me will be considered rogue heroes. And the people sure can't protect themselves from the likes of us. This is bascially like the Justice League's past fights against Cadmus.

Lola: We're not talking abot Cadmus. We're talking about a supervillain who makes people into bad guys against their own will! He came after them, so we have to hit him back hard!

Nico: And even if we do go after Hawk Moth, what'll happen next, huh? You think the world will just let us attack Gabriel Agreste and let us get away scot-free?

Lori: Why are you guys literally against us today?

Leonardo: We're not against you guys. But it's like Master Splinter always says. Rage is a monster that will destroy you from within. A true warrior finds balance in all things.

Me: Leonardo is right. Arguing about it isn't going to get anything done. We have to get through all this without losing our cool.

In his lair, Hawk Moth sensed negative emotions building.

Hawk Moth: All those heroes showing anger at my schemes! Which should I bring under my control? Perhaps the fiery princess! (send out an Akuma) Fly away, my evil Akuma, and Evilize her!

No matter what the rest of us said, Lola, Lori, and Lynn wouldn't budge from their position of retaliation against Hawk Moth.

Lola: I still think we should go down to Hawk Moth's Lair, take him down by whatever means necessary, and accept any consequences after that!

Adrien: Do I need to point out that Hawk Moth's lair is somewhere in my house?

I saw a pitch black butterfly.

Me: Look. A pitch black butterfly.

Marinette: That's an Akuma.

It landed on Lola's tiara.

Hawk Moth: Princess Pink, I am Hawk Moth! I know you want to bring me to justice. And that's fine! I'm giving you the power to force people to do what you want. And that includes making me turn myself in. But if you want to keep this power, you must bring me Ladybug and Cat Noir's Miraculous! Do we have a deal?

Lola: No deals with people like you Hawk Moth.

I pulled out the butterfly with my magic and de-evilized it.

Nico: Good work J.D.

Me: Thank you sir.

Nico: Lola are you okay?

Lola: Yeah I'm fine.

Laney: I guess our powers are way too strong for Hawk Moth to Akumatize into his minions.

Lana: Yeah. Too powerful.

Nico: Lola, you told us you guys could handle it! But now you nearly got Akumatized!

Lola: Yeah! Nearly! So it doesn't count! (sighs) Why are we even arguing about this with you? We're wasting enough time as it is!

Cat Noir: You know, just because we're trying to stop Hawk Moth doesn't mean you guys have to act like him.

That was the wrong thing to say. Because the next thing Cat Noir knew, he got shoved against the wall by Lynn.

Lynn: (starts choking Cat Noir) Don't you dare compare us to Hawk Moth! He's trying to take over the world. We're trying to save it!

Robin: Starfire, is this how you guys felt when I got obssessed with taking Slade down?

Starfire: It is Robin.

I took out an air horn and blew it. I had my octopus tentacles cover my ears and Laney had noise cancelling headphones on.

HOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOONNNNKKKKK!

The fight stopped.

Me: That's enough! This is what Hawk Moth wants! He's trying to get us to kill people! We can't give in to what he wants.

Marinette: J.D. is right. We have to keep ourselves calm and cool.

Alya: So what do you guys think of Team Loud Phoenix Storm being here in Paris?

Lila: Well, I'll tell you what I feel about them in general. When they first became heroes, I was a fan of them. But now, I think they're loose cannons.

Alya: (trying not to lose it) Lila, all they're doing is keeping everyone in the universe safe. And I actaully approve of their methods. Hawk Moth causing trouble in Paris is enough. We're lucky that guys like the Joker and the Green Goblin haven't made their mark here.

Lila: It's not just about taking down bad guys. It's about feelings. And Team Loud Phoenix Storm don't really feel like heroes to me anymore.

Nico: I'm actually touched you feel that way about us Lila.

Me: (In my head) Yeah I'll bet.

Later in the cafeteria, we gathered everyone and we exposed the full extent of Lila's lies. Everyone was absolutely shocked and they look at Lila in shock and outrage.

Luna: Looks like the truth's out, Lie-La. Now, here's a knuckle sandwich with your name on it!

Marinette: Wait! There's no need to beat Lila up. The truth about her is exposed now.

Clay Bailey: (Cowboy Accent) Marinette's right, guys. Let's let the cops handle Lila. She's not worth our wrath.

Lincoln: No, Clay. You know how unstable she is. She needs to go to the Saturn Prison. And the only way she'll stay down is by pain and force.

While this argument was happening, Lila snuck out of the classroom.

Clay: Brute force doesn't work all the time, partner.

Laney: But it does in most cases. Look how many people we've saved so far with brute force.

Clay: That was in Gotham Royal York. But here, just the tiny bit of Negative Emotion and we'll end up becoming villains. I mean, what's the point in fighting that Hawk Moth fella if we're just gonna end up as bad as he is?

Davis: (puts hand on Clay's shoulder) Clay, buddy… (starts shaking him) Man up, dude! We don't have time for this! We've got ass to kick!

Alix: Guys, you know Lila got away, right?

We all saw that Lila was gone.

Lynn (to Clay): You and your whining.

Nico: She's not going anywhere.

Nico had her by the back of her shirt and brought her back into the school cafeteria.

Me: It's over Lila.

Lila: I still have one last trick up my sleeve! (takes out gun and shoots Sabine Cheng and Mayor Bourgeois in the shoulder)

Marinette: MOM!

Chloe: DAD!

Lila: (Nico let her go in shock) What's it gonna be? Bringing me to justice? Or healing those two unfortunate souls? Oh, and you all might want to get out of here while you still can. In about 10 minutes, all of you will be overrun. (runs off)

Me: Naruto, you heal Sabine and Mayor Bourgeois!

Naruto: Right Bro! SHADOW CLONE JUTSU!

Naruto formed two Shadow Clones and they got to work healing them.

Nico: After her!

We chased after Lila. But when we got outside, we were greeting by a terrible surprise! We saw a massive army of Akumatized Villains!

Me: Holy fucking hell! There's lots of them!

The Redemption Squad looked at the army of Akumatized villains.

Maria: This is very bad.

Elena: I can't believe we have to fight innocent people. Except for Lila, of course.

Venom: It's almost like we're the bad guys again.

Riku: Let's be honest, guys. All of us have been villains at some point before meeting J.D. and the others.

Stewie: It still doesn't feel right though.

William: Well, if we go down, we go down fighting. (smiles) And I've never been very proud to fight alongside a team like you. Including my water controlling girlfriend.

Maria: Oh William! Thank you!

Me: Flash, Quicksilver, we're gonna be fighting a lot so get all the people in the area to safety.

Flash: We're on it J.D.

Quicksilver: Right!

Nico: Split them up and free them all!

We went at each Akumatized villain.

The battle with Hawk Moth began!

Battle 1: Lightspeed Rescue Rangers, Venom and Lynn VS Horrificator

---

Venom, Lynn, and the Lightspeed Rescue Power Rangers were facing Mylène Haprèle A.K.A. the Horrificator and she was now an ugly monster! As Horrificator, she relishes in making everyone scared (as opposed to her being scared). Aggressive and menacing, she attacks everyone and doesn't like it if any of them aren't freaked out by her. Despite this, she retains her feelings towards Ivan and refuses to harm him. When she is calmed down and tiny, her bravado and confidence are gone, leaving her terrified by the others and running into Ivan's arm for comfort and protection.

Venom: We make a much better monster than you!

Venom fired black web at the Horrificator and he grabbed her and slammed her into the ground and the Horrificator roared and fired goo at Lynn and covered her in it! YUCK!

Lynn: Oh yuck! You are worse than my sister Lana!

Lana: (Offscreen) I HEARD THAT!

Carter Grayson: She sure was turned into a gross monster.

Venom: We sense where she was Akumatized, It's that pin on her head.

She was wearing a crossbones pin and it was the source of her power.

Lynn: I see it!

Carter Grayson punched the Horrificator in the face and kicked it in the mouth and blasted it with his Rescue Blaster all over. Lynn fired a glob of lava at the pin on the Horrificator's head and melted it and Mylène went back to normal.

Lynn used a magic spell to destroy Hawk Moth's control and the Akumatized butterfly.

Mylène: What happened?

Lynn: You were Akumatized into the Horrificator again. But we freed you.

Mylène: Thank you all.

Chad Lee: Think nothing of it.

Kelsey Winslow: Just doing what we do best and that's…

Dana Mitchell: Helping people.

Battle 2: Jungle Fury Jarrod, Trent Fernandez, and Jared Knudson VS Rogercop

---

Jarrod, Trent Fernandez and Jared Knudson were facing Roger Raincomprix A.K.A. Rogercop. He looked very similar to Robocop. Rogercop is taller and more muscular, and he wears a dark blue robot suit. His chest, hands, the underside of his upper arms, behind, back of his legs, and hips are black. The police whistle is still around his neck. Also, he has light blue lines around where his blasters are on the back up his forearms, around the black on his chest, and around the bottom of his feet. A hollow light blue triangle pointing downwards is at the center of his chest. His helmet includes a light blue line above a light blue shield in front of his eyes. His left shoulder and right shoulder have a blinking red light and blue light, respectively.

Rogercop: (Mechanical Voice) You are under arrest.

Trent Fernandez: Sorry but I'm resisting arrest.

Jared: This Robocop knock off is a bad cop!

Jared grabbed him and threw him to Jarrod and he kicked him in his face and Trent Fernandez slashed off his whistle and Jared used a magic spell to deakumatize him the butterfly. Rogercop turned back to Roger Raincomprix.

Roger: What happened?

Jared: You were Akumatized into Rogercop. But you looked really cool as a Robocop Villain.

Roger: I guess I did look cool. But thank you Jared.

Jared: We all helped you. There's no honor in fighting for yourself.

Trent Fernandez: That's true.

Jarrod: Yeah I had to learn that the hard way.

Battle 3: Leanbow, Lucy Loud, Gem, and Brittney Knudson VS Reflekta

---

Leanbow, Lucy Loud, Gem, and Brittney Knudson were facing Juleka Couffaine A.K.A. Reflekta. Reflekta's face is white and she has hot pink circle markings around her eyes, along with purple lipstick. On the tips of her eyelashes, there are small light green spheres. Her hair is shiny and pink with light purple stripes, and two twisted ponytails stick upward on each side of her head. She has side bangs, and at the center of the front of her hair, there is a white upward almond-shaped eye with a light purple outline and a pink pupil. She wears a pink dress with a collaret, light purple stripes around her waist, and eyes like the one on her hair around her puffed sleeves and skirt. The tips of the collaret and the skirt have light pink edging, and her arms and legs have pink gloves and leggings. Her long green fingernails stick out of the end of her gloves, and on the back of her right hand, she has a pink eye design with a black outline, the center being a black jewel that opens up to reveal a small circular mirror. At the bottom of her feet, she has pink thick high heels and miniature eyes without pupils appear above the feet. Her eyes remain copper.

Lucy Loud: Even though I hate the color pink, it's not your color either.

Reflekta: It will soon be your color when I turn you into me.

Brittney: I don't think so.

Brittney fired a powerful blast of black fire and it hit Reflekta and burned her dress. Gem grabbed Reflekta and lifted her up and he threw her. Leanbow fired a powerful blast of wolf fire and she dodged it and Lucy grabbed her hands and she sensed the Akuma in her right hand wrist mirror.

Lucy Loud: Found it.

Lucy Loud used her magic and got the akumatized butterfly out and she used her magic to change it back. Juleka changed back.

Juleka: What happened?

Brittney: You were Akumatized, Juleka. We freed you.

Lucy Loud: Us goths have to stick together.

Juleka: Wow. Thank you all for saving me.

Leanbow: Anytime Juleka.

Gem: We would do anything for friends of Nico.

Brittney: I think this would be good for you. Marinette would like your help.

Brittney used her magic and she gave Juleka the Swan Miraculous. It was a really cool belt buckle in the shape of a beautiful swan.

Swanno: Hello. I'm Swanno.

Juleka: It's a pleasure to meet you. Juleka Couffaine.

Swanno: Pleasure to meet you. We can work together and help people in need.

Juleka: I would like that.

Swanno: Lets try it.

Juleka: Swanno! White Feathers Spread!

Juleka turned into an awesome new hero! She was now the powerful Swan Hero! She had black and white hair, A black and white swan body suit, a black and white mask, and an awesome White Baton. She was now Maestra!

Brittney: Wow! You look incredible Juleka.

Maestra: Thank you Brittney.

Leanbow: This is an impressive look for you.

Maestra: It sure is.

Battle 4: Ryan Mitchell, Maggie, Rhino and Haiku VS Zombizou

Ryan Mitchell, Maggie, Rhino and Haiku were facing Caline Bustier A.K.A. Zombizou. Zombizou is a grey-skinned villain with grey hair and grey-blue eyes. She wears black lipstick in a heart shape. She wears a butterfly-shaped pink mask, curved on top and curving to point beneath the eyes. She wears a primarily black dress with torn sleeves and adorned with a pink heart and a smaller black heart within it. The black heart has a pink lipstick stain on it. The dress has pink puffy sleeves that feature a stapled design, a la Frankenstein. Zombizou wears her hair in a bun decorated with two pink hair sticks with large round ends. She appears to wield a black lipstick.

Haiku: I may like zombies and talking to the forces of the dead, but you are no member of the dead.

Zombizou: Once I kiss you all, you will be my zombies of love.

Zombizou fired her kisses at them and Haiku fired powerful blasts of black fire at each of the hearts and burned them. Ryan Mitchell fired his axe gun and the laser blasts hit by her feet and exploded. Rhino charged her and rammed her down. Maggie fired powerful blasts of black fire and burned her.

Haiku: Her lipstick in her hands has the Akuma.

Haiku grabbed it and used a magic spell and got rid of the Akuma. She freed the butterfly and de-evillzed it.

Caline returned to normal.

Caline: What happened?

Haiku: You were turned into an Akuma because of Hawk Moth. We will bring him to justice for his crimes.

Ryan Mitchell: That's right.

Rhino: Yep. We won't let him get away with all of the pain he has caused.

Maggie: He will answer for his crimes in jail.

Caline: I believe in all of you. Go get him.

---

Battle 5: Mike Corbett, Lincoln, Shocker and Linka VS Anansi

---

Anansi: I'll crush you into dust Lincoln Loud!

She went at them and with her ferocious fighting style, she was punching at them! Mike Corbett kicked her in the face, Shocker, Lincoln and Linka fired a powerful blast of lightning and knocked off her helmet. Lincoln used a powerful blast of magic and de-evillized the butterfly.

Linka: Yeah.

Mike Corbett: But we freed you from the control of Hawk Moth.

Battle 6: Lost Galaxy Rangers, Elena, Luna Loud and Bonnie (Pokemon) VS Stormy Weather

---

The Lost Galaxy Rangers, Elena, Luna Loud and Bonnie (Pokemon) were facing Aurore Beauréal A.K.A. Stormy Weather. Stormy Weather has pale skin and light purple-gray eyes. Her hair is two tones with dark purple base and periwinkle bangs, while her large, pointed, low-angled twintails are striped with dark purple and periwinkle spirals. On her face, she has jagged black face paint that surrounds her eyes and comes down to her cheeks as lightning bolts.

She wears a tight, muted-color purple and blue two-piece dress that poofs into a curved bell-shape around her waist, has small shoulder puffs with a narrow-ended-tube-shaped collar, and also features 5 white lightning bolt patterns that have bright purple outlines. The sleeves become white gloves with two of the lighting bolts above her elbows. She wears muted purple tights that become small-heeled white boots that are angled at the "opening" near the calf, and two of the lightning bolts come out of the boots around the outsides of her legs near the knees (the last of the pattern is a sole lightning bolt centered squarely near her abdomen). Her weapon is a closed dark purple parasol that fades to brighter purple at the tip and has a black handle with a double spearhead at the bottom.

Stormy Weather: You will soon feel the wrath of the storm!

Bonnie (Pokemon): Aurore, you have to snap out of it! This is not who you are! You have to stop working for Hawk Moth! He's using you! You're a pawn in his plan!

Bonnie's voice got through to her.

Bonnie (Pokemon): I can give you the power to use your powers for good! You just have to let me reach in and pull you into the light!

Dedene: That's right! Fight him Aurore!

Elena: Wow! I'm impressed that Bonnie taught Dedene how to talk.

Stormy Weather then grabbed her head and she was trying to regain control.

Aurore: Help me Bonnie!

Stormy Weather (takes back control): Uh Uh Uh, If you want Aurore back, you have to defeat me. No cheating!

Bonnie (Pokemon): Let her go!

Stormy Weather fired a powerful blast of energy into the sky and she made it rain. It was a torrential downpour! Dedene and Bonnie fired a powerful blast of lightning and it electrocuted her. Leo Corbett slashed Stormy Weather with his Magna Talon and Elena fired a powerful blast of lightning at her. Bonnie flew over and placed her hand on her head and she chanted a magic incantation and she freed her from Hawk Moth's control and turned her into a good person. Stormy Weather was now a hero.

Stormy Weather: What happened?

Leo Corbett: Bonnie saved you from the control of Hawk Moth.

Kai Chen: She sure did. She has a really good heart on her.

Kendrix Morgan: Yeah.

Mai: She sure does.

Elena: You did really good Bonnie. We're proud of you.

Luna Loud: Way to save her dudette.

Bonnie (Pokemon): Aw thanks guys.

Stormy Weather: I am forever in your debt Bonnie. And I owe you my life for saving me from Hawk Moth.

Bonnie: Anytime Aurore.

They laughed.

Battle 7: Orion, Livewire, Eion, Kimberly Ann Hart and Lori Loud VS Lady Wifi

---

Orion, Livewire, Eion, Kimberly Ann Hart and Lori Loud were facing Alya Césaire A.K.A. Lady Wifi. She is also known as Rena Rouge. Lady Wifi has a black butterfly-shaped mask on her face, and her eyes are dark magenta. She wears a black suit, her lower arms, and legs white with three stripes that are white above each. On her chest is a glowing hot pink Wi-Fi symbol, and a thin white line goes around her waist, with the line creating a semicircle above a short vertical white line in the front, resembling a power button.

Lori Loud: Alya, I'm sorry we have to literally do this to you, but we have to in order to save you.

Lady Wifi: I don't need saving. The only thing I want to do is expose Chloe's lies.

Kimberly Ann Hart: Chloe is not that kind of person anymore!

Orion fired a powerful blast of energy from his spear and it hit by Lady Wifi and exploded.

Livewire: This will stop you from turning on your friends!

Livewire fired a powerful blast of lightning at her cell phone and knocked it out of her hand. Lori fired a magic spell and removed the Akuma and de-evillized the butterfly.

Alya returned to normal.

Alya: I was akumatized again!

Lori: You literally were Alya.

Alya: Thank you all for saving me.

Alya turned into Rena Rouge! When transformed, Rena Rouge's hair turns longer becomes a three-tone ombré, having the roots turn dark red/red-orange, blending to orange with the tips being white, and she wears her hair back into a high ponytail with an orange hairband. Her body is slimmer than her civilian top layer of Rena Rouge's suit, akin to an overcoat, is orange with a white front, a black swan-necked collar, and black arms and gloves up to the middle of her upper arms. The overcoat layer attaches down the vertical front center with a zipper, and the Fox Miraculous becomes the zipper. The overcoat also has a long fox tail-like coattail that ends a bit below her knees at a sharp white tip. The bottom layer of her suit is orange with a white center on the front of the body and black legs starting at a point in the middle of her upper legs. She also wears black boots with orange soles and black fox paw print markings. Rena Rouge wears an orange mask with a white bottom half and a black mark above each eye. Two orange fox ears with white insides, black tips, and black edges are attached to the top of her head. She attaches her flute diagonally on her back when it's not being used.

Lori: Wow! You literally look incredible as Rena Rouge.

Rena Rouge: Thanks Lori.

Eion: Thank goodness you're all right Alya. Nico views you as a good friend.

Rena Rouge: Thanks Eion. Nico was right about you all. You are good people.

Copycat: Lets just say it would not be pretty. It would destroy the entire planet.

Lily: That is powerful.

Andros fired his Spiral Blaster and the blast hit Copycat and exploded. Jinx fired a powerful blast of energy and it burned the picture he has of Ladybug. The butterfly in it left and it was de-evillized.

Manon and Raven laughed.

Evillustrator ( "who is based on "Super Nathan" ) is more confident and direct, such as when he literally barged into Marinette's bedroom and asked her out to celebrate his birthday with him. Even when akumatized, he still genuinely cares for her, promising her that he would stop attacking Chloé and even defying Hawk Moth for a while when his date was at stake. However, he is furious when humiliated or tricked and he can be short-tempered and reckless - his response to Marinette betraying him was accusing her of being just like Chloé.

Evillustrator: Tiem to draw up some old friends! (draws up Grindors that appear by his side)

Gemma: Grindors!?

Breach: I remember these guys.

Volpina: It was because of Marinette and Ladybug that my life was ruined!

Me: No, that was all because of you! You brought all that on yourself!

Sasuke: Even I wasn't that evil when I was consumed with hatred.

Ace: That's right.

Ladybug and Cat Noir arrived.

Cat Noir: Sorry we're late. Plagg got hungry.

Ladybug: Oh, c'mon! I didn't complain when Tikki needed food on the way here.

Me: We'll worry about that later. Lets get her! Get ready Lila, don't expect any mercy from us.

We went at Lila and I punched her in the face and Ladybug kicked her in the stomach, Scott Truman punched her in the face and Flynn bashed her in the face with his nitro sword, Summer Landsdown used the Zip Charger and it bashed Lila all over with incredible speed, Ziggy slashed Lila and Dillon blasted her. Volpina then casted an illusion on Cat Noir and Ladybug and it made us see them as Ben Tennyson and Vilgax fighting each other.

Me: Nice try Lila, but I see through your tricks!

Sasuke: So do I.

Our Sharingan pierced through her illusion and we punched her in the face and knocked her down. Dispelling the illusion.

Sasuke: Nice job using the Sharingan to pierce through her illusion J.D.

Me: Thanks Sasuke. I guess not even Volpina's illusions are a match for the power of the Sharingan.

Sasuke: No they aren't.

Me: You will pay for your crimes. Lets use a combo Ladybug!

Ladybug: Right!

I had my sword ready and Ladybug had her charm ready.

Me and Ladybug: CHARMED LADYBUG SLASH!

Ladybug's charm merged with my sword and I slashed Lila and it knocked her down. I stripped her of her Akuma and she was back to Lila Rossi.

Me: You have a lot to answer for when you go before the Paris Court System.

Ace: And it's time for you to face the illusion of justice.

Ace used her powers on her and Lila saw that she was in the school Assembly room and she was being called the worst ever known names imaginable. Everyone was all dark and shadowy and they all had menacing glowing red eyes.

"Look it's the killer."

"I can't believe she stole Ladybug's Miraculous and tried to kill her."

"What a Freak."

"That little Liar."

"She should go die already."

"Trying to kill the superheroine of Paris, that criminal."

"They should've given her the death sentence."

"She deserves everything that's happening to her."

"She's just a fake."

"Pretending to be Ladybug…"

"Lie-la's just a piece of shit."

"She's a fucked up Shitsucker!"

"Lie-La can go to hell."

"She's a loser."

"A stupid racist bigot."

"I can't wait to see her rot in the cellars with no food and water and then die."

"Everyone would be glad."

Liar. Killer. Freak. Murderer. Lie-la. Thief. Criminal. Fake. Die. Piece of shit.

Lila screamed and she was clutching her head and screaming like an insane madman!

Laney appeared and she tied her up in a straitjacket and gagged her.

Me: You will live to see Hawk Moth go to prison and you will go to a better place and pay for your crimes.

Laney: That's right Lie-La!

We laughed at her.

Bai Tza: You were made an Akuma.

Luna: Are you all right dude?

Nino: Yeah. Hey you guys are Team Loud Phoenix Storm!

Ninjor: That is right young one.

Nino: Hawk Moth got me. Wayzz! Shell On!

Nino turned into Carapace!

Carapace has a dark green bodysuit with a hoodie, the suit itself made with tiny hexagonal patterns resembling those on the Turtle Miraculous. The hoodie has a silver semicircle on the front, curved red-eye designs on the sides with black and golden details, and two small light green ovals below the bottom of the hood's opening. Over his eyes, Carapace wears black goggles with yellow-green lenses, and underneath the suit, he has a black collar. On his suit, he has six hexagon-shaped light green circles on his chest, and he has dark gray hexagon-shaped protective pads on his shoulders, elbows, hips, and knees. The Turtle Miraculous bracelet is on his right wrist. Also, Carapace wears dark green boots with an indent between his big toe and other toes, dark gray outsoles, and two indents on two sides of each boot. On his back, he carries a shield that is dark green on one side and light green on the other.

Gali: Wow! You look incredible Nino.

Carapace: Thanks Gali.

Chad Lee: We will bring Hawk Moth to justice.

Battle 42: Sir Ivan, Shockwave, Nicole Knudson, Lincoln Loud, Lily Loud, Earth, Carlitos and Ronnie Anne VS Gamer

---

Sir Ivan, Shockwave, Nicole Knudson, Lincoln Loud, Lily Loud, Earth, Carlitos and Ronnie Anne were facing Max Kanté A.K.A. Gamer. He's also Pegasus. As Gamer, he has purple skin and red eyes. His glasses become butterfly-shaped and the glass has a light green tint. He wears a black full-body suit with a small green circle on his chest and three thin green stripes around his waist, each forearm and each lower leg.

Nicole: You give all video games everywhere a really bad name.

Lincoln: I can't believe that Hawk Moth would defile video games like this.

Earth: Me neither.

Carlitos: I know.

Gamer: Time to bring some players in! (summons his robot and Nobodies)

Sir Ivan: (British Accent) Nobodies? I was expecting Vivix.

Shockwave: But this robot is a bad robot!

Lincoln fired a powerful blast of lightning and destroyed the robot and Nobodies. Shockwave fired a powerful laser blast and Sir Ivan fired a powerful lightning blast at Gamer. Carlitos fired a powerful blast of fire and it hit Gamer and it removed the Akuma and cured him.

Max: What happened?

Nicole Knudson: You were made into an Akuma by Hawk Moth. We're here to bring him to justice.

Max: I will help you all. Kaalki! Full Gallop!

Max turned into Pegasus! Pegasus has much more enhanced skills, such as speed, agility, and strength, and he is almost invulnerable to physical damage. He is also very skilled at utilizing his Horseshoe during close combat.

His special power, Voyage, allows him to create a portal that he can travel through and exit at any location he desires.

Nicole: Whoa! You look awesome Max!

Pegasus: Thanks Nicole.

Battle 43: Dino Charge Rangers, Soundwave, Bridgette the Loud House Rabbit, Nico, May, and Lincoln vs Silencer

---

The Dino Charge Rangers, Soundwave, Bridgette the Loud House Rabbit, Nico, May and Lincoln were once again facing Luka Couffaine A.K.A. Silencer. He is also Viperion. He has blue skin and he wears a pink, black and yellow-ish outfit with a jagged mouth on his helmet.

Soundwave: Luka, you have to snap out of it!

Tyler Navarro punched at the Silencer and Sir Ivan slashed him all over with his Ptera Sword. Soundwave fired a powerful concussion blast and Tyler Navarro fired a powerful blast of energy from his blaster morpher. May fired a powerful blast of ice fire and froze him. The Akuma left him yet again and he was cured.

Soundwave: Soundwave Superior. Silencer Inferior.

Luka: I can't believe I was Akumatized again!

Lincoln: We'll bring Hawk Moth to justice for this.

Luka: Yes we will. Sass! Scales Slither!

He turned into Viperion!

He wears a black, teal, and cyan suit, appearing to be slender and muscular. His suit has a snake texture along with the same kind of underbelly like a snake and has a cyan colored mask around his eyes. His eyes change from aqua to green as does his hair highlights. His weapon appears to be a lyre.

Nico: Nice!

Luka: Thanks Nico.

Battle 44: Inque, Cam Watanabe, Maria, Varie, Ariel and her Sisters, Bai Tza, Lily Loud, Submarimon, Melody, H2O Mermaids and Girl Jordan VS Syren

---

Inque, Cam Watanabe, Maria, Varie, Ariel and her Sisters, Bai Tza, Lily Loud, Submarimon, Melody, the H2O Mermaids and Girl Jordan were facing Ondine A.K.A. Syren! As Syren, she has dark pink skin, black freckles on her shoulders and elbows, and a lighter pink face with smaller dark freckles. She has short light red hair, and two silver circular horns sticking out of the top of her head. Her eyes have pinkish-red irises and icy blue sclerae. Her black strapless outfit has a fish-scaly look and a light pink lining. Her feet connect together to make a two-pointed pink fin.

Maria: This girl gives all mermaids a really bad name.

Bai Tza: Agreed.

Girl Jordan: Same here.

Syren: Time for all of you to enter a watery grave!

Inque lashed Syren all over with Ink Tentacles and Cam Watanabe slashed her all over with his sword and kicked her in the face. They fired powerful blasts of water and knocked down Syren. Varie removed the Akuma and cured her.

Battle 45: Ninja Storm Rangers, J.D., Jack Sparrow, Rubberband Man, Lincoln Loud, Lily the mermaid, C.J. and Manda from Godzilla VS Captain Hardrock

The Ninja Storm Rangers, Me, Jack Sparrow, Rubberband Man, Lincoln Loud, Lily the Mermaid, and C.J. were facing Anarka Couffaine A.K.A. Captain Hardrock! Captain Hardrock has long red hair that is spiked upwards and golden eyes. The upper half of her face is covered with a black mark edged with dark red and she wears a black bandana with a white spiky-haired skull on the front, along with gold circular earrings.

She wears a body suit that is red from the collar to the chest and black from the chest, the color separation looking like flames. The suit includes three yellow buttons vertically on the lower body, three golden spikes horizontally over each knee, and a golden patch above each hip. She has two black belts, one going around the body diagonally and the other wrapped around the waist, that have golden buckles. Over her suit, she wears a black captain jacket with golden inner lining, golden spikes on the shoulders, golden edges, and golden buckles on the sides. Black fingerless gloves with golden edges around the upper holes cover her arms up to her elbows. Her knee-high boots that end below the knees are black and red in a flame-like pattern with black soles, golden heels, black inner lining, and black stripes with golden spikes above the ankles.

For a weapon, she carries a cutlass with a black handle, three thin red stripes on and near the pommel, and a blade with jagged black edges that goes from red at the handle to white at the tip.

Captain Hardrock: Time for you landlubbers to walk the plank!

Me: You are the one that's going to walk the plank to Davy Jones Locker!

Shane Clarke: Yeah!

Jack Sparrow: You are a bad pirate.

We were fighting her evil crew. Lily summoned the legendary kaiju Manda! Manda ate all of her evil crew. I clashed with Captain Hardrock and did a lot of great stunts like with Errol Flynn. Rubberband Man punched her all over with powerful punches and stretchy punches. Shane Clarke fired powerful blasts of wind all over and blew the crew apart and blew Captain Hardrock all over. I fired a blast of magic and removed the Akuma.

Battle 46: The Dino Thunder Rangers, Stewie, Carl Casagrande, Penelope (Sly Cooper), Airazor, and Poliwag VS Despair Bear

The Dino Thunder Rangers, Stewie, Carl, Penelope, Airazor and Poliwag were facing Butler Jean, Chloé Bourgeios's personal Butler A.K.A. Despair Bear. When akumatized, he is doll-sized. His eyes are glowing green, and his mustache is long and black, bending upward at the tips. A black tear-like mark is on his left cheek below his eye. He wears a black head cover that only leaves his face exposed, a black tunic has glowing green lines around his neck and on his chest. Additionally, he wears black leggings, a glowing green line around his left knee, and black gloves.

He controls Mr. Cuddly, which is dark purple with a white chest, white muzzle, white inner ears. It also has a black mouth, black nose, and glowing green eyes.

Stewie: My god, not even Rupert would want you as a friend.

Carl: (Spanish Accent) Me neither!

Penelope: Not me either.

Airazor: He would make a really bad friend.

Connor McKnight: I hope Chloe doesn't get mad at us for hurting her butler and teddy bear.

Connor McKnight bashed him all over with his Tyranno Staff. Stewie fired a laser and removed the Akuma and cured him.

We cured all of the Akuma.

* * *

We later regrouped.

Nico: Now we set our sights on Hawk Moth.

Lori: (sadly) Should we literally even do that anymore? What the Hell have we done?

Ladybug: What have you done? You helped me and Cat free about 45 innocent bystanders from Hawk Moth's control.

Leni: Yeah. After we got them Akumatized in the first place.

Teresa: What are you talking about?

Me: Yeah what are you saying?

Luna: Don't you dudes get it?! Because we exposed Lila's lies without remembering Katniss' lessons, we pushed Lila into shooting Marinette's mom and the Mayor! And when people saw that, they ended up Akumatized by Hawk Moth!

Xion: Look, none of us caused that to happen. Lila did. And I have a feeling that she acted without permission from Hawk Moth.

Me: I have that exact feeling as well.

Luan: And that's supposed to help us feel better? I'm feeling so bad right now that I'm not even making a joke.

Maria: Look, we can't let what happened stop us from doing our jobs. We aren't here to be liked. We're here to keep everyone in the universe safe.

Lynn: (bitterly) And how are we doing so far today?

William: Come on. Are you guys really going to let this stop you?

Lucy Loud: Not really. But you guys had a point. Us acting recklessly had consequences.

Sandman: It doesn't matter who's fault it is. Like Spidey always says, with great power comes great responsiblity. And it's our responsibility to defeat Hawk Moth and reunite Adrien's family.

Laney: I thought we weren't going to act recklessly about this.

Demona: (looks at Adrien) We're not going to act recklessly if we're gonna enter Hawk Moth's lair with the help of Gabriel Agreste's son. So what's it going to be? Are you all going to back down? Or are you going to be the heroes that everyone in the universe know and love?

Me: Demona is right! We didn't come here to sulk in despair. We came here to reunite Adrien's family and bring an end to the terror of Hawk Moth by throwing him and Lila in jail. Don't you see what's going on here? Hawk Moth is using our own Negative Emotions against us. He wants us to snap. He wants us to turn on our friends and family. He wants us to destroy him so that we'll be looked at as murderers. We can't let that happen.

Nico: That's right. Hawk Moth wants us to go down that path. But we can't let that happen.

Lincoln: That's right. I refuse to become that.

Everyone: YEAH!

Nico: Lets go.

We went to Adrien's awesome mansion! With us was Marinette's teacher Master Fu. It was an honor to meet him.

Me: Whoa! Adrien your house is amazing.

Laney: It's just as beautiful as our house.

Maria: But how are we gonna get in there without being seen?

Adrien: Relax. I can get us in. I live in this house, remember?

Marinette: I remember that.

Nico: same here.

We went into the mansion. It was going to be a tough fight.

Mayura: Sir, you know that Team Loud Phoenix Storm is close, right?

Gabriel Agreste: You think I don't know that?! If it weren't for the Flash and Quicksilver moving some of the people out of the way of my Akumas, those heroes would've been overwhelmed!

Muscle Man (behind them): Hey. You know who else uses a cane to fight?

Gabriel Agreste: (he and Mayura see them) What?

Muscle Man: My Mom! (punches them) Where the Hell are the others? They should've been here by now.

Me: We're right here Muscle Man.

Muscle Man: Oh.

Gabriel Agreste: How did you all get in here!?

Me: Adrien let us in. It's over Hawk Moth!

Gabriel Agreste: So you figured it out. Nooroo, Dark Wings Rise!

Gabriel Agreste turned into HAWK MOTH!

Adrien: I knew it. Dad, I can't believe that you are Hawk Moth.

Me: Gabriel, I know what you want to do. You have our sympathies for what happened.

Andrew Hartford: Gabriel, I never thought you of all people would be Hawk Moth.

Hawk Moth: It wasn't how I intended it to be. But I see it as necessary.

Lily: There's no need for anymore crimes. I can heal your wife just like I did with Nora Fries.

Hawk Moth: She'll just be taken away from me again! Me ruling the world with the Miraculous is the only way for my family to be whole again!

Tommy Oliver: Then we'll just have to do this the old fashioned way. Sixth Rangers, you know what time it is!

6th Rangers: IT'S MORPHIN' TIME!

The Sixth Rangers all transformed!

Lincoln turned into Tommy's White Ranger form.

Me: SIX WILL SHOW POWER!

Me and the 6th Rangers: FOREVER SIX!

G1 Smokescreen: Now that's a group morph!

Long Haul: Forever Six indeed!

Me: Yep. But lets take the fight away from the mansion. We don't want to damage this nice house.

Hawk Moth: Good idea.

We went outside.

Me: Gabriel we don't have to fight. We can help you bring back your wife.

Hawk Moth: I don't believe you.

Nathalie: Lets make this interesting. Duusu! Spread my feathers!

Nathalie turned into Mayura! Mayura's eyes have pink irises and scleras that are pink which fade into dark indigo, and there is black liner around her eyes, resembling glasses. Her skin is a light indigo and her hair is dark blue, and part of it curls up underneath her left eye. She wears a peacock-feather-like cocktail hat, which is blue and tear-shaped with a light pink mark in the center and a light blue, translucent veil over her right eye. She wears a blue dress with a fuzzy black collar and sleeves that end in a point on the back of her hand. The dress appears to have a set hexagonal texture, as well as a Peacock Miraculous in the center. The bottom of the dress has a front-slit skirt, and the end of the skirt has rounded points with dark blue, light-pink-centered spots, resembling a peacock's tail feathers. The rounded points are edged with translucent light blue material. Underneath the dress, she has translucent indigo tights that are opaque from the knees down, making the opaque section resemble high-heeled boots. She also holds a blue hand fan.

Me: Her too!?

Nico: Yep.

Mayura: Let's get some more faces here, shall we?

With that, Mayura made Sentimonster clones of the Xenomorph Queen, Shredder, King Hiss, Queen of the Black Puddle, Hobgoblin, Marvel Scorpion, Trap Jaw, and Webstor.

Meta Knight: It's like the Revenge Squad all over again.

Sideshow Bob: But with less members.

What Hawk Moth didn't know was that Lily was looking for Emile.

Me: Last chance to back down Gabriel. We don't want to fight you. But if we have to, we will.

Hawk Moth: There will be a fight!

Me: So be it.

Nico: We gave you a chance Gabriel.

We attacked and we went at Hawk Moth and Mayura and the Sentimonster Clones and we were letting them all have it! I punched him in the face and we were really going at them all. We punched and blasted the Sentimonster Clones. After we defeated the Sentimonster Clones, Lisa tied up Nathalie and Ladybug stripped her of her Miraculous. It was given to Rose Lavillant.

Me: Time to show some serious combos!

Gabriel: (Accepting his fate) I guess Timetagger was right. I don't become the future Hawk Moth after all.

Ladybug: Trust me. Now that Nooroo is back with us, Timetagger won't exist.

Lily: Let him see someone first!

We turned and we saw Emile alive and well!

Adrien saw his mother for the first time in a while!

Adrien: Mom? You're alive!

Adrien hugged his mom.

Emile: Adrien my sweet boy.

Emile: I know.

Gabriel: Emile! You're okay!

Emile: Yes my love. I'm back. Lily told me everything. I understand that you did all those things to bring me back. But I still love you my darling.

Gabriel: I know. But I have to go to prison.

Emile: I know. But I still love you.

They kissed.

Everyone: Aww.

Ladybug: (To the viewers) This was an awesome fight. J.D. and all of Team Loud Phoenix Storm held their cool like they said they would.

Nico: They sure did.

---

Lila Rossi was later then brought to trial for her crimes.

Paris Judge: As punishment for your crimes and for the attempted murders of Sabine Cheng and Mayor Bourgeois, I hereby sentence you to spend the rest of your miserable life in the Saturn Insane Asylum without the possibility of parole.

Lila: Before I go to the Saturn prison, can I say something first?

Judge: Fine.

Lila: It's been fun, going around lying to people and ruling the school. There a few things I enjoyed doing. Like helping Hawk Moth spread his Akumas to everyone on Heroes Day!

Marinette (growls): Hold me back, Nico!

Nico did so.

Nico: Easy there Marinette.

Lila: I also enjoyed lying to every student in school and turning them against Marinette. As well as temporarily getting her expelled by framing her for cheating on a test! But most of all, I loved shooting in the shoulder Marinette's mother and that stupid Mayor!

Chloe: MY DADDY BETTER RECOVER, YOU BITCH!

Me: You are a monster!

Laney: This girl is a heartless psychopath!

Me: No kidding.

Judge: Get this bitch out of here.

The guards were taking her.

Lila: I will be back Marinette! YOU HAVEN'T SEEN THE LAST OF ME! (LAUGHS MANIACALLY)

Nico: That girl has seriously failed this city.

Me: She's a fucked up bitch.

* * *

Later we had Gabriel sent to prison. He got 6 years for everything he did.

Nico: Don't worry Gabriel. You'll be in this Paris jail for 6 years. After all, it was the Sixth Rangers that helped defeat you. If you behave, you'll get out early.

Gabriel: I know Nico. And I'm really sorry that I did everything I did.

Nico: I know Gabriel. You were just doing what you thought would be best for your family. That is completely understandable. You were also doing what you could to bring back Emile. I know how you feel. If something happened to May, I would be in your shoes as well.

Gabriel: Thank you Nico. Adrien, I'm so sorry for everything I've done to you and Marinette. But no matter what, I always love you.

Adrien: I know dad. (hugs his father)

Nico: Adrien will come and visit you every week so that he can inform you on his progress.

Gabriel: Thank you.

Nico: Also Marinette and her friends are gonna keep protecting the world with their Miraculous powers.

Adrien: And I'm going to keep helping people as Cat Noir.

Gabriel: I know you will son. I'm very proud of you.

Adrien: Thanks dad.

Nico: Try to be good.

They left. Lila Rossi got life in the Saturn Insane Asylum for her crimes. She will never be eligible for parole because she's far too dangerous. Lila is also now the most hated girl in all of Paris. Because of the evil of her crimes, she was disowned by her family and made an outcast from humanity. Her parents created a monster from Hell.

---

Later, me and the Loud Kids stood on a stage in front of the rest of us and all of Paris.

Me: People of Paris, Hawk Moth A.K.A. Gabriel Agreste has finally been brought into justice. But please, don't be angry at him. He was just trying to get the Miraculous for his wife. He wanted to bring his family back together. And his assistant Nathalie was helping him with that. (sighs) The next part of this announcement is the hardest thing I've ever had to say. I'm guilty… we're guilty. Of the sin of hubris. We had the best of intentions; to be the unverse's guardians, to keep you safe, but we failed you. We looked down on the world from the estate in Gotham Royal York and let our power and responsibilities separate us from the very people we were supposed to protect. Us confronting Lila Rossi got two innocent people shot and nearly all of you Akumatized.

Nico and Adrien both cocked an eyebrow in interest, while beside us, Maria and Marinette both narrowed their eyes in suspicion.

Nico: No one should ever be afraid of us. For that reason, after this announcement, we're taking down the planet destroying laser in our spaceship.

That caused the entire crowd to starting murmuring as they processed this information. To the rest of the us, this was a surprise. The planet destroying laser was necessary. If it was dismantled, how would we destroy planets of evil villains?

Nico: There's more. We want to thank the members of Team Loud Phoenix Storm for your courageous service these past years, but in the future, you'll be acting as independent agents. We're not going to be an army any more. As of right now, we're disbanding the Team Loud Phoenix Storm. This is the end.

With that, you moved off with the rest of the Loud Kids ready to leave. The crowd, however was stunned beyond belief. My eyes widened before I suddenly scowled, disagreeing with what you just said. But someone else voiced my exact thoughts.

Adrien: (steps forward): Says who?! (everyone looks at him) You remember what you did today? You saved the world again. If you don't think that has any value, then think again! Team Loud Phoenix Storm lives on, with or without you guys!

Nico: (steps forward as well) He's right, guys. We've come too far to stop this now. Besides, I think all of us know that the planet destroying laser will never be used for evil.

Maria: Look, no one can question your service or commitment to making things better. If you're quitting because you think you've done your fair share, fine. We'll throw you a parade. But if you're quitting because it's easier than continuing the fight, then you're not the heroes we thought you were.

Marinette: The world needs Team Loud Phoenix Storm. And Team Loud Phoenix Storm needs you!

Me: (Smiles) You're right! The world needs us. Now and forever!

We cheered.

Team Loud Phoenix Storm will never be disbanded. I gave the money I won in the race on Mars to Marinette and she decided to move to America to join us. She and her friends decided to move too. We formed a new team for Team Loud Phoenix Storm centered around Team Ladybug. Mayor Bourgeois and Sabine Cheng will make a full recovery.

Another Fanfiction Complete and an awesome adventure done!

Miraculous Ladybug was so cool! I watched the show on Netflix and NicoChan got me into it. When I found out everything about Hawk Moth and what he was going to do I first wanted to kill him, but he convinced me to let him be in prison because of what he wanted to do for his family. It was a difficult road but we triumphed. Team Loud Phoenix Storm will never be disbanded. Ever. NicoChan11 gave me the ideas for this. GennaiArakida-XIV gave me the idea for the title. Thanks guys. Let me know what you all think. I'm going to take a break till Tuesday. This chapter was a big one. This is also my 900th Chapter! HOORAY! The next chapter is a babysitting adventure with my daughter Jessie. Get ready for a fun trip through different events of history.

See you all next time.

Historical Babysitting Adventure

At Team Loud Phoenix Storm Estate in Michigan in the morning hours at 6:30 AM, we were resting after the long fight with Hawk Moth. I saw Maria coming down.

Me: Where you off too Maria?

Maria: I'm gonna go to the store real quick to get some food for Horsea.

Me: Okay.

Maria was off to the grocery store.

At the grocery store, Maria got some apples, cake and fruit. She then just ran into Trickster at the grocery store.

Trickster: Hey, Maria.

Maria: Hey, Trickster. We defeated Hawk Moth a few days ago. So can you please tell Grodd that the ceasefire's over?

Trickster: Sure. But the Legion of Doom's gonna take it easy for few more days. We need to recover from Grodd nearly being overthrown.

Maria: Really took a toll on you all huh? Okay.

Maria came back later.

Maria: I'm back. The Legion Of Doom is gonna be out doing their things again. I ran into Trickster at the store.

Me: I see.

The doorbell rang and Spiderman got the door.

Spiderman: Bob Roth? What are you doing here?

Bob Roth: Here's the deal, Wall Crawler. I have a tape showing you threatening me a few days ago. If you don't do what I want from now on, it's going to go viral to every computer in the world.

Spiderman: Oh I don't think so.

Police cars pulled up.

Officer: Robert Roth, you are under arrest for plagiarism.

Bob Roth: You tricked me!

Spiderman: No we knew you were coming. So we trapped you.

Bob Roth was heading to jail for 10 years. After that he will be deported back to France.

Emma Gilbert: So, Marinette. How did you first meet Nico?

Marinette: That is an interesting story. It was before me and Adrien formed Team Ladybug.

FLASHBACK - Paris, France - 1 year ago.

Marinette: (Narrating) It was a year ago in Paris. Me and Cat Noir were fighting Mr. Pigeon. He was the worst ever Akuma before Volpina. He was a dangerous freak that was forced to work for Hawk Moth. He had us outnumbered with numerous pigeons and he was a brutal foe.

Mr. Pigeon: (Evil Laughter) You will not defeat me!

Ladybug: He's so strong!

Cat Noir: This guy just won't quit!

Marinette: But that's when we met.

Nico: (Offscreen) You are an abomination to birds everywhere!

Nico swooped in and kicked him in the stomach with incredible force and he punched him in the face and knocked him down.

Nico: Looks like you all could use some help here.

Ladybug: We owe you one. Who are you?

Nico: I'm Nicolas Chan. But everyone calls me Nico and I'm Second in Command for Team Loud Phoenix Storm.

Cat Noir: Wow! It's an honor to meet you.

Ladybug: Thank you so much.

Marinette: Nico saved us by helping us that day. He told us so much about all his adventures in Helping the World Famous Team Loud Phoenix Storm and how he and J.D. have done it all.

FLASHBACK ENDS.

Emma Gilbert: Wow! That is so cool!

Me: It sure is.

Marinette: Yeah. Nico is a true friend and J.D. and all his team kept their promise to send Hawk Moth to prison.

Me: It took every ounce of our will power to not lose our cool and kill him.

Elec Man: Yeah that's what I heard. Chloe, is your dad and Marinette's mom going to be ok?

Chloe: They're gonna be fine. But what Lila did really changed me. I was a narcissistic bitch before Lila and now I'm glad she's in the Saturn Insane Asylum forever.

Me: I know. She hated Marinette with a merciless vendetta. It was quite a bloodfeud that almost ended in murder.

Aurore: You don't have to tell me twice.

Marinette: Yeah. But thank goodness we never have to see her again.

Adrien: Yeah.

Me: I'm glad that your mom is back with you Adrien.

Adrien: Me too J.D. You guys kept your promise and brought our family together. Thank you all so much.

Me: Any time man. But you should be really be thanking Nico. He was in charge of that mission.

Emile: That's right son. But I'm so happy to be back with my baby boy.

Adrien: I am too mom.

Luka: I think we should consider letting Kagami join us. After all, she is Ryuko.

Nico: That's a good idea Luka. We'll have to go back to Paris and bring her to Headquarters to join us.

Me: Noted Nico.

Rita then came out of her room.

Rita: Rise and Shine kids! We're going to Aunt Ruth's today! YAAAYYY!

Me: Wow! We haven't had that happen in a while. Better go decide who will be babysitting for this.

I went up to Lincoln's room and knock on his door.

Lincoln: Come in!

I went in.

Me: Hey buddy. We have another babysitting adventure on now.

Lincoln: I heard. Here we go with more torture.

Me: But lets see who will be the lucky babysitter today.

I spun my daughter wheel and it landed on Jessie.

Me: Jessie is the lucky girl.

Lincoln: Sweet! I love her teachings on History.

Janeen: So do I. She is really smart about history.

Me: They don't call her the History Master for nothing.

Linka: Yep.

We got them all ready. Jessie was babysitting Luan, Lincoln, the Triplets and the Younger siblings.

Alya: So what are these Babysitting adventures?

Lincoln: They are awesome Alya. We go to my moms Aunt Ruth and it is a nightmare.

Elec Man: Yeah. Lincoln told me all about their Aunt Ruth. Going to their aunt Ruth is a form of Capital Punishment all on its own.

Alya: How come? Isn't she family?

Lincoln: Yes she is. But it's a form of torture.

Jessie: Their Aunt Ruth is Rita's dad's sister and she is what I call the embodiment of the Cardinal Sin of Sloth. She is the epitome of a slob.

Mindy: She's a nice woman but she would rather have other people do her work for her.

Lincoln: Visits to moms aunt are torture!

[A montage of all the things we do at Aunt Ruth's is shown.]

Lincoln: "She makes us look at a million pictures of her cats."

Jessie: She has thousands of pictures of her cats from her travels from around the world and we get bored out of our skulls from having to see them. Not to mention that her house is crawling with cats itself.

Ruth: "Here's Mittens in Egypt. We were going to visit the pyramids, but Mittens hates the heat." [cuddles Mittens] "Don't you, baby?"

[Cut to us eating something questionable.]

Lincoln: "She feeds us gross food."

Jessie: The Food is over 60 years old and it's a miracle we all haven't died from it because of food borne illnesses.

Lori: "Ew. When was this pudding made?"

Lisa: [examining the can] "Seeing as this flag on the label only has 48 stars…"

[Cut to Lincoln cleaning out the cats' litter box.]

Lincoln: " And she always singles me out to do special chores. "

Jessie: Because of Aunt Ruth's cats, he has to clean out all of her litter-boxes. That is why she relies on others to do her work for her.

Ruth: "And when you're done scooping, you can start rubbing these bunions. Don't forget my extra toe!"

Jessie: Aunt Ruth even has an ugly sixth toe on her left foot. It's either from a birth defect or something else. It's really repulsive. In fact it even makes Lynn Sr. hurl his guts out every time he sees it.

[Lincoln cringes in disgust.]

Lana: [disappointed] "Lucky."

Jessie: Lana's the only one that actually likes going to Aunt Ruth's.

Lincoln: "That's right. The only Loud's who got to skip out on Aunt Ruth's are Lily and Dad."

[Lily pulls on one of Ruth's cats' tails. End montage.]

Lincoln: Aunt Ruth doesn't trust Lily around her cats. So dad stayed home and babysat her.

Jessie: Yep. So dad formed this babysitting plan where one of us will stay and babysit some of the Loud's while the rest go to Aunt Ruth's.

Luan: That's right. I don't like going to Aunt Ruth's so I stay back too.

Laney: I like helping out so I stay back too.

Alya: That would be an awful experience to see your Aunt Ruth.

Kim: Yeah. I don't think I would want to meet her.

Nico: Nobody does.

Me: Yeah. You know what to do right Jessie?

Jessie: I sure do dad. We're gonna have a lot of fun.

Laney: I can't wait to see what Jessie has in store for us.

Alya: So, what exactly is the babysitting adventure today?

Nova: I'll tell you what the babysitting adventure is today! We're gonna find anymore of those Twisted Princesses and kill them!

Trailbreaker: Don't mind Nova. He's still a little spooked from our last babysitting adventure.

Jessie: We're not gonna do that today.

Me: Have fun with Jessie guys.

Lana: We will J.D.

Lori: Have fun guys.

Jessie: We will Lori.

Nico: Try to stay sane Lori.

Me: We'll be back at 8:00.

Nico: Okay.

Lynn Sr.: If I have to see that extra toe, so help me…

They left.

Jessie: I have quite a treat for you all.

The doorbell rang. Jessie got it and it was the Fox Quints.

Pam: Hey Jessie.

Jessie: Hey Pam, hey guys.

Pam: Our mom and dad sent us over while they are at work. Babysitting?

Jessie: Yep. It's my turn to babysit.

Stevie: Wow!

Ron: That's awesome!

Lincoln: Hey guys!

Pam: Hey Coach Lincoln.

Stevie: We're ready to have some fun and kick bad guy butt!

Kurt: Yeah!

Chloe: Are they friends?

Nico: Yeah. They are the Fox Quintuplets.

Jessie: We're going to have fun facing the bad guys during some of my favorite events in History. I call this activity History

Adventurequest.

Lincoln: Cool!

G1 Scavenger: So we're visiting historical events? This is gonna be educational.

Laney: It sure is.

Lucy Loud: It sure will be fun.

Jessie: Yep. Lets head to the Simulator guys.

They cheered and they went to the Simulator.

---

In the Simulator, they got ready.

Jessie: Okay the first adventure is where we're going after Al Capone.

Laney: Whoa! He was the most ruthless Gangster of all time!

Jessie: That's right.

Shocker: I think me, Rhino, Maria, and some of the Redemption Squad should go to Al Capone's time. It's only fitting since we're former criminals.

Maria: That's a good idea Herman. I read a lot about Al Capone and he was a very dangerous gangster back in the Roaring 20's.

Jessie: That is right Maria. He was the most ruthless Gangster that ever lived and he was a deadly one.

Qin: This will be perfect for me to test my powers on members of the Mafia.

Jessie: I had a feeling you would like that Qin. Me, a member of the Miraculous Celestial Union, some members of the Redemption Squad and one of the Loud Kids will head in to face one of the figures of history I have planned.

Lily: This is gonna be so awesome!

Jessie: It sure is. Luckily this won't affect the timeline. It's going to be all true simulation exercises.

Lisa: That is indeed good thinking Jessie. We don't want any disastrous consequences happening to the very fabric of time and space.

Jessie: Thanks Lisa. Since everyone won't be back till 8:00, we'll have time for 10 adventures.

Laney: Cool.

Bai Tza: Since I encountered Al Capone over in Nowhere with Lincoln, Lana and Laney, I'll go in first.

Shocker: I'll go with her.

Lincoln: Count me in.

Laney: Same here.

Marinette: I'll go with you guys first.

Qin: And I'll go too.

Jessie: Okay. Lets head in.

They went in and Lisa got it ready. The Simulator activated and they found themselves in Chicago back in the 1920's.

Jessie: Here we are guys. Chicago, Illinois - 1923.

Qin: So this is Chicago back in the Roaring 20's.

Jessie: Yep. And the Great Prohibition of Alcohol is in Full Swing.

Marinette: I can't believe that we banned all of Alcohol back then.

Bai Tza: It was terrible back then Marinette. It was the 18th Amendment of the United States Constitution. It outlawed all forms of Alcohol from 1920 to 1933.

Prohibition in the United States was a nationwide constitutional ban on the production, importation, transportation, and sale of alcoholic beverages from 1920 to 1933.

During the 19th century, alcoholism, family violence, and saloon-based political corruption prompted prohibitionists, led by pietistic Protestants, to end the alcoholic beverage trade to cure the ill society and weaken the political opposition. One result was that many communities in the late-19th and early-20th centuries introduced alcohol prohibition, with the subsequent enforcement in law becoming a hotly debated issue. Prohibition supporters, called "drys", presented it as a victory for public morals and health.

Promoted by the "dry" crusaders, the movement was led by pietistic Protestants and social Progressives in the Prohibition, Democratic, and Republican parties. It gained a national grass roots base through the Woman's Christian Temperance Union. After 1900, it was coordinated by the Anti-Saloon League. Opposition from the beer industry mobilized "wet" supporters from the Catholic and German Lutheran communities. They had funding to fight back, but by 1917-18 the German community had been marginalized by the US entry into the First World War against Germany. The brewing industry was shut down by a succession of state legislatures and finally nationwide under the Eighteenth Amendment to the United States Constitution in 1920. Enabling legislation, known as the Volstead Act, set down the rules for enforcing the federal ban and defined the types of alcoholic beverages that were prohibited. For example, religious use of wine was allowed. Private ownership and consumption of alcohol were not made illegal under federal law, but local laws were stricter in many areas, with some states banning possession outright.

The legal ban led to criminal gangs gaining control of the beer and liquor supply of many cities. By the late-1920s a new opposition to prohibition mobilized nationwide. Wets attacked the policy as causing crime, lowering local revenues, and imposing "rural" Protestant religious values on "urban" America. Prohibition ended with the ratification of the Twenty-first Amendment, which repealed the Eighteenth Amendment on December 5, 1933. Some states continued statewide prohibition, marking one of the last stages of the Progressive Era.

Research indicates that alcohol consumption substantially declined due to Prohibition. Rates of liver cirrhosis, alcoholic psychosis and infant mortality also declined. Prohibition has been tied to a growth in organized crime and violence. As an experiment it lost supporters every year, and lost tax revenue that governments wanted when the Great Depression began in 1929.

---

Jessie: That's right Bai Tza. It was also the reason why Organized Crime rates skyrocketed. It was a horrible time back then.

Shocker: Boy that is terrible.

Lincoln: I will never touch a drop of alcohol ever.

Qin: Me neither.

Then they heard gunfire and they saw that it was coming from a local bank. They heard screaming as well.

Lincoln: Looks like we got a 211 in progress!

Laney: Look!

They saw gangsters armed with Tommy Guns and pistols firing at people and they had huge bags full of money with them.

Jessie: Gangsters! Lets get them!

Marinette: Tikki! SPOTS ON!

Marinette turned into Ladybug! She not only had her red spot bodysuit, but she now also had a red sleeveless trench coat with black spots on it and it had the kanji for Love of The Fiery Ladybug on the back. 燃えるようなてんとう虫の愛 She also didn't have a mask on anymore as she was not afraid to show her identity anymore. And now Tikki can be out and their power is infinite and limitless.

They went at them!

The getaway car was pulling up.

Gangster: Get in boys!

Bai Tza: Not so fast you gangster fucks!

Bai Tza swooped in and kicked a gangster in the face and Jessie kicked a gangster in the face and fired a blast of energy that killed him. All that was left was his legs.

Marinette kicked a gangster in the crotch and punched him in the face and kicked the guns out of his hands and she crushed his hands. Lincoln fired a powerful blast of lightning and electrocuted him and disintegrated him into ash. Qin punched a gangster in the face and kicked him in the crotch with a sickening crunch. She fired a powerful blast of fire and destroyed the car and the driver. Shocker fired a powerful blast of lightning and electrocuted another gangster and killed him. The bags of money were left behind. They defeated the gangsters.

Qin: As Nico says, You Gangsters have failed this city.

Jessie: You said it Qin. Well done guys.

Shocker: That was easy.

Jessie: But we're not done here yet. We're going after Al Capone now.

Marinette then felt a small pain in her back and then she saw that she had ruby red angel wings and some of the feathers were black!

Marinette: Wow! I have wings!

In the control room, Adrien was amazed!

Jessie: Wow! Dad really endowed you with incredible gifts Marinette.

Marinette: He sure did. I have so much to learn now that I'm a member of Team Loud Phoenix Storm.

Jessie: We'll teach you all everything we know Marinette.

They went after Al Capone. In an abandoned building that served as a hideout, Al Capone was counting his money.

---

Alphonse Gabriel "Al" Capone born January 17, 1899 - January 25, 1947), sometimes known by the nickname "Scarface", was an American gangster and businessman who attained notoriety during the Prohibition era as the co-founder and boss of the Chicago Outfit. His seven-year reign as crime boss ended when he went to prison at age 33.

Capone was born in New York City in 1899 to Italian immigrant parents. He joined the Five Points Gang as a teenager, and became a bouncer in organized crime premises such as brothels. In his early twenties, he moved to Chicago and became a bodyguard and trusted factotum for Johnny Torrio, head of a criminal syndicate that illegally supplied alcohol-the forerunner of the Outfit-and was politically protected through the Unione Siciliana. A conflict with the North Side Gang was instrumental in Capone's rise and fall. Torrio went into retirement after North Side gunmen almost killed him, handing control to Capone. Capone expanded the bootlegging business through increasingly violent means, but his mutually profitable relationships with mayor William Hale Thompson and the city's police meant he seemed safe from law enforcement.

Capone apparently reveled in attention, such as the cheers from spectators when he appeared at ball games. He made donations to various charities and was viewed by many as "modern-day Robin Hood". However, the Saint Valentine's Day Massacre, in which seven gang rivals were murdered in broad daylight, damaged Chicago's and Capone's image, leading influential citizens to demand government action and newspapers to dub Capone "Public Enemy No. 1".

The federal authorities became intent on jailing Capone and prosecuted him in 1931 for tax evasion. During a highly publicized case, the judge admitted as evidence Capone's admissions of his income and unpaid taxes during prior (and ultimately abortive) negotiations to pay the government taxes he owed. He was convicted and sentenced to 11 years in federal prison. After conviction, he replaced his defense team with experts in tax law, and his grounds for appeal were strengthened by a Supreme Court ruling, but his appeal ultimately failed. Capone showed signs of neurosyphilis early in his sentence and became increasingly debilitated before being released after almost eight years of incarceration. On January 25, 1947, Capone died of cardiac arrest after suffering a stroke.

Suddenly a fiery explosion and a phoenix cry was heard.

Al Capone: What the fuck!?

Out of the fire came Jessie and everyone.

Jessie: Al Capone.

Al Capone: Who the fuck are all of you?

Jessie: Your worst fucking nightmare.

Al Capone: You have no idea who you are fucking with!

A bunch of gangsters came out and Lincoln fired blasts of lightning that electrocuted them and they all exploded. Splattering blood and guts all over. Laney fired poisonous barbs and killed them all with Strychnine Ω. Qin fired powerful blasts of fire and burned the gangsters. Jessie fired powerful blasts of energy and blew the gangsters apart.

Al Capone: (In his head) Who the fuck are these kids!?

Bai Tza: Some people you don't want to fuck with!

Bai Tza fired a massive blast of water and Shocker fired a powerful blast of lightning.

Bai Tza and Shock: SUPERSTORM DEATHSAW SLASH!

The blasts turned into a powerful hurricane sawblade and cut him all over.

Marinette: Lucky Charm! (Lucky charm gives her a sword) A sword? What am I supposed to do with this?

Jessie: It's what we like using. Swords have always been our weapons of choice.

Marinette: Wow. That explains why J.D. has been teaching me about how to use a sword. Okay then.

Al Capone grabbed his gun and Marinette jumped over to him and slashed his hands off and he screamed in pain!

Marinette: This is for all the pain you caused! LADYBUG FIRESTORM SLASH!

Marinette formed a powerful blast of fire all over her sword blade and she slashed him in half and killed him in an instant.

Marinette: Whoa!

Laney: Awesome job Marinette!

Marinette: Thanks guys.

Jessie: We showed that we are capable of defeating the most dangerous gangster in the world.

Shocker: We sure did.

They left the simulator and everyone cheered wildly.

Lana: That was awesome!

Optimus Prime: Very well done guys.

Luan: That was so cool!

Nico: Great job guys.

Qin: Thanks Nico.

Jessie: That is one adventure down. Who wants to go next?

Lana: I will.

Lily: Same with me.

Earth: And me as well.

Nico: I'll go as well.

Adrien: Count me in.

Silver Banshee: (Scottish Accent) Same here for me lads.

Killer Frost: Count me in.

Jessie: Awesome and I've invited the Megaforce Rangers as well. We're going to Early 20th Century Moscow, Russia. We're going to face Grigori Rasputin during the February Revolution.

Anastasia: That's the event that Lori found me.

Jessie: I remember that.

Troy Burrows: This is gonna be interesting.

They put on their warmest fur coats and went in and the Simulator activated and it was cold. They were in the middle of Moscow, Russia in March of 1917.

Jessie: Here we are guys. Moscow, Russia - 1917.

Lana: It sure is cold.

Lily: I think it's a good climate.

Killer Frost: I don't mind. I'm immune to the cold.

Lana: So why are we here in Russia?

Jessie: We're here to fight in the February Revolution.

The February Revolution, known in Soviet historiography as the February Bourgeois Democratic Revolution and sometimes as the March Revolution, was the first of two revolutions which took place in Russia in 1917.

The main events of the revolution took place in and near Petrograd (present-day Saint Petersburg), the then-capital of Russia, where long-standing discontent with the monarchy erupted into mass protests against food rationing on 23 February Old Style (8 March New Style). Revolutionary activity lasted about eight days, involving mass demonstrations and violent armed clashes with police and gendarmes, the last loyal forces of the Russian monarchy. On 27 February O.S. (12 March N.S.) mutinous Russian Army forces sided with the revolutionaries. Three days later Tsar Nicholas II abdicated, ending Romanov dynastic rule and the Russian Empire. A Russian Provisional Government under Prince Georgy Lvov replaced the Council of Ministers of Russia.

The revolution appeared to break out without any real leadership or formal planning. Russia had been suffering from a number of economic and social problems, which compounded after the start of World War I in 1914. Disaffected soldiers from the city's garrison joined bread rioters, primarily women in bread lines, and industrial strikers on the streets. As more and more troops deserted, and with loyal troops away at the Front, the city fell into chaos, leading to the overthrow of the Tsar. In all, over 1,300 people were killed during the protests of February 1917.

Nico: I think I see why we're here. We're going to help kill the most evil Satanic Minister in the history of the world: Grigori Rasputin.

Jessie: Bingo. That is exactly why we're here.

Lana: I remember him. He was horrible!

Lily: Yeah! He killed the entirety of the Tsarhood of Russia during this time!

Jessie: That's right. He was also known as the Mad Monk and he brought all of Russia into the age of Communism when the Soviet Union started in 1920.

Jessie went over the history of Rasputin.

---

Grigori Yefimovich Rasputin (Russian: Григорий Ефимович Распутин), or better known as his surname Rasputin, is the main antagonist of the 1997 Don Bluth animated feature film Anastasia by 20th Century Fox. He is loosely based on the real-life Russian psychic of the same name: however, in the film, he is depicted as a far more malevolent and manipulative being of black magic than the real-life Rasputin, though the two share the common title of "Mad Monk".

Rasputin was banished for treason by the Russian Tsar Nicholas Romanov. Eager for revenge for his then banishment, Rasputin planned on destroying the Russian royalty. He sold his soul to the otherworldly forces of darkness in exchange for his Reliquary and for the power to destroy the czar Nicholas II and his family, in the process becoming a lich (a type of undead creature with magical powers). He then returns to the Russian palace and inflicts on the czar's family with the Romanov curse. All of the royals are killed by Rasputin and the Russian soldiers, except for the czar's mother, Marie Romanov, and his daughter, Anastasia. Rasputin eventually attempts to murder Anastasia with his bare hands while chasing her across a frozen river. Jumping from the bridge above, he tackles the young girl face first onto the thin ice, losing his amulet in the process. He viciously grabs her by the ankle and thrashes her about; threatening her life whilst she begs for mercy. But the ice under the evil man begins to break before he can get any closer to the young Romanov. The empress quickly rushes her away from the drowning man who sinks and he is unable to die until he completes his curse.

Return and Ultimate Death 10 years after

10 years later, Rasputin is trapped in limbo, then his amulet is back in his hands thanks to Bartok. Driven more by his intense and malevolent desire for revenge, he wishes to finish off what he started before he rests in peace by killing Anastasia. Putting his demonic minions to work on finding and destroying her but failing, he is accompanied throughout the film by his reluctant minion Bartok, who is a white bat.

Rasputin summons his army of green demons to kill Anya and complete his revenge. He has the demons sabotage the train Anya, Dimitri and Vlad are on, by separating the train with an engine and baggage car from the dining car and coaches in Poland. However, Anya, Vladimir, and Dimitri jump off the train to avoid falling to their deaths, to Rasputin's fury.

Later, Anya, Dimitri and Vlad arrive in from Stralsund, Germany and board a ship to Paris. That night, as Anya sleeps, Rasputin invades her dreams, and causes her to sleepwalk to the edge of the ship. Luckily, Dimitri (alerted by Pooka) awakens and rescues Anya at the last second.

Enraged at the failure, Rasputin throws a childish tantrum. Recomposing himself, he tells Bartok that he will go to Paris himself and kill Anastasia in person. Bartok tries to talk him out of it, but to no avail.

Later, Rasputin takes advantage of Pooka leading Anastasia into a garden maze and traps her there to reveal himself. He then tries to kill her on the Alexander Bridge over an icy Seine River; mimicking the same tragic night on the ice they once shared before. Dimitri returns to save her but is injured and knocked unconscious by the Black Pegasus.

Anastasia survives and is filled with rage. She attacks Rasputin and they both wrestle body to body. Pooka snatches the reliquary and it rolls to Anastasia's feet. Anastasia stomps on the reliquary, causing it to explode. With the reliquary gone, Rasputin is unable to keep his end of the devil's contract, so his gargoyle minions turn on him, causing his flesh to be liquefied, his cloak dissolving, and his skeletal body then crumbles away to dust, which the wind then blows away, avenging the death of Anatasia's family.

Gia Moran: This guy is a monster!

Emma Goodall: Yeah. He was the worst.

Nico: I've always hated guys like that. But it's just hard to imagine that he would bring an end to the most powerful dynasty in all of Russia.

Noah Carver: No kidding.

Lily: Rasputin is a Satanic Freak of nature. God would hate him more than anything.

Jessie: He sure would.

Adrien: Yeah.

Then they saw explosions break out and they saw the statue of Tsar Nicholas II fall down.

Jessie: The war has begun guys! Lets get him!

They went into the famous Catherine Palace and they saw a bunch of people trying to get in to the palace. They saw Anastasia in fear as they saw Tsar Nicholas II being butchered by the revolting citizens of Moscow. And then they saw GRIGORI RASPUTIN!

Jessie: Grigori Yefimovich Rasputin.

Rasputin: That's right child. Who are all of you?

Jessie: Your Angels of Death. You want to get to Anastasia, you'll have to go through us. Power up!

Jessie transformed into a Super Angel 20,000 Fairy Wind Leafstorm! She had neon green hair, green sclera and she had a green aura and there were leaves and lightning around her.

Adrien: Plagg! CLAWS OUT!

He turned into Cat Noir! He now also has a black sleeveless trench coat and on the back was the kanji for Black Cat of Dark Justice on the back. 黒い正義の黒猫 He didn't have his mask on and he was now no longer afraid to hide his identity.

Megaforce Rangers: Legendary Ranger Mode: Hyperjet Squad!

The Megaforce Rangers turned into the Jetman from 1992. Troy Burrows was the Red Hawk Jetman, Noah Carver was the Aqua Blue Swallow Jetman, Jake Halling was the Black Condor Jetman, Gia Moran was the Yellow Owl Jetman, Emma Goodall was the White Pink Swan Jetman and Orion was the Green Eagle Jetman.

Rasputin: You think you can scare me with those pathetic costumes?

Jessie: Shut your fucking trap!

Lana: (Speaking Russian) Вы сатанинский урод природы, который не заслуживает ничего, кроме вечного проклятия! Мы отправляем тебя в ад! (You are a Satanic Freak of nature that deserves nothing but eternal damnation! We're sending you to hell!)

Nico: You tell him Lana! Rasputin you have failed this city!

Jessie: You will pay for your crimes against Moscow and God!

They went at him and Jessie kicked him in the face and Lana fired a powerful blast of ice lightning and froze his arms. Adrien slashed his face with his claws. Lily fired a powerful blast of water and drenched him. Troy Burrows kicked him in the face and slashed his arm with his Bringer Sword, Noah Carver fired his Bird Blaster and the blasts hit Rasputin all over and they exploded. Jake Halling slashed Rasputin with his Bringer Sword and blasted him with his Bird Blaster. Gia Moran and Emma Goodall fired their bringer blasters and they hit Rasputin all over and exploded. Orion fired his Jet Gauntlet and it hit Rasputin and exploded. Killer Frost fired a powerful blast of ice and froze him and Silver Banshee screamed and fired a massively loud sonic blast and it hit Rasputin and he was blown away. But he he came back.

Adrien: I really do wonder what'll happen if I use my Cataclysm on a person?

Jessie: We'll find out now.

Adrien: CATACLYSM!

Adrien fired a ball of black energy and it slammed into Rasputin and exploded with incredible power.

KRABBBBBBBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOO

The massive fiery explosion was so powerful and so devastating that it was as powerful as 20 small nuclear bombs. It was powerful enough to destroy the entire city of Moscow 10 times. Jessie had everyone encased in a powerful force field that protected them. When the smoke cleared, the entire city was completely destroyed and Rasputin was dead. Anastasia was alive.

Jessie: Whoa! What power!

Lana: Unbelievable!

Lily: That was intense!

The simulation ended and everyone cheered wildly.

Aylene C.: Whoa! That was powerful!

Lincoln: That was intense!

Laney: It sure was.

Jessie: Adrien, your Cataclysm will be your Final Smash and we'll have to invent new variants for it.

Adrien: Good idea.

The adventures continued. Jessie took Lincoln, Lola, Alya, Kira Ford, Jen Scotts, Stewie, Volcana and Hawkgirl to experience what it was like during the Great Galveston Hurricane of 1900.

---

The Great Galveston hurricane, known regionally as the Great Storm of 1900, was the deadliest natural disaster in United States history, one of the deadliest hurricanes (or remnants) to affect Canada, and the fourth-deadliest Atlantic hurricane overall. The hurricane left between 6,000 and 12,000 fatalities in the United States; the number most cited in official reports is 8,000. Most of these deaths occurred in and near Galveston, Texas, after storm surge inundated the coastline with 8 to 12 ft (2.4 to 3.7 m) of water. In addition to the number killed, the storm destroyed about 7,000 buildings of all uses in Galveston, which included 3,636 destroyed homes; every dwelling in the city suffered some degree of damage. The hurricane left approximately 10,000 people in the city homeless, out of a total population of nearly 38,000. The disaster ended the Golden Era of Galveston, as the hurricane alarmed potential investors, who turned to Houston instead. In response to the storm, three engineers designed and oversaw plans to raise the Gulf of Mexico shoreline of Galveston island by 17 ft (5.2 m) and erect a 10 mi (16 km) seawall.

On August 27, 1900, a ship east of the Windward Islands detected a tropical cyclone, the first observed during the annual season. Initially at tropical storm status, it remained mostly stagnant in intensity while moving steadily west-northwestward and entered the northeastern Caribbean Sea on August 30. The storm made landfall in the Dominican Republic as a weak tropical storm on September 2. It weakened slightly while crossing Hispaniola, before re-emerging into the Caribbean Sea later that day. On September 3, the cyclone struck modern day Santiago de Cuba Province and then slowly drifted along the southern coast of Cuba. Upon reaching the Gulf of Mexico on September 6, the storm strengthened into a hurricane. Significant intensification followed and the system peaked as a Category 4 hurricane with maximum sustained winds of 145 mph (230 km/h) on September 8. Early on the next day, it made landfall to the south of Houston, Texas. The cyclone weakened quickly after moving inland and fell to tropical storm intensity late on September 9. The storm turned east-northeastward and became extratropical over Iowa on September 11. The extratropical system strengthened while accelerating across the Midwestern United States, New England, and Eastern Canada before reaching the Gulf of Saint Lawrence on September 13. After striking Newfoundland later that day, the extratropical storm entered the far North Atlantic Ocean and weakened, with the remnants last observed near Iceland on September 15.

The great storm brought flooding and severe thunderstorms to portions of the Caribbean, especially Cuba and Jamaica. It is likely that much of South Florida experienced tropical storm-force winds, though mostly minor damage occurred. Hurricane-force winds and storm surge inundated portions of southern Louisiana, though the cyclone left no significant structural damage or fatalities in the state. The hurricane brought strong winds and storm surge to a large portion of east Texas, with Galveston suffering the brunt of the impact. Farther north, the storm and its remnants continued to produce heavy rains and gusty winds, which downed telegraph wires, signs, and trees in several states. Fatalities occurred in other states, including fifteen in Ohio, six in Wisconsin, two in Illinois, two in New York, one in Massachusetts, and one in Missouri. Damage from the storm throughout the United States exceeded $34 million. The remnants also brought severe impact to Canada. In Ontario, damage reached about $1.35 million, with $1 million to crops. The remnants of the hurricane caused at least 52 deaths - and possibly as many as 232 deaths - in Canada, mostly due to sunken vessels near Newfoundland and the French territory of Saint-Pierre. Throughout its path, the storm caused more than $35.4 million in damage.

They got to experience the destructive power of a powerful hurricane and it was intense. They flew around saving people from its destructive power. Alya turned into Rena Rouge and she had an orange sleeveless trench coat with the Kanji for Fiery Fox of Justice from Vulpecula on the back. ウルペキュラの正義の燃えるようなフォックス She also had wings made of pure fire as well as Fox Ears and a fox tail. Her Flute also had the power to change into a sword of pure fire.

Alya: This is the coolest outfit ever! I think I look awesome this way.

Jessie: I'm glad you like it Alya.

Next, Jessie took Lucy Loud, Lucy Dark, Lucy Heartfilia, Nico, Nino, Jinx, Kraven the Hunter, the Mega Babies and Rhino went to 16th Century Russia and there they faced the first ever Tsar, the ruthless Ivan IV Vasilyevich A.K.A. Ivan the Terrible!

---

Ivan IV Vasilyevich 25 August 1530 - 28 March 1584, commonly known as Ivan the Terrible was the Grand Prince of Moscow from 1533 to 1547 and the first Tsar of Russia from 1547 to 1584.

Ivan was the crown prince of Vasili III, the Rurikid ruler of the Grand Duchy of Moscow, and was appointed Grand Prince at three years-old after his father's death. A group of reformers, united around the young Ivan and known as the "Chosen Council", declared him Tsar (Emperor) of All Rus' in 1547 at the age of sixteen, establishing the Tsardom of Russia with Moscow as the predominant state. Ivan's reign was characterized by Russia's transformation from a medieval state into an empire under the Tsar, though at immense cost to its people and its broader, long-term economy. In the young years of Ivan, there was a conquest of the Khanates of Kazan and Astrakhan. After consolidating his power, Ivan got rid of the advisers from the "Chosen Council" and triggered the Livonian War, which ravaged Russia and resulted in the loss of Livonia and Ingria, but allowed him to establish greater autocratic control over Russia's nobility, whom he violently purged in the Oprichnina. The later years of Ivan's reign were also marked by the Massacre of Novgorod and the burning of Moscow by Tatars. Ivan was a patron of trade (he gave monopoly to Muscovy Company), and the founder of Russia's first publishing house, the Moscow Print Yard.

Historic sources present disparate accounts of Ivan's complex personality: he was described as intelligent and devout, but also prone to paranoia, rages, and episodic outbreaks of mental instability that increased with age. Ivan is popularly believed to have killed his eldest son and heir Ivan Ivanovich and the latter's unborn son during his outbursts, which left the politically ineffectual Feodor Ivanovich to inherit the throne, a man whose rule directly led to the end of the Rurikid dynasty and the beginning of the Time of Troubles.

Nino turned into Carapace and he had a sleeveless Trench Coat that looked like a turtle shell and it had the kanji for Righteous Earth of Genbu the Black Tortoise of The North on the back. 北の黒い亀の元気の地球

Nino used a final smash on Ivan called EARTHWAVE OF GENBU and it was a powerful wave of Earth that turned into a massive tortoise and it slammed into Ivan and killed him.

Nino: I got to admit, this outfit looks awesome guys.

Kraven: (Russian Accent) It does look good on you comrade Nino.

Next Jessie, Lola, Lily, Lisa, Cybertron Hot Shot, Armada Blurr, Cybertron Sideways, Agony, Storm, Nico, Laney and Flash faced Napoleon Bonaparte, the infamous 19th Century French Conqueror in France.

---

Napoléon Bonaparte 15 August 1769 - 5 May 1821 was a French statesman and military leader who rose to prominence during the French Revolution and led several successful campaigns during the French Revolutionary Wars. He was Emperor of the French as Napoleon I from 1804 until 1814 and again briefly in 1815 during the Hundred Days. Napoleon dominated European and global affairs for more than a decade while leading France against a series of coalitions in the Napoleonic Wars. He won most of these wars and the vast majority of his battles, building a large empire that ruled over much of continental Europe before its final collapse in 1815. He is considered one of the greatest commanders in history, and his wars and campaigns are studied at military schools worldwide. Napoleon's political and cultural legacy has endured as one of the most celebrated and controversial leaders in human history.

He was born Napoleone di Buonaparte in Corsica to a relatively modest Italian family from minor nobility. He was serving as an artillery officer in the French army when the French Revolution erupted in 1789. He rapidly rose through the ranks of the military, seizing the new opportunities presented by the Revolution and becoming a general at age 24. The French Directory eventually gave him command of the Army of Italy after he suppressed the 13 Vendémiaire revolt against the government from royalist insurgents. At age 26, he began his first military campaign against the Austrians and the Italian monarchs aligned with the Habsburgs-winning virtually every battle, conquering the Italian Peninsula in a year while establishing "sister republics" with local support, and becoming a war hero in France. In 1798, he led a military expedition to Egypt that served as a springboard to political power. He orchestrated a coup in November 1799 and became First Consul of the Republic. After the Peace of Amiens in 1802, Napoleon turned his attention to France's colonies. He sold the Louisiana Territory to the United States, and he attempted to restore slavery to the French Caribbean colonies. However, while he was successful in restoring slavery in the eastern Caribbean, Napoleon failed in his attempts to subdue Saint-Domingue, and the colony that France once proudly boasted of as the "Pearl of the Antilles" became independent as Haiti in 1804. Napoleon's ambition and public approval inspired him to go further, and he became the first Emperor of the French in 1804. Intractable differences with the British meant that the French were facing a Third Coalition by 1805. Napoleon shattered this coalition with decisive victories in the Ulm Campaign and a historic triumph over the Russian Empire and Austrian Empire at the Battle of Austerlitz which led to the dissolution of the Holy Roman Empire. In 1806, the Fourth Coalition took up arms against him because Prussia became worried about growing French influence on the continent. Napoleon quickly defeated Prussia at the battles of Jena and Auerstedt, then marched his Grande Armée deep into Eastern Europe and annihilated the Russians in June 1807 at the Battle of Friedland. France then forced the defeated nations of the Fourth Coalition to sign the Treaties of Tilsit in July 1807, bringing an uneasy peace to the continent. Tilsit signified the high-water mark of the French Empire. In 1809, the Austrians and the British challenged the French again during the War of the Fifth Coalition, but Napoleon solidified his grip over Europe after triumphing at the Battle of Wagram in July.

Napoleon then invaded the Iberian Peninsula, hoping to extend the Continental System and choke off British trade with the European mainland, and declared his brother Joseph Bonaparte the King of Spain in 1808. The Spanish and the Portuguese revolted with British support. The Peninsular War lasted six years, featured extensive guerrilla warfare, and ended in victory for the Allies against Napoleon. The Continental System caused recurring diplomatic conflicts between France and its client states, especially Russia. The Russians were unwilling to bear the economic consequences of reduced trade and routinely violated the Continental System, enticing Napoleon into another war. The French launched a major invasion of Russia in the summer of 1812. The campaign destroyed Russian cities, but did not yield the decisive victory Napoleon wanted. It resulted in the collapse of the Grande Armée and inspired a renewed push against Napoleon by his enemies. In 1813, Prussia and Austria joined Russian forces in the War of the Sixth Coalition against France. A lengthy military campaign culminated in a large Allied army defeating Napoleon at the Battle of Leipzig in October 1813, but his tactical victory at the minor Battle of Hanau allowed retreat onto French soil. The Allies then invaded France and captured Paris in the spring of 1814, forcing Napoleon to abdicate in April. He was exiled to the island of Elba off the coast of Tuscany, and the Bourbon dynasty was restored to power. Napoleon escaped from Elba in February 1815 and took control of France once again. The Allies responded by forming a Seventh Coalition which defeated him at the Battle of Waterloo in June. The British exiled him to the remote island of Saint Helena in the South Atlantic, where he died six years later at the age of 51.

Napoleon's influence on the modern world brought liberal reforms to the numerous territories that he conquered and controlled, such as the Low Countries, Switzerland, and large parts of modern Italy and Germany. He implemented fundamental liberal policies in France and throughout Western Europe. His Napoleonic Code has influenced the legal systems of more than 70 nations around the world. British historian Andrew Roberts states: "The ideas that underpin our modern world-meritocracy, equality before the law, property rights, religious toleration, modern secular education, sound finances, and so on-were championed, consolidated, codified and geographically extended by Napoleon. To them he added a rational and efficient local administration, an end to rural banditry, the encouragement of science and the arts, the abolition of feudalism and the greatest codification of laws since the fall of the Roman Empire".

Chloe turned into Queen Bee and she had a Yellow sleeveless Trench Coat that looked like a bunch of bees and she had the Kanji for The Queen Bee of The Sting of Justice on the back. 正義のスティングの女王蜂. She also had a pair of awesome Tiger Swallowtail Butterfly Wings. She used a powerful final smash on Napoleon called STING FIRE OF VIRTUE and it fired a powerful blast of yellow fire and it turned into a deadly spear that skewered him and killed him.

Chloe: Wow! I look awesome guys.

Nico: You sure do Chloe.

Jessie: Now you give a whole new meaning to the phrase "Float Like a Butterfly, Sting Like a Bee." It's perfect for you.

Chloe: Thanks Jessie.

Next Jessie, Frightwig, Sora, Sasuke, Laney, Lola, Juleka, Cybertron Scattershot, Cybertron Red Alert, and Lori Jimenez went into the Greco-Persian Wars back in 490 B.C.

The Greco-Persian Wars (also often called the Persian Wars) were a series of conflicts between the Achaemenid Empire and Greek city-states that started in 499 B.C. and lasted until 449 B.C. The collision between the fractious political world of the Greeks and the enormous empire of the Persians began when Cyrus the Great conquered the Greek-inhabited region of Ionia in 547 B.C. Struggling to control the independent-minded cities of Ionia, the Persians appointed tyrants to rule each of them. This would prove to be the source of much trouble for the Greeks and Persians alike.

In 499 B.C., the tyrant of Miletus, Aristagoras, embarked on an expedition to conquer the island of Naxos, with Persian support; however, the expedition was a debacle and, preempting his dismissal, Aristagoras incited all of Hellenic Asia Minor into rebellion against the Persians. This was the beginning of the Ionian Revolt, which would last until 493 B.C., progressively drawing more regions of Asia Minor into the conflict. Aristagoras secured military support from Athens and Eretria, and in 498 B.C. these forces helped to capture and burn the Persian regional capital of Sardis. The Persian king Darius the Great vowed to have revenge on Athens and Eretria for this act. The revolt continued, with the two sides effectively stalemated throughout 497-495 B.C. In 494 B.C., the Persians regrouped and attacked the epicenter of the revolt in Miletus. At the Battle of Lade, the Ionians suffered a decisive defeat, and the rebellion collapsed, with the final members being stamped out the following year.

Seeking to secure his empire from further revolts and from the interference of the mainland Greeks, Darius embarked on a scheme to conquer Greece and to punish Athens and Eretria for the burning of Sardis. The first Persian invasion of Greece began in 492 B.C., with the Persian general Mardonius successfully re-subjugating Thrace and Macedon before several mishaps forced an early end to the rest of the campaign. In 490 B.C. a second force was sent to Greece, this time across the Aegean Sea, under the command of Datis and Artaphernes. This expedition subjugated the Cyclades, before besieging, capturing and razing Eretria. However, while en route to attack Athens, the Persian force was decisively defeated by the Athenians at the Battle of Marathon, ending Persian efforts for the time being.

Darius then began to plan to completely conquer Greece but died in 486 B.C. and responsibility for the conquest passed to his son Xerxes. In 480 B.C., Xerxes personally led the second Persian invasion of Greece with one of the largest ancient armies ever assembled. Victory over the allied Greek states at the famous Battle of Thermopylae allowed the Persians to torch an evacuated Athens and overrun most of Greece. However, while seeking to destroy the combined Greek fleet, the Persians suffered a severe defeat at the Battle of Salamis. The following year, the confederated Greeks went on the offensive, decisively defeating the Persian army at the Battle of Plataea, and ending the invasion of Greece by the Achaemenid Empire.

The allied Greeks followed up their success by destroying the rest of the Persian fleet at the Battle of Mycale, before expelling Persian garrisons from Sestos (479 B.C.) and Byzantium (478 B.C). Following the Persian withdrawal from Europe and the Greek victory at Mycale, Macedon and the city-states of Ionia regained their independence. The actions of the general Pausanias at the siege of Byzantium alienated many of the Greek states from the Spartans, and the anti-Persian alliance was therefore reconstituted around Athenian leadership, called the Delian League. The Delian League continued to campaign against Persia for the next three decades, beginning with the expulsion of the remaining Persian garrisons from Europe. At the Battle of the Eurymedon in 466 B.C., the League won a double victory that finally secured freedom for the cities of Ionia. However, the League's involvement in the Egyptian revolt by Inaros II against Artaxerxes I (from 460-454 B.C.) resulted in a disastrous defeat, and further campaigning was suspended. A Greek fleet was sent to Cyprus in 451 B.C., but achieved little, and, when it withdrew, the Greco-Persian Wars drew to a quiet end. Some historical sources suggest the end of hostilities was marked by a peace treaty between Athens and Persia, the Peace of Callias.

There they faced the infamous God King of Persia from the movie 300: Xerxes I.

---

Xerxes I 519-465 B.C., also called Xerxes the Great, was the fifth king of kings of the Achaemenid dynasty of Persia. Like his father and predecessor Darius I, he ruled the empire at its territorial apex. He ruled from 486 B.C. until his assassination in 465 B.C. at the hands of Artabanus, the commander of the royal bodyguard.

Xerxes I is one of the Persian kings identified as Ahasuerus in the biblical Book of Esther. He is also notable in Western history for his failed invasion of Greece in 480 B.C. His forces temporarily overran mainland Greece north of the Isthmus of Corinth until losses at Salamis and Plataea a year later reversed these gains and ended the second invasion decisively. However, Xerxes successfully crushed revolts in Egypt and Babylon. Roman Ghirshman says that, "After this he ceased to use the title of 'king of Babylon', calling himself simply 'king of the Persians and the Medes'."

Xerxes oversaw the completion of various construction projects at Susa and Persepolis.

Juleka turned into Maestra and she now had a white sleeveless trench coat with the constellation of Cygnus the Swan on it and on the back she had the kanji for The Maestro of the Wings of Cygnus the Swan. 白鳥座の翼の巨匠 She did a final smash called SONG SCREAM OF CYGNUS and she fired a powerful sonic blast from her hand that was as powerful as 10,000 air horns going off all at once and it hit Xerxes and blew his head off.

Juleka: I look awesome in these clothes. The forces of darkness have a new hero.

Jessie: They sure do Juleka.

Next Jessie, Luan, Eddy, Lincoln, Killer Frost, Kim, Nico, Oceanus Shenron, Cybertron Snarl and Fire Man went to 1925 Missouri and they were there to save people from the deadliest tornado in American History: The 1925 Tri-State Tornado!

---

The Tri-State Tornado of Wednesday, March 18, 1925 was the deadliest tornado in United States history. It was also the most exceptional tornado during a major outbreak of at least 12 known significant tornadoes, spanning a large portion of the Midwestern and Southern United States. This one tornado alone inflicted 695 fatalities, more than twice as many as the second deadliest, the Great Natchez, Mississippi Tornado of May 7, 1840. The 151 to 235 mi (243 to 378 km) track left by the tornado was the longest ever recorded in the world, as it crossed from southeastern Missouri, through southern Illinois, then into southwestern Indiana. Although not officially rated by NOAA, it is recognized by most experts (such as Tom Grazulis and Ted Fujita) as an F5 tornado, the maximum damage rating issued on the Fujita scale.

---

Kim turned into King Monkey and he had a sleeveless trench coat with monkeys on it and it had the kanji for Jungle Pride of The Monkey on the back. 猿のジャングルプライド He saved a bunch of people with his monkey reflexes and his monkey powers and blew away the tornado with his final smash called JUNGLE MONKEY STAFFWIND. He swung his staff and fired a powerful blast of wind that blew away the storm.

Kim: This is so awesome! I love this new look.

Jessie: You look awesome Kim.

Lincoln: You sure do.

Next Jessie, Poison Ivy, Laney, Wood Man, Cybertron Scourge, Beast Wars Inferno, Luka, Lana and Ash Ketchum went to 1511 during the time of the Ancient Mayans. There they fought the evil Mayans of Tikal in Guatemala from the movie Apocalypto.

---

In the year 1511, while hunting in the Mesoamerican rainforest, Jaguar Paw, his father Flint Sky, and their fellow tribesmen encounter a procession of refugees fleeing warfare. The group's leader explains that their lands were ravaged and they seek a new beginning. He asks for permission to pass through the jungle. Flint Sky comments to his son that the visitors were sick with fear and urges him to never allow fear to infect him.

At sunrise the next morning, the tribe's village is raided by a group led by Zero Wolf. Huts are set on fire, many villagers are killed, and the rest of the adults are taken captive. Jaguar Paw nearly kills the sadistic raider Middle Eye, who kills the captive Flint Sky in retaliation and names Jaguar Paw "Almost". Jaguar Paw's heavily pregnant wife Seven and their young son Turtles Run escape by hiding in a small natural pit cave that also serves as a water reservoir, but are left trapped when Jaguar Paw is captured. The raiders then lead the captives on a long forced march through the jungle, leaving the children behind to fend for themselves.

On the journey, Cocoa Leaf, a badly wounded captive, is killed by Middle Eye, eliciting anger from Zero Wolf, who threatens his fellow raider with death if he kills another captive without permission. As the party approaches the Mayan city from which the raiders come, they encounter razed forests and failed maize crops, along with villages decimated by an unknown disease. A little girl infected with the illness prophesies Zero Wolf's death and the end of the Mayan world. Once the raiders and captives reach the city the females are sold as slaves while the males are escorted to the top of a step pyramid to be sacrificed before the Mayan King and Queen.

As a result of a solar eclipse and the superstitions surrounding it, Jaguar Paw and the remaining captives are spared from being sacrificed. Instead, they are offered freedom if they can avoid being killed during target practice by Zero Wolf and his men. After some tribesmen are killed, Jaguar Paw is injured but kills Zero Wolf's son Cut Rock and escapes into the jungle. Zero Wolf sets off with eight comrades to chase down and kill Jaguar Paw. Back in his native jungle, Jaguar Paw now has the advantage and taunts his pursuers. Most of the hunters-including Zero Wolf and Middle Eye-are gradually killed off via natural hazards and traps laid out by Jaguar Paw, until there are only two left.

The drought breaks and heavy rain begins to fall, threatening to drown Jaguar Paw's family, who are still trapped in the pit cave despite their attempts to escape. Seven gives birth to another son, who is born into the now dangerously rising water. Meanwhile, the two remaining raiders chase Jaguar Paw out of the undergrowth towards the coast. As they reach the beach, all three are stopped in their tracks by the sight of conquistador ships anchored off the coast and Europeans making their way ashore, holding up a large cross. Jaguar Paw flees while the two raiders remain, seemingly mesmerized at the conquerors' presence. Jaguar Paw returns in time to save his family from the flooded pit and is overjoyed at the sight of his new baby son.

Sometime later, as the reunited family looks out over the water at the Spanish ships, Jaguar Paw decides not to risk approaching the conquerors, insisting his family head back into the jungle. They depart in search of a new home and a new beginning.

In that time they fought the evil Tikal Mayans and the Warlord Zero Wolf!

---

Zero Wolf is a Mayan chieftain who is responsible for leading an attack on the village of Jaguar Paw, the films protagonist. Due to the themes of decline of the Mayan Empire, Zero Wolf is primarily hunting for captives to be used as sacrifices to appease the starving Mayan population. His band includes his son Cut Rock, and his psychotic second-in-command Middle Eye. During the attack on the village, several of the local natives are killed, including Jaguar Paws father. Zero Wolf and the Mayans manage to successfully capture several locals, including Jaguar Paw. During his trek back to his city of origin, Zero Wolf shows his care for his son by giving him his knife, wishing for him to take up the mantle after his father. After the sacrifice ritual, several of Jaguar Paw and his accomplices are spared due to a solar eclipse, and Zero Wolf decides to dispose of them as target practice. He sets Cut Rock to finish them off before they reaches the end, but during the practice, Zero Wolf loses control, as Jaguar Paws friend Blunt survives, and knocks over Cut Rock, allowing Jaguar Paw to fatally wound him. Zero Wolf becomes enraged over his sons death, and starts to pursue Jaguar Paw ruthlessly through the jungle. During the hunt, Zero Wolf's soldiers dies off one after the one, killed by the elements and Jaguar Paw. One of them at one point defies Zero Wolf, causing the deranged chieftain to murder him. Eventually, Middle Eye is also killed, and with no soldiers left, Zero Wolf confronts a wounded and exhausted Jaguar Paw alone. Planning to stab him to death with the knife he gave Cut Rock as a revenge, Zero Wolf walks into Jaguar Paws trap, and is killed by his setup tapir trap.

---

Luka turned into Viperion and he had a sleeveless trench coat with snakes on it and it had the Kanji for Slithering Justice from Serpens the Serpent on his back. 蛇の蛇の裁きの正義 He used a powerful final Smash on all of the Mayans and Zero Wolf called VIPER VENOM AXESLASH where he fired a powerful blast of poison energy and it slashed them all over and killed them.

Luka: I look incredible. And it brings out the snake inside me.

Nico: It sure does Luka. We're sorry you got Akumatized 3 times.

Luka: I know. But it's okay.

Next Jessie, Lana, Lola, Lila Loud, Lisa, Nico, Rose, Naruto, Fu, Sakura, Cybertron Landmine, Beast Wars Cheetor, Venom and Scream journeyed to the First War of Scottish Independence in 1298.

---

The First War of Scottish Independence was the initial chapter of engagements in a series of warring periods between English and Scottish forces lasting from the invasion by England in 1296 until the de jure restoration of Scottish independence with the Treaty of Edinburgh-Northampton in 1328. De facto independence was established in 1314 at the Battle of Bannockburn. England attempted to establish its authority over Scotland while the Scots fought to keep English rule and authority out of Scotland.

The term "War of Independence" did not exist at the time. The war was given that name retroactively many centuries later, after the American War of Independence made the term popular.

Rose turned into Mayura and she had a sleeveless trench coat with peacock feathers on it and she had a skirt of peacock feathers and her trench coat had the kanji for Rainbow Justice of the Peacock on the back. 孔雀の虹の正義 She used a final smash on all of the British called RAINBOW FEATHER FANSLASH BARRAGE and she fired a massive blast of rainbow feathers that turned into light blades at the crusaders and killed them.

Rose: I look awesome guys.

Lana: Peacocks are my favorite birds at the zoo. They are one of the most beautiful birds ever.

Nico: They sure are. Their feather plumes are awesome.

Lila Loud: Yeah they are. And when they spread their tail feathers like that in a fan form is amazing.

Lisa: Indeed. The feather plumage of Afropavo birds are really dazzling and beautiful.

Rose: They sure are.

Next Jessie, Lola, Lincoln, Lisa, Lily, Penny Loud, Beast Wars Scorponok, Waspinator, Terrorsaur, Argent, Bumblebee, Nico, Aurore, and Shocker went to the year 1781 and they were in the American Revolution to face the first traitor of America: Benedict Arnold.

---

Benedict Arnold (January 3, 1740 - June 14, 1801) was an American military officer who served as a general during the American Revolutionary War, fighting for the American Continental Army before defecting to the British in 1780. George Washington had given him his fullest trust and placed him in command of the fortifications at West Point, New York. Arnold planned to surrender the fort to British forces, but the plot was discovered in September 1780 and he fled to the British. His name quickly became a byword in the United States for treason and betrayal because he led the British army in battle against the very men whom he had once commanded.

Arnold was born in the Connecticut Colony and was a merchant operating ships on the Atlantic Ocean when the war began in 1775. He joined the growing army outside Boston and distinguished himself through acts of intelligence and bravery. His actions included the Capture of Fort Ticonderoga in 1775, defensive and delaying tactics at the Battle of Valcour Island on Lake Champlain in 1776 which allowed American forces time to prepare New York's defenses, the Battle of Ridgefield, Connecticut (after which he was promoted to major general), operations in relief of the Siege of Fort Stanwix, and key actions during the pivotal Battles of Saratoga in 1777, in which he suffered leg injuries that halted his combat career for several years.

Arnold repeatedly claimed that he was passed over for promotion by the Continental Congress, while other officers obtained credit for some of his accomplishments. Others in his military and political circles brought charges against him of corruption or other malfeasance, but most often he was acquitted in formal inquiries. Congress investigated his accounts, however, and concluded that he was indebted to Congress, and he borrowed heavily to maintain a lavish lifestyle.

Arnold mingled with Loyalist sympathizers in Philadelphia and married into one such family by marrying Peggy Shippen. She was a close friend of British Major John André and kept in contact with him when he became head of the British espionage system in New York. Many historians point to her as facilitating Arnold's plans to switch sides; he opened secret negotiations with André, and Peggy relayed the messages. The British promised £20,000 for the capture of West Point, a major American stronghold; Washington greatly admired Arnold and gave him command of that fort in July 1780. His scheme was to surrender the fort to the British, but it was exposed in September 1780 when Patriot militia captured André carrying papers which revealed the plot. Arnold escaped and André was hanged.

Arnold received a commission as a brigadier general in the British Army, an annual pension of £360, and a lump sum of over £6,000. He led British forces in the Raid of Richmond and nearby areas, and they burned much of New London, Connecticut, to the ground and slaughtered surrendering forces after the Battle of Groton Heights-just a few miles downriver from the town where he had grown up. In the winter of 1782, he and Peggy moved to London, England. He was well received by King George III and the Tories but frowned upon by the Whigs and most Army officers. In 1787, he moved to Canada to a merchant business with his sons Richard and Henry. He was extremely unpopular there and returned to London permanently in 1791.

She used a powerful final smash on him called LIGHTNING PARASOL FIREBURST and she fired a powerful blast of lightning and it electrocuted him into ash.

Aurore: I look awesome! And the wings tie everything all together.

Jessie: I'm glad. You have all of the power of the weather at your disposal now Aurore. You can also even use your powers even when you're not transformed.

Aurore: I know. It's awesome.

Lastly Jessie, Lincoln, Luan, Eddy, Tarantulus, Blackarachnia, Wolfang, Lucy Loud, Nico, Qin, Clint Bolton, the Mega Babies, Nurse Lazlo, Lisa and Olga went to face the ruthless Attila the Hun in 451 A.D.

---

Attila, frequently called Attila the Hun, was the ruler of the Huns from 434 until his death in March 453. He was also the leader of a tribal empire consisting of Huns, Ostrogoths, and Alans among others, in Central and Eastern Europe.

During his reign, he was one of the most feared enemies of the Western and Eastern Roman Empires. He crossed the Danube twice and plundered the Balkans, but was unable to take Constantinople. His unsuccessful campaign in Persia was followed in 441 by an invasion of the Eastern Roman (Byzantine) Empire, the success of which emboldened Attila to invade the West. He also attempted to conquer Roman Gaul (modern France), crossing the Rhine in 451 and marching as far as Aurelianum (Orléans) before being defeated at the Battle of the Catalaunian Plains.

He subsequently invaded Italy, devastating the northern provinces, but was unable to take Rome. He planned for further campaigns against the Romans, but died in 453. After Attila's death, his close adviser, Ardaric of the Gepids, led a Germanic revolt against Hunnic rule, after which the Hunnic Empire quickly collapsed.

KRABBBBBBBBBBBBBBBBBBBBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOO

The explosion completely obliterated him and there was nothing left of him.

The Simulation ended and they left the simulator and cheered wildly.

Jessie: That was awesome!

Lincoln: You said it.

Nico: Yeah!

Jessie: I think I have just the thing to wrap all this up. Lets go to the Saturn Insane Asylum and torment Lie-La.

Everyone: YEAH!

Marinette: That's a great idea.

Jessie: Lets do it.

They were off to the Saturn Insane Asylum.

---

SATURN INSANE ASYLUM

---

At the Saturn Insane Asylum, they were ready for an awesome visit with Lila.

Lila saw them.

Lila: Well if it isn't Marinette.

Marinette: Hello, Lie-La. You'll be happy to know that my mom and the mayor have recovered from your attempted murder.

Lila: I knew I should've gone for the head.

Jessie: You are a fucked up lunatic Lie-La.

Muscle Man: You know who else is Honest unlike you? My mom!

Edzilla roared.

Edzilla: ED USE LYING GIRL AS JUMP ROPE!

Lila screamed in fear at the sight of Edzilla!

Yakumo: Watch this guys. I saw this on TV.

Yakumo formed a silly Genjutsu. She formed the Three Stooges in Lila's cell and they were doing all the crazy shenanigans they were known for from 75 years ago.

Moe slapped Lila in the face.

SLAP!

Moe: You shut up.

Larry: (Holds out his fist) See that?

Lila slapped it and he swung his fist and bonked her.

BONK!

Lila: OW!

Luan was laughing like crazy.

Moe honked her nose.

HONK!

Curly bonked her with his belly.

BOOF!

Moe slapped her three times, bonked her in the stomach, bonked her on the head and poked her eyes.

SLAP! SLAP! SLAP! BOOF! BONK! POKE!

They were laughing their heads off.

Derrick: I hope she likes this.

Meg, Derrick and Buck then released a super mega fart into Lila's cell and it smelled so horrible that it was bad and she was vomiting her guts out. They were laughing uncontrollably.

Alix now has a Sleeveless aqua blue body suit, bunny ears and a bunny tail and a sleeveless aqua blue trench coat with clocks on it and she has the kanji for Time Rabbit of Chrono Justice on the back. She also had aqua blue angel wings. クロノ・ジャスティスのタイムラビット

Adrien: So, now what?

Maria: Now, we do some Karaoke!

Jessie: She's right. It's time for songs.

They went back to Earth.

---

In Luna's room they got ready for singing.

Jessie: Okay so who wants to go first?

Alexis: I'll go first. I'm going to sing Let It Go from Frozen.

Jessie: Good choice.

Lana: Love that song!

Lola: It's beautiful.

Alexis: Here goes.

The song played and it turned into an Arctic wonderland.

Alexis: (Singing Divinely)

The snow glows white on the mountain tonight

Not a footprint to be seen

A kingdom of isolation

And it looks like I'm the queen

The wind is howling like this swirling storm inside

Couldn't keep it in, heaven knows I've tried

Don't let them in, don't let them see

Be the good girl you always have to be

Conceal, don't feel, don't let them know

Well, now they know

Let it go, let it go

Can't hold it back anymore

Let it go, let it go

Turn away and slam the door

I don't care what they're going to say

Let the storm rage on

The cold never bothered me anyway

Let it go, let it go

Can't hold it back anymore

Let it go, let it go

Turn away and slam the door

Let it go (go, go, go go, go go, go go, go, go, go go)

Let it go

Let it go

Let it go

It's funny how some distance makes everything seem small

And the fears that once controlled me can't get to me at all

It's time to see what I can do

To test the limits and break through

No right, no wrong, no rules for me

I'm free

Let it go, let it go

I am one with the wind and sky

Let it go, let it go

You'll never see me cry

Here I stand and here I stay

Let the storm rage on

My power flurries through the air into the ground

My soul is spiraling in frozen fractals all around

And one thought crystallizes like an icy blast

I'm never going back, the past is in the past

Let it go

The cold never bothered me anyway

Let it go, let it go

And I'll rise like the break of dawn

Let it go, let it go

That perfect girl is gone

Here I stand in the light of day

Let the storm rage on

The Cold never bothered me anyway.

The song ended and they cheered.

Lana: Wow! That was so good!

Lola: Awesome job Alexis!

Alexis: Thanks guys.

Nico: That was a great job Alexis. Jaden would love it.

Jessie: Who wants to go next?

Skipper: We'll go next. We're going to sing Celebrate by Pitbull.

Lincoln: That was a great song.

Lana: That was a funny one.

Maria: It sure was.

Jessie: Go for it.

The song began and it showed all the adventures of the Penguins.

Penguins: (Singing Rap Style)

Mr. Worldwide

Let's celebrate

I just wanna celebrate

I just wanna celebrate

Tonight we're making history

I just wanna celebrate

We've been around the world, same song

Work hard, play hard, all day long

All the continents get jealous over me

You can see me 3D overseas

If you know me then you know where to find me

Off in the Bahamas with a bad one behind me

Now live it up, live it up, live it up

Baby pick it up, pick it up, pick it up

And we gon'

Boom boom around the world

Boom boom no kidding girl

Boom boom that's the way we like to play

We gon'

Boom boom around the world

Boom boom no kidding girl

Boom boom that's the way we like to play

I just wanna celebrate

I just wanna celebrate

Tonight we're making history

I just wanna celebrate

Turn it up

Turn it up

I've been patiently waiting for you to shake and shake it

Make it or take it

The point is we made it

Courted by the game, call us Tom Brady

And it's not our fault that we have all the ladies

But it's hard to see these ladies when your middle name's Equator

All around the globe, matter fact see your later

They're great, we're great at world war, dominators

And we're also some smooth operators, and we gon'

Boom boom around the world

Boom boom no kidding girl

Boom boom

That's the way we like to play

We gon'

Boom boom around the world

Boom boom no kidding girl

Boom boom that's the way we like to play

I just wanna celebrate

I just wanna celebrate

Tonight we're making history

I just wanna celebrate

Turn it up

Turn it up

Live it up (Live it up), don't let life live you (Live you)

It's a good time (Good time), so we give you (Give you)

Now live it up, live it up, live it up, live it up, live it up

What you wanna do?

I just wanna celebrate

I just wanna celebrate

Tonight we're making history

I just wanna celebrate

Turn it up

Let's celebrate

Turn it up

Let's celebrate

The song ended and they cheered wildly.

Edd: I will. I'm going to sing Iron Man Armored Adventures Theme Song.

Lincoln: Awesome choice.

The song played and it turned into the city and all of the adventures of Iron Man were playing.

Edd: (Singing Divinely)

He is a man on a mission

In armor of high tech ammunition

Trapped on the edge of an endless game

His teenage life will never be the same

In a dangerous world he does all he can

He's Iron Man

Iron Man

The heart of his power is within him

No force will make him give in

When he's backed into a corner of Uncertainty

He takes the heat to next degree

He's more than a hero believe what you see

He's Iron Man

Iron Man

He's Iron Man

Iron Man

Iron Man

It was done and they cheered wildly.

Jessie: Awesome job Double D!

Linka: Awesome!

Linka kissed Edd and his face sizzled after turning red.

Nico: I have a song for you. I'm going to sing Hero by Skillet.

Jessie: Good song choice.

Lincoln: As Luna would say: "Rockin!"

The song played and it showed all of our adventures over the last 3 years.

Nico: (Singing Hardcore)

I'm just a step away

I'm just a breath away

Losin' my faith today

(Fallin' off the edge today)

I am just a man

Not superhuman

(I'm not superhuman)

Someone save me from the hate

It's just another war

Just another family torn

(Falling from my faith today)

Just a step from the edge

Just another day in the world we live

I need a hero to save me now

I need a hero (save me now)

I need a hero to save my life

A hero'll save me (just in time)

I've gotta fight today

To live another day

Speakin' my mind today

(My voice will be heard today)

I've gotta make a stand

But I am just a man

(I'm not superhuman)

My voice will be heard today

It's just another war

Just another family torn

(My voice will be heard today)

It's just another kill

The countdown begins to destroy ourselves

I need a hero to save me now

I need a hero (save me now)

I need a hero to save my life

A hero'll save me (just in time)

I need a hero to save my life

I need a hero just in time

Save me just in time

Save me just in time

Who's gonna fight for what's right

Who's gonna help us survive

We're in the fight of our lives

(And we're not ready to die)

Who's gonna fight for the weak

Who's gonna make 'em believe

I've got a hero (I've got a hero)

Livin' in me

I'm gonna fight for what's right

Today I'm speaking my mind

And if it kills me tonight

(I will be ready to die)

A hero's not afraid to give his life

A hero's gonna save me just in time

I need a hero to save me now

I need a hero (save me now)

I need a hero to save my life

A hero'll save me (just in time)

I need a hero

Who's gonna fight for what's right

Who's gonna help us survive

I need a hero

Who's gonna fight for the weak

Who's gonna make 'em believe

I need a hero

I need a hero

A hero's gonna save me just in time

When the song ended they all cheered.

Marinette: That was awesome!

Lana: Awesome job dude!

May: Rock on Nico!

Nico: Thanks guys. I have one more song. I'm going to sing We Are One by 12 Stones.

Jessie: Interesting choice.

Lincoln: Go for it dude.

The song began and the flag of the USA and all the battles of America were shown.

Nico: (Singing Hardcore)

We walk alone

In the unknown

We live to win another victory

We are the young

Dying sons

We live to change the face of history, so be afraid

It's the price we pay

The only easy day was yesterday

So hear our voice

We have a choice

It's time to face it

We are one

We are one

We are one

We will stand together

Number one

Number one

The chosen ones

We are one

We are one

We will fight forever

We are one and we won't tire

We are the bold

United souls

We live to win another victory
Our sacred scars
Show who we are
And tell the story of our memories
Don't be afraid
It's the price we pay
The only easy day was yesterday
So hear our voice
We have a choice
It's time to face it
We are one
We are one
We are one
We will stand together
Number one
Number one
The chosen ones
We are one
We are one
We will fight forever
We are one and we won't tire
We walk alone

In the unknown

We live to win another victory

Our sacred scars

Show who we are

It's time to face it

Face it

It's time to face it

We are one

We are one

We are one

We will stand together

Number one

Number one

The chosen ones

We are one

We are one

We will fight forever

We are one and we won't tire

We are one

We are one

Yeah

Number one

Number one

And we won't tire

We are one

We are one

Yeah

Number one

Number one

And we won't tire

The song ended and they cheered. It was awesome!

Lana: Awesome job!

Jessie: That was a good song! It's the pride of the Armed Forces of America.

William: I have a song. I'm going to sing Super Villain by Powerman5000.

Jessie: Good song choice.

Maria: Go for it William.

The song played and it showed a massive army of all the villains we faced.

William: (Singing hardcore)

You're dressin all in black

From your front to your back

And all your evil ways

They seem to go on for days

And as a matter of fact

You got one more night before ya

Smash it up, burn it down

Tearing up the underground

You wanna live like a super villain

Back in the line up

Before your times up

You wanna live like a super villain

There's nowhere to go

There's nowhere to go

No one is savin this town

Fuck all those pricks and those clowns

I know you'd rather abuse

Condem or slightly confuse

Kick 'em all when their down

And just for fun you're gonna

Smash it up, burn it down

Tearing up the underground

You wanna live like a super villain

Back in the line up

Before your times up

You wanna live like a super villain

There's nowhere to go

There's nowhere to go

There's nowhere to go

There's nowhere to go when your on your own

You don't care about what's wrong or what is right

Alright, alright

You've been knockin down these doors, you've been filling up this room.

You're been runnin round the place like your name was Dr. Doom

You're a killer of culture, a vulture of style

And it won't be that long before you end up on trial!

Smash it up, burn it down

Tearing up the underground

You wanna live like a super villain

Back in the line up

Before your times up

You wanna live like a super villain

Like a super villain

Like a super villain

Yeah

Like a super villain

There's nowhere to go

Like a super villain

There's nowhere to go

Like a super villain

The song ended and everyone cheered.

Jessie: That was awesome!

Killer Frost: Good show William!

Maria: That was great!

Lincoln: I have a song. I'm going to Téir abhaile riú from Celtic Woman.

Jessie: That's an interesting one.

Lana: It sure is.

Natilee came in.

Natilee: I couldn't help but hear. Can I listen with you guys?

Jessie: Sure sis.

Natilee: That's one of my favorites. It's one of the traditional Matchmaking songs in Ireland. It's name means Home You'll Go.

Jessie: That's right.

The song played and it showed all the beauty of the Irish landscape.

Lincoln: (Singing Divinely)

Look how the light of the town

the lights of the town are shining now

Tonight I'll be dancing around

I'm off on the road to Galway now

Look how she's off on the town

She's off on a search for sailors though

There's fine fellas here to be found

She's never been one to stay at home

Home you'll go and it's there you'll stay

And you've work to do in the morning

Give up your dream of going away

Forget your sailors in Galway

Téir abhaile riú, téir abhaile riú

Téir abhaile riú Mhearai

Téir abhail gus fan sa bhaile

Mar tá do mhargadh déanta

Come now and follow me down

Down to the lights of Galway where

There's fine sailors walking the town

And waiting to meet the ladies there

Watch now he'll soon be along

He's finer than any sailor so

Come on now pick up your spoons

He's waiting to hear you play them WHO!

Here today and she's gone tomorrow

And next she's going to Galway

Jiggin' around and off to town

And won't be back until morning

Téir abhaile riú, téir abhaile riú

Téir abhaile riú Mhearai

Téir abhail gus fan sa bhaile

Mar tá do mhargadh déanta

Off with a spring in my step

The sailors are searching Galway for

A young lady such as myself

For reels and jigs and maybe more

Stay here and never you mind

The lights of the town are blinding you

The sailors they come and they go

But listen to what's reminding you

Handsome men surrounding you

Dancing a reel around you

Home you'll go and it's there you'll stay

And you've work to do in the morning

Give up your dream of going away

Forget your sailors in Galway

Téir abhaile riú, téir abhaile riú

Téir abhaile riú Mhearai

Téir abhail gus fan sa bhaile

Mar tá do mhargadh déanta

Listen to the music flow

I'm falling for the flow of home

I'm home to dance till dawning

Téir abhaile riú, téir abhaile riú

Téir abhaile riú Mhearai

Téir abhail gus fan sa bhaile

Mar tá do mhargadh déanta

Stay a while and we'll dance together now

As the light is falling

We'll reel away till the break of day

And dance together till morning

Téir abhaile riú, téir abhaile riú

Téir abhaile riú Mhearai

Téir abhail gus fan sa bhaile

Mar tá do mhargadh déanta

Téir abhaile riú, téir abhaile riú

Téir abhaile riú Mhearai

Téir abhail gus fan sa bhaile

Mar tá do mhargadh déanta

do Mhargadh de - do mhargadh déanta

The song finished and they cheered.

Jessie: That was awesome!

Natilee: (Irish Accent) Well done lad!

Lana: Awesome job big brother!

Earth: That was awesome!

Jessie: You sure are a talented singer Lincoln.

Jessie's watch beeped.

Jessie: Time for lunch.

They went to the kitchen.

---

Jessie: Okay what do you guys want for lunch?

Laney: How about Indian Curry?

Jessie: That's a great choice.

Everyone agreed.

Jessie: Curry it is.

Jessie got to cooking and she made all kinds of curries. She made 14 curries. They were the kinds of curries from the Brick Lane Curry House in New York City.

Jessie: Lunch is served.

They dug in and got to eating. Lincoln had the hottest curry ever: Phaal.

French Narrator: (French Accent) 1 hour later.

The curry was gone and they were stuffed. Some of them were belching and burping.

Jessie: Ah. Boy that was so good. (BELCH!) Excuse me.

Lincoln: I haven't had Curry that good ever since we went to India.

Lana: Me neither. It was good.

Nico: Oh yeah. (BELCH!) I'm stuffed.

Qin: Me too.

Lola: Delicious.

Jessie: Lets make everyone some good Curry when they all get back.

Alya: Good idea. (To the viewers) Learning all about world history can be a fun and educational experience. It's fun.

Jessie: It sure is.

Later they got to watching TV. They were watching their favorite shows like Operation: Dessert Storm, The Dream Boat, and others. They were laughing and were having fun. Later at 10:00 PM, they fell asleep and when we came home and we found them asleep and out like lights. We put them in their beds and went to bed ourselves. Another babysitting adventure was in the books.

THE END

Another awesome babysitting adventure done.

History is always cool to learn from. NicoChan11 gave me the ideas for this one. Thanks man. We haven't done a chapter like this in a long time. The next babysitting adventure is gonna be a Sports theme one with my daughter Anna. Let me know what you all think. The next chapter is for one of my favorite movies: The Aristocats and that's one of the Disney Movies we haven't covered. Edgar is gonna get his big fat butt kicked.

See you all next time.

A Bad Paris Butler

In the middle of the beautiful countryside, in the mountains of western Wyoming near the Grand Tetons, me and Xerneas were riding through the mountains on Rapidash and it was a beautiful day.

We were seeing the beauty of nature and the marvel of the mountains. We stopped in the middile of a meadow.

Me: (Inhales) Ahh. It's such a beautiful day.

Xerneas: You said it. Look at the beautiful gifts of nature.

Me: I love looking at nature. It's so beautiful. And it's just as beautiful as you Xenia.

Xerneas: Oh J.D.

Then I smelled something in the air.

Me: (Sniffs) Do you smell that? It smells like asphalt.

Xerneas: That means there's a tar pit nearby.

Me: And that usually means trouble.

Girl: (Offscreen) Help! Can anyone hear me!? Help!

Me: Looks like we got here just in time! Lets go!

We went to the source of the call for help and it was a girl with blonde hair no older than Lincoln that was stuck in a tar pit! She was waist deep in pitch black tar.

Me and Xerneas rode up to the tar pit.

Me: Hold on!

Xerneas: Stay calm and don't move!

I pulled out my rope and turned it into a lasso. I swung it and it landed by the girl.

Me: Tie that around your waist.

Girl: Okay. Wow! You're J.D. Knudson of Team Loud Phoenix Storm!

Me: That's right.

Xerneas: We can talk later after we save you.

Girl: Okay.

The girl tied the rope around her waist and we pulled. We pulled her out and she was covered in disgusting tar.

Girl: Oh yuck! This stuff is gross and sticky!

Me: It's tar. Tar is gross stuff.

Tammy: Thank you all for saving me. I'm Tammy Higgins.

Me: It's a pleasure to meet you Tammy.

Xerneas: I'm Xenia. But you know me as something else. What were you doing out here?

Tammy: Playing out in the meadow. But my ball got stuck out in the tar and I went to get it.

Xerneas: Is that it over there?

We saw a blue ball in the middle of the tar.

Me: I'll get it.

I flew over to it and picked it up and wiped the tar off and I brought it back to Tammy.

Tammy: Thank you J.D.

Me: No problem. Lets get you home.

Tammy: My house is over there.

We saw a beautiful mountain cabin. It was an average size cabin. We went over and I knocked on the door. A woman came.

Woman: Yes?

Me: Good afternoon ma'am.

Woman: Wow! J.D. Knudson and Xenia of Team Loud Phoenix Storm!

Me: That's right. We rescued your daughter from a tar pit. She was playing in the meadow and we saved her from a tar pit.

Tammy: I was trying to get my ball mom.

Tammy's mom: Aw it's all right Tammy. But thank you for saving my child J.D.

Me: Anytime ma'am.

Tammy's mom: But you are filthy young lady.

We all laughed.

Me: Next time play with your ball away from dangerous places Tammy.

Tammy: I will J.D. Thank you guys.

Me: No problem.

We went back to the estate later.

Over in Paris, Nico was with the Miraculous Celestial Union to get Kagami Tsurugi. She just came out of her fencing class.

Kagami: Marinette! Hi! I was just getting out of my recent fencing class.

Marinette: Hey Kagami.

Kagami: Wow! You all look awesome! Those new uniforms on you look amazing.

Alya: Thanks Kagami.

Luka: It's the fashion trend of Team Loud Phoenix Storm. Nico and J.D. recruited us into the team after Hawk Moth was defeated.

Kim: Yeah.

Nico: We actually came her for asking if you want to join us as Ryuko.

Marinette: That's right. We can give you the Dragon Miraculous again.

Kagami: So you're willing to let me be Ryuko again even after how I attempted to kill Karai.

Zuko: You weren't in control of your actions.

Karai: (Japanese Accent) It wasn't your fault. Besides, I have been through worse against King Hiss and the Heralds of the Demon Shredder.

Kagami: Okay. I'll do it!

Marinette gave Kagami the Dragon Miraculous: Long.

Long: (French Accent) Kagami, it's been a while.

Kagami: It has Long. I'm so sorry about what happened.

Long: I know. It wasn't your fault.

Optimus Prime: (to Long) What do you say, Long? Do you want to give Kagami another chance at being Ryuko?

Long: Oui. I'll do it.

Kagami: Yay!

Nico: Welcome to the Miraculous Celestial Union.

Marinette: It's a branch of Team Loud Phoenix Storm we made.

Kagami: Awesome! I will not fail you all.

Me: We know you won't Kagami. Also I have a surprise as well.

I revealed my Miraculous.

Kibal: Hello there everyone. I'm Kibal the Miraculous of the Wolf.

Nico: It's a pleasure to meet you Kibal.

Me: Marinette let me have him. He's part of this awesome bracelet I have as well. Want to see me transform?

Nico: Sure.

Me: Okay. Ready Kibal?

Kibal: Want to show off huh? You bet!

Me: Kibal! Lets Howl!

Kibal went into my bracelet and it turned dark blue and the wolf paw print glowed. I got an awesome black sleeveless body suit, a black sleeveless trench coat with the stars of the night and the full moon on the back. I got awesome wolf ears, my teeth turned into fangs, I had a wolf tail, my fingernails turned into razor sharp claws, and my eyes turned dark blue and the sclera were navy blue. I had a deadly scythe in my hand and it had a powerful blue crescent moon blade. I had the kanji for The Justice Of The Wolf Moon on the back of my coat below the moon and my wings were dark blue and some of the feathers were black and navy blue. ウルフムーンの正義

Nico: Whoa! That is awesome!

Lincoln: J.D. that is one of the coolest transformations ever!

Varie: I'll say. You look awesome!

Me: Thanks guys. In this form I am known as Wolf Moon.

Alya: Like the full moon in January.

Me: Exactly.

Vince: I like it partner. You look incredible in this form.

Me: Thanks guys.

Kibal: Me and J.D. are gonna make a great team.

Me: We sure are. And coincidentally the Wolf is also my spirit animal. It represents leadership, kindness, and to care for those that are closest to you.

Laney: That's right. That is amazing.

Kagami: Yeah.

Marinette: As long as we're here we might as well check on my mom and Chloe's dad.

Me: Good idea Marinette.

We went to the Paris hospital. We first went to visit Marinette's mom. In her room we found her resting. She has a cast on her shoulder.

Marinette: Mom?

Sabine: Oh Marinette. Thank goodness you're safe.

Marinette: I'm so glad you're ok, Mom.

They hugged gently.

Me: How are you feeling Mrs. Cheng?

Sabine: Still really sore. Lila…

Nico: We know Mrs. Cheng. But Lila's now in the Saturn Insane Asylum forever.

Sabine: Thank goodness. Thank you all for saving us.

Adrien: You're welcome Mrs. Cheng. My dad didn't mean to cause any harm. He was trying to bring my mom back.

Me: Yeah. No husband should ever be without their spouse or a loving mother.

Sabine: That's true. But Marinette, I'm so proud of you. I didn't know you were Ladybug as well.

Marinette: I was worried about what you would think.

Sabine: I know. But I'm very proud of you. You were saving all of Paris and saving the world. And I couldn't be happier for you.

Marinette: Thanks mom.

They hugged gently.

Nico: Marinette and all her friends are now members off Team Loud Phoenix Storm. They are a branch team called the Miraculous Celestial Union.

Sabine: That's a cool name for them. Just be careful out there sweetheart.

Marinette: We will mom. We will.

Me: Well get some rest Sabine. You'll be out of here in a couple of days.

Sabine: Will do J.D.

We went to visit Mayor Bourgeois.

We went into his room.

Mayor Bourgeois: Well hello.

Chloe: Daddy.

They hugged gently.

Me: How are you feeling Mister Mayor?

Mayor Bourgeois: Sore but I'll make it. I can't believe that little bitch shot me like that!

Nico: Well you'll never see Lila again. She is now in the custody of the Saturn Insane Asylum.

Mayor Bourgeois: Why there?

Me: We found out that Lila has Homicidal Schizophrenia and Antisocial Personality Disorder. The judge made sure that we sent her there for the rest of her life without parole.

Mayor Bourgeois: Wow! That's terrible. What about Hawk Moth?

Me: He was just trying to bring his family back together. He wanted to use the Miraculous of Ladybug and Cat Noir so that he could bring back his wife Emile who was in a coma for over a year. It was like what happened with Mr. Freeze and his wife Nora.

Lily: I cured Emile and brought her back to life.

Mayor Bourgeois: Wow. I didn't know that.

Me: It's okay Mister Mayor. But Lily brought Emile back and Gabriel Agreste who was really Hawk Moth only got six years in prison for his crimes. But what he was trying to do was completely understandable.

Nico: Yeah. I was in charge of the mission to stop Hawk Moth and it took every ounce of our will power to not kill him.

Lincoln: Yeah.

Mayor Bourgeois: Wow. I'm glad you all came and saved us. But what Hawk Moth did was understandable.

Adrien: My dad didn't mean to cause any harm. It was all to bring back my mom.

Mayor Bourgeois: I know. But thank you all for saving us.

Me: It was our pleasure Mister Mayor. But there are still other evil forces terrorizing the universe even as we speak.

Chloe: That's right dad.

Nico: Chloe is now a member of Team Loud Phoenix Storm's Miraculous Celestial Union. She now has a tremendous responsibility like we all do.

Chloe: That's right.

Mayor Bourgeois: I know. I actually figured it out. And I'm very proud of you honey.

Chloe: Thank you daddy.

Me: Get some rest Mister Mayor. You'll be out of here in a couple days.

Mayor Bourgeois: Thank you J.D. You are true heroes of France. All of you.

Me: You're welcome Mister Mayor.

Chloe: Bye daddy.

We left the hospital and we went back home to the estate. After everything that happened with Lila, Paris had to beef up security with its powerful figures.

---

Back at the estate we were getting ready for movie night.

Marinette: You guys want to try some of my family's macarons?

She Hulk: I sure do!

Me: I'll try one.

Mary Knudson: I'll try one too.

Me, Mary and She-Hulk tried one and they were delicious. They were so good. Mary's aura flared up to an incredible level and it was incredibly powerful!

Mary Knudson: Whoa! That is awesome good!

Me: Wow! These are delicious Marinette!

Nico: Just as good as Inga's cookies.

Sam (Totally Spies): They sure are.

Bonecrusher: I honestly think that Lila was more like Starscream than Azula's old self.

Nico: Hmm. You know I was thinking exactly the same thing.

We got to watching the movie. We were watching one of my favorite movies from my younger days: The Aristocats.

---

In Paris 1910, mother cat Duchess and her three kittens, Berlioz, Marie and Toulouse live with retired opera diva Madame Adelaide Bonfamille, and her English butler, Edgar. One day while preparing her will with lawyer Georges Hautecourt, Madame declares her fortune to be left to her cats until their deaths, and thereafter to Edgar. Edgar hears this through a speaking tube, and plots to eliminate the cats. Therefore, he sedates the cats by putting sleeping pills in a milk mixture intended for them, and enters the countryside to abandon them. There, he is ambushed by two hounds named Napoleon and Lafayette, and the cats are stranded in the countryside, while Madame Adelaide, Roquefort the mouse and Frou-Frou the horse discover their absence.

In the morning, Duchess meets an alley cat named Thomas O'Malley, who offers to guide her and the kittens to Paris. The group briefly hitchhikes in a milk truck before being chased off by the driver. Later, while crossing a railroad trestle, the cats narrowly avoid an oncoming train, but Marie falls into a river and is saved by O'Malley, who in turn has to be rescued himself by two English geese, Amelia and Abigail Gabble, who accompany the cats to Paris. Edgar returns to the country to retrieve his possessions from Napoleon and Lafayette, as the only evidence that could incriminate him.

Travelling across the rooftops of the city, the cats meet O'Malley's friend Scat Cat and his musicians, who perform the song "Ev'rybody Wants to Be a Cat". After the band has departed, O'Malley and Duchess converse on a nearby rooftop while the kittens listen at a windowsill. Here, Duchess' loyalty to Madame prompts her to decline O'Malley's proposal of marriage. Duchess and the kittens return to Madame's mansion, but Edgar places them in a sack and prepares to ship them to Timbuktu; They direct Roquefort to retrieve O'Malley. He does so, and O'Malley returns to the mansion, instructing Roquefort to find Scat Cat and his gang. The alley cats and Frou-Frou fight Edgar, while Roquefort frees Duchess and the kittens. At the end of the fight, Edgar is locked in his own packing-case and sent to Timbuktu himself, never to be seen again. Madame Adelaide's will is rewritten to exclude Edgar, with Madame remaining ignorant of the reason for Edgar's departure. After adopting O'Malley into the family, Madame establishes a charity foundation housing Paris' stray cats (represented by Scat Cat and his band, who reprise their song).

---

When the movie was done we cheered.

Me: That was awesome!

Lana: I just can't believe that Edgar would try to get rid of those cats like that.

Me: I know. But I watched a lot of crime documentaries and I saw a lot of people go to great lengths to get all that money by rubbing out the people that are gonna get it.

Lincoln: I know. And they usually end up in the Stony Lonesome.

We laughed at how Lincoln referenced jail.

Nico: That's true. But that's funny.

Me: The funny thing is that cats don't have 9 lives. That's just a myth.

Lincoln: So he would've had all that money in just a few years.

Me: Yeah. But he was totally impatient and now look where he went to. Instead of prison, he's now in Timbuktu in Mali.

Laney: That's all the way over in Africa.

Lisa: That is 3,304.452 miles south of Paris.

Me: Yeah and in the middle of the harshest and most dangerous desert in the world: The Sahara Desert.

Nico: Yeah. It's blistering hot there.

Me: 120˚ Fahrenheit. Sora did you visit the world of the Aristocats on your travels?

Sora: No I didn't. In fact we never saw a world like that.

Laney: But you did see a world for The Hunchback Of Notre Dame.

Sora: That's true.

Me: The Hunchback of Notre Dame took place back in 15th to 16th Century Paris. The Aristocats took place in early 20th Century France. So they might both be here on Earth.

I went to the computer and I saw that I was half right. The Aristocats world is right here on Earth.

Sora: So that's why we haven't seen them. One world is here and the other is not.

Me: Yeah. Lets head to Paris and make Edgar pay for his crimes.

Everyone: YEAH!

We got ready to go to Paris. Our mission was to bring Edgar to jail.

* * *

---

We were once again in Paris, France.

Me: Well here we are yet again in Paris.

Varie: Yep.

Xerneas: It's amazing that Paris is so full of activity and life.

Jessie: France has a lot of history that dates back to the 3rd Century. Over 1700 years ago.

May: That is so cool!

Laney: I remember that.

Me: Bobby, you went to Paris once before on vacation right?

Bobby: I sure did J.D. I went to the Louvre Museum and I saw the Mona Lisa.

Lori: I remember that. I thought it was another girl.

Me: Lori, the Mona Lisa is the most famous painting in the world. And it's one of the most incredible treasures in all of Europe.

Chloe: That's right. I remember seeing that.

Laney: The Mona Lisa was made by Leonardo De Vinci in 1503. It's a priceless painting.

Lori: Oh. I didn't know that. Sorry Bobby.

Bobby: It's all right Babe.

Then we heard cat yowling and we saw Duchess, Thomas O'Malley, and her kittens Toulouse, Marie and Berlioz and their mouse friend Roquefort running from Edgar and he was armed with a net!

---

After hearing that Madame Adelaide will inherit all of her fortune to her cats and he only can access to the fortune once they all die, he plans to get rid of them. To ensure this, he puts sleeping pills in the cat's food. Delivering the food to the cats as their dinner, he leaves them until they have eaten it all. Roquefort the mouse (who is a friend of the cats) is also invited to eat and, being much smaller than the cats succumbs to the "Creme de la creme a la Edgar" as well, but is ignored by Edgar. At night, Edgar smuggles the Baudelaires out of the mansion and drives off with his motorcycle, so paranoid about his actions that he accidentally drives into a subway station on the way.

After having left the city, Edgar drives by an old mill, where the two dogs Napoleon and Lafayette are attracted to him due to the noise of his motorcycle. To avoid the dogs, Edgar drives off the road and through a river, thereby losing the basket containing the cats. Unexpectedly, Edgar temporarily loses his motorcycle to the two dogs but eventually gets it back. Still pursued by the dogs, who have obtained the sidecar of the motorcycle and Edgar's hat, he eventually escapes, with crashing into the mill first. Edgar then heads back into the city.

When the cats awaken in the wilderness, Toulouse tells his mother that Edgar did this to them, but she brushes him off, claiming that Edgar would never do such a thing.

Returning

The same night, Madame Adelaide wakes up to find her cats gone. Her screams awaken Roquefort, who sets out to find them. After an unsuccessful search, Roquefort enters the stable to tell Frou-Frou the horse the sad news. While Roquefort was talking to Frou-Frou, she witnesses Edgar entering the stable in high spirits. Unaware that Foru-Frou is an intelligent horse, Edgar brags about his act, showing her the newspaper headline, which disgusts her and Roquefort demotes that Edgar was the kidnapper, in which his kidnapping of the cats is called a work of a genius. While gloating about that the police won't find any evidence that could compromise him, Edgar vows that he will eat his hat if they do. However, his happiness is cut short when he realizes that he in fact lost his hat, umbrella, basket (which Duchess and Kittens were contained before the skirmish with Napoleon and Lafayette) and the motorcycle sidecar at the crime scene. Distraught, he plans to return to the mill at night to retrieve his hat to prevent the police from compromising Edgar for the crime.

Equipped with a fishing rod, Edgar then once again drives off at night, this time closely followed by Roquefort, who has hidden in Edgar's tail light. However, during the ride Roquefort is shaken out of the light and left in the streets of Paris. Edgar returns to the mill to find Napoleon and Lafayette asleep in the sidecar and the casket the cats were left in, with Napoleon wearing Edgar's head, The dogs are awoken by the squeaking of Edgar's shoes but decide they only heard a cricket. Edgar then tries to get the hat back by using his fishing pole but after failing two times, Napoleon holds the hat with his paws while asleep. To get to the hat, Edgar rubs the dog's belly while he is asleep and is indeed able to retrieve the hat.

He then tries to get the casket as well, but Napoleon wakes up to see the casket, with Lafayette inside, being lifted into the air. Edgar then drops Lafayette into the sidecar, but when he tries to get his umbrella as well, he accidentally activating the sidecar's horn and wakes up the dogs. Edgar then drives off, having successfully retrieved all of his possessions.

Finale

With the help of Thomas O'Malley, Duchess and her kittens return to Madame Adelaide's mansion. Roquefort sees them from a window and is delighted, but realizes that he has to do something about Edgar so he ties his shoelaces together. As the cat door is barred, the kittens start meowing. When Edgar hears this, he is shocked and quickly gets up, only to fall down. Using the opportunity that Roquefort runs to the window and tries to get the kitten's attention to tell them to run. However, although they see him that they do not understand what he is trying to say and Edgar puts the kittens in a sack directly after letting them into the house.

However, before he can do anything he is forced to hide the sack in the cold oven, as Madame Adelaide enters the hall, having heard their cats as well. Believing the cats to be outside, Adelaide orders Edgar to open the door to let them in, but sees that no one is waiting outside. After a moment, Adelaide is forced to admit that no one is outside. While Edgar is occupied with Adelaide, Duchess is able to communicate with Roquefort, who sends him to find Thomas

O'Malley.

Edgar then locks himself into the stable and locks the cats into a chest, planning to send them to Timbuktu. But before Edgar could start taking the chest outside, O'Malley immediately attacks him, and he and Frou-Frou desperately try to stop Edgar. Furiously, Edgar chases O'Malley with a pitchfork, but soon gets attacked by Scat Cat and his gang as well.

After Roquefort has managed to unlock the cage (after temporarily getting the fighting to stop by shouting at everyone to be quiet), Thomas O'Malley jumps into the crate to help Duchess and her kittens but Edgar closes it again, still intending to ship them to Timbuktu. To prevent this, the alley cats with help from Frou-Frou keep Edgar occupied long enough to be able to open the crate and after Thomas and the other cat's have jumped out, Frou-Frou kicks Edgar into the crate, shutting it close and trapping him inside. The shipping company then arrives and, seeing only one possible crate, take the crate containing Edgar, who is apparently unable to call for help due still being dazed for the cats' attack, to ship him to Timbuktu. It's completely unknown what happened to Edgar after this, but it's likely that he starved to death or suffocated inside the crate, as there was no food nor holes to breathe, although he could also have been discovered inside the crate and released from it, albeit already far from France. However, it turns out that he currently lives in Timbuktu as his punishment.

The next day, Madame Adelaide finds that Edgar is gone and, believing that he has left her service, writes him out of her will. While this doesn't confirms anything, this implies that Madame Adelaide possibly ultimately planned to distribute her fortune between the cats and Edgar, something that Edgar, either alive or dead, would never know.

---

Edgar: You cats are going to Timbuktu if it's the last thing I do! And I will have madam's fortune!

Me: I don't think so!

I punched Edgar in the face and sent him crashing into the garbage cans.

CRASH!

Duchess leapt into Maria's hands.

Maria (to Duchess): Don't worry. We won't let that mean butler get to you guys.

Duchess: Thank you Maria.

Lincoln, Syd, and Laney had the kittens in their hands. Lincoln had Marie in his hands. Syd had Berlioz in her hands and Laney had Toulouse.

Lincoln: You are all right now.

William: (grabs Edgar by the collar) You better say your prayers right now!

Me: (Cracks Knuckles) Any last words before we kick your fucking ass?

But then we saw a massive swarm of bat like Heartless appear! It was a Demon Tide!

Me: That's a Demon Tide!

It was made of thousands of Shadows.

---

Much like the Demon Tower, the Demon Tide is a swarm of Shadows. It is large, travels in waves, and has a core that glows violet or orange. The Demon Tide has two forms. The first is a large wave of Shadows. When it takes enough damage, it plunges this wave into the ground. This turns the entire area in shades of red and black. When it re-emerges, it takes the form of a tornado of Shadows with an orange core at its center.

When the Demon Tide takes damage, individual Shadows will fall out of the swarm and disappear. Many of its attacks also comprise of launching individual Shadows, which disappear after impact.

---

Sora: I honestly did not expect a fucking Demon Tide of all Heartless to appear.

Me: Me neither. Lets destroy it!

Duchess: (to Edgar) We are going to have a long talk after I deal with this new threat!

We summoned our keyblades and we went at the Demon Tide. We were tearing them all apart and getting stronger and stronger at an accelerated rate.

Marinette: Whoa! So that's what a Negative Energy Power Increase feels like.

Sabrina: It's incredible!

Kim: Yeah.

Chloe: It's amazing.

Megaforce Rangers (except Orion): Legendary Ranger Mode: Starforce Pentasquad!

The Megaforce Power Rangers turned into the Dairangers from 1993. Troy Burrows was the red Dragon Ranger, Noah Carver turned into the Blue Pegasus Ranger, Jake Halling turned into the Green Lion Ranger, Gia Moran turned into the yellow Deer Ranger and Emma Goodall turned into the Pink Phoenix Ranger.

Orion: Legendary Ranger Mode: Mighty Morphin White!

Orion turned into the White Mighty Morphin Ranger.

We blasted the Demon Tide with energy blasts, elemental blasts and all kinds of powers. Marinette lashed them all with a new lucky charm. It was a whip. Adrien blasted a bunch of the Demon Tide with his Cataclysm. Alya turned her Flute into a Fire Sword and slashed them and burned them all over. Chloe flew all over with bee wings and fired powerful energy blasts and blew them apart. Troy Burrows slashed a bunch of them with his Duel Dragon Swords and they all exploded into flames. Noah Carver bashed a bunch of them with his Pegasus Nunchucks, Jake Halling stabbed a bunch of them with his Lion Cudgel, Gia Moran lashes a bunch of them with her Deer Cat-O-Nine Tails whip and Emma stabbed a bunch of them with her Phoenix Spear. Orion slashed a bunch of the heartless with his White Tiger Sword Sabba. Lincoln fired a powerful blast of lightning and electrocuted them. I put my Miraculous Powers to the test and fired a powerful blast of wolf fire from my hand and incinerated a lot of the Demon Tide in an instant. I slashed the Demon Tide with my Wolf Scythe and it was powerful!

Me: Wow! What power! I could get used to both a scythe and a sword.

Laney: That is so cool!

The Mega Babies fired a massive fart at the Demon Tide and melted them with their horrible stench.

Me: Lets finish these freaks with our combos and final smashes!

Bonecrusher: You got it boss! CYBER KEY POWER!

The Earth Cyber Planet Key went into his back and it enhanced his Concussion Bomb Blaster 100-fold.

Zuko: Lets bring the pain in fire. GIGANTION CYBER KEY POWER!

The Gigantion Cyber Planet Key went into Zuko's right arm device and it enhanced his Firebending powers 100-fold.

Bonecrusher and Zuko: NAPALMIC FIRESTORM MEGABLAST!

Bonecrusher fired a powerful barrage of Concussion bombs and Zuko fired a massive blast of fire and the blasts all hit the Demon Tide and exploded all over.

Optimus Prime: Lets show it some leader power! CYBER KEY

POWER!

The Autobot Cyber Planet Key went into Optimus Prime's left arm cannon and it enhanced it and turned it into a more powerful cannon.

She-Hulk: Lets see how it likes some muscle power from me. GIGANTION CYBER KEY POWER!

The Gigantion Cyber Planet Key went into her right arm device and it enhanced her strength 100-fold.

Optimus Prime and She Hulk: THUNDERCLAP CANNON DEATHSTRIKE!

Optimus Prime fired a powerful blast of energy from his left arm cannon and She-Hulk released a massively loud thunderous clap and the blasts hit the Demon Tide and blew them all apart.

Me: Lets smash these freaks!

Sora: You got it! LIGHTNING KEYBLADE THUNDERSTRIKE!

Sora fired a massive blast of lightning from his Keyblade and it hit the Demon Tide and electrocuted them into ash.

Duchess: Feel the cat scratch! FRENCH CAT SCRATCH STORM!

Duchess scratched up most of the Demon Tide with indiscriminate fury.

Thomas O'Malley: Let this Alley Cat enhance the cat power. YOWL ENHANCEMENT POWERUP!

Thomas O'Malley yowled and it enhanced the powers of the Kittens.

Marie: Lets get them!

Kittens: KITTEN FIRESTORM CAT SCRATCH!

The Kittens turned into a powerful trio of fireballs and they destroyed most of the rest of the shadows.

Roquefort: Time for some cheese bombs! LIMBURGER STINKBOMB FIRESTORM!

Roquefort fired a massive cheese ball and it hit the Demon Tide and exploded with incredible stench.

FOGHORN!

It left the core exposed.

Me: I'll finish it off! WOLF SCYTHE FIREBLADE SLASH!

My Wolf Moon scythe glowed with powerful blue fire and I slashed the core with my scythe and the Demon Tide Heartless exploded with incredible power.

KRABBBBBBBBBBBBBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOO

We got a massive boost of power from its negative energy.

Me: Whoa! That was powerful!

Nico: Wow! That was intense!

Marinette: Not bad for your first time using the power of the Miraculous, J.D.

Me: I know. It's so awesome!

Ronnie Anne: We have one loose end though.

Ronnie Anne set her sights on Edgar.

Ronnie Anne: You are about to meet my little friends. GANG OF CATS MEGA SLASHCLOUD!

Ronnie Anne whistled and out of a portal came the gang of cats and they came at Edgar with extreme ferociousness and they covered him and slashed him all over. For 20 minutes they cut him up.

Me: Ai Yi Yi!

Lincoln: That must really hurt!

Me: No kidding.

Nico: Edgar Balthazar you have failed this city!

Edgar was arrested for animal cruelty and sentenced to spend 62 years in the Antarctica Prison without parole.

Sora: (To the viewers) Love animals or you will mess with us.

Me: You said it Sora.

Kairi: But that was so awesome.

We returned Duchess, Thomas and the kittens to Madam Adelaide. We then enjoyed the rest of Paris for the day.

THE END

---

Another Fanfiction done and another awesome Disney movie complete.

The Aristocats has been one of my favorite movies ever since I was a young boy. I love those kitties. But Edgar was a greedy guy. NicoChan11 gave me the ideas. Thanks man. Let me know what you all think. Next up is Thanksgiving and we're gonna visit Thanksgiving Town from the Nightmare Before Christmas series and then we're going to face the traitor Agent Alpha from the Men In Black Series cartoon. Get ready to see me fight the ultimate abomination of nature!

See you all next time.

The Thanksgiving Rogue Alpha

HAPPY THANKSGIVING 2019 EVERYONE!

(The Wolf and the Moon by Brunuhville plays)

In the Training grounds at the estate, I was testing the full extent of the power of the Wolf Miraculous. I was flying in the air and I swung my scythe and the blade cleaved 4 dummies in half and they exploded into powerful explosions of fire.

KRABBBOOOOOOMMMM! KRABBOOOOOM! KRABBBOOOOOOOMM! KRABBBBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOMM!

3 more dummies came at me and they fired blasts of lasers and lightning and I spun my scythe around and it deflected the blasts back at the dummies and they exploded.

KRABBBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOMMM! KRABOOOOOOMMM! KRABBBOOOOOOOOOOOM!

I swung my scythe at two more dummies and fired powerful blades of blue fire at them and they slashed them in half and exploded.

KRABBOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOMMMM! KRABBBBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOMMMM!

Then numerous dummies turned into Putties and I slashed a bunch of them with my scythe and they exploded into massive blasts of fire.

KRABBBBBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOMMMM! BOOM! BOOOOM! BOOOOM! BOOOOOOMM! BOOOOOOOMMM! BOOM! BOOOOM!

I fired a powerful blast of blue fire at the Putties and incinerated them into ash.

Me: You guys are pathetic bad guys.

Nico came out.

Nico: Wow! You really tore them apart.

Me: I sure did Nico. The power of the wolf tore them all apart.

Nico: Yeah.

We headed back inside.

In the estate we were getting ready for Thanksgiving. It was November 28th, 2019 A.K.A. Thanksgiving. The day we give thanks to the very country we call our home and everything we worked hard for.

Horsea, Manaphy, Poromon, and Poliwag: HAPPY THANKSGIVING, EVERYBODY!

Me: Thanks guys.

Me, Nico, Lightning and Lynn were watching the Football games. The Detroit Lions were taking on the Chicago Bears.

Shannon: I hope the Chicago Bears get creamed.

Me: They will. Detroit is heavily favored.

Qin: How come Detroit plays football every Thanksgiving?

Me: It's part of their tradition. It was decided back in 1934 that they would host home games every year. Its been that way ever since.

Qin: That is cool!

Lynn: It sure is.

In the kitchen, Poromon was looking at the turkey cooking in the oven. He was drooling uncontrollably.

Whenua: (to Poromon) Poromon, don't even think about eating all the food before anyone else does.

Poromon: Aw.

Qin: J.D. I heard you all encountered the Animorphs.

Me: We sure did. That was one of our most out of this world adventures. We helped the Animorphs take down the ruthless Visser Three.

I went over Visser Three's history.

---

Esplin 9466, Visser Three, or later Visser One, is the main antagonist of the Animorphs series. A ruthless Yeerk, he was the first of his kind to infest an Andalite host body. With the body, he was able to tap into Andalite technology, for example taking on different forms. Esplin had a twin brother named Esplin 9466 Lesser, whose fate is unknown. In the series he tried to cause an invasion on Earth. He is also the nemesis of the Animorphs.

He was also known for making up excuses to execute people. In book #45, he was appointed to Viseer One after the failure of the original. At the end, he accepts his defeat saying that "Any punishment that you inflict, would be nothing compared to what the Council of Thirteen would do." His ultimate fate was being incarcerated in prison deprived of sight, and without a host body.

Esplin 9466 was a Yeerk who hailed from the Yeerk Homeworld. Esplin had a twin brother named Esplin 9466 Lesser. At some point in his life, he joined the Yeerk military with the intent of conquering the galaxy under the Council of Thirteen, supreme commanders of the Yeerks. Esplin participated in many battles during the Andalite-Yeerk War and during an attack on the Andalite Homeworld, Esplin personally infested and gained control of an Andalite war hero named Alloran Corrass, though the Yeerks failed to conquer the planet. With his Andalite host, Esplin became the only Controller(a being controlled by a Yeerk) with the Andalite's ability to shapeshift or morph into any creature, sentient or non-sentient. Esplin became very powerful and rose quickly through the ranks and eventually became known as Visser Three. Under his command, Visser Three assisted the Yeerks in infesting many races, such as the peaceful reptillian Hork-Bajir and the violent insectoid Taxxons. Later, Esplin was assigned to conquer Earth, the homeworld of the peaceful Humans, which he agreed to carry out. However thoughout his military career, Visser Three confronted an andalite named Elfangor who, like all Andalites, wanted to stop the Yeerks from infesting the galaxy. Visser Three received word that Elfangor had been making his way towards Earth and eventually tracked him down. Visser Three attacked in his Blade Ship and a fleet of Bug Fighters, and confronted an Andalite military force. Eventually, Visser Three and his forces shot down both the Dome Ship and Elfangor's spacecraft. With the Andalites dealt with, the Visser led his forces down to Earth, where they immediately began their invasion.

The Invasion

Visser Three discovered that Elfangor survived the crash and immediately went after him. Visser Three eventually tracked down Elfangor to an abandoned construction site and landed to confront him. Elfangor quickly fought and defeated Esplin's Hork-Bajir forces, but the Visser morphed into a hideous bulky creature and swallowed Elfangor whole, killing him. After that, Visser Three's men destroyed Elfangor's ship, but Esplin sensed that there were "Andalite Bandits"(the Animorphs, five humans with the morphing ability) on Earth to stop him and ordered his troops to find them and eliminate them. Later, Visser Three and his men began infesting Humans and constructed a Yeerk Pool underground for the Yeerks to feed and to cover up their operations from the Human government. Esplin also turned a man named Hedrick Chapman into a Controller and fellow Yeerk Iniss 226 infested Chapman and he founded a group called The Sharing to acquire new hosts for Yeerks. A teenage Human namd Tom was also infested. Later, a policeman controller kidnapped a teenage girl named Cassie(one of the Animorphs) and held her hostage in the Yeerk Pool. Later, the other four Animorphs led by Jake, Tom's younger brother, attacked the Yeerk Pool and rescued Cassie and many other captives. They also killed many controllers, but Visser Three and his controllers outnumbered them. Jake fought against the Visser himself in tiger morph while the Visseer transformed into a fire skinned creature that could shoot fireballs. Despite his powerful strength in morph, Jake defeated Esplin and bit into his chest, injuring him. Esplin shot two fireballs to kill Jake, but Jake repelled them back at the Visser and defeated him for the first time, leaving him critically injured. Jake quickly killed the policeman controller and escaped with the rest of the Animorphs, but not before the wounded Visser Three vowed to kill them and have revenge.

The Visitor

Visser Three eventually recovered from his injuries and made plans to infest Melissa Chapman, Hedrick's daughter. He contacted Chapman through holographic technology and asked him to infest Melissa, but while he was talking, Visser Three notices Chapman's cat spying on them, and ordered Chapman to kill the cat because it might be one of the Animorphs, unaware that it was Rachel, one of the Animorphs in disguise. Chapman allowed Rachel to escape unharmed. Later, Visser Three caught the cat spying on Chapman discussing matters with him again. Visser Three soon realized that the cat was one of the Animorphs and ordered Chapman to bring the cat to him and Melissa so she could be infested. Chapman briefly rebelled against Iniss, which opted Iniss to leave Melissa and bring Rachel. Visser Three met with Chapman at the abandoned construction site where Chapman revealed the only reason he became a controller was to protect Melissa. As his Taxxon troops carried Rachel into the Blade Ship, the other Animorphs arrived to save Rachel and Jake, who was disguised as a flea, morphed to fight Visser Three again. Jake yet again overpowered Esplin and Tobias, one of the Animorphs disguised as a red-tailed hawk, grabbed the cage containing Rachel and flew off with the rest of the Animorphs, but not before the Visser vowed revenged again and ran off into the nearby woods in a fit of rage having been foiled by the Animorphs a second time.

The Encounter

After his second failure against the Animorphs, Visser Three ordered a Yeerk truck ship to suck out water from a lake in the woods. The Yeerks who carried out the task used a cloaking device to make the ship invisible. The mission was successful and it brought back water for the Yeerk Pool. Word soon came that the Animorphs were aware of the mission an the Visser took another chance to kill them. The truck ship returned to the lake and Esplin locked it down. The Visser discovered the Animorphs in fish morph trapped in the tubes used to absorb the water. Esplin then noticed Tobias in hawk morph trying to destroy the truck ship and pursued him in his Blade Ship to stop him. After a brief pursuit, Tobias killed a Taxxon controller and used its blaster to set the truck ship on fire, which freed the other Animorphs and destroyed the ship. Visser Three was again furious and he flew off into the sky aboard his Blade Ship.

The Message

Esplin later received word of a strange distress signal coming from the same dome ship he destroyed before his encounter with the Animorphs and took extreme measures to discover its meaning. However, the Animorphs had learned of the signal through dreams and were also investigating its origin. The dome ship was located at the bottom of the ocean and Esplin hoped to destroy the signal. Visser Three led an army of Taxxons into the ocean to stop the Animorphs. But by the time he tracked the signal to the dome ship, the Animorphs had arrived first and met a sole Andalite survivor named Ax, who was also the younger brother of Esplin's old enemy: Elfangor. Eslpin yet again encountered the Animorphs and Ax, but they quickly defeated the Taxxons and escaped the ship using sea morphs. The Visser quickly escaped the dome ship in Mardrut morph before the dome ship was destroyed by depth charges and pursued the Animorphs and Ax. As the pursuit went on, Visser Three gained on his sworn enemies. Visser Three eventually caught up with the Animorphs and prepared to kill them, but before he could do so, a herd of humpback whales charged the Visser and carried the tired Animorphs to safety, leaving the humiliated Visser to be attacked by the whales.

The Predator

Visser Three somehow escaped the whales and reurned to the Yeerk Pool to devise another strategy. Later, Visser Three received word that his long time rival Edriss 562, had arrived to check on the Earth invasion's progress. Later, Esplin received a Yeerk distress beacon and his men tracked it down, but discovrered it was sent by the Animorphs(with Ax as their new member) to steal a Bug Fighter, but their trap backfired and Visser Three finally captured the Animorphs. Visser Three brought them aboard Edriss's ship orbiting Earth and imprisoned them, where Marco(one of the Animorphs) recognized Edriss's host as his mother, Eva, who was thought to have died in a boating accident, but survived and was infested by Edriss. After the Animorphs' imprisonment, Esplin and Edriss began arguing. While they were arguing, one of Edriss's Hork-Bajir controllers released the Animorphs on her orders, where they made their way to the ship's dropshaft and fled back to Earth using an escape pod. The reason for this was to humiliate Visser Three for setting the Animorphs free.

The Capture

Later, Visser Three morphed human and used the Yeerk Pool to gain access to a hospital where his Yeerks began infesting patients. The Animorphs led by Jake arrived to stop them. Jake quickly activated a Jacuzzi to kill the Yeerks inside, but the Visseer's men struck Jake and hurled him into the minature Yeerk Pool. When he was returned to the Yeerk Pool, Visser Three infested Jake using fellow Yeerk Temrash 114 and turned Jake into another controller. Later, the other Animorphs discovered Jake's controller status and locked him in a shack in the woods, but Temrash escaped several times before Jake rebelled against his control and Temrash died of Kandrona starvation, freeing Jake from the Yeerk's control.

Qin gasped in horror!

Qin: That would've destroyed the entire universe!

Me: Yeah. But the aliens that Visser Three turned into were incredible.

Shanan: And I identified the species he became.

Shanan got onto the computer and showed them to her. Shanan showed him as a Zaidenian Inferno Beast from the planet Zaid, a Lernean Lerdethak from the planet Xairum IX, a Cereyan

Porcudactyl from the planet Cereya, an Optoiran from the planet Optus V, an Optoiran from the planet Optus V, an Avian Spirtexan from the planet Spirtex, a Vanarx from the planet Yeerkus, and a Pyronian Hydraxan from the planet Xexta.

Qin: Wow! Those creatures are really ugly!

Shanan: That was my first thought too. But they are really awesome creatures. But that is only a small fraction of the creatures that Visser Three could turn into. He had 15,253 aliens that he could become.

Nico: But that's nothing. The Thing could turn into over 10 million aliens.

Laney: Yeah.

Me: Not only that, but the Men In Black saw more aliens than just in our galaxy.

Nico: Yep.

May: I was jealous that Rachel was hanging out with Nico.

Rachel (Animorphs): And we're cool now.

Me: The Turkey won't be ready for 4 more hours.

Muscle Man: You know who else loves Thanksgiving? My Mom! I even invited her over.

Blackfire: Say what now?

Me: It'll be cool meeting your mom Muscle Man.

Nico: Yeah.

The doorbell rang and we answered it and in came Muscle Man's mom.

Muscle Man's Mom: It's a pleasure to meet you all.

Me: You too. Mordecai and Rigby told us a lot about you.

Laney: They sure did.

Marinette: Nico, why exactly did you tell Sunstreaker and May to say goodbye to us for you?

Nico: Well, it was just in case I wasn't going to survive against Ken's dark side.

Adrien: Well, when May and Sunstreaker told us about that, we thought you were going to go on a suicide mission. You had us worried sick!

G1 Silverbolt: I told you those goodbyes weren't necessary, Nico.

Me: Yep. But lets talk about that later. We're gonna head over to Thanksgiving Town. Lets head over to the Hinterlands.

We were off to the Hinterlands.

HINTERLANDS

We were at the Hinterlands. We were standing in the circle of the 7 Holiday Doors.

Nico: The 7 Holiday doors.

Me: We were in Halloween Town when we killed Oogie Boogie.

We saw the doors and we saw the turkey door.

Me: Here we are. This is the door into Thanksgiving Town.

Vince: This is it all right.

Danny Phantom: It sure looks interesting.

Me: Lets head in.

I opened the door and we went through it and we were in the world of Thanksgiving. We saw Thanksgiving Town and it was amazing! It was a town completely centered around all things Thanksgiving. Cornucopias, turkeys, pilgrims, food, everything that follows it. There was also corn, 17th century houses, fall autumn leaves, pilgrims, Indians, horses, everything.

Scrapper: So this is Thanksgiving Town.

Lincoln: Wow! It's so cool!

Laney: It's like we've gone back in time to the 17th Century to when the Pilgrims arrived in Plymouth, Massachusetts.

Jessie: I know. That was back in 1620. Almost 400 years ago.

Lisa: 399 years actually.

Me: 2020 is right around the corner.

We got to learning so much about what Thanksgiving was for and more.

---

Later we got a call from Men In Black Headquarters, we got word from Chief Zed that K was acting strange.

Qin: So what's going on Zed?

Zed: K has been acting strange. He thinks that Agent Alpha has come back and is up to no good.

Me: Who is Alpha?

Zed: He is the man that founded M.I.B.

Me: The big cheese. Why does he think that?

Zed: I'm afraid we don't know. But he have found out that he has stolen a Sintillian Heart.

Me: Oh man. They can live forever because of it.

William: I think Alpha is a traitor.

Zed: What makes you think so William?

William: Call it a hunch.

We went to Alpha's room.

Me: It's locked. It's DNA Encoded.

I touched the lock and it shocked me with a 20,000 volt shock.

Me: OW! Wow! They really have ways to keep intruders out.

William: Remember, Danny. You need to phase into Alpha's room to find physical evidence that he's a traitor.

Maria: But make sure he doesn't spot you.

Danny Phantom: Right.

Danny turned invisible and intangible and he went in and what he found was shocking.

He found all kinds of alien technology. But the shocking piece of Alien technology with him was that he had Troobian technology.

Danny: (sees what's in Alpha's room) That's Troobian tech! The others were right. Alpha is a traitor!

But Danny also found something else. It was a Cosmic Integrator.

Danny took it and came back. He handed it to me.

Me: What's this?

Danny: You guys were right. Alpha is a traitor. He has Troobian technology in his room as well as other kinds of alien tech.

We gasped and I looked at the device that he handed me and I recognized it.

Me: Oh fuck me sideways. This is a Xexionic Cosmic Integrator.

Agent K: That's the same one that Alpha showed me before he left me for dead.

Me: Alpha what have you become?

We went and told Zed about this.

We went after Alpha. He was in the basement of a hotel and we saw Chief ALPHA!

---

Between the 1950's and 1960's, Alpha helped form the organization MiB to monitor and police extraterrestrial activity on Earth, and has recruited many other agents, including Kay, to the cause. As the first Chief of MiB, he showed the ways to Kay. However, as time passes by, Alpha became corrupt and greedy, stealing a Cosmic Integrator, which was forbidden to be used in Earth for another thousand years according to MiB policy. He tried to get Kay to go with him, but Kay refuses to reject everything he taught him. Angered, Alpha shoots Kay, leaving him for dead.

For unknown reasons, Kay has survived being left for dead by Alpha, but this trauma has changed him into becoming the grouchy and humorless man he is. When this act of treachery became public to the MiB, Alpha was ousted from the MiB for his actions, leaving Zed to take over as the new Chief.

Branded as a criminal by his own organization, Alpha then goes into exile in outer space to avoid incarceration, and he spent 20 years searching the cosmos for the best alien parts. He would then use the Cosmic Integrator to put these body parts onto himself against the aliens' will. After these 20 years, Alpha came back, with only one thing in mind: revenge against the MiB.

First appearing in "The Alpha Syndrome", Alpha returned to Earth, and stole a Sintillian Heart from a alien at Hotel, He stayed there disguised as a MIB Agent, meets Jay (Claims to be Agent A), after telling Jay several things he asked him as he noticed he was K's partner if he was still Mr Happy, Jay commented as if A was being sarcastic. MiB soon catches on of his presence, and despite Zed's warning, Kay and Jay go to confront him. They find him with the heart, and he reveals his new form. After this there is a long fight, in which Alpha shoots the heart, and then disappears. Alpha later kidnaps the same Sintillian which he stole the heart, intending to use the other heart.

Kay finds Alpha alone, while Jay and Elle try to find them both, with the help of Jeebs. Using technology from Jeebs, Kay sees a flashback of Kay and Alpha finding the Cosmic Integrator off of some dead aliens. After watching, Jay knows that Alpha is back where he was in the flashback. Once again, Alpha is trying to get Kay to join him, again to no avail. Kay then attempts to release gas that would only kill him and Alpha, while the Sintillian, on the other hand, can breathe through it. However, he is forced to relent when Jay and Elle arrive, unwilling to sacrifice their lives. Alpha takes Jay hostage, and Elle and Kay run away. While trying to get Jay to join him, Jay melts, revealing to be a Quick Clone, leaving behind a bomb. The distraction allows Kay to rescue the Sintillian before the bomb sets off, destroying the while building. Alpha then dissapears, leaving the agents wondering about him.

In "The Heads You Lose Syndrome", Alpha was weakening horribly and his's alien attachments were falling apart. Alpha then forced Jack Jeebs to locate new replacement parts for him. After his attempt to steal a Gravalax arm, Jeebs told Alpha about Troy the Symbiote and how it could help him heal him and his attachment. After Jeebs gave MiB a "anonymous call", Alpha then separated Jay and Troy from Kay. Alpha then split Troy from Jay and then made Troy join him. Alpha and his attachments were then healed and he escaped to his secret lair. Alpha was then called by Jeebs about a special alien ship. When alpha got there he inspected the ship, but found out that it was trap by Kay and Elle, who are waiting for him. Alpha then locked Kay and Elle in the ship and then glued Jeebs to the ship. Alpha then had the ship plot a crash course at Mount Rushmore. After the ship took off, Alpha then left. Alpha was confronted by Jay and Troy's mother.

Jay and Alpha fought each other. Just as Alpha was about to finish of Jay and Troy's mother, Troy started to become one with Alpha. Troy's mother then joined with Alpha, but when she did, not only was Alpha was losing control of his body, but the alien attachments are being healed and grown of new bodies. As a result of this reaction, Alpha and his alien attachments then exploded, leaving the aliens to finally regain control of their bodies. Jay then merges back with Troy and his mother to save them while the former alien attachments could catch Alpha and make him pay for what he did to them, only to find out that he has disappeared. Though Alpha lost most of his attachments, he was able to get new parts starting with a Gravalax arm.

Alpha then returned in "The Quick Clone Syndrome", where Kay and Jay found him in the sewers when Bobo the Squat found something that did not belong there. Alpha was in a alien cocoon. Alpha's appearance had become larger than before. Kay tried to neutralize Alpha, but was subdue by him. Jay then pulled out his noisy cricket, but was then revealed to be a quick clone. After it melted Alpha escaped. Alpha then returned and picked up what remained of the quick clone. In a secret lair, Alpha used one of his alien offspring and mixed it with what remained of the Jay quick clone. Alpha then sent the rogue Jay quick clone to retrieve "intelligence" from Mib. The rogue Jay quick clone returns with Zed's still alive brain in a jar.

Alpha tried to access information from Zed, but could only get his memories of Old Yeller. Alpha then took Zed to a museum to look at Artwork that contained alien secrets. Kay and Jay then arrived. While Jay battle his rogue quick clone, Kay took on Alpha. During their fight, Alpha almost dropped Zed brain jar. Fortunately, Jay was able to catch it. Alpha then cut Jay in half and tried to get Zed's brain. Jay was then revealed to be another quick clone. Alpha is then surrounded by a army of Jay quick clones. Alpha then escaped once again.

In "The Blackguard Syndrome", Alpha, working with Jeebs' brother, Dak, tried to take the MiB Blackguard Satellite. Alpha and Dak failed in this attempt and Alpha went down plummeting to earth.

In "The Cold Sweat Syndrome", Alpha merged with Dak and the two tried to raise a ancient alien ship out of the Arctic.

In "The Out to Pasture Syndrome", Alpha returned with more power, but is later beaten down by Jay, who finally destroys his ultimate body, leaving Alpha as a frail old man. Having lost his power, Alpha demands to be finished off, but the MiB refused to do so and instead have Alpha arrested and locked up in a detainment cell for life.

In "The Opening Gambit Syndrome", Alpha was asked how he stopped Vangus from destroying Earth 30 years ago. He provided Agent J of several clues regarding to the invasion that was prevented 30 years ago, but this was all part of a plan of manipulation, which lead to Alpha escaping from MiB custody and possessing cybernetic parts for his frail body, becoming a cyborg before reuniting with Vangus. It is later revealed that Alpha convinced Vangus to delay the attack on Earth for the next 30 years before he was kicked out from MiB. In the end, Vangus got caught by MiB, but Alpha escaped.

In The Endgame Syndrome (Parts 1 and 2), the series finale of the animated series, Alpha arranges for Vangus to escape from MiB custody and plots with him to take over the Earth of its oil supplies. Due to the threat of this takeover and the destruction of the United Nations building as a result, the MIB then decides to reveal themselves to the world in order for the governments and their alien allies a good chance to fight back. Alpha has now used the cosmic integrator to the max, not even resembling his human self. He now is massive, and has alien and robotic parts attached. In the final battle, Jay and Kay try to intervene by infiltrating into Vangus' mother-ship, but are captured. Vangus, frustrated with the difficulty involved in conquering Earth, elects to simply destroy it and plunder its oil resources. This leads to a fight between Alpha (who wanted to rule the world, not destroy it) and Vangus, who later sets a missile to destroy the Earth before escaping.

Jay and Kay realize that they cannot stop the missile and that Alpha is the only one who has a chance to stop it. Still wanting to rule the Earth, Alpha agrees to disarm the missile to save the Earth using his cybernetic parts, taking on the thought of what happens if the MiB are to be living under his rule. He climbs down to the missile, but as he is working on disarming it, it launches towards Earth with Alpha still on it. Realizing that it's too late, Alpha accepts the fate that he and the Earth will ponder, stating that at least no one else will try to rule it. Fortunately, Jay and Kay shoot the missile just above the atmosphere, which causes it to detonate, finally destroying Alpha for good and saving the Earth.

Agent K: Alpha.

Alpha: Hello K.

Agent K: Been a long time.

Alpha: 20 years. Zed, How have you been?

Zed: Been doing okay Alpha. You're looking good.

Me: So you are the top chief, Agent Alpha. It's an honor to meet the top banana that started M.I.B.

Alpha: That's right. And it's an honor to meet you J.D. I've heard so much about you. So the famous Team Loud Phoenix Storm is now part of M.I.B.

Me: That's right. We joined and killed Edgar the Bug. You know your voice sounds just like Ra's Al Ghul's.

Alpha: Yes I do sound like him don't I?

Agent Zed: Agent K? Agent J? What's the meaning of this?

Agent J: Why don't you ask Alpha?

Crueger: (to Alpha) Should we go into your traitorous quarters now and show everyone where you keep your Troobian technology?

Me: We found a lot of stuff in your room. Including this.

I held up the Cosmic Integrator.

Me: Also, what do you want with a Sintillian Heart? Is your ticker acting up?

Alpha: That's right, you wouldn't know. I've done some personal re-modelings since me and K parted company. These days…

Alpha took off his black tuxedo and tie and we saw a horrible and gross transformation! He had 6 limbs come out of his back. Two of those limbs were the heads of aliens and the rest were tentacles. His neck grew longer and his arms had spikes on them and he had 3 more alien hands and 3 alien mouth arms and 4 more tentacles come out of his chest! He was a grotesque mutant monstrosity!

Alpha: I'm fully loaded!

Me: What in the 9 Fucking Levels of Hells have you turned yourself into!?

Laney: That is so disgusting!

Nico: He's a total freak!

Agent K: You've really gone off the deep end Alpha.

Alpha: Deep space. I've spent 20 years traveling the cosmos handpicking alien anatomies surgically enhancing myself. Becoming more powerful than any one alien. Or human.

Me: You've really fucked around with mother nature big time!

Varie: Yeah!

Shanan: You are a freak of nature!

Me: Lets see just how many aliens you merged with.

Me, Ben and Bella used our Omnitrix's and scanned him. What it revealed was shocking.

Omnitrix: 12,264 unknown DNA samples acquired. Scan complete.

Me: 12,264 Aliens!? You're an abomination!

Lincoln: More like a major freak!

Lori: This guy literally is a disgusting freak!

Lisa: I may be a scientist but even I wouldn't even stoop to using Aliens like that.

Dexter: Me neither.

Shanan looked at him and she identified the aliens he was merged with in her mind. She saw that he was merged with aliens from all over the Virgo Supercluster.

Me: I bet you that none of those parts came willingly Alpha.

Vipernan Head: Hey, I've got a human attached to me. Get me some wart remover.

Alpha: (Slaps it) Shut up.

Shanan: That's a Vipernan head you have there.

Alpha: That's correct. Got him from the planet Vipras in the Triangulum Galaxy.

Shanan: And the one on the other shoulder is a Orkekian Nekopede.

Alpha: Indeed. Got him from the planet Orkek in the Sombrero Galaxy.

Bella: You've been very busy Alpha.

Alpha: Indeed. To answer your previous question, the Sintillian Heart is going to make me immortal.

Shanan: Sintillian's can live forever.

Me: But you nearly killed K and now you will pay for your crimes against humanity, space and nature!

We powered up and transformed.

Ben: You might have a lot of aliens in your body.

Ben turned into Alien X.

Alien X: (Ben and 2 Other Voices) But not a Celestialsapian.

Megaforce Ranger: Legendary Ranger Mode: Royal Flush Squad!

The Megaforce Rangers turned into the J.A.K.Q. Rangers from 1977. Troy Burrows turned into the Spade Ace Ranger, Noah Carver turned into the Diamond Jack Ranger, Jake Halling turned into the Clover King Ranger, Emma Goodall turned into the Heart Queen Ranger, and Gia Moran turned into the Big Ace Ranger and Orion turned into the new Royal Flush Gold Ranger.

Nico: Alpha, you have failed this entire universe!

I snapped my fingers and we were now on the planet Shia. It was a desert planet located 1,165 Light-Years away from Earth and it was the perfect place for the fight.

Me: You're going down Alpha.

We powered up to the extreme and went at Alpha. I punched him in the face and he sent a Jamdabian Mouth at me and I dodged it and fired a powerful blast of energy and it hit it and blew it apart. But to our shock it regenerated back and I kicked him in the face and knocked him down. He sent two Linwistian Tentacles at me and Nico and we grabbed them and channelled electricity into them and electrocuted Alpha. Lincoln fired a powerful blast of lightning at Alpha and it hit him and electrocuted him. Laney and Lola fired a powerful blast of fire and burned him all over and Lana fired a powerful blast of ice lightning and froze some of his limbs off. Alpha fired a powerful blast of Exteremian Lightning at Lincoln from a mouth in his hand and it packed a 800 Quadrillion Volt wallop and he deflected it back and it hit Alpha and exploded. Lynn fired a powerful blast of lava at Alpha and it slammed into him and burned him all over. Nico took the Noisy Cricket and fired a powerful blast of energy and it hit Alpha's arm and blew it off. But the powerful recoil blew him into the air and he was flying. He stopped and used his strength to brace himself and fired multiple blasts and they it Alpha all over and blew him open. Alpha then went invisible. But I used my infrared vision and flushed him out and I punched him in the head and kicked him in the stomach and Alpha grew a Cryoxmanian Dragon and it fired a powerful blast of ice water at me and I fired a powerful blast of fire and the blasts collided and exploded. Rex Salazar slashed him with his Nanite Sword and Alpha fired a powerful blast of light energy from a Fexporm Hand mouth. I deflected the blast back with my scythe and it hit Alpha and blew him into a rock. He splattered all over the place. But he regenerated and pulled himself back together. We knew we had to resort to Total Obliteration. Troy Burrows fired his Spade Arts and the arrows hit Alpha all over and exploded. Noah Carver slashed him with his Dia Sword, Jake Halling smashed his head in with his Club Megaton, Emma Goodall slashed him all over with her Heart Cute and Gia Moran bashed him all over with her Big Baton and Orion lashed him all over with his Royal Flush Whip. Marinette smashed him with a new Lucky Charm, a powerful hammer. Ben as Alien X fired a powerful blast of cosmic energy and it hit Alpha and exploded. Bella used Ionstorm's powers and blasted holes into him. Lori blew him around in a powerful tornado of wind and Leni crushed him with a huge rock

Queen Bee: VENOM! (stings Alpha)

Alpha: You'll have to do better than that!

But then Alpha started puffing up!

Alpha: (In excruciating pain) WHAT!? WHAT'S HAPPENING TO ME!?

Queen Bee: My venom is deadly!

Me: And now you are forever disgraced! Lets finish him with Combos and Final Smashes.

Scrapper: Lets get him! CYBER KEY POWER!

The Earth Cyber Planet Key went into his back and it enhanced his shovel power and strength 100-fold.

Blackfire: Time for this Tameranean Warrior to strike you all over! TAMARAN CYBER KEY POWER!

The Tamaran Cyber Planet Key went into her right arm device and it enhanced her powers 100-fold.

Scrapper and Blackfire: FIRESTORM STAR SHOVEL SLASH!

Scrapper slashed him all over with his shovel and Blackfire fired powerful star bolts all over him and they hit him and exploded.

G1 Silverbolt: Time for this bird to strike! CYBER KEY POWER!

The Autobot Cyber Planet Key went into his back and it enhanced his Electrostatic Discharge Rifle 100-fold.

Whenua: Now you will feel the power of the Earth! METRU-NUI CYBER KEY POWER!

The Metru-Nui Cyber Planet Key went into his right arm device and it enhanced his powers 100-fold.

G1 Silverbolt and Whenua: LIGHTNING BOULDER SLAMSTORM!

Whenua threw a bunch of rocks and G1 Silverbolt fired a powerful blast of lightning and they all hit Alpha and exploded all over.

Me: Time to finish you for good Alpha! You may have the powers of over 12,000 aliens, but not even all those aliens will be enough to stand up to us.

Alien X: I agree. ZVEZDA SPACE STARSTORM!

Alien X fired a powerful blast of energy and it slammed into Alpha and exploded all over.

Agent J: Time for this agent to blow you apart. NOISY CRICKET FIRESTORM BURST!

Agent J fired a powerful blast of energy from his Noisy Cricket and it hit Alpha and exploded.

Lisa Loud: It's time to destroy this ugly extraterrestrial abomination. POSITRON MEGABLAST DEATH RAY!

Lisa Loud fired a powerful Positron Death Ray and it hit Alpha and exploded.

Chloe: Time for you to feel the sting. VENOMOUS MIRACULOUS STING!

Chloe fired a powerful blast of energy from her hands and it hit Alpha and poisoned him.

Me: Time for this wolf to bring the moon of justice. WOLF FIRE DEATH BURST!

I fired a powerful blast of dark blue fire from my hand and it hit Alpha and it completely obliterated him in an instant. There was nothing left of him.

Me: That's it for Alpha. Burn in hell you freak of nature.

Agent J: That was awesome!

Me: Thanks J.

We went back to Earth.

Agent J: (To the viewers) You mess with Earth and M.I.B., you will mess with Team Loud Phoenix Storm.

Me: You said it J. But great job.

Chloe: (To the viewers) The power of the Miraculous works awesomely with Team Loud Phoenix Storm. It's awesome and Nico did a great job recruiting all of us onto the team.

Me: He sure did.

We then went back to the estate and we had an awesome Thanksgiving Dinner.

THE END

Another Awesome Fanfiction complete and another holiday and 2nd M.I.B. villain destroyed.

Alpha of M.I.B. the Series was a monster and a terrifying freak of nature! He integrated numerous aliens into himself and it was disgusting! David Warner did a great job voicing him though.

NicoChan11 gave me the idea. Thanks man. Let me know what you think. Next up is Scooby Doo in Abracadabra Doo and we're going to face a real Gryphon and tame it. Have a great Thanksgiving to you all and eat a lot of turkey.

See you all next time.

Night of The Gryphon

At the estate in Gotham Royal York in Michigan, Alya was showing us the website that she made. It was called Ladyblog. The Ladyblog is a blog created by Alya Césaire about Ladybug. On the blog, Alya uploads information about Ladybug, including, but not limited to, the traditional cultural symbolism of ladybugs, theories on Ladybug's origin and the source of her powers, interviews from people who have interacted with Ladybug in various contexts, and attempts to discover Ladybug's secret identity.

Maria: So, this is the Ladyblog?

Alya: It sure is. I made this website to spread the word about the awesome good deeds about Ladybug.

Me: That's really cool.

Nico: It sure is. I went onto this website before and that's how I found out about Ladybug and what they were doing in Paris.

Laney: So that's how you found out about Team Ladybug and how you met them.

Lincoln: That is amazing.

Alya: Before the truth about Lila was revealed, I was deceived into making posts about her lies on the Ladyblog.

Mewtwo: It's ok, Alya. No one is blaming you for that.

Alya: Well, I blamed myself. But those posts hae been taken down. I put an apology in their place.

Me: It's not your fault Alya. It's like with Tabloid Magazines. They give the people what they want.

Alya: That's true.

Juleka: But it is an amazing site.

Me: Were you all shocked that Marinette is also Ladybug?

Chloe: I sure was.

Alya: It was cool that she is also Ladybug.

Me: Yeah and now everyone in Paris knows about you all being Team Ladybug.

Lucy Loud: I think it's really cool myself.

Ben: I see you posted J.D.'s announcement to Paris and the speeches that followed afterwards.

Alya: Yep. This will not only ensure that Adrien's Dad won't receive hate for his crimes but it'll also ensure the public that J.D. will never become a corrupt hero.

Me: That's awesome! I don't know what I was thinking saying that back then. I was just under a lot of pressure from trying to prevent myself from killing Hawk Moth. At least it'll show that we are not like the Justice Lords. But I don't think Justice Lord Superman will agree.

Nico: Yep. We all were under a lot of pressure back then.

Mixmaster: Yep. We saw your blog. Now, it's time for you to see ours.

Me: Yep.

I went onto the computer and showed Alya our website. It was Team Loud Phoenix Storm Blog and it was an amazing website that showed pictures of all the villains we destroyed, all the villains we captured, their mugshots, and all our adventures and how we defeated all the villains and there were also video clips on all our fights and adventures.

Alya: Wow! Your website is incredible.

Me: Yep. We built it to show the world our adventures across all of the universe and how we defeat all the villains and protect everyone.

Nico: Yep.

Kim: Hey where's Leni?

Me: Oh she's over at the mall.

Hot Spot: Isn't Black Friday today?

Me: It sure is. This is the busiest and most hectic shopping day of the year.

Nico: Oh yeah. The Day after Thanksgiving.

Me: Lets head over to the mall and join the shopping.

We went over to the Mall.

GOTHAM ROYAL YORK MALL

We went and joined Leni over at Gotham Royal York mall.

Leni: It was totes nice of you all to join me.

Me: No problem Leni. We wouldn't miss out on an awesome shopping day like this. Last time we did it was in the Early Morning Hours and when we came back home, we were really exhausted.

Laney: I remember that. You guys were running on fumes.

We laughed at Laney's joke.

Luan: (Laughs) Good one Laney.

Me: That is true though. Christmas is next month and it's gonna be so awesome to see Christmas Town when we go there. Now that Oogie Boogie will never terrorize the holidays again, we can visit and learn about all the holidays.

Alix: We sure can.

Then an owl flew over us.

Me: An owl.

A letter landed in my hands.

Me: It's from Whirlin Merlin Magic Academy.

Harry Potter: (British Accent) An invitation to Whirlen Merlin Magic Academy? This sounds familiar.

I opened the letter and read it.

Me: "Dear Team Loud Phoenix Storm,

You all have cordially been invited to a special dinner for the grand reopening of the Whirlin Merlin Magic Academy in Boundary County, Idaho. There will be food, dancing, and an awesome magic show.

Sincerely Whirlin Merlin."

Whoa! Boundary County is right by the United States-Canada Border. It's right in the old O'Flannery Castle. It's owner Seamus O'Flannery brought the castle over here in America.

Laney: I've heard about that! That is so cool!

Lola: I love magic! It's so awesome!

Me: Daphne and all of Mystery Inc. sent an email to me about that. They are going over to that castle to help Madelyn investigate why a Gryphon is terrorizing that castle.

Laney: A Gryphon? Like the ones in Medieval Myth?

Charlie Thorn: That's really interesting. Is it like the Garuda?

Me: No Chip. This is completely different. The Gryphon is a mythical creature from Ancient Egyptian, Persian and Renaissance Myth. It's a creature that's half Eagle, half Lion. The Garuda is the spirit of the Sky from Hindu, Buddhist and Jain Myth. It's half man, half eagle and is often called the King of The Birds.

Lana: That's a major difference.

Lisa: Indeed it is.

Charlie Thorn: That is an interesting fact.

Alix: Oh man! We get to look for clues just like in all the past Scooby Doo Mysteries! How sweet is that?

Me: It's awesome Alix. We helped Mystery Inc. solve a lot of mysteries and we have an awesome museum dedicated to their achievements.

Lynn: Not only that but we also put all of the criminals they busted behind bars for the rest of their lives.

Me: Well that's a story for another time. Lets head over to Idaho guys!

Everyone: YEAH!

We were off to Idaho!

---

O'FLANNERY CASTLE, NORTHERN IDAHO

---

We were flying to the castle.

Me: Harry, when you all went to Hogwarts, you all have had a lot of encounters with Mythological Creatures right?

Harry Potter: We sure have J.D. We saw a lot of dragons, gryphons, phoenixes and mermaids and all kinds of creatures.

Me: Awesome.

We heard an eagle screech and we saw at O'Flannery Castle a huge Gryphon! It was a big creature that was incredible!

Me: WOW!

Nico: Look at the size of that Gryphon!

Me: It's huge! But it's a real Gryphon!

Alix: It's not a fake?

Me: No, this is a real gryphon! I can sense it.

Maria: Wow!

Laney: It's a magnificent creature.

Lana: It sure is.

Lola: It looks like a beautiful princess creature.

Lincoln: It is from Medieval Myth.

Me: Lets weaken it and tame it!

We went at it.

Megaforce Ranger: Legendary Ranger Mode: Secret 5 Force!

The Megaforce Rangers turned into the first ever Power Rangers from Japan that aired in 1977. Troy Burrows turned into the Red Akarenger, Noah Carver turned into the blue Aorenger, Jake Halling turned into the Green Midorenger, Gia Moran turned into the Yellow Kirenger, Emma Goodall turned into the Pink Momorenger and Orion turned into a new ranger for the group called the Gold Aurenger.

Chip Thorn: Time for some magic power! LEGENDARY SOURCE, MYSTIC FORCE!

Chip Thorn turned into the Yellow Mystic Force Ranger!

Chip Thorn: (Echoing) ELEMENT OF LIGHTNING! LEGENDARY YELLOW RANGER!

Me: Lets show this bird some Mystic Power!

I formed my Legendary Mystic Staff.

I fired a powerful blast of Star Energy from my staff and the blast hit the Gryphon and exploded all over.

Charlie Thorn: (aims Magi Staff in crossbow mode at Gryphon) Ready… aim… fire! (shoots)

He fired powerful blasts of lightning at the gryphon and they hit him and electrocuted him. Lola fired blasts of fire at the gryphon and burned it. Laney tied it in vines. Troy Burrows lashed the gryphon with his Red Bute, Noah Carver fired an arrow from his Blue Bute and the arrow hit the Gryphon and exploded, Jake Halling threw his Midoboomerang and it hit the Gryphon and cut it all over, Gia Moran fired a powerful blast of her Infrasonic Wave Beam and it hit the Gryphon and exploded, Emma Goodall fired her Momoearrings and it hit the Gryphon and exploded in a powerful explosion and Orion fired his gold spear and the blast hit the Gryphon and exploded.

Me: Now lets tame this beast with our combos and Final Smashes!

Mixmaster: You got it boss! CYBER KEY POWER!

The Gigantion Cyber Planet Key went into his back and enhanced his mixing drum 100-fold.

Mewtwo: I'll show this monster some psychic powers. ANIMATRON CYBER KEY POWER!

The Animatron Cyber Planet Key went into Mewtwo's right arm device and it enhanced his powers and abilities 100-fold.

Mixmaster and Mewtwo: PSYCHIC CEMENT BOMB!

Mixmaster fired a powerful blast of cement and Mewtwo fired a powerful blast of psychic energy and threw it at the Gryphon and it slammed into it.

Hot Spot: Time for the heat! CYBER KEY POWER!

The Earth Cyber Planet Key went into his back and enhanced his fireball cannon 100-fold.

Ben: Lets give this guy some Omnitrix power! OMNITRIX CYBER

KEY POWER!

The Omnitrix Cyber Planet Key went into Ben's Omnitrix and it enhanced all his powers of the aliens 100-fold and it permanently unlocked Ultimate Ben! He activated the powers of Buzzshock.

Hot Spot and Ben: PYROSTORM ELECTRIC BURN!

Hot Spot and Ben fired a powerful blast of fire and Lightning and burned and electrocuted the gryphon.

Me: Lets get a final smash in!

Crystal (Scooby Doo): Like, you got it J.D.! PRISM RAY CRYSTAL BEAM!

Crystal fired a powerful beam of rainbow light from her hand and it hit the Gryphon and burned it.

Shaggy: Like thought you might like some help.

Me: We owe you one guys.

Vida Rocca: This is gonna be interesting. FAIRY WIND BUTTERFLY STORM!

Vida Rocca fired a powerful kaleidoscope of butterflies made of pure wind and it spun around the gryphon.

Lincoln: Lets see how it likes lightning! LIGHTNING STORM DRAGONFIRE!

Lincoln fired a powerful blast of lightning and it turned into a powerful dragon of lightning and it hit the gryphon and electrocuted it.

Charlie Thorn: Lets do it! LIGHTNING GARUDA ELECTROCUTION!

Charlie Thorn fired a powerful blast of lightning and electrocuted the gryphon.

Alya: Lets get this Gryphon! FOXFIRE FLUTE SLASH!

Alya fired a powerful blast of blue fire and it hit the Gryphon and knocked him out.

Me: That did it!

Laney used her abilities to tame the creature. We then saw another gryphon! But Lana smelled that it was a fake one! She fired a powerful blast of ice lightning at the fake one and shattered it into a million pieces. We saw who was operating it and it was Marlon Whirlin! Tired of doing all the real work but getting none of the credit, Marlon decided to use his puppets and illusions to become a famous magician himself, but he needed money to start and the only way was to get Whirlen to sell the castle. So Marlon had his gryphon puppet scare everyone away. He apologized for everything he did. But Whirlin forgave Marlon and he was accepted back.

Crystal (Scooby Doo): (to Marlon) Well, I'm glad you've learned your lesson.

Marlon: Yes and thank you all for meddling.

Me: (Laughs) That's the first time someone said that. But you're welcome.

Crystal (Scooby Doo): (To the viewers) Magic is so awesome and it can be used as an awesome power.

Me: It sure can.

We had an awesome dinner and Shaggy made all kinds of food. He and Scooby made awesome Funky Fritters for the dinner. It was an awesome food. Nuclear Hot spicy and they were really good and tasty. We had an awesome dinner and magic show.

The Good Old Hero Days

In the middle of the North Sea in between England and Denmark, was the toughest and most dangerous maximum security prison that ever exists in the world of Wizardry: It's the Wizarding World's version of Alcatraz that is reserved for the worlds most dangerous and more evil wizards: AZKABAN.

---

Azkaban is a fortress on an island in the middle of the North Sea. It serves the magical community of Great Britain as a prison for convicted criminals. Azkaban was built in the 15th century and it has been in use as a detention facility since 1718. Using certain Charms, Azkaban is hidden from the Muggle world, and is Unplottable.

As of Eldritch Diggory's visit in the 1730s or 1740s, a graveyard had been established on the island to accommodate those who have died in the prison. Most of the prisoners inside its walls died of despair, having lost the will to live. This is due to the presence of Dementor guards on the island. Dementors drain people of all happiness and leave them with their worst memories. Long-term exposure usually lead to insanity and even death.

While other wizarding prisons exist, such as Nurmengard (which was used exclusively to hold its creator Gellert Grindelwald's enemies and eventually himself), Azkaban is the only known fortress to be the "official" holding ground for British wizarding criminals.

The island in the North Sea on which the wizard prison is built has never appeared on any map, wizard or Muggle. It's first known resident, Ekrizdis, practised the worst kinds of Dark magic and constructed a fortress on the island, luring Muggle sailors there to torture and murder them. After his death, the various concealment charms placed on the island faded, and the Ministry of Magic became aware of the mysterious site's existence. Those who entered the deserted fortress to investigate discovered, among other horrors, an infestation of Dementors. The wizarding authorities of the time considered destroying the fortress, but, fearing reprisal by the dark entities or the island itself, decided against such action, and the Ministry allowed the sizeable colony to remain; the island was thus left unmolested and unchecked for many years, perhaps decades, until the International Statute of Secrecy was established.

Due to the impracticality of using small, local prisons, which could result in bangs, smells and light shows if inmates escaped, plans for a single, purpose-built wizarding prison on some remote Hebridean island were made at the passing of the International Statute of Secrecy. However, when Damocles Rowle was elected Minister for Magic in 1718, he insisted on using Azkaban instead, seeing the Dementors as a potential asset: putting them to work as guards would save expense, time, and lives. This plan was eventually put into motion and, despite protests, Azkaban remained the prison of the wizarding world until the end of the Second Wizarding War, primarily due to its zero breakout rate. From that point on, the Dementors served the Ministry as the guards of Azkaban, as the arrangement allowed them to feed on the emotions of the prisoners within its walls. Opposition to the use of Azkaban did manifest, however.

Somewhere between 1733 and 1747 Minister Eldritch Diggory visited Azkaban, and was horrified at the inhumane levels of despair and insanity that the Dementors induced in the prisoners. He formed a committee to find alternative solutions or mitigating measures, the least of which was to remove the Dementors; even this, however, met opposition from those who feared a mainland invasion if the Dementors were deprived of their food source. Diggory died of Dragon Pox while in office, and thus the campaign to find an alternative to Azkaban's Dementors stalled. Reversing his predecessor's position, when Minister Hesphaestus Gore took office, the prison was renovated and reinforced. No serious opposition to the continued use of the prison arose in the next few centuries, and no Minister considered closing the prison until the Minister of Magic Kingsley Shacklebolt began major reforms of the entire Ministry in 1998.

Since 1717, using any of the three Unforgivable Curses on another human being has carried the punishment of a life sentence in Azkaban (unless there is sufficient evidence that the caster did so under the influence of the Imperius Curse, or legal exceptions made by the Ministry of Magic as in the case of Aurors in the First Wizarding War).

It was during the First Wizarding War that Bartemius Crouch Senior, Head of the Department of Magical Law Enforcement at the time, sentenced many suspects to Azkaban without a trial. While this allowed many Death Eaters to be imprisoned without giving them a chance to escape by manipulating courts, it also resulted in wrongful imprisonment of innocents, such as Sirius Black. Many citizens of the magical community supported this move, due to the terror of Lord Voldemort gripping the nation; it was only when the war ended and peace began to sink in did people saw Crouch's actions were too harsh. It was also during the first war that Alastor Moody, famous Auror, captured many Death Eaters, which resulted in "half the cells in Azkaban are full thanks to him".

During the Second Wizarding War, in which the Death Eaters took over the Ministry, the prison also fell into their usage. They released all of their comrades and falsely cleared them, while sentencing many innocent Muggle-borns and other enemies of theirs to Azkaban under sham trials and trumped-up charges. Also, the Dementors were given more areas to reign upon than simply guarding the inmates. Some Muggle-borns did not survive the ordeal in Azkaban, a reason why Dolores Umbridge was given a life sentence after the Death Eaters were defeated.

Azkaban earned a reputation as a horrific place, mostly due to the Dementors. Because of these creatures, most prisoners eventually went insane and slowly died under the Dementors' depressive influence, having lost their will to live and even stopped eating. Even those who survived to be released would remain traumatised by their experiences within the prison: Marvolo Gaunt was left heavily weakened during his six-month sentence, which may have been a contributing factor to his early death, while Rubeus Hagrid can remember how miserable he was there even long after his release. Even Sirius Black and Bellatrix Lestrange's physical appearances are tell tale signs of their deterioration within the prison, losing most of their great aristocratic looks. The Dementors' primary concern was their supply of human emotions to feed upon and, disregarding the prisoners' release terms, seemed unhappy to let them go. However, many denizens of the wizarding community remained happy that it was the Dementors who guard the prisoners, believing that they are what keeps these dangerous people inside the remote fortress. On the other hand, there had been many who opposed the idea of keeping Lord Voldemort's most dangerous followers in the hands of such dark creatures, fearing that their loyalty could easily be swayed to Voldemort's side through bargains of which the Ministry could not compete with, perhaps one day handing the prisoners the key to their unjust freedom.

Azkaban was guarded by Dementors until most of them revolted and joined Lord Voldemort. As a result, Voldemort's Death Eaters escaped together to rejoin their master in both 1996 and 1997.

There is most likely an Anti-Apparition jinx on Azkaban; if there were not, wizards and witches could simply Apparate from the prison to the outside world. However, since it is debatable that most witches and wizards need a wand to Apparate, this may be irrelevant, as none of the prisoners maintain possession of their wands. Most of the prisoners would barely have had enough strength to Apparate anyway, as the mere presence of Dementors, particularly in large numbers, inhibits the use of magical powers.

Before the Dementors' revolt, the only people ever to escape the prison were Barty Crouch Jr and Sirius Black, in 1982 and 1993, respectively. Barty Crouch Jr was smuggled out by his father, Barty Crouch Sr., and replaced by his dying mother using Polyjuice Potion, while Sirius was able to escape by changing into his Animagus form of a dog. Another mass breakout occurred in 1997 (most likely in the summer) but was covered up by the Ministry for political reasons.

There is a graveyard on the island outside the wall of Azkaban where the Dementors buried prisoners who died. However, if the dead prisoner has a relative who is not a criminal, the relative in question has the right to pick up the corpse for a proper burial, as Barty Crouch Snr had the right to pick up the body that was disguised as his son, though he chose not to due to fear of being exposed of committing a jailbreak.

Although the prison is in the middle of the ocean with iron walls protecting it, it was unnecessary to keep prisoners inside, as Remus Lupin stated, because the prisoners were already trapped in their own heads due to the intense depression caused by the Dementors. As Sirius indicated, most prisoners went insane after a short while, and some even stopped eating, preferring death to their lives within Azkaban.

Visits to the island are heavily restricted, as only respectable Ministry officials were noted to be allowed to visit with any possible relatives. An example is when Barty Crouch Snr and his wife were allowed a deathbed visit to their imprisoned son due to the former's high status in the government; they took advantage of this privilege to smuggle Barty Jr out of prison. The Minister for Magic is also allowed to visit the prison, as to check out on certain prisoners on their conditions, as Cornelius Fudge did on Sirius Black. Arthur Weasley visited Azkaban on business once.

After the end of the Second Wizarding War and Kingsley Shacklebolt's appointment as Minister for Magic in 1998, Dementors were no longer employed as guards of Azkaban. This was likely because they had proven to be untrustworthy, and because the depression and madness their presence caused in prisoners was considered inhumane.

Ever since they were removed, Aurors have been guarding the prison, taking turns so that a certain number of Aurors are assigned to stand guard, before leaving to return to fieldwork, with other Aurors taking their place. It is unknown how many surviving Voldemort supporters and Death Eaters were imprisoned in the aftermath. Them aside, any Ministry officials who knowingly and willingly went with Voldemort's ideologies during the time when the Ministry was under his control, mainly the Muggle-Born Registration Commission, were sentenced to Azkaban, the most prominent being Dolores Umbridge, for her crimes against humanity (and, more specifically, Muggle-borns). The new security system has proven effective, as no breakouts have occurred since it was implemented, until 2020 in which Rodolphus Lestrange escaped a third time, to report to his wife's illegitimate daughter about her heritage and destiny.

---

Me and Nico were at the front gates of Azkaban and it was a terrifying place.

Me: Wow. So this is Azkaban and it's way out here in the middle of the North Sea.

Nico: Yeah. Hard to believe that no one know's it's out here.

Me: Yeah. And we're going to do the world a huge favor and kill all of Voldemort's followers and send all of their fucking butts off to hell.

Nico: Yep. I can't believe the Ministry Of Magic Council agreed with this.

Me: Was there ever any doubt?

---

45 minutes ago, me and Nico went into the chamber of the Ministry Of Magic and we were standing before the Supreme Wizard Tribunal.

Head Elder Wizard: (British Accent) Ah welcome J.D. Knudson.

Me: Greetings to you all honorable council of magic. I apologize for not coming to visit you all in a while. We've been out saving the world and the universe.

Head Elder Wizard: That is quite all right. Who is this with you?

Me: Oh I apologize. This is one of my best friends and one of my 2nd In Command.

Nico: Pleasure to meet you all. I'm Nicolas Chan, but everyone calls me Nico. I'm one of the 2nd in command of Team Loud Phoenix Storm.

Head Elder Wizard: It's an honor and pleasure to meet you Master Nico.

Nico: Same to you.

Me: We apologize for calling this meeting. But it's very important.

2nd Elder Wizard: (British Accent) What does it entail?

I pulled out a scroll given to me by Albus Dumbledore and what it had was interesting. It was a powerful document for a rule called Doctrine 62: "Azkaban Dark Wizard Execution" and it was to execute the following evil wizards immediately:

ANTONIN DOLOHOV

JUGSON

BELLATRIX LESTRANGE

RODOLPHUS LESTRANGE

LUCIOUS MALFOY

MULCIBER

NOTT

AUGUSTUS ROOKWOOD

Elder Head Wizard: This is a very powerful document J.D. May I ask what Albus wants with the deaths of all these evil wizards?

Me: We found out that Lord Voldemort and his Death Eaters are going to return.

Everyone gasped.

Me: I know this is a huge shock. But I have knowledge of future events that are going to take place and we have to make sure that he doesn't return.

I showed them all the events of the future and what they saw was all shocking!

Head Elder Wizard: I can't believe this. He Who Must Not Be Named is going to return and all these wizards are to blame for his return?

2nd Elder Wizard: This is a nightmare. I see why you are trying to kill all these wizards: It's to make sure that they don't resurrect him.

Me: That's correct honorable council. I know this is very shocking. But if we don't kill all of Voldemort's followers, he will return and he will plunge the whole planet into chaos by causing the genocide of all of the muggles in the name of Salazar Slytherin. 7.3 Billion of them. He calls it the noble work of Salazar Slytherin. I call it cold-blooded murder and acts of terrorism and genocide. The ultimate acts of pure evil are genocide and murder.

Head Elder Wizard: I can't argue with you there. And if all this will happen when Voldemort returns, then the world will be in terrible danger. Lets vote on this. All in favor of executing Doctrine 62: Azkaban Dark Wizard Execution, say Aye.

Council: Aye!

We saw all the hands go up.

Head Elder Wizard: Anyone oppose? Say Nay.

No one opposed.

Head Elder Wizard: It's unanimous. You have permission to execute those monsters.

Me: With pleasure honorable council.

Nico: We'll make them pay.

Head Elder Wizard: You two are dismissed. We appreciate you telling us this and thank you all for bringing back Hogwarts and all those senselessly killed by Voldemort.

Me: It was our pleasure honorable council.

We left.

FLASHBACK ENDS

Me: You ready Nico?

Nico: Always ready buddy.

Me and Nico flared up our auras and the Dementors followed us. We went into Azkaban and it was a horrifying prison. It was like stepping through the Gates Of Hell! We walked all around the prison and fired energy blasts at the prisoners we got permission to execute and we were blasting them. The Dementors were using the Dementors Kiss on some of them and they were sucking their souls out and sending them off to Hell. I killed Antonin Dolohov, Jugson and Bellatrix Lestrange. Nico killed Rodolphus Lestrange and Lucious Malfoy and the Dementors killed the rest.

Me: You fucking wizard scum have failed this world and this universe.

Nico: Hey! That was my line!

Me: Well you were gonna say it anyway buddy.

Nico: Yeah that's true.

Me: If Voldemort is watching this, he can take all his fucking followers with him to Hell. But now we have another task down the road.

Nico: What is it?

Me: We have to find and destroy the 7 Horcruxes of Lord Voldemort. They are special artifacts that have pieces of his soul inside him. When Voldemort killed all those people in cold blood, he had a piece of his soul transferred into an artifact and because of that, his spirit is forever trapped in Limbo. He can't even go into the afterlife until all 7 Horcruxes are found and destroyed.

Nico: What are the artifacts that have been turned into Horcruxes?

Me: They are Tom Riddle's Diary, Helga Hufflepuff's Cup, Rowena Ravenclaw's Diadem, Salazar Slytherin's Locket, Marvolo Gaunt's Ring, and Voldemort's pet snake Nagini.

Nico: That's only 6 of them.

Me: Yes. But the 7th Horcrux is Harry Potter himself.

Nico gasped.

Nico: But how?

Me: When Voldemort killed Lily and James Potter, he made Harry Potter the 7th Horcrux by giving him the Lightning Bolt shape scar on his forehead.

Nico: That's beyond ultimate evil!

Me: It is. But I managed to get rid of the fragment of Voldemort's soul inside him. It was because of Voldemort's soul fragment that he was able to speak the language of the snakes: Parseltongue.

Nico: So that's how he was able to talk to Lana's snake like that.

Me: Yeah.

FLASHBACK 2

Lana had Harry Potter in her room.

Lana: Hey Harry I read all your books and watched all your movies and they were so awesome! I read from Harry Potter and the Chamber of Secrets that you were able to speak in Parseltongue.

Harry Potter: (British Accent) I sure can Lana. It was because of Voldemort that I have this power.

Lana: Can you show me by talking to El Diablo?

Harry Potter: I sure can.

Lana brought out El Diablo and Harry Potter spoke in Parseltongue. It was a strange language and it was really cool. He said "My name is Harry Potter." The snake said "It's a pleasure to meet you Harry."

Lana: That is so cool!

Harry Potter: Thank you Lana.

Me: I agree. But I found out something terrifying.

I revealed that Harry Potter was made a Horcrux when Voldemort killed his parents. The scar acts as a connection with him and Lord Voldemort. I used my magic on him to sever the connection. It destroyed the connection and the scar remained. I also destroyed the portion of the soul that was inside him.

FLASHBACK 2 ends.

Nico: My god. That is awful. But thank goodness that didn't kill him for good.

Me: Yeah. So we have 6 more Horcruxes to destroy.

Nico: Yep.

We later went back home.

Back home, Qin was cuddling Kirby.

Qin: (cuddles Kirby) You're just so cute, Kirby.

Maria: Hey! Don't hog Kirby all to yourself.

Maria was cuddling Kirby as well.

Kirby: I know I'm a cute guy.

William: Hey, Kirby. How about you tell Qin about your origin story?

Kirby: Good idea.

Kirby went over his history.

---

Kirby is a small, pink, spherical alien with red feet, stubby flap-like arms and pink cheek-blushes. He is referred to as male in the animated series, and described as a young boy in the instruction manual for Kirby's Dream Land. His body is soft and flexible, allowing him to stretch his mouth to inhale foes or inflate himself with air and float. According to Super Smash Bros. instruction manual, he is 8 inches tall; this is contradicted in Kirby's Dream Land 3 and Kirby 64: The Crystal Shards, the former of which shows Kirby to be at about knee height compared to Samus Aran and the latter of which showing him to be a few inches shorter than the human girl Adeleine.

Kirby hails from the country of Dream Land on Planet Popstar, where he lives in a domed house. His appearance has changed subtly over the years, becoming more rounded and defined, mainly in his face and larger eyes. The new design has been used in all subsequent games.

Kirby does not commonly speak, mainly limited to grunts, shouts, and monosyllables in such games as Super Smash Bros and Kirby 64: The Crystal Shards. However he does speak in the stories written in some games' instruction manuals. He rarely speaks in-game, the only exception being Kirby's Avalanche. He narrates the functions of Copy Abilities on the start menu in Kirby: Nightmare in Dream Land, Kirby & the Amazing Mirror and Kirby: Squeak Squad. Most in-game talking Kirby does is in Kirby's Star Stacker, where Kirby explains the game's rules and gameplay. Kirby has dialogue in Kirby's Epic Yarn, but it is all spoken through the game's narrator.

Qin: Wow! That's amazing!

Maria: You have an amazing history.

Lily Loud: 27 years worth of history. His first game came out in 1992.

Lana: That is awesome!

Lily Loud: Back in the old days, King Dedede used to be Kirby's arch nemesis.

Maria: I remember that.

Wildrider: Kirby, exactly how old are you right now?

Kirby: Lets see. I would say that I am 7 years old.

Everyone gasped in shock.

Laney: Wow! 7-Years Old!

Tiff: That is amazing!

Me and Nico came back.

Me: We're back.

Lana: Hey guys.

Nico: All of Voldemort's followers are dead.

Me: And burning in hell.

Lana: Good riddance.

Me: Yep.

Later we were watching an old show from my past: Challenge of the Super Friends. The Super Friends were what the Justice League was called before they were called that. They consisted of Superman, Batman, Robin, Green Lantern, Hawkman, Wonder Woman, The Flash, Aquaman, and three heroes we haven't met yet: Apache Chief, Black Vulcan and Samurai.

---

As originally aired, this season an adventure with Superman, Batman and Robin, Wonder Woman, Aquaman, and the Wonder Twins, similar to those that had aired the previous season in The All-New Super Friends Hour. Thanks to these episodes being shown using the opening credits of the All-New Super Friends Hour in syndication.

Second segment

The second segment of this season featured Challenge of the Super Friends, a 16 episode series that came the closest to the comic books. Not only did Challenge have the Justice League of America, it was the first official Super Friends series to feature DC Super Villains from the comics. And this series had 13 of them together as an alliance called the Legion of Doom. Superman foes like Lex Luthor, Brainiac, Toyman, and Bizarro, and Batman foes like the Riddler and Scarecrow. The Legion of Doom dwelled in a murky swamp and launched their attacks for global conquest from a sinister looking, swamp-based, mechanical, flying headquarters, called the Hall of Doom (which resembled Darth Vader's helmet) as a suitable contrast with the Super Friends' gleaming Hall of Justice. Every week, the Legion schemed to either get rid of or destroy the Super Friends so they can conquer the world. The Super Friends themselves consisted of 11 Justice League heroes. The first segment alone being used with the Challenge of Super Friends opening, and confused references to the show it is often mistakenly believed that the first and second segments were two separate shows.

---

And together they face a Legion Of Doom that is considered really incompetent. They faced Lex Luthor,

---

Lex Luthor is the founder and CEO of LexCorp. He grew to resent Superman when he stole his spotlight as Metropolis' savior, and usually invested heavily in some of the Man of Steel's greatest foes, such as Metallo and Livewire. He sought to kill Superman for shutting down his major operations and costing him a lot of money. Although Superman already put away many of Luthor's co-conspirators, he could never convict Luthor himself due to lack of evidence. He was also known for his betrayals on many associates, causing many to leave LexCorp; the only one left was Mercy Graves. Lex also is shown to hate Batman as well, as he is an intellectual rival who teamed up with Superman to fight him when he and Joker teamed up, preventing Superman from being killed by Joker's kryptonite in the process. In Legacy, he was thrilled, the whole world turned against Superman when Darkseid brainwashed him and let him loose to take over and invade Earth. But Superman snapped out of it and earned the world's trust back and dismissed the charges against him.

Justice League

Luthor later fought the Justice League, but was subsequently defeated, exposed as a crook, and sentenced to prison. He also learned that he had a terminal form of radiation poisoning as a result of carrying around a chunk of Kryptonite for years, leaving him with only a few more months to live. He then joined up with Cheetah, Star Sapphire, Shade, Copperhead (who would be in jail and replaced by theJoker), Solomon Grundy and Ultra-Humanite, forming the Injustice Gang, in an attempt take down the Justice League, but failed. Luthor later "redeemed" himself by aiding the Justice League in defeating the Justice Lords and was given a full pardon.

Justice League Unlimited

After being freed from prison and cleared of all charges, Luthor reestablished his company and later entered politics and ran in the U.S. Presidential Elections. However, still bent on destroying Superman, he created Project Cadmus and succeeded in ruining the Justice League's reputation twice: once by causing Superman and Captain Marvel to fight each other, causing great destruction in the city, and again by taking control of the Watchtower's orbital cannon and causing it to fire on a Cadmus-related building in New Mexico.

Luthor's malevolent plans were later exposed by Batman and the Justice League, only for Brainiac to reveal that he had been dormant inside Lex ever since the episode Ghost in the Shell. Luthor later convinced Brainiac to fuse with him because they both could reach their ultimate goals. He then battled the Justice League, proving to be one of the group's most difficult foes. However, the Flash was able to separate the two after tapping into the Speed Force.

Luthor went back to jail with a damaged psyche. After Luthor escaped prison again thanks to The Key, Gorilla Grodd offered him membership in the newly formed Legion of Doom. Joining only to revive and refuse with Brainiac, Luthor eventually overthrew Grodd and took over the Legion (who did not oppose him after they learned Grodd's ultimate plan was to turn humanity into apes). Eventually, Lex's quest to revive Braniac lead the Legion into space, where he found a version of Brainiac that had been destroyed years earlier. However, Tala freed Grodd and he and a faction of the Legion fought Luthor and his supporters (which included the likes of Giganta, Bizarro, Toyman, Sinestro, Cheetah, Star Sapphire, Evil Star, etc.) After killing Grodd and trapping and absorbing Tala's magic to resurrect Brainiac, Lex discovers that he had accidentally resurrected Darkseid instead.

Luthor and the rest of the surviving Legion members barely escaped from Darkseid and made their way to Earth, where Luthor warned the Justice League, and he and his allies reluctantly team-up with them to fight against Darkseid and his army. Before the battle against Darkseid, Luthor points out to the Justice League that he doesn't want to help them save the world, but get revenge on Darkseid for destroying Brainiac and ruining his plans, before he and the Justice League go back in being enemies again as usual. He later left the battle with Metron and discovered the Anti-Life Equation. Returning to Earth with the Equation, he offered to share the knowledge with Darkseid, and they both disappeared in a spark of light. While they are presumed dead by the public, members of the Justice League have theorized they will eventually return yet again. However, both Luthor and Darkseid are now part of the Source Wall, that is the fate that occurs to all creature that solved the Anti-Life Equation, where they will remain likely for all eternity.

Vril Dox of the planet Colu A.K.A. Brainiac,

Brainiac becomes aware of Krypton's impending destruction, but finds the planet's destruction of little importance in contrast to the importance of all of Krypton's data. He thus abandons Krypton when the planet is about to be destroyed, and creates a new goal for himself: to collect all the data of a planet and then destroy the planet. He views this as forever preserving the completeness and uniqueness of this information. He also believes that the fewer beings who have the information, the more precious it becomes.

Years after Krypton's destruction, Brainiac kills a group of aliens and pilots their ship to Earth. Intrigued that Kal-El (otherwise known as Superman) exists, he seeks to bond his DNA with that of Kal-El's to continue his quest for data. Superman destroys the Brainiac drone, but Brainiac continues to be a threat as he downloads his program into LexCorp's computers.

Brainiac orders Lex Luthor to rebuild his body at one point, and then injures Luthor with a laser beam. Superman defeats Brainiac again, however.

Eventually, Brainiac seemingly attacks Apokolips, but Darkseid secretly makes a deal with Brainiac to lure in Superman. Darkseid hacks into Brainiac's system and forces Brainiac to self-destruct, seemingly destroying Brainiac for good.

It is later revealed that Brainiac had spared Luthor only to ensure his survival inside of Luthor. Brainiac planned to implant his mind into that of an Amazo droid, but was stopped by the Justice League. Brainiac flees from the Justice League using Luthor's body. Luthor questions Brainiac's motivations enough to interest Brainiac, and the two merge together with Dark Heart nanotechnology to become an ultimate being. Brainiac desires Luthor's creativity and Luthor desires the power and knowledge that Brainiac has but otherwise has no idea what to do with.

Brainiac/Luthor decide to create a machine that will absorb data of planets in a single stroke, but they are stopped by the Flash.

Brainiac is seemingly gone from existence, but still exists within the mind of Luthor. Luthor discovers that Gorilla Grodd has the last existing piece of Brainiac. Luthor desperately tries multiple manners of activating the one scrap left of Brainiac but it does not work.

Eventually, Luthor goes to the location of Brainiac where he was destroyed and attempts to resurrect Brainiac using magic, but surprisingly resurrects Darkseid instead. The psychic link is shattered from Luthor, thus ending Brainiac forever. Luthor swears revenge on Darkseid, who now seems to have some of Brainiac's power as well.

Some fragment or contingency aspect of Brainiac makes an attempt through time travel to kill young Clark Kent in Smallville, but is opposed by the Legion of Super-Heroes, who are still hard-pressed to protect Clark and his human parents from the AI's rampage. Enraged by his family being endangered, young Clark exceeds his current potential and pummels the attacker. Brainiac's retreat is an erratic one, and he ends up flying into the sun, where he is clearly shown to be destroyed.

In a later Justice League Unlimited episode, Supergirl moves to the 30th Century for various reasons, one of which is to be with a hero called Brainiac 5, an organic whose connections to the AI are not made clear in this version.

A variant on this Brainiac, also voiced by Corey Burton, and having an aspect and motivations nearly identical to the DCAU version, appears on the Legion Of Super Heroes animated series. At first, he is merely a relic, a prior incarnation of the heroic Brainiac 5.0 (the original is called 1.0 in this) that 5.0 calls upon to solve a problem his current program cannot handle. He ultimately becomes the final Big Bad of Season 2, corrupting his 'descendant' Brainy into deep villainy, till Superman prevails upon his old friend to abandon that path. Seemingly destroyed, the remnants of 1.0 are shown at the tail-end of the final episode once more rebuilding themselves. While many things are the same between the two original Brainiacs, The Legion Of Super Heroes animated series is in a different continuity from the DCAU.

David Hyde A.K.A. Black Manta,

---

In the Flashpoint timeline, Black Manta was an enforcer in Aquaman's Atlantean army alongside Ocean Master during his war against Wonder Woman and the Amazons, as well as the United States of America. His notable moment was showcasing his fighting skills as he faced off against Deathsroke were in Black Manta presumably killed him with his optic blasts. He is later killed by the combined efforts of Grifter and Batman shooting him to death in the face.

Justice League: Throne of Atlantis

Out of costume, Black Manta first appears observing Arthur Curry with Dr. Shin, a scientist with theories that Atlantis exists. While the doctor tries to approach Curry immediately after witnessing his strength, Black Manta advises him to talk to Arthur in the morning. Black Manta then has Dr. Shin assassinated during an attempt on Curry's life. Later, in Atlantis, he and Orm meet with Queen Atlanna, Orm's mother, to persuade her into starting a war with the surface world. After she rejects their idea to attack the humans, Black Manta uses missiles loaded into his submarine to attack Atlantis, framing the surface world. Orm and Black Manta then demand that the Queen starts a war for the alleged act of terrorism from the surface. However, Queen Atlanta still refuses to strike and tells Manta to arrange a meeting with the Justice League to discuss a peace treaty.

After his men fail to kill Orm's half brother, Arthur Curry, Orm kills Queen Atlanta, and usurps the throne of Atlantis, once again framing the humans for killing his mother. After Orm becomes the "Ocean Master" and Arthur becomes "Aquaman", the Atlantean army wages war with the surface and the Justice League. Black Manta later faces off against Aquaman and has the upper hand until the end of their fight. Black Manta reveals to have manipulated Orm into starting a war with the surface and plans to kill Orm and claim the treasures of Atlantis for himself when the time is right. Just as he is revealing his scheme, Aquaman summons a great white shark from the harbor to attack Black Manta, biting the villain and bringing him into the ocean.

Suicide Squad: Hell to Pay

Black Manta resurfaces as a mercenary working for Amanda Waller. He briefly appears when he escorts the Suicide Squad to their mission through a custom submarine.

Sinestro,

In the episode Brightest Day, after Superman discovers Abin Sir, who tells him to protect the Green Lantern before succumbing to his injuries, Sinestro pops onto the scene. After using his ring to search the the pod for traces of the Green ring, Sinestro assumes Superman took it and begins attacking and overpowering him. However, Sinestro soon realizes that Superman truly doesn't have the ring and crushes him with a giant hammer before flying off, unknown to him, Superman survives the attack and ends up finding Abin Sur's Lantern and teleports himself to Oa.

Meanwhile Sinestro finally locates Kyle Rayner, the new owner of Abin Sur's ring, and starts attacking him, demanding him to hand over the ring. However, Kyle states that he and the ring "have become attached" and then confuses him by entrapping him inside a construct of bubblegum like matter. Sinestro and Kyle continue fighting through Metropolis until Sinestro manages to grab Kyle using a giant hand construct and begins to crush him. Kyle then creates a boot construct and kicks Sinestro in the face before getting hit back and discovering that he can use the ring to pass through walls before continuing to battle him.

On Oa, the Guardian of the Universe explain to Superman that Sinestro was once one of the Green Lanterns until he stopped using his ring responsibly and they deemed him unfit to wield it. Sinestro would then discover a new kind of Ring and started killing other Green Lanterns, gaining more power from every ring he destroyed. Back on Earth, Sinestro prepares to kill Kyle Rayner after his ring runs out of power, however, Superman returns just in time and saves Rayner from Sinestro's attack.

Later on, Sinestro manages to catch up to Superman and Kyle Rayner and Superman goes off and fights Sinestro so Kyle can charge his Ring, however, he ends up trapped in a large drill construct and ends up burrowing into the ground. Kyle, after fully charging the Ring, then throws a mountaintop at Sinestro, crushing him, although he survives and continues to fight Rayner. Sinestro then throws Kyle into a plane in a Ferris Aircrafts field and finally surrenders his ring to Sinestro, however, just as he puts it on, the ring explodes, revealing that the ring had just been a construct. As he is off his footing, Kyle begins to beat down on Sinestro, finally defeating him by throwing him into a giant Lantern construct, electrocuting him unconscious. With Sinestro defeated, Superman manages to break free from his construct and crushes his Ring. Sinestro is then presumably arrested by the Corps for his crimes against the Universe.

Justice League

Years later, Sinestro somehow escaped from the Green Lantern Corps' custody and created a new Yellow Ring. Sometime before the episode, Sinestro was contacted by Gorilla Grodd and his henchwoman Giganta and joined his Secret Society in hopes of killing the Justice League's resident Green Lantern: John Stewart.

In Secret Society, starting off the first phase of Grodd's plan, Sinestro and the rest of the Society attack Morgan Edge's mansion, kill him and free Clayface from his imprisonment there and Grodd getting him to join his side by tempting him with the possibility of becoming human again. Later, Sinestro and the Society accompany Clayface to a chemical factory to help him fight off Batman, knowing he would try to apprehend him, with Sinestro blasting and destroying the electrified Batarang Batman used against Clayface. However, Batman had also brought the Justice League with him and the two teams begin to fight each other, with Sinestro taking on John Stewart. Unfortunately, due to the League's growing teamwork issues amplified by Grodd's psychic suggestions, they are easily beaten by the Society, although Grodd chooses to retreat instead of finishing them off and the League ends up disbanding.

In Part 2, after Flash heads to the North Hill Subway Station in hopes of finding Shade, he ends up in a trap laid by the Society and ends up fighting Sinestro, however, Flash ends up defeating Sinestro due to the fact that, while Sinestro's constructs can move at light-speed, he can't think that fast. Later, after Flash had been defeated by the other Society members and impersonated by Clayface, Sinestro tries to defeat Batman after he easily recognizes Clayface's disguise, but is instead taken out by a Batarang before he could attack.

Later, after the Society had captured all of the ex Justice League members and hijacked a football game to announce their victory to the world, Sinestro and the other Society members were shocked after realizing that Martian Manhunter had actually disguised himself as Clayface and that the real Clayface had been accidentally frozen by Killer Frost. After Martian Manhunter freed the Justice League, the Society and League began to fight each other again, with Sinestro yet again taking on John Stewart. However, the League, being far more organized that before, managed to defeat the villains and imprison them.

Static Shock

Prior to appearing in the series, Sinestro, after stealing his Lantern, changed his appearance to that of John Stewart in an effort to ruin his reputation. Sinestro, as Stewart, then went on a crime spree across the world, putting both the Justice League and the Green Lantern Core against the real Stewart and forcing him to go into hiding while Sinestro continued to ruin his life.

In the episode Fallen Hero, Sinestro, as Stewart, barrels through the security force of a bank and steals millions of dollars in gold bars. The next day, Virgil Hawkins (Static's civilian identity) reads about Green Lantern's attack on the vault in the paper and immediately dismisses it as false, but he is soon proved wrong when he and his friend/partner Gear later encounter Green Lantern robbing a truck full of microchips. Static tries to talk his hero out of committing crimes, but Stewart tells Static that he became tired with having power and nothing to show for it and starts attacking him with the microchips by giving them a charge opposite to his. Gear tries to help Static, but is overpowered by a blast from Green Lantern and Static retaliates by blasting at Stewart with electrical energy, but his blast fails to penetrate Green Lantern's shield and he is soundly defeated.

As Green Lantern flies off and gloats about his victory, the real John Stewart hits him and knocks him down into a junkyard. The two begin to fight and Green Lantern taunts Stewart by telling him that he doesn't want to use up the energy his Ring has and invites an attempt to blast him with energy. Stewart misses the shot and Green Lantern begins to laugh at him, only for the energy to come back around and strike him in the back. Stewart then pins Green Lantern down and he reverts back into Sinestro, however, before John can defeat him, his ring runs out of power and Sinestro pins him under a steel gate. Sinestro then explains that he doesn't want to kill Stewart but instead wants him to be arrested by the Core for all the crimes that "he" committed before re-disguising himself as Stewart and flying off.

Green Lantern then encounters Static and Gear again and tries to destroy them, however, using their teamwork, they manage to keep him at bay. John Stewart, having managed to free himself, looks to join the fight to prove his innocence, and harnesses all the power left in his Ring and dons his costume. Upon seeing him, Sinestro slams Gear and Static into a building and makes Stewart follow him into an alley and then disappears, tricking Static and Gear into fighting Stewart. After his Ring runs out of power, Static electrocutes Stewart and he is arrested while Sinestro gleefully watches.

During John Stewart's prison transport, Sinestro arrives to taunt him and collect his Power Ring, however, he quickly realizes that he doesn't have it and instead opts to look for it himself. When asked by Stewart why he wants the ring, Sinestro states that the ring will make a nice keepsake, revealing a necklace of Power Rings he had stole from other Lanterns, presumably after killing them.

After discovering Stewart's Ring in his coat pocket, Static goes to Stewart's cell and learns the truth; A few days ago, Stewart, with all the other Justice League members occupied, investigated a distress call sent to him by the pilot of a rocket that crashed on an asteroid. Recognizing the pilot as the only survivor of the crash and the distance from the asteroid to Earth, he took out his Lantern to charge his Ring, but it turned out that Sinestro actually disguised himself as the pilot and the whole crash was just a set-up so Sinestro could steal his Lantern. It is also established by Stewart that he had helped defeat Sinestro when he became power-hungry, which is why he hates him so much.

Static then tries to tell Gear the truth about Green Lantern, but when he arrives at his house, he discovers that he has been captured by Sinestro. Sinestro tells Static to give him the Ring, however, Static dupes him by giving him a plastic ring and the two begin to fight, although Sinestro easily wins. However, John Stewart arrives, due to Static having cleared his name, and he begins to fight Sinestro, revealing that Static had given his ring a new type of charge. After a short fight, John Stewart manages to beat Sinestro after his ring starts to lose power and Static uses his powers to charge John's Ring even more, allowing him to expose Sinestro to the public and reclaim his Lantern. Jon Stewart then takes off with Sinestro and presumably takes him to be arrested on Oa for his crimes.

Justice League Unlimited

Yet again, Sinestro manages to escape custody and is contacted by Gorilla Grodd and joins his new expanded Secret Society.

In the episode The Great Brain Robbery, Sinestro assists Tala, Doctor Polaris and Lex Luthor in robbing a train and, along with the others, turns on Lex when they realize that he had accidentally switched minds with The Flash.

In the season finale, when Grodd escaped his imprisonment and tried to take his position as leader back from Luthor, Sinestro, along with Giganta, Bizarro, Volcana, Star Sapphire, Toyman, Atomic Skull, Heat Wave, Cheetah, Killer Frost, Evil Star and Doctor Destiny took Luthor's side and fought Grodd and his faction. After Luthor killed Grodd and Killer Frost switched sides and froze her teammates, Sinestro and the rest of the survivors watched as Luthor used Tala as a conduit in hopes of reviving Brainiac, but he and the others were shocked to see Luthor accidentally revive Darkseid instead. As Darkseid destroyed the Hall of Doom, Star Sapphire and Sinestro cast a force-field around their teammates (save Doctor Destiny, Major Disaster and KGBeast who didn't make it in time) to protect their teammates from his blast and, after Evil Star stole the New God Lightray's Mother Box, they Boomtubed themselves to Earth and call a temporary truce with the Justice League in order to stop Darkseid's Invasion. Sinestro then heads to Tokyo and fights off hoards of Parademons. Sinestro is last seen participating in the five minute head-start the League gives them in exchange for helping them save the planet.

Priscilla Rich A.K.A. Cheetah,

Priscilla Rich

The Golden Age Cheetah was socialite Priscilla Rich. Jealous of Wonder Woman (the Golden Age version, later retconned to be Wonder Woman's mother, Hippolyta)'s fame, Priscilla was driven to villainy by her second personality, the Cheetah. Donning a cheetah costume, Priscilla became Wonder Woman's archnemesis, until her retirement, and eventual death.

Deborah Domaine

The niece of the Golden Age Cheetah, Deborah was a friend of Wonder Woman, until the villainous Kobra brainwashed her into picking up her aunt's evil legacy. This version no longer exists due to the Crisis on Infinite Earths.

Barbara Ann Minerva

Much like her Golden Age predecessor, Dr. Barbara Ann Minerva was driven by envy to become a villain. A selfish, spoiled heiress, Minerva received her Cheetah powers and form from the sacrifice of her partner to an African plant god. However, because the ceremony is meant for virgins (hint-hint), her powers are half curse, half blessing. Minerva decided to challenge Wonder Woman's powers upon hearing of her arrival to Man's World in order to steal her magic lasso. Since then, the Cheetah has proven to be one of Wonder Woman's greatest enemies, as well as her arch nemesis and has shown that women can be just as bad as men.

In the Justice League, she is one of the recurring enemies in both the original series and its sequel series. Press materials names her "A feline femme fatale who is scratching for a fight."

Sebastian Ballesteros

A native to Argentina, corrupt businessman Sebastian Ballesteros was briefly the fourth Cheetah after stealing Minerva's powers, but was killed by her out of revenge.

Gorilla Grodd,

---

Grodd was a scientist in Gorilla City. He developed a helmet that allowed him to control the minds of others. The Gorilla City security force stopped him from using it in the city, but he escaped capture and eventually wound up in Central City, where he obtained aid from Dr. Sarah Corwin via E-mail and Internet communications before meeting her in person. At some point in time, the two grew close and formed a romantic relationship.

Sometime later, Grodd ran afoul of the Flash and Green Lantern during an attempt to take over the minds of every human in Central City. He succeeds at this, and then, with every person under his control, he and Dr. Corwin invade a military base and commandeer missiles that they launch in the hopes of obliterating Gorilla City. Green Lantern destroyed two of the four missiles launched, while Martian Manhunter, Wonder Woman, and Hawkgirl destroy the other two, foiling his plans. He was then seemingly rendered harmless after Flash "crossed a few wires" in his mind control helmet and tricked him into using it. This fried his brain, and everyone assumed that he was brain-dead. This freed every person under his control but Dr. Corwin, whom Flash had assumed was also a slave to him, but then found out, to his surprise, that she had been a willing follower to him and was in love with him. Her fate beyond that point is still unknown, even now, although it can be assumed that she was arrested and sent to prison for her complicity in Grodd's crimes.

Grodd not only recovered from the frying of his brain, but he no longer needed the helmet to control minds. At some point, according to a story he would later tell Clayface, Grodd met a female gorilla named Giganta, whom he transformed into a human, who could grow to many times her normal size. It is unknown if she always had this ability or if it was as a result of Grodd's work, or even if the story was true or not. Grodd and Giganta would later recruit Killer Frost, Sinestro, Parasite, Shade, and Clayface into the Secret Society, a group to oppose the Justice League. Grodd started playing mind games with the league, which left their integrity as a team fragile and the individual members vulnerable to capture. With the Justice League incapacitated, Grodd brought his Society to a stadium in Gotham to announce to the world about a new order. When the League escaped captivity and rebuilt its bonds, both sides faced off, but the Secret Society was defeated in the end.

Grodd would later revive the Secret Society, but on a much grander scale; nearly every supervillain on Earth was inducted into one group, creating the Legion of Doom. To this end, Grodd helped Lex Luthor escape from prison, and secured Luthor's services in Grodd's employ by promising Luthor the last piece of Brainiac, a cube which contained Brainiac's entire computer code, from which Luthor could reconstitute his "partner". Grodd also installed psychic feguards in each of his allies' minds; if they were ever in a situation where his plans could be revealed, their brains would automatically "short circuit" and shut down, wiping their memories and leaving them comatose. Grodd also freed Tala from the mirror Felix Faust tricked her into, winning her loyalty and affection in the process. Their relationship turns romantic, and in a later episode, it is even hinted that their relationship is sexual, marking the second human woman with whom Grodd had had such a relationship.

After the Legion recovered various artifacts and devices (including the Heart of Nanda Parbat), Grodd had his Society invade Gorilla City. Taking control of its advanced shield generator, Grodd finally revealed his grand scheme: With the Heart boosting its power and a DNA sequencer installed in its circuitry, the generator would broadcast a signal to turn all of humanity into apes. Grodd succeeded in his plan, but his smug assurance of victory would be his undoing. Moments after Tala teleported Grodd, Luthor, and herself away, the Justice League arrived and destroyed the device, reverting everyone on Earth back to normal.

Back at Grodd's headquarters, Luthor was so disgusted with Grodd's plan that he incapacitated Grodd by shooting him with a non-lethal weapon and took over the Legion (which Luthor was planning to do eventually, but the sheer ridiculousness of Grodd's plan prompted him to bump up his schedule). To add insult to injury, Grodd was thrown into his own prison and left to watch Tala transfer her fickle affections towards Luthor within moments of his takeover.

Luthor kept Grodd alive for information on the Brainiac piece, even attempting to use his own mental technology to tear the information from the ape's head. However, due to the League's attempts to track Grodd and the Legion down (and some bad timing), Grodd became a circuit that caused Luthor and the Flash to switch minds. Grodd was immediately aware of the switch, but chose to keep quiet for his own amusement, having decided to see how long the Flash could keep up the ruse before being discovered and torn apart by the Legion.

After many fruitless attempts to get Luthor's attention away from Brainiac and possibly seduce him, Tala decided to go back to Grodd, who, although initially skeptical to help her due to her treachery, ended up deciding to help her when he realized that she really intended to turn on Luthor. She freed him from his cell, and the two led a mutiny against Luthor. The Society was effectively split into two factions: Grodd's loyalists and Luthor's loyalists. While the two sides fought a full-blown civil war, Grodd and Lex had a one-on-one fight that Grodd clearly dominated. Unfortunately, the gorilla's arrogance worked against him.

Despite having Luthor at his mercy, the latter's taunts goaded Grodd into using his mental powers, hoping to dominate Luthor's mind. The moment Grodd activated his telepathy, Luthor used a failsafe device to turn Grodd's own powers back against him. Under Luthor's control, Grodd bowed before his rival and walked forward into an airlock. For the final insult, Luthor released his reflected control on Grodd. Outraged at being outsmarted (least of all, by a human), the gorilla expressed his regret of recruiting Luthor. Luthor gave his farewells to Grodd just before opening the airlock. Glaring impotently at the treacherous human, Grodd swore revenge before being sucked out into space, never to be seen again. It's completely unknown what happened to him after this, as the series ended soon after, but it's likely that he died, as, like humans, gorillas cannot breathe in space.

Leonard Snart A.K.A. Captain Cold,

---

Raised by an abusive father, Leonard Snart sought to start a criminal career following the death of his grandfather. At first, he attempted simple thievery with a band of thugs. After this failed to produce satisfactory results, he went solo. During a botched robbery of a cyclotron, Snart's gun was altered by the cyclotron's radiation, allowing it fire beams of pure cold, and from time to time, cast illusions. Putting together a blue and white parka, Len became Captain Cold, one of the Flash's deadliest enemies. He is currently the leader of the Rogue's Gallery. But in the New 52, after the Crime Syndicate was defeated, Cold stopped his life of crime and became a member of the Justice League along with Lex Luthor.

In DC Rebirth, he went back into being a criminal and leading the rogues again.

---

Jonathan Crane A.K.A. Scarecrow,

---

Post-Crisis

In his youth, Jonathan Crane grew up with his abusive grandmother, a religious fanatic who tortured Jonathan so badly that he developed a crippling fear of her. His life at school didn't fare much better either, because of bullies who constantly teased him for his lean appearance. Jonathan eventually had enough of his tormentors and used elements from Kung Fu to developed his own fighting style called "Violent Dancing" which takes advantage of his thin frame. He also managed to create a fear-inducing chemical compound which his grandmother used to frighten crows. One night, Jonathan dressed up as a scarecrow and frightened some of the bullies from his school. However, his new fear tactics worked too well and resulted in those people's deaths. Crane became intrigued by the power of fear and dedicated himself to learn more about it. He then returned home to murder his grandmother using the Fear Toxin he had previously made.

Years later, Jonathan Crane became a university professor who used unethical methods to teach his students. Crane was soon fired because of this and searched for work elsewhere after killing those responsible for costing him his teaching job. He then became the head psychiatrist at Arkham Asylum and began using the alias Scarecrow while experimenting on his patients. Although Batman eventually discovered Jonathan's crimes and had him incarcerated, he would continue to pose a threat to the Dark Knight as one of his most psychologically dangerous adversaries.

New 52

The Scarecrow's origins were altered for the New 52. In this continuity, Johnathan Crane was raised by his scientific father who was studying the emotion of fear. He would use his Johnathan as a guinea pig for his research by locking him in a pitch-black test chamber to see the young man's terrified reactions. But one day, the tormenting father suddenly died as a result of a heart attack while Johnathan was still locked inside the chamber, and remained there days until police finally found him starved and traumatized. Eventually Johnathan decided that he needed to learn how to control his fears so he would never have to experience such terror again and soon developed an obsession with this goal. After getting a degree in psychology, Johnathan began using his patients as test subjects to create a hallucinatory, fear-inducing gas called Fear Toxin before beginning his criminal career as the Scarecrow.

Winslow Schott A.K.A. Toyman,

Winslow Percival Schott, alias Toyman was born in Britain. The child genius invented his first toy at a young age, a toy airplane painted red and blue. Another boy, out of jealousy of Winslow's fantastic home-made toys, stole his airplane. This act had a profound affect on Schott. When he grew up, Winslow created some of the most amazing toys ever conceived, which earned him world acclaim. However, LexCorp's acquisition of Schotts toy company left him jobless, and he was embittered by the company's use of his toys for military purposes. He became the supervillain Toyman, seeking revenge on Lex Luthor. After several attempts to assassinate Luthor and fights with Superman, he was arrested. Toyman was later sprung from prison and used by Intergang to help them build some deadly traps at their lair.

Later versions of him imply that he has some degree of schizophrenia. Another voice is constantly in his head urging him on in his schemes which he refers to as his 'Mother'.

Cyrus Gold A.K.A. Solomon Grundy,

Cyrus Gold lived on the outskirts of Gotham during the middle of the nineteenth century. There, he was robbed and mortally injured, then his body was tossed in Slaughter Swamp (accounts vary on whether Gold had committed crimes himself and been killed by his cohorts or an angry mob). Before he died, he swore vengeance. For over 50 years his body remained in the swamp.

Years later, Gold rose again as a zombie. With little memory of who he was or how he died, Gold wandered throughout the swamp.

He eventually encountered two escaped criminals, murdered them, and took their clothes. Shortly thereafter, he met a group of men in a hobo camp. When he was asked his name, he simply muttered that he had been born on Monday. This reminded him of the English nursery rhyme about a man who was born on Monday, so he decided to call himself "Solomon Grundy", and became a criminal of Gotham City. His main enemy for many decades was the first Earth hero to call himself Green Lantern, Alan Scott. By extension, Grundy also became a regular foe of Earth's first team of superheroes, The Justice Society Of America, to which Scott belonged. His ability to endlessly regenerate has meant a long and varied career, facing many foes in the DC Universe, including Superman, the later Oan-powered Green Lanterns of Earth, and Swamp Thing, an Earth elemental of the type Grundy could have been, but his origin lacked a few of the needed conditions to achieve this. Needless to say, having his origin in Gotham City, it was all but inevitable that he would one day clash with Gotham's Dark Knight Avenger, The Batman. Some accounts of Batman's career have him facing

Grundy almost from the beginning.

Edward Nygma A.K.A. The Riddler,

Edward Nygma was originally a simple software engineer with a love of puzzles, games, and riddles. He worked initially for Competitron, and created the game "Riddle of the Minotaur". Although the game was hugely successful, and many of Competitron's people became wealthy as a result, the Corporate Chair Daniel Mockridge responded with ingratitude, firing Nygma and casually dismissing his efforts as "insignificant", instead arguing that the company's success was owing to its skill with business negotiations and obtaining favorable contracts (i.e., to himself). To rub salt in the wound, he also revealed that Nygma's contract stated that he was not entitled to any royalties or copyrights of the game.

As the Riddler

In "If You're So Smart, Why Aren't You Rich?", outraged by his unfair treatment, Edward Nygma returns to Gotham City after two years as "The Riddler". He kidnaps Mockridge and planned to kill him, but also offers Batman the chance to save Mockridge provided he solved all of the challenges Riddler had laid out for him. The final challenge would be a run through the maze at the Riddle of the Minotaur amusement park, which was an actual simulation of the game Riddler had designed. Confident in his genius and assured of his victory, the Riddler was surprised when Batman successfully solved all of his riddles and outsmarted him. However, Riddler managed to escape Gotham City, also achieving his revenge on Mockridge in a manner more subtle than he had originally intended: Mockridge was traumatized by the whole near-death experience, seemingly scared of the Riddler's return for the rest of his life, yet it seems that the Riddler never returned to make him pay for his actions.

In "What Is Reality?", with Batman having figured out his identity, the Riddler takes extreme measures to protect himself; he goes on a campaign to eliminate all traces of his former self by breaking into banks and government buildings to destroy records bearing his name. He also sends a computer to the Gotham City Police Department with a virtual reality simulation that ends up trapping Commissioner Gordon. Batman enters the virtual reality world to rescue Gordon, and Riddler ends up destroying his dream world by focusing too hard on trying to kill Batman. Not only that, but the electronic backlash leaves his brain suspended, with Batman, Robin and Gordon finding his inert body at his hideout later in the abandoned Gotham's World Fair, helplessly leaving the Riddler behind with no way to know if he would ever recover.

In "Trial", having somehow recovered from his previous condition offscreen, the Riddler partakes in the trial of Batman held by various members of his Rogues Gallery, led by the Joker. He was not present for all of it though, meaning he might have taken the opportunity to escape in the chaos. In any case, he was most likely jailed again like all the other rogues after Batman and Janet Van Dorn manage to defeat the Joker and escape.

In "Riddler's Reform", the Riddler is revealed to have been released on the grounds that he'd been "reformed". Joining with Charles Baxter, one of Gotham's well-known toymakers, the Riddler invents several puzzles that quickly become popular with children, with Baxter having hired him in the first place because he wanted to use Nygma's Riddler persona to boost the company's profile. However, the Riddler secretly continues to commit daring robberies, leaving clues through his company advertisements. For his part, Batman is confident that Riddler will never be able to stay reformed and that he will inevitably return to crime. With this in mind, he confronts Riddler, and Riddler decides afterwards that, in order to truly have a fresh start, he needs to kill Batman. So to this end, he lures him into a booby-trapped warehouse and rigs the place to blow. However, Batman survives by simply concealing himself in a nearby safe, unknown to the Riddler, who was then arrested by the police after his crimes were exposed and returned to Arkham, ending his partnership with Baxter. With Batman refusing to tell Riddler how he survived, Riddler snaps completely and goes mad trying to fathom how Batman could have possibly outwitted him yet again, leaving his mental state worse than before.

Superman: The Animated Series

In "Knight Time", the Riddler makes a guest appearance alongside other members of Batman's rogues gallery. After Batman disappears thanks to Brainiac's machinations, the Riddler makes an alliance with the Mad Hatter and Bane to take over Gotham City. However, Robin and Superman disguised as Batman appear on the scene and Superman quickly defeats Bane while Robin handcuffs the Riddler on a cage and lifts him up, leaving the Riddler and Bane for pickup by the GCPD and taking the Mad Hatter with them so he can help them to find Bruce Wayne.

The New Batman Adventures

In "Over the Edge", following Batgirl's death at the hands of the Scarecrow and James Gordon's manhunt for Batman and his Bat-family, the Riddler along with the Ventriloquist and Scarface, Harley Quinn and the Mad Hatter fill a lawsuit against Bruce Wayne for his previous actions against them as the Dark Knight. However, as it turns out that most of the episode's events were only Barbara Gordon's fear gas-induced nightmares, nothing comes up.

In "Judgement Day", after The Judge stops The Penguin and Killer Croc, he goes to stop the Riddler from committing crime in Gotham City ever again. When the Riddler conducts a random heist in a restaurant, the Judge restrains him before doing the same to his henchmen. With no one to help him, the Riddler is left able to do nothing but look on in horror as the Judge drops an oversized book on him. It's presumed that the Riddler was either seriously crippled or killed as a result, as this is the last time we see him in the DCAU, so it's likely he never returned to crime afterwards.

Doris Zeul A.K.A. Giganta,

---

Originally little more than an ape she was artificially evolved by Gorilla Grodd into a human female (both in appearance and mannerism): she in turn became very devoted to him and also gained the ability to grow to gigantic heights at will.

This served to make Giganta a formidable opponent to any hero in the DC universe and although she began her career as somewhat of a savage complete with leopard-skin clothing she would evolve into a much more refined woman, albeit still a dangerous criminal, as the series and comics went on.

It is worth noting that their are many variations of Giganta depending on the era or writer and her origin varied greatly as do her powers depending on who writes her - though modern writers tend to stick with the size-shifting hyper-evolved ape (this is also the version that was made popular in the cartoon series Justice League).

Another popular version of Giganta was in Superfriends, where she was shown as the rival to Apache Chief, and was present as his super heroic debut. She had been an ordinary woman horseback riding when she saw the effect of the magic powder, and desired to use it to become famous.

She stole the bag of powder from Apache Chief when he was busy. Although warned by Apache Chief's sachem to leave it alone as the effects multiply emotions, she ignored the warning. True to form, her selfishness was multiplied along with her size, and she became an evil giantess.

and Superman's dumb clone Bizarro.

---

Lex Luthor came up with the idea of creating his own Superman through cloning. He hired Dr. Teng, an expert in cloning, but because Superman was an alien and the process was designed for cloning humans, the clone morphed into a monstrous brute. Luthor's bodyguard Mercy Graves jokingly called it Bizarro and the unintelligent creature quickly went on a rampage throughout Metropolis and kidnapped Lois Lane. Superman managed to defeat him relatively quickly as he disintegrated from weak cellular structure. Luthor attempted to make a superman clone again, but once again it morphed into Bizarro. Retaining some of Superman's memories, Bizarro constructed his own "Bizarro Metropolis" out of trash and kidnapped Lois Lane.

The original Bizarro was created when Superman was exposed to a "duplicate ray". In accordance with the science fiction concepts of Superman stories of the era, Bizarro relocated to "the Bizarro world," a cubical planet called Htrae which operated under "Bizarro logic" (it was a crime to do anything good or right) and which Bizarro populated with inverted versions of Superman's supporting cast and other DC heroes.

The 1986 event Crisis on Infinite Earths rewrote DC's continuity, eliminating Htrae. Since then, two Bizarro characters have appeared, one of them a flawed clone created by Lex Luthor. The second, longer lasting Bizarro, was an idea of the Batman villain the Joker, brought to life by the cosmic trickster Mister Mxyzptlk.

Bizarro has been a consistent enemy of Superman since his first appearance. Faithful adaptations of Bizarro appeared in the animated series Super Friends and series in the subsequent DC Universe. Also, doppelgängers of Superman with some attributes of Bizarro appeared in live action adaptations.

Bizarro and the Bizarro World have become somewhat well-known in popular culture, and the term Bizarro is used as to describe anything that utilizes twisted logic or that is the opposite of something else.

We were watching the episodes and they brought back a lot of memories.

Me: Boy this takes me back. This was the very show that got me into the superhero business.

Lincoln: It sure was awesome!

Lana: I remember this show. It was awesome! It's a darn shame they don't air it anymore.

Me: Yeah. But we can still watch it on the internet. But this version of the Legion of Doom is not like the one that we normally face on a daily basis.

Volcana: I know. This version is really incompetent.

Me: Yeah.

Blossom (Adult): I remember this. Believe it or not we beat all of this version of the Legion Of Doom single-handedly.

We gasped in shock.

Me: You guys defeated the entire Legion Of Doom all by yourselves!?

Nico: Whoa! That is awesome!

Laney: Wow! That is so cool!

Lily Loud: That is amazing!

Bubbles (Adult): Yeah, they captured Aquaman and Wonder Woman and we beat them all.

Me: Wow. That is awesome! Lets see if we can help out the Superfriends defeat the Legion Of Doom there like the Powerpuff Girls did. Lets head to the simulator.

We cheered.

---

We got ready and we were going to face the most incompetent version of the Legion Of Doom ever.

Me: This is gonna be a very interesting fight.

Marinette: It sure is. I don't think we've ever faced the entirety of the Legion Of Doom like this.

Me: Well the Legion Of Doom that we face on a daily basis has many more villains than this one. There were lots of them. Some of them are now members of Team Loud Phoenix Storm.

Silver Banshee: (Scottish Accent) Aye. I was once a member of the Legion Of Doom.

Volcana: Same with me.

Sinestro: That's right my friends.

Giganta: Yep.

Livewire: This is gonna be awesome!

Killer Frost: It's gonna be interesting fighting some of our old comrades.

Me: It is.

Star Sapphire: This is gonna be something.

Me: Yeah. Also we're gonna be broadcasting this to our Legion Of Doom and to Lila. This will let the entirety of our Legion Of Doom know that the ceasefire is over and to Lila that the Legion Of Doom is no more.

We went into the Simulator and it activated. We were all in Slaughter Swamp.

Me: Here we are guys. Slaughter Swamp, New Jersey. Ground Zero for the headquarters of the Legion Of Doom.

We then saw the headquarters of the Legion of Doom.

Me: Target sighted and the Legion Of Doom have all of the Super Friends captured. Lets go!

We went at the base.

Inside the Legion Of Doom base, the Superfriends were tied up and being lowered into a vat of acid. Aquaman was trying to call for help with his powers.

Aquaman: My ability to talk with fish is of no help Wonder Woman!

Superfriends Lex Luthor: Nothing can save you now Super Fools! (Evil Laughter)

Me: (Offscreen) Except for us Fuckfignewton!

A massive fiery explosion blasted a hole through the ceiling and a phoenix cry was heard and we entered the base.

Me: Hello Legion Of Doom. We're Team Loud Phoenix Storm.

Nico: Your worst fucking nightmare.

Laney and Lola freed the Superfriends and we were ready to fight.

Me: You freaks are going down.

Megaforce Rangers: Legendary Ranger Mode: Lightmask Squad!

The Megaforce Rangers all turned into the Maskman rangers from 1987. Troy Burrows turned into the Red Maskman, Noah Carvers turned into the Blue Maskman, Jake Halling turned into the Black Maskman, Gia Moran turned into the Yellow Maskman, Emma Goodall turned into the Pink Maskman and Orion turned into the Green X1 Maskman.

Superfriends Scarecrow: Wait. Aren't those Rangers from Japan?

Me: From 1987. The Power Rangers have been on in Japan for 44 years and in America they have been on for 26+ years.

Superfriends Captain Cold: Very interesting.

Blossom (Adult): Also we're going to pulverize all your faces in.

Buttercup (Adult): They got our name wrong and called us the Powderpuff Girls.

Bubbles (Adult): There's no D in our title stupids!

Superfriends Lex Luthor: How informative. Well there is a "D" in destroy. As in Destroy them!

Me: And there is a K in the word Kill. As in Kill them All!

We went at them and split them up.

Me: To let the Devil know that I sent you.

Superfriends Lex Luthor: You watched way too many Zorro movies.

Me: Tell me something I don't already know. In the words of my friend Nico, you have Failed this world.

Xerneas: That's right.

Troy Burrows: You make me sick Luthor. In this world you are going to prison.

Me: But in our world, you are dead because I killed you.

Superfriends Lex Luthor: You killed me!?

Me: Well actually you died of natural causes due to severe

Kryptonite Poisoning. But the one I killed was another version.

Superman: That's really interesting.

Me: You are going to jail for good!

Superman: Try this on! KRYPTON PUNCHSTORM BARRAGE!

Superman threw a bunch of powerful punches and they hit Lex all over with devastating fury.

Marinette: Here's a taste of justice! LADYBUG HAMMERPUNCH SMASH!

Me: BINGO!

Nico: Nice shot!

Marinette: Nico, not that I'm complaining but remind me again why we blew up the Superfriends Legion of Doom base?

Nico: To tell our Grodd that the ceasefire's over. And for him to stop sulking, get off his butt, and resume our war against each other.

Maria: Nico's right. I get that Grodd's still trying to get recover from nearly being overthrown by Hawk Moth. But if he was really the fearsome villain he says he is, he should get over it already.

---

At the Legion of Doom Headquarters in Slaughter Swamp, Grodd saw what unfolded.

Grodd: Well the ceasefire is over. We're back at war with Team Loud Phoenix Storm everyone.

Everyone in the Legion of Doom cheered.

---

In the Saturn Insane Asylum, Lila watched the whole thing unfold and she thought it was all happening on Earth in our dimension. She was crying and screaming hard to the point of being driven further into insanity.

Lila: (Enraged Screaming) I really HATE THOSE FREAKS! I HATE THEM! HATE THEM! HATE THEM! HATE! HATE! HATE! HATE! HATEEEE!

---

Back at the estate we were celebrating. We felt our auras flare up dramatically earlier from Lila's hate.

Me: Well a toast to the defeat of the Legion Of Doom of the Superfriends.

Everyone: HERE HERE!

We clinked our glasses.

Black Vulcan: (To the Viewers) Not even the Superfriends version of the Legion of Doom will be powerful enough to take down the power of Team Loud Phoenix Storm.

Me: No it won't.

We were now more than ready to destroy our Legion Of Doom when the time comes. But we have more adventures to come when they make their next move.

THE END

---

Another Fanfiction Complete and another awesome villain team destroyed.

Superfriends has been a very awesome DC Comics Superhero show that I've known since I was a little kid. It aired 40 years ago and it was so awesome! I got the idea for this chapter from an advertisement that I remember from when the Powerpuff Girls were about to become an official cartoon and they busted into the Legion Of Doom base and defeated them all single-handedly. It was awesome and funny! NicoChan11 gave me the ideas for this. Thanks man. Let me know what you all think. I'm going to take a break tomorrow to spend time with my family. The next chapter is gonna be for battling the evil Boogie Gus. We're going to make him dance to death.

See you all on Monday

1970's Disco Villain

At the estate, we were talking to the rest of Marinette's class and we were having an awesome talk.

Nathanial: Hey, Muscle Man. I actually bet on you when during the Mars race.

Muscle Man: You bet on me?

Nathanial: I sure did.

Muscle Man: Ah it's all right. But we all had fun regardless.

Nico: Alright, guys. Due to the ceasefire being over, the bad guys will be back and more dangerous then ever.

Me: Nico and Marinette decided to give you all each a Miraculous so that you can help out with the Miraculous Celestial Union.

Bai Tza: Which is why we're giving you Miraculous' of your own. And the best part? You get to choose!

Nathanial: Lets see.

He picked the Tiger Miraculous.

Nathanial: I'll take the Tiger.

Marinette: Good choice Nathanial.

Mylene: I'll choose the Dog Miraculous.

Nico: Great choice.

Lincoln: Rabbit for me.

Me: Good choice buddy.

Laney: I'll take the Sheep.

Nico: Good choice.

Lana: I'll take the Pig.

Me: Good. We have all the symbols of the Chinese Celestial Zodiac covered.

Marinette: We sure do.

Lori: I'll take the Deer Miraculous.

Nico: And I got my own Miraculous as well.

Apeface: (to Nico) You're getting a Miraclous too, boss?

Nico: Yep. The Phoenix one.

Me: The Phoenix is awesome!

Yumi Ishiyama: (to William) Will you and Maria get Miraculous' too, William?

William: That's actually not a bad idea.

Maria: We'll think about it.

Nico: Okay. I'm gonna go check on Gabriel in prison. You want to come with Adrien?

Adrien: Sure.

Me: Tell him hello from us.

Nico: Will do.

Nico and Adrien went to the Paris Prison.

Qin: Lincoln, how did you meet Sam, Clover and Alex?

Lincoln: That is one of my most daring achievements.

Sam (TS): It was. Lincoln and J.D. were participating in Total Drama Season 8 and it was a World Tour show.

Gwen (TD): That's right. We were over in Colombia in South America and we were to rescue people stuck in quicksand. Lincoln had a really bad nightmare about his family in quicksand and he overcame his fear and saved them.

Qin: Whoa! That is really brave!

Alex (TS): Yeah. Lincoln is the bravest boy ever.

Clover: He saved us.

Me: He sure did. And he also saved them from the terror of an evil madman called the Inventor.

Lincoln: I sure did.

Earth: Lincoln is the bravest boy and the strongest powerhouse.

Lori: That's our brother for you.

Qin: Wow. Who was the worst villain you guys faced?

Clover: Oh man. There are so many of them.

Me: Yeah there are a lot of them. The worst I think in my opinion is The Inventor. You would hate this guy Qin. He was a prime example of being the most fucked up Mad Scientist ever.

Qin: What was he like?

Me: Rotten to the core and fucked up beyond all comprehension.

* * *

The Inventor appeared in the episode "Totally Busted". He was a mad scientist who created the SUDS to turn regular people into spy-ssassins, who would then assassinate spies across the world. He also invented several other weapons, which were also created to execute spies.

Both Mandy and Carmen ridiculed his hairstyle, much to his chagrin.

Inventions

Acid Venom Spy-der (robot)

Laser Vision Spy-bulb (laser sunglasses)

Spy Fly (robot)

Spy-ra (virus)

Spy-raser (rocket launcher)

Spy-strictor (force field generator)

Spy-vy (fast growing ivy)

SUDS (Simple minded Users Destroy Spies)

---

Me: But in the end, I killed him.

Qin: Good riddance.

Lana: That's nothing. You should see how many bad guys we faced when we took down Dr. Vomesa.

Qin: Who was he?

Me: He was a former scientist of W.O.O.H.P. that was fired for his experiment called Project Microspy. It was too dangerous to use and he was fired for it.

I went over his history.

---

Vomesa appeared in the episode "The Yuck Factor". He used to be a WOOHP scientist but was fired for using criminals during his experiments.

In the beginning, when Dr. V worked for WOOHP, he was responsible for the creation Project Micro-Spy, a method of shrinking agents to microscopic size for missions. But the superiors of WOOHP, including Jerry, believed Project Micro-Spy to be unacceptable due to the use of his criminal volunteers. After getting fired, Dr. V used Project Micro-Spy to enter Jerry's body in order to control WOOHP and take over the world. Luckily, the girls used Project Micro-Spy and stopped Dr. V and his men from inside Jerry, and Dr. V and is men were sent to prison, still small, though. This is unknown if they were ever restored to normal size or not.

---

Qin: That is insane!

Marinette: No kidding.

Me: Yeah. But in the end, Jerry sneezed him out and we killed all the criminals he had help him. Saving billions of dollars in Taxpayer money. I killed Dr. Vomesa by crushing him with my bare hands. Being at only the size of a cell, he was easy to kill.

Qin: You crushed him?

Me: Yep. By closing my fist and smearing his blood and guts all over my hand.

Qin: Good riddance to him.

Rachel S.D.: You said it Qin.

Varie: He got what was coming to him.

Me: Yep. But also the worst villain we faced was Macker.

Qin: Who was he?

Me: You would hate him more that any of all of the villains Sam, Clover and Alex know.

I went over his history.

---

Macker was a villain who appeared in the episode "The Fugitives".

During a previous mission, he had gotten into a fight with the spies while attempting to break into a safe. Sam tackled him, sending him falling over the railing.

Attempting to hang on, Macker took several pieces of hair from Sam, Alex, and Clover, using them as a means of hanging on for as long as he could. However, seconds later, he fell off the ledge as the spies looked on, with Macker suffering injuries so severe that the left side of his body had to be almost completely replaced with cybernetics.

After that, he was imprisoned but his grudge against the girls became overwhelmingly strong. Fueled by thoughts of exacting revenge against the spies, Macker escaped from prison and using the hair he had gathered from the spies, he created hundred of clones of the spies using the strands of their hair he ripped off when he fell.

Having created the clones, Macker ordered them to loot the world's central banks, all for the sake of destroying the spies's lives as they had tried to destroy his although Sam, Clover, and Alex intervened, successfully stopping Macker's plan of revenge as they destroyed the transmitter, preventing the clones from carrying out Macker's plan.

Macker along with the clones were all later caught by a WOOHP helicopter with Macker being imprisoned.

* * *

Qin gasped in horror!

Me: Yeah. But in the end, Clover poisoned him with a powerful delay-activated poison that took effect after we sent him into the Null Void.

Qin: Good riddance.

Me: Here, this is what he looked like.

I showed her on the computer what Macker looked like and she was both in awe and shock.

Qin: Wow! He's almost fully machine! (To Cyborg) He looks like a villain version of you Victor.

Cyborg: Yeah that was my first reaction as well. I was shocked myself.

We continued to talk about our W.O.O.H.P. adventures.

PARIS MAXIMUM SECURITY PRISON

---

In the Paris Maximum Security Prison in France, Nico and Adrien were talking to Gabriel Agreste.

Nico: So how have you been in here Gabriel?

Gabriel: Been doing good. I have been keeping to my cell and working on new fashion designs for a new line of clothes in my spare time. Been getting some exercise in as well. Needed to get in shape.

Nico: I'm glad. And Adrien is doing well too.

Adrien: Just last week I stopped bank robbers from making off with billions of dollars in gold bricks and I got an A on my math test.

Gabriel: Wow! I'm so proud of you my son.

Adrien: Thanks dad. Mom is doing good too. She is very thankful that Lily revived her.

Gabriel: I'm glad.

Nico: Well we just wanted to tell you about Adrien's progress.

Gabriel: Thank you Nico. I'm trying to stay sane with my time here.

Nico: Well your first parole is in a year and 11 months.

Gabriel: I know. Take care. And I'm so sorry that I caused all that negative tension in all of you.

Nico: I know Gabriel. It was very hard to keep everyone in line. They wanted to see you suffer for everything you did. But in the end we made sure that you ended up here for what happened.

Gabriel: Good. Thank you for visiting me.

Nico: You're welcome.

Adrien: We'll see you next week dad.

Gabriel: Okay son.

They left.

Guard: I'm glad Team Loud Phoenix Storm spared you Gabriel.

Gabriel: Me too.

Guard: I will tell you this. I know just how you feel. If my wife was in a coma, I would've done everything I could to save her as well.

Gabriel: I can tell. Thank you.

Guard: You're welcome.

---

Back at the estate we were watching TV and Nico and Adrien came back.

Me: How did it go guys?

Nico: Went well.

Adrien: Yeah.

Me: Good.

Then the computer opened up and we all got sucked into it!

Me: WHEEE!

Clover: Bad time to get WOOHPed!

A box comes out of the ground in Jerry's office looking like a Casino entrance. We came out of it.

Brawn: I've gotta say, Jerry. That was probably the best WOOHPing ever.

Jerry: Thank you. I'm getting into the mood. I've going to Vegas this weekend!

Me: Oh hello Jerry. I take it this isn't just to tell us you're going on vacation.

Jerry: No unfortunately.

Kim Possible: So what's the sitch?

On the monitor Jerry showed us a villain that the girls know.

Clover: Boogie Gus escaped?

Jerry: Exactly

Me: Who was he?

Sam (TS): He's a 1970's Disco Villain.

Me: Disco has been dead for 40 years.

Sam went over his history.

---

Boogie Gus is an African-American 1970s/1980s loving villain and former WOOHP custodian who appeared in the Season 3 episode, "Forward to the Past". He planned to go back to the 1970's and convince Jerry Lewis to create an evil WOOHP with him, which would stand for "World Organization Of Harming People".

At the start of Season 4, he joined the LAMOS and became an 1980s lover, even though he still sported his 1970s afro/disco style.

In "I Hate The Eighties" it's shown that despite his occupation as a custodian, Gus is surprisingly intelligent and technically sound, creating a device called the 80fier, which causes those hit by it to slowly reverse in age. He ultimately planned to turn the world into his own 1980s-wonderland and to make Jerry and the spies younger, but retreated when his device was destroyed.

In "Like, So Totally Not Spies", it was shown that he's bad at keeping secrets, much to Terrence Lewis's and Helga Von Guggen's annoyance, such as when he accidentally revealed Terrence's plan to leave Jerry tied up in the LAMOS submarine while it would gradually flood, and when he revealed that Helga's bracelets were the source of the girls' inability to remember their lives as spies.

---

We gasped.

Me: This guy is about to get a one way ticket to the Null Void.

Jerry: Go get him guys.

Me: With pleasure.

We set out to get him.

He was over at an abandoned dance studio in the middle of Nashville, Tennessee.

---

NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE

---

We arrived at the abandoned dance studio.

Me: He's at the old abandoned Groove Hut in Nashville, Tennessee. It was shut down 40 years ago when the Disco era died.

Nico: But their music is still popular.

Me: I know.

We went in and it was a dark and dusty place.

Lucy Loud: This building is perfect for vampires to hide.

Clover: It sure is creepy here.

Me: It is.

We got to the main dance floor and then the lights turned on and we saw BOOGIE GUS!

Me: Boogie Gus.

Boogie Gus: It's about time you guys showed up!

Nico: I guess Grodd got our message that the ceasefire's over.

Boogie Gus: And I'm glad he did! It's been weeks since I committed my last crime.

Me: Well the only place you're going to now is the Null Void for all eternity after we bash your brains out.

Boogie Gus: Before we do that, I challenge you and Star Lord to a dance. Me VS you 2.

Star Lord: A dance? Between you, me, and J.D.?

Boogie Gus: That's right! I know you can't pass up a challenge. Unless you're scared?

Star Lord: (laughs) Scared? Me? Give me and J.D. a few minutes to get ready!

Me and Star Lord huddled.

Star Lord: This guy has a lot of experience in the world of Disco.

Me: I know. But it was good music back then. You like disco music Peter and so do I. We can do it.

Star Lord: Okay.

Me: Lets groove baby!

Boogie Gus: All right!

I spun around and I was in 1970's Disco Attire and I looked awesome.

Laney: This is gonna be awesome!

Lincoln: I love Disco Music.

Me and Boogie Gus then got to dancing and we were dancing against each other and it was rad. We were dancing to Staying Alive by the Bee Gees.

Well, you can tell by the way I use my walk

I'm a woman's man, no time to talk

Music loud and women warm, I've been kicked around

Since I was born

And now it's alright, it's okay

And you may look the other way

We can try to understand

The New York Times' effect on man

Whether you're a brother or whether you're a mother

You're stayin' alive, stayin' alive

Feel the city breakin' and everybody shakin'

And we're stayin' alive, stayin' alive

Ah, ha, ha, ha, stayin' alive, stayin' alive

Ah, ha, ha, ha, stayin' alive
Well now, I get low and I get high
And if I can't get either, I really try
Got the wings of heaven on my shoes
I'm a dancin' man and I just can't lose
You know it's alright, it's okay
I'll live to see another day
We can try to understand
The New York Times' effect on man
Whether you're a brother or whether you're a mother
You're stayin' alive, stayin' alive
Feel the city breakin' and everybody shakin'
And we're stayin' alive, stayin' alive
Ah, ha, ha, ha, stayin' alive, stayin' alive
Ah, ha, ha, ha, stayin' alive
Life goin' nowhere, somebody help me
Somebody help me, yeah
Life goin' nowhere, somebody help me, yeah
I'm stayin' alive
Well, you can tell by the way I use my walk
I'm a woman's man, no time to talk
Music loud and women warm

I've been kicked around since I was born

And now it's all right, it's okay

And you may look the other way

We can try to understand

The New York Times' effect on man

Whether you're a brother or whether you're a mother

You're stayin' alive, stayin' alive

Feel the city breakin' and everybody shakin'

And we're stayin' alive, stayin' alive

Ah, ha, ha, ha, stayin' alive, stayin' alive

Ah, ha, ha, ha, stayin' alive

Life goin' nowhere, somebody help me

Somebody help me, yeah

Life goin' nowhere, somebody help me, yeah

I'm stayin' alive

Life goin' nowhere, somebody help me

Somebody help me, yeah

Life goin' nowhere, somebody help me, yeah

I'm stayin' alive

Life goin' nowhere, somebody help me

Somebody help me, yeah

Life goin' nowhere, somebody help me, yeah

I'm stayin' alive

Life goin' nowhere, somebody help me

Somebody help me, yeah

Life goin' nowhere, somebody help me, yeah

I'm stayin' alive

I spun, did awesome stances and did all kinds of moves that no disco dancer ever thought of. Boogie Gus saw my rad dancing and he was shocked that I knew such awesomely rad moves. He just couldn't believe it.

Star Lord and Boogie Gus then danced to Shake Your Groove Thing by Peaches & Herb.

Shake it, shake it

Shake your groove thing, shake your groove thing, yeah, yeah

Show 'em how we do it now

Shake your groove thing, shake your groove thing, yeah, yeah

Show 'em how we do it now, show 'em how we do it now

Let's show the world we can dance

Bad enough to strut our stuff

The music gives us a chance

We do more out on the floor

Groovin' loose or heart to heart

We put in motion every single part

Funky sounds wall to wall

We're bumpin' booties, havin' us a ball, y'all

Shake your groove thing, shake your groove thing, yeah, yeah

Show 'em how we do it now

Shake your groove thing, shake your groove thing, yeah, yeah

Show 'em how we do it now

We got the rhythm tonight

All the rest know we're the best

Our shadows crash in the light

Twistin', turnin', we keep burnin'

Shake it high or shake it low

We take our bodies where they want to go

Feel that beat, never stop

Oh, hold me tight, spin me like a top

Shake your groove thing, shake your groove thing, yeah, yeah

Show 'em how we do it now

Shake your groove thing, shake your groove thing, yeah, yeah

Show 'em how we do it now

There's nothing more that I'd like to do

Than take the floor and dance with you

Keep dancin', let's keep dancin'

Shake it, shake it

Shake it, shake it

Groovin' loose or heart to heart

We put in motion every single part

Funky sounds wall to wall

We're bumpin' booties, havin' us a ball, y'all

Shake your groove thing, shake your groove thing, yeah, yeah

Show 'em how we do it now

Shake your groove thing, shake your groove thing, yeah, yeah

Show 'em how we do it now, yeah

Shake it

Show 'em how we do it now, yeah

Shake it, shake it

Star Lord was dancing like there was no tomorrow and he was doing just as good as me. Boogie Gus was shocked!

We then danced to Disco Inferno by the Trammps.

Burn baby burn

Burn baby burn

Burn baby burn

Burn baby burn

Burning

To my surprise - listen - one hundred stories high

People getting loose y'all, getting down on the roof, do you hear?

The funk was flaming, out of control

It was so entertaining, when the boogie started to explode

[Hook]

I heard somebody say

Burn baby burn, disco inferno

Burn baby burn, burn the mother down

Burn baby burn, disco inferno

Burn baby burn, burn the mother down

Burning

Satisfaction, came in the chain reaction

I couldn't get enough, 'till I had to self-destruct

The heat was on, rising to the top

Everybody's going strong, and that is when my spark got hot

I heard somebody say

Burn baby burn, disco inferno

Burn baby burn, burn the mother down

Burn baby burn, disco inferno

Burn baby burn, burn the mother down

Burning

Up above my head, I hear music in the air

That makes me know there's somebody somewhere

Satisfaction, came in a chain reaction, do you hear?

I couldn't get enough, so I had to self-destruct

The heat was on, rising to the top

Everybody's going strong, that is when my spark got hot

I heard somebody say

Burn baby burn, disco inferno

Burn baby burn, burn the mother down

Burn baby burn, disco inferno

Burn baby burn, burn the mother down

Burn baby burn

Burn baby burn, burn the mother down

Burn baby burn, disco inferno

Burn baby burn, burn the mother down

Burning

(Just can't stop

When my spark gets hot)

[Just can't stop]

(When my spark gets hot)

I don't know if you understand what i'm talking about

I'm not talking about burning down a building

It's coming from the soul

(Just can't stop)

Soul funk

(When my spark gets hot)

Burning in my soul

[Just can't stop]

Ow

Now, listen

Don't you rescue me

(Just can't stop)

Let my spirit burn free

(When my spark gets hot)

Don't you rescue me, no

[Just can't stop]

Let my spirit burn free

(When my spark gets hot)

Everybody say ow

[Ow]

Say ow

[Ow]

You feel the spirit tonight

[Ow]

Disco funk

[Ow]

Come here on the floor

Let's rock some more

I'm on fire

[Burning, Burning]

I'm on fire

[Burning, Burning]

Let the good times roll

[Burning, Burning]

Do you feel alright?

[Burning]

Feel pretty good, y'all

[Burning]

People getting loose

[Burning]

Getting down on the groove

[Burning]

The flame is higher

[Burning]

Is higher

[Burning]

Alright

[Burning]

I can't get enough

[Burning]

I want some more

[Burning]

I want some more

[Burning]

I'm burning

[Burning]

I'm burning

[Burning]

Burning in the soul

Burning, burning, burning, burning, burning, burning, burning

(Just can't stop

When my spark gets hot)

(Just can't stop

When my spark gets hot)

[Just can't stop]

(When my spark gets hot)

(Just can't stop

When my spark gets hot)

[Just can't stop]

(When my spark gets hot)

(Just can't stop

When my spark gets hot)

[Just can't stop]

(When my spark gets hot)

When my spark gets hot)

[Just can't stop]

(When my spark gets hot)

Burn baby burn, disco inferno

Burn baby burn, burn the mother down

Burn baby burn, disco inferno

Burn baby burn, burn the mother down

Burn baby burn

Burn baby burn, burn the mother down

We were really dancing and Boogie Gus was down.

Me: Looks like we win Gus. Now we fight.

Megaforce Ranger: Legendary Ranger Mode: Animal Supersquad!

The Megaforce Power Rangers turned into the Liveman Rangers from 1989. Troy Burrows turned into the Red Falcon Ranger, Noah Carver turned into the Blue Dolphin Ranger, Jake Halling turned into the Green Sai Ranger, Gia Moran turned into the Yellow Lion Ranger, Emma Goodall turned into the Black Bison Ranger and Orion turned into the Gold Condor Ranger.

Boogie Gus: Never seen those Rangers around before.

Me: They turned into Power Rangers over in Japan from 1989. Power Rangers has been on for 44+ Years. Japan created it over there and we got the idea for the Power Rangers over here in 1993.

Sam (TS): (to William and Maria) How about you two show Gus your fighting moves while dancing together?

William: That's an awesome idea.

Maria: Great idea!

Me: Lets all do it.

Lana: YEAH!

Me: Lets get down and Funky!

We fought and danced to Beds Are Burning by Midnight Oil.

Out where the river broke

The bloodwood and the desert oak

Holden wrecks and boiling diesels

Steam in forty-five degrees

The time has come to say fair's fair

To pay the rent, to pay our share

The time has come, a fact's a fact

It belongs to them, let's give it back

How can we dance when our earth is turning?

How do we sleep while our beds are burning?

How can we dance when our earth is turning?

How do we sleep while our beds are burning?

The time has come to say fair's fair

To pay the rent now, to pay our share

Four wheels scare the cockatoos

From Kintore, east to Yuendemu

The Western Desert lives and breathes

In forty-five degrees

The time has come to say fair's fair

To pay the rent, to pay our share

The time has come, a fact's a fact

It belongs to them, let's give it back

How can we dance when our earth is turning?

How do we sleep while our beds are burning?

How can we dance when our earth is turning?

How do we sleep while our beds are burning?

The time has come to say fair's fair

To pay the rent now, to pay our share

Troy Burrows slashed him all over with his Falcon Saber, Gia Moran punched him with her Lion Punch, Noah Carvers blasted him with his Dolphin Bow, Emma Goodall bashed him with her Bison Staff, Jake Halling slashed him with his Sai Cutters and Orion lashed him with his Condor Whip. Lastly we danced and fought him to Don't You Forget About Me by Simple Minds.

Hey, hey, hey, hey

Ooh woh

Won't you come see about me?

I'll be alone, dancing you know it baby

Tell me your troubles and doubts

Giving me everything inside and out and

Love's strange so real in the dark

Think of the tender things that we were working on

Slow change may pull us apart

When the light gets into your heart, baby

Don't you, forget about me

Don't, don't, don't, don't

Don't you, forget about me

Will you stand above me?

Look my way, never love me

Rain keeps falling, rain keeps falling

Down, down, down

Will you recognize me?

Call my name or walk on by

Rain keeps falling, rain keeps falling

Down, down, down, down

Hey, hey, hey, hey

Ooh woh

Don't you try and pretend

It's my feeling we'll win in the end

I won't harm you or touch your defenses

Vanity and security

Don't you forget about me

I'll be alone, dancing you know it baby

Going to take you apart

I'll put us back together at heart, baby

Don't you, forget about me

Don't, don't, don't, don't

Don't you, forget about me

As you walk on by

Will you call my name?

As you walk on by

Will you call my name?

When you walk away

Or will you walk away?

Will you walk on by?

Come on, call my name

Will you call my name?

I say

(Lala la la lala la la)

Will you call my name?

As you walk on by

Bonnie Tyler's Holding Out For A Hero plays.

Where have all the good men gone

And where are all the gods?

Where's the streetwise Hercules to fight the rising odds?

Isn't there a white knight upon a fiery steed?

Late at night I toss and I turn

And I dream of what I need

I need a hero

I'm holding out for a hero 'til the end of the night

He's gotta be strong

And he's gotta be fast

And he's gotta be fresh from the fight

I need a hero

I'm holding out for a hero 'til the morning light

He's gotta be sure

And it's gotta be soon

And he's gotta be larger than life!

Larger than life

Somewhere after midnight

In my wildest fantasy

Somewhere just beyond my reach

There's someone reaching back for me

Racing on the thunder and rising with the heat

It's gonna take a superman to sweep me off my feet

I need a hero

I'm holding out for a hero 'til the end of the night

He's gotta be strong

And he's gotta be fast

And he's gotta be fresh from the fight

I need a hero

I'm holding out for a hero 'til the morning light

He's gotta be sure

And it's gotta be soon

And he's gotta be larger than life

I need a hero

I'm holding out for a hero 'til the end of the night

Up where the mountains meet the heavens above

Out where the lightning splits the sea

I could swear there is someone, somewhere

Watching me

Through the wind, and the chill, and the rain

And the storm, and the flood

I can feel his approach like a fire in my blood

I need a hero

I'm holding out for a hero 'til the end of the night

He's gotta be strong and he's gotta be fast

And he's gotta be fresh from the fight

I need a hero

I'm holding out for a hero 'til the morning light

He's gotta be sure

And it's gotta be soon

And he's gotta be larger than life

I need a hero

I'm holding out for a hero 'til the end of the night

He's gotta be strong and he's gotta be fast

And he's gotta be fresh from the fight

I need a hero

I'm holding out for a hero 'til the morning light

He's gotta be sure

And it's gotta be soon

And he's gotta be larger than life

I need a hero

I'm holding out for a hero 'til the end of the night

Lincoln: Now you're going to see why I'm the Dance Dance Revolution King! LIGHTNING STEP DANCEKICK!

Lincoln channeled powerful lightning into his feet and danced incredible dance moves around Boogie Gus and he was electrocuted in a massive dome of lightning.

Sam (TS): Time for some awesome dancing! FIREBURN STEP TWIRL!

Sam channeled fire into her feet and danced around Boogie Gus and burned him in a dome of fire.

Clover: Lets see how you like this! ICESTORM FREEZE DANCE!

Clover channeled ice into her feet and she twirled around Boogie Gus and froze him in a block of ice.

Alex: Try this on! LEAFSTORM SHRED DANCE!

Alex spun around and leaves swirled around her all over and they cut him good.

We win!

Me: Yeah!

We cheered wildly!

We went up to Boogie Gus.

Lincoln: You know what, Gus? You taught us something today.

Boogie Gus: What's that?

Nico: That things like disco are too awesome to be considered dead. And because of that, we've decide to spare you by throwing you in the Null Void prison.

Alya: But you'll be dancing your way there.

Boogie Gus: Say what now?

I fired the Null Void Projector and it opened a portal into the Null Void. Alya played her flute and it hypnotized him and he danced into the Null Void. He went through the portal and he was gone.

The portal closed.

Me: That was so fun!

Lincoln: It sure was.

Nico: This had to be the most musical fight we've ever had.

Me: It sure was. We danced to all kinds of great songs from the 70's and 80's.

Lincoln: We sure did. (To the viewers) Dancing is so much fun and it goes great with music.

Me: It sure does.

We went back to W.O.O.H.P. and told Jerry everything.

Jerry: Well done to all of you. And I must say you all have impressive dance moves.

Me: Thanks Jerry. It was awesome taking on a Disco Theme villain. But even though its been over 40 years, we still have that Disco Flare inside us.

Nico: We sure do.

We laughed.

Another Fanfiction Done and another wild villain defeated.

This has to be the first time we used music in our fights while dancing to the song. I love the music from the 70's, 80's, 90's and 2000's. Awesome! Boogie Gus was a far out villain dudes! NicoChan11 gave me the ideas for this. Thanks man. Let me know what you all think. Next up is the Animatronic Robot Animals Gang from Regular Show and we're going to pound them into scrap metal!

See you all tomorrow

Evil Animatronic Animals

I was in the simulator doing an exercise. I was armed with the magical Sword of Gryffindor. It was like the mighty sword Excalibur. It chose me because I am now a member of Gryffindor house and am now a Gryffindor Wizard. I have a Gryffindor Scarf wrapped around my waist as proof of my joining.

---

The sword of Gryffindor was made a thousand years ago by goblins, the magical world's most skilled metalworkers, and is therefore enchanted. Fashioned from pure silver, it is inset with rubies, the stone that represents Gryffindor in the hour-glasses that count the house points at Hogwarts. Godric Gryffindor's name is engraved just beneath the hilt.

The sword was made to Godric Gryffindor's specifications by Ragnuk the First, finest of the goblin silversmiths, and therefore King (in goblin culture, the ruler does not work less than the others, but more skillfully). When it was finished, Ragnuk coveted it so much that he pretended that Gryffindor had stolen it from him, and sent minions to steal it back. Gryffindor defended himself with his wand, but did not kill his attackers. Instead he sent them back to their king bewitched, to deliver the threat that if he ever tried to steal from Gryffindor again, Gryffindor would unsheathe the sword against them all. The goblin king took the threat seriously and left Gryffindor in possession of his rightful property, but remained resentful until he died.

A legend persists, in some sections of the goblin community, that Gryffindor actually stole the sword from Ragnuk. This is partly a result of belief among some goblins that goblin-made items rightfully belong to goblins, rather than the heirs of those who may have purchased them.

Affray in the Chamber of Secrets

In May of 1993, the sword materialised inside the old school Sorting

Hat and appeared to Harry Potter, whom the hat was given to when he arrived in the Chamber of Secrets to save his best friend's sister, Ginny Weasley, from being drained of her life force by Tom Riddle's Diary and eaten by the Basilisk. Harry used the sword to kill the Basilisk, which was hiding inside the bowels of the Chamber.[4] This caused the sword to be imbued with basilisk venom (since goblin-made items only imbibe what makes them stronger) and hence gained the ability to destroy Horcruxes, although Harry instead used one of the Basilisk's fangs to destroy the diary, which eliminated the sentient memory of Tom Riddle it contained and restored Ginny's vitality. After the events of that year, the sword resided in the Headmaster's office and was kept safe within a glass case.

Hunt for Horcruxes

During the summer of 1996, Albus Dumbledore used the sword on the Gaunt family ring. The sword cracked the stone in the ring, thus destroying it as a Horcrux. It still worked as the Resurrection Stone. Dumbledore tried to use it to talk to his deceased relatives, but failed.

Before he died, Dumbledore entrusted the sword to Harry in his will. However, Rufus Scrimgeour claimed that the sword was not Dumbledore's to give away. The Minister stated that it was a school heirloom, not personal property and refused to give it to Harry. This caused the trio substantial problems. Dumbledore placed an identical copy of the sword in his office, because he knew that the British Ministry of Magic would try to confiscate it and hid the real sword in a hole in the wall behind his portrait. Sure enough, the sword on display in the Headmaster's office was later taken by Rufus Scrimgeour for examination.

When the sword was returned to the Headmaster's office by the Ministry, Dumbledore's Army students Ginny Weasley, Neville Longbottom, and Luna Lovegood attempted to steal it for Harry. The group was caught and punished as a result. Following that incident, Severus Snape passed the counterfeit sword to Bellatrix Lestrange. Bellatrix then stored it in her Gringotts vault alongside Helga Hufflepuff's cup, one of Voldemort's Horcruxes.

Upon discovering where Harry and his friends were camping out, Dumbledore's portrait instructed Snape to give Harry the real sword without Harry knowing that it was Snape, in case Voldemort found out through Legilimency on Harry. Snape deposited the real sword in a frozen lake in the Forest of Dean and used his corporeal Doe Patronus to guide Harry to the sword. When Harry tried to retrieve the sword, the Locket of Slytherin closed around his neck and attempted to strangle him, sensing that its destruction was near. Ron Weasley came to Harry's rescue, retrieved the sword from the lake and used it to stab the locket, destroying it.

Skirmish at Malfoy Manor

Later, Harry, Ron, and Hermione were captured by the Death Eaters and sent to Malfoy Manor. Harry and Ron were imprisoned in the cellar along with Luna Lovegood, Dean Thomas, Mr Ollivander and the goblin Griphook while Hermione was being tortured and interrogated by Bellatrix Lestrange. Bellatrix demanded to know where the trio came into the possession of the sword, thinking that they had broke into her vault for it. She summoned Griphook to verify the sword, and at Harry's request, Griphook lied and said that it was a fake.

Break-in of Gringotts Wizarding Bank

When Harry and the rest were saved by Dobby to Shell Cottage, Harry asked for Griphook's assistance to break into Bellatrix Lestrange's vault at Gringotts, as he suspected the Cup of Hufflepuff was hidden within it. Griphook, impressed by Harry's respectful treatment of the house elf, agreed to help on the grounds that he would be given the real sword as payment. Harry agreed reluctantly. When their break-in was discovered, Griphook seized the real sword and ran with it. Afterwards, the goblins were summoned to Malfoy Manor to deliver the news of the Gringotts break-in to Voldemort; in a fit of blind rage, Voldemort murdered all those present for their failure in protecting the vault and the extremely valuable objects inside.

Battle of Hogwarts

In the Battle of Hogwarts, the sword reappeared in the Sorting Hat for Neville Longbottom and, while following Harry Potter's orders, he used it to behead Nagini, Voldemort's snake and his last remaining Horcrux with a single stroke of the blade, rendering Voldemort a mortal man once more. The sword was last mentioned lying beside Neville in the Great Hall following the conclusion of the final battle and the end to the Second Wizarding War.

The Calamity

During the mysterious Calamity which affected the Wizarding world in the 2010s, the Sword of Gryffindor was one of the numerous magical items and artefacts that appeared scattered across the world, called Foundables for which volunteer wizards and witches of the Statute of Secrecy Task Force had to deal with in order to uphold the International Statute of Wizarding Secrecy.

---

I saw the entrance into the Chamber of Secrets opened and I went in and it was a dark and crazy chamber.

Me: This place reeks of evil.

I then saw the unconscious body of Ginny Weasley.

Me: Ginny!

I went over to her.

Me: This is the work of that diary.

Then a figure came out.

?: (British Accent) She won't wake.

I saw that it was Tom Marvolo Riddle before he became Lord Voldemort.

Me: Tom Marvolo Riddle.

Tom Riddle: That's right. But I'm a memory. Preserved in a diary for over 50 years. You must be J.D. Knudson.

Me: That's right. You did this to her.

Tom Riddle: Yes. It was Ginny Weasley who opened the Chamber of Secrets, it was Ginny who sent the Basilisk on the Mudbloods and Filch's Cat, It was Ginny who wrote the threatening messages on the walls.

Me: Why would you do this to her?

Tom Riddle: Because I told her to. You'll find I can be very persuasive. Not that she knew what she was doing she was, shall we say in a kind of trance? Still the power of the diary began to scare her and she tried to dispose of it in the girls bathroom and then, who should find it but Harry Potter. The very person I was most anxious to meet.

Me: Why is that?

Tom Riddle: I knew I had to talk to him, meet him if I could. So I decided to show him my capture of that brainless oaf Hagrid, to gain his trust.

Me: You fucking bastard! Hagrid is Harry's friend and you framed him for crimes he didn't commit.

Tom Riddle: It was my word against Hagrid's.

Me: Bullshit. Albus Dumbledore knows he's innocent. And I have a feeling he saw right through you.

Tom Riddle: He certainly kept a close watch on me after that. I knew it wouldn't be safe to open the Chamber again while I was still at school. So I decided to leave behind a diary, preserving my 16-year-old self within its pages so that one day I would be able to lead another to finish Salazar Slytherin's noble work.

Me: His "Work" is a world without free will. And a genocidal path that will destroy much of the human race. As we speak there is an antidote being made for all those who were petrified because of you.

Tom Riddle: Haven't I told you? Killing Mudbloods doesn't matter to me anymore.

Me: Then what does besides your racially motivated bullshit?

Tom Riddle: For many months now my new target has been Harry Potter.

Me: What do you want with him?

Tom Riddle: How is it that the baby with no extraordinary magical talent whatsoever was able to defeat the greatest wizard of all time? How did he escape with nothing but a scar while Lord Voldemort's powers were destroyed?

Me: That's a question you should ask him yourself. Voldemort paid the ultimate price for his crimes. And he was way after you.

Tom Riddle: Voldemort is my past, present and future.

Tom wrote his name with his wand in fire letters "Tom Marvolo Riddle" and then he rearranged it and it now said "I am Lord Voldemort."

Me: So you are the heir of Slytherin. You are also fuckpot Voldemort.

Tom Riddle: Surely you didn't think I was going to keep my filthy muggle fathers name? No. I've fashioned myself a new name, a name I knew wizards everywhere would one day fear to speak when I became the greatest sorcerer in the world.

Me: You are a monster Tom! You've killed thousands of innocent people all to satisfy you're own twisted ambitions from the devil himself! And for the record, Albus Dumbledore and Harry Potter are 10 times better than you are.

Tom Riddle: Dumbledore's been driven out of this castle by the mere memory of me!

Me: Bullshit! He will never be gone! Not as long as we remain and will always be loyal to him!

Tom Riddle: Then lets test that theory.

Tom went over to the face of Salazar Slytherin and he spoke in Parseltongue.

The statue's mouth opened.

Tom Riddle: Lets match the power of Lord Voldemort, heir of Salazar Slytherin against the all powerful J.D. Knudson.

Me: Bring it on you son of a bitch.

Then a huge snake came out and it was the BASILISK!

It was a really long snake!

I fired a powerful energy blast at the snake and blew it into a million pieces and killed it.

Me: Slytherin's pet. What a waste.

I held up the sword.

Me: Recognize this?

Tom Riddle: It's the Sword of Godric Gryffindor.

I then grabbed the diary and opened it.

Tom Riddle: What are you doing?

I pulled out a dagger and slashed my wrist and coat the blade in my poisonous blood. I had the knife ready to stab the diary.

Me: Sending your fucking ass back to Hell!

Tom Riddle: Stop! NO!

I stabbed the book with the dagger and blood poured out of it. Tom started to fade and I stabbed it again and I closed it and stabbed the cover.

He exploded and disintegrated.

Ginny woke up.

Me: Ginny, are you okay?

Ginny: (British Accent) J.D. it was me. But I swear I didn't mean to. It made me.

Me: I know Ginny. I know. It wasn't your fault. It was Voldemort.

I took the Diary and threw it into the air and I slashed it into a thousand pieces with the sword. The Sword was now imbued with Basilisk Venom and my poisonous blood. Then I fired an energy blast and vaporized it into ash.

Me: 2 down five to go.

I merged Ginny with her counterpart and left the simulator and the exercise ended. Everyone cheered wildly.

Nico: Awesome job J.D.!

Me: Thanks man. The real book has been destroyed as well. But we still have 5 more Horcruxes to destroy.

Nico: We sure do.

Later at the Paris Maximum Security Prison, Nico and a few of our team was visiting Gabriel yet again.

Gabriel: Back already, Nico? I think these visits are becoming a new hobby for you.

Nico: Relax. I just need advice on something.

Gabriel: Okay.

Nico: My friend Sabrina here needs some advice on how to use the Butterfly Miraculous.

Sabrina: That's right. So we came to you for help.

Gabriel: So, Sabrina needs using the Butterfly Miraculous.

Roxas: And she would like some advice on how ot use it. If you're ok with that.

Gabriel: Oh course. But just so you know I did not authorize Lila to shoot the Mayor and Ms. Cheng.

Numbuh 2: So you didn't tell Lila to shoot Marinette's mom and the mayor? She did it without your permission?!

Gabriel: I respect Sabine Cheng and Mayor Bourgeois too much to want any real harm to come to them. I was planning to recreate my Akumatized army using a method that wouldn't put anyone in the hospital. But Lila got desperate and thought that shooting a gun at two grown ups was okay since she was close to being found out.

Maria: Well, now we have another reason to be pissed off at Lila.

Nico: Yeah. Lila is now in the Saturn Insane Asylum's Triple Maximum Security section. Her cellmate now is Leena Klammer, the Orphan Killer. We transferred her from the Antarctica Prison to the Triple Max Section of the Saturn Prison because they are both extremely dangerous.

Gabriel: I see.

Thrust: With good behavior, you could be out on by New Years.

Gabriel: (chuckles) I wouldn't count on it. I've had to defend myself against a lot of inmates wanting a piece of me.

G1 Bumblebee: We're not kidding. Say the word and we'll get you out of here.

Gabriel: No. I have to serve out the rest of my prison sentence. So don't worry about getting me out. You all go live your lives. You deserve it.

William: Can we at least have you let out once in a while so you, Adrien and Emile can have family meals together?

Gabriel: I'm fine with that.

Nico: We'll let you be with them for Christmas. How does that sound?

Gabriel: That sounds good.

Nico: Good.

They had Gabriel teach Sabrina how to use the Butterfly Miraculous. She learned fast. She promised to not use it the same way as Gabriel did as Hawk Moth.

Later we were watching TV when the alarm went off.

Me: Uh oh.

We went to the computer and we found out that the Capicola Gang was back.

Mordecai: The Capicola Gang!?

Rigby: They almost ruined Pops's birthday.

Me: You guys had an encounter with them before?

Benson: We sure did. We went to get Pops a great birthday present and we went to get him some Fuzzy Dice.

Skips: But we had no idea that the Fuzzy Dice were filled with Millions of dollars in stolen uncut diamonds.

Me: Whoa! Let me see here.

I pulled up the info about the Capicola Gang.

* * *

At one point of time, the gang knocked over Big City Jewelers and made off with a stash of uncut diamonds. They kept the stolen diamonds in a pair of fuzzy dice. Knowing the police would come after them, they went down to the Fun Fun Zone, storing the fuzzy dice in the prize walls.

The Chase

Ten years later, after Mordecai, Rigby, Muscle Man, Hi Five Ghost, Skips and Benson won a million tickets to claim the fuzzy dice, the gang tried to make off with them. The group pursued them all the way to the docks, where the FBI showed up shortly after and shot them with guns. It took a lot of firepower to bring them down.

---

We gasped.

Me: So they are a gang of Animatronic Robot Mascots?

Laney: That is weird. And I thought the Animatronics at Spunk E. Pigeons were weird.

Me: Not only that but they are on the FBI's top 10 most wanted list.

Nico: Wow!

Me: Now we're going to chase them via horse.

Vince: Awesome!

We got to our horses and Rapidash's. Some of us decided to fly.

Sideswipe: (turns into vehicle mode) I don't think horses are necessary here. Us Cybertronians can be enough to catch up to those animatronics easily.

Me: All right. (Puts a siren hat on) Lets roll!

We were off.

(The Night Begins To Shine by B.E.R. plays)

I turned on my Siren Hat.

We saw the Capicola Gang driving fast down the highway.

Me: There they are!

They saw us behind them.

Duck Lady: It's Team Loud Phoenix Storm!

Capicola Leader: Shoot them!

Louie and the Duck Girl pulled out guns and they were shooting at us.

We were dodging and deflecting their shots.

Nico: Jesus Christ! They're shooting!

Lana: It's like a scene out of an action movie.

Me: If we can blow up their car we can fight them on the ground!

G1 Thrust: Lets use our combos! CYBER KEY POWER!

The Decepticon Cyber Planet Key went into his back and it enhanced his missiles 100-fold.

Roxas: Lets get them! AUTOBOT CYBER KEY POWER!

The Autobot Cyber Planet Key went into his Right Arm Device and it enabled him to use Cybertron Red Alert's shoulder cannon.

G1 Thrust and Roxas: LASER MISSILESTORM BURST!

They both fired lasers and missiles and they hit the back of the Capicola Gang's car and it caused the car to explode.

We stopped and we were ready to face them!

Me: Capicola Gang, you're under arrest for grand larceny.

Duck Lady: You'll never take us alive.

Me: Then we'll blow you three to pieces.

Megaforce Rangers: Legendary Ranger Mode: Star Force Five!

The Megaforce Rangers turned into the Fiveman Rangers from 1990. Troy Burrows turned into the Red Fiveman, Noah Carver turned into the Blue Fiveman, Jake Halling turned into the Black Fiveman, Gia Moran turned into the Yellow Fiveman, Emma Goodall turned into the pink Fiveman and Orion turned into the Shadow Ranger of S.P.D.

Duck Lady: Are those Ranger supposed to be named after that High Five Ghost wimp?

Me: For your information you overgrown tin can, they turned into rangers from Japan that aired in 1990.

Maria: You guys need to short out!

Maria fired a powerful blast of water.

Capicola Gang Leader: (avoid Maria's water blast) Everything the other villains said about you punks was true. You've all gone soft! (punches Lincoln) Is that it? Are you all trying to be better heroes? Is that why you took the fight out here? To protect people from getting hurt? Well, I've got news for you, Team Loud Phoenix Storm! Those people you're all protecting? They think you're bigger monsters then we are! (shoots me in the ribs)

Me: Shut the fuck up!

Capicola Gang Leader: WHAT!?

He saw that I had the bullet in my fingers.

Me: You tin cans are bad news and now you will die!

Nico: Capicola Gang, you fuckfreaks have failed this city!

Me: Take them down!

We went at them and I punched the Capicola Gang Leader in the face and kicked him in the stomach. Lana fired a powerful blast of ice lightning and froze Louie and Kiki the Marsupilami Girl wrapped the Duck Girl in her really long tail.

Kiki: Time for you to go for a Spin! HOOBA!

She pulled and the Duck Girl spun like a top.

Sabrina: Time for everything I learned to be put to the test. Nooroo! Wings Take Flight!

Sabrina then turned into a good version of Hawk Moth. But instead of Hawk Moth, she now calls herself Undermoth! She had beautiful Owl Butterfly Wings and she had a beautiful butterfly sleeveless Trench Coat with butterflies all over it and she had the kanji for Owl Butterflies of the Moon's Justice on the back. 月の正義のフクロウ蝶 She also had a powerful magic wand.

Nico: Wow! You look incredible Sabrina!

Sabrina: Thanks Nico.

Nico: Lets see what I can do. Pyri! Fire Wings Burn!

Nico was enveloped in a powerful ball of fire and he had a powerful sleeveless fire body suit appear on him and wings made of pure fire sprouted from his back and he had an awesome sleeveless trench coat with fire all over it and the kanji for The Virtuous Flames of The Phoenix was written on it. フェニックスの高潔な炎 He also had a deadly sword of fire.

Nico: Wow! Awesome!

Nico fired a powerful blast of fire at the Capicola Gang Leader and burned his skin and clothes off and it revealed his metallic body. Nico slashed him with his sword and it burned the leader all over.

Mordecai: Do you three even realize that you almost ruined Pops' birthday?!

Duck Lady: We don't care!

Lincoln punched the leader in the face and fired a massive blast of lightning and electrocuted him. Troy Burrows slashed Louie with his V Sword, Noah Carver smashed Louise with his Twin Arrays, Jake Halling slashed him with his Power Cutter, Gia Moran smashed him with her Cutie Circle and Emma Goodall lashed him with her Cutie Circle. Orion slashed the Duck Lady with his Shadow Sword.

G1 Bumblebee: Lets get him! CYBER KEY POWER!

The Autobot Cyber Planet Key went into his back and enhanced his laser blasters 100-fold.

Numbuh 2: Time to kick some animatronic butt! ANIMATRON CYBER KEY POWER!

The Animatron Cyber Planet Key went into Numbuh 2's Arm device and it gave him Scourge's 2 Dragon Heads.

G1 Bumblebee and Numbuh 2: FLAMING LASER FIRESTORM!

G1 Bumblebee and Numbuh 2 fired powerful blasts of fire and lasers and they hit Louie and blew him to pieces.

Me: Lets finish these clods!

Kiki: Hooba! Time for some Marsupilami Power! YELLOW TAILWHIP SLASHSTORM!

Kiki slashes the Capicola Leader with her really long tail all over and she lashed him good.

Lincoln: Time for some lightning! LIGHTNING DRAGON THUNDERCLAP!

Lincoln fired a powerful dragon of pure lightning and it electrocuted Louie and the Duck Girl and they both exploded.

Mordecai: This is for trying to ruin Pop's birthday! BLUEJAY FLOCK STRIKE!

Mordecai called a massive school of Bluejays and they went at the Capicola leader and skewered him.

Rigby: Time for you to get dismantled! SPICE FIRESTORM BURN!

Rigby drank a massive bottle of hotsauce and fired a powerful blast of fire at the animatronics and burned them.

Benson: You guys are bad animatronics! ANGER FIRESTORM

EXPLOSION!

Benson fired a powerful blast of anger energy and it hit the Capicola Leader and exploded. He was blown to pieces.

Me: Serves you tin cans right.

Maria: That's the end of that. (Eddy fires his blaster at the motionless Duck Lady's head) Eddy!

Eddy: What? I thought I saw her hand twitch.

Luan: No need for that Eddy.

Me: And look. (Holds up the Fuzzy Dice) I found the Fuzzy Dice.

I opened them and in them were a bunch of diamonds.

Me: Here's the diamonds.

Nico: (Whistles) Nice ice.

Me: They sure are. You both did great for your first use of the Miraculous.

Nico: Thanks man.

Skips: Guys, Death called half an hour ago. He can't take care of the Capicola Gang's souls for us. He's busy babysitting his son Thomas.

Benson: Looks like we'll have to take care of their souls ourselves.

Me: They're machines and they don't have souls.

Lincoln: Yeah.

Me: But we'll seal them into the Book of Vile Darkness anyway.

Nicole: You got it dad.

Nicole sealed them into it.

Mordecai: (To the viewers) Not even animatronic robots can stop all of Team Loud Phoenix Storm. These guys are that good.

Me: We are.

We returned the diamonds to their proper owners and went back home.

The Ultimate Aerial Dogfight

In Hogwarts Castle, I was facing Draco Malfoy in the Dueling Club. It was gonna be a deadly battle.

---

The first meeting of the club was held on 17 December at eight o'clock in the evening in the Great Hall. It was led by Gilderoy Lockhart and Severus Snape. Lockhart and Snape opened the club with a demonstration of formal duelling, including the accepted combative position, though Snape was rather crude with his greeting. Snape easily overpowered Lockhart, hitting him with a Disarming Charm so powerful that it knocked Lockhart against the nearby wall. Presumably deciding that Snape was far too skilful for him, Lockhart barely covered his own ineptitude by lying that he let Snape do it (which angered Snape so much that even the ever ignorant Lockhart saw it) and decided to let the students practise duelling on their own. The students were split into pairs (with Snape making sure neither Harry Potter, Ronald Weasley, nor Hermione Granger were partnered with each other) and commanded to practise disarming.

This, however, turned out to be a mistake, as the room quickly dissolved into chaos, and had to be broken up by the use of Finite Incantatem by Snape. Some results of the frenzied duelling included Harry and Draco Malfoy using far more malicious spells than the Disarming Charm, Ron's broken wand leaving Seamus Finnigan ashen-faced, and Hermione and Millicent Bulstrode reduced to physical combat.

At this, Snape suggested teaching the students to block unfriendly spells would be prudent. Lockhart agreed, but, having no idea how to do it himself, failed to instruct Harry as to the proper way to do this. Nevertheless, Harry was paired with Draco once again. At Snape's instruction, Draco used the Snake Summons Spell and conjured a large, black snake. Having created the desired effect of scaring Harry, Snape moved to get rid of the snake, but Lockhart moved first, hitting the snake with Alarte Ascendare. However, this spell only lifted the snake a few feet into the air, enraging it further and causing it to make its way towards Justin Finch-Fletchley. Harry, unaware of what he was doing, commanded the snake to stop in Parseltongue. Snape, becoming horrified at this new discovery, vanished the snake and ended the meeting.

Further meetings

Presumably, the club was disbanded when Lockhart lost his memory and was removed as the Defence Against the Dark Arts professor. The Club was, though, reinstated by Headmaster Albus Dumbledore in 1996 as a precaution when Lord Voldemort had been officially announced at large once again. Each house, Ravenclaw, Hufflepuff, Slytherin and Gryffindor had their own head of duelling club member who acted as a leader and would arrange practise duels. Each house also had their own personal duelling area from which students of all houses could go to duel: Gryffindors gathered in the Great Hall, Ravenclaws in the Middle Courtyard, Slytherins in The Quad, and Hufflepuffs in the Training Grounds.

Legacy

Following the first meeting of the club, the student body (as well as Harry himself) became aware of Harry's status as a Parselmouth. This alienated the student body, causing a large portion of them to believe that Harry was the Heir of Slytherin and was setting the monster in the Chamber of Secrets on Muggle-borns. This opinion only changed when Hermione Granger (known to be a good friend of Harry's) was attacked as well. Harry's knowledge of Parseltongue would later serve him in combating the true heir of Slytherin and, much later, opening Salazar Slytherin's Locket.

Both the Disarming Charm and the knowledge of formal duelling helped Harry to survive against Lord Voldemort in a duel the two would have over two years later, and those same skills would help him face Voldemort again, for the final time during Voldemort's last stand.

Nico, Lincoln and Qin were invited to watch. I was going to smear Draco Malfoy's name through the mud.

Nico: This is gonna be awesome!

Lincoln: It sure is. I've read all about the Dueling Club in the 2nd book and watched the 2nd movie and it was awesome.

Qin: It sure is.

Draco: (British Accent) Scared Knudson?

Me: In your dreams Malfoy.

I fired a powerful Force Blast and sent Malfoy crashing into the walls.

Nico: That was too easy.

Lincoln: Yeah.

Draco Malfoy got up.

(Goku's Spirit Bomb Theme plays at 2:03.)

He saw my aura flared up and it was overflowing with an incredible amount of life energy combined with a lot of magic and power. The power of my energy was so strong and so incredible that it was causing plants, trees, shrubs, grass and flowers to grow all over the room at a rapid level. Within a matter of seconds, the whole room of the dueling club was now a beautiful jungle flourishing with life.

(Two Worlds by Phil Collins From the 1999 trailer for Tarzan sang)

Phil Collins: (Singing Offscreen) Somewhere something is calling for you; Two worlds, one family; Trust your heart; Let fate decide; To guide these lives we see.

Nico: Wow! Look at all this!

Lincoln: Incredible! One minute this was a room full of furniture and then in a matter of seconds it's now a jungle!

Qin: J.D.'s power is as strong as a god.

Harry Potter: (British Accent) How did J.D. get his powers?

Nico: When he was a baby, he was exposed to a powerful level of Cosmic Radiation - Radiation from Outer Space. It had incredible unpredictable effects and it granted him Omnipotent Powers of all kinds. J.D.'s power is so strong that it puts all the evil powers everywhere to shame.

Ron Weasley: (British Accent) Wow! That's bloody incredible!

Hermione Granger: (British Accent) It sure is.

Ginny Weasley: (British Accent) Yeah. He has been there for so many people all over the universe.

Nico: That's what makes J.D. the most powerful force in the entire universe. It's not because of his power, it's because of his heart. His heart is so pure and his love for those that he cares about is so powerful that he will go to great lengths to protect everyone and free the universe from all evil.

Qin: Wow. I saw all his adventures and they are awesome.

Nico: We still have many more adventures ahead of us Qin. And our adventures are far from over.

Lincoln: Yep.

Draco: What are you!?

Me: A human that was given great power and With Great Power comes Great Responsibility. It's my responsibility to use my powers to protect everyone from the forces of evil that threaten the entire universe from total destruction. Especially from people like you.

Draco: Why? What have I done?

Me: Nothing yet. But if you do something evil, I will be forced to take action and either end your life or put you in prison. So consider this your first and only warning. And you and your henchmen better stop harassing Harry and his friends or there will be debts to pay. In blood.

Draco: Why do you protect someone like Potter?

Me: It's not just Harry Potter that I'm protecting. It's everyone. There's a prophecy that's centered around him.

Everyone murmured.

Nico: What prophecy?

Me: Here's an interesting thing I found out. While I was on my way to my next charms class, I made a quick stop to the library and in a secret room, hidden behind one of the bookcases was an ancient book. It looked to be over 520 years old. Written back at the end of the 15th century. That's this book I have in my tote bag.

Nico handed me my bag and I pulled out the book. It was called The 2nd Coming of the Dark Lord.

Me: This is the book. It's called The 2nd Coming of The Dark Lord. It has a powerful prophecy in it that centers around both me and Harry Potter.

Hermione Granger: What kind of prophecy?

Me: It centers around me and Harry and that we were chosen to destroy Voldemort. Here's how it goes. "The one with the power to vanquish the Dark Lord approaches… born to those who have thrice defied him, born as the seventh month dies… and the Dark Lord will mark him as his equal, but he will have power the Dark Lord knows not… and either must die at the hand of the other for neither can live while the other survives… the one with the power to vanquish the Dark Lord will be born as the seventh month dies. A mighty warrior born as the tenth month comes to the middle when Phoenix and Draco are seen in the stars will be chosen to defend the one from the Dark Lord. Through fire and lightning the Phoenix and Dragon will clash with the snake of evil and the Dark Lord and his followers will be consumed with light."

Harry Potter: That's very enigmatic.

Me: But I did figure it out. Harry Potter was born on July 31st, 1980 and Voldemort is the Dark Lord. He tried to kill Harry to stop the prophecy from happening. Voldemort marked him with a lightning bolt shaped scar in the middle of his forehead as you guys know. But that is no ordinary scar he has. That scar had a piece of Voldemort Soul inside it.

Everyone gasped in shock.

Hermione Granger: So when Voldemort killed Harry's parents, he was made into a Horcrux!

Me: Exactly. Horcruxes are made when a wizard commits the ultimate act of pure evil: Murder. It rips their soul apart.

Nico: That's right. There are 7 Horcruxes in all. They are Tom Riddle's Diary, Helga Hufflepuff's Cup, Rowena Ravenclaw's Diadem, Salazar Slytherin's Locket, Marvolo Gaunt's Ring, Voldemort's pet snake Nagini and lastly Harry Potter himself.

Me: I shredded Tom Riddle's Diary and removed the Soul Fragment of Voldemort from Harry Potter.

Nico: That's right. Dr. Strange and Dr. Fate are searching for the other 5 Horcruxes as we speak and we're going to put them into the vault for safety.

Lincoln: Good.

Me: But the prophecy states that a warrior born in the tenth month is me. I was born on October 14th when the constellations of Draco the Dragon of the Northern Hemisphere and Phoenix the Firebird of the Southern Hemisphere were in the sky. Behold the marks.

I showed on the right side of my neck was a birthmark in the shape of the constellation of Phoenix the Firebird and on my right elbow was a birthmark in the shape of the constellation of Draco the Dragon.

They gasped when they saw them.

Nico: He is the chosen one.

Albus Dumbledore: (British Accent) J.D. and Harry are the chosen ones.

Crabbe: (British Accent) He will die a horrible death.

Me: Go fuck yourself Crabbe and don't even think about trying to attack me. Or else.

Goyle: (British Accent) Then you will die with Harry.

Me: You first.

We went to lunch.

Qin: Oh man. I got to meet up with Maria. We're going to the moon to meet Ra's and find Della Duck.

Me: Okay.

Qin left.

---

Qin, Maria, Blitzwing and Lana were visiting the Moon Prison. They were right in front of the cell of Ra's Al Ghul.

Maria: Ra's, there are 2 reasons we're visiting you today. The first is that we'd like to recruit you in the battle against Thanos.

Ra's Al Ghul: The Mad Titan? Well, I suppose that one last fight wouldn't do any harm for me.

Blitzwing: You won't regret it. The second reason is that we'd like to know if you've seen a female talking duck on the Moon from your cell.

Ra's Al Ghul: As a matter of fact, yes I have. She was walking around on the moon without a space helmet and she was chewing some kind of gum.

Maria: That's Della Duck!

Donald: My sister is here!

Maria: We got to find her and bring her in here.

Stacy: Can any of us breathe on the moon and save Della?

Maria: I can. I'll head out to find her.

Qin: Okay.

Maria headed out and she found her and brought her back into the Moon Prison.

Della: Ah good to breathe air and feel our gravity again.

Maria: I brought you in. I'm Maria Rockell, 2nd in Command of Team Loud Phoenix Storm's Redemption Squad.

Della: Pleasure.

Donald Duck: Della!

Della: Donald, I missed you so much!

They hugged.

Huey, Dewey, Louie, Scrooge McDuck and Donald were reunited with her after so long. But we saw that she lost her leg and it was replaced with a prosthetic leg. She lost it in the crash.

---

Back at the estate, I was playing Wizards Chess with Ron. I was thinking about where to move. I was the white pieces and Ron was the red pieces.

Me: Hmm. Knight to E-5.

The white knight piece moved to said space.

Laney was watching us.

Laney: That is awesome.

Me: Just like in the movies and books.

Ron Weasley: Indeed. Queen to E-5.

Ron's queen moved to my knight and it came alive and bashed him to pieces with her seat.

Me: This is so cool.

Laney: It sure is.

Ron Weasley: That's Wizards Chess.

Nico: Got the mail guys.

Me: What did we get?

Nico: Lets see.

Nico sorted the mail and he found an awesome newspaper. It was the Daily Prophet.

---

The Daily Prophet is a wizarding newspaper based in London, England. It is the primary source of news for British and Irish wizards. The current editor is Barnabas Cuffe, who works in the main office in Diagon Alley.

Because of its ability to influence the minds of many in the British (and probably Irish) wizarding community, the paper has been known to have its content slanted intentionally by the Ministry of Magic (which it has strong ties with) into telling the Ministry's preferred version of events. Unfortunately, the Prophet does not seem to have a lot of journalistic integrity, it has been known to be more concerned about sales than about factual accuracy.

The paper features a morning and evening edition, the latter of which is called the Evening Prophet. The weekend edition is called the Sunday Prophet. Additional news bulletins can be delivered quickly when important, newsworthy events occur. As news changes, an edition may magically change, too, over the course of the day, probably by means of a Protean Charm.

There is only one wizarding newspaper in Britain, discounting such small circulation publications such as The Quibbler. The Daily Prophet, whose headquarters are in Diagon Alley, is delivered by owl on a daily basis to nearly every wizarding household in Britain. Payment is effected by placing coins in the pouch tied to the paper-owl's leg. Occasionally (when something particularly interesting or exciting happens, such as the illegal flight of a Ford Anglia the length of Britain) an Evening Prophet edition will be rushed out. Subscriptions cost 1 Knut. This paper is delivered to professors and a few students at Hogwarts in the mornings, when the owl post arrives.

The Prophet is not the only publication in the Wizarding World, but it is almost certainly the most widely read. Stories in the Prophet often colour public opinion to a great amount. When the Prophet published stories deriding Harry Potter and Dumbledore, most people in the Wizarding World believed what they read. The most widely read alternative newspaper in the wizarding world is The Quibbler.

Journalistic Integrity

While the Daily Prophet has been known to print facts, it has also had a somewhat negative reputation for being incredibly biassed, corrupt, and deceptive. It is clear that, as there is strong government control of the newspaper, the facts can be misleading, if not outright fabrications, and that certain means of gathering information appear to be somewhat unethical. Government control of the Ministry is shown in the way that the Daily Prophet appears to pressure the government and go around official sources, and several people in Harry's circles feel that the Ministry of Magic "leans heavily" on Prophet.

In other instances, the Daily Prophet has misleading journalism - information that, while accurate in fact, leads readers to the wrong conclusion. There are also occasions when the newspaper is seen to contain inaccurate or libellous content. It appears that there is little regard for accuracy in any form and there are no consequences or accountability for poor journalistic practises.

The Daily Prophet's unethical means of gathering information are most accurately seen with Rita Skeeter, a prominent but corrupt journalist who wrote with a complete disregard for accuracy, truthfulness and objectivity - often conducting interviews with a Quick Quotes Quill, a magical quill that writes automatically as the subject speaks. However, the quill does not record verbatim what the subject says. Instead, it takes a subject's words and creates sensational and inaccurate tales that bear little resemblance to actual events. In addition, Skeeter illegally turned herself into a beetle to spy on people and get personal information from them without being seen.

Description

The Daily Prophet reports on everything going on the wizarding world (albeit not always in an unbiased way). In addition to news, the Daily Prophet includes a Magizoology column is run every Wednesday and a Quidditch section which features a boxed table of all the teams in the league, ranked by total number points scored, with forthcoming matches listed side by side. This section also includes articles on recent matches and other items of interest.

Wizardkind tends not to require alternative political flavours in its news coverage (which is not to say, however, that the Prophet does not have a political agenda). As a small, outsider and occasionally beleaguered community, wizards are, by and large, interested in the same kinds of stories: whether anyone is in trouble for infractions of the International Statute of Secrecy, what irritating legislation the Misuse of Muggle Artefacts Office has come up with now, and when the next Celestina Warbeck/Weird Sisters concert will take place.

There is also an editorial section of the newspaper, where only few get responses, and are usually brief. The best letter is under the headline STAR LETTER. A classified advertisements section is in the newspaper, with subheadings of JOBS, FOR SALE, and LONELY HEARTS. Birth and death notices also appear on this page. The advice section of the Prophet has a variety of experts in differing fields answer readers' questions. Some topics covered in the past have been Medical Queries, Emotional Dilemmas, Legal Problems, and everyday magical problems. Sometimes, the Daily Prophet has a "fiendishly difficult" crossword puzzle, and usually has a Magic lottery and a Magical Symbols Game.

The Daily Prophet also allows advertisements in their newspaper by businesses. some of these ads include: Nimbus brooms, clothing, Floo Powder accelerator, and O.W.L. crammers. The Ministry also uses ad space in the Prophet. The Ministry posts various warnings, classes on advanced Defensive spells, and spells that can be used to safeguard your home.

Evening Prophet

The Evening Prophet was the name of the evening edition of the Daily Prophet. Presumably, this edition included different features, compared to the morning edition or Sunday Prophet.

Evening editions that are can apparently be delivered very quickly after an important story breaks. A witch or wizard anywhere in Britain can have a copy in hand within a short time of publication. For example, when Ron Weasley and Harry Potter were spotted by Muggles flying the Ford Anglia, Snape had a copy of the hogwarts, story continued in his hand after they arrived. One of the Muggles who spotted them was in Peebles, which is relatively close to Hogwarts, so the story couldn't have been more than an hour old at that point.

Sunday Prophet

The Sunday Prophet is the name of the weekend edition of the Daily Prophet. Presumably, this edition includes different features, compared to the daily edition.

History

The Daily Prophet has been producing papers since 1743, the year when it famously described Gideon Flatworthy, head of an extremist anti-Muggle group, as "less a wizard, more a lazy walrus-like object who lies all day on a rather smelly cushion, and expects people to admire him for it".

Early 20th Century

The Daily Prophet covered the rise of Gellert Grindelwalds rise to power, questioning if then Minister for Magic Hector "Flamboyant" Fawley was doing enough and detailing the increased security measures taken at Hogwarts School of Witchcraft and Wizardry.

Ministry of Magic's denial

During the Ministry's campaign to discredit and slander Albus Dumbledore and Harry Potter, the Prophet was an instrumental tool of the Ministry in their goal to convince the public that Albus Dumbledore and Harry Potter were fear-mongering or simply mad. The Ministry of Magic was responsible for the unfair journalism of that summer as Cornelius Fudge strove to discredit Dumbledore's account of the return of Lord Voldemort.

Hermione Granger subscribed to the paper to keep on top of the Ministry's agenda and see what the enemy was saying. Some people, such as Augusta Longbottom, cancelled their subscriptions due to believing in Dumbledore and Harry over the Ministry. Originally, Harry kept getting his subscription only to skim through the front page for information about Voldemort's movements, as he was unaware of the Ministry's denial. Because of this he missed out on the slip-ins of him and Dumbledore being antagonised. Upon realising what was happening, Harry ceased his subscription.

After Fudge was forced to admit that Voldemort had returned, the Prophet changed its stance overnight, calling Harry "a lone voice of truth". The newspaper even bought, from The Quibbler, Harry's interview on Voldemort's return and claimed it to be exclusive.

Second Wizarding War

Daily Prophet article during the Second Wizarding War announcing the terror brought on the Death Eaters

After the Battle of the Department of Mysteries and the Ministry was forced to accept the Rebirth of Lord Voldemort, the Daily Prophet reported on all the tragedy and terror affecting wizards and Muggles alike. This included reporting the murder of Amelia Bones and Emmeline Vance, the incorrect arrest of Stan Shunpike, and the arrest of Mundungus Fletcher for impersonating an Inferius.

When the Death Eaters took over the Ministry, they also took over the Daily Prophet, and subsequently they stopped reporting deaths that Death Eaters were responsible for. They also printed biassed, bogus news such as articles on Muggle-borns stealing magic from true wizards. As such, many resistance members turned to other programmes for news, such as Potterwatch and The Quibbler.

When Kingsley Shacklebolt became Minister for Magic in 1998, the Daily Prophet was de-corrupted.

BRING BACK OUR BASKETS! (12 February 1883)

That was the cry heard from Quidditch players across the nation last night as it became clear that the Department of Magical Games and Sports had decided to burn the baskets used for centuries for goalscoring in Quidditch.

"We're not burning them, don't exaggerate," said an irritable-looking Departmental representative last night when asked to comment. "Baskets, as you may have noticed, come in different sizes. We have found it impossible to standardise basket size so as to make goalposts throughout Britain equal. Surely you can see it's a matter of fairness. I mean, there's a team up near Barnton, they've got these minuscule little baskets attached to the opposing team's posts, you couldn't get a grape in them. And up their own end they've got these great wicker caves swinging around. It's not on. We've settled on a fixed hoop size and that's it. Everything nice and fair."

At this point, the Departmental representative was forced to retreat under a hail of baskets thrown by the angry demonstrators assembled in the hall. Although the ensuing riot was later blamed on goblin agitators, there can be no doubt that Quidditch fans across Britain are tonight mourning the end of the game as we know it.

" 'T won't be t' same wi'out baskets," said one apple-cheeked old wizard sadly. "I remember when I were a lad, we used to set fire to 'em for a laugh during t' match. You can't do that with goal hoops. 'Alf t' fun's gone."

1884

OUR CHASERS AREN'T CHEATING! (22 June 1884)

That was the stunned reaction of Quidditch fans across Britain last night when the so-called "Stooging Penalty" was announced by the Department of Magical Games and Sports last night.

"Instances of stooging have been on the increase," said a harassed-looking Departmental representative last night. "We feel that this new rule will eliminate the severe Keeper injuries we have been seeing only too often. From now on, one Chaser will attempt to beat the Keeper, as opposed to three Chasers beating the Keeper up. Everything will be much cleaner and fairer."

At this point the Departmental representative was forced to retreat as the angry crowd started to bombard him with Quaffles. Wizards from the Department of Magical Law Enforcement arrived to disperse the crowd, who were threatening to stooge the Minister of Magic himself.

One freckle-faced six-year-old left the hall in tears.

"I loved stooging," he sobbed to the Daily Prophet. "Me and me dad like watching them Keepers flattened. I don't want to go to Quidditch no more."

1991

The following are all the Daily Prophet articles from 1991.

POTION PRICES SLIP, MAY BE HEADED FOR DUNGEONS (2 September 1991)

GRINGOTTS BREAK-IN LATEST (6 September 1991)

Investigations continue into the break-in at Gringotts on 31 July, widely believed to be the work of Dark wizards or witches unknown. Gringotts goblins today insisted that nothing had been taken. The vault that was searched had in fact been emptied the same day. "But we're not telling you what was in there, so keep your noses out if you know what's good for you," said a Gringotts spokesgoblin this afternoon.

BREAK-IN AT GRINGOTTS: Gringotts' Security Breached (12 September 1991)

BY ANDY SMUDGLEY

Believed to be the work of Dark wizards or witches unknown, Gringotts goblins, while acknowledging the breach, insist nothing was taken. The vault in question had, in fact, been emptied the very same day. "But we're not telling you what was in there, so keep your noses out if you know what's good for you", said a Gringotts spokesgoblin this afternoon. Gringotts now need to readdress their security system. Goblin security specialists are combing the land for a better breed of security dragon to replace the now deemed useless existing ones. They are even going as far as examining Muggle security systems. Gringotts need to get another security system in place before any more breaches occur. Wizards, witches all over the country are scratching their heads wondering how safe their money is in the so-called safest wizard bank. Head goblins are urging the wizarding community for calm.

QUEEN'S CORGI TURNS INTO HAMSTER (12 September 1991)

Including articles: BREAK-IN AT GRINGOTTS: Gringotts' Security Breached, QUEEN'S CORGI TURNS INTO HAMSTER, OLDEST WIZARD IS 755, and UNFORTUNATE BROOM FLYER HIT BY MUGGLE HELICOPTER

The Muggles were left scratching their heads today as their Queen's corgi changed into a hamster. Luckily enough for us they just thought that the corgi had been stolen and a hamster put in it's place as a cruel joke. There if now a full scale hunt on for the real corgi which of course will not be found. The Ministry of Magic are looking into this matter. The Improper Use of Magic Office have a few suspect they are questioning about the incident. A motive for the attack if not known but further attacks on public Muggle figures would not help us one bit. The International Federation of Warlocks is also meeting to discuss the incident. The Daily Prophet will keep you up to date on further news on that story tomorrow.

OLDEST WIZARD IS 755 (12 September 1991)

ENQUIRY AT THE MINISTRY OF MAGIC (25 December 1992)

Arthur Weasley, Head of the Misuse of Muggle Artefacts Office, was today fined fifty Galleons for bewitching a Muggle car.

Mr Lucius Malfoy, a governor of Hogwarts School of Witchcraft and Wizardry, where the enchanted car crashed earlier this year, called today for Mr Weasley's resignation. "Weasley has brought the Ministry into disrepute," Mr Malfoy told our reporter. "He is clearly unfit to draw up our laws and his ridiculous Muggle Protection Act should be scrapped immediately."

Mr Weasley was unavailable for comment, although his wife told reporters to clear off or she'd set the family ghoul on them.

MINISTRY OF MAGIC EMPLOYEE SCOOPS GRAND PRIZE (31 July, 1993)

Arthur Weasley, Head of the Misuse of Muggle Artefacts Office at the Ministry of Magic, has won the annual Daily Prophet Grand Prize

Galleon Draw. A delighted Mr Weasley told the Daily Prophet, "We will be spending the gold on a summer holiday in Egypt, where our eldest son, Bill, works as a Curse Breaker for Gringotts Wizarding Bank." The Weasley family will be spending a month in Egypt, returning for the start of the new school year at Hogwarts, which five of the Weasley children currently attend.

BLACK STILL AT LARGE (6 August 1993)

Black still at Large

Sirius Black, possibly the most infamous prisoner ever to be held in Azkaban fortress, is still eluding capture, the Ministry of Magic confirmed today. "We are doing all we can to recapture Black," said the Minister for Magic, Cornelius Fudge, this morning, "and we beg the magical community to remain calm." Fudge has been criticised by some members of the International Confederation of Wizards for informing the Muggle Prime Minister of the crisis. "Well, really, I had to, don't you know," said an irritable Fudge. "Black is mad. He's a danger to anyone who crosses him, magic or Muggle. I have the Prime Minister's assurance that he will not breathe a word of Black's true identity to anyone. And let's face it - who'd believe him if he did?" While Muggles have been told that Black is carrying a gun (a kind of metal wand that Muggles use to kill each other), the magical community lives in fear of a massacre like that of twelve years ago, when Black murdered thirteen people with a single curse.

Left column: SIRIUS BLACK SIGHTED; right column: AZKABAN SECURITY ENQUIRY: MINISTER UNDER PRESSURE

BY E. LIMUS

Sirius Black, the most infamous prisoner - from Azkaban, - has been sighted in Dufftown by an astute Muggle. The Muggles think that he is just an ordinary criminal, they don't have a clue how dangerous, powerful and vindictive Black can be.

The female Muggle communicated, via a machine called Telephone, the Muggle Crime Watchers Hotline, and immediately the Ministry of Magic Witch Watchers was informed. Minister Cornelius Fudge was taken by surprise and sent hundreds of Witch Watcher Special Forces to the Village, but when they arrived there he was gone. Minister was absolutely disappointed to lose Sirius Black. The situation got worse when hundreds of Dementors turned up making the small Dufftown population quiver in panic. It took more than 4 hours for the Special Force to tranquillize what was a great shock for those.

Sirius Black, escaped from Azkaban Prison, [… ] wizard community very apprensive and maybe in panic, the Minister of Magic, Cornelius Fudge, has already asked to all the Wizards to be really careful and act with caution and to not attempt to use magic against him. The Minister only asks to notify immediately by owl the Ministry of Magic or the Witch Watchers Sirius Black Hot.

AZKABAN SECURITY ENQUIRY: MINISTER UNDER PRESSURE (9 September 1993)

BY A. FENETRE

Azkaban Security Officials and Very Important Wizards has been putting the Minister under pressure. They want Sirius Black recaptured as soon as possible, this is making the Minister very preoccupied and worried. Cornelius said to The Daily Prophet that is doing his best and has been appealing to the Wizard community to help and also has been [… ]

[… ] all support to this issue, and we also appeal to our community to be attentive and alert, and especially very vigilant. And is very important to remember. Do Not Attempt to use Magic against him. He is really threatening and he is full of anger. So please be extremely carefull and avoid to be out til late hours in the evening and try to avoid desert places.

His close friend, Colin Creevey, says that Harry is rarely seen out of the company of one Hermione Granger, a stunningly pretty Muggle-born girl who, like Harry, is one of the top students in the school.

DUMBLEDORE'S GIANT MISTAKE

Albus Dumbledore, eccentric Headmaster of Hogwarts School of Witchcraft and Wizardry, has never been afraid to make controversial staff appointments, writes Rita Skeeter, Special Correspondent. In September of this year, he hired Alastor "Mad-Eye" Moody, the notoriously jinx-happy ex-Auror, to teach Defence

Against the Dark Arts, a decision that caused many raised eyebrows at the Ministry of Magic, given Moody's well-known habit of attacking anybody who makes a sudden movement in his presence. Mad-Eye Moody, however, looks responsible and kindly when set beside the part-human Dumbledore employs to teach Care of Magical Creatures. Rubeus Hagrid, who admits to being expelled from Hogwarts in his third year, has enjoyed the position of Gamekeeper at the school ever since, a job secured for him by Dumbledore. Last year, however, Hagrid used his mysterious influence over the headmaster to secure the additional post of Care of Magical Creatures teacher, over the heads of many better-qualified candidates. An alarming large and ferocious-looking man, Hagrid has been using his new-found authority to terrify the students in his care with a succession of horrific creatures. While Dumbledore turns a blind eye, Hagrid has maimed several pupils during a series of lessons that many admit to being "very frightening." "I was attacked by a hippogriff, and my friend Vincent Crabbe got a bad bite off a flobberworm," says Draco Malfoy, a fourth year student. "We all hate Hagrid, but we're just too scared to say anything." Hagrid has no intention of ceasing his campaign of intimidation, however.

In conversation with a Daily Prophet reporter last month, he admitted breeding creatures he has dubbed "Blast-Ended Skrewts," highly dangerous crosses between manticores and fire crabs. The creation of new breeds of magical creature is, of course, an activity usually closely observed by the Department for the Regulation and Control of Magical Creatures. Hagrid, however, considers himself to be above such petty restrictions. "I was just having some fun," he says, before hastily changing the subject. As if this were not enough, the Daily Prophet has now unearthed evidence that Hagrid is not - as he has always pretended - a pure-blood wizard. He is not, in fact, even pure human. His mother, we can exclusively reveal, is none other than the giantess Fridwulfa, whose whereabouts are currently unknown. Bloodthirsty and brutal, the giants brought themselves to the point of extinction by warring amongst themselves during the last century. The handful that remained joined the ranks of He-Who-Must-Not-Be-Named, and were responsible for some of the worst mass Muggle killings of his reign of terror. While many of the giants who served He-Who-Must-Not-Be-Named were killed by Aurors working against the Dark Side, Fridwulfa was not among them. It is possible she escaped to one of the giant communities still existing in foreign mountain ranges. If his antics during Care of Magical Creatures lessons are any guide, however, Fridwulfa's son appears to have inherited her brutal nature. In a bizarre twist, Hagrid is reputed to have developed a close friendship with the boy who brought around You-Know-Who's fall from power - thereby driving Hagrid's own mother, like the rest of You-Know-Who's supporters, into hiding. Perhaps Harry Potter is unaware of this unpleasant truth about his large friend - but Albus Dumbledore surely has a duty to ensure that Harry Potter, along with his fellow students, is warned about the dangers of associating with half-giants.

MINISTRY SEEKS EDUCATIONAL REFORM

DOLORES UMBRIDGE APPOINTED FIRST-EVER "HIGH INQUISITOR

In a surprise move last night the Ministry of Magic passed new legislation giving itself an unprecedented level of control at Hogwarts School of Witchcraft and Wizardry. "The Minister for Magic has been growing uneasy about goings-on at Hogwarts for some time" said Junior Assistant to the Minister for Magic Percy Weasley. "He is now responding to concerns voiced by anxious parents, who feel the school may be moving in a direction they do not approve."

This is not the first time in recent weeks Fudge has used new laws to effect improvements at the wizarding school. As recently as 30 August Educational Decree Twenty-two was passed, to ensure that, in the event of the current headmaster being unable to provide a candidate for a teaching post, the Ministry should select an appropriate person.

"That's how Dolores Umbridge came to be appointed to the teaching staff at Hogwarts," said Weasley last night. "Dumbledore couldn't find anyone, so the Minister put in Umbridge and of course, she's been an immediate success, totally revolutionising the teaching of Defence Against the Dark Arts and providing the Minister with on-the-ground feedback about what's really happening at Hogwarts."It is this last function that the Ministry has now formalised with the passing of Educational Decree Twenty-three, which creates the new position of Hogwarts High Inquisitor.

"This is an exciting new phase in the Minister's plan to get to grips with what some are calling the falling standards at Hogwarts", said Weasley. "The Inquisitor will have powers to inspect her fellow educators and make sure that they are coming up to scratch. Professor Umbridge has been offered this position in addition to her own teaching post, and we are delighted to say that she has accepted." The Ministry's new moves have received enthusiastic support from parents of students at Hogwarts.

"I feel much easier in my mind now that I know that Dumbledore is being subjected to fair and objective evaluation," said Lucius Malfoy, 41, speaking from his Wiltshire mansion last night. "Many of us with our children's best interests at heart have been concerned about some of Dumbledore's eccentric decisions in the last few years and will be glad to know that the Ministry is keeping an eye on the situation." Among those 'eccentric decisions' are undoubtedly the controversial staff appointments previously described in this newspaper, which have included the hiring of werewolf Remus Lupin, half-giant Rubeus Hagrid and delusional ex-Auror 'Mad-Eye' Moody.

Rumours abound, of course, that Albus Dumbledore, once Supreme Mugwump of the International Confederation of Wizards and Chief Warlock of the Wizengamot, is not longer up to the task of managing the prestigious school of Hogwarts. "I think the appointment of the Inquisitor is a first step toward ensuring that Hogwarts has a headmaster in whom we can all repose confidence" said a Ministry insider last night." Wizengamot elders Griselda Marchbanks and Tiberius Ogden have resigned in protest at the introduction of the post of Inquisitor to Hogwarts.

"Hogwarts is a school, not an outpost of Cornelius Fudge's office", said Madam Marchbanks. "This is a further disgusting attempt to discredit Albus Dumbledore." (For a full account of Madam Marchbanks' alleged links to subversive goblin groups, turn to page 17).

MASS BREAKOUT FROM AZKABAN

"We have confirmed that ten high-security prisoners, in the early hours of yesterday evening, did escape. And of course, the Muggle Prime Minister has been alerted to the danger. We strongly suspect that the breakout was engineered by a man with personal experience in escaping from Azkaban; notorious mass murderer Sirius Black, cousin of the escapee Bellatrix Lestrange."

-Cornelius Fudge's statement.

The Ministry of Magic announced late last night that there has been a mass breakout from Azkaban. Speaking to reporters in his private office, Cornelius Fudge, Minister for Magic, confirmed that ten high-security prisoners escaped in the early hours of yesterday evening, and that he has already informed the Muggle Prime Minister of the dangerous nature of these individuals. "We find ourselves, most unfortunately, in the same position we were two and a half years ago when the murderer Sirius Black escaped," said Fudge last night. "Nor do we think the two breakouts are unrelated. An escape of this magnitude suggests outside help, and we must remember that Black, as the first person ever to break out of Azkaban, would be ideally placed to help others follow in his footsteps. We think it likely that these individuals, who include Black's cousin, Bellatrix Lestrange, have rallied around Black as their leader. We are, however, doing all we can to round up the criminals and beg the magical community to remain alert and cautious. On no account should any of these individuals be approached."

TRAGIC DEMISE OF MINISTRY OF MAGIC WORKER

St Mungo's Hospital promised a full inquiry last night after Ministry of Magic worker Broderick Bode, 49, was discovered dead in his bed, strangled by a potted-plant. Healers called to the scene were unable to revive Mr Bode, who had been injured in a workplace accident some weeks prior to his death. Healer Miriam Strout, who was in charge of Mr Bode's ward at the time of the incident, has been suspended on full pay and was unavailable for comment yesterday, but a spokeswizard for the hospital said in a statement, "St Mungo's deeply regrets the death of Mr Bode, whose health was improving steadily prior to this tragic accident. We have strict guidelines on the decorations permitted on our wards but it appears that Healer Strout, busy over the Christmas period, overlooked the dangers of the plant on Mr Bode's bedside table. As his speech and mobility improved, Healer Strout encouraged Mr Bode to look after the plant himself, unaware that it was not an innocent Flitterbloom, but a cutting of Devil's Snare, which, when touched by the convalescent Mr Bode, throttled him instantly. St Mungo's is as yet unable to account for the presence of the plant on the ward and asks any witch or wizard with information to come forward."

HE-WHO-MUST-NOT-BE-NAMED RETURNS (19 June, 1996)

In a brief statement Friday night, Minister for Magic Cornelius Fudge confirmed that He-Who-Must-Not-Be Named has returned to this country and is active once more. "It is with great regret that I must confirm that the wizard styling himself Lord - well, you know who I mean - is alive and among us again," said Fudge, looking tired and flustered as he addressed reporters. "It is with almost equal regret that we report the mass revolt of the Dementors of Azkaban, who have shown themselves averse to continuing in the Ministry's employ. We believe that the dementors are currently taking direction from Lord - Thingy. We urge the magical population to remain vigilant. The Ministry is currently publishing guides to elementary home and personal defence that will be delivered free to all wizarding homes within the coming month."

The Minister's statement was met with dismay and alarm from the wizarding community, which as recently as last Wednesday was receiving Ministry assurances that there was "no truth whatsoever in these persistent rumours that You-Know-Who is operating amongst us once more." Details of the events that led to the Ministry turnaround are still hazy, though it is believed that He-Who-Must-Not-Be-Named and a select band of followers (known as Death Eaters) gained entry to the Ministry of Magic itself on Thursday evening. Albus Dumbledore, newly reinstated headmaster of Hogwarts School of Witchcraft and Wizardry, reinstated member of the International Confederation of Wizards and reinstated Chief Warlock of the Wizengamot, was unavailable for comment last night. He has insisted for a year that You-Know-Who was not dead, as was widely hoped and believed, but recruiting followers once more for a fresh attempt to seize power. Meanwhile the Boy Who Lived

HARRY POTTER: THE CHOSEN ONE?

Rumours continue to fly about the mysterious recent disturbance at the Ministry of Magic, during which He-Who-Must-Not-Be-Named was sighted once more. "We're not allowed to talk about it, don't ask me anything," said one agitated Obliviator, who refused to give his name as he left the Ministry last night. Nevertheless, highly placed sources within the Ministry have confirmed that the disturbance centred on the fabled Hall of Prophecy. Though Ministry spokes wizards have hitherto refused even to confirm the existence of such a place, a growing number of the Wizarding community believe that the Death Eaters now serving sentences in Azkaban for trespass and attempted theft were attempting to steal a prophecy. The nature of that prophecy is unknown, although speculation is rife that it concerns Harry Potter, the only person ever known to have survived the Killing Curse, and who is also known to have been at the Ministry on the night in question. Some are going so far as to call Potter "the Chosen One," believing that the prophecy names him as the only one who will be able to rid us of He-Who-Must-Not-Be-Named. The current whereabouts of the prophecy, if it exists, are unknown, although (ctd. page 2, column 5).

SCRIMGEOUR SUCCEEDS FUDGE

Rufus Scrimgeour, previously Head of the Auror office in the Departmentof Magical Law Enforcement, has succeeded Cornelius Fudge as Minister of Magic. The appointment has largely been greeted with enthusiasm by the Wizarding community, though rumours of a rift between the new Minister and Albus Dumbledore, newly reinstated Chief Warlock of the Wizengamot, surfaced within hours of Scrimgeour taking office. Scrimgeour's representatives admitted that he had met with Dumbledore at once upon taking possession of the top job, but refused to comment on the topics under discussion. Albus Dumbledore is known to (ctd. page 3, column 2).

MINISTRY GUARANTEES STUDENTS' SAFETY

Newly appointed Minister of Magic, Rufus Scrimgeour, spoke today of the tough new measures taken by his Ministry to ensure the safety of students returning to Hogwarts School of Witchcraft and Wizardry this autumn. "For obvious reasons, the Ministry will not be going into detail about its stringent new security plans," said the Minister, although an insider confirmed that measures include defensive spells and charms, a complex array of countercurses, and a small task force of Aurors dedicated solely to the protection of Hogwarts School. Most seem reassured by the new Minister's tough stand on student safety. Said Mrs Augusta Longbottom, "My grandson, Neville - a good friend of Harry Potter's, incidentally, who fought the Death Eaters alongside him at the Ministry in June and -

BY CHARITY BURBAGE

"Not content with corrupting and polluting the minds of Wizarding children, last week Professor Burbage wrote an impassioned defence of Mudbloods in the Daily Prophet. Wizards, she says, must accept these thieves of their knowledge and magic. The dwindling of the pure-bloods is, says Professor Burbage, a most desirable circumstance… She would have us all mate with Muggles…"

ALBUS DUMBLEDORE REMEMBERED (July, 1997)

BY ELPHIAS DOGE

Albus Dumbledore Remembered, by Elphias Doge

I met Albus Dumbledore at the age of eleven, on our first day at Hogwarts. Our mutual attraction was undoubtedly due to the fact that we both felt ourselves to be outsiders. I had contracted Dragon Pox shortly before arriving at school, and while I was no longer contagious, my pockmarked visage and greenish hue did not encourage many to approach me. For his part, Albus had arrived at Hogwarts under the burden of unwanted notoriety. Scarcely a year previously, his father, Percival, had been convicted of a savage and well-publicised attack upon three young Muggles.

Albus never attempted to deny that his father (who was to die in Azkaban) had committed this crime; on the contrary, when I plucked up enough courage to ask him, he assured me that he knew his father to be guilty. Beyond that, Dumbledore refused to speak of the sad business, though many attempted to make him do so. Some, indeed, were disposed to praise his father's action and assumed that Albus, too, was a Muggle-hater. They could not have been more mistaken: as anybody who knew Albus would attest, he never revealed the remotest anti-Muggle tendency. Indeed, his determined support for Muggle rights gained him many enemies in subsequent years.

In a matter of months, however, Albus's own fame had begun to eclipse that of his father. By the end of his first year, he would never again be known as the son of a Muggle-hater, but as nothing more or less than the most brilliant student ever seen at the school. Those of us who were privileged to be his friends benefited from his example, not to mention his help and encouragement, with which he was always generous. He confessed to me later in life that he knew even then his greatest pleasure lay in teaching.

He not only won every prize of note that the school offered, he was soon in regular correspondence with the most notable magical names of the day, including Nicolas Flamel, the celebrated alchemist, Bathilda Bagshot, the noted historian, and Adalbert Waffling, the magical theoretician. Several of his papers found their way into learned publications such as Transfiguration Today, Challenges in Charming and The Practical Potioneer. Dumbledore's future career seemed likely to be meteoric, and the only question that remained was when he would become Minister for Magic. Though it was often predicated in later years that he was on the point of taking the job, however, he never had ministerial ambitions.

Three years after we had started at Hogwarts, Albus's brother, Aberforth, arrived at school. They were not alike; Aberforth was never bookish and, unlike Albus, preferred to settle arguments by duelling rather than through reasoned discussion. However, it is quite wrong to suggest, as some have, that the brothers were not friends. They rubbed along as comfortably as two such different boys could do. In fairness to Aberforth, it must be admitted that living in Albus's shadow cannot have been an altogether comfortable experience. Being continually outshone was an occupational hazard of being his friend and cannot have been any more pleasurable as a brother.

When Albus and I left Hogwarts, we intended to take the then traditional tour of the world together, visiting and observing foreign wizards, before pursuing our separate careers. However, tragedy intervened. On the very eve of our trip, Albus's mother Kendra died, leaving Albus the head, and sole breadwinner, of the family. I postponed my departure long enough to pay my respects at Kendra's funeral, then left for what was now to be a solitary journey. With a younger brother and sister to care for, and little gold left to them, there could no longer be any question of Albus accompanying me. That was the period of our lives when we had least contact. I wrote to Albus, describing, perhaps insensitively, the wonders of my journey from narrow escapes from chimaeras in Greece to the experiments of the Egyptian alchemists. His letters told me little of his day-to-day life, which I guessed to be frustratingly dull for such a brilliant wizard. Immersed in my own experiences, it was with horror that I heard, towards the end of my year's travels, that yet another tragedy had struck the Dumbledores: the death of his sister, Ariana.

Though Ariana had been in poor health for a long time, the blow, coming so soon after the loss of their mother, had a profound effect on both of her brothers. All those closest to Albus - and I count myself one of that lucky number - agree that Ariana's death and Albus's feeling of personal responsibility for it (though, of course, he was guiltless) left their mark upon him forever more.

I returned home to find a young man who had experienced a much older person's suffering. Albus was more reserved than before, and much less light-hearted. To add to his misery, the loss of Ariana had led, not to a renewed closeness between Albus and Aberforth, but to an estrangement. (In time this would lift-in later years they re-established, if not a close relationship, then certainly a cordial one.) However, he rarely spoke of his parents or of Ariana from then on, and his friends learned no to mention them.

Other quills will describe the triumphs of the following years. Dumbledore's innumerable contributions to the store of wizarding knowledge, including his discovery of the twelve uses of dragon blood, will benefit generations to come, as will the wisdom he displayed in the many judgements he made while Chief Warlock of the Wizengamot. They say, still, that no wizard duel ever matched that between Dumbledore and Gellert Grindelwald in 1945. Those who witnessed it have written of the terror and the awe they felt as they watched these two extraordinary wizards do battle. Dumbledore's triumph, and its consequences for the wizarding world, are considered a turning point in magical history to match the introduction of the International Statute of Wizarding Secrecy or the downfall of You-Know-Who.

Albus Dumbledore was never proud or vain; he could find something to value in anyone, however apparently insignificant or wretched, and I believe that his early losses endowed him with great humanity and sympathy. I shall miss his friendship more than I can say, but my loss is as nothing compared to the wizarding world's. That he was the most inspiring and the best loved of all Hogwarts headmasters cannot be in question. He died as he lived: working always for the greater good and, to his last hour, as willing to stretch out a hand to a small boy with Dragon Pox as he was on the day that I met him.

DUMBLEDORE - THE TRUTH AT LAST? (27 July 1997)

The front page of the Daily Prophet, bearing news about Rita Skeeter's upcoming book about Albus Dumbledore

Coming next week, the shocking story of the flawed genius considered by many to be the greatest wizard of his generation. Striping away the popular image of serene, silver-bearded wisdom, Rita Skeeter reveals the disturbed childhood, the lawless youth, the lifelong feuds, and the guilty secrets that Dumbledore carried to his grave: WHY was the man tipped to be the Minister for Magic content to remain a mere headmaster? WHAT was the real purpose of the secret organisation known as the Order of the Phoenix? HOW did Dumbledore really meet his end?

The answers to these and many more questions are explored in the explosive new biography, The Life and Lies of Albus Dumbledore, by Rita Skeeter, exclusively interviewed by Betty Braithwaite, page 13, inside.

BY BETTY BRAITHWAITE

In person, Rita Skeeter is much warmer and softer than her famously ferocious quill-portraits might suggest. Greeting me in the hallway of her cosy home, she leads me straight into the kitchen for a cup of tea, a slice of pound cake and, it goes without saying, a steaming vat of freshest gossip.

"Well, of course, Dumbledore is a biographer's dream," says Skeeter. "Such a long, full life. I'm sure my book will be the first of very, very many."

Skeeter was certainly quick off the mark. Her nine-hundred-page book was completed in a mere four weeks after Dumbledore's mysterious death in June. I ask her how she managed this superfast feat.

"Oh, when you've been a journalist as long as I have, working to a deadline is second nature. I knew that the Wizarding world was clamouring for the full story and I wanted to be the first to meet that need."

I mention the recent, widely publicised remarks of Elphias Doge, Special Advisor to the Wizengamot and longstanding friend of Albus Dumbledore's, that "Skeeter's book contains less fact than a Chocolate Frog card."

"Darling Dodgy! I remember interviewing him a few years back about merpeople rights, bless him. Completely gaga, seemed to think we were sitting at the bottom of Lake Windermere, kept telling me to watch out for trout."

And yet Elphias Doge's accusations of inaccuracy have been echoed in many places. Does Skeeter really feel that four short weeks have been enough to gain a full picture of Dumbledore's long and extraordinary life?

"Oh, my dear," beams Skeeter, rapping me affectionately across the knuckles, "you know as well as I do how much information can be generated by a fat bag of Galleons, a refusal to hear the word 'no,' and a nice sharp Quick-Quotes Quill! People were queuing to dish the dirt on Dumbledore anyway. Not everyone thought he was so wonderful, you know - he trod on an awful lot of important toes. But old Dodgy Doge can get off his high hippogriff, because I've had access to a source most journalists would swap their wands for, one who has never spoken in public before and who was close to Dumbledore during the most turbulent and disturbing phase of his youth."

The advance publicity for Skeeter's biography has certainly suggested that there will be shocks in store for those who believe Dumbledore to have led a blameless life. What were the biggest surprises she uncovered, I ask?

"Now, come off it. Betty, I'm not giving away all the highlights before anybody's bought the book!" laughs Skeeter. "But I can promise that anybody who still thinks Dumbledore was white as his beard is in for a rude awakening! Let's just say that nobody hearing him rage against You-Know-Who would have dreamed that he dabbled in the Dark Arts himself in his youth! And for a wizard who spent his later years pleading for tolerance, he wasn't exactly broad-minded when he was younger! Yes, Albus Dumbledore had an extremely murky past, not to mention that very fishy family, which he worked so hard to keep hushed up."

I ask whether Skeeter is referring to Dumbledore's brother, Aberforth, whose conviction by the Wizengamot for misuse of magic caused a minor scandal fifteen years ago.

"Oh, Aberforth is just the tip of the dung heap," laughs Skeeter. "No, no, I'm talking about much worse than a brother with a fondness for fiddling about with goats, worse even than the Muggle-maiming father - Dumbledore couldn't keep either of them quiet anyway, they were both charged by the Wizengamot. No, it's the mother and the sister that intrigued me, and a little digging uncovered a positive nest of nastiness - but, as I say, you'll have to wait for chapters nine to twelve for full details. All I can say now is, it's no wonder Dumbledore never talked about how his nose got broken."

Family skeletons notwithstanding, does Skeeter deny the brilliance that led to Dumbledore's many magical discoveries?

"He had brains," she concedes, "although many now question whether he could really take full credit for all of his supposed achievements. As I reveal in chapter sixteen, Ivor Dillonsby claims he had already discovered eight uses of dragon's blood when Dumbledore 'borrowed' his papers."

But the importance of some of Dumbledore's achievements cannot, I venture, be denied. What of his famous defeat of Grindelwald?

"Oh, now, I'm glad you mentioned Grindelwald," says Skeeter with such a tantalising smile. "I'm afraid those who go dewy-eyed over Dumbledore's spectacular victory must brace themselves for a bombshell - or perhaps a Dungbomb. Very dirty business indeed. All I'll say is, don't be so sure that there really was a spectacular duel of legend. After they've read my book, people may be forced to conclude that Grindelwald simply conjured a white handkerchief from the end of his wand and came quietly!"

Skeeter refuses to give any more away on this intriguing subject, so we turn instead to the relationship that will undoubtedly fascinate her readers more than any other.

"Oh yes," says Skeeter, nodding briskly, "I devote an entire chapter to the whole Potter-Dumbledore relationship. It's been called unhealthy, even sinister. Again, your readers will have to buy my book for the whole story, but there is no question that Dumbledore took an unnatural interest in Potter from the word go. Whether that was really in the boy's best interests - well, we'll see. It's certainly an open secret that Potter has had a most troubled adolescence."

I ask whether Skeeter is still in touch with Harry Potter, whom she so famously interviewed last year: a breakthrough piece in which Potter spoke exclusively of his conviction that You-Know-Who had returned.

"Oh, yes, we've developed a closer bond," says Skeeter. "Poor Potter has few real friends, and we met at one of the most testing moments of his life - the Triwizard Tournament. I am probably one of the only people alive who can say that they know the real Harry Potter."

Which leads us neatly to the many rumours still circulating about Dumbledore's final hours. Does Skeeter believe that Potter was there when Dumbledore died?

"Well, I don't want to say too much - it's all in the book - but eyewitnesses inside Hogwarts castle saw Potter running away from the scene moments after Dumbledore fell, jumped, or was pushed. Potter later gave evidence against Severus Snape, a man against whom he has a notorious grudge. Is everything as it seems? That is for the Wizarding community to decide - once they've read my book."

On that intriguing note, I take my leave. There can be no doubt that Skeeter has quilled an instant bestseller. Dumbledore's legion of admirers, meanwhile, may well be trembling at what is soon to emerge about their hero.

MUGGLE-BORN REGISTER (4 August 1997)

The Ministry of Magic is undertaking a survey of so-called "Muggle-borns" to better understand how they came to possess magical secrets.

Recent research undertaken by the Department of Mysteries reveals that magic can only be passed from person to person when Wizards reproduce. Where no proven Wizarding ancestry exists, therefore, the so-called Muggle-born is likely to have obtained magical power by theft or force.

The Ministry is determined to root out such usurpers of magical power, and to this end has issued an invitation to every so-called Muggle-born to present themselves for interview by the newly appointed Muggle-born Registration Commission.

EXCLUSIVE EXTRACT FROM UPCOMING BIOGRAPHY OF ALBUS DUMBLEDORE (4 August 1997)

BY RITA SKEETER

Proud and haughty, Kendra Dumbledore could not bear to remain in Mould-on-the-Wold after her husband Percival's well-publicized arrest and imprisonment in Azkaban. She therefore decided to uproot the family and relocate to Godric's Hollow, the village that was later to gain fame as the scene of Harry Potter's strange escape from You-Know-Who.

Like Mould-on-the-Wold, Godric's Hollow was home to a number of Wizarding families, but as Kendra knew none of them, she would be spared the curiosity about her husband's crime she had faced in her former village. By repeatedly rebuffing the friendly advances of her new Wizarding neighbours, she soon ensured that her family was left well alone.

"Slammed the door in my face when I went around to welcome her with a batch of homemade Cauldron Cakes," says Bathilda Bagshot. "The first year they were there I only ever saw the two boys. Wouldn't have known there was a daughter if I hadn't been picking Plangentines by moonlight the winter after they moved in, and saw Kendra leading Ariana out into the back garden. Walked her round the lawn once, keeping a firm grip on her, then took her back inside. Didn't know what to make of it."

It seems that Kendra thought the move to Godric's Hollow was the perfect opportunity to hide Ariana once and for all, something she had probably been planning for years. The timing was significant. Ariana was barely seven years old when she vanished from sight, and seven is the age by which most experts agree that magic will have revealed itself, if present. Nobody now alive remembers Ariana ever demonstrating even the slightest sign of magical ability. It seems clear, therefore, that Kendra made a decision to hide her daughter's existence rather than suffer the shame of admitting that she had produced a Squib. Moving away from the friends and neighbours who knew Ariana would, of course, make imprisoning her all the easier. The tiny number of people who henceforth knew of Ariana's existence could be counted upon to keep the secret, including her two brothers, who had deflected awkward questions with the answer their mother had taught them: "My sister is too frail for school."

I was reading the paper and it had awesome moving pictures. One picture showed the Dursley's being arrested and taken by the D.M.L.E.

Me: "Vernon & Petunia Dursley Arrested for murder of wizards!?"

Soundwave (reads Daily Prophet newspaper): The Dursleys are arrested?

Nico: Odd. We only planned to take care of them if they went after Harry again.

May: Yeah. I wonder who called the cops on them?

Manaphy: (she and Poliwag giggle) Who indeed?

William: (eyes widen) Wait a minute…

Poliwag (laughs): It was me and Manaphy! We called the cops on the Dursleys while you guys were rescuing Della.

Me: Why you slippery guys.

Manaphy: Yeah we read all about their history and we decided that enough was enough. We also found out that they hated all wizards and they even tried to kill a bunch of them by slashing their throats. They went on a ruthless killing spree.

Poliwag: So we turned them in.

Red Alert: (to Manaphy and Poliwag) Remind me never to get you two mad.

May: (hugs Manaphy) Manaphy, as a reward, I'll help you get ready for your upcoming date with Poromon when the time comes.

Nico: Same with you and Horsea, Poliwag.

They cheered.

Me: Good work you two. About time someone put those douchebags in their place. The Dursley's are the most hated Muggle Family ever. Lets head over to London and reunite Harry with his parents.

Nico: Good idea.

We were off to London.

---

LONDON, ENGLAND

---

We arrived at Godric's Hollow and it was a quaint little village that was once home to the founder of the Gryffindor House, Godric Gryffindor himself.

Me: Wow. So this is Godric's Hollow. It's beautiful.

Harry Potter: It is. This is where my mum and dad live.

Me: They are still here now. The Cosmic Cube brought everyone all killed by Voldemort back to life.

Lincoln: I remember that.

We found the Potter Cottage and it was a beautiful cottage.

Me: Here it is. Potter Cottage.

Harry Potter: My house.

Ginny Weasley: It's a lovely house.

Me: And it's also the sight where Voldemort murdered Harry's parents in cold blood. Voldemort is gonna return one day. And when he does we will kill him and make sure that he stays in Hell for good this time.

Lana: Yeah!

Rin: That guy was one fucked up monster.

Me: No kidding Rin.

We went up to the door and I knocked on it. James Potter opened it and he saw us.

Me: James Potter?

James Potter: (British Accent) Yes. You must be J.D. Knudson. We've heard so much about you and all of Team Loud Phoenix Storm. You resurrected us from the dead and killed Voldemort.

Me: I sure did. And I believe someone here wants to catch up with you.

We turned and we they saw Harry Potter for the first time in their lives since he was 15 months old.

James Potter: My son!

Harry Potter: Dad!

They hugged for the first time.

James Potter: My son!

We went in and we were given some tea by Lily Potter.

Lily Potter: (British Accent) Thank you all so much for looking after our son.

Me: You're Welcome Lily.

Lola: Good tea Mrs. Potter.

Lily Potter: Thank you Lola.

James Potter: So Voldemort killed everyone at Hogwarts?

Rin: That's right James. We killed him the first time.

Hermione Granger: Only 3 of us survived.

Ginny Weasley: Me, Hermione and Luna.

Me: Yeah. We killed Voldemort 3 times.

Rin went over what happened during the events of Ninja VS Wizard.

James Potter: I see.

Nico: J.D. killed Voldemort twice.

Me: That's right. But Voldemort is still out there. We strongly fear that he's going to come back and when he does, the entire world is going to be at risk.

James Potter: This is really bad.

Lily Potter: We have to stop him.

Me: Not yet. We have to wait for the right moment. When Voldemort sends his message that he has returned, we will be ready to strike. But until then, we have to be ready for when that time comes. Voldemort is a danger not just to wizards, but to every living thing on this planet. Voldemort is not going to enslave the Muggles like Grindelwald was going to do. He's going to kill them all. It's total Terroristic Genocide.

Lily Potter: That is ultimate evil.

James Potter: Why would he do all of this?

Lincoln: It's the work of Salazar Slytherin. He's a Magic Supremacist that has an undying burning hatred towards Muggles and Muggleborn Wizards.

Me: That's right. His Noble Work as Tom Riddle called it is one that's filled with murder and genocide.

---

Salazar Slytherin is the posthumous overarching antagonist of the Harry Potter book and film franchise. He is one of the four founders of Hogwarts who founded the House of Slytherin and the ancestor of Lord Voldemort. Estranged from his fellow founders, Slytherin's goal wasto purge Hogwarts from all Muggle-borns to keep the blood purity from Pure-blood wizards intact, directly influencing all the actions of Lord Voldemort and his Death Eaters hundreds of years later.

History

Salazar Slytherin was one of the first recorded parselmouths (wizards that have the extremely rare ability to speak to snakes). When he founded Hogwarts with the other three founders, he chose students that show traits of resourcefulness, leadership, ambition, cunning, shrewdness and determination.

Salazar Slytherin wanted to be more selective of the students admitted to Hogwarts. He believed that the school should only accept pure blood witches and wizards, as he distrusted Muggle-borns, possibly of the great conflict between Wizardkind and Muggles. He tried to sway the other founders to agree with him but they refused, especially Godric Gryffindor. This caused Salazar Slytherin's friendship with Godric Gryffindor to break and resulted in him leaving the school.

Salazar Slytherin is known to have been the creator of the Chamber of Secrets. He created it in a hidden part of the school. He managed to breed and keep a Basilisk in the chamber. Slytherin planned to have his "heir" eventually find the chamber and unleash the Basilisk in order to kill all Muggle-born students in Hogwarts. The other founders did not know of this and were likely unaware that it was Slytherin's doing.

Future Hogwarts headmasters conducted multiple attempts to find Slytherin's chamber of secrets but all proved to be futile, leading the chamber to be dismissed as a mere myth.

It is unknown when or how he died, but it is known that his portrait is still at Hogwarts and his locket was made into a horcrux by Voldemort.

Many Harry Potter fans consider Salazar Slytherin to be a Dark Wizard because he wanted to purge Hogwarts of all the Muggle borns and because he is a parselmouth. Another reason could be that many Dark Wizards and Witches came from the house of Slytherin. Even though the author J.K. Rowling has not stated whether Salazar Slytherin is evil or not many of her fans believe that he is.

Slytherin's bloodline was passed down through the female line for generations. The Gaunt family, who practised inbreeding by marrying their own cousins, in order to keep their bloodline pure and their ability to speak Parseltounge, were the last known family to possess Salazar Slytherins blood. Among the last of the Gaunt's included Marvolo Gaunt and his two children Morfin and Merope. Merope fell in love with a Muggle named Tom Riddle and eloped with him, while her father and brother were in Azkaban. Eventually Tom and Merope's marriage resulted in the birth of Tom Marvolo Riddle, later known as Lord Voldemort.

Riddle discovered that he was the heir of Slytherin during his time as a Hogwarts student, as such he found the chamber of secrets and initially followed Slytherin's plan, however after the Basilisk killed Myrtle Warren the school was threatened to be shut down, as such Riddle was forced to stop accessing the chamber and instead led one of his Horcruxes behind so that he could continue using the Basilisk through someone else in the future.

After Voldemort's death, everyone thought that Slytherin's bloodline had ended. More than 20 years after Voldemort's death, it's revealed that Voldemort had a daughter with Bellatrix Lestrange, her name was Delphini. As of 2020, Delphini is the last known survivor of the Slytherin bloodline.

Nico: He's ultimate evil.

Lily Potter was shocked and so was James Potter. Salazar Slytherin was a monster that hated all muggles and muggleborn wizards with a terrible vengeance and he wanted nothing more than to see the world burn.

Me: Voldemort will pay for his crimes. And we will avenge all of those that he has killed and send him off to Hell forever.

James Potter: We will gladly help you all. If it's possible we would like to teach at Hogwarts and help the kids.

Me: That's an excellent idea. First we have to tell you about Petunia.

We revealed everything and more and Lily and James were horrified and enraged. We went over to the trial of Vernon and Petunia Dursley and it was just getting into the sentencing.

Judge: (British Accent) Vernon Dursley and Petunia Dursley, as punishment for your horrible crimes against Lord Harry Potter, you both are hereby sentenced to spend the rest of your natural lives in prison and are hereby ordered to pay Lord Potter £850 billion in restitution. You two are by far the most disgusting parents ever. (Bangs Gavel) Take them away.

The guards grabbed her and they saw us and they saw Lily and James Potter back from the dead!

Guard: (British Accent) Lily and James Potter! You're back!

Guard 2: (British Accent) It's good to have you back Lady Lily.

Lily Potter: Thank you gentlemen. And this is for my sister.

POW!

Lily punched her in the face.

Me: Nice shot.

Petunia: You are a freak! You should've stayed dead you wretched fuck!

Me: Go fuck yourself sideways.

They took her and Vernon away and they looked at us with extreme hatred.

We later went back home.

Later we were in our garage working on a special project. We were building our own special biplanes like when we fought in World War I. It was because we got word about the ruthless Sky Pirate, Don Karnage, causing trouble again.

---

TaleSpin

Being the leader of the Air Pirates, Don Karnage's main goal is to plunder the city of Cape Suzette of its resources. However, he and his forces underestimate the extremely talented piloting skills of the protagonist, the bear pilot Baloo, which has lead to many defeats, much to Karnage's anger. Baloo is his arch nemesis on Talespin. He would often resort to losing his temper whenever thing go bad, even for the slightest reasons.

Most of Don Karnage's schemes involve taking over Cape Suzette. In the "Plunder and Lightning" story arc, he steals a valuable gem that generates electricity, and he exploits the gem's power to power a weapon that causes so much damage to many buildings around Cape Suzette. Another time was in the episode "From Here to Machinery", when he learns that Shere Khan is replacing all pilots with robots called the Auto Aviators (created by Professor Torque), and upon learning that the robot never deviate from their programming, he intend to exploit this to put his skills of air piracy to good use. Another time was in the episode "On a Wing and a Bear", when he briefly formed a deal with Shere Khan to create an oil shortage so that Khan can extort higher prices to the public. Another was in "A Bad Reflection on You", where he exploits the usage of mirrors to stage disappearances of pilots (including Khan's very own pilots) during their travel through a dangerous air route called the Master Run. All of his schemes were thwarted and defeated by Baloo and his friends.

DuckTales (2017)

Don Karnage appears in the episode "Sky Pirates… in the Sky!", where he and the Air Pirates launch a raid on the Sunchaser. While Scrooge, Webby and Huey, Dewey and Louie prepare for battle, Karnage and his pirates distract them with a song and dance number whilst robbing them blind, and then escape afterwards. Back in the Iron Vulture, Karnage berates his pirates for making him look bad with their poor performance, and ends up discovering Dewey, who stowed away to regain his hat. Karnage has Dewey restrained and leaves to prepare a dramatic punishment for him, and, while he is gone, Dewey ends up befriending the pirates and turns them against him. After being thrown out of the Iron Vulture, Karnage swears to get revenge on Dewey, and notices the crashed Sunchaser nearby. Poorly disguising himself as a botanist named "Tom Karnage", he attempts to convince Scrooge and the others that the pirates stole his research and they must help him get it back, and, although everyone realizes he is Don Karnage in disguise, they allow him to join them as he could lead them to the pirates.

As they are trying to find the Iron Vulture, Karnage and the others are abducted by the pirates and Dewey, who has become their new captain, although the pirates soon turn on him too when he both orders the treasure to be returned and begins acting like Karnage. The pirates prepare to throw the group overboard, and Karnage reveals himself, stating that he only pushes his crew because he feels they can do better, regaining his captain status while Dewey reconciles with his friends. Following this, Karnage tries to dispose of Dewey and the others but ends up fighting the former instead. The other triplets and Webby then misdirect Karnage by all pretending to be Dewey while stealing the treasure back, and escape by triggering the pirates to sing, much to Karnage's frustration. With no one steering the Iron Vulture, it crashes into the side of a mountain, and Karnage curses Dewey for his actions.

Don Karnage is confirmed in the episode "GlomTales" where he teams up with Flintheart Glomgold, Ma Beagle and her Beagle Boys, Mark Beaks, and Magica De Spell to exact their revenge against Clan McDuck, where he in particular wishes to exact revenge against Dewey Duck.

We were gonna have the most awesome and action packed dogfight since World War I and it was gonna be over the South Pacific Ocean. Our biplanes were World War I planes with 21st century weaponry like missiles, lasers, bombs and more.

Me: This is gonna be awesome!

Laney: It sure is. I've always wanted to fly a World War I style biplane.

Brian: You should've seen Peter and Quagmire fought a Miley Cyrus Android in Quahog, Laney: Really Brian?

Brian: Yeah. A Miley Cyrus android ran amok all over the city and Peter and Quagmire fought it like with King Kong.

Laney: Wow! That is so cool!

Stewie: My God! I remember that!

Nico: That must've been so cool!

Brian: It was.

Me: I can tell.

We later got all of our planes ready.

Me: All right, our planes are locked and loaded and ready for action.

Jetfire: (to Skywarp, Thundercracker, Dirge, Thrust, and Ramjet)

(Australian Accent) Alright. All of us wil lbe engaging Karnage and his goons in our vehicle modes. Since Starscream is dead, I'm your commander for this mission.

Thundercracker: (Cowboy Accent) Right boss!

Me: Okay ready guys?

Everyone: Ready!

Me: Contact!

I spun the propeller and it started up.

Me: It works!

Me and Nico got into the back and we were off! The Swat Kats were with us.

T-Bone: Awesome planes guys!

Me: Thanks Chance. This is so cool flying planes like this.

Razor: You guys were born to fly.

Me: We sure were.

We opened a portal that lead to over the South Pacific Ocean and we went through it and we were over Pirate Island.

---

Pirate Island is just one in a cluster of volcanic islands far from Cape Suzette. Enshrouded in mist and fog from the frequently gloomy weather, these uncharted islands are rather difficult to locate without precise navigation. Sea gulls, buzzards, and sparse pine trees are the only signs of life on the desolate peaks. Many flyers and sailors purposely steer clear of this foreboding region, making it the perfect area for the Air Pirates to establish their secret lair.

For secrecy's sake, Pirate Island is located not behind the volcanoes but inside one of them.

It is unknown how much of the tunnels are natural, and how much are dug by the pirates themselves, as there are various booby-traps throughout many of the tunnels.

The exact location of Pirate Island is the Air Pirates' single most carefully-kept secret, and outsiders never find their way, exept for Baloo once, who was directed by former air pirate Kit Cloudkicker.

Main entrance

Camouflage is the crucial element in keeping the Air Pirates' presence on Pirate Island a secret. The Air Pirates hide the main entrance to their base behind a pair of massive doors on one side of the island. Covered with a phony rock surface, these motorized doors open in response to a special signal from the Iron Vulture's radio transmitter, revealing an immense cavern within the island large enough to hold the airship, with room to spare for additional vessels. The pirates use a small tugboat to guide the Vulture to a loading dock at the far end of the cave, and to turn the ship around for takeoff.

Back door sea entrance

Sea-based aircraft may use the secondary "back door" entrance on the other side of the mountain. Entering Pirate Island this way involves a tricky flight into a thick fog bank covering what, from above, appears to be nothing but solid rock. However, aerial approach at a low angle - cutting under the fog - reveals a series of rocks arranged like a rib cage.

Beyond these obstacles lies a watery inlet, emptying into an underground stream which leads straight through the mountain. The Air Pirates leave this entrance deserted most of the time, using it only when they need to dispatch pirate transports or when the main entrance is somehow inaccessible.

The back-entrance tunnel is dangerously full of booby-traps and natural hazards.

Things look different coming out from the inside; a tunnel from the pirates' workshop provides an alternate path to the back entrance, ending right where the more hazardous, more apparent route begins (where the paths join is impossible to tell in the shadows).

Workshop

Practically all the Air Pirates' mechanical experiments and repairs take place in the workshop. Supervised by pirate mechanic Ratchet, the workshop provides the pirates with enough space and materials to rebuild, equip, and maintain machines as large as aircraft. A giant furnace, used for melting down metals, feeds directly into a vent in the top of the island, brilliantly masking the furnace exhaust as volcanic smoke. Crates and scattered bundles of treasure lie strewn about the workshop until transferred to other areas. Railroad tracks run from the shop to the vast main cavern for transporting planes, ammunition, and supplies to and from the waiting Iron Vulture. Another tunnel in the far wall leads to Pirate Island's back entrance.

Dungeon

Few prisoners get to visit Pirate Island, as the Iron Vulture has cells aplenty in its brig. Karnage may decide, however, that an important captive must be whisked away to the pirates' lair for safe keeping until ransom is paid. Those who've been unlucky guests of the Air Pirates report that the base is almost completely deserted when Karnage and company are out on a heist; only a handful of slow-witted guards remain.

Other portions of Pirate Island include storage rooms for weapons, fuel, and foodstuffs; a kitchen and mess hall; training and recreation areas; and personal quarters for the pirates (including Don Karnage). Torches are chosen for illumination and warmth over electric lamps, as running a generator and power grid large enough to light up the whole base would be impractical.

Outdoor balcony

On the rare days when the weather clears, Don Karnage seizes the opportunity to soak up the sun's rays. A carved stone balcony, one of the captain's favorite spots to relax, once overlooked the ocean from the west face of Pirate Island - Karnage often spent entire afternoons basking in the sun there, with underlings attending to his every whim. An unfortunate brush with the Iron Vulture has since reduced the outcropping to rubble.

Tricks, traps, and alarms

Unwary trespassers and would-be escapees will stumble across dozens of unpleasant surprises in the Air Pirates' island home - spikes shooting from the ceiling, collapsing floors, even metal jaw traps popping out of cobbled footpaths. These fiendishly clever, exceptionally dangerous snares are concentrated along the paths leading to the island's back entrance, the most likely escape route.

While most of the traps are set off by tripwires and floor triggers (easy enough to circumvent, if you're not in any particular hurry), some traps are manually activated and may help the pirates slow down intruders. An alarm system wired throughout the complex sounds either as a warning, or as a general alert when the Iron Vulture is leaving or returning to the base.

Arms and weaponry

Taking into consideration the risk of prisoners escaping or travellers stumbling upon Pirate Island, Don Karnage has installed powerful outer defenses into the Air Pirates' fortress. Hidden behind panels in the sides and top of the volcano, accurate artillery guns can fire long-range shells at intruding aircraft and ships (not to mention pesky summer clouds interfering with Karnage's outdoor tanning breaks).

Me: Our targets are in sight now. Lets go!

We saw a plane coming and in it was Don Karnage!

Don Karnage: So all of Team Loud Phoenix Storm is here! Love the planes.

Me: The better to bite your nose with you furfuck! Get ready to fire guys!

Lincoln: Right!

We attacked the Sky Pirates. I fired bullets at a bunch of pirates and blew their planes apart.

Razor: Slicer Missiles, Deploy!

Razor pressed 4 buttons and fired 4 missiles and they opened and turned into deadly razor blades and they cut through 3 planes and they exploded into a million pieces.

Razor: Banshee Missiles, deploy!

Razor pressed 2 buttons and they fired and the Banshee Missiles released a super powerful sonic blast and they hit 2 planes and they exploded all over.

Me: Matchhead Missiles, Fire!

I pressed 2 buttons and fired two missiles with 2 red heads on them that lit on fire and they hit 2 planes and exploded.

Lori: Tornado Missiles, Literally fire!

Lori pressed two buttons and fired two missiles that turned into powerful tornadoes and they spun two planes around and exploded.

Megaforce Rangers: Legendary Ranger Mode: Race Force!

The Megaforce Power Rangers turned into the Japanese Version of the Turbo Power Rangers from 1990. Troy Burrows turned into the Red Japanese Turbo Ranger, Noah Carver turned into the Japanese Blue Turbo Ranger, Jake Halling turned into the Black Japanese Turbo Ranger, Gia Moran turned into the Yellow Japanese Turbo Ranger, Emma Goodall turned into the Pink Japanese Turbo Ranger and Orion turned into a new brown Senturion Ranger!

Karnage: What are you going to do? Run circles around me?

Troy Burrows: Oh we're about to do worse than that!

We fired lasers and blew some of the planes apart. We were firing machine guns and lightning blasts and missiles and we blew all of the planes apart. But we saw Don Karnage head into his hideout.

Me: He's heading into his hideout!

Ladybug: Karnage retreated into his hideout!

Batman: He knows we've got him beat. So, let's take this time to sneak in and catch him by surprise.

Me: Will do. Good thing we built floats onto our planes.

We flew after him and we went into the hideout and went into the hideout quietly. We got out of our planes and we were looking for him. We turned into cockroaches to avoid being seen by the guards and we snuck passed them unnoticed.

Guard 1: That look odd to you?

Guard 2: (Stupidly) Duh nope. Uh uh. Nope.

Maria: Well, our Phoenix Cry just became pointless.

The door opened to reveal Karnage pointing a pistol at us.

Karnage: Hello, Team Loud Phoenix Storm. Up for a few rounds?

Spiderman: Trust me. It'll only take one.

Karnage: You flew those planes really well. Not bad for first timers.

Me: Thank you for the compliment. We pilot starships and all kinds of planes. Shall we dance?

I swooped in and punched him in the face and kicked him in the stomach and bit him in the finger and kicked him in the crotch. Nico punched him in the face and kicked him in the hand and knocked his gun out of his hand and laney punched him in the face and kicked him in the mouth and knocked out some of his teeth. Lola fired a powerful blast of fire and burned him and Lori spun him around in a powerful tornado of wind and Baloo threw heavy fruits at Karnage and they really hurt and Karnage pulled out his sword and we clashed. Massive sparks and embers flew everywhere and set some gasoline on fire and then it lit the barrels on fire and exploded.

KRABBBBBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOMMMM

The Whole hideout was now going up in flames. Troy Burrows slashed Karnage with his GT Sword and he cut him up, Noah Carvers blasted him with his J Gun, Jake Halling smashed Karnage with his T Hammer, Gia Moran skewered Karnage with her B Bowgun and skewered him and Emma Goodall smashed him all over with her W Staff and Orion punched Karnage all over the place.

Me: Lets get him with our combos!

Red Alert: Lets do it! CYBER KEY POWER!

The Autobot Cyber Planet Key went into his shoulder missile cannon and turned it into a powerful more powerful cannon.

Stacy: This is gonna be so cool! GIGANTION CYBER KEY POWER!

The Gigantion Cyber Planet Key went into Stacy's Right Arm Device and it enhanced her lightning powers 100-fold.

Red Alert and Stacy: LIGHTNING PLASMA DEATHRAY!

They both fired powerful blasts of energy and lightning and they hit Karnage and exploded.

KRABBBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOO

Soundwave: Target: Don Karnage acquired. CYBER KEY POWER!

The Planet X Cyber Planet Key went into his back and it enabled him to fire a powerful energy blast from his chest.

Blitzwing: Lets do it! CYBER KEY POWER!

The Gigantion Cyber Planet Key went into his back and it enhanced his Gyro-Blaster Rifle 100-fold.

Soundwave and Blitzwing: SUPERSONIC DARKBEAM BURST!

They both fired powerful energy blasts and they hit Karnage and exploded.

KRABBBBBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOO

Me: Time for some awesome Final Smash power!

Baloo: You got it! And old papa bear is gonna get him good! FRUITBOMB MEGA PULVERIZE!

Baloo fired a powerful barrage of fruit and smashed them all over Karnage and covered him all over.

Mowgli: Lets show him Papa Bear! MAN SPEAR DEATH STAB!

Mowgli threw a spear and it skewered Don Karnage and went through his legs.

Laney: Taste the venom of defeat! POISON BARB FIRESTORM BURST!

Laney formed a powerful sundew plant and it threw poisonous barbs at Don Karnage and they hit him and poisoned him.

We took Don Karnage and onto an airplane. We heard Tick Tock the Crocodile coming.

TICK TOCK TICK TOCK TICK TOCK TICK TOCK.

Dewey: Guys, Tick Tock is outside, right?

Baloo: Yep. He's on the ground.

Dewey: Good. Tell him that the minute someone enters his jaws, he should close them no matter what!

Webby: Ok. (realizes something) Dewey, what're you planning?

Dewey charged towards Karnage and tackled him as the two fell towards the ground outside.

Della: DEWEY, NO!

Me: DEWEY!

We saw Dewey do a powerful dive and he grabbed Karnage and he flew out of the way as Karnage flew into Tick Tock's mouth and ate him!

CHOMP!

BURP!

Tick Tock was stuffed.

Dewey flew back to us.

Me: Dewey that was awesome!

Scrooge McDuck: (Scottish Accent) Lad have you lost your mind!

Louie (to Dewey): Dude, what were you thinking back there?!

Dewey (weakly smiles): I was thinking about making Karnage meet his end.

Laney: You had us worried! For a minute, we thought you were going to die!

Dewey: Well, that's what a hero does, right? He risks his life to stop bad guys and help people.

Scrooge: (hugs Dewey) Lad, promise me won't do anything that risky again!

Dewey: I promise.

Me: But you were really brave dude.

Baloo: (To the viewers) Not even deadly Sky Pirates can stop the mighty friends of Team Loud Phoenix Storm. These guys are just that good.

Me: You said it Baloo.

Mowgli: What do we do with Pirate Island now?

Me: We blow it up with our Superlaser after we take all the treasure Carnage stole.

We took all the treasure and it was quite a huge amount of it.

Later back at the estate we got ready.

Me: Charge up the superlaser.

Fu: Roger that. Commence Primary Ignition.

Fu pressed some buttons and pulled a lever and the superlaser was ready to fire at the island.

Me: Fire!

We fired the Superlaser at the island and it hit it and exploded with incredible power.

KRABBBBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOO

When the smoke cleared, the entire island was completely destroyed and completely obliterated. Nothing of it was left but a huge crater in the ocean that was filling up with water.

Me: BINGO!

Lincoln: Nice shot! Take that you sky pirate freaks.

Nico: They have failed this whole world.

Me: Yep.

The Sky Pirates were dead.

The Cursed Snake Hockey Star

I was at the Quidditch arena and it was a cool place. I was made the Seeker for the Gryffindor Quidditch Team and with me was Quidditch Captain Oliver Wood. He was showing me the ropes.

---

Quidditch (formerly known as Kwidditch and Cuaditch) is a wizarding sport played on broomsticks. It is the most popular game and most well-known game among wizards and witches, and, according to Rubeus Hagrid, the equivalent to Muggles' passion for football (Soccer).

The object of the game is to score more points than your opponents. Each goal is worth ten points and catching the Golden Snitch is worth one-hundred and fifty points. The game ends when the Snitch is caught or an agreement is reached between the captains of both teams. Some games can go on for many days if the Snitch is not caught (the record, according to Quidditch Through the Ages, is six months, although no one caught the Snitch.)

The main ancient games that provided some inspiration for Quidditch are:

A game by the name of Stichstock originated in Germany and consisted of a single wizard acting as a guardian or goalkeeper, trying to protect an inflated dragon bladder. A number of other players mounted on broomsticks would attempt to pierce the bladder, with the first who successfully did so being declared the winner. This game may have been the inspiration for the Quidditch position of Keeper.

An Irish game by the name of Aingingein required broomstick-mounted players to fly through a number of burning barrels set in the air, whilst all the time clutching a ball with one hand. At the end of this fiery course was a goal which the ball had to be hurled into. The wizard who completed the course and scored a goal in the shortest time was the winner.

Creaothceann was an exceptionally violent and often fatal game that originated in Scotland. A large number of boulders were charmed to hover in the air and each player had a cauldron strapped to his/her head. A horn was sounded, the rocks were released, and the players would fly around on their broomsticks trying to catch as many rocks in their cauldron as possible. The winner was the player who caught the most rocks (this game has been outlawed for many years). This game, as noted in Quidditch Through the Ages, is thought to be the inspiration of the Beater position.

Shuntbumps was a very simple form of broomstick-jousting where one flyer attempts to knock the others off of their broom.

A game rather like Tennis on a broomstick, Swivenhodge involved hitting an inflated pig's bladder backwards and forwards across a hedge. This game could have been the inspiration of the Quidditch position of Chaser, simply because it was the first and only mentioned broom game involving a ball being passed, barring Quidditch itself.

Evolution of the game

The sport of Quidditch gets its name from Queerditch Marsh, the location of the first ever recorded game. A witch by the name of Gertie Keddle lived on the edge of the marsh around the year 1050 and recorded what she saw in a diary that survives to this day. Successive entries in her journal show the evolution of the game and how each element was introduced.

Her first note simply records her annoyance at a number of people playing a game with a ball whilst flying their broomsticks above the marsh. When the ball landed in her cabbage patch, she confiscated it and then hexed the man who asked for it.

A second entry shows that the players did not give up, but had made themselves a new ball and were then trying to score goals by throwing it through trees at the end of the marsh. This was the earliest incarnation of the Quaffle and the scoring hoops of today.

The third entry notes the introduction of flying rocks that had been bewitched to knock the players off their broomsticks, which were the forerunners of the Bludgers. She also mentioned the presence of a "big Scottish warlock" who may have been a Creaothceann player, which would show a clear link between the two sports.

With historical records of the time being rather limited, there is no further mention of Quidditch until a hundred years later, around 1150. A letter sent from a wizard called Goodwin Kneen to his Norwegian cousin Olaf survives from this time and gives a clear indication of how far the game had come. It had gained a name (although it was spelt "Kwidditch" at this time) and a number of organised teams, as well as titles for players and equipment. From the letter it can be seen that early Chasers were known as "Catchers", and the Bludger began its life as the "Blooder".

Kneen's letter also revealed a new innovation: using three barrels mounted on stilts to use as the goals. This was undoubtedly a massive improvement from using trees as the goals and is a clear precursor to the hoops used in the modern game. Therefore it can be seen that the sport of "Kwidditch" played by Kneen was already very similar to the game as it is played today.

The one missing element was the Golden Snitch.

Golden Snitch

The history of the Snitch is perhaps the most interesting of all the Quidditch balls, and its introduction came as the direct result of a game played in 1269 in Kent. This is over a century on from Goodwin Kneen's letter to his cousin, and it seems that during this time, the game had acquired a great deal of popularity and organisation, but had altered in its format very little. It was, however, now routinely attended by large crowds of people who wanted to watch the game.

The 1269 game mentioned above was attended by Barberus Bragge, the Chief of the Wizards' Council. As a nod to the sport of Snidget-hunting, which was also popular at the time, Bragge brought such a bird to the game and released it from its cage. He told the players that one-hundred and fifty Galleons - a large sum of money, particularly in those times - would be awarded to the player who caught the bird.

This was easier said than done: the Snidget is very fast, very small, and can make sudden changes of direction at high speeds. The considerable challenge posed by the flight patterns of the bird is what made Snidget-hunting so popular in the first place.

What happened at the Quidditch game in question was rather predictable: the players totally ignored the game, and each and every one simply went off in pursuit of the Snidget, which was kept within the arena by the crowd using Repelling Charms.

A witch named Modesty Rabnott, who was also watching the game, took pity on the Snidget and rescued it with a Summoning Charm before rushing away with it hidden inside her robes. She was caught by a furious Bragge and fined ten Galleons for disrupting the game, but not before she had released the Snidget. This saved the life of this bird, but the connection with Quidditch had been made, and soon a Snidget was being released at every game. Each team had an extra player - originally called the Hunter, later the Seeker - whose sole job was to catch and kill the Snidget, for which one-hundred and fifty points were awarded in memory of the one-hundred and fifty Galleons offered by Bragge in the original game.

The vast popularity of the sport led to quickly declining Snidget numbers, and in the middle of the 14th century it was made a protected species by the Wizards Council, now headed by Elfrida Clagg. This meant that the bird could no longer be used for Quidditch purposes, and indeed the Modesty Rabnott Snidget Reservation was created in Somerset to safeguard the Snidget's future survival.

The game of Quidditch, however, could not continue without a substitute.

Whilst most people looked for a suitable alternative bird to chase, a metal-charmer called Bowman Wright from Godric's Hollow had a different idea: he invented a fake Snidget which he called the Golden Snitch. His invention was pretty much what we see on the Quidditch pitch today: a golden ball with silver wings, the same size and weight as a real Snidget, bewitched to accurately follow its flight patterns. An additional benefit was that the ball was also charmed to stay within the playing area, removing the need for the continual use of Repelling Charms by the crowd.

The Snitch was approved as a Snidget substitute, the game of Quidditch could continue, and the modern sport as we know it was complete. All of the balls used in the modern game were now present, organised teams played against each other, and vast numbers of people came to watch. Whilst this may sound exactly like the sport as it is played today, there were still a few modifications to be made in terms of the playing pitch, and this continued to evolve until 1883 when the format of today's Quidditch pitches was finalised.

Committees

The International Confederation of Wizards' Quidditch Committee is the international body that oversees the game of Quidditch. There is also the International Association of Quidditch and the Federation Internationale de Quidditch Association (FIQA), that organised the Quidditch World Cup every four years. Quidditch is governed in Britain by the Department of Magical Games and Sports, where the British and Irish Quidditch League Headquarters are situated.

Quidditch pitches

Quidditch pitches are typically in the shape of an oval, five-hundred feet long and one-hundred and eighty feet wide, with a small central circle of approximately two feet in diameter, from which all the balls are released at the start of the game. At each end there are three hooped goal posts of different heights, surrounded by a scoring area. As Quidditch is an aerial sport, Quidditch pitches usually feature spectator seating at high vantage points, whether in towers (such as at Hogwarts) or in a fully-encircling platform style (such as the British stadium that held the 1994 Quidditch World Cup).

The three hooped goal posts that are used nowadays, were originally barrel-goals in the Sport of Warl's time. At the time of the introduction of the scoring area, they were replaced by baskets on stilts, but whilst these were practical, they did carry an inherent problem: there was no size restriction on the baskets, which differed dramatically from pitch to pitch.

Quidditch Pitch Diagram

A diagram of a 17th-century pitch, included in the book The Noble Sport of Warlocks, by Quintius Umfraville

By 1620, scoring areas had been added at each end of the pitch, and an additional rule in the game, a 'stooging penalty', meant that only one Chaser was allowed in these areas at any given time, as noted in Quintius Umfraville's book The Noble Sport of Warlocks. In addition, the size of the baskets themselves had reduced considerably, although there was still a certain amount of variation between pitches. Regulations were finally introduced in 1883 which replaced the baskets with hoops of a fixed size, and the modern Quidditch pitch was complete. Both these changes caused a considerable amount of controversy, which resulted in riots and threats against the minister.

Quidditch pitches are built in places where they will not attract Muggle attention. This began in 1398 when the wizard Zacharias Mumps emphasised the need for anti-Muggle security while playing the game: "Choose areas of deserted moorland far from Muggle habitations and make sure that you cannot be seen once you take off on your brooms. Muggle-repelling charms are useful if you are setting up a permanent pitch. It is advisable, too, to play at night." The advice of Mumps must not have always been followed as in 1362, the Wizards' Council outlawed playing Quidditch within fifty miles of a known Muggle town. This was amended in 1368, possibly due to growing popularity of the game. This amendment made the playing of the sport within one-hundred miles of a Muggle town illegal, famously worded as not to play "anywhere near any place where there is the slightest chance a Muggle is watching or we'll see how well you can play while chained to a dungeon wall."

The International Statute of Wizarding Secrecy of 1692 made all Ministries of Magic responsible for the consequences of magical sports in their territories. The Department of Magical Games and Sports was created for this purpose. Quidditch teams that flouted Ministry guidelines were disbanded. One such instance was the Banchory Bangers.

Match overview

The game starts with the referee releasing all four balls from the central circle. The Bludgers and Snitch are bewitched to fly off of their own accord, but the Quaffle is thrown into the air by the referee to signal the start of play (This is similar to how the games of basketball and Gaelic football, popular Muggle sports begin by the referee throwing the ball in the air).

Since the lengths of Quidditch games are variable (some games can go on for days if the Golden Snitch is not caught) the game is not played in periods, although captains can call for a time out. Teams continue using the same goal posts to score throughout the game.

Chasers score by sending the Quaffle through any of the three goal hoops. Each goal scored is worth ten points. After a goal is scored, the opposing team's Keeper throws the Quaffle back into play.

The game only ends when the Golden Snitch is caught, or at the agreement of both team Captains. Catching the Golden Snitch is worth 150 points to the team whose Seeker made the catch. The Snitch is bewitched to respond to the first witch or wizard to make contact with it, in case there is any dispute regarding which Seeker touched it first. Despite this, there have been several instances in which the Snitch has been fumbled. The winner of the game is the team with the most points, regardless of who caught the Golden Snitch. As a result, it is possible, although difficult, to win the game even though the opposing team caught the Snitch, if your team is one hundred and sixty or more points ahead, as was the case of the final match between Ireland and Bulgaria of the 1994 Quidditch World Cup. It is never explained what happens in the event of a tie.

Positions

The game is played by two teams of seven people (three Chasers, two Beaters, one Keeper, and one Seeker) and involves four balls (a Quaffle, two Bludgers, and a Golden Snitch).

The Keeper guards the goalposts, while the three Chasers score goals with the Quaffle by tossing it into one of the opposing team's three goal posts. The two Beaters keep the Bludgers away from their team and hit the Bludgers towards the opposing team, and the Seeker catches the Golden Snitch to end the game. The team whose Seeker catches the Snitch is awarded 150 points, but this does not necessarily mean they will win if the other team still has more points after the Snitch is caught.

Before the game can start, every player has to have a few standard things. Each player must have a Broomstick between his legs. As protection they have to wear a Quidditch helmet, Goggles, shin, knee and arm guards and Gloves. Players have their own position which make that some of the players have other equipment. For example, Beaters carry bats and Keepers wear protective head and chestgear. Each player must wear the uniform of their team in an official match, so they can see who is with who. An uniform consist of a cape and jersey. Each team's robes have their own colours and either logos or insignia. They have a special meaning to the team and their fans.

Most of the players in Great Britainbuy their equipment at Quality Quidditch Supplies, in Diagon Alley, London.

The game is played with three types of balls: the Golden Snitch, Quaffle and Bludger.

Rules

Quidditch Through the Ages

Kennilworthy Whisp's book Quidditch Through the Ages, which depicted the history of Quidditch with letters and visuals

The worldwide popularity and playing of the game of Quidditch is closely monitored and analysed by International Confederation of Wizards' Quidditch Committee

In 1750, the British Ministry of Magic set down official rules for the game of Quidditch.

Players must not stray over the boundary lines of the pitch, although they may fly as high as desired. The Quaffle must be surrendered to the opposition if any player leaves the boundary (it is unknown what the penalty is if a player on defence leaves the pitch).

"Time out" may be called at any time by the Captain of a team. Time out may be extended to two hours if a game has already lasted for more than twelve hours. Failure to return to the pitch after this time will lead to the team being disqualified.

Penalties can be awarded to teams by the referee. A single Chaser may take the penalty by flying from the central circle towards the scoring area. The opposing team's Keeper may attempt to stop the shot being scored, but all other players must not interfere (it is unknown if the Seeker may still attempt to catch the Snitch while a penalty is being attempted).

Contact is allowed, but a player may not seize hold of another player's broomstick or any part of their anatomy.

No substitution of players is allowed throughout the game, even if a player is too injured or tired to continue to play. (Note: According to Goblet of Fire, during the Quidditch World Cup, at some point it lasted for days, and the players had to be switched out so that they could get some sleep).

Players may take their wands onto the pitch, but they must not be used on or against any players, any players' broomsticks, the referee, any of the four balls, or the spectators.

A game of Quidditch will only end once the Golden Snitch has been caught, or at the mutual consent of both team Captains.

Only the Keeper can block quaffle shots thrown by the opposing team.

An amendment to the rules of Quidditch in 1849 determined that if a member of the crowd casts any spell on a player, their team would automatically forfeit the match, whether or not the team ordered or approved of the magic performed. (It is not clear how this is enforced, though, as taken literally, this rule would make it even easier to sabotage an opposing team with a false-flag attack).

Fouls

There are seven hundred Quidditch fouls listed in the Department of Magical Games and Sports records, though the entire list has never been made public (it was the department's view that some wizards and witches "might get ideas"). 90% of these are banned anyway, by the rule concerning wand use against the opposing team (or rather, lack thereof) and the remaining 10% would not occur even to the dirtiest player. There are, however, 11 common fouls, named below (names of those to whom the fouls apply in brackets):

Basic foul: A player violently blocks the Seeker from capturing the Golden Snitch

Blagging: Seizing the opponent's broom tail to slow or hinder. (All players)

Blocking: Deliberately putting oneself in the way of the opposing team's Seeker, with the intention of obstructing their way towards the Snitch

Cobbing: Excessive use of elbows towards opponents. (All players)

Flacking: Pushing any portion of anatomy through the goal hoop in an attempt to push the Quaffle out - the Keeper should defend from the front, not the rear. (Keepers only)

Snitchnip: Any player other than Seeker touching or catching the Golden Snitch. (All players but Seeker)

Blatching: Flying with the intent to collide. (All players)

Blurting: Locking broom handles with the intent to steer an opponent off course. (All players)

Bumphing: Hitting Bludgers towards spectators. (Beaters only)

Haversacking: Hand still on the Quaffle as it goes through the goal hoop - the Quaffle must be thrown through the goal. (Chasers only)

Quaffle-pocking: Tampering with the Quaffle - e.g. puncturing it so that it falls more quickly or zig-zags. (Chasers only)

Stooging: More than one Chaser entering the scoring area. (Chasers only)

During the final of the 1473 Quidditch World Cup, all seven hundred fouls were committed. These naturally included all 11 aforementioned as well as:

Copa Mundial de Quadribol 1473 (1ª Copa Mundial)

1473 Quidditch World Cup final between Transylvania and Flanders

Transfiguring of a Chaser into a polecat.

Attempted decapitation of a keeper with a broadsword.

The release of one hundred blood-sucking vampire bats from under the Transylvanian Captain's robes during the game.

Setting fire to an opponent's broom tail.

Attacking an opponent's broom with a club.

Attacking an opponent with an axe.

Tactics and moves

Over the centuries, many difficult and entertaining moves have been invented by players who constantly push themselves and the game as far as they can go. Among them are:

Body Blow: Two Chasers close in on an opposing Chaser carrying the Quaffle, and press against him from either side physically forcing him to let go of the Quaffle

Checking: It consists of intercepting the ball just when the opposing Chasers are about to make a pass.

Dopplebeater Defence: Both Beaters strike a Bludger at the same time, to double the force behind a swing.

Hawkshead Attacking Formation: Three Chasers fly in triangle shape to force other Chasers aside.

No Hands: The Seeker takes both hands off the broom in order to catch the Golden Snitch

Power Play: A large concentration of players is applied in a certain area of the pitch, in order to clear a path for the Chaser who is carrying the Quaffle.

Sloth Grip Roll: A player hangs upside down on their broomstick to avoid a Bludger.

Spiral Dive: Descend sharply, in a spiral fashion. Seekers can use this tactic to quickly intercept the Snitch.

Starfish and Stick: A Keeper holds one hand and one foot onto the broomstick, while stretching his body out, to ensure maximum shielding against oncoming Quaffles.

Twirl: Whirling about of the broomstick, in attempt to dodge something, usually either a player or a Bludger.

Wronski Feint: A Seeker from high above dives down, sharply, as if to collect the Snitch, causing the opposing Seeker to chase after him, only to pull up at the last second, causing the opposing Seeker to crash into the ground below.

Zig-Zag: A player moves in a back and forth motion to avoid bludgers and other players

Bludger Backbeat: A Beater hitting a Bludger with a back-hand swing to confuse the opposition.

Chelmondiston Charge: A Chaser stands on their broomstick and leaps, thrusting the Quaffle towards a goalpost.

Dionysus Dive: A Chaser stands on their broomstick and leaps, punching the Quaffle towards a goalpost.

Double Eight Loop: A Keeper flies in front of the three goals at high speed to block the Quaffle.

Finbourgh Flick: A Chaser uses their broomstick to hit a Quaffle in midair into a goalpost.

Parkin's Pincer: Two Chasers trap an opposing Chaser, while the third Chaser commits blatching.

Plumpton Pass: Hiding the Snitch in the Seeker's sleeve to confuse the opponents.

Porskoff Ploy: One Chaser flies upward, and then throws the Quaffle down to another Chaser directly below.

Reverse Pass: A Chaser throws the Quaffle over his or her shoulder.

Transylvanian Tackle: A fake punch to the nose to confuse the opponent (as long as contact is not made, it is not illegal).

Woollongong Shimmy: Chasers fly in a zig-zag motion to confuse opposing Chasers.

Quaffle throws

Straight Ball: a straight shot

Fast Ball: a fast, straight shot

Curve Ball: a ball that curves unpredictably

Knuckle Ball: a ball that spirals towards the goal post

Quidditch is an amazing sport and I wanted to help Hogwarts win the World Cup. Hogwarts over the course of 969 years ever since 1050 A.D. has never won the Quidditch World Cup. 2022 is the next Quidditch World Cup and we have 2 years to prepare.

Oliver Wood: (Irish Accent) Quidditch is very easy to understand. Each team has 7 players: 3 Chasers, 2 Beaters, 1 Keeper and a Seeker. That's you J.D.

Me: This is interesting.

We were carrying a box and in it was the equipment for the game.

We opened it and in it was the balls for the game.

Oliver Wood: There are three kinds of balls. (Hands me a red ball) This one's called the Quaffle. Now the Chasers handle the Quaffle and try to put it through one of those three hoops.

I saw the three hoops.

Oliver Wood: The Keeper, that's me, defends the hoops.

Me: I understand. those two balls must be the Bludgers.

Oliver Wood: That's right. You better take this.

He hands me the Beaters bat.

Me: Okay.

I took it and he released a Bludger and I saw it and it was coming back and I bashed it with the beater bat. It went flying through a statue and didn't damage it.

Oliver Wood: Whoo. Not bad J.D. You'd make a good beater.

Me: I guess so. But here it comes.

The Bludger came back.

Oliver Wood: Uh oh.

Me: Heads up.

I grabbed it and it was a feisty one.

Me: (Grunting) Wow! Really feisty!

I put it back and he puts the brace on.

Oliver Wood: Wow! You are powerful J.D. But good work putting the bludger back.

Me: Thanks.

Oliver Wood: You're welcome. But you are the Seeker.

He opened a Hogwarts shield compartment and pulled out a little gold ball the size of a golf ball.

Oliver Wood: The only thing I want you to worry about is this. (Hands me the Gold ball) Is this. The Golden Snitch.

Me: This one is interesting.

Oliver Wood: Ah you like it now. But just wait. It's wicked fast and down near impossible to see.

Me: I guess I have to catch it.

Oliver Wood: That's right. Before the other team seeker does. You catch this, the game is over. You catch this J.D. and we win.

The Snitch spread its wings and flapped them faster than a hummingbirds wings. It flew around as fast as a bullet fired from a gun. I was ready for an awesome new sport.

Me: This is gonna be awesome for me.

I spread my wings and I was ready for an awesome Quidditch game.

* * *

At the estate, we were reading books and watching TV. I was reading books on Spells and Magic and I was reading the rules about the Quidditch match. It was something and awesome!

Lincoln: Boy that's a lot of reading J.D.

Me: I know. Quidditch is an amazing sport though. It was introduced in 1050 A.D., 969 years ago.

Lynn: Wow! It's gonna be awesome seeing you in a sport like that!

Me: I know.

Laney: I heard that you're going to help Hogwarts get the Quidditch World Cup.

Me: I sure am. It's held once every 4 years like the FIFA World Cup for Soccer. Hogwarts has never won the Quidditch World Cup. Throughout the entire history of the Quidditch World Cup, ever since 1473, Hogwarts has never won it.

Lana: That is amazing!

Lola: I can't believe that Hogwarts went 546 years without winning that!

Laney: That's like with the Chicago Cubs. They hadn't won a World Series for 108 years.

Lynn: That was a huge shock! But they finally won again back in 2016.

Me: I know. The whole country went nuts after that. But Hogwarts not winning the Quidditch World Cup is a huge shock. The Last Quidditch World Cup was held in Mexico and Spain won that one in 2018. The next Quidditch World Cup is in 2022. We have a year and a half to get ready.

Nico: Wow! That's amazing.

We then felt a massive increase in energy!

Me: Whoa!

Lana: Wow! Whoever did that really hates us.

Me: Oh that was Lila. She has been expressing incredible hatred towards us ever since we beat her and humiliated her.

Marinette: Wow. She must be watching us on TV or something.

Me: Yep. I told the Saturn Insane Asylum to make her watch our adventures over and over.

Nico: Nice!

* * *

In the Saturn Insane Asylum, Lila was watching us fight Nerissa.

Lila: (ENRAGED GROWLING) (ENRAGED SCREAMING) I HATE THAT TEAM LOUD PHOENIX STORM! I HATE THEM!

* * *

Chloe: That serves that little bitch right.

Lincoln: I agree Chloe. How's your dad doing?

Chloe: He's good Lincoln. He got released from the hospital today.

Me: I'm glad.

Marinette: My mom is doing good too. She got released too.

Me: Good. I'm glad.

Later in the afternoon, we were over in the Safari Zone and we were horseback riding on our Rapidash through it. The Safari Zone was located on the western side of the State.

Ash Ketchum: Welcome to the Safari Zone, guys.

Me: Wow! It's beautiful here.

Laney: It sure is. Look at all the plants, animals and Pokemon.

Me: I know. There's many of them.

We saw Bellsprout, Pinsir and many more.

Lana: Wow. There's a lot of Pokemon here.

Kira Ford: Yeah.

Lily Chilman: I would love to get some Pokemon myself.

Kevin Levin: You know what? Maybe I can try my hand at getting some Pokemon here.

Me: These Pokemon from what Ash told me are protected.

We walked around and it was so beautiful and peaceful.

Me: It's so beautiful here.

Liu Kang: If only me and my friends had something peaceful as this.

Me: Yeah.

We saw lots of amazing Pokemon and more and we saw the wreckage of one of Team Rocket's old schemes.

Back at the estate, Manaphy and Poromon and Horsea and Poliwag were having a double date. Lola was giving them Tea and Finger Sandwiches.

Lola: More tea Manaphy?

Manaphy: Thank you Lola.

Thunderblast saw Manaphy and Poromon having a date as well as Poliwag and Horsea doing the same thing.

Thunderblast: (giggles) Hey, Maria. Don't look now but Poliwag and Horsea are having a date here. Same with Poromon and Manaphy.

Maria saw this and she was in awe.

Maria: So cute!

In the living room Optimus Prime was watching TV and was watching the racing channel. We came back in through the door.

Optimus Prime: Did everyone have a good time at the Safari Zone?

Me: We sure did Optimus. It was awesome.

Nico: It sure was.

Lana: I'll say.

We went onto the couch and then I felt a hand grab my neck in a hold and I saw that it was Anko Mitarashi.

Anko: Hey there kid.

Me: Oh hey Anko-Sensei. Love those new torture methods I gave you?

She let go of me.

Anko: You know it J.D. Got to chop off a murderers hand for coming into our village to kill people.

Me: That's awesome!

Qin: That is really sadistic!

Anko: I don't believe I've seen you before.

Qin: Oh I'm Qin Chen. I'm Nico's childhood friend. I joined Team Loud Phoenix Storm a while ago.

Anko: Pleasure to meet you.

Me: Anko Mitarashi is one of the heads of the Hidden Leaf's Torture & Interrogation Department. She knows how to get information out of people through torturous methods.

Qin: Wow!

Anko Mitarashi: It's a good living. And I love it.

Me: She takes great pride in her work. But she is also the student of one of our most dangerous enemies that we killed in the past. It was before we formed Team Loud Phoenix Storm.

Nicole: We killed him several times actually. His name was Orochimaru.

Qin: I think I've heard about him from Naruto. He was one of the Legendary Sannin right?

Me: Exactly. He was one of the most respected shinobi until he became one of the most dangerous traitors and the greatest enemy of the Leaf since Madara Uchiha. He was also a very smart guy. They called him the Genius.

I revealed his history.

Orochimaru (in Japanese: 大蛇丸, Orochimaru) is one of the main characters in the Naruto franchise. He started off as the main antagonist in Part I of the manga and anime series Naruto, then later as a major antagonist in Part II of Naruto Shippuden. He is one of the three legendary Sannin of Konoha that trained under Hiruzen Sarutobi, alongside his former friends, Jiraiya and Tsunade.

Ever since the Second Shinobi World War, Orochimaru became fascinated with the idea of learning all jutsu around the world. In order to accomplish this goal, he began to conduct illegal experiments that involved experimenting with the corpse of deceased people, as a mean of cheating death. When his secrets were discovered, Orochimaru abandoned Konoha and was branded as both a criminal and a traitor.

Orochimaru would eventually return to Konoha and plot revenge against the village. Since then, his influence still affected the events leading to the Fourth Shinobi World War. By the end of Part II, Orochimaru saw how flawed his goals were and gave up his previous villainous ambitions.

Orochimaru was originally an orphan who became a pupil of Hiruzen Sarutobi, the Third Hokage, alongside Jiraiya and Tsunade. Compared to the more laid back Jiraiya, Orochimaru stood out as a prodigy found once in a generation. However, Orochimaru has a twisted and sadistic personality that may have been due to the death of his parents. At some point after losing them, Orochimaru found a white snake near his parents' grave and Hiruzen explained how it represented fortune and rebirth inspiring Orochimaru to obtain knowledge of all forms of ninjutsu. This desire was initially suppressed by his loyalty to Konoha and nobleness and he devoted himself as Konoha Shinobi fully; although he still started researching, it was known for having been solely for the sake of Konoha and his village benefited from it.

During the Second Shiniobi World War, Orochimaru joined Jiraiya and Tsunade in fighting Hanzo, who gave them the title of Konoha's Legendary Sannin for surviving their battle with him while the rest of their group were easily slaughtered in the process. On the way back to Konoha with his team, Orochimaru met Nagato and his friends who were orphans in the Land of Rain. While Orochimaru suggested killing the orphans in an act of mercy, Jiraiya stayed to train the children. It was also during this war that Orochimaru succumbed to darkness as he watched Tsunade's precious ones die, due to Orochimaru holding a certain fondness for her. First was Nawaki's death. Having had high expectations of the boy, a distraught Orochimaru retrieved his necklace and gave it to Tsunade and he also criticized her for not being there to heal him. The last straw was Dan's, Tsunade's lover, death. As Orochimaru was searching for Tsunade's platoon, he found Dan dead and the broken Tsunade crying devastatingly, causing him to once again feel emotional disturbance and pain. This was the last straw and Orochimaru steadily fell to darkness.

Some time after Team Hiruzen was disbanded, Orochimaru became an ANBU member and joined Root to work directly under Danzō Shimura while becoming a mentor to Anko Mitarashi. It was during that time that Orochimaru met Kabuto Yakushi while accompanying Danzō in forcing the boy's guardian Nonō into a mission.

While Orochimaru's ambitions did include becoming the Fourth Hokage, he intended to use the title for his own agenda. Though Hiruzen knew the potential evil his former pupil had in him, he hoped to stir Orochimaru from the path before slowly realizing that Orochimaru is beyond anyone's help.

Sent on a mission by Danzo to ensure both Kabuto and Nonō, the former joining Root as a spy, kill each other as they have become major risks. Orochimaru instead spirited Kabuto to one of his many hideouts, what would become part of his personal hidden village Otogakure.

Though Orochimaru reveals Root's intention for him to be dead, he explains to a horrified Kabuto that he sees a bit of himself in the boy and sees killing him to be a waste of great talent. Therefore, Orochimaru offers Kabuto a position as his right hand and spy with the promise of an identity for Kabuto to call his own.

While working for Root, Orochimaru began an experiment to infuse Hashirama's DNA into a person, an early experiment in his attempt to gain the Sage's powers. However, he thought the experiment was a failure when all 60 babies he implanted with Hashirama's genetic code seemingly died (though there was an only survivor who became the ANBU known as Yamato). With Kabuto's assistance, he performed various experiments on his prisoners, some being fellow Konoha shinobi he kidnapped.

He uses them as human guinea pigs to develop techniques that would grant him immortality, the end result being the Transference Ritual where Orochimaru transfers his being into a host body every few years, allowing him to cheat death. Some time after, Orochimaru was at the outskirts of Kirigakure as he found Kimimaro, the sole survivor of the Kaguya Clan. Soon after, thanks in part to Kimimaro, Orochimaru's research on the source of Jūgo's powers led to him into finding Ryūchi Cave and mastering Sage Jutsu. Unable to use it because of the fragility of his host body, Orochimaru instead developed an alternate method through the Curse Marks, testing it on Anko and his other students before using the finalized versions on Kimimaro and the Sound Four.

When Hiruzen finally retired and named Minato Namikaze his successor, Orochimaru saw no more reason to remain in Konoha and began to be less discreet with his actions. This led to his experimentation on the cultivation of Hashirama Senju's DNA with sixty children he kidnapped to recreate the First Hokage's Wood Style. However, as his test subjects begin to die off, Orochimaru was found red-handed by Hiruzen who knew it was his duty to kill him yet lacked the will to do so. Leaving Konoha and his emotionally broken mentor and despite Jiraiya's pleas for him to reconsider falling on deaf ears, Orochimaru left; unaware that Yamato survived his experiment.

Orochimaru soon joined the elite criminal organization Akatsuki, his role unclear but was partnered with Sasori whom he did much good for the Akatsuki with. However, when Itachi Uchiha joined the Akatsuki after conducting the Uchiha clan massacre, Orochimaru saw his opportunity to steal his body to gain possession of the Sharingan. Itachi used his Sharingan to reverse it while cutting Orchimaru's left hand off to prevent him from breaking the genjutsu, causing him to leave the Akatsuki to acquire a new body.

Since then, with Kabuto posing as a sleeper agent that an infuriated Sasori sent to keep tabs on him, Orochimaru become an independent rogue ninja using the Hidden Sound Village to continue his experiments to achieve true immortality.

Part I

Eventually, when the chance to attack Konoha presented itself, Orochimaru forms a partnership with the Fourth Kazekage of Sunagakure, who desired Konoha's destruction, planned their invasion during the Chunin Exams. Orochimaru also used the invasion as an opportunity to test Sasuke Uchiha, Itachi's younger brother, if he can be of used as a vessel.

During the second part of the Chūnin Exams, Orochimaru murdered a team of Kusagakure genin to impersonate its leader Shiore and infiltrate the Forest of Death. During a resulting confrontation with Team 7, Orochimaru expressed pride in Sasuke's abilities after he managed to partially burn off his disguise. Orochimaru sealed Naruto's Nine-Tails chakra before branding Sasuke, his intended target, with a Cursed Mark.

As he sends Team Dosu as sacrificial lambs to test Sasuke, having Kabuto accompany Team 7 to witness Sasuke use the curse seal's power, Orochimaru is confronted by Anko as he tells her that the Konoha will continue the exams under threat of his retaliation.

During the preliminary rounds of the Chunin Exams, Orochimaru disguised himself as the leader of his genin team to watch Sasuke's performance against Yoroi Akadō and became more obsessive upon seeing Sasuke suppress the Cursed Mark with sheer will. After Kakashi was able to seal away the mark on Sasuke, Orochimaru confronted him and made no attempt to hide his envy of Kakashi's Sharingan before leaving while adding that Sasuke will eventually come to him seeking power.

Eventually, on the day of the final round matches, with all attack preparations complete, Orochimaru murdered the Fourth Kazekage and assumed his identity to sit next to Hiruzen to oversee the proceedings. When the invasion of Konoha began, Orochimaru made his move and attacked Hiruzen. Orochimaru has the Sound Four erect a barrier to hold the other Konoha ninja back to prevent any interference.

Orochimaru, exhilarated that he could finally fight his former teacher and Hiruzen intending to redeem himself for letting Orochimaru free; Orochimaru used the Reanimation Jutsu to summon Hashirama Senju and his brother, the Second Hokage Tobirama, to attack their successor. During the fight, his opponent summoning Enma to his aid, Orochimaru reveals to Hiruzen the fruits of his labor in achieving immortality by revealing the host body he took after his brush-in with Itachi and his intention to make Sasuke into his next host.

Horrified on how far Orochimaru has truly went and with both his age and the regenerative abilities of the two first Hokage placing him in a grand disadvantage, Hiruzen resolves to stop Orochimaru with the Reaper Death Seal, sealing away the souls of the two Hokage prior to going after Orochimaru himself. However, Orochimaru stabbed Hiruzen through the back of the chest with his Kusanagi. Hiruzen weakened, Orochimaru is horrified when his mentor resolves to only seal the part of Orochimaru's soul within his arms so Orochimaru could make any more seals. Cursing the dying Hiruzen for robbing him of his use of ninjutsu, Orochimaru is carried off by the Sound Four with the invasion halted. Afterwards, Sunagakure broke ties with Orochimaru upon discovering the corpse of the Fourth Kazekage.

After barely being able to stand the pain from his rotting arms, Orochimaru plans to have his condition healed by appealing Tsunade with the offer to reincarnate her brother Nawaki and lover Dan to win her cooperation. However, though she seemed to have agreed, Tsunade had actually intended to kill him to ensure he never attacks Konoha again.

Kabuto intervened before she could do so, intending to force her to help before Jiraiya, Shizune and Naruto soon arrived to her aid. After seeing Naruto defeat Kabuto, Orochimaru's attempt on the boy's life is stopped by Tsunade and Orochimaru summons Manda with Kabuto's help, hiding his condition from the giant serpent who would have turned on Orochimaru for being injured. Jiraiya and Tsunade response with their own summons and an epic battle ensues.

Forced to fall back, though hoping to go after him when he was older, Orochimaru decides to just take a new host body and sends the Sound Four to retrieve Sasuke. Due to complications as the Leaf Village attempted to recover Sasuke, despite Kimimaro going to aid the Sound Four, Orochimari is forced to take the body of a experimental prisoner named Gen'yūmaru. As he is stuck in Gen'yūmaru's body for the next three years, Orochimaru decided to start training Sasuke once he finally arrived, hoping to shape him into the ideal host, while being highly impressed and excited by the chakra that Sasuke revealed after retaliating against Kabuto's warning for being rude.

Part II

2.5 years later, Yamato-led Team Kakashi, hoping to find Sasuke, learned of an opportunity from a dying Sasori that he was meeting with Kabuto. Posing as Sasori within his Hiruko puppet, the group's temporary leader Yamato meets with Kabuto while the others watch. However, Orochimaru arrives as Kabuto destroys the Hiruko, Orochimaru clarifying to a confused Kabuto that Sasori never came as the rest of Team Kakashi reveal themselves to fight the two ninja. Although he was surprised to see Yamato has survived his experiments involving Hashirama's DNA, Orochimaru was more interested to see if Naruto has become as strong as "his Sasuke". As Naruto assumes his three-tailed form in response, Orochimaru is able to elude Naruto, finding the battle extremely enjoyable while provoking Naruto further.

It was only after Naruto submitted to Kurama's influence and entered his mindless four-tailed form, Orochimaru took the fight more seriously due to both Naruto now able to kill him and his host body beginning to reject him after he used his Kusanagi to force Naruto. While he briefly recuperated, Orochimaru was approached by Sai, who made an offer on behalf of Danzo to work together in destroying Konoha. Intrigued, Orochimaru and Kabuto took him back to their base. Later, after the rest of Team Kakashi arrived at the lair and Sai teamed up with them, Orochimaru confronted Sai and Naruto to question Sai about his loyalties. He fled before he could be drawn into another fight, and later kept Sasuke from killing the team, noting that they might kill another Akatsuki member like they had done with Sasori.

Later, on the verge of being rejected by his current body, Orochimaru contemplated how best to take Sasuke's body. However, he hadn't truly planned on foul play from Sasuke, who no longer needs him. Though Sasuke used the Curse Mark to have the upper hand against his White Snake form, Orochimaru placed Sasuke into a genjutsu to enact the ritual. However, Sasuke uses Orochimaru's jutsu against him and ironically altered it so that Orochimaru would become a prisoner within Sasuke's body. As a result, Sasuke gained access to some of Orochimaru's abilities. However, he also had to dedicate some of his chakra to suppressing Orochimaru.

During his battle with Itachi, Sasuke ran out of chakra, and Orochimaru was able to emerge through his Eight-Headed Serpent Jutsu. Appearing out of one of the Serpent's mouths, Orochimaru's chance to take Sasuke's body is thwarted by Itachi using his Susanoo's Totsuka Blade and sealed Orochimaru inside his Susanoo's Gourd, which in turn freed Sasuke from the Curse mark. However, many of the snakes that composed Orochimaru's body endured as Kabuto harvested them and assimilated them into his body as part of his intent to transcend his former master. Following Kabuto's defeat during the Fourth Shinobi World War, and his reunion with Suigetsu Hozuki and Jūgo, Sasuke learns of the scroll they found at one of Orochimaru's hideouts and resolves to revive him for answers following what he learned from Itachi.

Having learned that Curse Marks hold parts of their creator's mind in them, Sasuke succeeds in reviving Orochimaru by pulling his consciousness out of Anko's Curse Mark and transferring it into the physical form Jūgo provided by absorbing some of Kabuto's flesh. Despite Suigetsu's fears of his next action as he reclaims the rest of his chakra that Kabuto took from him, Orochimaru explains that he is neither interested in the Fourth Shinobi World War nor strong enough to even attempt to take Sasuke's body if he wanted to. But Orochimaru does agree to take Sasuke to those who know everything: the first four Hokage. To that end, Orochimaru is forced to mortally wound himself to break the Reaper Death Seal, releasing not only the Hokage's souls but also spiritually restoring himself to use the Reanimation Jutsu on four of the Zetsu spore clones while using the Transference Ritual on another.

With them under his control, stating to them that he not acting on his own intent, Orochimaru tells the Hokage that he plans to have them destroy Konoha if Sasuke deems it so after getting Hashirama's answer. During Sasuke's interview with the four Hokage, he derides his former sensei for failing to stop him before, as well as makes the conversation go his way by pinning the blame of the Uchiha Massacre on Tobirama Senju's policies. However, when Sasuke decided to support Konoha against Madara, he tagged along for his own amusement to see how Sasuke turned out, as well as keep the possibility of his own experiments continuing an option. To this end he had Suigetsu and Karin save the Gokage after their battle with Madara, even insulting Tsunade to her face when she asked why he was doing this by claiming 'given time, Jiraiya may have turned dark'.

Later, when he arrived on the battlefield he joined the battle against the Shinju itself, and finally against Spiral Zetsu. However, despite his intentions, Madara successfully cast Infinite Tsukuyomi and ensnared Orochimaru into the fantasy that he was trying to avoid. Ultimately, he and the rest of the world were freed from the genjutsu by Naruto and Sasuke after they ended the war.

With the Fourth Shinobi World War over, Orochimaru resumes his genetic experiments with Taka serving as his lab assistants, though Konoha remains suspicious of him and keeps him under constant surveillance.

Qin gasped in horror!

Qin: I can't believe he would do that! Why would he do that to Anko and thousands of innocent people!?

Me: Powerlust and pure evil. He's a Homicidal Megalomaniacal Pedophilic Freak.

Anko: Oh yeah. And you guys came up with a good nickname for him.

Me: Naruto did actually. We call him Pedomaru.

We laughed hysterically at his nickname.

Nico: (Laughs) That was a good name!

Lana: That is so funny!

Anko: (Laughs Hysterically) That was so funny! Nice name for him kid!

Naruto: Thanks Anko-Sensei.

Me: It was funny bro.

Aurore: (Laughs) That was really amusing.

Nico: It sure was.

Then the alarm went off.

Me: Uh oh.

We went to the computer and we saw that there was something going on at the gym.

Me: There's a disturbance in the Gym. Lets go!

We went to the Gotham Royal York Gym.

GOTHAM ROYAL YORK GYM

We were in the Gym and we were in the Hockey Court.

Me: The Hockey Court. The Disturbance is coming from here.

Nico: Yeah.

?: Soon you will be with me.

We turned and we saw a hooded man and his face was hidden.

Me: Who are you?

Jake The Snake: Allow me to introduce myself. My name is Jake "The Snake". (Hisses)

His face appeared and it had glowing blue fangs like a snake and his eyes were glowing blue! We saw that his skin was reptilian and he was ugly!

Me: What the fuck are you!?

Laney: What happened to you!?

Jake the Snake: I wasn't always like this. Let me tell you my story.

Jake told us his story.

---

Zach and his friend Wiley were trying out for the school hockey team, but Wiley just wasn't as skilled as his friend was. After the first day of tryouts, Wiley met up with Jake in the basement. Jake handed his cursed hockey stick to Wiley, promising him it would help him play better. The powers of the stick granted Wiley uncanny abilities, which ended up earning him a position on the hockey team that otherwise might have gone to Zach. That night, while Wiley slept, the stick turned into a cobra, which proceeded to bite him. Wiley suddenly started getting scales on his body and started shedding profusely. On top of that, he also suddenly became distant with Zach and started to think like a snake. The next time Wiley decided to meet Jake in the basement, he asked about the scales. Desmond told Wiley not to worry and that he had to keep using the stick if he wanted to play well.

But Zach had followed Wiley and decided to confront Jake, who now was more snake than man as he had been the very first to use the cursed hockey stick. Jake plotted to make Wiley his newest addition to the pit of snakes. Zach tried to warn Wiley about Jake's intent, but to no avail. After a struggle, Zach made off with the stick and tried to return it to Jake. But Jake captured Zach and suspended him above the pit of snakes, intent on making him their next meal. Wiley showed up, having reclaimed the sitck, and saw Desmond's hideous form and Zach being lowered into the pit. Using the stick, Wiley hits Jake with a hockey puck, knocking the creature into the pit amongst the squirming reptiles. But Wiley's final transformation begins shortly thereafter. Zach proceeds to snap the stick upon his knee, causing it to become a cobra. Zach destroys the cobra by throwing it into the basement furnace. Wiley reverted back to normal since the transformation was incomplete.

Shortly after Zach and Wiley left, Desmond's hand could be seen emerging from the pit.

Me: You're a freak!

Lana: You're a monster! I can't believe you would do this to so many people!

Our friend Zach then appeared.

Zach: That's right! And he tried to get Willie the 1st time! He turned him into a snake!

Me: What!?

Zach: We thought he died.

Me: Well now he is going to die. How do you kill a snake? By chopping its head off!

Kevin (EEnE): I'm confused. Are we going after a snake monster or a hockey stick monster?

Varie: Obviously both.

Maria: So all we gave to do is destroy the hockey stick, right?

Muscle Man: You know who else likes breaking hockey sticks? My Mom!

Troy: Let's give this snake something to bite on!

Megaforce Rangers: Legendary Ranger Mode: Secret 5 Force!

The Megaforce Rangers turned into the Secret 5 Sentai from 1975.

Zach (to Jake Desmond): Undo what you did to Wiley now!

Jake The Snake: NEVER!

Me: Then we will make you!

We went at him and I punched him in the face and Nico punched him in the stomach and kicked him in the face and punched him in the chest and ripped his cloak off. What we saw was horrifying! We saw that he was really a humanoid snake alien called a SERPENTERRAN! He was a full fledge snake humanoid! He had a snake face, a cobra hood, reptilian skin and the lower half of his body was a snakes!

Me: Whoa! He's all snake!

Shanan: Wow! He's a Serpenterran!

Ben: That's Snakepit's Species!

Nico: Whoa!

Riley: I've never seen Ben turn into him.

Lana: What planet do they come from?

Shanan: They come from the jungle planet Serpennus. It's a very dangerous world. The atmosphere is poisonous to human life and it is full of incredibly dangerous predatory animals and the jungles are so dense and really thick that light from its 3 suns can't get through.

Nico: Wow. That world must be dangerous.

Me: Like Pandora. But the question Jake, is how did you manage to become a great hockey player, let alone hide your true form from everyone?

Jake the Snake: I was in disguise. I made the curse with Serpenterran Magic and it was what destroyed my disguise. I was a great hockey player because of the stick yes. But the spell I used on it backfired and made my true form hidden. For years I've worn that cloak and turned people into my friends.

Me: You're a monster!

Nico: You give snakes and hockey players a really bad name!

Me: Lets get him!

We went at him again and I punched him in the face and stomach and Lana grabbed him by his tail and slammed him into the floor all over. Lola fired a blast of fire and burned him all over and Laney used her vines to tie him in vines and she slammed him into the ground.

Edzilla: ED SMASH SNAKE MAN! (grabs Jake the Snake by the throat)

Edzilla slammed him into the floor.

Me: Time for the Wolf to attack!

Kibal: With you all the way J.D.!

Me: Kibal! Lets Howl!

I turned into Wolf Moon!

Me: Time for some serious hockey action guys! Lets show this overgrown snakeskin wallet what true hockey is like!

Everyone: Yeah!

(LORENZEN'S SOIL THEME OF EARTHWORM JIM 2 PLAYS)

I jumped and turned my boots into roller skates. Everyone did the same.

I turned my scythe into a Hockey Stick and Lynn brought out a puck and we played. I got the puck and went at Jake and I flared up my scythe and slapped the puck and it hit Jake in the face and it knocked out some of his teeth. I took the puck and circled around him and he tried to punch at me. But my speed was too fast and I passed the puck to Nico.

Nico: Jake "The Snake" Desmond, you have failed this world!

Nico formed a Hockey Stick out of pure lightning with Rage Shenron's powers and he slapped it and sent it right at Jake and it slammed into him and sent him crashing into the wall and Lana got the puck and Jake used his speed and she used a Hockey stick of ice and passed the puck to Lola and she used a hockey stick of fire and they both hit the puck and it slammed into Jake and exploded.

KRABBBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOMMMM!

Lynn and Lightning got the puck and they were moving really fast while they hit it. Lynn hit it with the power of a volcanic eruption and it slammed into Jake and knocked him into the net. Zach had the puck and he passed it to Lincoln and Earth and they hit the puck and it hit Jake and electrocuted him. Aurore as Stormy Weather was really moving fast with the fury of a tornado and she slapped the puck into Jake and it electrocuted him and spun him around with 500 mile per hour winds. The puck was hit by Jake and Troy Burrows formed a Red Hockey Stick and slapped the puck and it hit Jake in the head. Noah Carver got the puck and passed it to Jake Halling and he passed the puck to Emma Goodall and she passed it to Gia Moran and she passed it to Orion. They sent the Puck all over in a hexagon formation and increased its speed and power and then Troy Burrows slapped it and it went at Jake the Snake faster than a bullet fired from a gun and it hit his hockey stick and shattered it into a million pieces and then it hit him and exploded.

KRABBBBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOMMMM

Me: BULLSEYE!

Anko Mitarashi: Now that's a winning shot!

Me: You said it Anko-Sensei. Lets finish this guy off!

Optimus Prime: Right! CYBER KEY POWER!

The Autobot Cyber Planet Key went into his left arm cannon and turned into a bigger more powerful cannon.

Liu Kang: Lets get this fight for honor! ANIMATRON CYBER KEY POWER!

The Animatron Cyber Planet Key went into his right arm device and enhanced his powers and skills 100-fold.

Optimus Prime and Liu Kang: DRAGONFIRE CANNONFIRE!

Liu turned into the Mortal Kombat Dragon and fired a powerful blast of fire and Optimus fired his cannon and the blasts hit him and exploded.

KRABBBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOMMMMM!

Thunderblast: Time for some power! CYBER KEY POWER!

The Earth Cyber Planet Key went into her arm and turned it into a powerful rocket launcher.

Kevin Levin: Time for some pain! ANIMATRON CYBER KEY POWER!

The Animatron Cyber Planet Key went into his right arm device and it enhanced his Osmosian Powers 100-fold.

Thunderblast and Kevin Levin: LIGHTNING THUNDER CANNON!

Thunderblast fired her cannon and Kevin fired a powerful blast of lightning and the blasts hit Jake and exploded.

KRABBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOMMMM!

Me: Time for some Final Smash power!

Lynn: I'll start us off! VOLCANIC LAVA PUCK SHOT!

Lynn formed a lava hockey puck and a stick of lava and she slapped it and the lava puck hit Jake and exploded.

KRABBBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOOMMM!

Lightning: Lightning's turn! And he is going to strike! Sha-Blam! LIGHTNING PUCK ELECTROCUTION!

Lightning formed a puck of pure lightning and a hockey stick of lightning and he hit it and the puck hit Jake and electrocuted him.

Zach: You messed with this kids friends for the last time! EAGLE HOCKEY STRIKE PUCKSLASH!

Zach formed a hockey puck and flew at it with a Hockey Stick ready and he slapped it and sent it at him and it hit Jake with the power and speed of an eagle.

Lana: Take this you freak! FREEZE SWORD SLASHSTORM!

Lana formed a powerful sword of ice and she cut Jake all over.

Luka as Viperion was ready.

Luka: Snakes are our friends and they will be peacekeepers. SNAKE LYRE SERENADE FLAME!

Luka played his Lyre and fired a powerful blast of aqua green fire and it hit him and burned him.

Harry Potter: (British Accent) Time for some magic. FLIPENDO TWIST SMASH!

Harry Potter fired the Flipendo Spell and it twisted Jake and slammed him head first into the ground.

Anko: These snakes pack some bite! STRIKING SHADOW SNAKE VENOM BLAST!

Anko formed powerful snakes and they fired a powerful blast of energy and miasma and they hit Jake the Snake and exploded.

KRABBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOMMMM!

Jake the Snake: I come in peace.

Me: And you go in pieces asshole.

I fired an energy blast and it hit Jake the Snake and exploded and blew him into a thousand pieces and killed him.

Nico: Yeah! Nice line from I Come In Peace.

Me: Watched a lot of action movies.

Willie was back to normal and so were all the other people that Jake turned into snake.

Zach: (To the viewers) Snakes are no match for the power of Team Loud Phoenix Storm.

Me: No they aren't.

Zach: Thank you all so much J.D. That was so awesome!

Me: Anytime Zach. But you were awesome.

Zach: Thanks man.

We shook hands.

A Freezing Cold Battle

The scene opens to the skies and it was a cold and snowy day.

French Narrator: (French Accent) Ah, observe the beauty of a cold and snowy day. Snow may be cold but it can cause a beautiful change in weather for many people.

[The scene changes to show a wide shot of Gotham Royal York. Snow is shown falling. It starts to snow harder. Eventually, Gotham Royal York is blanketed in show. Johnny Elaine appears wearing a snow hat.]

Johnny Elaine: Yes, it seems Old Man Winter paid us a visit late last night, and he brought with him not a pillow or a sheet, [A street in downtown Gotham Royal York is shown.] but a blanket… a blanket of snow! [The Safari Zone is shown and its sign and landscape are shown covered in snow.] Yes, from the Safari Zone… [A Rapidash gallops by and a Hoppip floats by. The scene changes to show the closed down Flip's Food & Fuel.] to residential abodes… [The scene changes to show a traffic light changing from "go" to "stop" then back to "go."] to bustling downtown… [Team Loud Phoenix Storm's estate is shown.] it's nothing but the white stuff.

Lincoln: WHOOPEE!

Johnny Elaine: And local residents are taking notice! [Lincoln and Charles put on their Santa hats.]

Maria: Guys, look! It's snowing outside!

Everyone got their snow clothes on.

I was in my fur parka and me and Varie were building snowmen.

Me: Boy it's so beautiful out here.

Varie: You said it.

Everyone was having fun in the snow.

Qin: This is so much fun!

Nico: Glad you're having fun Qin.

Lily: Did you know Qin, that I saved all of Nome, Alaska back during the 1925 Serum Run?

Qin gasped.

Qin: You did Lily?

Lily: I sure did. It was a harrowing and amazing story.

Lily went over what happened during the events of Simulator Part 10: The Treacherous Cold.

* * *

Lily found herself in the cold of Alaska.

Lily: I'm in Nome, Alaska.

Lily had a thermometer device on her arm and it said the temperature was -35˚ Fahrenheit.

Lily: 35 below. That's cold.

Lily walked around and saw that no one was on the streets.

She saw the local hospital and went in. Lily saw lots of children that were extremely sick and near the verge of death.

Lily: Oh man. I'm in the 1925 Diphtheria Epidemic. Good thing I've had a Diphtheria shot.

Lily went back outside and saw the famous wolf dog Balto.

Lily: Balto?

Balto: Yeah.

Lily: My name is Lily Loud and I want to do everything I can to help the children.

Balto: I had a feeling you would. Lets go.

Balto and Lily set out to find the lost sled dog team with the medicine for the children. The hospital urgently requested more Diphtheria Antitoxin from Anchorage, Alaska. They tried to send it by sea but pack ice from the Bering Sea came in and made that impossible. They tried delivering it by plane but Blizzards and Whiteout conditions made visibility zero and grounded all planes until conditions improve. The antitoxin was shipped by rail from Anchorage to Nenana, 550 miles away from Anchorage. The Sled Dog team that was sent from Nome to Nenana had to deliver it back from Nenana, 550 miles away from Nome and 550 miles back. The Sled Dog team was 100 miles away from Nome.

They walked over lots of snow and ice. The temperature was dropping the further they went.

Balto sniffed their scent.

Balto: Come on Lily. Steele and his team passed this way.

Lily: We've got to hurry.

As Balto and Lily kept going they went through blowing snow and extreme cold.

The eventually found the lost sled dog team at the bottom of an ice hill.

Lily: There they are.

Lily and Balto slid down the hill and the dogs saw them.

Star: Balto!

Nikki: Is that?

Kaltag: Balto, how did you find us and who is she?

Balto: Is anyone hurt?

Star: We're all okay but our musher hit his head and he didn't get up.

Kaltag: And he's not moving.

Lily: Oh man. I'm Lily Loud and we came to help you.

Balto: Where's Steele?

Ronul: He abandoned us.

Nikki: Steele is a traitor!

Balto: Typical. All right lets load up. Lily you be Musher.

Lily: Okay. I'll try.

Balto, Kaltag and Star load the musher onto the sled and Balto was lead dog.

Lily checked for a pulse on the musher and he was still alive.

Lily: Balto, being part wolf may have been a weakness for some. But for you it's a great gift.

Balto: Why do you say that, Lily?

Lily: Because you have the power and the strength to help and become a great inspiration. You can do it Balto. I believe in you. All you have to do is believe in yourself.

Balto then began to realize that being part wolf is not a weakness but a powerful strength.

Lily: Ready Balto?

Balto: Ready.

Lily: What about the rest of you?

All: Ready.

Lily: All right. Mush!

And off they went. They were braving the treacherous conditions of the Alaskan wilderness. The temperature was -50˚ Fahrenheit, whiteout conditions and blizzards almost made it impossible to see ahead of them, the wind chill was -85˚ Fahrenheit and it was cold.

They entered a forest and saw numerous scratch marks were in the trees.

Star: There's marks all over the trees.

Lily: It must be Steele. He's trying to throw us off the trail.

Balto was sniffing the air and he found the right road and pointed with his ear to the west northwest.

Balto: This way.

Lily: Mush!

They went on and they had to cross over the Rocky Mountains.

They crossed over an ice bridge and Lily heard the bridge cracking.

Lily: Uh oh! The bridge is cracking! Mush!

They ran and got off the bridge just in time as it fell apart.

Balto: Whew! That was a close one. Good call Lily.

Lily: Thanks guys. Lets keep going.

As they kept on going Balto accidentally tickled Star's nose and Star sneezed.

Kaltag: Gesundheit.

The sneeze triggered an avalanche of snow on a nearby mountain and Lily saw it coming.

Lily: Avalanche! Mush!

They all ran and the avalanche was closing in and Balto saw a cave entrance and they went inside it.

As they went deeper and deeper into the cave they saw that it was a big ice cave.

Lily: Wow. What an ice cave.

Balto: It truely is a beautiful sight.

Nikki: Yeah.

As they walked on a drop of water landed on Balto's head and saw that the icicles on the ceiling looked like they could fall with the slightest of noise.

Balto: Shh!

Lily: (Whispering) We have to stay quiet.

They went deeper into the Ice Cave and Lily was walking beside the sled.

The sled then made a thump as it landed off a step and it made an icicle fall and it hit the arch in the sled.

The ceiling was about to fall.

Balto: Mush!

Lily grabbed hold of the sled and got on as they ran and icicles fell and Lily used her Water Powers to swat away falling icicles from the sled and medicine.

They saw the exit and a bunch of icicles broke off and they got out just in time.

Back in Nome, everyone thought that the medicine wouldn't get there and hope was lost. Until Balto started howling.

Lily and the team came over the hill and they saw Nome up ahead and someone had created an artificial Aurora Borealis to be used as a signal beacon.

Hope has Arrived.

Lily: There it is. Hang on Children! We're almost there!

Balto: Jenna.

The lantern at the telegraph station was lit and all the lights in the town came on and all the townsfolk came to the track and cheered wildly as Lily and the team came in and parked in front of the hospital.

Doctor Curtis Welch came out and saw Lily on the sled.

Dr. Welch: Thank you. Thank you so much miss?

Lily: My name is Lily Loud and you must be the doctor.

Dr. Welch: Yes I am. Lily. You, Balto and the Sled dogs have saved us all.

Lily: We did what we had to do for Nome.

20 minutes later, the Antitoxin was administered to the children and a man came out.

?: Lily, Balto?

Lily: Yes?

?: I'm Rosy's dad. She wants to see you both.

He took them both into the hospital and Rosy just woke up.

Rosy: Mommy?

Rosy's mom: Rosy darling.

Rosy: I fell asleep.

Rosy's mom explained what happened and Lily was invited over.

Rosy: Are you Lily?

Lily: Yes I am.

Lily sat on Rosy's bed and Rosy hugged her.

Balto got Rosy's musher hat and brought it over to her.

Rosy saw Balto.

Rosy: Balto. I'd be lost without both of you.

Lily: I'm so glad that you're okay Rosy. We had to do what we had to do.

Rosy was so happy.

At the White House, President Calvin Coolidge awarded Lily and Balto the Congressional Gold Medal for their heroic deed in saving all of Nome from total destruction. Even though Alaska wasn't made an official state until 1959, it was still part of the U.S. Territories.

In a local newsstand in Washington D.C., Lily saw herself in the paper and purchased one.

A vortex appeared and she left and the exercise ended.

---

Qin was amazed and in awe.

Qin: Wow! You were really brave!

Nico: That's was one of Lily's most bravest adventures ever.

Qin: Wow! But you are a true hero for saving all those people from a disease like that.

Kevin Levin: Hey, Ben.

Ben: Yeah, Kevin? (Kevin Levin throws snowball at him)

SPLAT!

Kevin Levin: (laughs) I've got a lot of winter fun to catch up with you on!

Stewie: (throws snowball at Kevin) Careful what you wish for!

SPLAT!

Me: Hey Lori!

Lori: Yeah!

I threw a snowball at her.

SPLAT!

Lori: Oh so you literally want to fight huh!?

We threw snowballs all over.

Muscle Man: Hey, Mixmaster. You know who else likes throwing snowballs?

Mixmaster: Who?

Muscle Man: (throws snowball at him) My mom!

SPLAT!

Mixmaster: Oh yeah!?

Mixmaster threw a bunch of snowballs.

Lincoln was running and he hid behind a big Snowman!

Lincoln: (sees a snowman) Wow… that's the biggest snowman I ever saw!

G1 Jazz: (reveals himsself as the snowman) Not snowman, Lincoln - snowbot! (throws snowball at him) Here's a flurry in a hurry!

He buried Lincoln in snowballs.

We had a lot of fun.

Inside the estate, Maria Santiago was sitting on the sofa eating Chicken Soup. She had been struck down with the flu. Working in the hospital emergency room can expose you to a tremendous number of diseases.

Maria was wrapped in a blanket and Ronnie Anne was wearing a HAZMAT Suit as she was bringing her orange juice.

Maria Santiago: (Coughs) Thank you sweetie.

Ronnie Anne: You're welcome mom.

We came back in and put our snow clothes away.

Me: Hey Maria. How are you feeling?

Maria Santiago: Really sick.

Me: I'm sorry Maria. But being in the E.R. exposes you to all kinds of things. A lot of people that are extremely sick and dying.

Maria Santiago: I know. But it's what I have to do to help people.

Me: I know.

J.D. 2: I think I have a solution that can help her out.

Me: What is it?

J.D. 2: You can give her some of my family's cure: The Nectar of The Rainbow Rose.

Me: What's the Rainbow Rose?

J.D. 2: This is what it looks like.

My E Crest glowed and it projected an image that formed into a flower that was a rose with all 7 colors of the rainbow. It was a beautiful flower.

Me: Wow! So that's the rainbow rose.

Lola: That is a beautiful flower.

J.D. 2: It is a pretty flower isn't it. Its a special cure thats been in my family for generations. For over 220 trillion years my family in the Ebonwu Squadron has used this flower to cure everyone that was sick.

Me: That's amazing!

J.D. 2: It is. One drop is all it takes and you can never get sick again from anything.

Zoe W.: Wow! I've heard about this flower. The world of magic is familiar with it.

J.D. 2: It's known all over the universe. But you can only take it once in your life.

Me: Wow. So it's a one time deal.

J.D. 2: Exactly. Here's a bottle with an eye-dropper full of it.

A bottle full of the nectar appeared in my hands.

Me: Wow! Thank you. We'll try it.

I take out the eye dropper and put one drop into Maria's soup.

Me: If my Ebonwu Squadron self says it works then I believe him.

She stirred it in and tasted it and then all of a sudden she was cured and she was better instantly!

Maria Santiago: Wow! I feel better than ever!

Lana: Wow! That stuff is incredible!

Lisa: Sweet mother of science! That stuff works!

Laney: Wow!

Lori: That is literally amazing!

Me: Wow. You weren't kidding about this stuff. It's incredible.

J.D. 2: Glad it worked for Maria. Just only use it when you have to.

Me: Right.

Luan: That's one way to Rose to fame. (Laughs to rimshot) Get it?

We laughed.

Me: (Laughs) That was a good one!

Nico: (Laughs) Good one!

Laney: That was funny.

Eddy: (Laughs) Good one!

Nico then got an idea.

Nico: I got an idea guys!

Me: What is it.

Nico went to the table and pulled out a Goosebumps book.

Nico: Here's our next target.

Me: Beware, the Snowman. That was a strange one. That snowman is weird.

Courage: That's not like the snowman we faced in Nowhere is it?

Bai Tza: I don't think so.

Me: No this is completely different. But I feel sorry for Jaclyn DeForest. She has to live in a village inside the Arctic Circle.

Laney: Where does she live?

Me: It's a fictitious town called Sherpia.

I went to the computer and I pulled up where it's at. It was located on Eureka in Nunavut, Canada.

Gwen (TD): Nunavut, Canada? That's way up north.

Me: On the island of Eureka. Looks like we're in for one cold battle guys. The temperature there now is -50˚ Fahrenheit and it has a wind chill of -82˚ Fahrenheit.

Nico: We've handled colder temperatures than that.

Me: We sure have. We're gonna need our warmest fur coats for this.

Lana: But what is this Snowman that she is having problems with?

Me: It's a nasty monster.

I pulled up its history.

---

Several years ago, two sorcerers cast a spell on a snowman, bringing him to life. But then they lost control of him and he set out to destroy the village. The sorcerers tried to put him to sleep with their magic, but they weren't powerful enough. The villagers gathered together and somehow managed to force the Snowman up the mountain and into the ice cave. Afterwards, most people left Sherpia. Conrad built a cabin just beneath the ice cave and those who stayed in Sherpia, and started building snowmen in the Snowman's image to honor him and keep him from coming down the mountain.

One day, Jaclyn DeForest visited him to see if he was real. The Snowman told her that he was Jaclyn's father, and claimed that he was turned into a snowman by her mother. He says someone needs to finish the old poem to free him. She did so, but as soon as all the snow dripped away, Jaclyn realized that he lied, and that he is actually a monster. A crusty, red scaled monster with a bull-shaped head, yellow eyes, a purple tongue and jagged teeth.

Now set free, the monster heaved the poetry book over the side of the mountain, then proceeded to grab Aunt Greta and Jaclyn with plans to throw them down the mountain, too. Suddenly, he dropped the pair on the icy ledge as he saw an army of living snowmen from Sherpia coming up the mountain. As soon as the snowmen reached the top, they pushed the monster back against the wall of the ice cave and swarm over him until he had froze.

Soon after, Conrad arrived at the icy ledge, saying that he brought the snowmen to life, revealing himself as a sorcerer. Greta told Jaclyn that Conrad is her true father and the reason they've moved to Sherpia. Conrad was the sorcerer, and he and her mother were practicing powerful magic when it got out of control and created the monster that's now frozen inside the ice cave. In an attempt to stop the monster, they froze him inside the body of a snowman. After that, Jaclyn's mother moved out of Sherpia with Jaclyn to forget about what happened, while Conrad stayed because he felt like he owed it to the people of the village to protect them from the monster's wrath.

Lana: Whoa!

Lola: So we'll have have to burn it into nothing.

Me: Yeah. But lets head out.

We got on our warmest fur parkas and we were off to Nunavut, Canada.

SHERPIA, EUREKA, NUNAVUT, CANADA

We arrived in Sherpia and it was blistering cold.

Me: Wow. So this is Sherpia.

Nico: It's really cold.

Kate Lloyd: It's like Antarctica.

Me: I know. But we're very close to the North Pole.

Marinette: I would not want to live here in this kind of weather.

Lana: I like the cold.

Killer Frost: Me too. It's amazing.

Permafrost: I think it's perfect for me as well.

Alexis: I know. We're just lovers of cold.

Me: Yeah.

We arrived at the how of Jaclyn DeForest. It was actually more of a Yurt.

Me: She lives in a Kazakhstani Yurt. Cool.

We went over to the door and I knocked on it.

Jaclyn answered the door and she saw us.

Jaclyn: Wow! Team Loud Phoenix Storm! It's such an honor to meet you.

Me: You too Jaclyn. It's a pleasure to meet you in person.

Jaclyn: Come on in. You guys must be cold.

Me: We've handled worse.

We went into the yurt.

Me: Wow. So this is what a Yurt is like.

Jaclyn: I know. It took a while to get used to it.

Me: Having to handle extreme cold 24/7? That takes a lot of guts. But Antarctica is much worse than up here.

Jaclyn: What's it like down there?

Kate Lloyd: Brutally cold. Temperatures can plummet to -130˚ with -175˚ wind chill.

Me: Incredibly bone-chilling cold. But someone like you shouldn't endure such cold. How would you like to move to Gotham Royal York with us?

Jaclyn: Wait. You're willing to let me move into Gotham Royal York with you guys? But why? We just met.

Me: I know this is rather sudden. But you need to go to school and all that with friends.

Jaclyn: That's true.

Lana: We should explain why we're here.

Me: We're here to kill a Snowman monster thats been terrorizing this place.

Jaclyn: Thank goodness.

My Dark Orb Detector went off and it found a Dark Orb in Sherpia.

Me: There's a Dark Orb here. And without a doubt the Snowman has it. Jaclyn, after we kill the Snowman we'll bring you to Gotham Royal York. Would you like to help us?

Jaclyn: I would be honored.

Me: Lets go then.

We went out into the snowy mountains and then we saw the SNOWMAN!

Me: Whoa.

William: This is the most creepiest snowman I've ever seen.

Wolverine: (smells the snowman) Something's not right about it.

Me: I can sense it. But this will wake it up.

I fired a blast of fire and it hit him in the butt and he roared with extreme fury!

Lana: He's alive!

Troy Burrows: Time to use a Ranger team that includes a Fire Element!

Megaforce Rangers: Legendary Ranger Mode: Operation Overdrive!

The Megaforce Power Rangers turned into the Operation Overdrive Rangers. Troy Burrows turned into the Red Operation Overdrive Ranger, Noah Carver turned into the Blue Operation Overdrive Ranger, Gia Moran turned into the Yellow Operation Overdrive Ranger, Jake Holling turned into the Black Operation Overdrive Ranger, Emma Goodall turned into the Pink Operation Overdrive Ranger and Orion turned into the Mercury Ranger.

Me: Lets melt this freak of ice!

The Snowman then summoned Snowman Heartless!

Me: Heartless Snowman! Lets get them!

We went at the Snowman and the Snowmen heartless and we were really tearing them apart. I punched a Snowman Heartless in the face and fired a powerful blast of fire at it and burned it and melted it. Nico fired a massive blast of fire at a bunch of them with Nuova Shenron's powers and he melted them and killed them. Lincoln fired a massive blast of lightning and electrocuted a bunch of snowmen and melted them and killed them. Vince fired a massive blast of light and melted a bunch of snowmen. Carol fired a powerful blast of Godzilla's Atomic ray and melted a bunch of them. Troy Burrows slashed a bunch of Snowmen with his Drive Lance and cut them up. Jake smashed a bunch of snowmen with his Drive Slammer and flattened them. Noah Carver blew a bunch of them away with his Drive Vortex, Gia Moran slashed a bunch of Snowmen with her Drive Claws, Emma Goodall blasted a bunch of Snowmen with her Drive Geyser and Orion bashed and blasted the rest of them with his Monster Detector and Jaylyn fired a powerful blast of fire from her hands and burned them and melted them.

Me: Now to take care of the main monster!

We set our sights on the big Snowman!

Me: You've terrorized this village for far too long!

Jack Landors: (sees RIC peeing on the snowman monster) RIC! Stop peeing on the monster! We don't want to piss it off even more!

We laughed and then the Snowman roared ferociously!

Ladybug: Lucky Charm!

Marinette formed a Scythe Charm.

Me: Time for some wolf power! KIBAL! Lets Howl!

I turned into Wolf Moon!

Jaclyn: Whoa! J.D. that is so cool!

Me: Thanks Jaclyn. Lets get him!

Nico: This snowman has failed this universe.

We went at the snowman and I punched it in the face and kicked it in the stomach. I slashed it with my scythe and burned it all over in blue fire. Marinette slashed its arms off and he screamed in pain. Jaclyn fired a powerful blast of fire and incinerated his arms and then she fired a powerful blast of fire and burned him.

But then we heard a beautiful screech.

Me: What's that!?

But then a powerful blast of light energy hit the Snowman and burned it all over in huge fiery explosions.

We heard the beautiful screech again and it was an all too familiar screech. We then saw a huge beautiful moth flying in the sky and we saw that it was MOTHRA 2019!

Me: That's Mothra!

Nico: Whoa! So that's Mothra!

Lola: Wow! She's beautiful!

Me: This Mothra is much different than the one from 1961. This is the one from 2019.

Lincoln: Wow! Wow! She's much more beautiful than the one from 1961.

Me: Yeah.

Mothra landed by us and she looked at us with such amazing love. She got close to me and she was sending me telepathic messages.

Mothra: Don't be afraid my friends. I mean you all no harm.

Me: Wow.

I placed my hand on her head and she was so peaceful and beautiful.

Me: You are the prettiest of them all, Oh Queen of the Monsters.

Mothra: Thank you all. You have a friend with all of us Kaiju.

Me and Varie then got onto Mothra and we were flying around and we blasted and fired energy blasts at the Snowman. We were blasting it all over.

Varie: Wow! This is incredible!

Me: It's amazing!

Stewie: Time to blast this bastard with our combos! ANIMATRON CYBER KEY POWER!

The Animatron Cyber Planet Key went into his right arm device and enhanced his weapons 100-fold.

Mixmaster: This chemist will burn you! CYBER KEY POWER!

The Gigantion Cyber Planet Key went into his back and enhanced his chemicals 100-fold.

Stewie and Mixmaster: VOLCANIC NITROUS DEATHRAY!

Stewie fired a lava gun and Mixmaster fired a powerful blast of Nitrous Gas and the blasts combined and they hit the Snowman and exploded.

KRABBBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOMMMM!

G1 Jazz: Time for some lightshow pain! CYBER KEY POWER!

The Earth Cyber Planet Key went into his back and enhanced his vertigo light blaster 100-fold.

Miss Martian: Time for this Martian to blast! MARS CYBER KEY POWER!

The Mars Cyber Planet Key went into her right hand device and enhanced her powers 100-fold.

G1 Jazz and Miss Martian: VERTIGO RAINBOW LASERSTORM!

Jazz fired a rainbow light blast and Miss Martian fired laser vision blasts and they hit the Snowman and exploded.

KRABBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOMMMMMM!

Me: Lets Final Smash this pile of ice.

Mothra: Let me start us off. MOTHRA LASER FIRESTORM!

Mothra fired a powerful blast of light energy from her antennae and they hit the Snowman and exploded all over.

Lola: Time for this guy to burn! FIRESTORM DRAGON BURN!

Lola fired a powerful blast of fire and it turned into a dragon and it slammed into the Snowman and burned him.

Jaclyn: This is for tormenting my life and forcing me to move here! NEBULONIC FIRE GHOST!

Jaclyn fired a powerful blast of hydrogen gas that lit on fire and it turned into a deadly ghost and it slammed into the Snowman and exploded.

KRABBBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOMMMM!

Sam S.L.: Lets burn and Rock! VOLCANIC FIRE DEATHRAY!

Sam S.L. fired a powerful blast of fire that turned into a deadly fiery death laser and it hit the Snowman and exploded all over.

KRABBBBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOMMMMMMMM!

Marinette: Time for some serious pain! LADYBUG SCYTHE FIRESLASH!

Marinette swung her scythe and slashed the Snowman and it exploded into nothing.

KRABBBBBBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOO

The explosion of fire completely incinerated the snowman and there was nothing left of it.

Me: That's it for that snowman. He gave all snowmen everywhere a bad name.

Lana: You said it.

Jaclyn: J.D. it was so cool doing a final smash!

Me: You did really well for your first final smash Jaclyn. Lets get you to your new home.

We got her stuff packed up and her father Conroy agreed to move with her. Jaclyn was now a member of the Goosebumps Monster Busters.

Jaclyn: (To the viewers) Not even an evil snowman monster is a match for the power of Team Loud Phoenix Storm.

Me: You said it Jaclyn.

Jaclyn was happy.

The Living Lightning Vampire

At Hogwarts Castle, I was going after a swarm of Dementors that were trying to kill a bunch of students.

---

A Dementor is a gliding, wraithlike Dark creature, widely considered to be one of the foulest to inhabit the world. Dementors feed on human happiness and thus generate feelings of depression and despair in any person in close proximity to them. They can also consume a person's soul, leaving their victims in a permanent vegetative state, and thus are often referred to as "soul-sucking fiends", rendering a person an 'empty-shell'. Dementors were closely associated with Azkaban, as they were formerly employed by the British Ministry of Magic as the prison guards, and were not known to permanently inhabit any other location.

The Dementors of Azkaban were under the employ of the Ministry until mid-1996, when Lord Voldemort was sighted in the Ministry, and their defection to the Dark Lord's cause became undeniable. The Dementors supposedly led the Death Eaters and Voldemort into the Ministry of Magic. After the end of the Second Wizarding War in 1998, the Ministry was re-formed, and newly-appointed Minister for Magic Kingsley Shacklebolt ensured that they were not used by the government again, presumably due to their changing allegiance and support of Voldemort, and due to ethical reforms in the Ministry and Wizarding society at large.

There are certain defences one can use against Dementors, specifically the Patronus Charm. Dementors hold no true loyalty, except to whoever can provide them with the most people to feed on. They seemingly cannot be destroyed, though their numbers can be limited if the conditions in which they multiply are prevented from forming, implying that they do die off eventually.

---

I walked up to a Dementor as he was sucking a soul out of a

Slytherin girl.

Me: Leave her alone you monster from Hell!

I held my hand up to him.

Me: HAKAI!

In an instant, the Dementor was totally obliterated. There was nothing left of him as it was completely erased from existence forever.

Nico and Lincoln were with me.

Lincoln: Whoa!

Nico: Oh wow! That was awesome!

Slytherin Girl: (British Accent) Wow! That was amazing!

Me: Thank you. Are you okay?

Slytherin Girl: Yes. Thanks to you.

Nico: What was that move J.D.?

Me: It was called Hakai. What it does is it completely obliterates the body and the soul and instead of sending them to the afterlife, they are completely erased from existence forever as if they weren't even born at all. Not even ghosts are a match for it. It will kill them on contact.

Nico: Whoa! That's unbelievable! That could be the deadliest of all techniques!

Lincoln: Amazing!

Slytherin Girl: It sure is.

Nico: Think you could teach me how to do that?

Me: Sure. But you have to use it only when necessary.

Nico: Okay.

After we took care of the rogue Dementors, we went back to the estate.

---

In a special airplane mansion that we built in our garage we were heading over to the town of Tremorton. It was the town that was home to the famous XJ-9 A.K.A. Jenny Wakeman.

---

Jenny was designed as a teenager of about 16 years of age (in design and mentality), but it was 5 years since she had been created, prior to the events of "I Was a Preschool Dropout". As her number indicates, she had several prototypes, whom she treats as her "sisters". While she was designed as a teenage robot, presumably with the adolescent mind of a 15-year old or so, she did undergo a period of infancy ("Humiliation 101"). As revealed in the same episode, she also spent some of her early years as a crude steam-powered robot before being upgraded to hydronium-electric hybrid-power (as seen in the blueprints of her Master Plan).

For an uncertain amount of time, she was prevented from leaving the house by her mother, except for the purpose of saving the earth, where she would not be viewed by the general populace. Following the events of "It Came from Next Door", she finally managed to interact with the outside world and make human friends, namely Brad Carbunkle and his younger brother Tuck, and later enrolling in Tremorton High School where she soon met and befriended Sheldon Lee.

---

Riku: Thanks for being our pilot to Tremorton, Launchpad.

Launchpad: My pleasure, Riku!

Lola: Launchpad, I don't know if Scrooge told you this, but Voldemort's goons are looking for the Horcruxes even as we speak. We need to be focusing our efforts on finding them.

Launchpad: Relax, Lola. Dr. Strange and Dr. Fate are looking for the Horcruxes across the entire Wizarding World. When they locate them, they'll let us know.

Nico: This was my idea, Lola. I suggested this visit to Tremorton to take our minds off of this mess with Voldemort and the Horcruxes.

Me: It was a great idea Nico.

Vince: It sure was. This is gonna be awesome going to the town of Tremorton.

Me: It sure is. Tremorton has an awesome history. But it also has an awesome hero robot. Her name is Jenny Wakeman/XJ-9.

Laney: I've heard a lot about her. She is an awesome robot.

Lisa: She was created by one of my favorite professors of science Professor Nora Wakeman.

Me: It's gonna be so cool meeting her.

Scrooge McDuck: (Scottish Accent) Aye lad. It will be interesting.

We landed in the park and got out.

Me: Tremorton, Pennsylvania.

Nick F.: I've never been here before. This is a brand new town for me.

Me: It sure is.

We went to a local restaurant we saw Jenny and we saw Brad. But then a man yelled at Jenny.

Man: YOU FILTHY MECHANIZED NUISSANCE! GET OUT!

Jenny: Hey! You can't kick me out!

Man: OH YES I CAN! WE RESERVE THE RIGHT TO REFUSE SERVICE [pushes cans away] TO ROBOTS! They're dangerous, they can't be trusted and they stink too. NO ROBOTS ALLOWED!

Me: Hey!

I walked up to the man and grabbed him by his shirt and braced him up against the wall.

Me: Who the hell do you think you are you fuckpot!?

Man: I'm the owner of this restaurant!

Me: You are nothing more than a Robophobic Supremacist that's what!

Man: Who are you!?

Me: Someone you should not fuck around with. I'm J.D. Knudson, leader of Team Loud Phoenix Storm.

Everyone gasped when they heard my name.

Jenny: Wow! It's such an honor to meet you!

Brad: We heard so many awesome things about you guys! You're world famous legends!

Me: Thank you.

Man: So you're the famous J.D. Knudson. I didn't recognize you and that this robot was with you?

Me: Actually we just met. But we came here to help Jenny.

Man: Why!? She's a robot!

Me: For your information you old prune, Jenny Wakeman is more than just a robot. She is just as Human as everyone else in this world like you! Professor Nora Wakeman built her to protect you guys just like we do to protect everyone.

Brad: Wow. You tell him J.D.!

Man: Really?

Me: Really. Now you revoke that rule, (Pulls out a gun and points it at his head) or this will be your last day alive.

Man: Okay! Okay!

He erased that rule.

Me: Good.

I fired the gun and it was a squirt gun.

Me: Gotcha.

Everyone laughed.

Luan: (Laughs) That was a good prank J.D.

Eddy: (Laughs) That was so funny!

Nico: Nice one!

Jenny: Thanks for that guys.

Me: Anytime Jenny. But it's such a pleasure to meet you in person.

Jenny: Same here. I've heard so many things about you.

Me: It's mutual.

Varie: We have done so much as well.

Jenny: Look, I know you guys want to help me with my school life and the Skyway Patrol. But I really don't mind what bullies and the Skyway Patrol think of me. As long as I keep fighting bad guys, that's all that matters. (smiles) That's what a hero does, right?

Me: Well it's more than just that Jenny. A true hero has to fight and risk his neck for those that they care about and they have to do everything they can to protect everyone.

Jenny: Wow. I never thought about that.

Nico Robin: That's right Jenny. Many heroes have had to go through some hard times to get to where they are at.

Lincoln: That's right. It's tough but they have had to endure a lot of hardships as well.

Jenny: Wow.

Later we went to Jenny's school and we saw a lot of people.

Jenny: These are our classmates.

Laney: Some of them look nice.

Lana: Yeah but some of them don't look nice at all Lanes.

Fire: Who exactly are the jerks in yor school anyway?

We saw two bullies picking on a boy named Sheldon.

Me: That makes me mad!

I went over and…

POW!

I punched them in the face and sent them crashing into a classroom door and they groaned stupidly as they had their teeth missing and their faces were swollen.

?: (British Accent) Well if it isn't the loser patrol.

Jenny: Hi Brit. Hi Tiff.

Tiff: You guys are nothing but losers.

Star Butterfly: You remind me of my evil nemesis Brittney Wong.

Me: Just what the universe needs, another couple of snobby brats.

Brit: You are no prize either you loser.

Carol: At least I don't dress up like a popular snobby whore.

Everyone gasped.

Tiff: HEY! You can't talk to us iike that!

Me: Says the two snobby whores that set the whole school on fire.

Everyone gasped again.

Then the principal came.

Principal: So you two set the school on fire back then.

Me: They were.

Brit: You have no proof.

Jenny: Oh really. Need I remind you that you used me and nearly got me in trouble more times than anyone else can count?

Principal: I think I get the point. Tiff and Brit Crust, you two are expelled!

Brit and Tiff were kicked out of school forever.

Me: Good riddance to those two.

Jenny: You said it.

Me: Jenny, how would you like to be a human for real?

Jenny: You can do that?

Me: We sure can and we can give you the ability to transform at will. You can also use your robot abilities even in Human Form.

Jenny: Wait. You're saying that I can have a chance to be human?

Soundwave: That's correct.

Shrapnel: I think you would look beautiful as a human.

Jenny: (hesitantly) I don't know. I've had attempts to be human before. But those didn't end well. How do I know that you guys can really make me human?

Me: You saw us do all kinds of awesome things. We have the power to do anything.

Jenny: Wow! That is so cool!

Me: Lets go talk it over with your mom first.

Jenny: Okay.

We went over to the Wakeman residence. We arrived and we were introduced to professor Nora Wakeman.

Nora Wakeman: It is such an honor to meet the legendary Team Loud Phoenix Storm.

Me: You too Professor Wakeman. We heard so much about you.

Leni: We have?

Lisa: Indeed we have 2nd Eldest Sibling. It's an honor to meet you Professor.

Nora Wakeman: Thank you Lisa.

Me: We would like to ask you if we could make Jenny, human.

Nora Wakeman: Yes I am familiar that you all have that kind of power.

G1 Bumblebee: Jenny, if you need some time to make your decision, we'll let you have some.

Nora Wakeman: XJ-9, I don't care if you're human or a robot. You'll always be my daughter.

Jenny: Thanks mom. I'm ready.

Me: Okay. But Jenny, it's gonna hurt.

Jenny: I'm ready.

Me: Okay.

Lincoln: Do we need to cover our eyes?

Me: Not this time.

I snapped my fingers and Jenny was in a lot of pain!

Jenny: (EXCRUCIATING PAIN) OH GOD IT HURTS!

Her metal body was replaced with skin and she had beautiful blue and white clothes. She had a blue shirt with a blue skirt and blue boots. She had beautiful brown hair in pigtails and beautiful blue eyes. She was now a full fledge human but with awesome robot abilities.

Jenny: What happened!?

Me: You are now an awesome human. Look.

I formed a mirror and she gasped and she saw that she was amazing.

Jenny: Wow! I look incredible!

Laney: Wow! You look awesome Jenny.

Jenny: Thanks Laney.

Brad: Jen, you look awesome!

Nico: I'll say.

Then alarms went off.

Me: Uh oh!

Suddenly a power outage happened and everything went black.

Me: Uh oh. The power's out!

Jenny: I know who's behind this. GIGAWATT!

Me: Who or what is Gigawatt?

Jenny: I'll show you. Follow me!

We were off to the city and we saw GIGAWATT!

---

Gigawatt arrives on Tremorton and starts to drain the electricity of the place. When Jenny battles Gigawatt, she is soon defeated by him after using her plasma ray to attack which Gigawatt absorbed to become stronger. This leads Jenny to use some upgrades that would help her defeat Gigawatt such as covering her entire body with rubber to be invulnerable to Gigawatt's attacks. However, Gigawatt creates electromagnetism in an object to attract Jenny's metal body to it. She later tries different upgrades to take down Gigawatt but fails in all the attempts.

Jenny, her mother, and her friends make a plan together involving teamwork using the previously used upgrades to make a surprise attack on Gigawatt. Gigawatt is defeated afer Jenny splashes water on him which decreased Gigawatt's energy until being reduced to a talking lightbulb. Gigawatt's head is put in a box and imprisoned afterwards, preventing him from draining energy again.

---

Lincoln: WHOA! He's a living Lightning Bolt.

Laney: An anthropomorphic lightning bolt! We've seen anthropomorphic animals but never Anthropomorphic Lightning Bolts.

Lana: That's true.

Shanan: He's an Uxitian Energy Vampire.

Nico: What are Uxitian Energy Vampires?

Shanan: They are very dangerous creatures that come from the planet Uxi VII. It comes from the Cartwheel Galaxy and they steal energy to make themselves more powerful.

Me: Wow! Thats amazing! Lets get him!

Juleka: Swanno! WHITE FEATHERS SPREAD!

Juleka turned into Maestra.

All of us had Gigawatt surrounded.

Gigawatt: (Transylvanian Accent) So the famous Team Loud Phoenix Storm is here.

Alexis: You really picked a bad day to commit crimes, Gigawatt.

Danny Phantom: Face it, dude. There's no way out. Do you really want go to all the trouble of fighting us off when you could just succumb to the inevitable and give up?

Numbuh One: I know you're not looking forward to what happens next. But I give you my word as a KND operative, if you surrender, I'll make sure your death is quick and painless.

Agony: Forget that. We want to hear this one beg for mercy!

Jenny: I agree with Agony. I've been waiting for this moment!

Panda King: (to Gigawatt) Just submit. I can see you're about to pass out. This is only going to end badly for you.

Raven: Panda King's right. Why put yourself through one last struggle.

Gigawatt: (smirks) There's still plenty of fight left in me. (throws lightning at us)

Lincoln fired a powerful blast of lightning and the blasts collided and exploded with incredible power.

KRABBBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOMMMMM!

Me, Bella and Ben scanned him with our Omnitrixes and we acquired his DNA.

Ben turned into Feedback.

Ben: FEEDBACK!

He sucked out some of his energy.

Feedback: You think you can fight off all of us? We just need to hit you with combos and Final Smashes and it'll all be over!

Override: You're just making things harder for yourself!

Maria fired a powerful blast of water and it shorted him out and weakened him.

Troy Burrows: Time we speed things up!

Megaforce Rangers: Legendary Ranger Mode: Turbo!

The Megaforce Power Rangers turned into the Turbo Power Rangers.

Lily fired a powerful blast of water and it shorted him out.

I punched Gigawatt in the face and Nico fired a powerful blast of water and it hit him in the face and the Megaforce Power Rangers fired energy blasts from their blasters and swords and they hurt him.

Gigawatt: I think it's safe to say that you idiots underestimated me! What makes you think I"ll be easy to kill? I'm an energy being. And we all know that you can't destroy energy! Did you really think you could defeat me?

Juleka: (smirks) Actually, I think it was a pretty safe bet.

Jenny fired a powerful blast of water from a firehose blaster and it hurt Gigawatt all over. We blasted him with water and fire blasts and really hurt him.

Me: Time for some serious combo power!

G1 Bumblebee: Right! CYBER KEY POWER!

The Autobot Cyber Planet Key went into his back and enhanced his laser blasters 100-fold.

Fire: Lets hope he doesn't like spicy food. GIGANTION CYBER KEY

POWER!

The Gigantion Cyber Planet Key went into her right arm device and enhanced her fire powerful 100-fold.

G1 Bumblebee and Fire: FIRESTORM LASER DANCE!

Bumblebee fired laser blasts and Fire fired powerful blasts of fire and they hit Gigawatt and exploded.

Shrapnel: Time for some lightning power! CYBER KEY POWER!

The Decepticon Cyber Planet Key went into his back and enhanced his electrical abilities 100-fold.

Riku: Time for some powerful lightning! GIGANTION CYBER KEY POWER!

The Gigantion Cyber Planet Key went into his right arm device and enhanced his keyblade powers 100-fold.

Shrapnel and Riku: SUPERLIGHTNING THUNDERSTRIKE SHOCK!

Shrapnel and Riku fired a massive blast of lightning measuring at 500 pentawatts and it slammed into Gigawatt and overloaded him!

Me: Lets finish this guy! Final Smash time!

Mei Terumi: You got it! Take this big boy! LAVA STYLE: SUPERVOLCANO GEYSER!

Mei Terumi fired a massive blast of volcanic lava at Gigawatt with incredible power and it hit him and exploded.

KRABBBBBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOO

Maria: I will short you out! MEGATSUNAMI SUPER DELUGE!

Maria fired a massive blast of water and it slammed into Gigawatt and drenched him all over.

Lily Loud: Take this you freak! MEGADELUGE MAELSTROM

DRENCH!

Lily fired a massive blast of water and drenched Gigawatt and he shorted out more.

Kairi: You will never get our planet! KEYBLADE WATERSTORM BLAST!

Kairi fired a powerful stream of water from her Keyblade and it hit Gigawatt and drenched him.

Luna: This is from me dudes. SIREN SONGWATER BURST!

Luna fired a powerful blast of singing water and it drenched Gigawatt and drenched him.

Juleka: This is the song of the Swan. CYGNUS SWAN SONG TRANCE!

Juleka spun around and the stars of the constellation of Cygnus the Swan formed in the background and she fired a powerful beam of music and it knocked him down. Feedback sucked his energy and weakened him.

Gigawatt: I HOPE YOU ALL CHOKE ON ME!

Kairi: (disgusted) What do you think we are? Cannibals?

Me: I have a perfect punishment for him.

At our amusement park in Gotham Royal York, we used Gigawatt as the power source for it.

Juleka: (To the viewers) Not even an energy vampire is a match for Team Loud Phoenix Storm.

Nico: No it isn't. Gigawatt has failed this world.

Me: Yep. But you all were great.

Jenny: Thanks J.D. But it was so awesome helping you. It's gonna be an honor to help you guys.

Me: Thanks Jenny.

We shook hands. Sheldon, Brad and Tuck joined us too and so did Nora Wakeman.

THE END

Another Fanfiction Complete and the first ever My Life As A Teenage Robot villain defeated.

My Life As A Teenage Robot was a funny and awesome show on Nickelodeon and it was awesome! But those dumb ratings people ruined it. NicoChan11 gave me the ideas for this. Thanks man. Let me know what you all think. Get ready for the ultimate battle that will make your blood boil when we take on the ruthless Kisenian Blossom from Sailor Moon R the movie and that is gonna be a battle that will infuriate you. I have a vendetta against the Kisenian Blossom for all the planets and stars she destroyed with her hatred.

See you all tomorrow.

HATRED OF THE KISENIAN BLOSSOM

At school we were having lunch and we had a little surprise in store for Jenny's old enemy Don Prima.

Block Man: Brad, are you and Tuck planning a prank?

Brad: Damn right we are! We're gonna do a prank that'll get Don Prima in trouble!

Tuck: We're not gonna tell you guys until you see it for yourself. But once it's done, Don's gonna be humiliated and have detention for the rest of the year!

Me: Ooh this is gonna be good.

Lincoln: I've never liked that guy. He's a total jerk.

Nico: Here he comes.

Don Prima just stole Brad's lunch box.

Don Prima: Thanks for the lunch box, loser!

But he opened it up to reveal that a skunk was in it!

Don Prima: What the?! (gets sprayed by the skunk)

FAAAARRRRRRRRTTTTTTTT!

Everyone, including Brad laughs at this.

Don Prima: (grabs Brad by the shirt) You think that's funny?! I oughta-!

Principal: (appears behind Don with Tuck) You'll do nothing. Come with me to my office. Now.

Me: Here Mr. Principal you'll need this.

I hand him a nose plug.

Principal: Oh thank you J.D.

He takes it and puts on the nose plug.

Brad: (high fives Tuck as Don goes to the Principal's office) Nice! Now, Don's gonna be humiliated!

Tuck: And, he'll have detention for the rest of the year.

Me: That was an awesome prank guys!

Luan: Boy you said it! He sure got Skunked on that one! (Laughs)

We laughed at Luan's joke.

We heard what the principal said.

Principal: You have been a delinquent and a major nightmare to everyone! You are expelled!

Don Prima: You wanna expel me? Fine! But I was gonna quit this school anyways to follow my real dream. And I'm not coming back, no matter how much you beg! (walks away)

Snap Shot: Trust me. We're not going to beg!

We shook our heads.

Don Prima's parents came and got him.

Principal: (to Brad and Tuck) I just want you guys to know that you did a good thing today. You pranked a bully and got him expelled. Good job.

Brad: Sir, we only wanted Don to get detention by pranking him. We didn't mean for him to get expelled!

Bludgeon: Alright, I get it. You feel bad for getting Don expelled. It's okay, we feel bad too. Doing the right thing is never easy, but it's the responsible thing to do. Like Tuck. When you bailed on a video game marathon with Brad to do a school project. That was very responsible.

Me: It sure was. I never liked that guy.

Nico: Me neither. He has failed this school.

Then my watch beeped.

Me: Uh oh.

Lincoln: What's that?

Me: That's my portable crime alarm. I installed that in my Omnitrix.

I looked at it and on a holographic projection of the Earth it showed that there was a huge energy drain going on over in Japan.

Me: There's a huge energy drain over in Japan.

Shanan: I think the Negaverse is behind this.

Me: One way to find out. Lets head out to Japan.

We were off to Tokyo, Japan.

---

TOKYO, JAPAN

---

We arrived in Tokyo and we were greeted by a flower creature sucking energy out of Sailors Mars and Mercury!

Me: Looks like we got here just in time! Lets go!

We went at the creature and I kicked it in the face and knocked it down.

Me: Are you two okay?

Sailor Mars: Thanks to you J.D.

Me: We'll talk after this flower is gone.

I flew over to the flower and grabbed it in a lock hold. Then suddenly I felt a massive power increase unlike anything before! My aura flared up with incredible power and my power was skyrocketing incredibly fast! It caused the whole area to shake extremely violently with incredible fury and it was incredible! My aura increased in power to unimaginable heights and it was so powerful that it exploded out of the atmosphere of the planet and it turned into a Rainbow Aura and it intensified dramatically. When the aura faded, the flower creature was gone and my aura was incredibly powerful. It was so powerful that it looked like rainbow fire. What I felt was a massive Negative Energy power up that made all the other power ups seem like a tiny energy drink in comparison.

Me: Whoa! What power!

Nico: Wow! Whatever that creature was, it had so much hatred and negative energy that it was unbelievable!

?: That's not the least of your problems.

We turned and we saw my long lost friend FIORE! A Doom Tree creature.

---

Fiore was a lonely alien who took great strength when he befriended a young Darian Chiba just after the boy lost his parents in a car crash. But as Fiore cannot survive long on Earth's atmosphere, he left with the promise to give Memory a flower in return for the rose the boy gave him.

But Fiore ended up finding the deadly Kisenian Blossom, which poisoned his mind to bring her to Earth while eliminating anyone who gets in the way. While after being briefly transformed by the Kisenian Blossom's power, Fiore was defeated before he made a suicide attempt to stop Serena from using the Legendary Silver Crystal's power to redirect the meteor.

But once Fiore was shown Serena's memory that she was the one who gave Darian the rose around the time of her little brother's birth, he allows the Kisenian Blossom to be destroyed.

As the Legendary Silver Crystal's use killed Serena, Fiore fulfills his promise to Darian by giving him a flower containing his life to revive Usagi with its nectar. Fiore reverted to a child as consequence, goes away by bubble after this is done.

---

Me: Fiore!

Fiore: Its been a long time J.D.

Me: Can't say that I'm just as surprised to see you here. But why are you here?

Fiore: I came here to give you flowers J.D.

Then a red flower bloomed open and what I saw was an old nemesis from my past. It was the KISENIAN BLOSSOM!

---

The Kisenian Blossom is the main antagonist of the Sailor Moon R movie. She is a parasitical flower that leeches onto a host and then deceives them into doing her bidding. She will then continue to feed off the planet she is on, spreading evil and hatred in the process until it eventually explodes, afterwards she waits for the next host to come along and repeats the cycle. Luna states that she is the most destructive life form in the universe, having destroyed countless inhabited worlds in the Milky Way Galaxy alone.

Fiore found her on the remains of a comet floating through space. It is believed that the comet may be the remains of the last world she devoured. She spreads her seeds which turn people into drones so she can feed off their hate. Her seeds can turn into a flying fairy like minion, a snake like one or a humanoid form. Her base of operations is on a meteor that turns into a field shaped like a flower covered in her minions.

The Kisenian Blossom ultimately died when Fiore realized how much Serena had helped Darian, which ultimately restored the goodness in Fiore's heart and disintegrating the Kisenian Blossom.

---

Me: It can't be! (ENRAGED GROWLING) The Kisenian Blossom!

Kisenian Blossom: Its been a long time J.D.!

Me: You and I have an old score to settle Kisenian! This time I will kill you for all of the countless planets being destroyed because of you! I will have my revenge!

Kisenian Blossom: We will see!

Fiore: Why would you want to kill me?

Me: To destroy the Kisenian Blossom!

I flew at Fiore and punched Fiore in the face and kicked him in the stomach with devastating force!

Me: You will pay for everything you've done Kisenian! I will kill you!

Fiore: I will be back J.D. and I will give you flowers.

Fiore vanished.

Me: Get back here you fucking coward!

Lincoln: Who was that?

Nico: Yeah J.D. why did you snap like that?

Me: (Sighs) That was Fiore. He's one of my old friends from my past. But that monster flower on him was the Kisenian Blossom.

Laney: What's the Kisenian Blossom?

Shanan: A ruthless alien flower monster from the galaxy IC 1101, 1.04 billion light-years away from Earth. It's a parasitic monster that sucks in the energy of stars and planets and causes the planets to explode. She destroyed countless planets and stars and killed countless lifeforms. She is a ruthless monster that is hellbent on the complete and total destruction of all life in the universe. She comes from the planet Kisenia XII and she destroyed her home planet.

Artemis: That's right. The Kisenian Blossom is one of the most dangerous creatures in the universe! A most wicked weed indeed.

Luna (Sailor Moon): (British Accent) Her aim is to try and gather energy from every star and planet. This was the first time we've ever laid eyes on her. But we'd heard the legend often when we lived in the Moon Kingdom. On her own Kisenian is just another flower.

Me: She's a harmless flower until someone comes along. She needs someone to act on her behalf. A Kind of pawn.

Luna (Sailor Moon): That's right. So she waits for someone with a vulnerable heart to come along.

Sailor Jupiter: And she somehow puts him under her spell!

Artemis: Exactly, she plants the seeds of negativity and transforms a pure heart into a dark one and from there her power will continue to grow until she destroys everything. Once Kisenian is finished with a particular star or planet, the pawn becomes dispensable and the planet filled with Hatred.

Sailor Jupiter: So poor Fiore is just another one of her victims!

Artemis: She's got him brainwashed, rinsed and dried.

Sailor Mercury: I've analyzed the energy of that flower we fought with and I found the same kind of energy is given off by the planet which is approaching the Earth.

Laney: We got to go to that planet and kill her.

Artemis: And fast! She must be stopped.

Me: And we will. I will have my revenge.

Lincoln: Why do you want revenge J.D.?

Me: (Sigh) That's right you guys don't know about this. It was 6 years ago today, a day that I will never forget. Me and Sinestro were going all over the universe and we saw something that happened in our galaxy. Something terrible.

---

Me: (Narrating) Me and Sinestro arrived at what looked like a massive asteroid field, but what it really was is that of a destroyed planet. It was completely destroyed. Nothing of it was left but a massive pile of rock and rubble.

Past me: What happened to this planet?

Sinestro: I don't know. This is completely unheard of. This planet was here a few days ago and now its gone.

Past me: This is horrible. Whoever destroyed it will pay dearly.

Me: That's when I saw the Kisenian Blossom. I saw her on a piece of rubble and I walked up to her.

Past me: So you are responsible for this planets demise!

Kisenian Blossom: Yes. I will flood this universe with only hatred and annihilate all life in the name of hate.

Me: I was filled with rage at the Kisenian Blossom and from then on, I vowed to get ultimate vengeance on the Kisenian Blossom and avenge the countless lives that were annihilated by her over the years.

FLASHBACK ENDS

Me: That's why I'm going to get revenge. She is a monster hellbent on destroying the entire universe. I won't let her get away with everything she has done. I will have my revenge.

Sasuke: J.D. I know exactly how you feel. I too was hellbent on vengeance and I wanted nothing more than to kill my brother to make him pay for killing all of the Uchiha clan.

Me: Sasuke this is a whole new different matter. Your brother was forced to do all that against his will and his crimes are nothing compared to all the evil and destruction that Kisenian has caused. She destroyed countless planets and killed so many innocent people that it makes all the worst people in history seem like nothing.

Lana: That's horrible!

Sasuke: You have a point there. But J.D. don't you realize that revenge is never the answer? All it will lead to is a path to your own destruction!

Shanan: That's right dad! Kisenian may be a ruthless monster hellbent on destroying all life in the entire universe, but Revenge is never the answer to anything.

Shanan was right. I knew that Vengeance was never the answer and that it only makes things worse. I had to think about this.

Ironhide: Nico, where are you going?

Nico: J.D. needs some time to calm down from his hatred of the Kisenian Blossom. So, I'm gonna go to her planet and fight off her and her minions until you guys can calmly come up with a plan.

May: (knows there's no way of changing his mind) Just be safe, ok?

Nico: (kisses her) I will.

Nico used Instant Transmission to beam to the planet.

Sailor Pluto: J.D., it is time for you to make a decision. Will you give into vengeance? Or stay true to your morals?

Sailor Mars: Wait. Why don't we just blow that planet up with the Superlaser?

Lisa: Negative Mars. According to Sailor Mercury's findings, the planet that the Kisenian Blossom is on is approximately 1,121.12 miles in diameter and it's half the size of our moon. It's also moving at 127,250.3 miles per hour. The odds of our superlaser hitting it at that speed are approximately 7,273,374 to 1.

Laney: That's very grim odds.

Lucy Loud: We can't take that chance.

I then got up.

Me: All right then. It's time for retributive justice. Lets head out guys.

Everyone cheered.

Me: Get ready Kisenian, I'm coming for you!

We were off for space.

---

The Planet the Kisenian Blossom lived on looked like a giant seed and it was as big as the Death Star from Star Wars IV and it opened up and turned into a massive flower and it revealed that it had a massive field full of Kisenian Blossoms. It was huge. Nico arrived and he saw it.

Nico: Wow. Lots of Kisenian Blossoms.

Fiore and Kisenian then appeared.

Fiore: So you are Nicolas Chan. Or do you prefer going by Bokrua?

Nico: Either one is fine. I prefer Nico.

Kisenian Blossom: So you are Nico Chan.

Nico: You sound like you were expecting me.

Kisenian Blossom: I was. You see, I don't know why you stull take orders from J.D. as his second in command.

Nico: It's because he trusts me and I'm his best friend.

Kisenian Blossom: Oh, I know. But for a leader, he doesn't act like one. He always rushes in recklessly and he never stops to think of a clear strategy. But you? Most of the time, you always think before you act and you're able to calm your teammates down before they rush in without a plan.

Nico: What are you saying?

Kisenian Blossom: I'm saying that it's a time for a change of leadership. A barbarian like Knudson doesn't deserve to be leader any longer. It's time for you to dispose of him and take your rightful place as the new leader of Team Loud Phoenix Storm.

The three of them then hear a Phoenix Cry.

Kisenian Blossom: You know what that Phoenix Cry means. If you're going to make a decision, you better do it now.

But Nico smirked in amusement.

Nico: You really think I'm going to betray J.D.? I'm not like Starscream.

Kisenian Blossom: So you would rather follow a brute then lead Team Loud Phoenix Storm.

Nico: I'm well aware that J.D. likes to rush in without a clear strategy most of the time. But that's why he has me. It's not just the second in command position that I have. I'm the conscience and heart of Team Loud Phoenix Storm. I keep everyone together. And I keep my friends honest and calm when fighting bad guys. I also help J.D. come up with clear strategies. Without me, Team Loud Phoenix Storm would fall apart. So, that's why there's no way I'm going to overthrow my best friend.

The rest of us smiled at my speech.

Nico: Lea. Francis. Light this bitch up!

Lea: With pleasure!

Lea and Francis fired powerful blasts of fire at them and they disappeared.

Me: Lets power up guys!

We powered up to the extreme and our auras flared up to an incredible level and we were really powered up.

Troy: Let's introduce you to the power of the Quasar Sabers firsthand!

Megaforce Rangers: Legendary Ranger Mode: Lost Galaxy!

The Megaforce Power Rangers turned into the Lost Galaxy Power Rangers.

Me: You will never get away with all the pain and suffering you've caused Kisenian! I vowed 6 years ago that I would see you dead!

Kisenian Blossom: Then come and get me!

Suddenly we saw many of the Kisenian Blossom's minions emerge from the flowers and there were thousands of them!

Me: Lets dance!

THE BATTLE THAT WILL DECIDE THE FATE OF THE UNIVERSE HAS BEGUN!

We went at all of the Kisenian Blossoms and I punched one in the face and fired a powerful energy blast that vaporized a bunch of them in an instant and obliterated them in a powerful explosion.

KRABBBBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOMMMMM!

Nico: RAPID FIRE!

Nico fired a massive barrage of powerful energy blasts at the Kisenian Blossoms and they were destroyed in powerful explosions of fire.

KRABBOOOOOMMM! KRABBBOOOOOMM!
KRABBBOOOOOOMMM! KRABBBOOOOOMM!
KRABBBOOOOOOOMMM! KRABBBOOOOOOOMM!
KRABBBOOOOOMMM! KRABOOOOOOOOOOMMM!
KRABBBOOOOOOOOOOMMMM!
KRABBBOOOOOOOOOOOMMM! KRABBBBOOOOOMMM!

KRABBBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOOMMM!
KRABBBBOOOOOOOOOMMMM!

Lincoln fired a massive blast of lightning and electrocuted a bunch of the blossoms and burned them all in powerful fiery explosions.

KRABBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOMMM! KRABOOOOOM!
BOOOOOOMM!

Laney and Lola fired powerful balls of fire and plant missiles and they hit numerous minions and blew them apart in powerful explosions.

KRABBBBBBBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOMMMM!

Sailor Mars fired powerful blasts of fire and burned them all in massive fiery explosions. I fired a massive barrage of energy blasts all over the place and blew all the blossoms into ash.

Fiore then appeared.

Me: Let me handle this. I'll let you all know when its time to deliver the final blow.

Nico: Okay.

I walked up to Fiore. I then powered up to the maximum and I was now a Super Ebonwu 30,000 Phoenix Fire.

Me: Kisenian, your time has come!

Kisenian: We shall see. Now you will die. Fiore kill him.

Fiore then transformed into a horrible and even more powerful transformation! He now had pink hair and a dark red suit and his eyes and body were overflowing with incredible hatred.

Me: I've had enough of you!

Fiore: Time to die!

Me: I WILL KILL YOU!

We went at each other and I punched him in the face and kicked him in the back and he crashed into a rock. He got up and fired an energy ball at me and I deflected it and it hit Fiore and exploded.

KRABBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOMMM!

Fiore came at me and I blocked a kick and kicked him in the face and he punched at me and I blocked it and punched him in the face and I blocked several punches and we were kicking up a tremendous number of dust and he punched me in the face and fired a powerful energy blast and I did the same and the blasts collided and exploded in powerful lines of explosions of fire!

KRABBBOOOOOOMM! KRABBOOOOOOOM!
KRABBBOOOOOOOOOOOOMMMM!
KRABBBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOMMM!

We rebounded and I punched him in the face and he kicked me in the stomach with devastating force. I punched him in the head and kneed him in the stomach and blasted him in the face with powerful finger blasts and headbutted him in the face and kicked him in the stomach and kick him in the face. Me: Oh no you don't! FINAL SHINE!

I fired a powerful energy blast and the blasts collided and exploded with incredible power!

KRABBBBBBBBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOO

Then we really went at each other and we punched and kicked each other at a ferocious and devastating level! Massive thunderous shockwaves were shaking the entire fabric of the universe and the power of our battle was so ferociously intense that it was rattling the entire fabric of the cosmos to an incredible level! I punched Fiore in the face and kicked him in the stomach and fired a powerful energy blast at him and it exploded in his face and burned him and then and Fiore punched me in the face and I kicked him in the face and he kicked me in the stomach and I punched him in the stomach and he punched me in the face twice and he fired a powerful energy blast at me and I dodged it and I punched him again and I dodged his fourth strike and punched him in the face and he kicked at me and I dodged his strike and punched him in the face and kicked him in the stomach. I fired a massive blast of fire at him and he fired a powerful energy blast and the blasts collided and exploded with incredible power. Fiore came at me and fired a bunch of energy blasts and I deflected them away and punched him in the face and kicked him in the chest and punched him in the face again! He got up and went at me and punched me in the face and kicked me in the stomach with devastating force and I crashed into a rock and belched up a huge amount of blood. He grabbed me and threw me down and pile drove me and I belched up even more blood and it got on his face and he was screaming in pain as it burned him and I punched him in the face and kicked him and punched him in the face and he punched me in the face with devastating force and knocked out some of my teeth and I was thrown to the ground and he jumped and just as he was about to smash my head in, I grabbed his foot and threw him into a rock and I kicked him with devastating force and I grabbed his arm and broke it. But he regenerated and punched me in the stomach and I belched out a huge amount of blood and I punched her away. I punched him in the crotch and kicked him in the face and knocked out some of his teeth and broke his nose. I fired a powerful energy blast and hit him in the face with it.

Me: (Spits out blood.) Lets get him guys!

Nico: Right!

We all went at him and he got up.

Fiore: (ENRAGED SCREAMING) I WILL KILL YOU ALL!

Me: GO TO HELL!

Nico: You have failed this universe!

The Sailor Soldiers fired a massive blast of white energy and it hit Fiore and exploded.

KRABBBBBBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOO

Me: Now to finish you for good! KAAAAAAAAA! MEEEEEEEEE! HAAAAAAAA! MEEEEEEEEEE! HAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAA!

I fired a powerful Kamehameha blast at Fiore and it hit him and exploded with incredible power.

KRABBBBBBBBBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOO

Fiore was weakened and then we felt an earthquake. The Core of the planet separated from the rest and it was on a collision course with Earth!

Fiore: (Laughs Insanely) I forgot to give you your parting gifts. Wouldn't want you to think I was rude.

Me: What have you done Fiore!?

His eyes glowed red with pure evil.

Fiore: We've programmed the core of the planet to self-destruct on Earth. In a few minutes, you'll be on a crash course home. Without enough power to teleport home! (Laughs maniacally)

We gasped.

Me: You're out of your fucking mind!

Kisenian Blossom: And once we've landed, I'll suck the earthlings dry in your memory my faithful servant.

Me: You will never do such a thing Kisenian! I will kill you for everything you've done!

I used Instant Transmission and beamed us all back to Earth and we landed in Japan. We looked up at the sky.

Nico: Where is it?

Me: It's coming.

(Nemo by Nightwish plays)

We then saw the planet core entering the planets atmosphere and burning up upon entry!

Lola: Here it comes!

Laney: We have entry!

I powered up!

Me: I've had it with this fucked up bitch! (Cups Hands to Side) KAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAA! MEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEE! HAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAA! MEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEE! HAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAA

I fired a massive red Kamehameha Wave right at the planet core. The blast collided with it and the power it was generating was so incredibly powerful that it was unbelievable! A massive struggle began and it was causing the entire fabric of the entire universe to shake!

Me: I WILL NEVER FORGIVE YOU KISENIAN!

Nico: Come on guys! Lets help him out!

Vince: Right!

Nico: KAAAAAAAAAAAA! MEEEEEEEEEE! HAAAAAAAAAAAA! MEEEEEEEEEEEE! HAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAA!

Nico fired a powerful blue Kamehameha Wave at the planet core.

Vince: KAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAA! MEEEEEEEEEEEEE! HAAAAAAAAAA! MEEEEEEEEEEEE! HAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAA!

Vince fired a powerful green Kamehameha Wave at the planet core. Their blasts merged with mine and intensified with incredible power.

Carol: I'll help too! KAAAAAAAAAA! MEEEEEEEEEEEEE! HAAAAAAAAAAAAA! MEEEEEEEEEEEE! HAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAA!

Carol fired a massive purple Kamehameha Wave at the planet core. Her blast merged with ours and intensified it.

HAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAA!

Master Goku fired a massive Kamehameha Wave at the Planet Core.

Vegeta: This monster is gonna die! (Goes Super Saiyan God) FINAL FLASH!

Vegeta fired a massive yellow energy blast.

The blasts merged with our blasts.

Sailor Moon: Come on guys! They need our power!

Sailor Moon transformed into Moon Princess Serenity and the Sailors transformed into their new awesome Royal Princess forms. They had awesome beautiful dresses and the astrological symbols of the planets on their heads. They joined hands and put their hands on my shoulders and channeled their power into me.

Sailor Sun: SUN ROYAL POWER!

Sailor Earth: EARTH ROYAL POWER!

Sailor Mercury: MERCURY ROYAL POWER!

Sailor Mars: MARS ROYAL POWER!

Sailor Uranus: URANUS ROYAL POWER!

Sailor Neptune: NEPTUNE ROYAL POWER!

Sailor Pluto: PLUTO ROYAL POWER!

Sailor Moon: MOON ROYAL POWER!

Me: OMEGA SOLAR SPIRIT KAMEHAMEHA!

They channeled their power into our blasts and intensified it 20,000,000,000-fold and it went at the core and it started breaking it up. Massive amounts of lightning were crackling all over the blast as it was breaking it apart.

Kisenian: THIS CAN'T BE HAPPENING!

Fiore: NO!

Me: BURN IN HELL FOREVER KISENIAN! FEEL OUR POWER AND PERISH!

The energy blast continued to break apart the core and the blast obliterated Fiore and Kisenian in an instant! The song ended as the whole planet core exploded with unbelievable power.

KRABBBBBBBBBBBBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOO

When the smoke cleared, the planet core was completely obliterated. There was nothing left. We have won!

Me: (Panting) It's over. Her energy signal has completely disappeared. It's over.

Lincoln: We won!

We cheered wildly. The Terror and Hatred of the Universal Genocidal spree of the Kisenian Blossom had been silenced forever. We avenged all of the lives and planets that were senselessly destroyed by the hatred of the Kisenian Blossom.

Sailor Pluto: (To the viewers) Anyone that destroys entire planets all for hatred will die by our hands.

---

Later the next day we decided to take some of the houses of Hogwarts and some of the students on a little field trip to the London Maximum Security Prison. Inside the prison it is home to the worst of the worst in all of England. We were there to visit the Dursley's. We were all on the Knight Bus. It was an awesome Triple-Decker bus.

---

The Knight Bus is a triple-decker, purple AEC Regent III RT that assists stranded individuals of the wizarding community through public transportation. It operates at a very fast speed and obstacles will jump out of its way, and can also deceptively fit through small spaces. To hail the bus, a witch or wizard must stick their wand hand in the air in the same manner that a Muggle might do while hailing a Muggle Bus in the United Kingdom, though it is possible to book tickets for travel on the bus in advance.

---

Me: This is gonna be so awesome.

Daphne Greengrass: (British Accent) It sure is. I'm Daphne Greengrass by the way. It's an honor to meet you J.D.

Me: Same to you Daphne.

Daphne Greengrass: Thank you for saving one of our students from that Dementor, J.D.

Me: It was no problem. Not all the people of the Slytherin house are a bunch of jerks like Draco Malfoy, Vincent Crabbe and George Goyle.

Daphne Greengrass: I agree with you on that J.D. Nobody should ever judge us based on the reputation of our house.

Me: Well not all members of the Slytherin house is bad. Draco Malfoy, Vincent Crabbe and George Goyle however are the worst.

Harry Potter: (British Accent) I agree with you J.D. They have hated my guts ever since we started.

Me: What a trio of dickheads. But Hermione, I heard you socked Malfoy in the face in your 3rd year.

Ron Weasley: (British Accent) She sure as hell did J.D. Hermione really let him have it.

Ginny Weasley: (British Accent) I heard about that.

Hermione Granger: (British Accent) They were gonna execute Buckbeak the Hippogryph and I called him a foul, loathsome, evil, little cockroach.

Me: Whoa! Nice!

Ron Weasley: Then she punched him.

Qin: Nice!

Me: Wow! Remind me never to get on your bad side Hermione. But there's a saying that we have over in America for that. It's called Payback is a Bitch. No offense.

Hermione Granger: None taken. But he was asking for it for a long time. He called me a Mudblood and he did all kinds of terrible things.

Me: That is sick. What he did during your 2nd year was really low. But if he does threaten you like that again, (Hands her spiked knuckledusters) use these on him.

Hermione Granger: Spiked Knuckledusters. Thank you.

Me: You're welcome.

Knight Bus driver: I'm impressed though. I've heard about that Malfoy kid. He is evil and is much like his father.

Hermione: Tell me about it.

Me: But if that doesn't work, it'll be a gun that blows his brains out.

Ron Weasley: Nice.

Daphne Greengrass: But I do have some dirt on Malfoy.

Me: What is it?

She beckoned me and whispered in my ear something funny. I found our that Draco Malfoy collects women's underwear and hideout them under his mattress.

Me: (Gasp) Ho-ly fuckshit. We got some good dirt. Thanks Daphne.

Daphne Greengrass: Anytime J.D.

I whispered into Nico's ear what I was told and he stifled his laughter and blood exploded out of his nose and his face blushed atomic red. We arrived at the prison and we went in.

Nico: I think it's really cool that you're a Prefect for the Gryffindor house Qin.

Qin: Thanks Nico. I learned so much about leadership from you. I figured that this would be a great opportunity for me to demonstrate my leadership skills.

Nico: I'm glad Qin.

Guard: I am too. So I take it you're all here to see what kind of people the Dursley's are?

Me: We sure are.

Guard: Everybody in here hates them. Over the years they made numerous enemies. They hated a lot of wizards and wanted nothing more than to kill them all because they were freaks.

Me: Their hatred towards wizards has taken them to a whole new level.

Lily Potter: (British Accent) That monster is not my sister anymore. She has no conscience or soul.

James Potter: (British Accent) I can't believe they would do this to so many.

Nico: It's not your fault James.

Guard: Here we are.

We saw that the Dursley's were locked in a Solitary Confinement cell and the door had all kinds of evil symbols on it. It had symbols of racism and evil and there were all kinds of hateful phrases on it. They were so terrible that we can't say them.

Me: Wow! I can't believe that they are that hated!

Luna Lovegood: (British Accent) No kidding. This is the worst way to express hatred on murderers.

Me: I agree.

They opened the door and inside the cell were the Dursley's. Vernon, Petunia and Dudley now sit in that cell, never to be released ever. They were given a whole life order.

Nico: Wow, they really have gone downhill.

Me: I'm not surprised. They were given a whole life order on them.

Luna Lovegood: What's a whole life order?

Me: It's England's version of Life In Prison Without Parole. Only 75 people have been given this. The most notable case is from your history here in England back in the 1960's: The Moor Murders of Myra Hindley.

Laney: Oh man! I've read about that! Myra Hindley and her boyfriend Ian Brady were responsible for the murders of 5 people from 1963 to 1965. They were given whole life orders on them.

Me: That's right. They were the worst. But the Dursley's have now replaced them because of the sheer brutality of their crimes against wizards.

Qin: No kidding. How many wizards died?

Nico: 27 wizards over the course of 72 hours.

Me: They should've been executed. But seeing them rot in prison is perfect.

Guard: Yeah everyone hates the Dursley's. They made numerous enemies over the years both in the Wizard and muggle worlds.

Me: Including all of Team Loud Phoenix Storm.

The Dursley's saw us.

Dudley: (British Accent) Well if it isn't the freaks!

I punched Dudley in the face.

POW!

Me: Shut your fucking trap Dudley.

Qin: You guys are in here because of your extreme hatred for wizards.

Petunia: (British Accent) You are all freaks! You all should've been killed!

Me: Go fuck yourself Petunia.

Lily Potter: You are no longer my sister Petunia. You've killed so many innocent people.

Vernon: (glares at Poliwag and Manaphy) You two tiny brats called the cops on us?!

Nico: They are Pokemon you fuckwad.

Laney: You three are the true freaks you racist bigots!

Me: You don't care about anyone but yourself and your own selfishness. This is why everyone in the worlds of Muggles and Wizards hate you. You don't care about anyone but yourselves. You would rather have enemies than friends.

Daphne Greengrass: That's right.

Susan Bones: (British Accent) You are the worst muggles ever.

Nico: Well said.

We later left the prison.

THE END

Another Fanfiction Complete and an awesome battle done!

Sailor Moon R was an awesome movie from the year 2000. I loved how they battled against the ferocious Kisenian Blossom. Now she's ashes. NicoChan11 gave me the ideas for this. Thanks man. Let me know what you all think. Next up is a race around Christmas Town from The Nightmare Before Christmas. Perfect way to get into the Christmas Spirit.

See you all tomorrow.

A Christmas Race

At the estate in Gotham Royal York, we were getting our winter clothes on. The reason is that we were getting ready for an awesome shopping trip at the mall.

Nico: I always love going to the mall.

Me: Me too. Leni loves it as well.

Ed: You got that right.

Kevin Levin: Lana, you wanna help me get my car ready for the upcoming race?

Lana: Sure.

Lana and Kevin went to the garage.

May: (to Animorphs Rachel) Rachel, do you want to go Christmas shopping with me and Nico?

Rachel (Animorphs): Sure May.

We then went to the mall. Christmas Shopping is one of the busiest times of the year because of so many people getting their shopping done before Christmas. Thousands and thousands of people cram into the malls all over the country to shop.

We arrived at the mall and it was packed! It was flooded with cars!

Me: Whoa! Look at all the cars here!

Lola: This is a lot of cars!

Laney: Christmas Shopping is always the busiest time of the year.

Nico: Whoo. No kidding.

Lincoln: But I always love coming to the mall with you guys.

Me: I know.

We went into the mall. It was PACKED!

Nico: Wow! So many people here!

May: No kidding.

Me: We're actually here to get an awesome Christmas tree for the house. An artificial tree.

Laney: Christmas trees are so pretty.

Qin: They sure are. I love how we decorate them with ornaments and all the lights.

Maria: William, how about you, me, Elena, Riku, Venom, and Stewie get the Christmas tree?

William: I'm always up for that babe.

Me: Our theme for this year is Blue Christmas like the famous song from Elvis Presley.

Lola: Love that song.

Lucy Loud: Elvis was a great singer.

Me: They didn't call him the king of rock and roll for nothing until he started doing drugs and it killed him in 1977.

Nico: I know. How sad.

Vince: But his songs and legacy still live on.

Me: They sure do partner. Even after 42 years.

We went into the Christmas store.

We picked out all kinds of awesome blue Christmas Ornaments and lights and beautiful decorations. We also picked a huge 17 foot tall Artificial Christmas Tree. It was a good deal.

Me: Wow! This tree is perfect!

Nico: You said it.

Maria: Yeah.

Me: Well we don't have to be home for another hour. Lets walk around the mall for a bit and buy things we like.

Everyone: YEAH!

Man: Christmas, Bah Humbug!

We saw the guy that said that.

Lola: That guy is a jerk.

Lily: A true Scrooge.

Me: Oh it's okay guys. He's practicing his lines for the upcoming Christmas Carol play coming up later next week.

Laney: Oh wow! That's one of my favorite plays and stories.

Lucy Loud: Mine too. I love how the spirits of the past, present and future tell Scrooge about where he's heading if he stays like that.

Me: That was cool Lucy. But what was really sad about it was that Tiny Tim was going to die.

Lynn: That was a sad part.

Lori: That literally was sad.

Luna: What was wrong with him?

Me: He had a strange disease called Renal Tubular Acidosis Type 1. It's a type of kidney failure that causes acid to build up in the blood.

Lisa: That's correct.

Nico: That's terrible. I can't believe he had that. I always thought it was Cerebral Palsy that was gonna kill him. But never something like that.

Me: I thought exactly the same thing.

We went around the mall and shopped all over. We bought all kinds of things. It was a great time at the mall.

---

We later went back home and we were setting up the tree. It was a 17 foot tall tree and we were flying around and putting all the blue ornaments on it. There were also 4 smaller trees by it that were 6 feet tall and they each had ornaments of different colors. One tree was decorated with red ornaments and it had the symbols of Gryffindor House. The 2nd tree was decorated with yellow ornaments and it had the symbols of Hufflepuff House. The 3rd tree was decorated with blue ornaments and it had the symbols of Ravenclaw House. And the 4th tree was decorated with green ornaments and it had the symbols of Slytherin House.

Laney: Wow. This is an interesting collection of trees.

Me: It sure is Laney. I figured that we could also get the Houses of Hogwarts to celebrate with us. We do have an alliance with Hogwarts.

Nico: That's true.

We then heard a cat meow and we saw a silver tabby cat.

Me: Professor McGonagall. Welcome.

The cat changed with Transfiguration and it was Professor Minerva McGonagall

Professor McGonagall: (British Accent) Good afternoon J.D. Those trees look lovely.

Me: Thank you professor. I can tell that everyone loves Christmas over at Hogwarts.

Professor McGonagall: We do indeed. And the colors of the Hogwarts Houses are perfect for the trees.

Me: Thank you professor. We figured it would fit the Hogwarts tradition perfectly for Christmas.

Nico: Boy they sure do.

Me: Yep. How are Lily and James Potter liking teaching the kids?

Professor McGonagall: It was a great choice in your judgement J.D. Your wish on the cosmic cube made us all stronger than ever.

Me: Thank you again professor. What Voldemort did to all of you was completely unforgivable and when the time comes, we will kill him and make him pay for all his crimes.

Lincoln: We sure will.

Lana: Oh yeah.

Then a glowing Ankh appeared and it out of it was Dr. Fate, Dr. Strange, Flash and Quicksilver.

Me: Dr. Fate. How did the search for the Horcruxes go?

Dr. Fate: We have all the Horcruxes in our possession.

We saw that he had Helga Hufflepuff's Cup, Rowena Ravenclaw's Diadem, Salazar Slytherin's locket, Marvolo Gaunt's Ring and Nagini - Voldemort's pet snake.

Me: Excellent work. Good job.

We put the Horcruxes in the vault for safety. It would take a miracle to get through it. Not even magic can get into our vault.

After the trees were finished we were watching TV. We had 11 days left till Christmas.

Me: Wow. We had a lot of decorating done. But the trees are all beautiful.

Laney: They sure are.

Nico: Hey Rachel, May, what were your Christmas's like before you two joined us?

Rachel (Animorphs): Mine was like every other Christmas. It was as normal as any other Christmas.

Nico: Oh.

May: On the world of Pokemon, we didn't celebrate Christmas. We may be like Earth, but we don't have the same holidays like you guys here.

Rachel (Animorphs): Completely different lifestyle.

Me: Just what I was thinking.

The doorbell rang.

Me: I'll get it.

I went to the door and answered it. There was no one there. Or so I thought.

?: J.D.?

Me: Yes?

?: Down here.

I looked and I saw that it was one of Santa's happy little elves.

Me: Oh. One of Santa's happy little elves.

Elf: Yes. Sorry for coming like this. But I have a message for you from Bobbie Fletcher. It's about the next race.

Me: Lets see it please.

The elf pulled out a hologram disk. The disk lit up and it showed a projection of Bobbie Fletcher.

Me: A Holomessage.

Bobbie Fletcher: Hey J.D. This special holomessage is from the North Pole. The next race is being held at Christmas Town and there's also a special surprise in store for you guys when the race begins. Here's Billy Natson.

Billy Natson: Thank you Bobbie. Now here's a holiday reminder to let you know that the Gotham Royal York Ornament Palooza is about to begin! shows three ornaments on the screen I've hidden ornaments all over the city in both Christmas Town and in Gotham Royal York! And teams of 2 will follow clues to find them! Get three, cross the finish line first, and you win the Gotham Royal York Tree Topper! reveals a giant Christmas star Everybody knows that it's the ultimate Royals Woods honor for the winners to place the topper on our town tree!

Me: Wow! This is gonna be interesting. A Christmas Race Scavenger hunt.

Elf: Indeed. This is really something that I'm looking forward to for you guys.

Me: Yeah.

Bobbie Fletcher: See you all there J.D.

Me: You know we'll be there Bobbie.

Elf: Can't wait to see you all in action.

Me: We'll be there. Thank you.

Elf: You're welcome.

I closed the door after he left.

Me: Guys, it's race time! The next race is being held in Christmas Town and the race is also a Scavenger Hunt Race.

Nico: Wow! That's gonna be interesting!

I went over everything.

Nico: Wow! This is gonna be fun!

Me: None of us have.

Muscle Man: I hope Dastardly's got a new car for me to ram!

Me: Oh he will. He always does. Lets decide who's going to be in which team.

Lori: Okay.

Me: Lori, ladies first.

Lori: How gentlemanly. I'll have Bobby go with me.

Me: Okay. Leni?

Leni: Ed. I would like Ed to go with me.

Luna: Sam and me can race.

Luan: Me and Eddy can race as a team.

Eddy: Cool! This is gonna be awesome.

Me: That's understandable. Nico, you better tell Gabriel about this and let him know.

Nico: Will do. And me and May will participate in this as a team.

Me: Great! And Lori, I bet you and Override will be in it.

Lori J.: You got it J.D.

Nico went to the Paris Maximum Security Prison.

---

PARIS MAXIMUM SECURITY PRISON.

---

In Paris, Nico was telling Gabriel about Adrien participating in the race.

Gabriel: So Adrien is participating in a race at the North Pole for Christmas?

Nico: He sure is Gabriel. The race is also an awesome Scavenger Hunt and the winner not only gets a trophy, but also an honor to place the tree topper on top of the giant Christmas Tree in the middle of the city of Gotham Royal York.

Gabriel: Wow! You guys are gonna have fun! Tell Adrien that I'm routing for him.

Nico: I will.

Guard: Good luck to you as well Nico.

Nico: Thank you.

Nico vanished.

Muscle Man: Hey, Dastardly. Where'd you get that car? Out of my Mom's trash?!

We laughed at Muscle Man's joke.

Dick Dastardly: Very funny!

Muttley snickered.

Billy Natson then came out.

Billy Natson: And welcome to another awesome race for all race fans everywhere. Hello I'm Billy Natson, and we have a really awesome treat for you all today.

Billy Natson revealed what was about to happen and we were excited.

Billy Natson: You excited J.D.?

Me: You know I am Billy. This is gonna be awesome!

Billy Natson: Love that spirit J.D.

We were excited.

Billy Natson: Okay, ornament hunters! Here's your first clue: "I go here every day, except on two days. This place is for the young, but closes on Summer and Winter!". to the viewers I wrote it and I don't know what it means!

Me: Very interesting clue.

Varie: (Gasp) I know where it is! It's at the Elementary School! We go there every day except on Saturdays and Sundays and during the Summer and Winter breaks.

Me: That's right! And we're on winter break right now. Lets roll!

We gunned it and did a blazing hot rod squeal and we were off!

Dick Dastardly: Not this time J.D.!

Dick Dastardly followed and he was in hot persuit. He had missiles ready to fire.

Wildrider: How many times do we have to do this dance, Dastardly?

Wildrider rammed him in the side and crashed Dastardly's car.

Nico: Dick Dastardly you have failed this race!

Maria: Horsea, how are you doing back there? I hope I'm not driving too fast for you.

Horsea: No you're doing good. Thanks Maria.

We pulled up to the school and got out of our roadsters and we went into the schools to search. We went to Gotham Royal York Elementary School, Middle School and High School. We searched all over and we found the ornaments. We got back in our roadsters and Billy Natson came on.

Billy: Ho-ho-ho! Nice searching, roadster racers! Now, here's your next clue: "What's Christmas without presents? Well, we could wrap about it all night long, but I rather go shopping!".

Me: What's Christmas without presents? Well, we could wrap about it all night long, but I rather go shopping." Hey that's an easy one! The Gotham Royal York Mall!

Varie: And we were there earlier this morning!

Me: Lets go!

We gunned it and went to the mall.

We arrived at the mall and we saw that there was a lot of people there and the ornaments could be anywhere.

Varie: This mall is huge! It could be anywhere.

Me: We'll have to use Shadow Clones and split up and cover more ground.

Varie: Good thinking.

Me and Varie: SHADOW CLONE JUTSU!

We made Shadow Clones and split up. We searched high and low and we found the Ornaments in the food court.

Me: Found it!

Varie: Way to go!

We went back to our car and we got another clue.

Billy: Ho-ho-ho! Roadsterrific searching, roadster racers! That's the second half of ornaments down! Now, here's your final clue: "Ho-ho-ho! Yum-yum-yummy! Where do you go on Christmas that's yum, yum, yum, for your tum, tum, tum?".

Me: Interesting clue. Let me see here.

We thinked hard.

Varie: (Gasp) I know where it is! The Gotham Royal York Bakery!

Me: Just what I was thinking. Lets go!

We went to the bakery and we all arrived there.

Me: Wow! Didn't expect all of us to arrive here.

Nico: Me neither. That's a first huh?

Me: How you all liking this race so far?

Adrien: It's awesome!

Marinette: This is awesome!

Laney: We're having all kinds of fun.

We went into the bakery and me and Varie found our Ornament.

Me: Good work Varie!

Varie: Thanks.

We got into our cars.

Me: SEE YOU ALL AT THE FINISH LINE!

We gunned it!

Qin: Oh no you don't!

We were really racing to the finish line!

Billy Natson: And there they go roadster fans! Team Loud Phoenix Storm are faster than Santa's reindeer! On Christmas Day!

Luna: Leni races up to Lincoln Outta the way, bro! We got a tree topper to win!

Lynn: races up to Lincoln It's gonna be ours first, Luna!

Lisa: Luan races up to Lincoln Victory shall be ours!

Lincoln: smirks We'll see about that!

Me: We shall see!

Qin: Yeah!

Qin and Tanya were gunning it.

Billy Natson: Deck the halls with roadster racing! It's J.D. and Varie, Lincoln and Earth with Leni and Ed, Lynn and Lightning, and Luan and Eddy right on their jingle jangle tails! spots something Oh! But wait! Lori and Bobby zoom past everyone It's Lori and Bobby! They dash away from them all!

Bobby: laughs Yeah! We got this in the bag! looks to Lori Go, go go, babe!

Lori: grins Hang on tight, Bobby!

Lori slams on the gas pedal, and they roar towards the finish line.

But then Qin and Tanya zoomed passed Lori.

Nico: Whoa!

Billy Natson: And here comes the winner of the race! IT'S QIN AND TANYA!

Everyone cheered wildly for them!

Me: Way to go Qin!

Nico: Yeah! Way to go sis!

Billy: Ho-ho-ho! What a finish! Qin Chen and Tanya are the winners of the Gotham Royal York Ornament Palooza! lands his blimp, then gets out and walks over to the girls while holding the Tree Topper And they get the honor to place the Gotham Royal York Tree Topper on our town tree!

Qin: Thanks Billy! It's an honor!

Later, around nighttime, Everyone in Gotham Royal York was gathered around the town Christmas tree. Qin and Tanya were at the top.

They put the topper on top and it was a beautiful sight. The Tree Topper let out a bright sparkle for all to see.

Lily: sparkly eyed, amazed Wow…

Everyone in Gotham Royal York cheers loudly as the Tree Topper sparkles brightly.

Me: Beautiful tree!

Qin and Tanya were given an awesome emerald green Swarovski Crystal Christmas Tree Trophy and it was a beautiful tree and it had ornaments made of red, gold, silver and blue swarovski crystal and it had a gold ribbon around it and a beautiful Star of Bethlehem on top of it. It was beautiful.

Nico: Congratulations Qin. I'm proud of you.

Qin: Thanks Nico. It was awesome!

Tanya: It sure was.

Adrien: I'm proud of you Qin.

Me: You both won your first race. Congratulations to you both.

Tanya: We sure did win our first race.

Nico: Your mom and dad would be very proud of you Qin.

Qin: Thanks Nico.

Attack of the Mole People

At the Hogwarts Quidditch stadium we were all excited because today was my first ever Quidditch match. This was gonna be a really fun day for me. We walked into the stadium entrance and it was awesome! Today was the Quidditch match between Gryffindor and Slytherin. It was gonna be a tough but interesting match.

Oliver Wood: (Irish Accent) You scared J.D.?

Me: A little. But I'm excited.

Oliver Wood: That's all right. I felt the same way about my first game.

Me: What happened?

Oliver Wood: I uh… I don't really remember. I took a bludger to the head two minutes in and woke up in the hospital a week later.

Me: Ouch. Thank goodness you're okay.

Oliver Wood: Thank you.

The gates opened and we flew in.

I was flying with my wings and everyone else was flying on their brooms.

Me: Wow! Everyone is here!

I saw Nico and everyone in the Gryffindor stands and even in the Hufflepuff, Ravenclaw and Slytherin stands. This was gonna be awesome!

I saw everyone in the main Gryffindor stands and flew up to them.

Me: Hey guys.

Nico: Hey J.D. It's so cool seeing you flying in the stadium.

Me: Thanks man. This is gonna be awesome! Wish me luck not that I'll need it.

Lynn: Show no mercy J.D.!

Me: With pleasure.

Lee Jordan: (British Accent) Hello and welcome to Hogwarts First Quidditch Match of the season. Todays game is Slytherin VS Gryffindor!

Everyone cheered.

Lee Jordan: And we have a very special treat for you all! We have for our Seeker for Gryffindor House, J.D. Knudson, the Leader of the World Famous Team Loud Phoenix Storm!

Everyone cheered wildly for me.

Me: Thank you all! Thank you!

We took our positions. I was looking right at Draco Malfoy who was the Seeker for Slytherin.

Me: Well look who it is.

Draco Malfoy: (British Accent) You will be scared when Slytherin wins.

Me: In your dreams Malfoy.

Lee Jordan: The players take their positions as Madame Hooch steps out onto the field to begin the game.

Madame Hooch: (British Accent) Now I want a nice clean game. From all of you.

Me: Yes ma'am.

She released the bludgers and the Golden Snitch.

Lee Jordan: The bludgers are up, followed by the Golden Snitch. Remember the snitch is worth 150 points. The Seeker who catches the Snitch ends the game.

Me: Here we go.

Madame Hooch got the Quaffle and threw it into the air.

Lee Jordan: The Quaffle is released and the game begins!

We were off! Gryffindor had the Quaffle. We were waiting for the right moment. I saw a lot of dodging and weaving and Angelina Johnson scored 10 points!

DING!

Lee Jordan: Angelina Johnson Scores! 10 Points for Gryffindor!

Me: Way to go Angelina!

I dodged a Bludger.

Marcus Flint for Slytherin was about to score but Oliver Wood blocked it.

Angelina Johnson scored again!

DING!

Me: YEAH!

Lee Jordan: Another 10 Points for Gryffindor!

Score was 20 to 0 Gryffindor!

Slytherin threw the Quaffle at the hoops but Oliver Wood got it and threw it to Angelina.

Marcus Flint: (British Accent) Give me that!

Me: Uh oh!

I flew over and Marcus took the beater stick and hit a Bludger right at Oliver and I appeared and kicked the Bludger back and it hit Marcus Flint in the head.

SMASH!

Nico: OOOHH! That's gonna leave a mark!

Lincoln: But what Marcus Flint did would've killed him.

Varie: But that was a good save.

Me: You all right Oliver?

Oliver Wood: Yeah. Thanks to you J.D. Good save.

Me: Thank you. Some Slytherins only know how to fight dirty.

I saw the Snitch.

Me: Oop. My cue!

I flew after the snitch and Draco Malfoy was in pursuit of me.

Draco: That Snitch is mine.

Me: In your dreams Malfoy!

I flared up my aura and flew after it faster than a bullet fired from a gun and I caught it!

Me: GOTCHA!

Lee Jordan: He's got the snitch! J.D. Knudson receives 150 points for catching the snitch!

Madam Hooch: (Blows Whistle) GRYFFINDOR WINS!

Everyone cheered wildly!

Nico: Way to go J.D.! YES!

Vince: Awesome job partner!

Everyone on the Gryffindor team landed by me.

Oliver Wood: Awesome job J.D.!

Angelina Johnson: (British Accent) Great job J.D.!

Me: Thanks guys. This was so awesome!

I walked over to Marcus Flint. He had a nasty lump on his head.

Me: OOH! That is not gonna feel good in the morning. MEDIC!

The medics came and they took him to the hospital. Nico came down.

Nico: Geez! You really smashed his head in.

Me: Well he was playing dirty. And there's no honor in that. Besides he almost hurt Oliver and I had to step in to keep him from getting hurt. Oliver got a nasty concussion from a Bludger that hit him in the head in his first Quidditch Match.

Nico: Ouch! That must've hurt.

Me: It did.

Nico: No kidding. But awesome job dude.

Me: Thanks man.

We won the Inter-House Quidditch Cup and it was an honor.

* * *

The Inter-House Quidditch Cup, also known as the Hogwarts Quidditch Cup or simply the Quidditch Cup, is awarded yearly at Hogwarts School of Witchcraft and Wizardry to the House Quidditch team with the most total points.

* * *

Later we were over at the headquarters for the Skyway Patrol and it was an interesting place.

* * *

Skyway Patrol was formed in "The First Intergalactic War" with Dr.

Wakeman. At that time, she had created Armagedroid to defend Earth from the alien invasion. After retiring from the organization (and sending Armagedroid to Earth's core when he rebelled), Nora Wakeman built the XJ units to help protect Earth from hostile aliens, such as The Cluster.

Since then, Skyway Patrol are often seen harassing XJ-9 for "unauthorized" aviation. In Last Action Zero it is revealed that members of this organization often have to deal with literal mountains of paperwork in order to do virtually anything. This usually makes them more of a nuisance than a help. This also renders them virtually unable to stop XJ-9, as it would take decades to fill out the necessary paperwork to arrest her.

---

Brad: I'm gonna go get bail money from my allowance.

Breach: What for?

Brad: So I can bail you guys out in case the Skyway Patrol ends up arresting all of you.

Ash: (to his Noctowl): Noctowl, make sure to watch our backs in case the Skyway Patrol pull a fast one on us. Ok?

Ash's Noctowl (nods): Noctowl!

Me: Lets do it! Lets kick some butt!

We went after the Skyway Patrol. We punched them all over the place and pounded their butts all over the place into pulp.

Muscle Man just flipped one of the desks in the room.

Skyway Patrol Officer: Are you kidding me?! There's fucking papers everywhere now!

Muscle Man: Yeah! It's everywhere because you can't do your jobs right!

Hook: You tell 'em, Muscle Man!

We smashed their faces in and knocked out some of their teeth.

Me: You guys are total fucked up jerks. You will apologize to Jenny or else!

Skyway Patrol Officer: Look, Knudson. After your whole revenge stunt on that Flower chick a week ago, I don't think you're in any position to be making demands of us!

Me: Try me!

I punched him in the face and the Skyway Patrol was knocked out.

Ratchet: So who's going to fill in the position of the Skyway Patrol now?

Me: We are. Team Loud Phoenix Storm is going to take the place of the Skyway Patrol.

Nico: I like it. The Skyway Patrol has failed this world.

Brad: And I'm resigning to Team Loud Phoenix Storm.

Me: That a boy.

We went back home.

---

Back at the estate we were resting and then the Alarm went off.

Me: Uh oh.

We went to the computer and it showed Seismic activity in an air pocket near the Earths core.

Me: We got seismic activity at the Earth's Core. But it's in many places.

Johnny Test: Oh no. This is the work of the king of the Mole People: Zizrar.

Me: Zizrar, King of The Mole People?

Laney: The Mole People are real?

---

Zizrar (voiced by Scott McNeil) is the King of the Mole People who lives underground and often attempts to take over the world. He first appeared in Johnny to the Center of the Earth. He has also appeared in Johnny's Big Snow Job, Johnny X: A New Beginning, Johnny X: The Final Ending, X-Ray Johnny, Johnny Susan Susan Johnny, Johnny Irresistible, and Johnny's World Prank Wars I.

His failure is usually due to his intense aversion to sunlight. He is the first villain Johnny ever defeated, but he does not make very many appearances (Bling-Bling Boy, who appeared in that episode as a reluctant hero, is the most common villain). He later became The Bee Keeper's replacement on the Johnny Stopping Evil Force 5 after Doc Beebles quit the force.

---

Me: Lets go check it out.

Lana: This is gonna be awesome!

We went down to the planets core and we arrived in the kingdom of the mole people and we saw them!

Fred Jones: I knew that mole people were real! I just didn't think they were actual moles.

Daphne Blake: Geez Fred you weren't kidding! And I thought that there was no such thing!

Velma: Jinkies!

Shaggy: ZOINKS!

Scooby Doo: RIKES!

Crystal: Like, crazy!

Mole King: Well if it isn't Johnny Test and the kid with the weird hair disorder!

Dukey: It's Dukey you freak!

Me: And also us you overgrown fur coat!

Nico: You are a freak!

The Mole King just struck Lincoln with a poison dart.

Loud Sisters: LINCOLN!

Mole King: It's no use, girls! Your brother has been struck with a poison dart. In about 5 minutes, he'll be dead!

Lincoln: Don't speak so soon!

Lincoln had the dart in between his fingers and it didn't even touch him.

Me: And you don't even realize this but we're immune to poison. Now lets tear this guy apart!

Troy Burrows: Time to fight underground people with aerial heroes!

Megaforce Rangers: Legendary Ranger Mode: Hyperjet Squad!

The Megaforce Rangers turned into the Jetman Rangers from Japan.

We went at the Molemen and began mercilessly tearing them apart and I punched Zizrar in the face and kicked him in the face and knocked his teeth out and Laney kicked him in the face and blasted him with fire and burned him and Lincoln fired a powerful blast of lightning and electrocuted a bunch of his men and Johnny Test fired a powerful blast of acid at them and dissolved them into nothing and Luna fired a powerful blast of water and drenched them and they turned into mud and they died. Fred Jones fired a massive blast of lightning at them and electrocuted them all. Sasuke Uchiha used a powerful Chidori Sword on them and blasted them apart with powerful lightning. Nico fired a powerful blast of lightning at them and electrocuted them. The Megaforce Rangers as the Jetman were blasting the Molemen all over the place with indiscriminate fury. After we destroyed all of the molemen we set our sights on Zizrar. We went at him and I punched him in the face and Johnny kicked him in the crotch and kicked him in the face and Dukey bit his arm.

Johnny Test: YOU CAN'T WIN MOLE KING!

Mole King: THIS IS MY WORLD! MY DESTINY!

Johnny Test punched him in the face and the mole king slashed him in the face and kicked him in the stomach and kicked him in the face and Johnny punched him in the stomach and kicked him in the nose and broke it and he kicked him in the back and he leg swept him and punched him in the back and nose.

Me: Lets show this freak who he's messing with! Combo time!

Ratchet: You got it boss! CYBER KEY POWER!

The Autobot Cyber Planet Key went into his back and it enhanced his Arc Welder torch 100-fold.

Ash: Time for some heavy firepower Noctowl! ANIMATRON CYBER KEY POWER!

The Animatron Cyber Planet Key went into his right arm device and it enhanced his Noctowl's powers 100-fold.

Ash: Charge up SKY ATTACK!

Noctowl charged up a powerful Sky Attack.

Ratchet and Ash's Noctowl: FIERY FURIOUS SKYBURST!

Noctowl turned into a deadly phoenix of pure fire and Ratchet fired a powerful blast of fire from his arc welder and the blast merged with it and enhanced it 10,000-fold and it slammed into Zizrar and exploded with incredible power.

KRABBBBBBBBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOO

Hook: Lets do this! CYBER KEY POWER!

The Earth Cyber Planet Key went into his back and enhanced his strength 100-fold.

Breach: Time for some action! GIGANTION CYBER KEY POWER!

The Gigantion Cyber Planet Key went into Breach's right arm device and enhanced her powers 100-fold.

Hook and Breach: PORTAL BOULDER SMASHSTORM!

Hook picked up a huge boulder and Breach opened up a huge portal and Hook threw the boulder into it and another portal opened up over Zizrar and the boulder came out of it and slammed into him.

Me: Lets finish him!

Fred Jones: Right! I read about you all the time in the National Exaggerator and now I get to destroy you! FIRESTORM ASCOTT BURNWRAP!

Fred fired a powerful blast of fire and it turned into a blanket of fire and it wrapped around Zizrar and burned him all over.

Johnny Test: You will never terrorize our worlds again! FIREHEART FIRE BLAST!

Johnny Test fired a powerful blast of fire and it hit the Mole King and burned him all over. Knocked him down.

Mole King: Now, c'mon! Let's not do something incredibly violent and messy that we might regret.

Lori: (about to kill Mole King) We literally won't regret this-

Johnny: (stops her) No.

Lori: Don't try and stop me, Johnny!

Johnny: We got more important things to worry about. Mole King still has lots of hideouts around the globe. You guys go find them. Me and Prowl will try to interrogate Mole King about his hideouts.

Maria: (knows what Johnny's really planning) Ok. Do what you have to do, Johnny.

Lori: Johnny, we'll literally take care of Mole King.

Johnny: No. Look after Lincoln. I'll deal with Mole King.

Lori: Like you've literally dealt with him before?

Johnny: (looks Lori in the eyes) Lori, I promise. By the time I'm done, he'll never hurt anyone again.

Lori: Okay.

Lynn: C'mon, Lori! We still have to finish Mole King off!

Lori: Actually, that's not going to be necessary now.

Lola: What do you mean by that?

Lori: We have to find the other Mole men and destroy them!

Me: Agreed. Come on!

We went off to find the hideouts and we were blasting all of the mole men apart.

Johnny and Mole King were in Prowl's vehicle mode as they drove with no particular destination in mind.

Mole King: Well, this is the part where I get off with a slap on the wrist. Though I am surprised we're driving in an Autobot.

Prowl: (Johnny stays quiet) Johnny? You ok?

Mole King: Oh, don't give me the silent treatment, Test! It's a long way to jail from here and these kinds of trips are probably the only quality time we get these days. Let's not waste it with silence.

Prowl: We have nothing to say to you.

Mole King: I thought you were going to ask me about my hideouts.

Johnny: (breaks the silence) Actually, I lied. My friends will find them easily.

Mole King: Oh, so this is about us spending time together.

Prowl: Like the Pit it is!

Mole King: You don't need to say anything, Test. I know you need me. And I need you. That's one of the reasons why I commit my crimes. They're all for you. You keep me going. You're who I perform for.

Prowl: (unnerved) Johnny, you're really starting to scare me right now.

Mole King: But to be honest, I really liked playing with Little Lincoln though. If it's ok with you, I think I'll do it again. (changes his mind) On second thought, maybe I'll just go after his parents. After all, they don't seem to participate that much in fighting guys like me.

Prowl: (angry) If you think we'll let you do that, you have another thing-

Prowl was cut off by Johnny grabbing the Mole King's head and snapping his neck.

Prowl: Oh gross! Johnny!

Johnny: Prowl, drive me to the police station. Now.

Prowl: Okay.

Back on the surface in Gotham Royal York Police Station, Sheila was talking with her police officer friends when Johnny came inside the station.

Sheila: Hey, Johnny. What can I do for-

Johnny: Officer Sheila, I'd like to turn myself in. I just committed murder and animal cruelty.

Prowl: (comes in carrying Mole King's corpse) Sheila, I swear. I'm just as surprised as you are.

Sheila: Be right back.

Sheila went into the office.

Sheila: Hey guys, Johnny Test here killed a monster in cold blood!

(Everyone laughs hysterically)

Sheila: Johnny you did a good deed today. You did what you had to do to save everyone.

Johnny: But I killed this creature in cold blood!

William: Johnny, not that I'm complaining. But why did you kill Mole King? When we first met you, you were shocked to see us kill one of Wacko's henchmen.

Johnny: Well, I finally understand why killing villains is necessary. Besides, the Mole King was trying to conquer the surface world. (to Lori) And he nearly killed Lincoln.

Lori: And he would've tried again. So, you took a life despite knowing that all life is sacred. For us?

Johnny: It's probably the only time I'll do so.

Me: You did good Johnny. Well done buddy.

Fred Jones: (To the viewers) Not even stupid creatures like the Molemen are a match for the entirety of Team Loud Phoenix Storm. So now the creatures of the National Exaggerator have been proven to be real.

Me: They sure have.

Nico: And the molemen have failed this world.

Me: Yep.

THE END

---

Another Fanfiction Complete and another Johnny Test Villain destroyed.

The Molemen of Johnny Test were funny and silly and stupid. But they were awesome. Freddy Jones did all those silly National Exaggerator lines from A Pup Named Scooby Doo and they were funny. NicoChan11 gave me the ideas. Thanks man. Let me know what you all think. Next we're going after Baby Face Berretti and Ranger Knudsen on Camp Scare from Scooby Doo. So get ready to see us kill a notorious gangster.

See you all tomorrow.

Welcome to Camp Scare!

In London, we were walking down the street and it was a beautiful day in the city.

Me: Here we are back in London.

Laney: It's beautiful today.

Me: It sure is.

With us was Rubeus Hagrid. He was the Keeper of the Keys and the groundskeeper of Hogwarts. He was a tall guy too. He was from Scotland and he was 8' 6" tall.

We went into a bar. It was called the Leaky Cauldron Tavern and Hagrid is a regular patron there.

Me: So this is the Leaky Cauldron.

Laney: I've read about all this in the books and it's a nice place.

Lana: I'll say.

Tom: (British Accent) Ah! Hagrid. Usual I presume?

Hagrid: (Scottish Accent) No thanks Tom, I'm helping Team Loud Phoenix Storm here out.

Tom: Bless my soul. Team Loud Phoenix Storm.

Me: Pleasure to meet you.

Lincoln: It's an honor to be here.

We went out to the back in front of a brick wall. Hagrid tapped the bricks around a hole in the wall with his umbrella and the bricks moved and opened up.

Hagrid: Welcome Team Loud Phoenix Storm, to Diagon Alley.

We saw that it was a beautiful alley full of shops, restaurants and stores.

---

Diagon Alley is a cobblestoned wizarding alley and shopping area located in London, England behind a pub called the Leaky Cauldron. Inside the alley is an assortment of restaurants, shops, and other sights. All items on the Hogwarts supply list can be bought at Diagon Alley. The alley is completely hidden from the Muggle world which is right outside of its boundaries. It is very large in area and essentially the centre of wizarding London.

The Leaky Cauldron was present long before Charing Cross Road was even planned in the nineteenth century; its true address is number one, Diagon Alley, and it is believed to have been built some time in the early 1500s, along with the rest of the wizarding street. It is a popular historical theory that the second oldest building in Diagon Alley is Gringotts Wizarding Bank and that the other shops grew up around it. However, there is a possibility that Ollivanders is the oldest building, records dating back to the early fourth century B.C.

When the Statute of Secrecy was imposed Diagon Alley was hidden by the use of many powerful spells of concealment. The then Minister for Magic, Ulick Gamp, agreed to give the landlord of the day present at the Leaky Caluldron responsibility for letting people into Diagon Alley from his back yard.

In 1926, one of the shops in Diagon Alley was burgled with the help of a Four-Headed Bird.

Harry Potter's early visits

Harry Potter's first visit to Diagon Alley with Rubeus Hagrid marked his re-introduction to the wizarding world. Harry's first stop was Gringotts Wizarding Bank, where he encountered Goblins for the first time. After entering the huge, grand bank and explaining what they want to a goblin, Hagrid and Harry are taken by Griphook down to the vaults on a speeding cart, which makes Hagrid sick. First they stop at the Potter vault, then continue to the higher security Vault

713, where Hagrid gets the Philosopher's Stone.

After obtaining money from the bank Hagrid helped Harry shop for his school supplies and purchased Harry's eleventh birthday present, the snowy owl Hedwig, from Eeylops Owl Emporium. Harry later names her Hedwig, a name he finds in A History of Magic.

Harry also purchased his wand from Olivanders. After trying out a large number of wands, none of which seem quite right, Harry is handed a holly and phoenix feather wand. Harry pays seven Galleons for the wand and leaves the shop. Also when visiting Diagon Alley Harry remarked that he wished he had more than one pair of eyes to be able to take in all the sights the alley has to offer.

Harry, Hermione, and the Weasleys visit Flourish and Blotts to buy school books. They discovered that Gilderoy Lockhart was signing his new book, Magical Me. When Lockhart spotted Harry, he dragged him up in front of the camera with him and announced to the crowd that he would be the new Defence Against the Dark Arts teacher at Hogwarts for the up coming year. After Harry escaped from the spotlight, Lucius Malfoy and Arthur Weasley got into a fight. Lucius used that moment to sneak the Diary into Ginny Weasley's cauldron.

During the summer before his third year, Harry spent several weeks in Diagon Alley, staying in a room at the Leaky Cauldron by night and roaming the street by day, marvelling at the incredible shops and the witches and wizards, in from all over the country, who came by to do their shopping. He does his homework out in the open, eats free ice creams, picks up his books, and repeatedly stops by Quality Quidditch Supplies to admire the Firebolt. Ron, and the Hermione are also staying at the Leaky Cauldron. Hermione buys Crookshanks. That night, Harry overhears Mr and Mrs Weasley in conversation - and learns that Sirius Black is after him.

Return of the Dark Lord

Following Voldemort's return to power in 1996, wizards and witches no longer felt safe wandering out in public, and Diagon Alley changed dramatically. The once-crowded streets stood virtually empty, faces of Death Eaters plastered the fronts of once-bright shops, and street vendors popped up, hawking anti-Dark devices.

Within another year and Voldemort's taking over of the Ministry of Magic, a large number of shops had closed, replaced by others devoted to the Dark Arts, and the street was filled with Muggle-borns who had been cast aside by the new system. Ollivanders and Florean Fortescue's Ice Cream Parlour were closed.

Presumably, after Voldemort's eventual downfall and the installation of Kingsley Shacklebolt as Minister for Magic, Diagon Alley eventually returned to its splendour of old.

Location

Diagon Alley is accessible from Muggle London through the Leaky Cauldron, which is on Charing Cross Road, set between a bookshop and a record shop. The Muggles who pass by the inn seem to be "quite unconscious" of its existence. Knockturn Alley, a dark artefacts area, is an off shoot of Diagon Alley, as are the areas of Horizont Alley and Carkitt Market.

Access

The entrance is behind the Leaky Cauldron in a small, walled courtyard with a dustbin. Diagon Alley can be accessed by tapping the correct brick in the wall behind the Leaky Cauldron (from the trash can, three up and two across). The wall goes in a small hole first but forms a large archway. It can also be accessed by Floo Powder and Apparition. There may be other entrances as well.

Diagon Alley connects to a second, less reputable shopping district, Knockturn Alley.

Community

Inside the Alley is an assortment of restaurants, shops, and other sights; some even have tables out front with coloured umbrellas.[9] Particularly during the days or weeks before school starts at Hogwarts, the location is packed with witches and wizards, though shops are open year-round as witches and wizards travel to the location for various goods. While the shops include many school-supply locations, there are also many locations important to the wizarding world, such as Gringotts Wizarding Bank and Ollivanders. Diagon Alley is also the location of Weasleys' Wizard Wheezes, established by Fred and George Weasley shortly after leaving Hogwarts.

Me: Wow. So this is Diagon Alley.

Lola: It's incredible!

Nico: I'll say. This is the first time we've been here.

Hunter: (German-Hungarian Accent) Ja. This is vunderbar.

Me: No kidding.

Ron Weasley: (British Accent) You'll like this. This is my family's shop here.

We were in front of Weasleys' Wizard Wheezes.

Me: Weasleys' Wizard Wheezes. Interesting place.

We went into the store.

George Weasley: (British Accent) Welcome to Fred and George's Wizard Wizarding Weezes!

Me: George and Fred Weasley. Good to see you guys.

Fred Weasley: (British Accent) You too mate.

Me: You got an awesome shop here.

We saw that it also had awesome fireworks.

Luan: I'll get some pranks from this store!

Miranda: As long as you don't buy an devastating April Fool's pranks, you'll be fine.

Luan: That was because of my Dark Side and she's now in the moon prison forever.

Nico: Tell that to my brother Connor.

Muscle Man: I'll buy some pranks too!

Benson: Ok. But you're not allowed to use them on us. Only on bad guys and on Gene during the Park prank wars.

Spiderman: Your park has prank wars?

Benson: Oh yeah. Horrible Prank Wars.

Benson revealed the deadly history of the Prank Wars. It was a brutal prank war with The Park and it's rival park East Pines and it went on for years until Muscle Man saved them all.

Nico: That is hardcore.

Hunter: Ja. Und we should stop that for good.

Me: I agree Hunter. That prank war is a massacre. We'll have to one day stop that or else someone is gonna get killed.

We bought all kinds of awesome pranks and gags and awesome candy and treats. We got Chocolate Frogs, Bertie Bott's Every Flavor Beans and all kinds of stuff. We each also got owls of different kinds. I got a Great Grey Owl, Nico got a barn owl, Laney got a Great Horned Owl, Lana got a Eurasian Eagle Owl, and Lola got a Spotted Owl and we also got cats of different kinds. The coolest part about the chocolate frogs was the Wizard Cards. They were pentagon shape cards that showed us famous wizards from all over the centuries. My first wizard cards were the founders of the houses of Hogwarts: Godric Gryffindor, Helga Hufflepuff, Rowena Ravenclaw and Salazar Slytherin.

Back home we were watching TV. I was on the computer and doing an analysis on what Voldemort plans to do.

Qin: So what is the primary goal of Lord Voldemort?

Me: He wants to kill all the muggles and muggleborn wizards so that pureblood wizards can rule over the world in the name of evil.

Qin gasped.

Qin: But why does he want to do that?

Me: He claims it's the "Good work of Salazar Slytherin." But in our eyes, it's Genocide.

Qin: How many Muggles are there compared to wizards?

Me: Lets see.

I pulled up a bar graph of the population of Earth and it showed that Muggles were big.

Me: Out of 7.8 billion people on Earth as of 2019, there's only 500 million wizards.

Qin: (Gasps in horror) Voldemort is gonna wipe out 7.3 billion people!? That's insane!

Me: That's right. That's 95.5% of the planets population. Which is ultimate genocide and pure unrestrained hatred towards everyone on the entire planet.

Lincoln: Voldemort is pure ultimate evil!

Me: He's worse than Aku.

Qin: I can't believe that Voldemort is gonna kill everyone all because of one mans hatred towards all muggles.

Me: This takes bigotry and racism to a whole new level. Soon we will kill him and all of his followers and we will send all of their fucking asses off to Hell where they belong.

Nico: But where are they at?

Me: We'll find them and when we do, we will kill them all. Bunch of fuckers.

Lincoln: You said it J.D. We'll make him pay for trying to take our planet.

Me: No ones takes our planet and lives. Voldemort will die and burn.

Qin: How many people are Muggle Born Wizards compared to pure blood?

Me: Lets see.

I looked it up and a pie chart showed that only 15% of all the wizards are pure blood and the rest is half blood and Muggle Born.

Qin: Only 15% of the wizards are pure blood?

Me: That is really unusual.

Then the TV changed to a Special Report.

Me: Uh oh.

News Announcer: We interrupt our regularly scheduled program to bring you this special report.

News Reporter: Notorious gangster Babyface Boretti has escaped from prison and is now currently at large.

Me: Babyface Boretti!?

Nico: You faced him before?

Me: It was years ago. It was one of the first cases I've ever done with Mystery Inc.

Velma: I remember that. Ranger Knudsen hit on me.

We gasped.

Lincoln: There's a criminal that has your last name J.D.?

Me: Yes but we're not related and his name is spelled with an E and mine is spelled with an O. It may sound the same, but we are no where near related.

I revealed his history.

---

Scooby-Doo and the gang travel to Camp Little Moose (Fred's old summer camp) to vacation and serve as camp counselors. But when they arrive, they find the camp empty, save for Burt the head counselor, and the local Forest Ranger Knudsen. They discover that one of the camp's old legends, the Woodsman, has come to life and scared the kids away. Ranger Knudsen suggests Burt close the camp before leaving. Burt is about to heed the Ranger's advice when three kids, Luke, Trudy, and Deacon, arrive at the camp. Fred convinces Burt to keep the camp open until the Mystery Inc. gang discover what's going on. But the gang and the kids are soon attacked by the Woodsman. The next day, everyone decides to spend the day at Big Moose Lake, home of the rich and modern Big Moose camp. The gang are enjoying their time at the lake until they are attacked by the Fishman, another camp legend come to life. During the chase, Scooby-Doo discovers a building at the bottom of Big Moose Lake. Everyone is now very scared, especially Deacon.

That night, Jessica, Camp Big Moose's head counselor, asks the gang if Camp Little Moose is pulling a prank on Camp Big Moose, explaining that an RV and some sonar equipment are missing from the camp. The gang wonders what purpose the equipment would serve for the Woodsman or the Fishman. Velma uses the RV's tracking device to locate it at Shadow Canyon, where (as Burt explains) the Spectre, another camp legend, resides. Everyone splits up; Fred, Daphne, Jessica, and Luke go investigate the building in Big Moose Lake, and Velma, Burt, Trudy, Shaggy, Scooby, and Deacon head to Shadow Canyon. After being chased by the Fishman, Fred and the others discover a whole town in the Lake, as well as some dynamite hidden in a cavern. Velma and company discover the missing RV and sonar equipment in Shadow Canyon. They find the sonar equipment is being used to scan the lake. Then, they are chased by the Spectre.

Everyone meets back at Camp Little Moose to go over what they found. Deacon decides he has had enough and wants to go back to Camp Big Moose, and Jessica drives him. The Mystery Inc. Gang want to know more about the underwater town, so they ask a local shop owner about it. He explains that the town is called Moose Creek, and used to be a mining town that was forced to be evacuated to create the dam and Big Moose Lake. But, more importantly, the treasure of a notorious gangster named Ricky LaRue is said to still be buried there. Before his death, the gangster told his old cellmate BabyFace Boretti that if the sun hits the town on the Summer Solstice, the location of the treasure will be revealed. BabyFace later escaped from prison two months prior to the current events. The gang deduces that the dynamite will be used to destroy the dam and reveal Moose Creek in order for the monsters to find the treasure, as the next day is the Summer Solstice. But doing this will flood Camp Little Moose. The gang returns to the camp to find that the Woodsman has laid waste to it, but Burt, Luke, and Trudy are safe. But the gang realize that if the Woodsman found nobody at Camp Little Moose, he would be free to destroy the dam. The dam then explodes, and everyone narrowly escapes in time.

Everyone then goes to Moose Creek, now exposed, to explore. There they find Jessica, who explains she was following Deacon. They are then attacked by the Woodsman, who chases Fred, Jessica, and Luke. The rest are found by Deacon, who locks them up in a jail cell, revealing his true identity as the criminal Babyface Boretti and that he is looking for the treasure. After a long chase, the Woodsman is caught and revealed to be Ranger Knudsen, who is also the Fishman and the Specter in disguise.

The gang also capture Babyface Boretti, who tries to escape with the treasure. Velma explains that Babyface and Ranger Knudsen teamed up to scare away the kids at Camp Little Moose, explode the dam, and take the treasure. Babyface posed as Deacon to try to convince everyone to leave. The two also used the sonar equipment that they stole to search for the town buried beneath the lake.

In the end, Burt and Jessica merge the camps to form Camp Little Big Moose at Moose Creek while Babyface Boretti and Ranger Knudsen are arrested for their actions.

---

Qin: That's terrible!

Shockwave: I find it very disturbing that there is a criminal with your name, J.D.

Me: Tell me about it.

Lola: But why is he called Babyface?

Me: Well a lot of infamous gangsters over the decades have features that make them what they are. Babyface Boretti is called that because he has a face and head that looks like that of a baby. Another gangster like him was Baby Face Nelson.

I pulled up his profile.

---

Lester Joseph Gillis (December 6, 1908 - November 27, 1934), known by the alias George Nelson and Baby Face Nelson, was an American bank robber. He was given the nickname Baby Face Nelson due to his small stature and somewhat youthful appearance, although few dared call him that to his face. Criminal associates instead called him "Jimmy". He became partners with John Dillinger, helping him escape from prison in Crown Point, Indiana. Nelson and the remaining gang members were labeled as public enemy number one.

Nelson was responsible for killing more FBI agents than any other person. He was fatally shot by FBI agents during a shootout called The Battle of Barrington.

---

Lincoln: So that's Baby Face Nelson.

Me: Yep. He's called that because of his youthful appearance and how he looks like a kid. He died in 1934 in a terrible shootout with FBI agents as they were about to arrest him and they called him Public Enemy Number 1.

Laney: I remember reading about him. He was one of the most dangerous gangsters ever.

Lola: Wow.

Me: Yeah. But back to the matter at hand, I think I know what Babyface Boretti is after. He's after this.

I pulled up a map of Camp Little Big Moose, and I found a surprising treasure.

Me: He's after the Treasure of Moose Creek.

Lucy Loud: What's the treasure of Moose Creek?

Me: It's the treasure of all of the gangsters of the Roaring 20s. Legends say that over the course of 50 years from 1913 to 1963, all of the country's most infamous gangsters over the course of that timeframe have been building up a massive treasure composed of all of their money, jewels, gold, weapons and more.

Nico: Wow! That's amazing.

Laney: That is an amazing treasure to find.

Nicole: It sure is Laney. Like with the big National Treasure, I've been trying to find that treasure for decades.

Lincoln: That is so cool.

Me: It is. During the first time I busted Boretti with Mystery Inc, we found the lost treasure of Ricky LeRue.

Laney: (Gasp) I've heard about that. That treasure was all the money and gold that he stole over his entire career before he was sent to Alcatraz.

Me: That's right. The entirety of all of the money and gold he stole over the years was locked in a treasure chest that he buried underground. To get to the treasure, Babyface Boretti had to blow up the dam that made Big Moose Lake and drain it.

Fred: And in doing so he destroyed my childhood camp, Camp Little Moose.

Me: I remember that Fred. That was evil. Also here's the kicker. Before Ricky LeRue died, he told his cellmate Babyface Boretti the secret to finding the treasure: When dawn breaks on the Summer Solstice, the steeple will point the way.

Laney: So sunrise on June 21st.

Me: Bingo. We found the treasure and got Babyface Boretti and Ranger Knudsen arrested. Sentenced them to 75 years in prison. Boretti also got life in Solitary Confinement for escape. But now that he's escaped again, we have to kill him. We used the money from LeRue's treasure to build a much better and amazing camp. We merged Camps Big Moose and Little Moose together and formed Camp Little Big Moose.

Lori: That's literally amazing!

Luna: Yeah. That's rockin dudes.

Wheeljack: How about you guys pose as camp counselors with Mystery Inc. to flush those dirtbags out?

Maria: Good idea. Me, Stewie, Venom, William, Elena, and Riku want in.

Me: Just what I was thinking Wheeljack. Just like with Camp Jellyjam. And Camp Little Big Moose is open all year. Here's what we do.

I revealed the plan. We were gonna have Maria, Stewie, Venom, William, Elena and Riku dress up as camp counselors and hide in the shadows and wait for everyone to go to sleep. Then when we get our chance, we strike at Babyface Boretti and Ranger Knudsen.

Lincoln: Good plan.

Me: Lets fly!

We were off to Camp Little Big Moose in the Ozark mountains of West Virginia.

---

CAMP LITTLE BIG MOOSE, OZARKS, WEST VIRGINIA

---

We arrived at the camp and we were waiting in the trees and hiding in the shadows.

Burt: Thank you all for coming.

Maria: You're welcome Burt.

Fred: It's good to see you again Burt and you too Jessica.

Burt: Thanks Fred.

We were hiding in the trees and we had a long wait. Maria did water sport activities, Riku did arts and crafts, Venom did Fishing, William did survival skills, Stewie did Technical Skills, and Elena did Rafting and ziplining.

Me: So far so good.

We waited and at dark at 8:00 PM we saw two figures creeping around the camp.

Me: Is that them?

I put on my Night Vision Binoculars and saw that the figures were Ranger Knudsen and Babyface Boretti.

Me: That's them, lets get them.

We went at them as they were digging and we jumped them and I punched Babyface Boretti in the face and sent him into a mud pool.

He got up and he saw me.

Me: Its been a long time Babyface Boretti.

Babyface Boretti: Do I know you?

Me: Don't you remember? I was only 10 years old when me and Mystery Inc. busted you and sent you back to the Stony Lonesome.

Babyface Boretti: Wait a second. Yes I remember you now. You're J.D. Knudson. And you have become the world famous leader of Team Loud Phoenix Storm.

Me: That's right. I don't know how you escaped from that maximum security prison, but you will never escape again when we're through with you.

Babyface Boretti: What do you mean?

Me: There will plenty of gold where you're going.

Muscle Man: You know who else is named after a baby? My mom!

I fired an energy blast and it enveloped Babyface Boretti and exploded. Killing him.

The explosion woke everyone and they saw us.

Burt: What's going on here?

Me: We have a couple of escaped prisoners here. The one I killed over there was escaped gangster Babyface Boretti. He escaped from prison earlier this morning. And I believe you know this face.

Burt: I sure do. That's ranger Knudsen.

Me: Yep. Funny thing is, we both have almost the same name. Except his name has an E and I have an O.

Burt: They do sound alike huh?

Nico: No kidding. Except they're spelled differently.

Kid 1: WHOA! That's Team Loud Phoenix Storm!

Kid 2: Wow! You guys are our heroes!

Kid 3: We love you guys! You're awesome!

Me: Good to know we have some fans.

William: (To Ranger Knudsen) You know what? Unlike your buddy, we're throwing you in prison. That way, we can run some D.N.A. test to see if you and J.D. really are related.

Me: Lets get him!

Troy Burrows: Burt, you and the campers are in for a treat.

Megaforce Rangers: Legendary Ranger Mode: Zeo!

The Megaforce Power Rangers turned into the Zeo Power Rangers!

Kid 1: Whoa! The Megaforce Power Rangers are real!

Kid 2: AWESOME!

Kid 3: That is amazing!

Gia Moran: Looks like we're going to have some fans when this is over.

Emma Goodall: You said it.

Me: You guys all have been very popular for 26+ years. And that's just in America. Lets get him!

We went at Ranger Knudsen and I punched him in the face and Lola bit him in the leg and Nico kicked him in the stomach and Hunter bashed him in the face and broke his nose.

Velma: Hit on me, will you?

POW!

Velma punched him in the face.

The Megaforce Rangers punched him all over the place.

Me: Lets show him some of our combos!

Shockwave: You got it boss! CYBER KEY POWER!

The Earth Cyber Planet Key went into his back and enhanced his laser gun 100-fold.

Miranda (W.I.T.C.H.): Pain is my favorite word! ANIMATRON CYBER KEY POWER!

The Animatron Cyber Planet Key went into her right arm device and enhanced her strength and powers 100-fold. Miranda turned into a spider.

Shockwave and Miranda (W.I.T.C.H): LASER SPIDER WEBSHOT!

Shockwave fired a powerful barrage of lasers and Miranda fired a powerful barrage of web and they hit the ground behind Ranger Knudsen and exploded.

KRABBBBBBBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOO

Wheeljack: Time for some awesome action! CYBER KEY POWER!

The Earth Cyber Planet Key went into his back and enhanced his Shoulder Cannons 100-fold.

Spiderman: Time for this Spider to strike! SPIDER CYBER KEY POWER!

The Spiderman Cyber Planet Key went into his right arm and it enhanced his web powers 100-fold.

Wheeljack and Spiderman: WEB SLING MISSILESTORM!

Spiderman fired powerful webbing and Wheeljack fired missiles and they hit behind Ranger Knudsen and exploded.

KRABBBBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOMMMM!

Me: Lets show them some of our final smashes!

Muscle Man: Righto man! You know who else likes to pulverize bad guys? MY MOM! TRAILER SUPERSLAM PUNCH!

Muscle Man formed his fist into a trailer and punched Ranger Knudsen in the face and sent him crashing into the ground and into the mud pool.

Velma: This is for hitting on me! BOOKSTORM WORD PUNCH!

Velma formed a cloud of books and they fired laser words at Ranger Knudsen and exploded.

KRABBBBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOMMMMMMM

Laney: Lets tie this clod up! BRAMBLE VINE CONSTRICTION!

Laney formed a bunch of bramble vines and they wrapped around Ranger Knudsen and he was in a lot of pain.

After the fight we had Ranger Knudsen arrested.

Me: Lets see if the DNA Test will reveal it.

I took some of my blood and his blood and we compared it. It was not a match.

Me: It's not a match. Good.

Nico: Ranger Knudsen and Babyface Borreti have failed this world.

Me: Yep.

Everyone cheered wildly for us.

Velma: (To the viewers) Never mess with the smartest girl of Mystery Inc. or there will be trouble.

Me: You said it Velma.

We went to searching for the treasure of the gangsters and we found it and it was a massive treasure and there were trillions of dollars in cash, gold and more. We gave it back to the country and the world. Ranger Knudsen was sentenced to life in the Antarctica Prison in solitary confinement.

Scooby Doo in Camp Scare was awesome! No I did not bust a gangster in real life. But that would be cool if I did. NicoChan11 gave me the ideas for this. Thanks man. Let me know what you all think. Next up is a battle with Dark Kat of Swat Kats and I have a special surprise for you all. Dark Kat is gonna pay for ruining the Swat Kats careers in the Enforcers.

See you all tomorrow.

Death to Dark Kat

The U.S.S. Valorous Phoenix was heading through space.

Me: Captain's Log, Stardate 2773.3: The U.S.S. Valorous Phoenix is en route to the planet Magix, 83,034 light-years away from Earth. We're going to visit the academy that the Winx Club went to and see what it was like for them.

Lincoln: This is gonna be so awesome!

Rachel S.D.: You will love it Lincoln. This is also where we learned to use our magic.

Bloom: That's right. It took a long while to get to where we're at.

Tecna: (British Accent) Indeed.

Rachel (Animorphs): I never thought that a school for fairies and magic existed.

Me: It's really cool.

Prowl: I think we should consider that there are more of your enemies out there then just Valtor, Darkor, and the Trix.

Me: Noted. If they attack, we will kill them. We have arrived.

We arrived at the planet Magix. It was a beautiful planet.

We landed and we were in front of Alfea Academy.

---

Alfea is an ancient school for fairies, and apparently the only one dedicated to fairy education only. The Alfea students are mostly in training ages 16-18 (unless they have been held back a grade like Stella, so in her case, 19). Fairies here learn how to control their power, fight evil, learn new spells as well as be guardians of their planets, or in many cases, learn how to be their realms' queens. In Season 4, it is here that the Winx, after graduating, taught for a short period of time.

Education

The fairy students come to college here to learn how to cast spells, create enchanted auras, and make magical potions. Potionology, metamorphosis, metamorphosymbiosis, magiphilosophy, biotrasformation, magiphysics, cognitive analysis, applied convergence, magic invocation, magic self defense, history of magic, and good manners… are among the complex subjects taught in the college by very skilled, strict and demanding teachers. Thanks to these lessons, the aspiring teenage fairies learn how to use and improve their powers in order to fight against evil in the name of equality, brotherhood and justice. The Alfea students live within the college itself, which has an enormous, well-stocked library, classrooms, and a Magical Archive where the most important secrets of Magix are kept. The education in Alfea lasts 3 years, one for each Fairy Form in the journey of an aspiring full-fledged fairy.

In the Past

When Mavilla was headmistress of Alfea, owning and exhibiting the strengths of one's Fairy Animal was considered a vital part of a fairy education. Everything taught was a reflection of the contents of the Tome of Nature. Eventually, Mavilla realized Alfea was like a big cage to Fairy Animals and the current curriculum prohibited them from living freely. At another point in time, Eldora was keeper of the Alfea Greenhouse and taught floral magic.

First Year

Freshmen fairies learn how to master their own source of power, as well as their Winx, and learn many basic spells they can use in their daily life as well as spells cast spontaneously and on instinct. Learning how to change one's appearance in metamorphosis class and making potions in Potionology are part of this year's education. Fairies also learn how to explore diverse environments or complete certain tasks in the Simulation Room. Choosing one of the two prompts is a fairy's midterm. Some training exercises are also required.

Second Year

In their cognitive analysis class, fairies increase their magicial abilities by learning technical incantations, spells requiring cognitive analysis and accurate pronunciation. Other classes include magic invocation, which teaches the practice of making magic through technical charms, magic self-defense, which teaches how to defend oneself through the use of spells, and applied convergence, which teaches how to effectively combine powers. They also have the goal of earning Charmix, a power-up that will temporarily boost their energy.

Third Year

After spring break, fairies are tasked with their final exam; earning Enchantix, the Final Fairy Form in a fairy's formal educational journey to become a full-fledged fairy. Those who achieve Enchantix will participate in training exercises to hone their abilities.

Graduation

After earning Enchantix, the basic fairy education is completed and they will receive the titles of Guardian Fairies of their respective homeworlds.

School Building

Alfea's hallway.

Its campus is a large castle with pink walls and blue roofs built around a courtyard itself having a well that leads to underground tunnels linking the three schools of Magix together.

Inside the Library.

The classrooms, school hospital and kitchen and school hall are mostly located on ground level, while the rooms of the staff members and the dormitories of the students are on the first floor. On the first floor, there is also the library, the office of the headmistress, and the school archives, found in one of the towers of the castle and guarded by the Pixie Concorda.

Alfea is surrounded by a barrier spell which prevents non-magical beings from entering the premises of the school and, in times of danger, another barrier which prevents enemies from entering, like in Season 3 against Valtor and in the first movie against Mandragora.

Locations

The School Gates are the only access to the school compound. They consist of a large pink archway with two wing-like doors that move to open or close the gates.

Alfea used to have a crest when Faragonda was still a student. The crest was a curved golden "A" on a purple and blue flower with a golden outline at the top of the school gates. The crest was placed just above Alfea's gate. The "A" of the crest is also seen on what used to be the school's uniform. By the time the Winx had joined Alfea, the crest had been removed and replaced with an orb of the same color as the school walls.

The non-forested area around the castle is used by the students to spend their time or for classes.

Central Courtyard

The Central Courtyard is a large open space at the center of the school, which is built around it. It contains:

Benches where students can sit and spend their free time.

A Well through which the tunnels connecting Alfea, Red Fountain and Cloud Tower to each other can be accessed. As it is shown in Faraway Reflection, when the moonlight shines on it, the well opens a portal, which leads to another dimension with lots water, where the map of the Infinite Ocean can be seen.

A Public Square where functions such as the beginning of year and graduation ceremonies are done. It also serves as a landing space for Red Fountain ships.

Ground Floor

The Classrooms are found on the ground floor around the central courtyard. The students learn most of their subjects there.

The Potions Laboratory is where the Fairies learn to prepare potions.

The School Kitchen is where the food for the students and staff of Alfea is prepared. Students may also be assigned to do the cooking as chores or as punishment. Chef Sfoglia works there.

The Entrance Hall is a large room found at the end of the School Courtyard, opposite the School Gates, and it is accessed from the outside by a set of stairs. The Entrance hall opens into corridors through which the classrooms can be accessed and it has a stairway from which the upper parts of the school can be accessed.

The School Hall is a large room found on the ground floor. It has a large dome of glass as its outer wall and there are long tables where the students have their breakfast, lunch, and dinner. It has a special tier for staff members. Parties and balls are often held there and during such occasions, the tables are removed to make a place for the festivities. A large glass dome is the School Hall's outer wall. It is found below the Headmistress' Office and next to the Entrance Hall.

The School Hospital is where students are treated in case of health problems and injuries. It is composed of an office and of a resting room with many beds. It is managed by Nurse Ofelia and her assistant.

The School Museum is where various things from the history of Magix are displayed. It has a Fashion History section.

The Greenhouse is where many species of magical plants are grown at Alfea, possibly for use in magic classes or in potion-making. Eldora used to teach magical botany there but after she left the school it was abandoned and became a secret location.

The History of Fashion Room is where beautiful clothes are preserved with age changer spells.

The Music Cafe is where students can sit and have a drink while listening to music being played on the stage and play some themselves.

The Alfea Underfloors is where mystical, ancient relics are kept, which includes the statues of the Alfea Champions.

The Hall of Memories, formerly known as the Hall of Fairy Animals, is where the Stone of Memories and a natural source of Wild Magic were kept.

Costume Depository

Magical Labyrinth

First Floor

The Dormitories are where the belongings of the students are kept and where their bedrooms are found. They have bathrooms included in them and is assumed that they also have all the other facilities that the students need for their daily lives. The students spend a considerable amount of their time in their dormitories, doing homework or their hobbies or spending time with their classmates.

The Staff Quarters are where the teachers and the other staff members of the school have their personal living space. Some teachers might share their quarters like the students.

The Headmistress's Office is where the Headmistress of Alfea does the formal work of the school and where she attends official visitors. There is also a magic mirror there through which the whole school can be seen and there is a communication device that is used to communicate with the headteachers of the other schools of magic.

Offices belonging to other staff members can be found on the first floor. Griselda has an office there.

The Hall of Enchantments is a secret part of Alfea that only the staff of Alfea can access. According to Headmistress Faragonda, it is the heart of Alfea. It contains:

A library containing everything about magic and its history.

A hall where the portraits of all the enemies of the Magic Dimension can be found.

The Simulation Room is where virtual simulations take place by using the Simulator, a very powerful computer that combines technology and magic. It can also be used to teleport people to other locations and there is an amphitheater with an office where slideshows can be done. Professor Palladium is the one who is in charge of the Simulation Chamber. According to Professor Palladium, the people using the chamber can experience the situations in the certain environment.

The School Amphitheater is where the students sometimes attend the school assembly and where general meetings are often held, especially in crisis times. Students may also take part in activities such as dance practice and rehearsing there. There is a table with chairs around it where staff members sit. Exams may also be held there. especially practical ones.

The School Library is where many books about various topics can be found. It has its own magical research system. Miss Barbatea is the Librarian.

The Golden Gate is where the most precious and important magic knowledge of Alfea is stored. It contains many books and scrolls written by ancient and powerful sorcerers.

Rooms can be found on the first floor where guests and other people may live. The Winx obtain their room when they return to Alfea in Season 5.

The Fairy Clock Room is where Sirenix Fairies can use their powers to relive the past and reveal Time's secrets.

There are balconies adjoined to the student dormitories and the staff quarters.

History of Magic Room

Towers

There are two towers in Alfea.

The North Tower is where the Magic Archive of Alfea is found. Precious and rare books about many things can be found there and the school's Codex used to be kept there. A Pixie, named Concorda, is the keeper of the Secret Archives.

The Southwest Tower is a tower mentioned in Season 2.

There is a viewpoint on one of the towers.

Other

There are underground tunnels which connect Alfea to the other magical schools and which were used in ancient times if the schools were attacked. Also, it was used in Season 1 Episode 3 when the Trix used it to ruined the Red Fountain gifts for the 1st year fairies and get Stella's ring.

There is a large forest around Alfea which is used for tests, exams, and training. It is unknown if these parts of the forest belong to the school or not.

The Alfea Natural Park, which is a refuge for Fairy Animals, is found in the forest.

There is as bus stop where students, guests and staff members can take buses from and to Magix City and to other places in Magix.

There is an Aviary in Alfea that can be accessed by magical means since it is larger than the school building. It is similar to a giant open-air garden where giant flowers and giant birds, such as the giant eagles, can be found. Although only magic can open the aviary, the people inside it cannot use magic spells, so they cannot do anything but understand the inhabitants for survival.

* * *

Bloom: Welcome to Alfea, guys.

Me: It's amazing.

Nico: This is awesome!

Vince: It sure is.

Rachel S.D.: Lets show you around.

We went into the building and it was amazing. Ms. Faragonda was showing us around.

Elena: Ms. Faragonda, I'd like to say that the Winx Club have been good friends ever since we met them.

Ms. Faragonda: (British Accent) I'm glad they all have good friends with all of you.

Me: Thank you.

Brawl: I just hope the witches of Cloud Tower look up to us as well.

Me: Me too.

Later we went back to Earth.

---

When we got back to Earth we found out that Dark Kat was back and was plotting to destroy the whole city.

---

Dark Kat is a wanted mastermind and his goal is to destroy Megakat City to create a new lawless town called "Dark Kat City". Being highly intelligent and calculating, Dark Kat often anticipated his foes' actions with great accuracy and it was a recurring theme throughout the series that all of his hideouts were rigged with explosives. His attempt to bomb the Enforcer headquarters indirectly led to Chance and Jake's fallout with the Enforcers and the birth of the SWAT Kats.

---

We were heading towards Dark Kat's Hideout to destroy him and put an end to him once and for all.

In his volcano hideout, Dark Kat was on the phone with someone.

?: So, Team Loud Phoenix Storm is heading towards your position?

Dark Kat: Yes. But they and the Legion of Doom are unaware of our plan.

?: Make sure it stays that way on your end. You might be heading to your death. But that won't matter in the end.

Dark Kat: That's right. And Spicer is going to be the first one to go. (hangs up)

As we were flying, the Swat Kats were with us and they had a new member with them. Her name is Alexis Catnip A.K.A. Kira. She is an orphan girl that Chance and Jake adopted and she was made into the Swat Kat Kira. She is very skilled and powerful in Martial Arts and technology.

Kira: This Dark Kat sounds dangerous!

Me: He's the worst Alexis. He wants to destroy all of the city and make a new city of lawlessness.

Kira: That's terrible!

Me: We won't let him do that. He's also the very monster that ruined the jobs of the Swat Kats. This was before they became the Swat Kats.

Razor: That's right.

Lincoln: That's evil.

Nico: He has failed this whole world.

Me: Yep. Not only that but the Enforcers have been after Dark Kat for years.

Nico: Wow.

Me: I know. But this time we finish him for good.

Lucy Loud: Let's get all of the gear from Dark Kat's hideout.

Me: Good thinking.

Aylene C.: Dark Kat is a monster. We need to get rid of him for good.

In Dark Kat's volcano hideout, Dark Kat was getting ready.

A Massive fiery explosion blasted a hole through the roof and a phoenix cry was heard as we arrived on the scene.

Dark Kat: Team Loud Phoenix Storm and the Swat Kats. How pleasant of you all to arrive. I see you have the real Jack Spicer with you.

Me: And we've come to kill you Dark Kat. You will pay for your crimes.

Dark Kat: So you're all really serious on destroying people like me? Does that include Jack Spicer as well?

Nico: Of course not. Jack's proven that there's good in his heart. The only reason he isn't with us is because he's insecure about himself.

Raimundo: (scoffs) Yeah, right.

Omi: Apologies, Nico. But I might have to disagree with you on that statement.

Dark Kat: (chuckles) I think you're going to change your mind about Jack Spicer in a few more days.

Me: What are you saying?

Dark Kat: Oh I wouldn't want to spoil the surprise. I see that you have a new teammate with you Swat Kats.

T-bone: That's our business!

Me: Lets get this creep!

We powered up and transformed.

Troy Burrows: Time to take this guy out with our Samurai powers!

Megaforce Rangers: Legenary Ranger Mode: Samurai!

The Megaforce Power Rangers turned into the Super Samurai Rangers.

T Bone: I killed Rex Shard. And now, I'll try to kill you!

Me: We all will.

We went at Dark Kat and his Creeplings and I punched him in the face and Lincoln fired a powerful blast of lightning and electrocuted them into ash and Lola fired a powerful blast of fire and incinerated them. I punched Dark Kat in the stomach and Nico kicked him in the face and Laney entangled him in vines and slammed him into the ground. Kira fired powerful match head missiles and they hit Dark Kat and exploded. It burned him all over with the power of 20 pounds of napalm. Linka fired a powerful blast of lightning and electrocuted him and Oceanus Shenron fired a powerful barrage of air energy balls and they hit Dark Kat and exploded all over. Aylene fired powerful blasts of fire and burned him and Luna drenched him with water. Lucy Loud fired a powerful blast of black lightning and electrocuted him and he saw what he fired the most and that was the power of Justice. Marinette kicked him in the face and Adrien punched him in the face. The Megaforce Power Rangers slashed them with elemental blades from their swords and they kicked him and punched him in the face. Dark Kat was getting savagely overwhelmed.

Me: I've had it with this freak! Lets finish him.

Razor: With pleasure.

Brawl: You got it boss! CYBER KEY POWER!

The Gigantion Cyber Planet Key went into his back and enhanced his electron gun 100-fold.

Elena: Lets get him! GIGANTION CYBER KEY POWER!

The Gigantion Cyber Planet Key went into her right arm device and enhanced her lightning powers 100-fold.

Brawl and Elena: SUPER LIGHTNING DEATH RAY!

They both fired a powerful blast of lightning and it hit Dark Kat and electrocuted him all over.

Rachel (Animorphs): Time for some real pain! ANIMATRON CYBER KEY POWER!

The Animatron Cyber Planet Key went into her right arm device and enhanced her powers 100-fold.

Prowl: Time for some serious pain! CYBER KEY POWER!

The Autobot Cyber Planet Key went into his back and enhanced his missiles 100-fold

Animorphs Rachel and Prowl: DRAGON FIRE NAPALM BURNBLAST!

Rachel turned into a fire breathing dragon and breathed fire and Prowl fired powerful missiles and the blasts hit Dark Kat and exploded.

Me: Time to finish you for good Dark Kat.

Lincoln: You got it! LIGHTNING DRAGON FIST!

Lincoln flared up his fist with powerful lightning and it turned into a deadly dragon and he punched Dark Kat and electrocuted him all over.

T-Bone: This is for costing us our jobs at the Enforcers and sending us to the salvage yard! MATCH HEAD MISSILE FIRESTORM BARRAGE!

T-Bone fired a massive barrage of match head missiles and they lit on fire and slammed into Dark Kat and exploded with fire and more.

Lucy Loud: Now you will never come back! NIZOGAMOURNE DAMNED SWORD SLASH!

Lucy Loud flared up the blade of Nizogamourne in black fire and she slashed Dark Kat and cleaved him in half right down the middle and killed him instantly and sent his evil spirit into the River of Fire.

Me: Good riddance.

Nico: Dark Kat, you have failed this world.

T-Bone: And we now can fix our lives.

Me: Yep.

Kira: This was awesome!

Me: It was. You did really well for your first time as a Swat Kat, Alexis.

Kira: Thanks J.D.

Lucy Loud: (To the viewers) Not even a villain like Dark Kat is a match for the power of Team Loud Phoenix Storm.

Me: You said it Lucy.

We took all of Dark Kat's equipment and integrated it with ours.

Another Fanfiction complete and the 3rd Swat Kats Villains destroyed.

Dark Kat was the worst villain ever in the Swat Kats world. He was terrifying. This chapter was made as a tribute to Brock Peters who was the voice of Dark Kat. He also voiced Lord Bloth of Pirates Of Dark Water. He died of Pancreatic Cancer.

R.I.P. Brock Peters - July 2, 1927 to August 23, 2005.

NicoChan11 gave me the ideas for this. Thanks man. Let me know what you all think. The next Swat Kats Villains we're going after later on is Dr. Viper and we're going to make that snake suffer. Next up is another Goosebumps Villain. We're going after the mutant from Attack Of The Mutant. Get ready for an awesome fight against a renegade hero.

Attack of the Shapeshifting Mutant

In a room at Hogwarts, I was interrogating the infamous Bartemius "Barty" Crouch Jr., Son of British Ministry of Magic councilman Bartemius Crouch Sr.

---

Bartemius "Barty" Crouch Junior (c. 1962 - 1995) was a British wizard and the son of Bartemius Crouch Senior. He became an ardent follower of Lord Voldemort in order to become a Death Eater and Dark Wizard in his teenage years. He was the first escapee of Azkaban prison in its almost 300 year history, though only his father, late mother and the family house-elf knew until 1994.

In 1981, shortly after Voldemort's first defeat, Crouch allegedly participated in the capture and torture of Frank and Alice Longbottom along with the Lestranges, using the Cruciatus Curse to drive the two Aurors to insanity. Crouch and his comrades were sentenced to life imprisonment in Azkaban for their crimes by his own father.

Crouch and his parents hatched a plot under which Crouch's mother would take his place in Azkaban, using the Polyjuice Potion to disguise herself. She died and was buried in Azkaban, with the result that the wizarding world believed that Crouch himself was dead. Crouch spent the following years living under his father's Imperius Curse. He eventually broke free with the help of Voldemort, who had learned that Crouch was still alive, and again entered the Dark Lord's service

Disguised as Alastor Moody, former Auror and the new Defence Against the Dark Arts professor at Hogwarts during the 1994-1995 school year. In this role, Crouch fixed the Triwizard Tournament so that Harry Potter was chosen as a champion, and turned the Triwizard Cup into a Portkey that transported Harry and Cedric Diggory to Voldemort. Shortly afterwards, his identity was exposed, and Crouch was given the Dementor's Kiss by a Dementor that

Cornelius Fudge had brought along with him.

Barty was born in around 1962 or 1963 into the influential pure-blood Crouch family, which had strong connections to the Ministry of Magic. Bartemius Crouch Senior's intent on catching Dark Wizards and becoming Minister for Magic likely played a role in him not paying enough attention to his son. It is very possible that this had an influence on the younger Barty's life choices. His mother, Mrs Crouch, was a "wispy looking witch" who dearly loved him. According to Mr Crouch, young Barty had achieved twelve O.W.L.s, though Crouch was delirious when claiming it.

Allegiance with Death Eaters

Barty took the Dark Mark in his late teens, and after Lord Voldemort's first defeat in 1981, he worked with Death Eaters searching for their fallen master. He was captured with Bellatrix, Rodolphus, and Rabastan Lestrange after they tortured the Aurors Alice and Frank Longbottom with the Cruciatus Curse, driving the couple into insanity. Barty and the other Death Eaters were brought to trial before the Council of Magical Law, over which his father presided.

Barty was insistent on his innocence, claiming he had not taken part in the crimes, and begged his father before the entire assembled Council and witnesses such as Rita Skeeter and his mother to clear him of the charges. Barty's father headed the Department of Magical Law Enforcement at the time and was under extreme pressure to appear to be punishing the terrorism perpetrated by Lord Voldemort's Death Eaters.

Imprisonment in Azkaban and escape

Barty's father chose to make a public example of his son, and sentenced him to a term of life imprisonment in Azkaban at the age of eighteen or nineteen. According to Sirius Black, the trial was no more than an excuse to show how much the father hated the child, as the elder Crouch went as far as to drown out his son's voice by shouting the announcement of sentencing, and Barty was screaming inside his cell for his mother for the first few days, but then quieted down from the extreme depressive influence of the Dementors, as did many other prisoners. Barty already looked in poor health when he was brought in, as Sirius described.

One year later, his mother's health had deteriorated drastically from the stress of her son's imprisonment, as did Barty's own from the severe depression inflicted by the prison. The couple were allowed to visit due to Bartemius Snr's high status in the Ministry and as Mrs Crouch's dying wish. She persuaded her husband to help smuggle their son out of Azkaban by swapping him for his mother. Using Polyjuice Potion, and undetected by the blind Dementors, Mrs Crouch took the place of her son. She died a short time later, and was buried outside the fortress under the guise of her son.

Imprisonment with his father

Bartemius Jnr was brought back to the family household, where he was nursed back to health by their house-elf Winky. Revitalised, Barty's only goal is to search for his master, which he made no efforts to hide from his father. Bartemius Snr, overcame with grief and guilt, sought long and hard to subjugate his wayward son, to protect his son's existence secret from public and to prevent him searching Voldemort. In the end, the elder Crouch was forced to use the Imperius Curse on his son when he found no other methods capable of the feat of controlling him, and forced him to hide under an Invisibility cloak at all times. Winky was assigned to become caretaker and keeper, where she would constantly tried to persuade his father to reward him for good behaviour (even if it was only a byproduct of the Imperius Curse).

Bertha Jorkins, a Ministry of Magic employee, accidentally discovered the truth when she came unannounced to the Crouch home and discovered their secret. Bartemius Snr rectified this with a Memory Charm so powerful that she suffered permanent brain damage. Shortly thereafter, Peter Pettigrew ran into Bertha while searching for Voldemort. In the hopes that she would prove useful to him, Peter tricked her into going with him. She ended up proving very useful to Voldemort; not only did he extract the whereabouts of his loyal servant, but also gathered information on the Triwizard Tournament, which was to be held at Hogwarts. Voldemort murdered Bertha, and the Ministry deemed her "missing" for months.

Rejoining the Dark Lord

Barty was sent to the 1994 Quidditch World Cup under cover of the Invisibility Cloak along with their elf, Winky. Winky knew that Barty had always loved Quidditch and persuaded his father to allow him to go out and have some fresh air. Barty's mother, after all, wanted him to have freedom. Barty's seat, by chance, was in the top box directly behind the seats of Harry Potter and Ron Weasley. During the Quidditch match, Barty broke free of the Imperius Curse his father had placed on him. Denied of free will and magic for so long, he stole Harry's wand, which was in view poking out of the boy's back pocket. Winky did not see this, as she was so afraid of heights in the sky box that she covered her eyes for the entire Quidditch match.

After the World Cup was through, Barty launched the Dark Mark into the sky over the campgrounds in reaction to the free Death Eaters making sport of Muggles. His anger stemmed from their lack of initiative in finding their master, which he yearned to do and yet was unable. Ministry officials fired multiple Stunning Spells through the woods, crisscrossing the area where Barty and Winky had been, rendering them both unconscious and breaking the spell Winky had used to bind Barty to her in the chaos. Winky was dismissed for being found with Harry's wand, which was proven to have produced the Dark Mark, as well as her guardianship being proven unreliable due to Barty Jr acquiring a wand and nearly escaping. Bartemius Snr found his son's unconscious body behind the bushes, and recasted the Imperius Curse on him after the other officials left, and the two returned home.

Left alone in the house with only father and son, one night shortly after the Dark Mark incident, Peter Pettigrew and Lord Voldemort suddenly appeared at the home. Voldemort needed a loyal follower to help him regain power, and easily managed to free Barty from his father's imprisonment. They put Bartemius Snr under the Imperius Curse and forced him to keep working at the Ministry as he usually would.

Disguised as Alastor Moody

As part of his servitude as a Death Eater, Barty was charged with infiltrating Hogwarts Castle, entering Harry's name into the Goblet of Fire and guiding him through the Triwizard Tournament without having appeared to do so. Barty accomplished this by breaking into former Auror Alastor "Mad-Eye" Moody's home and kidnapping him. He created Polyjuice Potion from Alastor's hair and concealed the Auror in his own magical trunk. He then proceeded to take over Alastor's job at Hogwarts, teaching Defence Against the Dark Arts. He was able to maintain his disguise for months undetected by consistently sipping the potion from a hip flask; he did so in plain view of students and staff, and it was generally assumed that this was due to intense paranoia. He kept Moody alive under the Imperius Curse to continue harvesting hair for the Polyjuice Potion, and to question him about his personality, behaviour and knowledge, in order to make the act more convincing.

Upon entering Hogwarts' Start-of-Term Feast with Moody's appearance, he received applause only from Dumbledore and Hagrid, both of whom stopped quickly after realising that absolutely nobody else clapped, as everyone was too fixated on Barty's scarred facade. Barty then ignored the jug of Pumpkin Juice on the High Table and instead took a swig out of Moody's flask, administering a new dosage of the Polyjuice Potion while upholding his disguise's personality of fearing of being poisoned by food prepared by others.

Barty used his time at Hogwarts to gain the trust of the students and staff at Hogwarts. During his first lesson for a group of fourth year students, he demonstrated all three Unforgivable Curses on three different spiders and controversially, later also the Imperius Curse on the students themselves, although he claimed to have had permission to do so, in order to teach them how to overcome it. As a teacher, Barty (under the guise as Alastor) was actually quite effective. Despite his ulterior motives, his teaching of how to overcome curses such as the Imperius was valuable with Harry Potter, who gained the ability to resist even Lord Voldemort himself as a result of this training. He was also a strict teacher, as he kept his students working until the end of the classes despite most of them being distracted by the Christmas festivities.

Assisting Harry Potter

While an effective and popular teacher, Barty was not at Hogwarts to mould future wizards. He entered Harry Potter's name under a fourth school into the Goblet of Fire, confusing it with a powerful Confundus Charm to ensure Harry's placement for Lord Voldemort's gain under a fourth school, ensuring he would be chosen as he was the only entry for said school. Barty subtly helped Harry throughout the three phases of the tournament. He nudged Rubeus Hagrid into showing Harry the dragons, later suggesting that Harry play to his strengths to pass the task and thus giving Harry the idea of using a broomstick to accomplish it.

He advised Cedric Diggory into telling Harry how to work out the golden egg clue, knowing that he would repay Harry for telling about the dragons. He also planted the book Magical Mediterranean Water Plants and Their Properties onto Neville Longbottom early on, hoping that Neville would tell him about gillyweed for the underwater task. With Harry's own pride and independent streak standing in the way of the plan, Barty had to improvise. Remembering that Harry mentioned having an elf friend named Dobby who gave him socks for Christmas, Barty called Dobby into the staffroom and staged a loud discussion with Professor McGonagall about gillyweed, right in front of Dobby. The house-elf responded by stealing the plant from Severus Snape's personal stores and giving it to Harry on the day of the task.

During the events surrounding the Tournament, Bartemius Snr escaped from his home and apparated near Hogwarts, where he wandered in his confusion in search of Dumbledore, planning on confessing about how he smuggled his son from Azkaban. Voldemort immediately sent an owl to Hogwarts warning Barty Jr that his father would likely show up at Hogwarts. Bartemius Snr came upon Harry and Viktor Krum, but by then, he was so delusional and insane that he was unable to clearly convey anything beyond what appeared to be ramblings about his son and Bertha. The former went to the castle to fetch Albus. Barty Jr, having kept an eye on the Marauder's Map he borrowed from Potter, arrived at the scene before anyone else, and waited for Harry to leave before he stunned Viktor, and killed his father. He transfigured his father's body into a bone and buried it in front of Rubeus' cabin.

Before the third and final task of the Tournament, Barty volunteered to place the Triwizard Cup in a maze through which the contestants were to navigate. He took advantage of this opportunity to turn the Triwizard Cup into a Portkey. As he patrolled around the labyrinth hedge, he stunned Fleur Delacour and used the Imperius Curse on Viktor to get rid of Cedric, but Viktor was stunned by Harry. Nonetheless, Harry got to the Cup, along with Cedric, transporting them to the Little Hangleton graveyard when they grasped it together. It was at this time that Peter performed the ritual to restore Lord Voldemort's physical body, using Harry's blood, Peter's own hand, and Tom Riddle Snr's bone from the grave.

Exposure and the Dementor's Kiss

When Harry escaped the graveyard and returned to Hogwarts, Barty ushered him away from the panicking crowd to interrogate him about Voldemort's return. He revealed to Harry that it was he all along who guided him through the Tournament; he put his name in the Goblet of Fire, got Hagrid to show the dragons, explained the Golden egg to Cedric knowing he would tell Harry, bewitched Viktor Krum and stunned Fleur Delacour. Barty then planned on killing Harry and being honoured above the rest of Voldemort's followers.

But before he could, Albus, accompanied by Minerva and Severus, fired a Stunner at him, having realised that he was not Alastor when he removed Harry from his sight - his one slip-up. After the Polyjuice Potion wore off, Barty confessed everything to Albus under the influence of Veritaserum, a strong truth potion.

However, before he could testify before the Wizengamot, Barty suffered a fate worse than death, receiving the Dementor's Kiss by a Dementor that Minister for Magic Cornelius Fudge brought with him. Cornelius regarded Barty as a raving lunatic, believing that he merely thought that he was acting for Voldemort and thus was not convinced that the Dark Lord was back. What happened to Barty Jr's empty body is unknown, although it is possible that Crouch died sometime in the mid-1990s.

Me and Nico and Harry Potter were his interrogators.

Me: So you are the infamous Barty Crouch Jr., son of British Ministry of Magic's Barty Crouch Sr. One of Voldemort's loyal followers that disguised himself as Mad Eye Moody and made Harry Potter join the Triwizard Tournament by falsely putting his name in the Goblet of Fire and using that whole tournament as a trap to lure Harry Potter to resurrect Voldemort. And also the first ever prisoner to escape from Azkaban in over 300 years.

Barty Crouch Jr.: (Roars)

I used a Force Blast to push him back and into a chair and Nico tied him down.

Barty Crouch Jr.: (British Accent) You think you have me all figured out. Lord Voldemort will return and he will kill all of you filthy muggleborn wizards!

Me: Along with 7.3 billion innocent people. What he is gonna do will result in the extinction of the entire human race.

Nico: Voldemort will die by our hands. Just like you will.

Harry Potter: (British Accent) You used me that whole time.

Me: And he will pay for it. He will die.

Barty Crouch Jr.: Go ahead and kill me. All of my brethren will be broken out of Azkaban soon and we will come after the Horcruxes and resurrect Lord Voldemort.

Me: (Smirk) I don't think so. Your fucked up friends are dead. Me and Nico here killed every last one of them.

Nico: They all have failed this world just like you have.

Me: And another thing, we're not gonna kill you. Not until after some friends have their fun.

Barty Crouch Jr.: What do you mean?

Me: Get him boys!

The Dementors appeared and used the Dementor's Kiss on him and he screamed in pain as his soul was sucked out. We had sadistic looks on our faces as we watched the Dementors killed him.

After Barty Crouch Jr. was turned into a Dementor, I had my hand in his face.

Me: Hell is too good for you. HAKAI.

I obliterated him from existence forever. His soul and physical body were gone forever.

Harry Potter: Good riddance.

Me: Glad we never have to see that fucker again. How Barty Crouch Sr. had him for a son is beyond me.

Nico: I know.

Me: But just so you know, all Death Eaters are fucked up shitsuckers.

Nico: You said it.

We left the interrogation room and we saw Draco, Crabbe and Goyle shaking in fear.

Me: Do you three see that? What you saw was a small demonstration of the deadliest of all techniques. You keep following that path, you're next.

Everyone: YEAH!

Lincoln: And they are not bluffing!

Me: You tell them buddy!

Lincoln then came down.

Lincoln: And Draco, add these to your collection!

Lincoln pulled down Draco's pants and exposed that he was wearing women's underwear!

We saw them and laughed hysterically!

Ravenclaw girl: (British Accent) Those are mine!

Daphne Greengrass: (British Accent) And he has all of these.

Daphne Greengrass came back with a drawer full of women's underwear all from under Draco Malfoy's mattress.

Me: Surprise surprise.

Lincoln: Looks like we have a perverted fetish here.

Me: Ladies, rip him apart.

Susan Bones: (British Accent) With pleasure!

They cracked their knuckles went at Draco and pulverized him all over the place and bit him and slapped him. We left before things got ugly. We heard Draco Malfoy's screams of pain all over the place.

---

Later in the Living Room we were watching TV and we then saw a strange story appear on TV. We just saw on the news that Jack Spicer was blowing up a bomb in the street. Fortunately, no one was dead. But several people were injured.

Ember McLain: There's no way that Spicer would do this?

Omi: (Tibetan Accent) Well, I think differently. This is what we get for attempting to trust Jack Spicer!

Maria: Omi-

Raimundo: Don't even try to change our minds, guys. Spicer had his chance. And now, we're taking him down!

Raimundo and Omi run out the door.

Kimiko: (looks apologetic at us) Sorry, guys. (runs after Omi and Raimundo)

Clay: (to us) (Texas Accent) For the record, I don't think Spicer did this at all. But I have to stand by my friends. I hope you understand.

William: Clay, you do what you have to and so will we.

With that, Clay runs after his fellow Xiaolin Warriors.

Me: Guys, I'm starting to have suspicions. I don't think Jack did this.

Lincoln: I have that feeling too.

Nico: Yeah.

Me: This is like what happened when Sinestro under the influence of his darkness and he turned into John Stewart and framed him for crimes he didn't commit.

Sinestro: I remember that and you saved me from myself J.D.

Qin: Wow! That was awesome!

Me: And it was when I revealed that I am a Blue Lantern.

Qin: Oh wow!

Me: Sinestro has been one of my close friends ever since I saved him from being crushed by a falling building in Denver and I never gave up on him when I found out about what he did. But right now we got to find Jack Spicer. Something is seriously wrong here and we need to find out what it is.

Nico: I'll go to the Central Bar and check it out.

Me: Okay. Be careful guys.

Nico: Will do.

Nico, Maria, William, Eddy, and Cybertron Ransack were off to the Central Bar.

---

At the Central Bar, Nico and team arrived.

Top: First, the Xiaolin Losers? And now you guys?

William: Wait. Raimundo and the others were here?

Weather Wizard: Damn right they were! They threatened us that if we didn't tell them where Spicer is hiding out, we'd be taking a one way trip to the River of Fire!

Maria: Well, we need Spicer's location as well.

Trickster: Why? So you guys can kill Spicer too?

Cybertron Ransack: No way! Someone provoked our Xiaolin buddies into wanting to kill Spicer. We're trying to save him!

Mirror Master: How do we know we can trust you? Jack's been through enough in his life already!

Nico: Look into our eyes and see if you can find any traces of lying.

They did just that and realized we were telling the truth.

Captain Cold: They're telling the truth. Spicer's hiding out in a town in Kentucky. You should be able to get there through flight.

Eddy: Thanks. You guys don't know how much you've helped us today.

Heat Wave: That's it? You're not gonna beat us up?

Maria: Why would we? You guys are honorable criminals. So we're not going to do anything that bad to you. Now, if you'll excuse us, we have a former Evil Boy Genius to save.

They then leave the bar.

William: Think we should've told them about Thanos' threat?

Nico: No. Right now, we have bigger fish to fry.

---

At the estate I was still thinking.

Me: Could it be?

Laney: What is it?

Me: I think I know who's behind this. But this is just a hunch.

I went over to Nico's Goosebumps books and found one.

Me: Here it is. Attack Of The Mutant.

Lincoln: That was a freaky but really cool one.

Me: It was.

I went over the Masked Mutant's history.

---

Masked Mutant is an evil supervillain who has the power to turn into anything in order to defeat his enemies. This includes The League of Good Guys, lead by the super fast The Galloping Gazelle. One day he got bored of them and wanted a new challenge, a new foe for his stories. He disguised himself as a girl named Libby and on a bus ride, he meet Skipper Matthews, his biggest fan.

Skipper started noticing the mutant's building and how it would sometimes vanish. The comics started publishing issues with him in it. When one comic depicted The Galloping Gazelle tied up in the Mutant's HQ, he went there to rescue him. He did but Gazelle's plan trip up the Mutant failed and he ran off.

The Mutant revealed to Skipper that he is actually Libby, and that a light that had shone on Skipper when he first entered the headquarters turned him into a comic book character. Thinking fast, Skipper claimed that he was The Colossal Elastic Boy, and he can only be defeated by sulphuric acid. The Mutant turns himself into a wave of acid, which Skipper dodges. The Mutant is defeated because he can only change back when he turns into a solid object.

---

Lincoln: So the Masked Mutant turned into Jack in order to frame him!

Laney: That is awful.

Lana: We have to stop them.

Nico: (On the radio) J.D., this is Nico calling. Do you read me?

I went to the computer.

Me: This is J.D. receiving you loud and clear Nico.

Nico: We're heading over to a town in Kentucky to get Jack.

Me: Okay. We'll be right over. Nico, I think I know who's behind this. The Masked Mutant from Attack of The Mutant.

Nico: What!? Are you sure?

Me: It's just a hunch, but I have a feeling that the Masked Mutant is behind this.

Nico: He does fit the profile because he's a shapeshifter. But we'll find out when we get there.

Me: We're on our way. Make sure that the Xiaolin Warriors don't do anything.

Nico: Roger that boss.

Me: Lets roll!

We were off to Kentucky.

---

Abandoned Amusement Park, Kentucky

---

At an abandoned amusement park in Kentucky, Jack Spicer was facing the Masked Mutant. The Masked Mutant was pointing a gun at Spicer from behind him.

Spicer: This is why nobody likes me.

Masked Mutant: You really have a lot to learn, Jack.

Spicer: And I guess you're gonna teach me, right? (waits for the gunshot but hears nothing) Just pull the trigger, asshole!

Spicer turned around to see that the Mutant was gone.

Spicer: Huh? He's gone. He was pretty sure that he would've wanted to kill me. (unaware of 4 figures in the shadows) Ok, if he's not going to kill me, what is he doing?

Just then, Spicer was knocked to the ground by massive super hurricane force winds.

Spicer: He's sending air blasts at me? That's not something he usually would do. (sees the figures coming out of the shadows) Oh, God. Not them!

Raimundo: No more second chances, Spicer. This is it.

Omi: You are done.

Spicer: Look, guys.

Omi fired a massive blast of water at Spicer but he dodged it.

Omi: No! You listen. The four of us and Team Loud Phoenix Storm gave you a chance. We thought we could help you. But there is no helping people like you!

Kimiko relucatantly fired massive blasts of fire at Spicer but those were avoided as well.

Spicer: Will you guys listen to me?!

Raimundo: You go off the rader for months. (Clay hesitantly used the Fist of Tebigong to punch Spicer to the ground) You only pop up in certain situations. And just a few hours ago, you blew up a bomb all over a park in Gotham Royal York!

Spicer: That wasn't me! That was, um… the Masked Mutant from Goosebumps?

Omi: Do not take us for fools!

Me: Stop this now guys!

We all landed.

Raimundo: Hey, guys! Good timing! Now, Spicer doesn't have a chance against us.

Spidermonkey: We're not here to help you guys take down Spicer.

Cornelia: We're here to stop you from making a big mistake!

Omi: Big mistake? It is obvious that Spicer has committed an unforgivable crime!

Bloom: Blowing up a bomb in the park? That's not something he would do.

Raimundo: What are you trying to say?

Flora: That Spicer wasn't the one who caused that bomb to go off.

Omi: That is impossible. We saw him do it on the news!

Tecna: (British Accent) But what if someone is framing Spicer for that crime?

Kimiko: They have a point. I think someone's trying to make us kill Spicer.

Raimundo: Then that someone is gonna get what they want! (marches towards Spicer but Clay blocks him)

Clay: Rai, to be honest, I actually think Spicer's innocent this time!

Omi: You are the ones being decieved! Jack Spicer is pure evil! He has gotten away with his crimes for far too long!

Raimundo: And now, me and Omi have to stop him. We're the only ones that can! (takes out Sword of the Storm) And we'll take down anyone that gets in our way!

All of us gasp at this. And then, Stewie takes out his stasis blaster and blasts Raimundo and Omi, parlyzing them as they fall to the ground.

Iron Boy: Haven't used that stasis blaster since we defeated Rojo.

Stewie: Well, it was the only way to calm Raimundo and Omi down.

But then we saw Jack Spicer become enveloped in an aura of darkness and it separated from him and began to take form. It turned into another Jack Spicer but with red eyes of pure evil! It turned into DARK JACK SPICER! He was boiling mad with rage! He had a powerful blaster ready to fire.

Clay: Spicer, just calm down.

Kimiko: This has all been a big misunderstanding. So, why don't you just-

Dark Spicer: Oh, so now you guys wants to be my friends? All my life, I've been bullied and mistreated. And you guys are no different! (starts to cry) All you do is beat me up, taunt me, and humiliate me! In fights and in Xiaolin Showdowns! But no more. (charges up his blaster) DO YOU FUCKING HEAR ME?! NO MORE! (shoots a fully charged up blast at us)

Jetfire: (Australian Accent) EVERYONE, MOVE OUT OF THE WAY!

We jumped away and the blast hit the ground and exploded with incredible power!

KRABBBBBBBBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOO

Me: Wow! That was a powerful blaster!

Nico: No kidding. Awesome firepower.

I kicked the blaster out of his hands and grabbed it.

Edzilla: ED SMASH BAD SPICER! (punches Dark Spicer)

Unfortunately, he sends Dark Spicer flying off into the distance far away for us to find him.

Me: (Whistles) That is a home run punch!

Lynn: HOME RUN!

Eddy: Well, that's just great, Lumpy! Now, we're gonna have to deal with Dark Spicer in the future!

Optimus Prime: I think that's for the best at the moment. Because right now, all of us need to get healed up. Including Jack Spicer.

Me: Good idea Optimus.

We healed everyone up.

Omi: How could we have been so blind?

Raimundo: Jack, we're really sorry. We didn't mean to push you too far.

Jack: I'm the one who should be sorry. I should've joined the good guys in the first place.

Maria: No one's at fault here. The Masked Mutant is the only one to blame.

William: And right now, we need Skipper Matthews' help to stop him.

Me: Good thinking William. Also Jack, when we're done here we'll need to get all the Shen Gong Wu you and the Heylin took.

Jack: Okay.

Me: And Jack, you helped out Miranda during the battle with Chester V didn't you?

Jack: How did you know that?

Me: I just figured it out. I know that Miranda once worked for you and her knowledge in robots helped us out big time. But we owe you one.

Jack: Thanks J.D. I'm on the road to redemption.

Me: Lets make that mutant pay for ruining your life.

We shook hands.

In Frankfort, Kentucky we were over at the house of Skipper Matthews.

Skipper Matthews: So the Masked Mutant is back?

Nico: That's right. I know we can just bust into his lair. But I figured that instead, you can help us sneak in.

Skipper Matthews: I would be honored to help out the world famous Team Loud Phoenix Storm.

I was looking at Skipper Matthews comics. They were all really good.

Me: You make really good comics Skipper. After we take care of the Masked Mutant, how would you like to join us and we can make awesome comics together.

Lincoln: We make Ace Savvy Comics.

Skipper Matthews: That's awesome! I love Ace Savvy!

Lincoln: Awesome!

Me: And you'll like this too. We're also in an Ace Savvy Comic we made. See?

I showed him an Ace Savvy comic we made.

Skipper Matthews: Oh wow! You guys made this comic!? I love this comic!

Me: Yep. Not to brag but this one was our masterpiece.

Lincoln: Yep. I based the Full House Gang and everyone else on all of Team Loud Phoenix Storm.

Me: But we weren't called that when we made it.

Skipper Matthews: Amazing!

Nico: It was.

Me: But lets get going. We're wasting time here.

We were off to the lair of the Masked Mutant.

---

We arrived at his lair and it was in a swamp on the outskirts of the city. We went in and it was a crazy and foreboding place.

Maria: Alright. This is the Masked Mutant's lair.

Wolverine: (smells something) It might look empty. But it stinks in here!

Spiderman: (realizes something) Skipper, is it possible that the Mutant can turn into inanimate objects?

Skipper: I have no idea.

Me: Let me see here.

I turned on my infrared vision and looked around and I saw a piece of wood emitting a heat signature?

Me: There! That wood has a heat signature!

The "Wood" changed and it was THE MASKED MUTANT!

Me: The Masked Mutant.

Masked Mutant: So Team Loud Phoenix Storm. How nice of you all to show up, to your demise! (Evil Laughter)

Me: Not if we kill you first you fuckbitch.

Jack Spicer: Before we waste you, I want to know why!

Masked Mutant: Simple. It was all part of a plan to get rid of you all and the Legion of Doom, as well as anyone who was previously affiliated with them. (to the Redemption Squad) And that includes you Suicide Squad knockoffs.

Maria: So you turned into Jack Spicer to frame him just to get him out of the way.

T Bone: And I'm guessing Dark Kat was in on this scheme.

Masked Mutant: Of couse he was. He agreed that I alone should rule the world, not the Legion of Doom or Thanos! I promised Dark Kat a place in my empire in exchange for his loyalty to me.

Me: Well tough cookies. Dark Kat is dead now because of us and soon you'll be joining him in the fire of hell.

Me: Lets power up and transform!

The fifth and final clone turned into Zen-Aku!

Merrick Baliton: Zen-Aku!

Me: How can I ever forget him! He's the one that cursed you and turned you into him!

Cole Evans: Yeah!

Me: Lets see how they like us now!

I fired a massive energy blast and knocked them down in a powerful explosion.

KRABBBBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOMMMM!

But he got up and he was infuriated! He then merged back together and turned into the Armada monster CYBAX! Cybax was from Super Megaforce episode 2!

Troy Burrows: CYBAX!

Me: I remember him! He was the third monster that the Armada sent!

Jack Spicer: Lets blast this guy!

Eddy: With pleasure.

Jack and Eddy fired powerful blaster blasts at him and powerful explosions went off on him and all over the place.

KRABBOOOOOMMM! KRABBBOOOOOOOMMM! KABOOOM! KABOOOOOM! KABOOOOMMM! BOOM! BOOOM! BOOOM! BOOOOOOM! BOOOM!

The Megaforce Power Rangers helped out and fired their Super Mega Blasters and they hit and exploded with incredible power.

KRABBBBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOO

Masked Mutant: (ENRAGED GROWLING!) This shouldn't be happening! I don't understand! I am destined to rule this world! I'm all powerful! Now you've all sealed your fates! THIS FUCKING PLANET IS HISTORY! I'LL DESTROY EVERYTHING! EVERYTHING! DO YOU HEAR ME YOU FUCKERS!? YOU'RE FINISHED!

Me: We'll see about that!

Vegeta: Now where have I heard that one before?

Masked Mutant: WHO DO THESE FOOLS THINK THEY ARE!? THEY'RE BENEATH ME! I'LL SHOW THEM! I'LL REDUCE THIS PLACE TO ASHES! (ENRAGED SCREAM) YOU FUCKING FOOLS! DODGE THIS NEXT ATTACK IF YOU CAN! BUT KNOW THAT IF YOU DO, YOUR PRECIOUS LITTLE PLANET WILL BE GONE!

The Masked Mutant flared up a purple energy aura.

Me: YOU MONSTER!

He flew into the air!

Masked Mutant: THE CHOICE IS YOURS TEAM LOUD PHOENIX STORM! BUT EITHER WAY, YOU ARE GOING TO PERISH! (EVIL LAUGHTER)

Me: I don't think so!

I flared up my aura to the extreme!

Me: Lets see how he likes a Kamehameha. (Cups hands to the side) KAAAAAAAAAAAAAAA! MEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEE!

The Masked Mutant was charging up a Galick Gun blast!

Me: HAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAA!

Masked Mutant: NOW TEAM LOUD PHOENIX STORM, PREPARE

YOURSELF FOR OBLIVION!

Me: MEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEE!

Masked Mutant: GALICK GUN!

He fired a massive purple energy blast right at me!

Me:
HAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAA

I fired a massive Kamehameha Blast at the Galick Gun and the blasts collided and exploded with incredible power as they collided and a massive struggle ensued!

Masked Mutant: IT CAN'T BE! HIS BEAM IS AS STRONG AS MY GALICK GUN!

The level of power coming off our techniques was mind boggling!

Goku: Wow! What power!

Vegeta: Now I remember! I said exactly the same thing when I first fought you Kakarot.

Goku: I remember that. That was incredible!

Nico: Unbelievable!

Me: I've got to take it further! KAIO-KEN *4!

The power of the 4 times Kaio-Ken intensified it dramatically and overpowered his blast.

Masked Mutant: (SCREAMS) NOOOOOOOOO!

The blast enveloped him and completely obliterated him in an instant!

I powered down and I wasn't in the least bit exhausted.

Me: That did it. He's gone.

Skipper Matthews: That was awesome!

Nico: That was unbelievable!

Me: Thanks guys.

Jack Spicer: So that's it then. We just accept that we're killing criminals now? You guys don't have any regrets whatsoever?

Lynn: What do you suggest, dude?

Lori: I've literally lost count of all the villains I've killed. I don't think we can ever reverse that.

Lola: (to Spicer) Are you saying you don't want to help us fight evil villains?

Jack Spicer: (thinks hard) No. I didn't say that. I just don't like the thought of fighting former teammates.

Nico: If it makes you feel any better, we're not going to kill Captain Cold and the Central City Rogues due to their code of honor. Heck, the 6 of them may be useful against Thanos.

We later went to Jack Spicer's lair at his house and he gave us all of the Shen Gong Wu that he and Heylin got.

Jack Spicer: (To the viewers) I'm now officially a member of Team Loud Phoenix Storm's Redemption Squad and I'm on the path to redemption and now we can bring justice to the Heylin when the time comes.

Skipper Matthews: You said it Jack. (To the viewers) Imagination can be an awesome tool to the world of art. But be careful what you create.

Laney: You said it Skipper.

Another awesome fanfiction complete and another Goosebumps Monster destroyed.

The Attack of the Mutant was an awesome superhero story for the Goosebumps stories! NicoChan11 gave me the ideas for this one. Thanks man. The ending scene is based on the epic clash with Goku and Vegeta - Kamehameha Wave VS Galick Gun and that was so awesome! Let me know what you all think. Those monsters that the mutant turned into are all ones I know and they were ruthless. Next up is the awesome movie Sky High and that is about a floating academy for superheroes and superheroines and that is gonna be awesome when we take on Kate Lloyd's evil twin supervillainess: Royal Pain!

See you all tomorrow.

Trouble at Superhero Academy

It starts with us over in the most tragic of all places: The Keyblade Graveyard.

---

Throughout Birth by Sleep, Terra and Ventus periodically follow Master Xehanort or Vanitas to this world at the Badlands (荒野 Areno?, lit. "Wasteland"), a wide, rocky field situated atop a steep cliff. The Vanitas Remnant later appears here, where it challenges intruders to battle. In Kingdom Hearts II, the area is linked to the Hall of the Cornerstone via a Corridor of Darkness, which Sora's party uses to encounter and battle the Lingering Will.

Each of the heroes in Birth by Sleep eventually enters the true battlegrounds of the world at the Seat of War (古戦場 Kosenjou?, lit. "Ancient Battlefield"), a small outcropping of rock overlooking the shattered vista below. It leads into the Twister Trench (砂嵐の道 Suna-arashi no Michi?, lit. "Sandstorm Road"), where literal storms of raw emotion roam freely. Unversed lurk within the Eye of the Storm (嵐の中 Arashi no Naka?, lit. "Within the Storm") inside each twister, ready to attack all who are captured by the maelstrom. Past the storms is the Fissure (峡谷 Kyōkoku?), a small ravine containing a save point and a Moogle Shop. The final area, the titular Keyblade Graveyard (キーブレード墓場 Kīburēdo Hakaba?) are two crossroads, covered by the Keyblades of the wielders who fell during the Keyblade War. During his battle with the heroes, Master Xehanort creates a pillar of rock from the graveyard, and summons Kingdom Hearts to shine down upon it.

After Master Xehanort steals Terra's body and is reborn as Terra-Xehanort, Terra's soul animates his armor as the Lingering Will, locks them both within the Will's Cage (思念の檻 Shinen no Ori?), and forces him into a final battle. Meanwhile, Ventus and Vanitas have reunited into Ventus-Vanitas, and Ventus is forced to fight off Vanitas's control within Ventus's Mind (ヴェントゥスの精神世界 Ventusu no Seishin Sekai?, lit. "Ventus's Soul World"). Both of these areas vanish after the battle ends.

Kingdom Hearts III

In Kingdom Hearts III, the Keyblade Graveyard serves as a new base of operations for the real Organization XIII, with a circle of stone pedestals serving a similar purpose to the Round Room's thrones at the Castle That Never Was. It is also the site of the Organization's final showdown with the Seven Guardians of Light.

The Badlands (荒野 Areno?, lit. "Wasteland") return as the world's first area in the game, but with a different layout compared to previous games. Here, the area consists of a wide crater in the middle of a circular valley, where the Guardians of Light battle innumerable amounts of Heartless, Nobodies, and Unversed shortly upon arrival in the world. On the outer side of the ridge is a wide, barren field accessible through a long crevice, which contains a save point and a Moogle Shop. It is in this field that the Guardians experience their initial defeat against Terra-Xehanort and the Demon Tide before Sora uses the power of waking to undo it. Going further north leads to the next area. After Master Xehanort summons Kingdom Hearts, a pink portal leading to The Final World appears in the southern side of the Badlands next to Battlegate 13.

The Skein of Severance (断絶の迷宮 Danzetsu no Meikyū?, lit. "Labyrinth of Severance") is a sprawling labyrinth created by Master Xehanort at the crossroads of Keyblades, serving as the world's second area. The labyrinth is split into three sections, with the first two each containing a pair of square arenas where Sora must battle two or more of the Organization's members alongside one or two fellow guardians. Spaced between each pair of arenas are a save point, a shop, and a portal to Battlegate 0, followed by a forked road leading to either arena; Sora must navigate a unique booby trap under a time limit to reach the first arena he picks, or else the doors to the arena will close and he must start over, with a simple corridor leading to the other once the battle is won.

The Trail of Valediction (乖離の別れ道 Kairi no Wakaremichi?, lit. "Crossroads of Divergence") is the labyrinth's first section. The left path leads to a battle with Riku against Ansem, Seeker of Darkness, Xigbar, and Dark Riku, and must be reached by sliding behind stone barricades to avoiding large slabs that rush towards Sora. The right path leads to a battle with King Mickey against Xemnas, Luxord, Marluxia, and Larxene beyond a series of walls that Sora must first climb over and under. After winning both battles, Sora must complete a puzzle of colored doors and switches to advance to the next section.

The Twist of Isolation (孤立の回廊 Koritsu no Kairō?, lit. "Corridor of Isolation") is the labyrinth's second section, with Aqua and Ventus battling Terra-Xehanort and Vanitas on the left path, and Kairi and Axel battling Saïx and Xion on the right. The former requires Sora to jump over and around a sequence of slabs rushing towards him, while the latter has square pillars rising from the ground to knock Sora upwards. These battles are followed by a short and straightforward corridor to the next section.

The Tower of Endings (終焉の塔 Shūen no Tō?, lit. "Tower of Demise") is the labyrinth's third and final section, consisting only of a massive tower that Sora can run up easily. At the top of the tower, Sora joins Riku and Mickey in battle against Ansem, Xemnas, and Young Xehanort, with Master Xehanort observing from atop an even higher pillar of rock. After Master Xehanort is sent to Scala ad Caelum, a portal appears in the middle of the tower that allows access between the two worlds.

Story

Kingdom Hearts χ

Keyblade wielders eventually clashed over the world's light. Some sought to steal the light, some to usher in darkness, some to balance the two, and some to protect the light. Only Ava's secret faction did not take part in the Keyblade War. Eventually, this clash resulted in the destruction of the original χ-blade, which split into seven lights and thirteen darknesses, forever leaving the true Kingdom Hearts beyond reach. Luxu watched the conflict to its conclusion, with No Name in hand to allow the Master of Masters knowledge of how the war ended. With the Keyblade War done, the barren wasteland it was fought on remained littered with the Keyblades of the fallen wielders.

Between Kingdom Hearts χ and Kingdom Hearts Birth by Sleep

The barren wasteland became known as the Keyblade Graveyard, and would remain undisturbed for several centuries.

In order to strengthen the darkness within Ventus, Master Xehanort brought his apprentice to the graveyard and set Neoshadows on him. However, Ventus was unwilling to rely on his darkness, so Xehanort used his Keyblade to split the darkness from Ventus, creating Vanitas. The procedure mortally injured Ventus's heart, so Xehanort took him to the Destiny Islands to allow Ventus to expire in peace. Kingdom Hearts Birth by Sleep

Kingdom Hearts Birth by Sleep

After defeating the Spirit of the Magic Mirror, Terra is informed that Master Xehanort dwells "where war was waged upon the fells", referring to the Keyblade Graveyard, but does not understand the riddle. However, as part of his plot to lead Terra astray, Master Xehanort himself calls Terra to the Badlands, then sends him to Radiant Garden to confront Vanitas. Shortly afterward, Vanitas leads Ventus to the Badlands and attacks him, but Ventus is rescued by Mickey's timely arrival.

Shortly before Ventus arrives at Neverland, Vanitas finds Mickey there and abducts him to the Badlands, leaving behind his Star Shard. Ventus finds the shard and is whisked away to the home of Mickey's mentor, Yen Sid, who is able to locate Mickey. When Ventus arrives to rescue his friend, Xehanort intercepts him and reveals his plans to use Ventus to create a new χ-blade, then casts him back to the Lanes Between while mockingly advising him to question Master Eraqus. He then calls Terra back to his side and manipulates him into following Ventus and fighting Eraqus.

After Ventus reaches Eraqus, Terra intercepts him and casts him through the Lanes Between to Destiny Islands, where Vanitas tracks him down and reveals that he was created from Ventus's extract darkness by Master Xehanort at the Keyblade Graveyard. At the same time, Master Xehanort kills Eraqus, destroys the Land of Departure, and tells the shocked Terra to come find him at the graveyard, while Aqua learns of these events from Yen Sid's divinations.

Now aware that the Badlands were, in fact, the legendary battlefield of the Keyblade War, all three make their way there and find Master Xehanort, Vanitas, and their co-conspirator Braig. Master Xehanort sends Vanitas and his ally Braig to attempt to kill Aqua and to force Ventus to fight Vanitas, thus fusing the two and creating the χ-blade; once the fusion is successful, Master Xehanort unlocks his own heart and possesses Terra's body, being reborn as Terra-Xehanort. However, the plan backfires when Terra's anger animates his discarded armor as the Lingering Will, who knocks out Xehanort, while Aqua and Ventus shatter the χ-blade in the ravine below. The lightstorm created by the χ-blade's destruction rips apart the landscape and casts away everyone but the Lingering Will, who goes into hibernation while vowing to one day correct the wrongs committed by Xehanort.

Kingdom Hearts II

Eleven years later, a portal to the Keyblade Graveyard opens in the Hall of the Cornerstone under Disney Castle. Per Queen Minnie's request, Sora, Donald and Goofy pass through it and meet the Lingering Will. It attempts to identify Sora, but ends up mistaking him for Xehanort. However, after a long and grueling battle, the Will ends the fight as it can sense Ventus's heart inside Sora, and acknowledges Sora as a Keyblade Master. Kingdom Hearts II Final Mix

Kingdom Hearts III

Master Xehanort chooses this place to fittingly recreate the second Keyblade War as Sora and his allies. Each clash between light and darkness brought him one step closer to creating the χ-blade once again. Upon the thirteenth clash between Sora and Master Xehanort himself, the legendary Keyblade was remade again and he utilized its power to once again summon Kingdom Hearts to purge the worlds in darkness as it had in the past. Using their combined powers, the guardians of light utilize Xehanort's own powers over space and time against him, to trap him in Scala ad Caelum where Sora would follow in after to finish him off.

When the battle concluded, the Keyblade Graveyard returned to its natural state before the fights began. Not long afterwards, Luxu summons the other foretellers, with the exception of Ava, back at the crossroads and reveals his current form as Xigbar and explain to them his role over the centuries.

---

Nico: So this is the Keyblade Graveyard.

Me: Yeah. This place is filled with Tragedy.

Clayface: Man, a lot of Keybladers fell here.

Me: Thousands of them. Nothing good ever comes from war. Only death, chaos and destruction.

Nico: Yeah.

Laney: How many Keybladers do you think there were?

Nico: Countless. And they all lost their lives.

Aqua: Boy I'll never forget that battle.

Sora: Me neither. Aqua, you, Terra and Ventus were the only survivors of the first Keyblade War right?

Aqua: Yes we were Sora. That was the biggest and most incredible battles of our lives 10 years ago.

Terra (KH): Yeah.

Ventus: I remember that. It was a rough battle. But we all prevailed.

Blake Bradley: So you guys are veterans of a war.

Me: And the only survivors. The Great Keyblade War claimed so many lives.

Hunter Bradley: Now I'm really glad Xehanort's pushing up daisies!

Me: We all are. That scumsucker deserved to die. But we still have all of his evil fragments still scattered all over the universe. We have 47,000 galaxies to cover and clean out of Dark Orbs.

Carmen was crying in Maria's chest. Maria was comforting her.

Carmen: (Crying hard) Why did so many people have to die here!? (Crying) It's not fair!

Maria: I know Carmen. It's okay.

Liam: (Southern Accent) Poor Carmen.

Marinette: Yeah. But this place is a war memorial. Lets pray to them to honor our respects.

Nico: Good idea Marinette.

Me: I agree.

We prayed and Laney had erected a flag with a Heart Shape Moon in the night sky and the Keyblades of the Ultima Weapon, Oblivion and Oathkeeper were in a 3 cross trinity formation. Under the heart was the phrase "All for One and One For All, Never Forget that Love and Light will prevail."

Laney sang Amazing Grace by Sarah Brightman.

Laney: (Singing Divinely)

Amazing Grace, how sweet the sound

That saved a wretch like me

I once was lost but now am found

Was blind, but now I see

T'was Grace that taught my heart to fear

And Grace, my fears relieved

How precious did that Grace appear

The hour I first believed

Through many dangers, toils and snares

I have already come

'Tis Grace that brought me safe thus far

And Grace will lead me home

A beam of sunlight shined onto us and the spirits of all the Keybladers that were lost in that terrible war 10 years ago returned and they returned to physical form and they were resurrected!

Me: (Gasp!) Guys look!

Aqua: (Gasp!) It's a miracle!

Terra (KH): Wow!

Ventus: Everyone has been resurrected!

Lincoln: This is amazing!

Laney: I brought them all back with my singing!

Lola: Wow!

Lana: Way to go Lanes!

Luna: Yeah!

Nico: That was amazing!

Everyone was reunited with Aqua, Ventus and Terra and it was a great reunion.

---

Later we arrived at the Land of Departure.

---

The Land of Departure is one of few special worlds in the Kingdom Hearts universe that is located between the Realm of Light and the Realm of Darkness. As such, Master Eraqus described the world as a neutral place where light and darkness exist in balance.

The Land of Departure has physical qualities of several major worlds from the Kingdom Hearts series. The Land of Departure is shown in artwork to be set high in grassy mountains, surrounded by flowing water. The building itself decreases in width as it reaches the ground, tall spires protruding from the roof. Two lengths of golden chain connect the castle to twin peaks. Similarly to Twilight Town, there is one major building in this world's render; the main building also bears a resemblance to Twilight Town's clock tower. Like Radiant Garden, this world also has a circular area in the middle of it, with a large building overhead.

The game's tutorial, while still controlling Ventus, takes place in the Mountain Path (山道 Sandou?). Going up into the hill leads to the Summit (山頂 Sanchou?). The area before the Mountain Trail is the Forecourt (前庭 Zentei?), where the world's Moogle Shop can be found if the player chooses to return to the Land of Departure for a limited time in the story. Beyond is Terra's, Ventus's, Aqua's and Master Eraqus's home.

The Land of Departure is also one of a select few worlds in the series that features areas that eventually cannot be accessed during later portions of the game. After Master Eraqus is killed and Master Xehanort plunges the world into darkness, the world cannot be fully revisited. The Forecourt is no longer accessible because the road leading to it has collapsed, and it is seen one last time towards the beginning of the Final Episode.

Generations of Keyblade Masters have kept the land safe.

Years before the events of Birth by Sleep, after being made Keyblade Master, Eraqus became his Master's Successor, the steward of the Land of Departure, while his fellow apprentice, Xehanort, became a Seeker to learn more of the worlds. By the time the two crossed paths again, they entered into a discussion where Xehanort revealed his intent to create a second Keyblade War that resulted with the two having a major falling out with Xehanort scarring Eraqus. Years after that event, after creating Vanitas from the youth who somehow survived the process, Xehanort decided to take advantage by leaving the amnesic Ventus in Eraqus's care to be trained by him alongside Terra and Aqua.

Kingdom Hearts Birth by Sleep

On the day before Terra and Aqua undergo the Mark of Mastery, they momentarily spar with Ventus before Aqua gives her fellow apprentices Wayfinders so the three of them would never be truly apart. The next day, arriving to see the exam proceedings, Xehanort rigs the test with orbs of light attacking the three Keyblade users. Despite the interference, Eraqus allowed the test to resume and names Aqua master while Terra is dismayed that he remains an apprentice. As Eraqus takes Aqua to inform her on the duties she is to take, Xehanort and Vanitas respectively manipulate Terra and Ventus into leaving the Land of Departure. As Ventus chases after Terra, Aqua is sent by Eraqus to retrieve the former.

Later, after an encounter with Xehanort presents a startling revelation, Ventus returns to the Land of Departure to confront Eraqus of his past. However, seeing that Xehanort is still acting on the scheme he unveiled to him ages ago, Eraqus resolves to kill Ventus for the good of the worlds. However, Xehanort arranged Terra to arrive to stop his master and makes his move to kill his former friend. From there, Xehanort then blasts an orb of darkness into the sky that causing the Land of Departure to become shrouded in darkness while sucking in most of the castle.

Shortly before meeting at the Keyblade Graveyard, Terra, Ventus, and Aqua each separately return to their ruined home and encounter a time-traveling Young Xehanort, who attacks each of them in turn. He vanishes after his defeat, continuing onward to the future to carry out his tasks.

After Ventus loses his heart and falls into a comatose state in the aftermath of the events at the Keyblade Graveyard, Aqua returns to the destroyed castle with Ventus on her back. She places Ventus in the middle throne and, using Eraqus's Keyblade, seals the Keyhole and reconfigures the Land of Departure into Castle Oblivion to both protect the land from any who would take advantage of it and keep Ventus safe in the Chamber of Waking.

Kingdom Hearts III

Immediately after saving Aqua, Sora, Donald, and Goofy travel with her to Castle Oblivion, where she utilizes the power of the Master's Defender to restore the Land of Departure to its former glory. Aqua leads the group to Ventus, where she apologizes to him for making him wait so long and tries to wake him from his slumber, only to be disappointed to learn that his heart never returned in her absence. Just then, Vanitas makes his presence known, having followed the group in order to find Ventus. Aqua attacks Vanitas when he approaches Ventus, and despite Sora, Donald, and Goofy wanting to help her, Aqua refuses and casts barrier to isolate herself and Vanitas in order to redeem herself.

When Aqua gains the upper hand, Vanitas instead targets Ventus, attempting to shatter the barrier. Seeing the danger, Aqua throws herself between Ventus and Vanitas, taking the brunt of Vanitas's attack. With Aqua weakened, Vanitas moves in to claim her heart, but this action stirs Ventus's heart within Sora. With Sora's help, Ventus's heart returns to his body, allowing Ventus to wake, break through the barrier and clash with Vanitas. Vanitas retreats as Sora, Donald, and Goofy join Ventus and Aqua, though he anticipates another encounter with Ventus. Afterwards, Ventus notices that Vanitas and Sora look alike, leading Ventus to realize that Sora was his second chance.

Following the clash with the thirteen seekers of darkness, Aqua, Ventus, and Terra return to the Land of Departure and organize a grave dedicated to Eraqus, using the Master's Defender and their three Wayfinders. As they leave, Ventus notices his Chirithy watching him and welcomes Chirithy back to his side with open arms.

---

Swindle: So this is the Land of Departure.

Laney: It's beautiful.

Aqua: It is. It was our home. Master Eraqus trained us here and he was like a father to me.

Sunstreaker: Aqua, I'm sure Master Eraqus is proud of the girl you've become.

William: (to Spicer) So, Jack. How's it feel to be officially one of the good guys?

Jack Spicer: It feels great! I should've been a good guy all along.

Me: I know. But look. All the worlds we all visited are now in orbit around the Land of Departure.

Lana: That is so cool! There could be many more worlds out there left to discover.

Me: Yeah. But some of the worlds were on Earth.

Later we went back to the Estate.

---

After we got back to Earth we were invited to a special school. We were flying in the air to the school. But this wasn't any ordinary school, it was a special academy for Superheroes called Sky High School.

---

Sky High is where students with super powers are taught how to use them. The classes offered are, Hero training, Hero Support, P.E. classes and many more. It is kept aloft by the latest in anti-gravitational propulsion. It is in constant motion as a precaution against those who might have nefarious plans for the school. Students are taken to the school by special Flying Buses. The school's location is supplied to only a few highly qualified individuals, such as Ron Wilson and the other bus drivers. The school divides up it students into two Classes - hero and hero support also called sidekicks. Powers are not allowed to be used outside of the school gym.

The school was located 45,000 feet into the air and it was an awesome Floating School.

Me: Wow! So that's Sky High!

Laney: Incredible! I've never seen a floating school before.

Lana: And the coolest part is it's for Superheroes.

Me: Yeah! Wait a second. I remember this school! It was from the 2005 movie Sky High!

Lincoln: I remember that movie! That was awesome!

---

The Commander and Jetstream are two superheroes who live in a suburban lifestyle and work as real estate agents under the names Steve and Josie Stronghold, as well as help the city. Their son, Will, tries to live up to the family name, but has yet to reveal such powers.

In the airborne high school, "Sky High", Will fails the Power Placement, the test that determines whether you will be a hero or sidekick based on your abilities. He is told by the nurse that he may never receive any superpowers whatsoever even though he was born to two superhero parents. His only possibility of potentially acquiring powers is to fall into toxic waste (which is just as likely to kill him). At the end of his first day at high school, the Commander entrusts him with the 'key' to the family's Secret Sanctum (after promising that he will never bring anyone else there); the place where all the family's trophies of past victories are kept, including a strange device called the "Pacifier".

The Commander tells Will about how the Pacifier was taken from an arch-enemy supervillain named Royal Pain, but little else is mentioned of Royal Pain's demise or the Pacifier's powers. Later in the evening, Layla meets Will on the roof of his house and comforts him about his situation.

Will manages to cope through his school experience, spending all his time with his fellow sidekicks, and his best friend Layla, however, they suffer bullying from the students classified as "Hero". Layla has the mysterious ability to manipulate plants; but as she refused to show it in Power Placement, she has also been ranked as a sidekick. The sidekicks are trained in Hero Support class by a retired sidekick who had once worked with the Commander, but is unknown to Will since his parents had never made mention of him. Will finally reveals to his father that he is only a sidekick and admits that he has no superpowers, but his father still maintains the belief that he will yet turn out to be a great superhero. Meanwhile, in their living room, Will's friends overhear his conversation with his father about being proud that he is a sidekick; when he returns, they look at him in silent admiration and gratitude.

Will's strength superpower eventually manifests itself during a fight with Warren Peace, whose supervillain father, Baron Battle, was defeated and imprisoned by the Commander. The fight is ended after the principal takes them to the special detention room, which is designed to neutralize all super powers. Will attempts to reconcile with Warren, but he will have nothing to do with him and vows to retaliate at first opportunity. Meanwhile, Will is moved from Hero Support class to Hero class. In his new class, he is partnered with Gwen Grayson, a senior who is a technopath, meaning she can control technology with her mind. Will has an enormous crush on her, dating back to the day they first met, and the two develop a relationship. As he proves his powers, he begins to grow more and more distant from his friends, including Layla, and eventually ends up standing her up for a dinner appointment in favor of hanging out with Gwen. Layla meets up with Warren Peace at the restaurant, and eventually the two end up forming a sort of alliance, designed to get back at Will and make him jealous of them as a 'couple'.

Gwen meets the Strongholds and invites them to be the recipients of the very first Hero of the Year Award, which will be presented at the Sky High Homecoming Dance. She also invites Will to be her official date for the event. Gwen unexpectedly uses Will's house to throw a party for the heroes while his parents are saving the city. Using the excuse of wanting to talk alone, Will breaks his promise and takes her to the Secret Sanctum. Gwen also uses the party as an opportunity to tell Layla what Will 'really' thinks of her, and Layla leaves the party in tears. Will, when he hears what Gwen has done, breaks up with her the night before the dance, forces everyone out of the house just as his parents arrive. He also tries to reconcile with Layla to no avail, and decides not to go to the dance after all. He visits the Secret Sanctum and realizes that the Pacifier has been stolen, and that Gwen is the reincarnation the person who invented it in his father's high school yearbook. Meanwhile, the Commander and Jetstream arrive at Sky High. During Gwen's presentation of the award, it is revealed that she is Royal Pain and she unveils the Pacifier. Before The Commander can attempt to stop her, she zaps him and only his suit lies on the ground. Jetstream goes to him, only to find a crying infant under the clothes. Jetstream takes off toward Royal Pain but is also zapped. Mr. Boy luckily catches the pacified Jetstream. However, his heroic moment is cut short when he is hit by the Pacifier's ray and begins shrinking into a baby. Mr. Medulla obliviously re-enters the Gym and is consequently turned into a baby, as well. The students begin panicing while the now diapered heroes sit on the ground, helpless. Royal Pain's minions trap the students in the Gym and we see more of them become babies. Principal Powers calls out for help but she is hit and her screams become an infant's cry. Coach Boomer commands the Sidekicks to take action but his commands are interrupted by a blast and he shrinks into a baby.

The sidekicks band together in an attempt to stop Royal Pain and each has a chance to exercise their superpowers to full potential. Will arrives at the school, and meets up with his friends, who begin to tell him about Royal Pain. He reconciles completely with Layla, then takes on Royal Pain alone, and while fighting her, is thrown out the window and off Sky High. Will's flying power manifests itself and returns to defeat Royal Pain, who having been turned back into an infant when the Pacifier broke the first time, grew back up with intent to return and kidnap superheroes to raise all over again as supervillains. The defeated Royal Pain triggers the sabotaged anti-gravity device, causing Sky High to fall. Will flies out of the window and prevents the school from touching down while his friends quickly work to repair the device. The device is repaired, and the school returned into the sky. Back at the School, all the babies are unboarded and Will asks Layla what they should do now. Baby Medulla speaks up from his Car Seat. His voice is high pitched but his cranium is still massive and can use big words. He then asks

Warren for a diaper change. The infants are all returned to their adult state by reversal of the Pacifier's powers, and Royal Pain and her minions are given time to cool off in the detention room.

Will and Layla engage in a passionate kiss while suspended off the school grounds in mid-air.

Nico: I remember that movie. That was awesome!

Sora: I remember this academy. We went here during our travels to find Riku.

Me: Wow! So we have a world you went to here floating above the Earth.

Goku: It's like we're going to the Lookout.

Me: It does feel that way huh Master Goku?

We landed on the Academy grounds and it was an awesome academy.

Me: Wow! So this is Sky High Academy.

Lola: This is amazing!

Laney: Wow! This is amazing.

Me: I also remember this funny show called Sidekick and it had an awesome academy where kids would learn how to become awesome sidekicks for famous superheroes like us.

Lincoln: I remember that show. That was a funny one.

Nico: That was a funny one. What that kid Trevor doesn't know is that his father is a ruthless super villain.

Me: Yeah. That would be a devastating shock to him. We'll have to visit that place someday.

We went into the academy.

We went in and it was a busy place.

We saw lots of kids and they were learning about what it meant to be a superhero or superheroine.

Me: Wow! Look at all the kids here.

Nico: There's a lot of them.

Kid 1: Hey look it's Team Loud Phoenix Storm!

Kid 2: I don't believe it! Team Loud Phoenix Storm is here!

Kid 3: It's so cool to have them here!

Kid 4: Welcome to Sky High guys!

Me: Thank you all.

Nico: Boy, even up here at 45,000 feet they know us.

Kate Lloyd: They sure do.

Principal Powers greeted us.

Principal Powers: Welcome to Sky High, Team Loud Phoenix Storm.

Me: Thank you for inviting us Principal Powers.

Principal Powers: You're welcome J.D. Sora, Donald, Goofy, it's great to see you again.

Sora: You too Principal Powers.

Goofy: How have you been?

Principal Powers: Been doing good.

Me: You look a lot like Lynda Carter.

Principal Powers: (Laughs) Yes I do look like her huh? Please follow me. (On the intercom) Everyone, this is Principal Powers, Follow me to the cafeteria.

They did so. But then Edd was grabbed and taken somewhere.

Double D was put in a room and he was being held hostage by none other than SUSAN TENNY A.K.A. ROYAL PAIN!

---

Starting off as a young girl named Sue Tenny in the 1960s, she was known to hold the power of technopathy when she was enrolled into the superhero school called Sky High. Despite her abilities, she was underestimated by the school, who then assigned to "sidekick" class. Through both The Commander and herself, it was stemmed from the school's lack of knowledge and understanding about potential in technopathy at that time.

Upset and torn by this event (as she also implied by The Commander to be mistreated for being a technopath due to him referred her as the weird one), Sue planned to destroy Sky High by creating a new weapon called the Pacifier, which can turn any person into a baby. Taking on the name Royal Pain, she planned on using the Pacifier to turn all of the superheroes in Sky High and open up her own supervillain academy to raise them as villains. However, she was caught in the midst of her plan by the superhero couple, the Commander and Jetstream. During the fight, the Pacifier exploded while she was still holding it and many presumed her to be dead. However the Pacifier had turned her into a baby and she was taken away to safety by her minion Stitches while the Commander took the Pacifier as a trophy of his accomplishment.

Ever since then, Stitches took Royal Pain under her care, raising her as his daughter and hiding her identity away to ensure of another comeback. Taking under the name Gwen Grayson, she plotted to make another second attempt to destroy Sky High.

Role

As a teenager, Royal came back to Sky High as Gwen Grayson, effectively working up to become Student Body President for the next few years, and gaining three supers (Penny Lent, Speed and Lash) to help her in her dirty work. She first appeared welcoming the new students and later took an interest towards Commander and Jetstream's teenage son Will (the protagonist of the film), even offering to have him as a date for the incoming School Homecoming dance. Her interactions with Will start to alienate him from his best friend Layla Williams, who decided to go out to the dance with Will's rival Warren Peace (whose father was a supervillain that Commander locked up).

Gwen slyly tricked Will into bringing in a huge party at his house, where she manipulated him into showing her his parents' trophy room. To that end, Gwen secretly had one of her cohorts to steal the Pacifier away successfully. She then proceeds to drive off Layla by insulting her and proclaiming that Will doesn't want to see her again, which left Layla in tears. Upon seeing this and being upset that his relationship with Layla is now ruined, Will angrily berates Gwen for driving Layla away and dumps her out of spite before telling everyone to leave immediately.

Despite her break up with Will, Gwen is finally glad that she got the Pacifier and repaired it for the homecoming dance. In the meantime, after looking through his father's school yearbook, Will soon catches up to the Pacifier's disappearance and Gwen's identity, believing that Sue Tenny was her mother. By the time, Gwen finally revealed her identity to the staff and students of Sky High, and started shooting the Pacifier at everyone, turning them (including Commander and Jetstream) into babies.

As Stitches loads up the babies into a bus, Gwen gloats over her victory until Will confronts her. She then revealed that she was Sue Tenny to begin with because she was turned into a baby when the Pacifier exploded, making Will grope in disgust that he actually hanged out with an old lady. Will and Royal Pain then engage into a fight, while Layla, Warren, and several sidekicks deal with Stitches, Penny, Speed, and Dash. Will (having inherited his mother's flying skills and his father's strength) manages to defeat Royal Pain by beating her down, but she pulls up one last trick on her sleeve: she rigged the school's anti-gravity device, which would make the school fall into the ground. However, Will uses his abilities to save the school from falling, leaving Royal Pain's plan in failure.

The heroes then reconfigure the Pacifier to turn everyone back into normal while Royal Pain and her minions are locked up inside the detention room to prevent them from escaping (since the detention room negates anyone from using his/her powers). In the end, it is revealed that Royal Pain and her minions are sent to jail for their crimes, and she cried out to be put into solitary confinement to no avail.

---

Double D: (glares Royal Pain while tied up) You're Royal Pain, aren't you?

Royal Pain: Of course I am. I heard you're one of the smartest members of Team Loud Phoenix Storm. I'd like you to help me build a little something for Stronghold and his friends in case things go south.

Double D: What makes you think I'm going to build anything for you?

Royal Pain: (takes out footage of what's under Double D's hat) I took pictures of what's under your hat. If you don't do what I say, me and my crew will send them to everyone in the entire world.

Double D: (sighs in defeat) Fine. But when I'm done building what you want, I'm donning my Iron Boy armor and kicking your ass!

---

In the school gym, we had everyone gathered.

Me: Hello and greetings to you all of Sky High. As you all know I'm J.D. Knudson, the leader of the world famous and mighty Team Loud Phoenix Storm. I'm sure you're all wondering why we've come here to your school. Well we have a special contest for you all.

Skipper: (to the Sky High heroes) Alright, on the floor of this gym are Voldemort's Horcruxes. You guys being around us have strengthened your powers. So, whoever can destroy the Horcruxes gets to join Team Loud Phoenix Storm.

Everyone gasped in excitement.

Me: The Horcruxes you see before you are Helga Hufflepuff's Cup, Rowena Ravenclaw's Diadem, Salazar Slytherin's Locket, Marvolo Gaunt's Ring and in a cage was Nagini…

I saw that the cage was empty.

Kowalski: Skipper, I've got bad news. Nagini has escaped!

Skipper: WHAT!?

Eddy: Where's Double D!?

Me: Uh oh.

Will Stronghold came to me.

Will Stronghold: I'll find him and Nagini for you.

Me: Will Stronghold. Son of the famous Commander. It's an honor.

Will Stronghold: You too J.D.

Edd: That won't be necessary J.D.

We saw Double D here.

Me: What happened Double D?

Edd: Royal Pain kidnapped me.

Everyone gasped when they heard that name.

Me: So Royal Pain is back. But if she didn't take you then who did she take?

Edd: That was a Quickclone of me.

Me: You sly fox you. Quick thinking Double D.

Edd: Here.

He handed me a flash drive.

Me: What's on here?

Edd: Royal Pain was blackmailing me into rebuilding the Pacifier for her and she threatened to show the world what's under my hat.

We gasped!

Me: That takes blackmail to a whole new level. That would flood the entire world in vomit.

I crushed the Flash Drive with my hands.

In the room, Edd's Quickclone was working.

Royal Pain: How is it coming?

"Edd": Nearly done. But I'm not here. I'm with J.D. The monkey wears orange jelly underwear that smells horrible.

He melted and was reduced to a pile of slop.

Royal Pain: A Quickclone. I haven't seen one of those in a long time. (GROWLS) He tricked me! Fine. If you want to do something right, do it yourself.

Will Stronghold smashed Helga Hufflepuff's Cup, Layla Williams formed a plant sword and slashed Rowena's Diadem, Warren Peace fired a powerful blast of fire and melted Salazar Slytherin's Locket, Magenta turned into a whale and smashed Marvolo Gaunts Ring.

Me: That's all of them except for Nagini.

Lana sensed something.

Lana: J.D. look out!

I ducked and Nagini tried to bite me and Layla slashed his head off and Nagini disintegrated into black dust and the souls of the damned were in it.

Me: That did it! All the Horcruxes are destroyed. Burn in Hell, Fuckpot Voldemort!

Then I sensed something coming fast and I punched whoever it was and it was LASH! I sent him crashing into the wall.

Me: It's Lash!

Will Stronghold: I'll take him.

Lash: You and your friends better back off, Stronghold. We've still got pictures of the inside of Sockhead's hat. If you all make one move, they go viral!

Me: Don't count on it you fuckpot.

I dropped the pieces of the crushed flash drive and he saw that it was destroyed.

Speed just zoomed behind me and gave me a wedgie.

Me: OOOOHHH!

Speed: How'd you like that, Knudson?

Me: I did not see that coming!

Angry at this, I fired an energy blast at him but he zoomed out of the way. As a result, the blast hit Lincoln as he screamed in pain and fell to the floor.

Loud Sisters: LINCOLN!

Me: Oh man! Sorry Lincoln!

Speed: That's what you get when you fight recklessly!

Me: Fuck yourself you fuckhead!

Speed: WHAT DID YOU CALL ME!?

Speed ran fast and I punched him in the face and knocked him out.

Lori: Are you okay Lincoln?

Lincoln: Yeah I'm fine. But that guy was quick.

Me: Sorry about that Lincoln. He was really fast. But I got to admit, he's one of the first people to ever get the drop on me like that.

Nico: Yeah he sure got you didn't he?

Me: No shit.

I went up to Speed and strip him of his powers and gave them to Lincoln.

Lincoln: Wow!

Lincoln used his super speed and grabbed Lash and electrocuted him with 500 quintillion volts of electricity and knocked him out.

I stripped Lash of his powers and gave them to Linka.

Me: You two don't deserve your powers.

Speed got up and I punched him in the mouth and knocked out all of his teeth.

SMASH!

Me: That was for the wedgie you fuckhole.

I fired a laser blast and it blew his whole arm off and I blew his leg off.

Laney punched Penny in the face and knocked her out. I stripped her of her powers and gave them to Luan. Lana froze Stitches in a block of ice and I stripped him of his powers and he was powerless now.

Then I saw ROYAL PAIN!

Me: Susan Tenny, or should I call you Royal Pain?

Royal Pain took off her mask and Kate Lloyd saw that she looked just like her! She was shocked!

Royal Pain: You can call me either.

We were surprised. I rubbed my eyes.

Me: Either I'm starting to go nuts from seeing double or Kate Lloyd has a twin sister!

Nico: Me too.

Me: You have a lot of nerve coming back here after what you did. You escaped from prison didn't you?

Royal Pain: Yes I did.

Me: You will pay for your crimes. Everyone, you're about to see all of us in action!

Lincoln summoned the power cannon and charged it up.

Lola and Lana had the Zeo Cannon Ready and charged.

Delphine: (Alien Voice) AQUITAR RANGER BLAST!

T.J. Johnson: Turbo Ram Cannon Mode!

Leo Corbett: TRANSDAGGERS STAR FORMATION!

Luan and Luna had the Quattro Blaster and the Spiral Blaster Ready.

Carter Grayson: RESCUE BIRD! UNILASER MODE!

Wes Collins: VORTEX CANNON READY!

Cole Evans: JUNGLE BLASTER!

Ninja Storm Rangers: THUNDERSTORM CANNON!

Dino Thunder Rangers: Z-Rex Cannon!

S.P.D. Rangers: CANINE CANNON!

Mystic Force Rangers: LEGEND WARRIORS UNITED FORMATION!

Operation Overdrive Rangers: DRILL BLASTER!

R.P.M. Rangers: R.P.M. ENFORCER!

Samurai Rangers: BEETLE CANNON!

Nico: MEGAFORCE BLASTER!

Super Megaforce Power Rangers: SUPER MEGA CANNON!

Dino Charge Power Rangers: T-REX SUPER CHARGE

Me: On my mark!

Nico: Royal Pain, you have failed this world!

Me: FIRE!

Ninja Steel Rangers: NINJA STRIKE STEEL SLASH!

Their Spin Blades were lit on fire and they slashed Royal Pain all over the place!

Me and the Power Rangers: OMEGA UNITY RANGER BLAST!

We all fired our blasts and they all hit her at once and exploded with incredible power!

KRABBBBBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOO

Royal Pain was defeated.

She was wounded and bleeding all over.

Kate Lloyd walked up to her. Royal Pain saw her and she was in shock.

Royal Pain: You look just like me!

Kate Lloyd: It's like I'm looking at myself in a mirror.

Royal Pain: But how is this possible?

Kate Lloyd: I don't know myself.

Royal Pain: Who are you?

Kate Lloyd: My name is Kate Lloyd. But you are like an evil version of me.

Royal Pain: I guess we could be like sisters in a sense.

Kate Lloyd: I guess so. But unlike you, I have been through a terrifying ordeal.

Royal Pain: What kind of ordeal?

Kate Lloyd: I went through a nightmare when I was down in Antarctica. I am the lone survivor of the Thule Station Massacre at the hands of a gruesome nightmare called The Thing.

Everyone gasped in shock.

Layla: I remember reading about that! 37 years ago this month, the entire crew of a Norwegian Research Station was completely massacred by something of unknown origin. No one was thought to be alive!

Me: That's right Layla. That massacre was caused by a gruesome extraterrestrial shapeshifting monster called The Thing. It was horrifying. It had the ability to imitate lifeforms perfectly. Making it almost impossible to tell who was human.

Nico: Yeah. Killed everyone Kate knew down there.

Laney: Kate went through a horrible nightmare that makes a walk through Hell look like child's play.

Will Stronghold: Whoa! That's terrible!

Warren Peace: No one should ever have to go through something like that.

Principal Powers: I know.

Kate Lloyd: That's right.

Layla: But Kate, everyone thought you were dead! You disappeared from that!

Kate Lloyd: That's right. I did disappear. I wound up in the year 2017 because of a Interdimensional wormhole that took me from my world to this one.

Me: It's true everyone. I remember that. Kate went through a nightmare that no one should ever have to experience in 100,000 life times.

Royal Pain: You survived a terrible ordeal like that? You've had it worse than me.

Kate Lloyd: Yes. There are greater evils than you and The Thing ruined my life and plagued me with fear, paranoia, distrust and nightmares from Hell. It was a fucked up experience.

Royal Pain: That is true.

I walked up to Royal Pain.

Royal Pain: What are you waiting for, Knudson? Finish me!

I prepare to fire an energy blast and Royal Pain closes her eyes. But she opens them to find out that I only fired the blast at the floor next to her.

Me: No. I'm not the person who Justice Lord Superman would be proud of. Right now, I wish to heaven and above that I were. But I'm not.

I walked away.

Will Stronghold: You know what, Gwen? Since you're a teenager right now, we'll spare your life. But we'll make sure you don't hurt anyone ever again!

Royal Pain: You coward!

I sensed what she was about to do and she fired her Pacifier Ray to turn me into a baby and I turned and held up the Reversing Mirror and the beam reflected back and it hit Royal Pain and turned her into an old lady! She looked like she was 100 years old.

Raimundo: Whoa! The Reversing Mirror turned her into an old lady!

Omi: (Tibetan Accent) That was very clever. The Reversing Mirror not only reverses the abilities of all Shen Gong Wu, but also the effects of weapons as well.

Lincoln: Very well played out.

Will Stronghold: (To the viewers) Team Loud Phoenix Storm is awesome! They are everything like we heard.

Me: Sorry about trashing the school like this Principal Powers.

Principal Powers: That's all right J.D. But thank you all for saving us.

Lincoln: You're welcome.

Me: We have good news for you all.

Skipper: Good news, guys. All of you are in. That contest was just to see your powers.

Me: You're all now official members of Team Loud Phoenix Storm! Welcome aboard.

Everyone cheered wildly.

Royal Pain and her minions were sentenced to life in the Neptune Prison without parole. We returned her back to her young self and stripped her of her powers and Royal Pain now shares a cell with disgraced Senator Kelly.

THE END

Another Awesome Fanfiction Complete and another Super Villain defeated.

I watched 2005's Sky High with my friends and it was so awesome! Kurt Russell, Lynda Carter, Mary Elizabeth Winstead and all kinds of awesome stars did a great job in that movie and it was awesome! This movie was made 6 years before Mary Elizabeth Winstead starred in 2011's The Thing. It was awesome! Her role as Kate Lloyd was awesome and so was her roll as Royal Pain. Too bad Sky High was such an underrated movie. But who cares? It was great! NicoChan11 gave me the ideas for this and I came up with others. Thanks man. Let me know what you all think. Hold in the contents of your stomachs because next up is a land episode for the SpongeBob SquarePants Episode The Hankering and Lynn Loud Sr. is gonna be eating a rather disgusting and unpleasant surprise.

See you all tomorrow.

The Hankering for Chum! YUCK!

This chapter is a parody of the SpongeBob episode The Hankering.

---

At the Paris Maximum Security Prison in France, Nico and Lincoln were there to visit Gabriel.

Guard: Oh Hello Nico. Lincoln.

Nico: Hello good sir. We just need to borrow Gabriel. We're going to the Saturn Insane Asylum to have him confront Lila.

Guard: Ah. Going to give her some of her just desserts. Okay. I better go with you guys just to be on the safe side.

Lincoln: Okay.

Gabriel came out.

Gabriel: Hello Nico.

Nico: Hello Gabriel.

Nico explained to him what was going on.

Gabriel: Count me in. I've been wanting to scold Lila for shooting Mayor Bourgeois and Sabine Cheng. By the way? How are they doing?

Nico: They're all healed up and out of the hospital.

Gabriel: Thank goodness.

Later they went to the Saturn Insane Asylum.

---

SATURN INSANE ASYLUM

We were over at the Saturn Insane Asylum.

Gabriel: So, Lila Rossi is in this prison?

Jack Spicer: Yep. And she seems to think that you can bust her out of here.

Gabriel: She's wrong about that. I couldn't get her out even if I tried.

Adrien: The others are about to beat her up. But me and Jack told them to stay calm until we come back with you.

Me: Yeah. The Saturn Insane Asylum is the toughest maximum security insane asylum ever. And escape is completely impossible.

Gabriel: Why is that?

Me: Look what it looks like at outside.

Gabriel looked out the window and he saw that it was floating in Saturn's clouds. The thunder from the Saturnian Lightning was intense and the view of the rings of Saturn and some of its moons was incredible.

Gabriel: Wow! What a beautiful view.

Adrien: Boy you guys weren't kidding! The view of Saturn's clouds is a beautiful romantic sight.

Me: Saturn is 72,367 miles in diameter and the clouds are 2,000 miles thick. But if anyone fell through those clouds, the gravitational pressure would obliterate them in a matter of minutes. Like with what happened with the Galileo Satellite.

Gabriel: Wow! That is an inescapable environment.

Me: It sure is.

Guard: Very impressive.

We arrived at Lila Rossi's cell.

Lila Loud: You know my name is also Lila and this is too coincidental.

Me: That is coincidental Lila. But you are a fusion from Lola and Lana.

Lana: I remember that.

Lila: Lord Hawk Moth!

Gabriel: (laughs) Oh, now it's Lord Hawk Moth. You didn't address me like that when you called me and said that you were taking matters into your own hands. I guess that's just until you get threatened by Team Loud Phoenix Storm, which serves you right, if you ask me.

Lila: Lord Hawk Moth, this isn't the time for jokes. They're going to torture me!

Me: Let them torture you.

Gabriel: Well, I can't say I'm particularly concerned about you getting your just desserts at last, Lila. There's a sort of poetic justice to it, really, being beaten by the people you tried to lie to. (gets angry) I let you serve under me as my second in command in my attempt to overthrow Grodd. And what do you do? You shoot Sabine Cheng and Mayor Bourgeois without my permission! That's a line even I wouldn't cross! And I have too much respect for the two of them to have them end up in the hospital! You disgust me! (calms down) So I hope you realize that I won't be getting you out of here. I couldn't even if I wanted to. If I ever here about you making the lives of my son and his friends miserable, it will be too soon for my liking, but somehow, knowing Team Loud Phoenix Storm, I don't think I will. Have a nice life.

Me: And another thing Lie-la. You also didn't count on one thing.

Lila: What's that?

Me: Kibal! Lets Howl!

I turned into Wolf Moon!

Marinette: Tikki! Spots On! HA!

Marinette became Ladybug!

Adrien: Plagg! Claws Out!

Mylene turned into Flamewolf!

Nathanial: Strype! Stripes on!

Nathanial turned into White Tiger!

William: Erida! Surf the Stream!

William turned into Surf Master!

Maria: Ursus! Claws Extend!

Maria turned into Bear Claw!

Lila saw this and she was enraged!

Lila: YOU'RE ALL MIRACULOUS USERS NOW!?

Me: That's right Lie-La and we all have a power that you can never have: Friendship.

Marinette: That's right! You got me wrongfully expelled and that is something I can never forgive!

Me: So if I were you…

All the members of the Redemption Squad and all of Marinette's friends and teachers were with us.

Me: I would start praying.

William: (to a horrified Lila) Well, there you have it. It's always nice to get an approval for a beating. Especially from a former villain and a resident of Paris.

Maria: Same here, William! Now, let's start beating!

They pounded the living shit out of Lila Rossi and it was a massive and brutal fight!

* * *

Later, after we brought Gabriel back to jail, we went back to the estate.

The doorbell rang.

Me: I'll get that.

I went to the door and I was surprised. It was Will Stronghold's parents Steven Stronghold A.K.A. Commander and Josie DeMarco-Stronghold A.K.A. Jetstream.

Me: Wow! Steve and Josie Stronghold A.K.A Commander and Jetstream!

Commander: That's right. It's an honor to meet you J.D.

Jetstream: Same here.

Me: It's a pleasure. Will told me so much about you.

Commander: Is he here?

Me: He sure is. Come on in.

They came in. Will and Lincoln were playing Super Smash Bros. on Switch and it was a good one.

Will Stronghold: Mom! Dad!

Commander: Hey there, Will. I heard that you and the others helped defeat Royal Pain once again.

Will: Yep. And this time, no one got Pacified.

Me: We saved all of Sky High. And everyone in the whole school is now a member of Team Loud Phoenix Storm.

Layla: It's true Mr. Stronghold. It's awesome!

Jetstream: Wow.

Maria: We just got back from beating up Lila.

Jetstream: Well, as long as you all didn't kill her, me and Steve are fine with it.

William: We're not going to kill her in prison. But she made Marinette's life at school a living hell and wrongfully got her expelled once. She had that beating coming.

Me: Yeah and she tried to kill her mom and the Mayor of Paris, Andre Bourgeois.

Commander: That girl is a monster.

Me: You don't have to tell me twice. But Steve you look so much like Kurt Russell.

Commander: (Laughs) I sure do don't I.

Kate Lloyd: I said the exact same thing to Royal Pain when I saw her. We looked like twin sisters.

Commander: Whoa. You're Kate Lloyd. You disappeared 37 years ago this month.

Layla: That's exactly what I said when we saw her. It was a nightmare from hell she went through.

Jetstream: What happened down there at Thule Station?

Kate Lloyd: It was a nightmare from hell.

Our huskies came and they cuddled with us while she talked.

Commander and Jetstream were horrified when they heard about everything.

Kate Lloyd: The Thing scarred me forever.

Jetstream: Oh man. Kate, I'm so sorry.

Lincoln: What Kate went through can only be described as 100,000 times worse than Hell.

Laney: Yeah. It was awful.

Lana: Yeah.

Warren Peace: Some of us are still shocked about what happened.

Commander: I believe it.

LYNN'S TABLE, GOTHAM ROYAL YORK, MICHIGAN.

We were now over at Lynn Loud Sr.'s awesome restaurant, Lynn's Table.

Marinette: Wow! So this is Lynn Sr.'s restaurant.

Me: Yep. Lincoln's dad owns and operates this restaurant. His dream was to become a chef and his cooking is delicious. And thanks to us we helped turn that dream into a reality.

Chloe: That's amazing.

Aurore: I wouldn't mind coming here more often.

Nino: Oh yeah! These ribwiches are delicious.

Me: I made those using the Krusty Burger's recipe for them. Before we blew up Springfield, Oregon we took some of the recipes from Krusty Burger and decided to use them in Mr. Lynn's cooking and get some ideas. McDonalds doesn't get the McRib in very often so I figured why not use Krusty Burgers Ribwich, permanently.

Luka: That's a great idea.

Kim: I like that.

Girl Jordan: Oh, these are delicious.

Laney: They are the best G.J.

[Suddenly, a loud roar is heard and it shook the whole restaurant.]

Me: Whoa! Sounds like a monster!

Jennifer Millie: What was that?

Nathiel Waters: Think it came from the Kitchen. Maybe Lynn Sr.'s in trouble.

Lincoln: [comes out of the bathroom] I'll save you, dad! [attempts to enter the kitchen, but Lynn Sr. slams the door in Lincoln's face; Lynn Sr. moans and groans as his stomach growls] Ooh, dad, thank goodness you're okay. [Lynn Sr.'s stomach growls really loud] Eww, what was that noise?

Me: Are you okay Mr. Lynn? Your stomach is really growling.

Lynn Sr.: Huh? [turns his body around] Uh, I didn't hear nothing. Everything's completely normal. Okay, closing time! Everyone out! [pulls down a rope and makes the floor push everyone out; then he frantically locks the door as we all look at Lynn Sr. suspiciously] Eh..o-okay… [laughs nervously] See you tomorrow.

Me: Mr. Lynn, what has gotten into you?

Lincoln: Yeah dad, we don't want to leave work early. Right, guys?

Everyone agreed.

Lincoln: Oh, dad, I could still- [Lynn Sr. and everyone else but us is gone, leaving with only a nickel] A nickel? [licks the nickel] And it's the same temperature as Mr. Krabs. [picks up the nickel] Ooh, he's gonna want this back. [runs off]

Me: Lets go!

We fly off.

[Lynn Sr. runs all over the streets of Gotham Royal York in a frantic panic. He hides behind the building and sees a taxi pulling over for a customer. He rolls over to the taxi and hides underneath it before it drives away. Lincoln appears and fails to stop Lynn Sr. He waves for another taxi.]

Lincoln: Follow that car! [crawls under the taxi before it drives away]

Me: Lincoln is really trying to get to him.

[The driver stops the taxi boat at a place that's located outside of Gotham Royal York, the Slop Pile. Lincoln comes out from under the taxi and is completely beaten up.]

Taxi driver: Sorry about all those speed bumps, kid. And the cactus patch and the demolition derby.

Lincoln: [dizzily] "Roast moblem, Orfficer." [pays the taxi driver and faints]

[Lynn Sr. is sitting at a picnic table, waiting impatiently for something. He checks his watch and frantically looks around. Lincoln appears from the air and lands on the picnic table.]

Lincoln: Hi dad!

Lynn Sr.: [shrieks as Lincoln's appearance startles him] Lincoln what are you doing here, son?

Lincoln: [pulls himself out of the table] I brought you your nickel, silly. [pauses and looks around] What is this place? And what are you doing here?

Me: Hey Mr. Lynn.

Lynn Sr.: Guys? What are you all doing here?

Me: Actually what we want to know is what YOU are doing here Mr. Lynn?

Lynn Sr.: Nothing, [takes the nickel] I've never been here before in my life.

[Just then, a man, who is the chef of the Slop Pile, appears and gives Lynn Sr. a bowl full of chum.]

Sal: Lynn Sr., my boy, got your usual here: one big steaming plate of chum! Enjoy.

[The chum belches slime in my face.]

Me: Chum!? (VOMITS!)

Lily: Dad eats chum!?

Lincoln: "Usual?" "Chum?" "Enjoy?" Oh, I don't understand dad.

Lynn Sr.: Oh, I suppose there's no hiding it guys. It all started back when I was around Lincoln's age.

---

Lynn Sr.: (Narrating) In my school we had really luxurious and tasty food. And boy was it delicious.

[The flashback shows all of Lynn Sr.'s friends and everyone he knows having an awesome time at recess.]

Cafeteria Chef: [rings his triangle] Meal time.

Everyone went to the Cafeteria. They had good food. Lynn Sr. had a whole turkey and awesome mashed potatoes and gravy.

Lynn Sr.: [voiceover] But then came that awful day. We call it the Black Chumday. Our school had completely run out of food and we went inside to eat in the cafeteria. All we had left to eat was Chum, Rotten Fish guts. [his past self sits in a chair and was given a bowl and the chef feeds him chum. His past self starts to eat chum] When everyone saw what they were eating they hurled their guts out! I was starting to feel peckish. [his past self starts to take a liking to chum] But, oh, that flavor. Sweet and gamy with a creamy, chunky mouthfeel. [a chum monkey appears as his past self continuously eats chum] Oh, I've had a chum monkey on my back ever since. [his chum monkey screeches]

FLASHBACK ENDS

Lynn Sr.: Been eating the stuff in secret for years now guys. [eats some of Sal's chum] Just got a taste for it. One of those addiction things, I suppose.

Maria: Mr. Lynn, why did you just eat chum?

Me: Oh that is disgusting! (VOMITS)

Nico: (VOMITS)

Lana: Aw it's not so bad.

Lana likes chum now too! She was eating a big bowl of it.

Lola: LANA! YUCK!

Me: Oh that's Lana for you.

Lila Loud: I like it too.

[A piece of Sal's chum gurgles for a bit before Lynn Sr. slurps it in his mouth]

Laney threw up.

Laney: (VOMITS!)

Lori: That is literally disgusting!

Leni: EW!

Lynn Sr.: Oh, uh, look guys, I don't want this getting out, you understand? [laughs] Especially to Ophelia Shroud. So what do you say guys? Keep my shame a secret, huh? For your old dad?

Me: Well okay Mr. Lynn. (VOMITS)

Lincoln: [laughs] You got it dad. Our lips are sealed. [zips his mouth]

Lynn Sr.: Glad to hear it. Okay, see you guys at home. [We fly away.] Sal, I'm feeling hungry tonight. How's about another plate of chum?

Sal: Oh, sorry, Lynn, that was my last plate of chum, ever! I'm closing the Slop Pile permanently. [closes his restaurant]

Lynn Sr.: [gasps] What?! [gulps]

Sal: Yep, I'm moving to Hollywood to make it big in the pictures. Just imagine this mug on a movie screen 30 feet wide! [a closeup of his face is shown while laughing] See you in the movies! [drives away]

Lynn Sr.: But where will I get my chum from?

[Lynn Sr. is now stranded in the middle of nowhere alone. The scene changes back to the Lynn's Table. Lynn Sr. is pacing back and forth about where he'll get more chum.]

Lincoln: Gosh dad, I've never tried to make chum before. I don't even know what the ingredients are.

Me: You don't even want to find out Lincoln.

Lynn Sr.: Ugh, well, uh, it's, uh-it's made from… [whispers in Lincoln's ear and we overheard about what the actual ingredients of chum are and from what Lincoln hears, it is really disgusting.]

Me: (VOMITS!)

Nico: (VOMITS!) Oh that is really foul!

Lincoln: [gags and groans in disgust] Eww. [as Lincoln is done talking, his skin turns pale and his skin color melts off; he mops up his color and washes himself with it.] Um, I don't think I can make that for you dad.

Lily: But don't worry dad. Mr. SquarePants dealt with this before.

Lynn Sr.: Really?

Lily: He sure has. Mr. Krabs had a massive addiction to Chum ever since he was in the navy and he was eating it in secret too.

Lynn Sr.: Talk about Deja Vu huh sweetie?

Lily: No kidding.

Lynn Sr.: Am I gonna have to go to Bikini Bottom to get some chum?

Lily: No dad. When we banished Plankton into space we got rid of all the Chum in the city and we used it all when that Krabby Patty Zombie Invasion reared its ugly head.

Gali: I remember that.

Nokama: That was terrible.

Irma Lair: But it was a great adventure dealing with Zombies.

Me: It sure was.

Lily: But Mr. SquarePants taught me how to make Chum his way.

Chum Free Chum he calls it.

Lynn Sr.: Really sweetie?

Lily: Sure dad. You won't be able to tell the difference.

Lynn Sr.: I sure hope you're right.

French narrator: (French Accent) Later…

[The scene changes to Lily serving three kinds of chum for Lynn Sr. to enjoy.]

Lily: Behold: three takes on Chum à la Lily Loud. [Lynn Sr. gives a taste on the first plate of chum] The secret ingredient in this one? Krabby Patties. Well? Huh?

Me: Krabby Patty Chum. Yummy.

Lynn Sr.: It's delicious sweetie! I'll keep this one as a meal for the restaurant. Next!

Lily: [gives Lynn Sr. another plate full of chum and him gives another taste] To capture the natural bouquet of the chum, I made this batch entirely from old cat litter.

Lana: Cool!

Lynn Sr.: [gasps, spits out some cat litter and his face shrivels] A little dry. [shakes his head back to normal] Next! [swats the second plate of chum away]

Lily: [gives Lynn Sr. another plate full of chum] Ooh, I think you'll like this one. [Lynn Sr. gives it a taste] I know you do. [giggles] It's made from wishes and love.

Lola: SpongeBob teaches you well Lily.

Lily: I know.

[Lynn Sr. belches out hearts and sparkles. His face turns into SpongeBob's face and laughs like SpongeBob.]

Lynn Sr.: [rubs his face back to normal] It's too sweet. Oh, none of these are right, Lily. Except for that one made of Krabby Patties. I think this old chum chewer needs some time alone. [leaves the Krusty Krab and sulks away]

Me: Poor Mr. Lynn. And there's no chum in Bikini Bottom or in the city.

Lisa: Actually J.D., there is one place that has been serving inedible and hideously repulsive chum in the city. The Pasta Bowl.

(Thunder and lightning crashes and bloodcurdling screams were heard!)

Me: The Pasta Bowl serves Chum!? (VOMITS!)

Nico: That is so disgusting!

Lori: That is literally the last place we would go to help dad.

Me: I agree.

---

[Later that night, Lynn Sr. stops at a brick wall and wails in sadness. His stomach moans and groans in hunger, giving Lynn Sr. so much pain.]

Poor Lynn Sr.

Lynn Sr.: Oh, The Pasta Bowl's the only place in town still selling chum, but I can't go crawling to Shroud for help. No, I won't. I got too much pride for that. [cuts to Mr. Krabs invading Shroud's trash can, looking for some chum] Oh, come on, there's gotta be some chum in here somewhere!

Ophelia Shroud's computer Selena and Ophelia Shroud came out.

Selena: [comes out with a flashlight] Uh, hello? [Lynn Sr. hides behind the trash can] Who-who's out there?

Ophelia Shroud: [comes out with a bat] All right, miscreant, come over here where I can kill you! [swings the bat around]

[Lynn Sr. attempts to escape, but Selena catches him.]

Selena and Shroud: Mr. Loud?!

Shroud: What are you doing here?

Lynn Sr.: Nothing, nothing! I, uh, [takes the shoe out of his mouth] lost my shoe! See? Found it. [laughs] Okay, bye. [his stomach growls loudly]

Shroud: [suspiciously] Hold it. What's going on with you, Mr. Loud? Your clothes are a mess and your stomach's making strange noises.

Lynn Sr.: [wears the shoe] What are you talking-I'm… [stammers until he gives in] Oh, fine! [throws away the shoe] I'm hooked on chum, okay?!

Shroud: Say what?! [her skeleton falls out in shock]

Lynn Sr.: Look at me now! Digging through garbage for scraps! [sobs uncontrollably]

Shroud: [sucks her skeleton back in her body] You actually like chum?

Selena: How is that possible? Nobody likes chum! It tastes terrible! It tastes like puke!

Shroud: [hops on Selena's screen] Shh! Mute your speaker, Selena. This pathetic display is giving me an idea. [walks over to a sobbing Lynn Sr.] All right Mr. Loud, since you are Lisa Loud's father and my arch enemy as well, how would you like a lifetime supply of chum?

Lynn Sr.: [stops crying] Really?

Shroud: Sure, for the low, low price of your special recipes and Lisa's greatest inventions!

Lynn Sr.: [shrieks] No, no, I can't! Not my recipes and Lisa's inventions!

Shroud: You sure, Mr. Loud? [holds up a bowl full of chum] Just breathe in that noxious smell. [sniffs the chum and nearly gags; lassos Lynn Sr. down with the chum fumes and holds up a chum-shaped pendulum] You know you want it. [laughs evilly as she attempts to brainwash Lynn Sr.]

[The chum monkey in Lynn Sr.'s head sees and hears everything. He climbs into Lynn Sr.'s brain and reactivates it with a steering wheel. Lynn Sr. crawls over towards Shroud and attempts to eat some of her chum.]

Shroud: [throws the chum out of sight] Ah-ah-ah. Not until I have the recipes and Lisa's Inventions.

Lynn Sr.: [growls] Oh, fine! I'll be right back. [goes to his restaurant.]

What he didn't know however is that we were watching everything from the shadows.

Me: Did you hear that guys? Mr. Lynn has lost his marbles.

Lincoln: Dad is making a deal with the devil.

Lori: We literally have to stop him from making a terrible mistake.

Me: And we will. Come on!

We went after him.

Lynn Sr. enters his office and opens his safe, only to find that he was tied up in Spider Web courtesy of Spiderman!

Spiderman: (webs Lynn Sr. up) You're staying webbed until we cure you of your latest addiction!

Lynn Sr.: You don't understand guys!

Me: Sorry Mr. Lynn, but this is for your own good. Your addiction of Chum has gotten completely out of control.

Lana: Just like how it was when I was addicted to dog biscuits.

Nico: You ate dog biscuits Lana?

Me: (Shudders) That day was horrible.

Qin: Gross.

Lila Loud: Yuck.

Ben: How about I go Nanomech, go into your dad's brain, and make sure his chum addiction is gone?

Me: No Ben. That won't work. You could damage something important and we can't take that risk.

Lilo: We can use Swirly to hypnotize your dad into losing his chum addiction.

Me: Hypnosis is always a good solution.

Lily: Wait guys. I remember this all too well. The only way we're gonna get dad back to normal is if he eats a giant tank full of chum.

Me: How big a tank full of chum are we talking?

Lily: As big as a whole house.

Lincoln: That's a lot of chum!

Maria: Where are we going to find a huge amount of chum like that?

Me: In the Pasta Bowl. I saw a huge tank full of chum inside that place with the spy bugs.

Laney: That's gross!

Lana: That's a lot of chum.

Me: Lets get over there. But first we need a decoy.

Lisa: Leave that to me 2nd elder brother.

Me: Okay here's what we do.

I whispered my plan to everyone.

We went to the Pasta Bowl and we saw a huge tank. It was a barrel shape tank and it was huge. We had a box and in it was a rotten surprise for Ophelia Shroud.

Lynn Sr.: Shroud where are you!? I'm here to collect my chum.

Shroud: I'm up here Mr. Loud.

Lynn Sr.: [climbs up the ladder and sees a whole lifetime supply of chum in an enormous barrel] Whoo-hoo! Just look at all that chum! And it's all for me! [laughs maniacally]

Me: Wow! That's a lot of chum! (VOMITS OVER THE SIDE) Here's the recipes and Lisa's inventions.

I handed her the box.

Shroud: Lets see if it is them.

Shroud opened the box and in it was a skunk and it sprayed her.

Shroud: Mommy!

FFFFFFFAAAAAARRRRRRTTTTTT!

It skunked her and she smelled horrible!

Lynn Sr. dove into the lifetime supply of chum and he was eating it like there was no tomorrow!

Me: Go, Mr. Lynn, go! Whoo! [Lynn Sr. eats some bread] No, don't fill up on bread! The chum! Eat the chum!

Lynn Sr.: [takes out a straw] Right! [slurps on the rest of the chum until he is completely obese and full]

We climbs down, open the barrel's door and enter the chum barrel. Lynn Sr. groans and belches.

BBBBBBBUUUUUUUUUUUUUUUUUUUUUUURRRRRRRRRPPPPPPPP

Me: You did it Mr. Lynn!

Lincoln: [hugs Lynn Sr.] Dad, you did it!

Me: Our trap worked!

Lynn Sr.: Oh, and I think I killed my taste for chum too. See? [sticks out his tongue that has tombstones on his taste buds] I'll never touch another bite of this stuff as long as I live. [groans]

Me: I wouldn't either. (VOMITS!)

Nico: You are a hero Mr. Lynn. A gross hero. (VOMITS)

Me: Lets go to a movie to take our minds off this.

We left and rolled Lynn Sr. out of the restaurant.

William: (glares at Ophelia) This doesn't change a thing between us.

Shroud: CURSE YOU LOUD'S!

[The scene changes to all of us and the chum monkey watching Sal's latest movie at the movie theater. It was called Dr. Foe. A parody of the famous James Bond first ever film Dr. No. He is the star of an action-adventure Spy movie that features an evil mad scientist and Sal a secret agent.]

Sal: You'll never get away with this, Dr. Kelpington!

Lily: [whispers to the chum monkey] Mm, could you pass the popcorn?

[The chum monkey screeches at Lily.]

---

Later the next day at the Krusty Krab, Lily was working behind the grill.

Mr. Krabs: So yer dad liked chum like me?

Lily: Uch! It was so gross Mr. Krabs. His school ran out of food and he had a huge addiction to chum ever since when he was my brothers age.

Mr. Krabs: Boy talk about deja vu lass!

Lily: No kidding. J.D. was hurling his guts out when we saw him eat the stuff. Lana actually likes chum now.

Mr. Krabs: Your sister likes chum now lass?

Lily: You know Lana. She loves disgusting things. But now we've added Krabby Patty chum to the menu of my dads restaurant.

Mr. Krabs: That's great lass!

Lily: Yeah. But thanks to Ophelia Shroud we destroyed his taste for chum. Pretty Ironic huh?

Mr. Krabs: (Laughs Heartily) You got that right lass.

They laughed.

THE END

Another Fanfiction and a funny episode of SpongeBob done Loud House Style complete.

The Hankering aired last month and it was the grossest episode and funniest one ever. Mr. Krabs was eating chum and it was disgusting and funny! Can you imagine eating chum!? YUCK! That would taste, smell and look like puke! It's rotten fish guts! VOMITVILLE! NicoChan11 gave me the ideas for this. Thanks man. Let me know what you all think. Next up is the first ever Star Trek chapter. We're going to do Star Trek VI: The Undiscovered Country and that is a movie I've known since I was a little kid. It's what got me into Star Trek because of my dad.

See you all tomorrow.

The Undiscovered Country

In the Swiss Alps over in Switzerland we were enjoying the beauty and scenery. We were looking at the beautiful mountains of the Alps and it was beautiful.

Me: (Inhales) Ahh. Beautiful sight.

Nico: Boy you said it J.D. The Swiss Alps are beautiful.

Laney: They sure are. (Echoing) OLDELAY OO OO!

Lori: Ooh. Nice one Laney.

Lincoln: The Swiss Alps are so beautiful. I remember when we came here on our Worldwide Vacation.

Me: Me too. That was the most amazing vacation ever.

Qin: I can tell. That vacation from what you guys told me was awesome.

Nicole: It was Qin.

Lana: Hey guys! Look there!

We looked and we saw a Dialga the Time Pokemon, Palkia the Space Pokemon and Giratina the Dimension Pokemon.

Kirby: Is that a Dialga, Giratina and Palkia? We haven't seen them since the Team Galactic incident.

Me: No we haven't. Unless. They…

Nico: Could be geneslammed Pokemon.

Me: Just what I was thinking.

They saw us and landed by us.

Me: Wow!

Dialga: The famous Team Loud Phoenix Storm.

Palkia: Thank goodness you all are here.

Giratina: You got to help us.

Me: Let me guess, Team Rocket spliced you with DNA from Dialga, Palkia and Giratina right?

Dialga: That's right. My name is Carolyn Hope.

Palkia: I'm Olivia Pensgammon.

Giratina: And I'm Lanalda Ramirez.

Me: It's a pleasure to meet you. And I think we saw you three at the mall when we were there a while back. But you disappeared for some reason. Now we know why.

Dialga: We were originally security guards that worked for the Gotham Royal York Mall. I was in charge of watching the Jewelry Shops.

Palkia: I was in charge of watching the food court.

Giratina: I was in charge of monitoring the parking lot.

Plant Man: If you three were doing your security guard jobs at the mall, how did Giovanni's goons gene slam you?

Me: I think I know. It must've been during the battle with all of Team Rocket. When we went to kill all of Team Rocket, their scientists did this to you. But we killed all their scientists and took all their research.

Dialga: Good riddance.

Me: Yep. But we can give you three the power to transform at will. As well as give you your humanity back.

Dialga: You can?

Me: Yep. But there are also others like you.

Our friends that were geneslammed told them everything.

Palkia: Wow!

Giratina: Lets turn human again.

Me: Okay. But this is gonna hurt. Just so you know.

Palkia: Okay.

Giratina: We're ready.

Dialga: Lets do it.

Me: Okay. Boys cover your eyes.

They did so.

A Swiss Man came to us.

Me: Cover your eyes sir.

He did.

I snapped my fingers and covered my eyes and the three girls were in excruciating pain.

Carolyn: (head painfully reverts back) WHY?! WHY DO OUR TRANSFORMATIONS HAVE TO BE SO PAINFUL!

Carolyn had her neon blue hair, purple eyes come back and she had a scar on her face in the shape of a crescent moon.

Olivia had her purple hair and blue eyes back and on her left arm was a tattoo in the shape of a clock.

Lanalda had her raven black hair and red eyes come back and she had a scar that covers her right eye. She lost it in a fight.

Carolyn: We're human again!

Olivia Pensgammon: You boys better not be peeking at my private parts!

Lanalda: It's ok if you guys can look at my naked body. I'm really not much to look at.

Offroad: (turns into vehicle mode) Well, I'm not taking any chances!

I saw the man sneak and peak.

Me: HEY! Stop that!

I punched him.

Maria, Teresa and Leni put robes on them.

Carolyn: Thanks girls.

Maria: No problem Carolyn. You can look now guys. They're decent.

We uncovered our eyes.

Me: Whoa. Lanalda, what happened to your eye?

Lanalda: Oh I lost it in a fight with a thug.

Nico: Ouch.

Sideswipe: (to Lanalda) Shouldn't your reversion be able to grow back your missing eye?

Lanalda: I haven't thought of that. Lets see.

She opened her eye and for the first time in a while, she had her right eye again.

Me: Wow! It worked!

Lanalda: I can see out of this eye again!

Me: Lets get you guys some clothes at the estate.

We went back home to the estate and we got Carolyn, Olivia and Lanalda new clothes.

Carolyn Hope has an awesome blue summer shirt with a Dialga on it and she had awesome sapphire clock earrings and an awesome blue leggings and blue shoes. She had an awesome sleeveless trench coat on and it had clocks covered in blue fire and the kanji for Carolyn Hope, Dialga's Ambassador of Time on the back. キャロリン・ホープ、ディアルガの時間大使

Olivia Pensgammon had a pink shirt on with a Palkia on it and she had neon pink leggings and pink shoes. She also had a sleeveless trench coat with the stars all over it and it had the kanji for Olivia Pensgammon, Palkia's Ambassador of Space and Stars on the back. オリビア・ペンスギャモン、パルキアの宇宙大使

Lanalda had a purple shirt with a Giratina on it and she had purple leggings and purple shoes. She also had a sleeveless trench coat with the space-time continuum on it and the kanji for Lanalda Ramirez, Giratina's Ambassador of the Space-Time Continuum on the back. ラニルダ・ラミレス、ギラティナの時空連続大使

Olivia: Wow! We look awesome girls!

Carolyn: We sure do.

Lenalda: Yeah! These clothes are awesome!

Maria: Glad you like them girls.

Teresa: Leni taught us how to make all kinds of different clothes.

Maria: Yep.

Later in the Living Room, me and Lincoln were watching the very movie that got me into the Star Trek series: Star Trek VI The Undiscovered Country.

---

The starship USS Excelsior, commanded by Captain Hikaru Sulu, is struck by a shock wave, and discovers that Praxis, a Klingon moon, has been destroyed. The loss of Praxis and the destruction of the Klingon homeworld's ozone layer throws the Klingon Empire into turmoil. No longer able to maintain a hostile footing, the Klingons sue for peace with their longstanding enemy, the United Federation of Planets. Accepting the proposal before the Klingons choose to revert to a more belligerent approach and die fighting, Starfleet sends the USS Enterprise-A to meet with the Klingon Chancellor, Gorkon, and escort him to negotiations on Earth. Captain James T. Kirk, whose son David was murdered by Klingons, opposes the negotiations and resents the assignment.

Enterprise and Gorkon's battlecruiser rendezvous and continue towards Earth, with the two command crews sharing a tense meal aboard Enterprise. Later that night, Enterprise appears to fire torpedoes at the Klingon ship, disabling its artificial gravity. During the confusion, two figures wearing Starfleet spacesuits beam aboard the Klingon ship and grievously wound Gorkon before escaping. Kirk surrenders to avoid armed conflict, and beams aboard the Klingon ship with Doctor Leonard McCoy to attempt to save Gorkon's life. The chancellor dies, and Gorkon's chief of staff, General Chang, arrests and tries Kirk and McCoy for his assassination. The pair are found guilty and sentenced to life imprisonment on the frozen asteroid Rura Penthe. Gorkon's daughter Azetbur becomes the new chancellor, and continues diplomatic negotiations; for reasons of security, the conference is relocated and the new location is kept secret. While several senior Starfleet officers want to rescue Kirk and McCoy, the Federation President refuses to risk full-scale war. Azetbur likewise refuses to invade Federation space.

Kirk and McCoy arrive at the Rura Penthe mines and are befriended by a shapeshifter named Martia, who offers them an escape route; in reality, it is a ruse to make their arranged deaths appear accidental. Once her betrayal is revealed, Martia transforms into Kirk's double and fights him, but is killed by the prison guards to silence any witnesses. Kirk and McCoy are beamed aboard Enterprise by Captain Spock, who had assumed command and undertaken an investigation in Kirk's absence. Determining that Enterprise did not fire the torpedoes but that the assassins are still aboard, the crew has begun a search for them. The two assassins are found dead, but Kirk and Spock trick their accomplice into believing they are still alive. When the culprit arrives in sick bay to finish them off, Kirk and Spock discover that the killer is Spock's protégé, Valeris. To discover the identity of the conspirators, Spock initiates a forced mind-meld, and learns that a group of Federation, Klingon, and Romulan officers plotted to sabotage the peace talks. The torpedoes that struck Gorkon's cruiser came from Chang's prototype Bird of Prey that can fire while cloaked.

Enterprise and Excelsior race to Khitomer, the location of the peace talks. Chang's cloaked Bird of Prey attacks and inflicts heavy damage on both ships. At the suggestion of Uhura, Spock and McCoy modify a torpedo to home in on the exhaust emissions of Chang's vessel. The torpedo impact reveals the Bird of Prey's location, and Enterprise and Excelsior destroy the ship with a volley of torpedoes. Crew from both ships beam to the conference and halt an attempt on the Federation President's life. Having saved the peace talks, Enterprise is ordered back to Earth by Starfleet Command to be decommissioned, but Kirk orders a course set for "the second star to the right, and straight on 'til morning". As Enterprise cruises towards a nearby star, Kirk records in his log that though this mission is the final cruise of Enterprise under his command, others will continue "to boldly go where no one has gone before".

Lincoln: That is such a cool movie!

Me: It sure is. It's what got me into the Star Trek Series.

Lincoln: Spock was so cool! I love how he did that Vulcan salute and all that.

Me: I know.

Lincoln: What year does it take place?

Me: 2293.

Lincoln: Wow! Almost 300 years into the future.

Me: 274 years into the future to be precise.

Lincoln: Wow!

Me: This gives me an idea. Lets head into the simulator that will take us to the Star Trek universe and save Chancellor Gorkon from being assassinated.

Lincoln: Yeah! Lets do it!

We were heading to the U.S.S. Valorous Phoenix and we were getting ready.

Laney: So we're going into the Star Trek Universe to save Chancellor Gorkon of the Klingon High Council?

Me: Yep.

Maria: Who's the bad guy this time?

Me: There's a bunch of them this time. They are part of an evil organization called the Khitomer Conspiracy. It's purpose is to destroy the entire Klingon Empire.

I went over who they were and their history.

---

The seeds of the conspiracy were planted in the years leading up to the explosion of the Klingon moon Praxis in 2293, as various individuals in the United Federation of Planets, Klingon Empire, and the Romulan Star Empire opposed the thawing of relations between the Klingons and the Federation.

After the explosion of Praxis, these individuals worked to oppose peace negotiations between the Empire and the Federation, feeling that they would lose the most if the two powers set aside their differences so that the Federation could help the Klingons repair their homeworld.

Knowing that Valeris had been a protege of Spock, Federation Starfleet members of the conspiracy - which included Admiral Lance

Cartwright, Colonel Patrick West, and Section 31 - had her assigned to the Enterprise under the command of Captain James T. Kirk, along with enlisted members Burke and Samno. The three of them carried out the assassination of Gorkon after the Klingon General Chang had his cloaked bird of prey fire on Gorkon's ship in a way that made it appear that the Enterprise had fired upon the ship.

However these acts did not derail the peace process as Chancellor Azetbur wanted it to continue. The group next tried to assassinate Federation President Ra-ghoratreii at the talks on the Khitomer colony. Kirk and his crew defeated General Chang over Khitomer, with Chang dying when his ship was destroyed. Kirk and his senior staff prevented the conspiracy from assassinating Ra-ghoratreii.

In the aftermath of the conspiracy Valeris and Cartwright were handed over to the Federation for trial, and both were sent to prison. Ambassador Nanclus was returned to Romulus and apparently executed by the Romulans not long after.

By 2298, Cartwright had died in prison. Valeris was believed to be the last known survivor of the conspiracy. However Klingon Intelligence learned that the Romulan who had been known as Nanclus had survived and had changed his identity before returning to the Tal-Shiar. A Klingon Intelligence operative assassinated this Romulan and the other Tal-Shiar section chiefs. For having helped Starfleet and the Empire avert a disastrous attack on Qo'noS, Valeris was freed and began a new life as the civilian pilot T'Leris.

Valeris - Lieutenant Ensign of the Enterprise.

As a child she and her mother were abducted by renegade Klingons as part of a plot to seize a border world. When her father refused to negotiate the Klingons killed several people in front of her eyes and severely injured her mother. Valeris and the remaining hostages were rescued by a Starfleet team from the USS Ark Royal commanded by then Captain Lance Cartwright, but the trauma fostered a deep hatred and mistrust of the Klingons. Valeris convinced herself that her feelings towards the Klingons were logical and based in reason.

As a student at Starfleet Academy Valeris wrote a paper outlining a case against pursuing peaceful relations with the Klingons. By then an Admiral, Cartwright learned of the paper and had Valeris summoned to his office at Starfleet Headquarters. There he convinced her to delete the paper before it became public knowledge and damaged her career potential. At that meeting Cartwright revealed that he felt as she did about the Klingons. In the years that followed she would serve as an agent for Cartwright as he pursued his own agenda.

Early in her Starfleet career, Valeris became a protégé of Captain Spock. Lt. Saavik, who felt that Valeris was bigoted and arrogant nevertheless gave a full recommendation for Valeris out of her loyalty to Spock. However Saavik's conflicted feelings over recommending Valeris caused a rift to develop between Spock and Saavik, and Saavik transferred off the Enterprise at that point.

Following the destruction of the key Klingon energy production center of Praxis, Valeris became part of the conspiracy of Klingon, Federation, and Romulan individuals who stood to lose should the Klingons sue for peace.

Valeris was placed on board the USS Enterprise (NCC-1701-A) with two others, Yeomans Burke and Sammo. Encountering Captains Kirk and Spock, she explained that she was informed the Enterprise needed a helmsman so she volunteered. She spent the time between leaving spacedock and the initial meeting with Chancellor Gorkon's ship planting programming in the ship's computer and moving supplies around to prepare for the boarding of Gorkon's ship. When she learned that Captain James T. Kirk had expressed his own dislike for the Klingons in a personal log she made sure to make a copy of the log as she felt it would be useful later.

After Gorkon's ship was boarded instead of fighting it out with the Klingons as Valeris expected Kirk instead went to offer aid to the Klingons. Doctor Leonard McCoy went with him, and when McCoy could not save the chancellor the pair was arrested by General Chang - himself another conspirator. In the following trial the log Valeris made a copy of was provided to the Klingons, and Change made great use of the log in the trial.

Kirk and McCoy were eventually rescued. Realizing that Burke and Samno could expose her and the others Valeris murdered the two men with a phaser set at stun at close range. Encountering the bodies of the two men Kirk pieced it all together and realized that Valeris was the traitor. At Kirk's orders Spock entered into a mind meld with Valeris and dragged the rest of the conspiracy into the light.

General Chang attacked the Enterprise after the ship arrived at Khitomer, however using a modified torpedo the Enterprise crew was able to defeat him and destroy his ship. The senior staff beamed down in time to prevent the death of the Federation President. Spock beamed down with Valeris, and presented her to the gathered officials. McCoy announced they had a full confession from her.

Following the return of the Enterprise to Earth Valeris was sentenced to life imprisonment on Jaros II. She proved resistant to rehabilitation while on the colony - despite the efforts of the prison psychologist and covert Section 31 agent to draw her out. After the death of Lance Cartwright in 2298 Valeris was the only known survivor of the conspiracy.

Valeris was recruited in 2300 to assist with a Starfleet intelligence operation to prevent Kriosian terrorists from destroying Qo'noS. During this operation Klingon intelligence agent Kaj penetrated the shell Valeris had drawn around herself and Valeris was finally able to put her hatred of the Klingons behind her. For her role in preventing the destruction of Qo'noS Valeris was given her freedom and a new identity. As T'leris she became a civilian pilot on a Vulcan colony.

General Chang - Chancellor Gorkon's Chief-of-Staff.

In 2291, Chang organized a defense against an attempted coup against Chancellor Lorak, the legitimate ruler of the Klingon Empire. Chang ended the coup by slaying its leader, Kalnor in a duel under the rites of Blood Peace, but lost his left eye in the process. Shortly thereafter, Chang began that year's term at the Elite Command Academy, weeding out the initial dozens of applicants to find a select few worthy of commanding the Empire's finest warships. During the course of the year he discovered that Kalnor's brother

Melkor was putting together his own coup attempt.

Early in 2292, shortly after the academy graduated its latest batch of students, Lorak died and Gorkon was elected as the new Chancellor, but Melkor declared himself the new Klingon Emperor, a long-defunct title. This resulted in a three-way civil war between Gorkon, Melkor, and Chang, who did not feel that Melkor was a legitimate ruler, but was also not willing to accept Gorkon as Chancellor due to the latter's wish to seek peace with the Federation.

After several months of conflict, Chang fell into a trap by Melkor and almost died; Gorkon rescued Chang, who was honor-bound to end his opposition to Gorkon and swear loyalty to him. Chang was successfully able to co-ordinate his and Gorkon's combined forces and defeat Melkor, but before his defeat Melkor unleashed a supernova weapon which destroyed the system housing the Empire's key manufacturing and energy production facilities, a crippling blow to the Empire as a whole, and one that in part forced their eventual peace talks with the Federation.

Afterwards, Chang left his position at the Elite Command Academy and was appointed Gorkon's new Chief-of-Staff.

One year after the civil war, Chang was involved in the conspiracy to sabotage peace talks between the Klingon Empire and the United Federation of Planets. Chang was extremely fond of Shakespeare, and would often quote lines from his various plays. In an attempt to frame Captain James T. Kirk for the assassination of Chancellor Gorkon, Chang commanded an experimental Klingon Bird-of-Prey which had the unique ability to fire its weapons while under cloak. Chang's ship fired on Kronos One while it was under escort by the USS Enterprise, making it appear as if the latter ship had fired upon the Klingons, violating the terms of the truce.

This attack facilitated the boarding of Kronos One by co-conspirators from the Enterprise, who assassinated Gorkon. When Captain Kirk and Doctor McCoy boarded Kronos One to provide assistance and prevent a full-scale conflict from developing, Chang ordered them arrested and charged with Gorkon's assassination under the rules of Interstellar Law. He also served as the prosecutor for the state at Kirk and McCoy's trial, where he was successful in obtaining a conviction by forcing Kirk to admit that, as captain, he was responsible for the conduct of the crew under his, Chang was surprised that, due to the impending peace talks, the judge did not order the customary death sentence, but instead sent the pair to Rura Penthe. In an attempt to ensure Kirk and McCoy's death, Chang had the commandant arrange for the Starfleet officers to be killed while attempting to escape, therefore eliminating any suspicion as to the motive for the killings. Kirk and McCoy were ultimately rescued, however, by the Enterprise time running out before the Khitomer Conference, Chang ordered his Bird-of-Prey to intercept and attack the Enterprise in orbit of Khitomer. His ship initially had the advantage in being able to fire while cloaked, causing considerable damage to the Enterprise and also scoring a hit on USS Excelsior, under the command of Hikaru Sulu, which had arrived to divert fire away from the crippled Enterprise.

However, this advantage was eventually negated when Enterprise crew member Captain Spock developed a means whereby a photon torpedo could be modified to hone in on the plasma exhaust of Chang's ship. Chang and the other bridge officers are killed by the initial explosion of the modified torpedo, which allows Enterprise and Excelsior to launch more torpedoes that destroy the Bird-of-Prey.

Admiral Cartwright, Commander and Chief of Starfleet Command.

In the 2260s Cartwright was a Starfleet Captain, and commanded the USS Ark Royal. By 2268 Cartwright was a Rear Admiral working with Section 31. He ordered Captain Kirk and Mr. Spock to retrieve a Romulan cloaking device. Even back then Kirk was suspicious of the Admiral having a secret agenda.

In 2286 Cartwright led Starfleet's response when an alien probe looking for humpback whales began causing severe climatic disruption on Earth.

After the destruction of Praxis in 2293, the Klingon Empire sued for peace. Cartwright was a vocal opponent of the peace process, wanting to attack the Klingons, defeat them, and dictate terms. However Starfleet and the Federation Council did not accept his recommendations and supported the peace process.

Cartwright then got in touch with other members of Starfleet who felt as he did - including young Lieutenant Valeris, along with people in the Klingon and Romulan Empires who stood to lose if hostilities ended. Because Kirk had voiced support for some of Cartwright's positions, Cartwright and his co-conspirators used Kirk as a scapegoat when they assassinated the Chancellor of the Klingon Empire. They framed Captain Kirk and Doctor McCoy for killing Gorkon, and planned to assassinate the Federation President - an act they intended to blame on the Klingon Empire. Ironically, Kirk's battle prowess had the conspirators ask the Federation President for permission to stage a rescue mission, reasoning they would need Kirk once the war began. But the President rejected this as well.

However Kirk and McCoy were able to escape from Rura Penthe. With help from Captain Sulu of the USS Excelsior, the crew of the Enterprise arrived in time to the renewed peace talks to prevent the assassination. Cartwright attempted to flee but was arrested by Sulu and an Excelsior security team.

Cartwright was convicted for his role in the conspiracy and sent to prison. He died in prison in 2298 of apparent natural causes. Some members of Starfleet thought one of Cartwright's many enemies arranged for him to be killed in a way that appeared to be natural. As a result of his death by 2300 Valeris was the only known survivor of the conspiracy.

Romulan Ambassador Nanclus

In the 2290s Nanclus served as the Romulan Empire's Ambassador to the United Federation of Planets. When the Klingon moon Praxis exploded Nanclus feared that peace between the Klingons and the Federation would be against the interests of the Tal Shiar. He joined the Khitomer Conspiracy with the Federation's Admiral Cartwright and Lieutenant Valeris plus the Klingon General Chang among others to sabotage the peace deal between the two powers.

Due to the efforts of James T. Kirk and the crew of the USS Enterprise (NCC-1701-A) the conspiracy was defeated. Kirk kept the Federation President from being assassinated by Patrick West, and Nanclus was arrested.

Following the opening session of peace talks on Khitomer, Nanclus was returned to the Romulan Empire to face charges of treason. Nanclus was sentenced to death and as far as the Romulan general population, Federation, or the Klingons had been killed by a weapon set to disintegrate. This allowed Nanclus to slip away and undergo cosmetic alterations. After those alterations were done he returned to his role as a Tal Shiar section chief.

In 2300 Nanclus was involved in further efforts to destabilize the Klingon government by supplying Kriosian terrorists by providing them isolytic subspace weapons. The Imperial Intelligence agent Kal and Valeris were able to prevent the destruction of Qo'noS by the terrorists. Kal then set out to kill the Tal Shiar section chiefs during one of their get-togethers. The man formerly known as Nanclus was the last to die, with the last words he heard being the Klingon expression that traitors cast no shadows.

Colonel Patrick West

Born in 2243, West attended Starfleet Academy in the 2260s. While at the Academy he studied xenoanthropology, focusing on Klingon culture. After graduation he hoped to be assigned to starship duty, but was instead assigned to command to analyze the current situation with the Klingon Empire. His analysis came to the attention of the President of the United Federation of Planets, and West was invited to attend a meeting, but did not endear himself to the President or other senior officers.

West continued his career in Starfleet. By 2293 West was involved with other officers who opposed any thawing of relations between the Federation and the Empire. After the Klingon moon Praxis exploded, West joined the conspiracy to prevent peace between the two formerly hostile powers.

After Captain James T. Kirk and Doctor Leonard McCoy were arrested by General Chang for the assassination of Chancellor Gorkon, West put together a plan to send a task force in to rescue Kirk and McCoy. He presented the plan to President Ra-ghoratreii, but Ra-ghoratreii objected on the grounds it would cause a war.

West traveled to the the peace conference at the Klingon Camp

Khitomer. There he disguised himself as a Klingon, and tried to assassinate President Ra-ghoratreii. Due to Captain Kirk's intervention, West failed to assassinate Ra-ghoratreii. West aimed his phaser rifle at Lt. Valeris, but Montgomery Scott burst in on him and fired his phaser at the apparently Klingon assassin.

West fell through the glass on to the floor below. When Colonel Worf observed that the blood pooling beneath was not Klingon blood, Admiral Smillie pulled the mask away, revealing the dead man as Colonel West.

Harlan Burke

An enlisted member of the Federation Starfleet, by 2293 Burke was a yeoman on the USS Enterprise (NCC-1701-A) under the command of Captain James T. Kirk. He was a member of the Khitomer Conspiracy, a collection of people who did not want to see the Federation and the Klingon Empire become allies.

He worked with Yeoman Samno. After Chancellor Gorkon was brought on board the Enterprise he and Samno traded racist remarks regarding the Klingons before they realized fellow conspiracy member Valeris was still in the room and heard what they said. Additionally, both Spock and the Klingons had overheard them due to their enhanced hearing. Valeris asked the two men if they had work to do, and ordered them to set about preparing to assassinate Gorkon.

Later that night, after Gorkon had returned to his ship Klingon General Chang had his cloaked bird of prey fire on Gorkon's ship Qo'noS 1 in a way that made it appear that Enterprise had fired upon Qo'noS 1. During the confusion Burke and Samno beamed aboard Qo'noS 1, which had experienced total failure of the gravity systems, wearing suits and magnetic boots. The pair located Gorkon and fatally wounded him with a phaser.

A few days later Valeris realized that Spock and the senior staff of the Enterprise would soon determine that Burke and Samno had been the assassins. Knowing that Burke would expose her and the other conspirators, she lured Burke and Samno to a corridor, where she killed them with a phaser on stun at close range. Burke's death lead to Valeris being exposed as the traitor.

Thomas Samno

An enlisted member of the Federation Starfleet, by 2293 Samno was a yeoman on the USS Enterprise (NCC-1701-A) under the command of Captain James T. Kirk. He was a member of the Khitomer Conspiracy, a collection of people who did not want to see the Federation and the Klingon Empire become allies.

He worked with Crewman Harlan Burke. After Chancellor Gorkon was brought on board the Enterprise Samno and Burke traded racist remarks regarding the Klingons before they realized fellow conspiracy member Valeris was still in the room. (Not only that, but both Spock and the Klingons heard them due to their sensitive hearing). Valeris asked the two men if they had work to do, and ordered them to set about preparing to assassinate Gorkon.

Later that night, after Gorkon had returned to his ship, Klingon General Chang had his cloaked bird of prey fire on Gorkon's ship Qo'noS 1 in a way that made it appear that Enterprise had fired upon Qo'noS 1. During the confusion Samno and Burke beamed aboard Qo'noS 1, which had experienced gravity failure. The two men wore suits and magnetic boots. The pair located Gorkon and fatally wounded him with a phaser.

A few days later, Valeris realized that Spock and the senior staff of the Enterprise would soon determine that Samno and Burke had been the assassins. Knowing that Samno would expose her and the other conspirators, she lured him and Burke to a corridor, where she killed them with a phaser on stun at close range. Samno's death lead to Valeris being exposed as the traitor.

Lori: That is literally terrible!

Laney: What is the goal of this organization?

Me: To prevent the outbreak of peace throughout the galaxy.

Lincoln: That's insane!

Lana: But why does Captain Kirk hate all the Klingon's?

Me: Because they killed his son David Marcus. Captain Kirk wanted nothing more than to see the entirety of the Klingon Empire die.

Lily: That is not right.

Me: I know. Klingon's are people too just like us. They may look different, but they are still people regardless.

Laney: I agree.

Nico: Me too.

Me: Lets get going.

We left and went into the Star Trek Universe.

BETA QUADRANT, 2293.

---

We have arrived into the Beta Quadrant of our galaxy in the year 2293.

Me: Captain's Log, Stardate 2776.2: We are en route to assist the U.S.S. Enterprise and the Klingon Battlecruiser Qo'noS 1 on their escort to Earth. But also we're going to fight and kill assassins that are our to kill him and the entire Klingon Empire. We have to help the Klingons out or they have no future. They are dying and we have to help them out.

Lincoln: This is gonna be so cool!

Lola: So why is the Klingon Empire dying?

Me: A moon that serves as their key energy production facility, Praxis, exploded and poisoned the atmosphere of the Klingon Capital planet, Qo'noS. In fifty years from this time, the planet will be completely rendered uninhabitable. They don't have the resources to combat this catastrophe because of the Klingon's high military budget.

Nico: Wow. I remember that. That's awful. How many people live on the planet Qo'noS?

Me: 3.5 billion.

Nico: Wow! So only half of our population.

Me: Exactly.

Lucy Loud: What does Praxis look like?

Me: I'll show you.

I showed what happened to Praxis and it showed that it had 85% of its planetary structure completely blown to space dust.

Lucy Loud: Gasp!

Laney: Geez! What happened to it?

Me: It was blown apart because of overmining and poor safety protocols.

Lynn: That's terrible.

Luan: No kidding. They Mined themselves into trouble. (Laughs to rimshot) Get it?

We laughed.

Me: (Laughs) That was funny!

Eddy: (Laughs) Good one Luan!

Nico: (Laughs) Good one!

Lori: That was funny.

Jack Spicer: As soon as those assassins try to commit their murders, me and Eddy can use our blasters as sniper rifles to take them out from a distance.

Eddy: We just need a good vantage point.

Me: Good strategy.

Lisa: Captain, sensors show a Federation Starship ahead.

Me: On screen.

We saw the U.S.S. Enterprise.

Me: That's the Enterprise.

Laney: Wow.

Nico: Awesome.

Hinata: We're being Hailed.

Me: On screen.

Captain Kirk: This is the starship Enterprise. Captain James T. Kirk commanding.

Me: This is the U.S.S. Valorous Phoenix. I'm Captain James Dean Knudson, leader of Team Loud Phoenix Storm.

Captain Kirk: It's a pleasure to meet you J.D. You are widely known in the United Federation of Planets.

Me: I had a feeling we left our mark on this universe. We came here to assist you with your mission.

Captain Kirk: Understood. We're on an escort mission to bring Chancellor Gorkon of the Klingon High Council to Earth.

Me: We figured we could lend a hand at least.

Enterprise Computer: Now hear this. All officers to the bridge. Klingon Battlecruiser off the Port Bow. All hands man your stations.

Me: Looks like Gorkon has arrived.

We saw the Klingon Battlecruiser Qo'noS 1 appear. It was a big battlecruiser.

The Enterprise was placed in our domed airlocked hangers and the crew of the Enterprise came to the bridge. With them was Valeris and we decided to play along until the time was right.

Me: Hinata, hailing frequencies.

Hinata: Aye sir.

We waited.

Hinata: Channel is open.

Me: This is the starship U.S.S. Valorous Phoenix with the Enterprise. Captains James Dean Knudson - Leader of Team Loud Phoenix Storm and Captain James T. Kirk of Enterprise commanding.

Chancellor Gorkon appeared on the screen.

Gorkon: This is Qo'noS 1. I'm Chancellor Gorkon.

Captain Kirk: Chancellor, we've been ordered to escort you through Federation Space to your meeting on Earth.

Gorkon: Thank you Captain.

Me: Would you and your party care to dine this evening aboard the Valorous Phoenix will us as guests of the United Federation of Planets and Team Loud Phoenix Storm?

Gorkon: We would be delighted to accept your gracious invitation.

We made arrangements to have them come aboard at 19:30. 7:30 PM on the 24 hour clock.

We had a great dinner. We were introduced to Gorkon's daughter Azetbur, his military advisor Brigadier Kerla and his Chief-of-Staff General Chang. We knew what he was gonna do so we decided to play along until it was right.

We had a great dinner and some of the crew had Romulan Ale.

Romulan ale was a highly intoxicating alcoholic beverage of Romulan origin with a characteristic blue color (ranging from a pale sky blue to a dark midnight blue). It took a while to ferment and Doctor Leonard McCoy joked that he used it for "medicinal purposes." (Star Trek II: The Wrath of Khan)

In 2263 of the alternate reality, Montgomery Scott ordered three Romulan ales for himself at James T. Kirk's birthday party on Starbase Yorktown. (Star Trek Beyond) In the prime reality, Romulan ale was illegal in the Federation from at least the early 2280s to the late 2370s, but many Starfleet officers had actually sampled it at one point or another. A rare exception was Admiral William Ross. (Star Trek II: The Wrath of Khan; Star Trek VI: The Undiscovered Country; Star Trek Nemesis; DS9: "Inter Arma Enim Silent Leges")

Admiral James T. Kirk was given a bottle of Romulan ale dated 2283 as a birthday gift from Doctor Leonard McCoy in 2285. (Star Trek II: The Wrath of Khan) Captain James T. Kirk was able to procure some for his crew and served it at a state dinner with Klingon High Chancellor Gorkon in 2293. When Brigadier Kerla said he thought it was illegal, Kirk wryly noted it was "one of the advantages of being a thousand light years from Federation headquarters." However, the ensuing hangover convinced him to order that the drink no longer be served at diplomatic functions. (Star Trek VI: The Undiscovered Country)

In 2362, Fallit Kot hijacked a shipment of Romulan ale. He was sentenced to eight years in a Romulan labor camp. (DS9: "Melora") In 2366, the replicators aboard the USS Enterprise-D could not replicate Romulan ale; it would have required programming the devices with the molecular structure of the beverage. The recipe was not readily available, due to the lack of information and communication between the Federation and the Romulan Empire. (TNG: "The Defector") The Zibalian trader Kivas Fajo had twelve cases of Pratorean Romulan ale before the Federation confiscated them in 2366. These cases were mentioned in a listing of Fajo's collections in his Federation biographical data file. (TNG: "The Most Toys", okudagram)

Romulan ale was a challenge even for species as stout as the Klingons, who were usually quite resistant to the effects of alcohol. After drinking a sizable amount of Romulan ale in celebration of William T. Riker and Deanna Troi's wedding in 2379, Worf, obviously suffering its effects, stated, "Romulan ale should be illegal," to which Geordi La Forge replied, "It is." (Star Trek Nemesis). Romulan ale had been legal in 2375 during the Dominion War, when the embargo was lifted as part of the alliance between the Federation and the Romulans. (DS9: "Inter Arma Enim Silent Leges")

Background information

Blue beverages were also seen in Romulan contexts in TOS: "The Enterprise Incident" and DS9: "In the Pale Moonlight". In the latter episode, the blue beverage is identified as kali-fal, which may be the Romulan name for "Romulan ale": they both appear to be bluish liquids that pack a wallop. However, kali-fal is known to have a potent aroma, whereas Romulan ale was never mentioned to have such an aroma.

Enterprise officers also enjoyed blue colored drinks in TOS: "Space Seed" and "Is There in Truth No Beauty?". However, the blue drink in the latter was explicitly identified as Antarean brandy on-screen.

In the script for Star Trek II: The Wrath of Khan, the stage directions stated that, when Kirk and McCoy drink Romulan ale, it is an "instant drunk."

According to Star Trek 25th Anniversary Special, the contents for the food props during the dinner scene aboard the Enterprise-A in Star Trek VI: The Undiscovered Country were: plastic sperm whale, hardboiled "Klingon" egg, unspecified flower species, chicken a-la-king, and blue Kool-Aid for the Romulan Ale.

Per the Star Trek Cookbook, the Romulan ale shown on the shows was actually Glacier Freeze Gatorade mixed with seltzer.

In the first draft script for "Caretaker", Tom Paris ordered a tall glass of Romulan ale in Quark's, aboard space station Deep Space 9.

The Las Vegas Star Trek Experience sold bottles and six-packs of "Romulan ale", a blue lager-style beer made by Central American brewery Cerveceria La Constancia on exclusive license from Paramount Pictures. The Klingon actors were scripted to claim that "you Humans cannot hold your neurotoxins!"

In real life, the book 488 Bacardi Rum Based Cocktails included a recipe for "Real Romulan Ale", a mixture of Bacardi rum, Everclear alcohol, and Blue Curaçao liqueur.

Romulan ale has always appeared some tint of blue, except in Star Trek Nemesis, when it appeared brownish-colored. This is either a continuity violation or an introduction of a new type of ale not seen on-screen before.

In 2009, an energy drink called Romulan Ale Energy Drink was manufactured by Boston America and released to tie into the film Star Trek.

In Star Trek Beyond, after Montgomery Scott is heard in the background ordering three Romulan ales for himself, he is shown drinking a similarly brownish liquid. The Romulan ale bottle seen in Star Trek Nemesis was sold off on the It's A Wrap! sale and auction on eBay.

Apocrypha

Diane Duane's The Romulan Way states that Romulan ale is brewed from grains such as kheh, and states that the primary reason it is difficult to imbibe is that it is harsh to the throat. Terise Haleakala-LoBrutto, one of the protagonists, comments that the Romulans drink it in part to prove that they can. The book also has a form of wine that is easier on the throat but more alcoholic.

The Romulan tutorial missions in Star Trek Online indicate that the ale produced on Virinat, a Romulan colony, is brewed from honey-like secretions of khellid insects.

We couldn't have a powerful level of alcohol like that. It was deadly.

After we had a great dinner we were watching Gorkon's ship closely. We've been getting strange readings on our instruments about a Neutron Radiation Surge. It was really unusual.

Me: This is weird.

Nico: No kidding.

But then we saw a torpedo fire from out of nowhere and it hit Gorkon's ship!

Me: Whoa!

Captain Kirk: What's happened!?

Spock: We have fired on the Chancellor's ship!

Me: Chekov call the torpedo room!

Chekov Aye sir!

Valeris: Direct hit.

Uhura: Confirmed sir.

Another torpedo fired and this time we saw where it came from. The 2nd torpedo hit the ship.

Me: Infrared scan!

The screen turned to Infrared Scan and it showed a Klingon Bird of Prey stationed over the ship and it fired those torpedoes.

Me: Oh man! I'm going aboard!

I got magnetic gravity boots on and I had my lightsaber and phasers ready.

I used Instant Transmission and beamed into the ship and followed a trail of bodies. The gravity field was crippled and the magnetic boots were holding me to the floor.

Me: Wow. These magnetic boots are amazing.

I followed the Klingon Blood. It was neon purple blood.

Me: Their blood is neon purple.

I followed it and went into the break room and found the two assassins. Just as they were about to fire at Gorkon, I fired my phaser right through their black hearts and red blood poured out of them as they died in seconds.

Me: That was a close one. (Speaking Klingon) Engage Auxiliary Gravity!

The back up gravity turned on and I grabbed Gorkon.

Me: That was a close one. Are you all right Chancellor?

Gorkon: Thanks to you J.D. I owe you my life.

Me: Think nothing of it.

We went over to the two men.

Me: Lets see who is under these helmets.

We pulled them off and we saw that they were Harlan Burke and Thomas Samno.

Me: Thomas Samno and Harlan Burke.

Gorkon: You know these two?

Me: I saw them when we invited you all on board.

Gorkon: I see.

Me: Chancellor, it's not safe for you here. We have to get you back to the ship and tell Captain Kirk what happened.

Gorkon: Of course.

Me: Just so you know Chancellor, we did not fire those torpedoes at you. A Klingon Bird of Prey was stationed right over our ship as it fired at you and it can fire while cloaked.

Gorkon: That's an experimental ship we were building. It was stolen recently by someone.

Me: We'll have to talk about it later.

I picked up the bodies of Burke and Samno and we beamed to the ship.

I appeared in the bridge.

Nico: What happened?

Me: Huge assassination attempt. Killed the assassins just in time before they killed Chancellor Gorkon.

Laney: Wow! Talk about cutting it close.

Lincoln: Are those the assassins?

Me: Yep.

I threw them on the floor.

Lori: Burke and Samno?

Captain Kirk: They tried to kill Chancellor Gorkon?

Me: Yeah. Also that ship that fired at Gorkon's ship is a Klingon Bird of Prey that can fire while cloaked.

Scotty: (Scottish Accent) How is that possible? A Bird of Prey cannot fire while she's cloaked.

Me: This one is an experimental prototype.

Gorkon: Somebody is trying to kill me.

Me: Not somebody. A bunch of somebodies. I know who they are.

Lincoln: So do I.

We glared at Valeris.

Valeris was standing in front of the view screen.

Valeris: I did not fire. You cannot prove anything.

Captain Kirk: Yes we can.

Me: You also were planning to use Captain Kirk's personal log against him.

Valeris: (To Spock) You knew? I tried to tell you but you would not listen.

Spock: Neither of us was hearing well a few minutes ago Lieutenant. There were things I tried to tell you about having faith.

Valeris: You have betrayed the Federation. All of you.

Lori: No, you're the one that betrayed the Federation, Valeris. You tried to have Chancellor Gorkon killed.

Me: What was your intended purpose for trying to kill Chancellor Gorkon?

Valeris: Saving Starfleet. Klingons cannot be trusted. (To Captain Kirk) Sir, you said so yourself. They killed your son.

Gorkon: I remember that. The Genesis Project incident. I never authorized for Kruge to go after such a powerful device. What he has done is treason against the Klingon's.

Nico: He's dead now, isn't he?

Gorkon: Yes and I'm glad he is. Captain Kirk, you have my sincerest of apologies for what Kruge did to you.

Captain Kirk: Thank you Chancellor.

Valeris: (To Kirk) Did you not wish them dead. "Let them die." You said. Did I misinterpret you?

Me: There's someone on the inside conspiring to assassinate their own chancellor.

Lynn: Yeah I smell a rat!

Leni: EW! Where!?

Lisa: No Leni, a Rat is the informal term for a traitor.

Me: Well we're obviously looking at one. You Valeris. There's more than one conspirator. I know there's more.

Lana: Who are they Valeris?

Valeris: I do not remember.

Me: Laney?

Captain Kirk: Spock.

Laney tied her up in plants and Spock did a Mind Meld.

Spock: Admiral Cartwright.

Chekov: (Russian Accent) From Starfleet?

Captain Kirk: Who else?

Spock and Valeris: General Chang.

Gorkon: My own chief-of-staff?

Me: Is there anybody else?

Spock and Valeris: Romulan Ambassador Nanclus.

Me: The Romulan Ambassador!

Laney: Is there anybody else?

Spock and Valeris: Colonel West.

Dr. McCoy: My god.

Captain Kirk: Where is the peace conference?

She didn't answer.

Captain Kirk: Where is the peace conference?

Valeris screamed and Spock let her go.

Me: I know where it is. The conference is on the planet Khitomer.

We enlisted the help of Captain Sulu, of the U.S.S. Excelsior. The peace conference was to start today and we had to get there quick.

Me: Initiate warp drive.

We were on our way to the planet Khitomer.

We were flying through the Beta Quadrant and we arrived at the planet Khitomer.

Me: There it is. Planet Khitomer, 6,000 light-years from Earth.

Lola: It's beautiful. It looks a lot like Earth.

Nico: It does.

Me: All hands battle stations.

Spock: Coming up on transporter range in 57 seconds.

Captain Kirk: Transporter room, stand by to beam down.

Me: Stand by everyone.

Then the visual turned on.

General Chang: I can see you all, Kirk.

Captain Kirk: Chang.

Nico: General Chang.

Gorkon: Chang.

General Chang: Can you see me? Oh now be honest Captain, warrior to warrior. You do prefer it this way don't you? As it was meant to be. No peace in our time. Once more unto the bridge, dear friends.

He fired a torpedo at us.

Me: Shields up!

It hit us and exploded and we didn't feel the impact of it.

Me: Nice try Chang.

Chang was firing a lot of torpedoes at us to try and get to Captain Kirk and Gorkon. It was a powerful fight. But our shields were far too powerful.

Spock and Dr. McCoy went to perform "Surgery" on a torpedo. They were going to modify it with an ionized gas seeking device to find it.

Spock: Key please doctor, time is short.

They opened the torpedo.

Spock: Connect Echo Bars. Alter circuit A.

Dr. McCoy: Sensor.

Spock: Plate please.

Dr. McCoy: Plate. We've got a heartbeat.

Spock: Key please.

Dr. McCoy: Key.

Captain Kirk: Where's that damn torpedo!?

Dr. McCoy: She's ready Jim. Lock and load!

They loaded the torpedo.

Me: Fire!

They fired the torpedo and it honed onto the Klingon Bird of Prey like a heat seeking missile. And then BOOOM!

It exposed the Bird of Prey!

Captain Sulu: Target that explosion and fire.

Excelsior fired torpedoes at it.

Me: FIRE!

We fired torpedoes and lasers at it and it completely exploded into a fiery mess.

KKRRRRAAAAAAAAABBBOOOOOOOMMMMMM!

Me: Bingo!

Laney: Yeah!

We landed onto Khitomer and we went through the Peace Delegates and I punched the Romulan Ambassador and knocked him down. I revealed what was happening.

Me: We apologize for what's about to happen here but you need to hear this. (To Romulan Ambassador Nanclus) (Speaking in Romulan) You have a lot of nerve trying to kill Chancellor Gorkon.

Everyone gasped.

Nanclus: (Speaking in Romulan) He deserves to die!

Me: (In Romulan) Why do you want to do all this?

Nanclus: (In Romulan) To not bring peace to the galaxy. Peace is nothing but an illusion.

Me: (In Romulan) That's a lie! There's always a chance to get peace! Whether between the Klingons and us or us and the Romulan's we all need to have peace. (To Azetbur) (Speaking In Klingon) This was all a major conspiracy to bring an end to the Federation and to the Klingon Empire. They wanted your father dead so that the Klingon's would die.

Everyone gasped in shock!

Nico: Wow! I didn't know J.D. spoke in Klingon and Romulan. Just how many languages does he know?

Lincoln: No idea.

Then a figure smashed out of the window above us and fell to the floor.

Me: Wow!

Troy Burrows: Humans from another world, time to meet Rangers from another dimension.

Megaforce Rangers: Legendary Ranger Mode: RPM!

Me: The conspirators that tried to kill Chancellor Gorkon are in this room. They are Romulan Ambassador Nanclus, Admiral Lance Cartwright, this man right here.

I take off a mask and it was Patrick West.

Me: Colonel Patrick West, and lastly the Vulcan Valeris that we have in our Brig.

Lana: That's right!

Captain Kirk: And now we have to stop these guys!

Me: I apologize that you all have to see violent acts like this. But it'll bring these traitors to justice. Lets get them!

We went at them and I punched Admiral Cartwright in the face and kicked Nanclus in the stomach and face and Nico punched Nanclus and Cartwright and kicked them in the face. Lori punched them in the mouth and knocked out some of their teeth. The Megaforce Rangers as the R.P.M. rangers were pounding them all over. Troy Burrows slashed them with his Road Sword, Noah Carvers blasted them with his Turbo Cannon, Gia Moran slashed them with her Zip

Charger, Jake Holling slashed them with his Turbo Axe and Emma Goodall blasted them with her Rocket Blaster. Orion blasted them with his Skyshift blazers.

Me: Lets weaken these guys and throw them in jail.

Offroad: You got it boss! CYBER KEY POWER!

The Gigantion Cyber Planet Key went into his back and enhanced his axe 100-fold.

Plant Man: Time for these seeds to plant! ANIMATRON CYBER KEY POWER!

The Animatron Cyber Planet Key went into his right arm and his plant barrier was enhanced 100-fold.

Offroad and Plant Man: PLANT AXE SLASH!

Plant Man merged his plants with Offroad's axe and it turned into a plant axe. Offroad slashed the Romulan ambassador and it hurt.

Sideswipe: Lets do it! CYBER KEY POWER!

The Autobot Cyber Planet Key went into his back and enhance his pile driver arms 100-fold.

Kirby: Time for this cute puff ball to strike! POP STAR CYBER KEY POWER!

The Pop Star Cyber Planet Key went into his right arm device and enhanced his abilities 100-fold.

Kirby: Lincoln do you mind?

Lincoln: Not at all Kirby.

Kirby sucked him in and Kirby copied his abilities.

Sideswipe and Kirby: LIGHTNING PILE DRIVE CRUSH!

Kirby fired a powerful blast of lightning and it merged with Sideswipe's pile drivers and he slammed them into Admiral

Cartwright and electrocuted him.

Me: Time to finish them!

Nico: You got it! These two have failed this universe! EIS SHENRON ICE BURN!

Nico fired a powerful blast of ice with Eis Shenron's powers and froze their feet.

Lisa Loud: You are a bunch of traitorous beasts that need containment! TECHNO STUNRAY SURPRISE!

Lisa used her technokinetic powers and made a stun ray and she fired it and it paralyzed them.

Captain Kirk: This is for the crimes you've committed against the Federation! FEDERATION BEAM BURST!

Captain Kirk fired a powerful blast of phaser energy from his finger and it hit them both and stunned them. Jack Spicer and Eddy fired their blasters in the back from above and they hit Cartwright and Nanclus and knocked them down!

Lisa: I recommend that you all stay down!

Captain Kirk (to Spicer and Eddy): You two make an excellent team together.

Jack Spicer: Thanks Captain Kirk.

We explained what went down and the Khitomer Conspiracy was stopped.

We were praised as heroes for stopping a terroristic plot against the three powers of the galaxy.

Lisa Loud: (To the viewers) Never underestimate the great and brilliant detective work of Team Loud Phoenix Storm.

Nico: You said it Lisa.

Me: Yep.

We later went back home. The Khitomer Conspiracy was thrown in jail for their treachery. It was awesome helping out the Enterprise. Captain Kirk gave me an awesome temporal communication watch and it would call us whenever needed.

Leonard Nimoy: (Voiceover) SPACE, THE FINAL FRONTIER. THESE ARE THE VOYAGES OF THE STARSHIP ENTERPRISE. HER ONGOING MISSION: TO EXPLORE STRANGE NEW WORLDS AND CIVILIZATIONS. TO BOLDLY GO WHERE ON MAN HAS GONE BEFORE.

THE END

Another Fanfiction complete and an awesome Star Trek Chapter complete.

Star Trek VI: The Undiscovered Country was the first ever Star Trek Movie that I've known. It was the movie that my dad got me that got me into watching Star Trek back when I was a little kid.. My dad is a true Trekkie, a true Star Trek Fan. He knows the whole series. We're going to be doing Star Trek chapters as well. The next Star Trek Chapter is a chapter for the episode of the series from the 1960's: The Doomsday Machine. This chapter is a tribute to the great crew of Star Trek that has been on for a long time and also to DeForest Kelly, James Doohan, Leonard Nimoy and many more.

R.I.P. DeForest Kelly who played Dr. Leonard "Bones" McCoy - January 20th, 1920 to June 11th, 1999.

R.I.P. James Doohan who played Engineer Montgomery (Scottie) Scott - March 3rd, 1920 to July 20th, 2005

R.I.P. Leonard Nimoy who played Spock and voiced Xehanort, Sentinal Prime and many more. March 26, 1931 to February 27th, 2015.

Boil. We're going to pop his zit and kill him.

See you all next time

Attack of The ZIT FREAK

We were over in San Fransokyo, a fusion city of Tokyo, Japan and San Francisco, California. It was San Francisco with a Japanese flair.

---

Long before the city was conceived, San Fransokyo initially was a spot of land in California where Japanese immigrants flocked to in the late 1800s. But history was changed when the 1906 earthquake struck the land and caused unspeakable devastation. What many did not know was that the earthquake was caused by none other than the renowned artist Lenore Shimamoto. Shimamoto was finishing an ambitious project-an energy amplifier-she created as a revolutionary power source, but the effects yielded a massive star that created the disaster known as the "Great Catastrophe". Filled with guilt, Shimamoto hid her work away praying that no one would find it and continue her research. The events of the earthquake, ironically, inspired the city to be reborn, for San Francisco was rebuilt by Japanese immigrants using techniques that allowed movement and flexibility in a seismic event. After the city was finished being rebuilt, it was renamed San Fransokyo due to it being a city made greater than it was before from Japanese and American architecture combined.

The modern-day San Fransokyo is a center for vast cultures besides the dominant Eastern and Western themes, being something of a melting pot. Among some of the city's most famous residents is Big Hero 6, a group of high-tech superheroes that regularly protect San Fransokyo from turmoil of all kinds. The team first appeared to stop an attack on Krei Tech, and in doing so garnered widespread media attention. However, there has been a presence of superheroes and villains as far back as the 1970s.

Layout

The layout of the city is a high-tech hybrid of artistic and technological architecture and a fusion of both San Francisco, California and Tokyo, Japan. Built on the coast of the Pacific Ocean (presumably in California), the city is designed to withstand the risk of further earthquakes. Animators added an extra spin to the Painted Lady houses of San Francisco by adding Japanese touches to them, such as the Japanese like roof tops, koinoibori flags, Japanese lanterns, signature cats etc.

San Fransokyo prides itself for its extensive focus on science and innovation. Esteemed universities such as the San Fransokyo Institute of Technology, are responsible for grooming some of the most significant figures in the scientific field, such as Alistair Krei. In fact, a large quantity of the buildings and technology in the city were constructed by Alistair and his company, Krei Tech. Art has also been an important part of the city's culture as far back as the early 19th century, especially the work of Lenore Shimamoto.

Conversely, behind San Fransokyo's bright aesthetic is the underworld of illegal bot-fighting, mercenaries, and crime syndicates-commonly based in the dark, grungy alleys of the city.

---

Double D: Here we are in San Fransokyo once again!

Me: Yep.

Qin: Wow! So this is San Fransokyo. It's amazing!

Me: It is. Sora has been here on his travels before.

Nick Russell: That's amazing.

Claire the Gatekeeper: It sure is.

Madison Rocca: I won't mind coming here in the future more often.

Maria: (to Horsea) How are you enjoying San Fransokyo so far, Horsea?

Horsea: It's amazing.

Charlie Thorn: So what did you come here for?

Me: That was an adventure we would never forget. We were here to fight Professor Robert Callaghan A.K.A. Yokai.

I revealed his history and what he was going to do.

---

Professor Callaghan is a renowned roboticist in San Fransokyo, credited with the creation of Callaghan's Laws of Robotics. He first appears in Tadashi's university known as the San Fransokyo Institute of Technology, with Tadashi and his younger brother named Hiro. Upon introducing himself to Hiro, Callaghan speaks that Hiro's fighting robot employs his laws, and subtly reprimands him for bot-fighting as opposed to putting his intellect to use. It is this that motivates Hiro to join Tadashi's university and to invent the microbots. Hiro's subsequent demonstration of his new microbots in order to join the university visibly impresses Callaghan, as well as Alistair Krei.

Krei expresses great interest in buying Hiro's microbots, but Callaghan intervenes with Krei's offer and states his distrust of Krei, convincing Hiro not to sell his microbots (a subtle reference to his hate of Krei). Once Hiro denies to sell the microbots, Callaghan accepts Hiro into the university. After the presentation, a destructive fire breaks out in Tadashi's showcase with Callaghan still inside. Tadashi runs inside to save Callaghan, but the building explodes, killing Tadashi and leaving Callaghan to be presumed dead.

Callaghan, as Yokai, is later found within a warehouse in a shadier part of San Fransokyo, where Hiro's microbots led him. Hiro and Baymax discover what appear to be robotic arms (highly resembling Callaghan's robotic arms in the showcase) manufacturing microbots by the dozen. Before Hiro could investigate any further, Yokai appears and bundles the microbots into a slithering wave, and attempts to kill Hiro and Baymax. Hiro catches a brief glimpse at the masked man before escaping out of a window. Hiro explains the matter to the local police station, but the cop he tries to explain the matter to is unsure whether to believe him or not, and Baymax's battery runs low, rendering his evidence almost completely unreliable.

Still devastated about the loss of his brother, Hiro theorizes that Yokai stole his microbots, then caused the fire in Tadashi's showcase to cover his theft. Determined not to let him escape, Hiro builds Baymax a suit and installs combat into his databases, as a chip of his design. Hiro tracks down Yokai near the warehouse. Hiro sees Yokai and ducks for cover and seeing the villain gathering massive parts from the nearby bay with the microbots. Suddenly, the rest of Tadashi's friends (GoGo Tomago, Honey Lemon, Wasabi, and Fred who Baymax had contacted earlier) drive in. Hiro desperately attempts to explain the situation, but Yokai sees them and attempts to crush them. Narrowly saved by Baymax, Hiro and the rest of the team drive off with Yokai right behind them. Yokai attempts to kill them by throwing vehicles and using his microbots as a wave to attack them. It ends with Gogo accidentally driving a car into the bay and sinking into the water. Yokai looks on, and, thinking they drowned, leaves.

Baymax saves Hiro and his friends by discarding his armour and using his buoyant balloon body to float them back up to the surface. They retreat to Fred's house, which, surprisingly, is a fancy mansion. Baymax then reveals that he scanned Yokai. Planning to do a mass scan on San Fransokyo to find out his identity, Hiro builds a new battle suit for Baymax, equipped with offensive capabilities and rocket-propelled flight, and designs suits for his friends, organizing the team known as Big Hero 6 to bring Yokai to justice. Baymax and Hiro fly above San Fransokyo and scan the city, and Yokai's information is matched to a distant and quarantined island.

Flying down to the island, the Big Hero 6 discover what appears to be a machine in progress. A video feed shows the construction of the machine, which was meant to be a massive teleportation device. Krei is seen in the feed, and a mortal accident accidentally ends up with the machine exploding while a test pilot named Abigail is launched inside as it does, leaving her to be presumed dead. This leaves Big Hero 6 to assume that Krei is the guy under the mask since the government forced him to shut down his experiment after Abigail's supposed death, and they believe Krei is using Hiro's microbots to steal his own machine back. Before the feed continues, however, Yokai suddenly appears, armed with the microbots, and yet again attempts to crush the heroes. Hiro and everyone else fights Yokai, ending with Hiro and Baymax flying into Yokai and knocking off his mask.

As they got up, Yokai turned and showed his true identity as Professor Robert Callaghan. Realizing that Callaghan was the one who caused the fire that killed Tadashi, a shocked Hiro confronts him for this, only for the professor to explain coldly that Hiro's microbots saved him and that he believes Tadashi's death as his own mistake. Out of complete rage, Hiro removes Baymax's healthcare chip and orders him to kill Callaghan. Baymax goes out of control and attempts to kill the now powerless Callaghan under Hiro's orders, but the other members try to stop him, allowing Callaghan to gather up the microbots and flee. Baymax is forcefully stopped and Callaghan reclaims his mask to use the microbots to escape, much to Hiro's rage.

Hiro is very angry at his friends for interfering and flies off with Baymax, leaving the others behind on the island (although Fred tells him that his butler picked them up and flew them back in his family's helicopter). After trying so many failed attempts to gain access to his access port, Baymax asks if killing Callaghan is what Tadashi would have wanted. With Hiro entering a fit of anger and despair, Baymax shows Hiro a video compilation of Tadashi making improvements, making Hiro regain his senses and realize that killing Callaghan will not do any good. Big Hero 6 regroups and looks over the video feed again. It visibly shows Callaghan furiously storming into the building, raging at a frightened Krei by telling him that he knew the portal "wasn't ready". The building was quarantined by the government, and Abigail the test pilot is revealed to be Abigail Callaghan, the professor's now supposedly dead daughter. It was then Big Hero 6 realized that Abigail's apparent death drove Callaghan to a point of vengeful anger, leading him to adopt the masked costume and manufacture the microbots to take revenge on Krei.

Big Hero 6 rushes over to Krei Tech's main building, where Krei is making a speech about the new building's opening. Callaghan, again as Yokai, suddenly intercepts, seizing Krei and dragging him into the air and directly confronting Krei about his daughter's supposed demise. Krei begs that Abigail's presumed death was an accident, but Callaghan dismisses his plea and accuses Krei and his arrogance and greed, and lack of regard for the consequences of his actions for being the cause of Abigail's death. He then tells Krei that he took everything from him when he sent Abigail into the portal and apparently disregarded her life and now he will take everything from him in retaliation. Callaghan takes the remains of the teleportation machine and with the microbots, rebuilds it over Krei Tech's building, intending to destroy it. He tells Krei that he will make him watch everything he built get destroyed, then he would kill Krei next.

Big Hero 6 arrives, and Hiro tries to reason with Callaghan to spare Krei, admitting that he understands his pain and knows the very feeling of loss. Realizing that what Hiro says may be true, Callaghan hesitates and appears to consider stopping his plan. However, when Krei cowardly pleads for mercy, the villain once again allows his disgust at Krei's lack of courage to consume him and instead opts to kill both Krei and the Big Hero 6, saying furiously that he wishes to have his daughter alive again, using the microbots to pin down each member of Big Hero 6. In a climactic final battle, Hiro has everyone work from different angles, succeeding in tricking Callaghan into sucking his microbots into the portal the machine above created.

Callaghan (without anymore working microbots) is about to receive a punch in the face by Baymax, but it turns out that the robot decides to spare the former professor. Baymax the removes the mask and crushes it, rendering the remaining microbots useless. As such, Callaghan starts to fall along with the portal, only to be saved by Baymax and Hiro. Before Callaghan can be arrested, Baymax detects life within the teleportation machine's dimension, revealing that Abigail is alive but in hypersleep, much to Callaghan's surprise. Hiro and Baymax fly into the portal and successfully manage to draw Abigail out, but at the cost of Baymax's original body.

For his crimes, Callaghan is arrested by the police, but he manages to see Abigail one last time before being driven off in a police car, and his sad facial expression implies that he becomes remorseful for his actions as he waits to be given a life sentence in prison for his crimes.

Big Hero 6: The Series

" Hiro… I never thanked you for saving my Abigail. (Hiro: I'm… I'm glad she's okay.) I never set out to hurt anyone… what happened to Tadashi… because of me. I know it's not enough… but I'm sorry. „

~ Callaghan expressing his remorse for his actions.

Callaghan briefly appeared in the episode "Mini-Max", where Hiro paid a visit to him in his prison cell. It is revealed that Callaghan was a close friend of Professor Granville (who became the new dean following Callaghan's arrest), and that Hiro only came by to ask about what caused her to leave 20 years prior. Callaghan then confessed that there were rumors about an unsanctioned project going wrong that caused Granville to resign out of shame and that the incident was covered up by an "official" story of a pipe burst. Hiro later learned from Granville that a certain student named Bob Aken was responsible for the unsanctioned project and that he suffered injuries after the incident, which prompted Granville to resign out of guilt since she allowed him free rein in the lab at that time.

With this information, Hiro thanks Callaghan for his help, but before he could leave, Callaghan reminds that he is thankful towards Hiro for saving Abigail's life, and that he is truly sorry for Tadashi's death. Callaghan also admits that he understands that his apology is not enough for Hiro to forgive him, though Hiro assures one day that he will.

---

Madison Rocca: Wow! That's amazing. But at least he was remorseful for his crimes.

Nico: That he was.

Me: Callaghan's actions were completely understandable. He was just doing what he thought was right because he thought he lost his daughter Abigail.

Vince: I remember that. We only gave him 20 to 30 years in prison for his crimes and with good behavior he'll get out in 10.

Vida Rocca: That's good.

Qin: So, what happened to Krei?

Hound: Nico sued him. It was originally going to be a million dollars until he pushed his luck.

Vida Rocca: How much did he lose?

Nico: $750,000,000,000.00.

Me: He went bankrupt and Abigail now runs his company.

Lincoln: Yep.

Xander Bly: (Australian Accent) Good riddance.

Me: Yep.

Drag Strip: I remember that the Combaticons formed Bruticus to fight one of the Heartless here.

Me: Oh yeah. The Catastrochorus.

Nico: That guy was ugly.

Hiro: It's a good thing J.D. taught me that revenge doesn't solve anything. Otherwise, I might've killed Professor Callaghan without knowing that he wanted to avenge his daughter.

Lynn: I'm glad you learned your lesson, Hiro. Because if you do kill a villain who doesn't desrve to die, then you really will go to jail for murder.

Me: That's right. I almost lost myself to Vengeance when the Kisenian Blossom came.

Hiro: I heard about that. I can't believe that monster wanted to destroy the entire universe and destroy all life with hatred.

Me: Yeah. Hiro, I know what Professor Callaghan did was wrong, but you have to forgive him for what he did.

Hiro: I know J.D. But you brought my brother back and for that I am truly grateful. I know it's the right thing to forgive the person that caused you so much hurt, but in my heart I can't forgive Callaghan yet.

Me: I know it's tough to make amends with the person who caused a lot of pain. But you can do it when you are ready.

Hiro: Thanks J.D.

We later went back home.

---

Back at the estate we were watching TV and having a bunch of snacks. I was looking at my collection of Wizard Cards. It was an impressive collection.

Lana was having some Bertie Botts Every Flavor Beans and she tried a vomit flavor one and to her it was good.

Lana: Delicious.

Me: Bertie Botts means every flavor Lana.

I had something on my mind for a long time. Ever since I killed Voldemort, I've been wondering why Salazar Slytherin was so motivated to kill all Muggles and impure wizards.

Me: I'll be right back.

I went to Hogwarts and into Professor Minerva McGonagall's office.

Professor McGonagall: (British Accent) Oh hello J.D.

Me: Good day Professor McGonagall. I'm sorry to come in like this but I have a question I would like to ask.

Professor McGonagall: Of course.

Me: Well I was wondering what is the Chamber of Secrets?

Professor McGonagall: Well as you know Hogwarts was built over

1,000 years ago by the 4 greatest witches and wizards of the age: Godric Gryffindor, Helga Hufflepuff, Rowena Ravenclaw and Salazar Slytherin.

Me: Yes I know that.

Professor McGonagall: Now three of the founders coexisted quite harmoniously. 1 did not.

Me: Salazar Slytherin no doubt.

Professor McGonagall: Correct. Salazar Slytherin wished to be more selective about the students admitted to Hogwarts. He believed that magical learning should be kept within all magic families. In other words Purebloods. Unable to sway the others, he decided to leave the school. Now according to legend, Slytherin had built a hidden chamber in this castle known as the Chamber of Secrets. Though shortly before departing he sealed it until that time when his own true heir returned to the school.

Me: Tom Marvolo Riddle who would become Lord Voldemort.

Professor McGonagall: Exactly. The heir alone would be able to open the chamber and unleash the horror within and by so doing purge the school of all those who in Slytherin's view were unworthy to study magic.

Me: Mugglebornes.

Professor McGonagall: Yes. But we don't know where the Chamber is located.

Me: I do. I know where it's at.

I went to where the chamber is located thanks to memory. It was in the girls washroom and I saw a snake symbol on one of the sinks. Professors McGonagall, Dumbledore, Snape and Harry Potter, Qin, Nico and Lincoln were with me.

Me: This is it. Right here.

I showed them the snake symbol.

Harry Potter: (British Accent) That's right. Watch.

Harry said Open in Parseltongue and the Chamber of Secrets opened.

Me: There it is.

Professor Snape: (British Accent) So it's been here this whole time.

Professor Dumbledore: (British Accent) I don't believe it.

Me: Lets go.

We went down into the Chamber and we found a door with snakes on it.

Me: That's the door.

Harry Potter: That's it.

Harry Potter used Parseltongue and opened it.

We went in.

Me: This is it.

We saw a Basilisk Skeleton on the floor.

Me: That's where Harry killed the Basilisk the first time.

Professor McGonagall: My goodness. It's all true.

Professor Snape: It's been right under our noses this whole time.

Me: It sure has.

We explored the chamber and it was a scary place.

---

Salazar Slytherin coexisted peacefully with the four founders initially but as time passed, he became fixated on the importance of Blood Purity and disapproved of the acceptance of Muggle-borns at Hogwarts. Disagreeing with the other Hogwarts founders about the matter, Slytherin left the school. According to legend, before he left, Slytherin created a secret chamber deep underground in Hogwarts Castle - known as the Chamber of Secrets.

That Chamber was home to a monster - a Basilisk - that was allegedly supposed to purge the school of all Muggle-borns. Only the Heir of Slytherin could open the Chamber of Secrets, through the use of Parseltongue. Over the centuries after Slytherin's death, many Headmasters conducted searches of the school to find the Chamber. None, however, were successful, and the Chamber was dismissed as a mere legend by many. When the Chamber was opened in 1943 and 1992, it was revealed to be real.

Openings

There was clear evidence that the Chamber had been opened more than once between its creation and the twentieth century. When it was first created, the Chamber was accessed through a concealed trapdoor and a series of magical tunnels. However, when Hogwarts' plumbing became more elaborate in the eighteenth century, the entrance to the Chamber was threatened, and was located on the site of a Proposed Bathroom. The presence in school at the time of a student called Corvinus Gaunt - who was a direct descendant of Slytherin -explained how the simple trapdoor was secretly protected, so that those who knew how could still access the entrance to the Chamber even after the newfangled plumbing had been placed on top of it.

1942-1943 Openings

The Chamber was opened during the 1942-1943 school year by a sixteen-year-old teenager by the name of Tom Riddle, later known as Lord Voldemort. Through Merope Gaunt, his mother and a Witch, Riddle was the last remaining direct descendant of Slytherin, and he desired to see Muggle-borns driven from Hogwarts. In his Fifth year, Riddle located the secret entrance to the Chamber of Secrets during his research on his heritage and was able to control the Basilisk as he was the Heir of Slytherin. Riddle turned the Basilisk loose on the school and many students were petrified as a result of the Basilisk's stare.

The last victim was a student named Myrtle Warren, who was killed in the Girls' Bathroom. Hogwarts was due to be closed, which upset Riddle, who did not want to return to the Muggle Orphanage in which he was raised. He framed fellow student Rubeus Hagrid, who had concealed a pet Acromantula named Aragog. Riddle convinced the Headmaster at the time, Armando Dippet, that Aragog was the monster that had terrorised the school. Hagrid was wrongfully expelled, and Riddle received an engraved Trophy for Special Services to the School.

Albus Dumbledore, then Transfiguration Professor, distrusted Riddle and kept a close watch on him after that. As it was no longer safe to open the Chamber of Secrets, Riddle, not wanting his research to be for naught, created a Diary in which to preserve his sixteen-year-old self and hoped it would one day lead someone to finish Salazar Slytherin's "noble quest". The diary was also made a Horcrux (an object that holds the user immortal) with the murder of Myrtle. This was one of Tom Riddle's first action towards becoming the feared Lord Voldemort.

At some point between the death of Myrtle and the 1992-1993 school year, the Chamber flooded under unknown circumstances.

1992-1993 Openings

The Chamber was re-opened in 1992 when the bewitched Diary of Tom Riddle manipulated and controlled Ginny Weasley, a Gryffindor First year who had got hold of the diary through Lucius Malfoy, who slipped it in her cauldron when he viewed her other spellbooks at Flourish and Blotts,[9][2][10] and fell under its influence. Ginny was compelled to vandalise the school by painting terrifying messages on the corridor walls outside Moaning Myrtle's bathroom. The first message read: "The Chamber of Secrets has been opened. Enemies of the heir, beware."

Opening the Chamber of Secrets let the Basilisk come out and made people look at it in different ways (all indirectly, with the exception for Nick), which Petrified many students, including Colin Creevey, Justin Finch-Fletchley, Penelope Clearwater, and Hermione Granger, as well as the Ghost of Nearly Headless Nick and Argus Filch's cat, Mrs Norris. They were later restored to their proper states through the use of Mandrake Restorative Draught. Fortunately, that time, no one was killed.

On 29 May, 1993, Ginny was taken down to the Chamber to die, while Riddle intended to feed off her life force in order to become fully alive again. Harry Potter, Ron Weasley, and then-Defence Against the Dark Arts Professor Gilderoy Lockhart went to the Chamber to rescue Ginny, as a message had been left that she was held prisoner there: "Her Skeleton will lie in the Chamber forever."

Once in the Chamber, Harry met with the memory of Tom Riddle, which was preserved in the diary. A near-dead Ginny lay nearby, whose life force was slowly being drained. As Ginny grew weaker, Riddle grew stronger. Riddle then revealed that he was, in fact, Lord Voldemort (rearranging the letters of his name from "Tom Marvolo Riddle" to "I am Lord Voldemort") and then summoned the Basilisk. Harry, after he knew that eye contact with the Basilisk would be fatal, ran from it, and was helped by the timely arrival of Fawkes, Dumbledore's Phoenix who clawed the Basilisk's eyes out, rendering it fully blind and no longer able to kill with its lethal stare.

Able to look freely, Harry battled the Basilisk with Godric Gryffindor's Sword, which materialised out of the Sorting Hat, which Fawkes had brought down to the Chamber. As Harry impaled the Basilisk, a fang stabbed into his arm in the process. Near death, Harry used the fang to stab the diary, which spurted out black blood like ink, and the memory of Riddle preserved in it was destroyed. That action also effectively destroyed the fragment of Voldemort's soul within it, as Basilisk venom was one of the substances that were capable of destroying Horcruxes. After the fight with the Basilisk, Fawkes's tears healed Harry's wound, and he, Ginny, Lockhart, and Ron were carried by Fawkes out of the Chamber.

1998 Opening

On 2 May, 1998, during the Battle of Hogwarts, Ron Weasley, and Hermione Granger went back to the Chamber of Secrets to retrieve more Basilisk Fangs, since they needed Basilisk venom to destroy Voldemort's Horcruxes, as they did not have the Sword of Gryffindor at the time.

Ron was able to open the Chamber by mimicking the Parseltongue that he had heard Harry use in his sleep to open Salazar Slytherin's Locket. Once inside, Hermione stabbed Hufflepuff's Cup with a Basilisk Fang that was taken from the dead Basilisk's skeleton, which destroyed the Horcrux.

Entrance

The Entrance to the Chamber was at a snake-engraved sink tap on the Second Floor Girls' Lavatory, where a ghost of a girl named Myrtle Warren, more commonly known as Moaning Myrtle was often found. A corridor may be entered by giving the command of: "Open" or "Open up" to a snake engraved on the entrance in Parseltongue.

The engraved snake was on a tap over one of the sinks. The snake twisted, which made the other snakes go back. According to Myrtle, the tap had never worked. A passage opened from the sink that lead to a corridor, which Harry and Ron opened in 1993 and 1998, respectively.

This hidden passage behind the fixture was actually the works of Corvinus Gaunt's doing, as the proposal of the new girls' bathroom threatened to expose the original entrance - a concealed trapdoor and a series of magical tunnels - so he secretly ensured the passage would be adapted to the new washroom's creation without compromising its hidden nature, and that those who knew how could still access the Chamber.

Corridor of Secrets

That corridor was a passageway that lead to the door of the Chamber. In the spring of 1993, Harry Potter, Ron Weasley, and Gilderoy Lockhart found an old and shed Basilisk Skin while they travelled through the corridor. Lockhart accidentally caused a cave-in when he attempted to use Ron's Broken Wand to cast a Memory Charm, which backfired instead.

Me: This place brings back a lot of bad memories.

Nico: For a lot of people.

Qin: Yeah.

Lincoln: This place reeks of evil.

Me: We need to destroy this place and seal it off forever.

Professor Dumbledore: I agree with you J.D.

Nico: Me too.

Me: Professors, you've seen our power before. This is gonna be powerfully explosive.

Professor Dumbledore: Right.

They left the chamber.

Me: Lets blow this place to smithereens.

Nico: You got it!

Massive explosions of fire began destroying everything and blowing everything in the chamber apart.

KRABBOOOOMM! KRABBOOOOOOM! BOOOM! BOOOM! KRABBOOOOOOOOOOOOOOMMMM! KRABBBOOOOOOOOMMM!

Qin fired blasts of pure fire and Lincoln fired blasts of lightning. I fired energy blasts and Nico fired blasts of fire.

Me: PAYBACK TIME FOR ALL THE SUFFERING YOU'VE CAUSED!

We continued blasting the whole place apart.

BOOOMM!

We set our sights on the face of Salazar Slytherin.

We fired a massive energy blast at it. The whole statue exploded into fiery rubble.

KRAAAAABBBBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOO

Then the whole cave was coming down.

Me: Lets get out of here guys!

Qin: Right!

We left the chamber and reappeared in the Girls Washroom.

Nico: Whoo yeah!

Lincoln: That was a blast!

Me: Now for the grand finale!

I fired an energy blast down into the Chamber entrance and it hit the whole room of the chamber entrance and exploded with incredible power.

KRABBBBBBBBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOO

The explosion of fire went up through the chamber tube and we ducked and the whole sinks exploded into dust.

All that was left of the chamber was a smoldering crater.

Me: NICE!

Qin: That was intense.

Lincoln: It was.

Nico: Salazar Slytherin and Lord Voldemort, you both have failed this whole universe.

Me: They sure have.

Professor Dumbledore: Great job to all of you.

Me: Thanks Professor.

Professor McGonagall: Well done to all of you.

Qin: This was so cool.

Professor Snape: I'm impressed.

Me: Thanks.

Then my watch alarm went off.

Me: Uh oh. We got a bad guy to stop. Lets go guys.

We went back to the estate.

---

At the estate we went to the computer and we saw that Abby and Ty's enemy Lance Boil was at it again!

---

Lance Boil was an antagonist in the show Grossology. A former member of the Bureau of Grossology, he betrayed them and turned to evil and became very vengeful towards all the members of Grossology.

As a member of Grossology

Lance was once a successful member of Grossologist, but grew tired of the grind. Lance Boil quit the Grossology team for never receiving much credit and soon he was fired. He also caused the Gag Lab to fill with pus, revealing his plan to take over the Bureau of Grossology. It is also shown that Ty played around with Lance's Shrink Ray, removing a part and causing Lance to blast himself and shrink. At first, Lance didn't like how he looked, but later on, he is shown to be very proud of his boil. After being fired from the team, he decided to use his skills for evil, with one goal in his twisted head; revenge against all Grossologists; especially Abby and Ty. Deep down, Lance Boil is insecure due to being short, having a big head, and having a boil on his head.

* * *

Me: Lance Boil!? Who the hell is this douchebag?

Abby: He's one of our most dangerous enemies.

Lori: He is literally disgusting! His head literally looks like an ugly zit!

Luan: There's no Popping that boil! (Laughs to rimshot) Get it?

Most of us laughed while everyone else sighed.

Me: (Laughs) That was a good one Luan!

Eddy: (Laughs) That was funny!

Abby: He wants revenge on all members of the Bureau of Grossology for being fired after he tried to take over the organization. He wants to now destroy the entire organization.

Ty: End of the line, Boil!

Lance Boil: So the mighty Team Loud Phoenix Storm has come to stop me.

Me: We didn't just come to stop you, we came to kill you.

Lola: You are hideously ugly!

Nico: Yeah!

Me: Fartor was given a merciful death because we felt sorry for him.

Lance Boil: It's a good thing that you all killed Fartor. That moron always was worthless.

Me: Shut your fucking trap!

William: You shut your damn mouth about Fartor! He might've been disgusting. But he was more human then you'll ever be!

HAPPY 1ST DAY OF HANUKKAH 2019 EVERYONE

---

In the estate, I was lighting the first candle of a Menorah. It was for a very special reason. Today was December 22nd, 2019 - the 1st day of the 8 days of Hanukkah.

Me: Candle one is lit. (To the viewers) Oh hello there. Now I'm sure you're wondering why I lit the first candle of a menorah. Well today is the 1st day of the Jewish holiday week, Hanukkah. I'm not Jewish, I'm Christian and it can't hurt for us to learn all about new religions. Now Hanukkah has a history behind it that dates back to over 2,000 years ago. It was back during an event called the Maccabean Revolt. It was back in 167 B.C. to 160 B.C.

GRATUITUS EDUCATIONAL INFORMATION.

The Maccabean Revolt (Hebrew: מרד החשמונאים ) was a Jewish rebellion, lasting from 167 to 160 BCE, led by the Maccabees against the Seleucid Empire and the Hellenistic influence on Jewish life.

Timeline

In the narrative of I Maccabees, after Antiochus IV issued his decrees forbidding Jewish religious practice, a rural Jewish priest from Modiin, Mattathias the Hasmonean, sparked the revolt against the Seleucid Empire by refusing to worship the Greek gods. Mattathias killed a Hellenistic Jew who had stepped forward to take Mattathias' place in sacrificing to an idol as well as the Greek officer who was sent to enforce the sacrifice. Afterwards, he and his five sons fled to the wilderness of Judah. After Mattathias' death about one year later in 166 BCE, his son Judah Maccabee led an army of Jewish dissidents to victory over the Seleucid dynasty in guerrilla warfare, which at first was directed against Hellenized Jews, of whom there were many. The Maccabees destroyed Greek altars in the villages, circumcised boys and forced Hellenized Jews into outlawry. Judah's nickname "Maccabbeus," now used in popular culture to describe the Jewish partisans as a whole, is taken from the Hebrew word for "hammer".

The revolt itself involved many battles, in which the Maccabean forces gained notoriety for their use of guerrilla tactics and their speed and mobility, in contrast to the slow and bulky Seleucid army. After the victory, the Maccabees entered Jerusalem in triumph and ritually cleansed the Temple, reestablishing traditional Jewish worship there and installing Jonathan Apphus, Judah's youngest brother, as high priest. A large Seleucid army was sent to quash the revolt, but returned to Syria on the death of Antiochus IV. Beforehand, Judas Maccabbeus made an agreement with Rome and became allied, tying the hands of the weaker Seleucid Empire. Its commander Lysias, preoccupied with internal Seleucid affairs, agreed to a political compromise that restored religious freedom.

Studies

Mattathias slaying the Jewish apostate, painting by Philippe De Loutherbourg

In the First and Second Books of the Maccabees, the Maccabean Revolt is described as a response to cultural oppression and national resistance to a foreign power. Modern scholars, however, argue that the king intervened in a civil war between traditionalist Jews in the countryside and Hellenized Jews in Jerusalem. As Joseph P. Schultz puts it:

"Modern scholarship… considers the Maccabean revolt less as an uprising against foreign oppression than as a civil war between the orthodox and reformist parties in the Jewish camp."

Professor John Ma of Columbia University argues that the main sources indicate that the loss of religious and civil rights by the Jews in 168 BCE was not the result of religious persecution but rather an administrative punishment by the Seleucid Empire in the aftermath of local unrest, and that the Temple was restored upon petition by the High Priest Menelaus, not liberated and rededicated by the Maccabees. Sylvie Honigman of Tel Aviv University advances similar arguments.

Aftermath

All five sons of Matthias died violent deaths: Judas and Eleazar died in battle, Jonathan was betrayed and killed by the Seleucid general Tryphon, Simon was killed at a feast in Jericho by his son-in-law Ptolemy and John Gaddi was seized and killed by the sons of Jambri from Medeba.

After the success of the Maccabean Revolt, kings of the Hasmonean dynasty continued their conquest to the surrounding areas of Judea. Those who remained of the Jewish party favoring Hellenistic influence, forced to submit to Mosaic Law, repeatedly called upon the Seleucid Empire for assistance. At the time, however, the Seleucid Empire was weakened by political infighting and other wars, including against Ptolemaic Egypt, reducing their ability to reconquer Judea. In one particular instance, however, Jonathan Apphus (son of Mattathias) was convinced by Tryphon to dismiss 40,000 of his men and meet him for a "conference", which turned to be a trap. Jonathan was captured and later executed, against a deal Tryphon had made with Jonathan's brother Simon for Jonathan's liberation, in exchange for one hundred talents and Jonathan's two sons as hostages. Simeon was later murdered by his son-in-law, Ptolemy son of Abubus. Afterwards, Simon's third son, John Hyrcanus, became ruler and High Priest of Israel.

Legacy

The Jewish festival of Hanukkah celebrates the re-dedication of the Temple following Judah Maccabee's victory over the Seleucids. According to Rabbinic tradition, the victorious Maccabees could only find a small jug of oil that had remained pure and uncontaminated by virtue of a seal, and although it only contained enough oil to sustain the Menorah for one day, it miraculously lasted for eight days, by which time further oil could be procured.

Me: After the war ended, the people of the holy city of Jerusalem had driven Antiochus IV Epiphanes out of Israel. But it came with a great cost. The holy temple was destroyed and the menorah which was supposed to burn forever, was broken and bent and its flame was extinguished. After they repaired it, they only had enough oil to keep it lit for one day and it would take 8 days to make more oil and they needed a miracle. They decided to wait anyway and thanks to a Miracle from God, 8 days had passed and the flame was still burning. That's why the Jewish people celebrate Hanukkah, to honor the Miracle from God that kept the flame of the Menorah burning for 8 days. I may be Christian, but it can't hurt to explore new Religions.

I went into the kitchen and Lynn Sr. was cooking something on the stove. He was cooking Latkas, potato pancakes that the Jewish people eat during Hanukkah.

Laney: I've never had Latkas before dad.

Lynn Sr.: They are really good sweetie. I've had them myself when I was your age.

Me: They are really tasty Laney. For over 2,000 years, the people of Israel and the Jewish Religion made them. We fry potatoes in the oil that they use to light the menorah.

Laney: Even though we aren't Jewish, they are good.

Me: Yeah. I may be Christian but it's cool to learn about all this.

Laney: It sure is.

Lola: I've never had Latkas before myself. This is new for us.

Lana: It sure is.

Lila Loud: Yeah.

Me: Think of them as French Fries in pancake form.

Lynn Sr.: That's a good way to put it J.D.

Lana: Don't the Jewish have a bible too?

Me: They do Lana. It's called the Torah and it's the 1st five books of the Bible: Genesis, Exodus, Leviticus, Numbers and Deuteronomy. It was written over 2,500 years ago in 586 B.C.

Lila Loud: Wow!

Lana: That's interesting.

Me: Yep.

Nico: I think it's really cool that we get to celebrate both Christmas and Hanukkah this week. It'll bring two religions together.

Me: I know. Hanukkah also falls on Christmas Day in certain times. But it only happens once every 117 years.

Laney: Wow! That's really rare.

Me: It sure is.

Later we were watching TV.

May then came down and we got a surprise.

May: Hey guys.

We saw May and we gasped. We saw that she had pitch black hair, black sunglasses, a black leather jacket, a black t-shirt with a flaming skull on it, black leather pants, her fingernails were black, she had black spiked leather shoes and she had black armbands with spikes on them and she had black lipstick on.

May: (shows off her goth look) What do you think, Nico?

Nico: Wow! You look awesome May!

Me: Are you embracing the Gothic Subculture?

May: It's something I thought I would try out.

Brittney: You look great for a goth girl May. But you have a long way to go before you become a master of darkness like me and the Goths.

May: I know. But I thought it would be cool to change my style.

Me: You look awesome May.

Qin: So Narnia was where Maria first met Horsea?

Poliwag: It sure was. Back then, Horsea wasn't my girlfriend yet.

Qin: Narnia sure sounds like an interesting place.

Me: It is.

James: When we visited Narnia, it wasn't exactly in good shape.

James' Carnivine (nods): Carnivine!

Me: No it wasn't. Narnia was in the grip of the tyrannical oppression of the evil white witch Jadis.

Qin: She sounds dangerous.

Me: She was. We killed her.

I went over her history.

---

Queen Jadis the White Witch, simply known as Jadis, is the main antagonist of The Chronicles of Narnia series by the late C.S. Lewis, appearing in The Lion, the Witch and the Wardrobe and The Magician's Nephew.

She was the evil, sadistic, cruel and tyrannical self-proclaimed Witch

Queen of Narnia, who cast an incredibly powerful spell over the entire land of Narnia so that it is always winter and never, ever, ever any other season, nor Christmas. This magic spell was so strong that it lasted for a full century. As a tremendously powerful sorceress, capable and trained of dark magic, Queen Jadis wielded a much fearful wand through which she could transform anyone who opposed her into ice and stone.

Despite the fact that she was a tyrannical usurper, Jadis was shown to be truly knowledgeable in the laws of Narnia as well as the ways of the Deep Magic. She is also served by numerous servants: Maugrim as her enforcer, Otmin as her general, Ginarrbrik as her servant, and the polar bears as her pets.

Jadis' tyranny over Narnia was brought to an end when she went to war against Aslan, the mighty and just lion who was the creator and true king of Narnia, the four Pevensie children who came to the land of Narnia from England through an enchanted wardrobe (Peter, Susan, Edmund, and Lucy), and their Narnian army, which concluded with her being killed by Aslan himself.

She was portrayed by Barbara Kellerman (who also played the Hag and the Lady of the Green Kirtle) in the BBC series version of The Chronicles of Narnia while she was portrayed by Tilda Swinton in the Disney/20th Century Fox film series, who also played Gabriel in Constantine. Tilda Swinton's performance as Jadis garnered much acclaim from many film critics and audiences.

Background

Jadis was once queen of the world of Charn until she was embroiled in a war with her sister who "forced" her to utter the Deplorable Word, which had the power to kill every living thing in Charn except the person who spoke it. Jadis mentions that she paid a terrible price to learn it, though it is never revealed what this was. When her sister managed to defeat Jadis' army, Jadis spoke the word and destroyed all life in her world rather than let her sister rule it instead of her. She then put herself into an enchanted sleep, only to awake when someone came and tapped a bell in the room she resided in. That unsuspecting person was young Digory Kirke. Digory and his friend, Polly, accidentally bring Jadis to our world (more specifically to Digory's Uncle Andrew) and she wreaks havoc on England for about a day. There is a fight then, outside of Digory's house, in which Jadis takes a lamppost bar and begins to hit people with it.

The Magician's Nephew

Using magical rings that Uncle Andrew had given them (which took them to Charn in the first place) Digory and Polly manage to get Jadis (as well as a good lot of other people) out of England and into Narnia. Narnia is then a void world with nothing but darkness in it. When the Lion named Aslan starts singing Narnia into creation, Jadis flees. She is next seen in a Garden far up in the mountains of the young world where she had eaten an apple from one of the trees there, giving her eternal life and youth. Digory though takes another apple from the same tree back to Aslan and plants it. This becomes the Tree of Protection and guards Narnia from the Witch for many years (as whoever had taken and eaten the fruit from the tree without permission would be repelled by it). It is hinted that many years afterward a storm destroyed this tree. Presumably this is when Jadis was able to take over Narnia.

The Lion, the Witch and the Wardrobe

Over 100 years have passed since her arrival in Narnia. This time, whilst Aslan is away in other worlds, Jadis has taken over Narnia. She has an enormously vast army of evil creatures including dwarves, minotaurs, polar bears, goblins, satyrs and her own police of wolves. She has set herself up as Queen of Narnia in a colossal palace made of ice. In order to sustain her castle's status, as well as that of her increasingly phenomenal powers, she has cursed the whole of Narnia with an eternal and unbreakable winter - a winter without Christmas, at that.

The good creatures of Narnia are terrified of Jadis, but there is also a prophecy that two sons of Adam and two daughters of Eve will enter Narnia soon, and when they do they will raise an army, defeat the White Witch and restore peace to Narnia. In order to rebuke this prophecy, Jadis made the presence of humans in Narnia illegal and punishable by death. During the events of the book, Lucy Pevensie enters Narnia and is taken under the wing of the Faun Tumnus, who is one of her spies. Tumnus's conscience and Lucy's incalculable kindness get the better of Tumnus and he helps her out of Narnia, instead of turning her over to Jadis.

Later, when Lucy visits a second time, her brother Edmund follows her. He encounters Jadis and instinctively reveals that he has other siblings, and that Tumnus has been offering hospitality to Lucy. Jadis feigns warming up to him, entrancing him with her apparent kindness. She manipulates him into returning with all of his siblings to Narnia, and in return he will be made king of Narnia alongside her. She uses enchanted Turkish delights to entrance him into doing this. She then leaves him.

He does return with his siblings, and they are taken in by a family of beavers. Edmund leaves alone, after learning of Aslan and the Prophecy. He is escorted by her chief of police, the wolf Maugrim, and at first she is enraged that he has come alone after she asked so little of him. He then desperately betrays their location to her. She then sends Maugrim and the rest of her wolves after the beavers, before incarcerating Edmund in her dungeon. She comes with her police to the beaver dam and arrives just as the children and the beavers escape. In a fit of rage, she uses her wand to turn many of the nearby creatures to stone.

She returns and interrogates Edmund, who unwittingly reveals that they are going to meet with Aslan. She responds by turning Tumnus, who she had recently imprisoned for harboring a human, to stone. She then takes Edmund along with her to hunt for Aslan in her sleigh. Throughout the ride, Edmund gradually reveals the cruel, psychopathic and malicious nature of the Witch. She imprisons him again once she has set up a camp with her army near Aslan's camp. Whilst she is organizing strategy, Aslan's troops attack and free Edmund.

In response, Jadis takes her army and wrathfully bargains over Edmund's life with Aslan. Jadis intelligently points out that traitors - like Edmund - belong to her, and are for her to kill. If she does not then, by magical law, all of Narnia will be destroyed in fire and water. They bargain alone, for a very long time, and Jadis agrees to renounce her claim on Edmund's blood, if somebody else takes his place. Aslan himself takes Edmund's place and approaches the Stone Table, where Jadis sadistically orders the torture and humiliation of Aslan. After he is finally pinned to the Table, Jadis discreetly reveals that his sacrifice will not stop her from taking Narnia and killing the people he loves. She then kills Aslan, and prepares her troops for the upcoming battle.

With Aslan apparently dead, Jadis and her colossal army meet Aslan's army - led by the Centaur General Oreius, and Peter and Edmund - at Beruna fields. Jadis declares that no prisoners are to be taken, and all opposition are to be killed. She then orders her army to charge and a full-scale battle erupts between the two enormous forces. Jadis enters the battle on a chariot pulled by polar bears, but the charity is eventually brought down and Jadis fights off the army with her wand and broadsword. She kills thousands of Aslan's troops, turning many of them to stone. She comes dangerously close to turning Peter to stone whilst his back is turned, but Edmund intervenes.

Edmund faces Jadis one final time and uses his sword to destroy her wand. Enraged, Jadis stabs him in the heart, killing him. This infuriates Peter into rage and he attacks her. She steals Edmund's sword to replace her wand and challenges Peter. A climactic duel breaks out between the two, in which Peter is clearly hopelessly out of his depth. Jadis, completely confident that she will win and knowing that Aslan is dead, toys with Peter during the fight, disarming and flooring him time and again with her swords, but not bothering to strike a killing blow.

Soon, though, Aslan reappears, having resurrected all of the animals who had been turned to the stone by Jadis in the past, and enters the battle. Jadis panics and attacks Peter, actually intending to kill him quickly enough to be ready for Aslan. He puts up a decent fight, but Jadis overpowers him and pins him to the ground by stabbing him in the arm. Just as Jadis is about to kill him, Aslan charges and bulldozes into her, taking her clean off her feet, and eats her alive. With Jadis dead, her army evaporates and the magic she has inflicted on Narnia is permanently undone.

Prince Caspian

Nikabrik-a black dwarf-tries to get Caspian to call back the spirit of the White Witch with the help of a hag and werewolf through the use of black sorcery in their bid to defeat King Miraz. They managed to conjure up an apparition of her form behind a mythical wall of ice. The Witch says that she needs a drop of blood from a son of Adam to release her entirely, which she tries to take from Caspian. However, Peter and Edmund enter the scene in time to stop them with Edmund stabbing the ice wall shattering it before the White Witch can be fully released.

* * *

Qin gasped in sheer horror.

Qin: She was a monster!

Me: Worse than that. But she got what she deserved.

Peter Pevensie: (British Accent) I am glad that you all helped us defeat Jadis. She was not easy to defeat.

Me: No she wasn't Peter. But she will never terrorize Narnia again.

Mirage: At least we got to see some of our spirit animals.

Laney: Yeah we sure did.

Nico: That was an intense battle.

Lincoln: It was.

Horsea: I'll never forget that day, Maria. It was the day you and I became friends.

Maria: (hugs Horsea) I'll never forget that day either, Horsea.

Breakdown: (sees tears in Motormaster's eyes) Boss? Are you crying?

Motormaster: Of course not. I seem to be, uh, leaking lubricant.

Me: Aww.

Then the alarm went off.

Me: Uh oh.

We went to the computer and we saw that the Street Sharks old enemy Maximillian Greco was up to no good.

I gasped when I saw his name.

Me: Oh man! Maximillian Greco has resurfaced!

John Bolton: I take it you know him J.D.?

Me: No but my dad unfortunately does. We have a really bad history with this guy. Dad has been trying to bust him for years. But before he could do so, he got away and slipped under the radar. You guys would hate this guy. He is the worst ever crime boss in all of the country next to Al Capone.

Laney: What happened?

Me: Well it was long before I was born. In 1994, dad went to Fission City and he went undercover to investigate a major cocaine smuggling operation.

---

The flashback shows a huge factory producing thousands of tons of Cocaine and it had a lot of money.

Me: (Narrating) For decades, dad had gathered enough evidence to put Greco away for good. But he knew that a taped confession would make the case a slam dunk. So dad went undercover and he had a hidden wire. Dad talked to him and Greco is always known for having a big ego and he likes to shoot his mouth off. When dad got the confession the Feds and the D.E.A. moved in and then Greco fled. Dad chased after him but Greco gave him the slip.

Everything I said was shown.

FLASHBACK ENDS

Me: Maximillian Greco has eluded my dad for years. When dad retired he had failed to bring to justice one of the countries most notorious crime bosses since Al Capone. But now, I have a chance to complete what my father couldn't. But this time we're going to kill him.

I pulled up his history and what we saw was shocking!

---

Maximillian Greco is an aged crime boss who before his genetic enhancement was frequently caught saying "I am NOT dead!". He owns two chihuahuas named Zeus and Apollo.

During the course of his debut episode Shark Father, Greco discovered Dr. Paradigm's secret as a fake savior of the city and blackmailed Dr. Paradigm into gene-slamming him with rhinoceros hair "collected" earlier by Killamari as well as the DNA of a desert tortoise. The gene-slam granted Maximillian Greco the strength of a rhinoceros and the longevity of a desert tortoise which de-aged Greco to half his age. He later had Dr. Paradigm further enhance him to take on the Street Sharks.

Maximillian Greco later returned in Card Shark, where he was running a casino called the "Golden Greco." He ends up discovering the plot of Repteel and Shrimp Louie to rob his casino. Maximillian Greco later used them and Killamari to rob his competitors. During the fight with the Street Sharks, Dr. Paradigm arrived and fought Maximillian until the casino collapsed on top of them.

Me: So he blackmailed Dr. Fishfuck into gene-slamming him!

Qin: What was he spliced with?

Me: It says Rhinoceros and Desert Tortoise DNA.

Lana: What!? How did he get DNA like that?

Me: He must've gotten them from Roland Paradigm before we killed him.

Qin: But it's freaky that he's able to retain his human appearance.

Stacy: (sees footage of Greco) Why couldn't me and my brothers have been more like Greco when we got Gene-Slammed?

Me: That just shows you how fucked up a lot of scientists are. But without a doubt, he's probably making more cocaine. Now we've got him. Lets get him!

We were off to Fission City.

FISSION CITY, WASHINGTON STATE

We arrived in Fission City and at the wharf we were heading to the same warehouse dad tried to bust Greco at. I placed a force field over the entire warehouse.

Me: There's no escape this time Greco.

In the warehouse, a lot of cocaine was being produced and millions of dollars were in piles.

Then a massive explosion of fire blasted through the ceiling and roof and a phoenix cry was heard! Fiery shrapnel set all the chemicals in the warehouse on fire and they all exploded all over.

KRABBOOOOOOOOOOMMMM! KRABBBOOOOOOM! BOOOOMMM! BOOOMM! BOOM! KRABBBOOOOOOOOOOOMMM! KRABOOOOMM! KRABBBOOOOOMM!

The shrapnel killed all of Greco's men and the whole warehouse was set on fire and we landed and we were facing MAXIMILLIAN GRECO!

Me: Maximillian Greco, so we meet at last.

Greco: So the mighty Team Loud Phoenix Storm has come. (See's me) Wait a second. Sumner Knudson? Is that you?

Me: Right family, but wrong name. I'm his son J.D. Knudson.

Greco: So he has family. You look so much like your father. Your father tried to catch me several times.

Me: So I have heard. But this time you won't escape. We're going to kill you.

Ripster: We actually thought you were dead the last time we saw you.

Greco: I'm not dead, you nitwits!

William: That's because you haven't experienced death for yourself! But we can help you with that by killing you!

Greco: (laughs) You really think you can kill me?

Me: We don't think, we know.

Jack Spicer: Considering that you always use brute force and fists, we just need to use long distance attacks. (takes out blaster) Like my blaster!

Jack Spicer fired his blaster and the blast hit Greco and exploded. He screamed in pain.

Me: Nice shot Jack!

Troy: I know one Ranger team we can use that uses long distance attacks.

Megaforce Rangers: Legendary Ranger Mode: Lightspeed Rescue!

The Megaforce Power Rangers turned into the Lightspeed Rescue Rangers.

The Miraculous Celestial Union transformed and I turned into Wolf Moon!

Me: Time for you to die.

I fired a powerful blast of blue fire at Greco and burned him all over.

The Megaforce Power Rangers as the Lightspeed Rescue Rangers blasted them with their Rescue Blasters, V-Lancers and Thermal Blasters and the Rescue Bird in Unilaser Mode and the blasts hit Greco and exploded.

KRABBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOMMM!

Nico: Maximillian Greco, you have…

CRUNCH!

Nico: (SCREAMS!)

Lana saw Greco's two chihuahua's Zeus and Apollo biting Nico's butt.

Lana: Aww they're little chihuahuas.

Lola: They are so adorable!

Lana and Lola held them and pet them and they were good dogs.

Nico: They are little biters huh? But as I was saying, Maximillian Greco, you have failed this world!

Nico fired a powerful blast of lightning at him and electrocuted him.

Greco came charging at us and Jack Spicer threw a banana peel and Greco slipped on it.

WHOOP! CRASH!

Lincoln and Linka fired a massive blast of lightning and electrocuted him with 50 quintillion volts of electricity. Carol fired powerful blasts of King Ghidorah's Gravity Lightning and they hit Greco and exploded all over.

KRABBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOMMM! KRABBBOOOOOOOMMMMMM! BOOOOOOM! KRABOOOOOM! KRABOOOOOOOOMMM!

Laney fired poisonous Bramble Barbs and they hit Greco and poisoned him.

Slammu: SEISMIC SLAM!

Slammu punched the ground with devastating force and shook the whole warehouse and hit knocked him down.

Lynn fired a powerful blast of lava at Greco and it burned him.

Luan fired a powerful blast of light from her eyes and burned his eyes out and blinded him. He screamed in pain!

Greco: MY EYES!

Marinette fired a powerful blast of red fire from her hands and burned him all over.

Adrien: CATACLYSM!

Adrien fired a powerful Cataclysm blast and it hit Greco and exploded with incredible power.

KRABBBBBBBBBBBBBBBBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOO

The explosion blew the whole warehouse to pieces and reduced it to flaming rubble.

Nico: Whoa!

Me: Wow! What power! Lets finish this fucker off for good!

Breakdown: Lets do it! CYBER KEY POWER!

The Earth Cyber Planet Key went into his back and enhanced his concussion rifle 100-fold.

James: Lets get him Carnivine! ANIMATRON CYBER KEY POWER!

The Animatron Cyber Planet Key went into his right arm device and enhanced his Carnivine's abilities 100-fold.

James: Carnivine, use Razor Leaf!

Breakdown and James' Carnivine: SUPERSONIC LEAF SHREDSTORM!

Breakdown fired a powerful concussion blast and Carnivine fired a huge amount of razor leaves and the blasts hit Greco and cut him all over and sent him crashing into a burning crate.

Mirage: Try this on! CYBER KEY POWER!

The Gigantion Cyber Planet Key went into his back and enhanced his Electro-disrupter blaster 100-fold.

Poliwag: Time for you to go away! GIGANTION CYBER KEY POWER!

The Gigantion Cyber Planet Key went into Poliwag's right arm device and enhanced his abilities 100-fold.

Mirage and Poliwag: ELECTRO-BUBBLEBURST BLAST!

Mirage fired a powerful blast of lightning and Poliwag fired a powerful blast of bubblebeam and the blasts combined and they slammed into Greco and exploded.

KRAAABBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOMMMM!

Me: Now to show him our Final Smashes!

Stacy: I've had it with this jerk! LIGHTNING SHARK CHOMPSLASH!

Stacy fired a powerful blast of lightning and it turned into a Sawshark made of pure lightning and it hit Greco and electrocuted him with a powerful slash!

Lincoln: You are never welcome here! LIGHTNING STYLE: ELECTROCUTION RASENSHURIKEN!

Lincoln formed a powerful Rasenshuriken made of pure lightning and it was surging with 10 billion volts of electricity and he threw it at Greco and it exploded with incredible power!

KRABBBBBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOO

It electrocuted him all over and boy did it hurt.

Slammu: Time for the biggest Earthquake to bring you down! SEISMIC SLAM! 10.5!

Slammu punched him with the devastating force of a 10.5 Megaquake and it really hurt!

Horsea: You make me sick! BUBBLEWATER MAELSTROM BURST!

Horsea fired a massive blast of bubbles and it slammed into Greco with devastating force and spun him around like a top.

Naruto: You are a monster Greco. You will never be welcome here! WIND STYLE: RASENSHURIKEN!

Naruto formed a powerful Rasenshuriken of wind chakra and he threw it at him and it hit him and exploded with incredible power.

KRABBBBBBOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOO

The explosion from the Rasenshuriken really damaged him completely! Countless Wind Style Swords shredded him apart and he was being ripped apart! He fell into a crater and was defeated.

Slammu: Now that was Jawsome!

Me: It sure was. Nice work bro!

Naruto: Thanks bro. That was awesome!

Laney: That was incredible!

Varie: You said it Laney.

Aylene C.: Boy Naruto really did a number on him.

Lana: We all did.

Jack Spicer and Eddy went into the crater and they saw that he was barely alive.

Jack and Eddy had their guns aimed at Greco's head.

Jack Spicer: See you in hell Greco.

Jack and Eddy: (smirk) Bang! (pull their triggers)

BANG!

They blew his whole head off and killed him instantly.

Me: Nice shots.

Nico: Good riddance.

Me: Dad's gonna want proof.

I went down and took Greco's ring. It was an 18k Yellow Gold ring with a beautiful Tanzanite Gem and beautiful diamonds and sapphires in it. I took it off his finger.

Me: This is his ring. Dad is gonna want proof.

We burned his body.

Slammu: (To the viewers) Even all gangsters will be weak against Team Loud Phoenix Storm. So watch out gangsters.

Me: Yep.

Later we went back home and I showed the ring to my dad and he was both shocked and ecstatic. I had completed what he failed to do all those years ago. He hugged me and I kept the ring as a trophy. Lana and Lola kept Greco's chihuahuas as their pets.

Night of The Hospital Vampires

At the estate in Gotham Royal York, me, Nico, Lincoln, Mimi, Palmon, Ultra Humanite, and some of the Transformers were going to Mr. Grouse's house to borrow Loki. We were heading over to warn Thanos about us coming the kill him.

Gamora: You guys better be careful when you deliver that warning to my so called father. Infinity Stones or not, he's still dangerous.

Me: That's a risk we're willing to take Gamera. Thanos and his followers are that deadly.

Nico: Yeah.

Lincoln: We'll be just fine.

Me: Lets let him know.

We went to Mr. Grouse's house and we knocked on the door.

Loki answered.

Loki: (British Accent) Oh hello J.D.

Me: Hello Loki. We're heading out to warn Thanos that we're going to kill him.

Loki: Thanos the Mad Titan!? Are you out of your mind!?

Nico: No we're serious.

Lincoln: We're going to warn him that we're going to kill him.

Loki: Okay. I better go with you.

Mr. Grouse: Oh hello guys. Haven't seen you all in a while.

Me: It has been a while Mr. Grouse. We just need to borrow Loki for a bit. We'll be back.

Mr. Grouse: All right.

Loki came with us. We were off to Thano's Ship. We teleported to Thanos's Ship.

---

We arrived on Thanos's Ship. We saw THANOS HIMSELF! We also saw his minions Proxima Midnight, Cull Obsidian, Ebony Maw and Corvus Glaive.

THANOS

Thanos is the main antagonist of the Infinity Saga of the Marvel Cinematic Universe, appearing as the overarching antagonist of The Avengers, Guardians of the Galaxy, Avengers: Age of Ultron; and as the unseen overarching antagonist of Guardians of the Galaxy Vol. 2, Ant-Man and the Wasp, and the fifth season of Agents of S.H.I.E.L.D.. He later served as the main antagonist of both Avengers: Infinity War and Avengers: Endgame, and as a posthumous antagonist in Spider-Man: Far From Home.

Thanos was an extremely powerful alien warlord who commanded three massive armies called the Chitauri, the Sakaarans and the Outriders, as well as a small group of fanatical followers known as the Black Order.

Thanos formed an alliance with Loki to invade Earth, and later forged a partnership with Ronan the Accuser to destroy Xandar - both in exchange for the deliverance of two powerful Infinity Stones, only for the pair to end up failing their tasks before they betrayed Thanos afterwards. Thanos was also indirectly responsible for the creation of Ultron as his supplying of the Mind Stone to Loki was what gave Ultron free will to rebel against humanity in the first place.

He later obtained all six Infinity stones, fought with the Avengers and Guardians of the Galaxy, and successfully wiped out half the life in the universe. His actions would ultimately be undone, however, after the Avengers successfully retrieved the Infinity Stones through time travel. Soon after, an alternate version of Thanos from the past, time traveled to the present in an effort to destroy the Avengers and erase the whole universe in order to create a new one, but was defeated and erased from existence once and for all before he could carry out that plan. However, even after his demise, Thanos' actions still haunted the Avengers.

Powers

Titan Physiology: As a mutated Titan, Thanos possess immeasurable levels of strength, reflexes, durability, regenerative healing, and endurance as well as near-immortality. He is frighteningly powerful, able to effortlessly intimidate, overpower, severely harm, and even potentially kill beings as powerful as Loki, who is almost on par with Thor, and Ronan The Accuser, who was among the strongest Kree, Thor at full power, and Hulk. He rules the Chitauri and Outrider army unchallenged. Korath has fearfully said he is the most powerful being in the universe, although Ronan was confident that he could kill Thanos with the power of the Orb. Nevertheless, Thanos displayed no sign of concern after Ronan threatened him. Gamora also blatantly told Nebula she doesn't know if killing Thanos is possible. Thanos was also shown to be fully confident in being capable of collectively harnessing the full power of all six Infinity Stones with the use of an Infinity Gauntlet, a feat that no other being has ever survived. This was proven correct when he was able to handle the use of all six after finally completing the Infinity Gauntlet.

Superhuman Longevity: Like all Titans, Thanos himself was also nearly immortal and had existed for a very long time. It had been confirmed that Thanes was roughly over one thousand years of age by the time Tony Stark decimated him with the power of the Infinity Stones during the Battle of Earth.

Superhuman Strength: Thanos holds incalculably extraordinary, godly levels of superhuman strength, to the point that he is capable of easily wielding all six Infinity Stones with the Infinity Gauntlet, a feat that no other being has survived, making him one of the strongest beings in existence, if not the strongest. Thanos could effortlessly break the highly durable containers of the Infinity Stones, as he casually crushed the Tesseract and later the Eye of Agamotto in a single hand, which was protected by an extremely powerful spell. He was also capable of effortlessly breaking out of Groot's vines and it took the combined efforts of Doctor Strange, Drax, Iron Man, Spider-Man, Star-Lord, and Mantis to keep him restrained, and even then, he still showed great resistance. Upon waking up, Thanos was quickly able to break out of the restraints and regain control of the Infinity Gauntlet. He also was still casually able to clench the Infinity Gauntlet when restrained by countless Eldritch Whips by Doctor Strange's replicas. Thanos is so strong that beings of lesser but still higher superhuman strength and resilience pose no threat or challenge to him, such as Black Panther, Spider-Man, and Gamora, as Thanos proves by effortlessly stopping Black Panther's full charge with a single-handed choke hold and knock him out with a punch, overpowering Spider-Man with one hand casually and being able to effortlessly break out of his web and use it to pull him to Thanos, effortlessly restraining Gamora with a single hand and later throwing her off a cliff in Vormir with little effort. He also could overpower Iron Man in his nanotech Mark L Armor with little effort, with his strength being more than sufficient to easily tear apart the armor with his bare hands, and he was able to effortlessly break Iron Man's sword in half and then stab him with it. Even when Captain America used all his strength, which was vastly augmented by his determination, he was only just barely able to hold back Thanos' gauntlet hand and the Mad Titan proceeded to effortlessly knock the Super Soldier out with a single punch. Even beings of the highest levels of strength and resilience such as Hulk, Vision, and Thor do not pose much threat to Thanos, as Thanos effortlessly beat Hulk to a bloody pulp and Thor, with Thanos going as far as to threaten that he can easily crush Thor's head and kill him anytime he wants, and lifted Vision off the ground with one hand, who was powerless to break free, and quickly ripped the Mind Stone from Vision's extremely durable Vibranium forehead. Lacking the Infinity Gauntlet did not prevent the 2014 Thanos from being capable of overpowering Thor and Captain America in raw strength without much effort, as he was easily able to pummel Thor enough to cause him to severely bleed and bruised and steadily overwhelm him when he tried to use Stormbreaker to gut open his chest, with only Captain America's sudden mastery of Mjolnir preventing him from doing so and was firmly holding back Thor's attempts to stab him with Stormbreaker despite being electrocuted by the electricity surrounding the mighty axe and even with Mjolnir further enhancing Thor's strength and Captain America restraining him, he was still able to overpower their combined might eventually. He even broke Captain America's shield with mere brute strikes from his sword and could easily knock Mjolnir from Rogers's grasp with a single blow and lift and send him flying and before Captain America was able to use Mjolnir, Thanos rendered him near entirely powerless, easily badly incapacitating him with a single punch. Even Captain Marvel using all her cosmic power to augment her strength had to put it all to ensure Thanos could not close his fist and showed trouble overcoming him. The only time he was significantly injured was against the fully-empowered Thor wielding Stormbreaker, a weapon reputed to be the strongest of all of Asgard's weaponry, and this was while he was distracted, and even still, Thanos quickly regained control over the Infinity Gauntlet afterwards and was still strong enough to survive using it at the scale needed to wipe out half of the universe, although he did enter a catatonic state for a while due to performing such a feat while considerably injured. His strength also extends to his legs, as he was able to jump a tremendous distance to avoid Doctor Strange's rays with a single leap.

Superhuman Speed, Agility, and Reflexes: Thanos possesses incredulously swiftness and incredibly superhuman levels of speed, agility, and reflexes, making him fully capable of easily fighting and outpacing even the swiftest of enemies, including others of far smaller size and superhuman conditioning. He was able to easily dodge a few blows from Hulk, and then instantly struck him multiple times before Hulk had a chance to respond. Thanos also easily reacted to Loki's swift attempt to kill him, effortlessly choking Loki to death before the latter could react. While Thor managed to land a blow on Thanos after Thanos had just beaten Hulk, Thanos easily kicked the God of Thunder away before he could attack again. With just a single hand, Thanos was able to easily grab Gamora before she could strike him with Godslayer (which Thanos broke in the process), and was even able to react to the extremely agile Spider-Man's attacks, eventually getting a grip on him and pinning Spider-Man down. He was also able to effortlessly pummel Iron Man in hand-to-hand combat within seconds and break his sword and stab him before he could react and casually catch Black Panther mid-charge with a single hand and could react to the extreme speed of the bullets fired by Winter Soldier and War Machine and Okoye's thrown spear to easily blast it away. The 2014 Thanos was able to easily keep pace with and even beat Thor, Captain America, and Iron Man, with him being able to move faster than Iron Man's strongest armor could react while blocking his repulsors and casually toss aside Rogers as well as swiftly pummel and disarm Thor before he could react. He also could catch Stormbreaker faster than Thor could catch it to use against him.

Regenerative Healing Factor: Thanos has displayed an extremely strong regenerative healing factor, capable of quickly recovering from even the most severe of wounds as long as his head is not cut off. Mere moments after being damaged by Iron Man slightly, he was completely healed upon arriving on Wakanda. Even when Thor dealt a severe wound to his chest with the devastatingly powerful Stormbreaker, by the time he was "admiring the sunset" at an unknown place, he had completely regenerated, although the wounds of using the Infinity Stones would take a long period of time to heal and he did not manage to heal it at all until he was killed.

Superhuman Durability: Thanos has incalculably extraordinary, godly levels of supernatural resilience and durability, to the point many believed he cannot be killed and with not even the best efforts of those of great power and tenacity seen capable of inflicting lasting harm on him. rendering him capable of easily handling the Infinity Stones with the Infinity Gauntlet without any strain or harm done to himself, even surviving the power of all six without harm, something that none who have attempted have ever survived. Regula gunshots understandably does absolutely no harm to him, as shown when he remained completely unfazed by shots from the Winter Soldier, with even firearms and melee weapons of among the highest caliber doing very little harm to him, with him only barely flinching after being shot by Star-Lord and slashed by Drax's knives and managing to parry Drax's knives and Doctor Strange's Eldritch Sword with his bare hands without suffering any damage. In addition, his skin and skeleton is also nearly impenetrable to both outside and inside interference, as Doctor Strange decided against trying to use a Sling Ring to kill him as it wouldn't work fast enough to prevent Thanos's snap and if Ant-Man had tried to shrink himself, enter into his anus and then expand himself to kill the Mad Titan, the tough walls of Thanos' rectum would simply crush him to death. He is also able to effortlessly endure and shrug off attacks from beings of among the highest levels of superhuman strength as if it was nothing, as he was completely uninjured by punches from Spider-Man, which barely staggered him, remained completely uninjured by full-powered blows from Iron Man's Mark L armor, with even the sharp blades of the armor only inflicting a slight cut on Thanos' face, with him going as far as to mock Iron Man for only being able to draw a little drop of blood, and he was even barely fazed and completely uninjured by blows from Hulk or a fully-empowered Thor. Indeed, Thanos' durability is great enough that it took an attack from a fully-empowered Thor wielding Stormbreaker, a weapon so powerful that it was considered the most powerful in Asgard's history, to finally wound and harm him when the blade got lodged directly in his chest and even though Thor caused Thanos visible pain by twisting the ax deeper, Thanos retained enough strength to activate and use the Infinity Gauntlet at the scale needed to wipe out half of the universe, surviving such vast display of power despite the severe injury, although it did cause him to briefly entered a catatonic state but he quickly recovered, even going as far as to mock Thor for not aiming at his head. Even after being in a weakened state, Thanos was once again able to survive using the Infinity Gauntlet to destroy all the Stones, although it worsened his injuries. The 2014 Thanos was able to take blows from Captain America using Mjolnir, including lightning attacks, with no injuries despite being knocked around and staggered by them. In addition, he once again shrugged off Scarlet Witch's energy attacks despite her having grown even more powerful than last time and was even able to last long enough when Scarlet Witch used her full power to try to crush him for him to order his army to fire on her. After which, he was still able to take a beating from Captain Marvel without any significant damage.

Superhuman Stamina: Thanos has displayed vast levels of superhuman stamina, as he proved capable of exerting himself at full capacity for tremendous periods of time even while pressured, as shown when he endured fighting repeatedly in Titan and Wakanda against the likes of the Avengers, Guardians, Black Panther, and Okoye without once showing any signs of fatigue and even after being severely injured by Thor stabbing and then twisting Stormbreaker into his chest as deep as he could, Thanos retained enough stamina to activate the Infinity Gauntlet at the scale needed to wipe out half of the universe and although he was exhausted enough to enter a catatonic state briefly, Thanos quickly recovered and was still able to warp away and only moments later had fully recovered from any exhaustion he underwent. The 2014 Thanos was able to engage in a prolonged battle for the Infinity Stones, overpowering the efforts of any hero he had faced, and in the end only being stopped by Iron Man causing his death with the Infinity Stones.

Supernatural Powers: After equipping the Infinity Gauntlet into his left arm, combined with his already extraordinary physical constitution and raw power, Thanos gained the potential to safely harness the supernatural powers and dominion over all aspects of existence possessed by all six Infinity Stones should he add them to the Gauntlet, with the more stones Thanos inserts into the Gauntlet, the more power he gains. Upon acquiring all six stones, Thanos becomes nearly omnipotent and even gained the power to force living beings to just die without hesitation or resistance no matter if they were powerful or not. This was seen when even with a severe injury, he killed off half of life within the universe with just a snap of his fingers, making him the most powerful entity in the universe. It is notable that Thanos seems to completely master all the powers of the stones just after only shortly acquiring them, apparently showing he had full understanding and knowledge of the powers of the Infinity Stones, making him nearly invincible as he can easily and seamlessly switch between the powers of the stones and can even combine them.

Energy Absorption and Warping: Combining the Power and Space Stones, Thanos is able to absorb energies he was exposed to and transform them into something else, as he could absorb the explosive energy of Iron Man's missiles, and redirect it at the Avenger as a single concentrated beam of fiery energy.

Terrain Manipulation: Combining the Reality and Space Stones, Thanos can manipulate the terrain at a great enough scale to be able to pull the surface of Titan in order to force Doctor Strange closer to him.

Space Manipulation: After inserting the Space Stone into the Infinity

Gauntlet, Thanos acquires the stone's complete control over space. His mastery and understanding of its powers allows him to achieve a wide plethora of liberal but potent capabilities and is not limited to simply opening portals, although it remains the most useful ability that he acquired as he can now effortlessly travel to anywhere he desires without needing to use any other transportation, even able to achieve interdimensional travel without aid now, as he easily warped to Knowhere, Titan, and later Wakanda by casually opening a portal and he can also take others with him, as he warped not only himself but also the entire Black Order after having the Power Stone slowly blow away the Statesman and can also forcibly warp others along with him with ease, as he effortlessly took both him and Gamora despite her resistance to his ship and later Vormir, as well as being able to use the portals to influence other locations without directly being there, doing so to send the Power Stone's energies to the moon and then send the pieces through the portal, with his precise control over the portals even allowing him to remove an object attached to him if he so desires, as he removed Stormbreaker from his chest upon warping away from Wakanda. He could create compression forces strong enough to create singularities that sucks up anything within close proximity, as shown when he summoned a devastating vortex that gathered up all in it's path and sent it at Doctor Strange, which Strange could not block and was forced to transmute it into a multitude of blue butterflies to repel it, funnel the kinetic force of oncoming projectile attacks to make them harmless and then gather them and redirect them, as he harmlessly funnel the kinetic energy of Iron Man's projectiles before sending it back at the hero, create force fields that can easily disintegrate bullets, as he easily destroyed multiple shots from War Machine, and even has the sufficient skill to alter the space between molecules, allowing him to make others intangible and just as easily make them solid again, as he easily phased Hulkbuster through him and stone before making him solid again to trap him. Thanos was also able to skillfully use the Stone as a powerful form of telekinesis, warping the fabric of space around objects in order to manipulate and move them with a single gesture. He was able to instantly freeze Loki mid-stab with ease, effortlessly crush the guns on War Machine's armor, knock down Falcon, and produce force fields powerful enough to repel the energy of Scarlet Witch as a means of defense. His Space Stone induced telekinesis was so strong that he was able to telekinetically pull the shattered fragments of Titan's moon across space to rain down on the attacking Avengers during the Battle of Titan.

Reality Manipulation: Upon acquiring the Reality Stone and inserting it into the Infinity Gauntlet, Thanos acquires complete control over reality, allowing him to warp the very fabric of reality itself to be whatever he desires, as he himself boasted to Gamora. He has shown to have a full understanding and mastery over the Reality Stone's powers, surpassing even Malekith, capable of using it to warp reality to such a degree as to create highly elaborate physical simulations and illusions of false realities over a wide range of influence, as evidenced when Thanos was able to create a false illusion of himself interrogating the Collector in a completely deserted Knowhere, in order to fool the approaching Guardians of the Galaxy and mask the colony's true status as burning down and utterly ruined, which was so convincing that the illusionary self of Thanos can be physically interacted with, with Gamora being able to fight and even kill the false Thanos. He later conjured another illusion to Doctor Strange, showing the planet Titan in its peaceful prime, in a time before it became an uninhabited wasteland. He can make himself invisible using the Reality Stone, as he first spoke to Gamora unseen before revealing himself shortly after undoing the illusion. Thanos can also use the Reality Stone to warp and transmute matter and object into anything he desires, even being able to do this to living organisms, as he effortlessly incapacitated Guardians Drax and Mantis by temporarily warping their physical bodies, splitting Drax's body into pieces and turning Mantis into still-conscious strips of flesh. While he did this by sending a beam from the Reality Stone, he can also silently do this and without needing to fire a beam, as when Star-Lord reluctantly attempted to execute his teammate and lover, Gamora, to prevent her capture by Thanos, the Titan silently transmuted his Quad Blasters to harmlessly fire bubbles, before transforming the weapon itself into bubbles, and would later do the same to Gamora's dagger on Vormir to prevent her committing suicide. Thanos can use this very effectively in combat, as evidenced when he fought in Titan and Wakanda, transmuting a field of ship wreckage into a swarm of bats to attack Iron Man. He can also manipulate the earth with the stone, spawning a cage of stone pillars to trap Black Widow and pulling the surface of Titan itself to pull Doctor Strange into his hand. Upon completing the Infinity Gauntlet, thus reaching the highest level of power the Reality Stone can exert, he became able to warp reality to such an extent that he was even able to cause the bodies of others to turn to dust at a global scale, even while severely injured, causing the victims of his genocide to disintegrate to ashes, with just a snap of his fingers.

Energy Manipulation: After inserting the Power Stone into his Infinity Gauntlet, Thanos acquires complete control over the destructive force of the universe, giving him vast energy-manipulating powers. Due to his strong understanding of the Power Stone's capabilities, Thanos was able to use it for more diverse and versatile capabilities, with the Stone becoming one of his most versatile and often-used in combat for its destructive potential. Thanos' control over the energy of the Power Stone can allow him to infuse it into the Gauntlet, with it being strong enough to shatter a gateway to the Mirror Dimension sent to him by Doctor Strange. With a single gesture from the Gauntlet, Thanos is able to manipulate and specifically unleash the Stone's power to charge objects with unstable energy, causing them to overload and violently detonate. Thanos makes common use of this ability due to its versatility and combat potential, as he is able to control the time and size of the detonation, whether instantly or slowly as Thanos used the Stone to slowly overload and detonate the damaged Statesman after retrieving the Space Stone, giving himself time to teleport him and his Children out and later used the Stone's energy and versatile destructive powers to devastating effect, violently and instantly detonating a ruined spaceship fragment that was dropped on him by Iron Man. He can even exert such powerful energy that it was even powerful enough to rip apart the surface of Titan's moon with its sheer power. Thanos can also unleash tremendously powerful blasts or waves of the Stone's explosive energy, applying powerful concussive force or outright destroying objects with its volatile power. A wild shockwave of energy was able to knock out Star-Lord, Drax and Nebula instantaneously, with all three individuals having great superhuman resilience, while a few concussive waves were enough to effortlessly repel attacks and blast away the majority of the opposing Avengers during the Battle of Wakanda. The Stone's energy could also be concentrated into direct beams of power with enough power to be capable of cleaving through structures with ease, forcing back a shielded Iron Man, and heavily damaging the Avenger's armor with a single point-blank blast. Thanos could also use the stone for more subtle applications, such as exerting the energy upon others to torture them. During the Attack on the Statesman, Thanos utilized the Stone to torture an injured Thor, pushing the Stone into his head and causing the Asgardian excruciating pain using its energy. Used together with the Space Stone, Thanos also brutally tortured Nebula with its power, by telekinetically pulling her mechanical components apart while exposing her to the energy of the Power Stone. With the Power Stone, Thanos can also negate and redirect oncoming energy attacks, as he easily prevented Black Panther from using his kinetic energy pulse and redirected it to the earth when he struck the latter to the ground.

Time Manipulation: After inserting the Time Stone into his Infinity Gauntlet, Thanos acquires complete control over time. Quickly completely mastering the Time Stone's powers, while using it similarly to Doctor Strange's method, although he does not need Eldritch Magic and simply needs to clench the Gauntlet to activate the Time Manipulation Magic, causing the same symbol of the Eye of Agamotto to appear in the palm of his Gauntlet's hand and similarly conjuring said symbol as he uses it. His skill is shown to be far more refined than Doctor Strange's, as Thanos has the skill needed to rewind time with the level of finesse needed to truly recreate an object, even one as powerful as an Infinity Stone, while simultaneously resurrecting a being and keeping some from being affected by it, as he was able to recreate the events where Vision died, so as to resurrect Vision and recreate the Mind Stone, even after Wanda Maximoff had destroyed both of them, while also keeping the Avengers from being affected to prevent them from trying to stop him, whereas Doctor Strange could not truly recreate the stolen pages of the Book of Cagliostro with the Time Stone, although this may have been aided by the fact that the Time Stone was amplified by the Gauntlet already having 4 other Stones. At the height of the Time Stone's powers, with the Infinity Gauntlet having been completed, Thanos gains the ability to accelerate the time of living creatures at a global scale, even able to do this while badly wounded, with the victims of his genocide quickly aging and becoming decomposable brown corpses.

Soul Manipulation: After inserting the Soul Stone into the Infinity Gauntlet, Thanos acquires complete control over souls as well as life and death, giving him divine authority over souls and the right to decide who lives and who dies. With the Soul Stone, Thanos can detect and attack the souls of others, allowing him to identify the real one among mystical replicas of others and attack them, as evidenced when he was able to tell which one is the real Doctor Strange and disperse his duplicates with a single burst of energy, also pushing the sorcerer's astral form out of his body for a while. Upon completing the Infinity Gauntlet and greatly enhancing the Soul Stone's powers as a result, Thanos gained the ability to induce death by wiping the very souls of his targets at a global scale to the point that, even with a severe injury, he still was able to use the Soul Stone in conjunction with the other Stones to successfully wipe out half of the universe, erasing the victim's souls from existence. This catastrophic event even claimed the lives of most of the Avengers and all of the Guardians of the Galaxy, with the exception of Rocket Raccoon and Nebula. The Soul Stone also can conjure dreams for Thanos to recover from exhaustion and speak with someone he cherishes, as after wiping out half of all life in the Universe, the sheer energy required to achieve such a feat nearly overwhelmed Thanos, and briefly sent him into a dream state caused by the Soul Stone itself, transporting his mind to a world consisting of a barren, infinite expanse of feet-high water under an orange sky. Within the dream world, Thanos saw himself as without the Gauntlet or his injuries sustained from Stormbreaker. Before returning to his senses, he was briefly able to communicate with a reflection of his deceased daughter, Gamora, standing under a Zen-Whoberi gateway - in the form of the young child she was when Thanos first met and adopted her - telling her of his final fulfillment of his lifelong goal and admitting to her the great cost and sacrifices made to achieve it.

Death Inducement: This ability is Thanos' most terrifying and yet the mightiest demonstration of his true power. After completing the Gauntlet, Thanos becomes able to use the powers of the Reality, Time, and Soul Stones at such a vast scale as to wipe out half of the universe with just the snap of his fingers, successfully achieving this even after being severely wounded by Thor using Stormbreaker. The victims of the universal genocide quickly aged before turning into a brown decomposing corpse, disintegrating them and erasing them from their physical existence.

Abilities

Genius-Level Intellect: Even in his youth, Thanos was deemed a genius among his kind, despite his deformation. His long life allowed Thanos to refine his intellectual aptitude to the highest degree, making him exceptionally intelligent. Hence, due to Thanos' intellectual genius, he is among the most intelligent (if not the most intelligent) individuals in the universe. His intellect makes him incredibly lethal even without using his powers or fighting skills, as displayed by his ability to conquer many worlds. By simply using his manipulative and strategic skills, he indirectly causes the Battle of Xandar and Chitauri Invasion, both of which caused the formations of the Guardians of the Galaxy and the Avengers to fight their respective battles. All the while, Thanos remained effectively anonymous, so much so that even the extremely intelligent Iron Man was completely fooled into believing that Loki had no aid during his invasion, and with Doctor Strange initially not having Thanos on his list of otherworldly threats. It was only after Thor received a vision on the Infinity Stones that he was able to figure out Thanos' involvement, with Thor admitting that Thanos had been using his intellect to play a very intricate game and has effectively used the Avengers as pawns without them even realizing it until Thor saw the vision. Thanos was even clever enough to be considerably superior to Loki himself, as he easily outsmarted him on more than one occasion - he not only successfully used Loki as a pawn without the latter realizing it for a long time, but he was later also able to successfully finish off the God of Mischief by easily predicting that he would attempt an assassination and countering it casually. Thanos also easily deceived the Guardians of the Galaxy into letting their guard down, thus allowing Thanos to incapacitate them and capture Gamora. Thanos is also highly perceptive, as he is not fooled at all by Loki and easily saw through Gamora's lies that she never found the Soul Stone. That said, Thanos' high view of his intellect is also the reason he failed as shown when his 2014 self got killed by letting his anger at the 2018 Avengers get the best of him after they proved him wrong.
